ASSOCIATED PRESS SERVICE

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

THE STANDARD SOUTHERN NEWSPAPER

VOL. LVIII., No. 162. Entered at Atlanta P. O. As Second Class Mail Matter. ATLANTA, GA., SUNDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 22, 1925. ONLY MORNING NEWSPAPER PUBLISHED IN ATLANTA. Single Copies: Daily 5c; Sunday 10c. Daily and Sunday, Weekly 20c; Monthly 60c.

Firemen's Increase Backed by County And City Workers

Members of Union, Composed of 600 Employees, Urged To Give Active Assistance in Fight.

ALLEN IS OPPOSED TO DISCRIMINATION

Labor Leaders Urge Aid for Firemen as First Step Towards Higher Pay for Other Workers.

Unanimous indorsement of proposed salary increase for Atlanta's city firemen, to be decided at a public referendum at the polls Wednesday, December 2, was voted by the City and County Public Service Employees' union, local No. 17, at a mass meting at the Labor Temple Saturday night.

Members of the union, composed of 600 city of Atlanta and Fulton county employees were urged by leaders of their own organization and officials of the Atlanta Federation of Trades and the Georgia Federation of Labor "not only to vote for the firemen's pay increases but to actively take a stand in urging others to do likewise."

Cunningham's Position.

The meeting reached the height of enthusiasm when Charles W. Cunningham, president of the Georgia Federation of Labor and past president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades said:

"Men, your salvation lies in your going to the polls and putting the firemen's initiative petition for pay increases over. Then when you have done that, formulate a program for increased salaries for employees of other city departments, present it to the Atlanta Federation of Labor and we will help you to get increases."

Councilmen C. G. Allen and Harry York and Bruce Baxter, superintendent of the municipal garage, were among the speakers.

Councilman Allen said that he favored salary increases for the firemen, but that he opposed discriminating against members of the police department and employees of other departments. He declared he thought the question of salary increases for all city employees should be passed on at the same time as the firemen.

Appeal Made by Haney.

An urgent appeal was made by George Haney, vice president of the Atlanta Federation of Trades, to members of the city and county employees' association to actively support the firemen in their efforts to obtain increased salaries.

"It is the only way to make the city of Atlanta respect organized labor," Mr. Haney said. "I am for a minimum wage for all white employees of the city government of $100 a month. I will go, even further—I think such employees should receive not less than $140 to $150 a month."

Mr. Haney sounded a warning to those in attendance "not to let the men they fight to place in office dictate to them what should be done."

During his talk President Cunningham of the Georgia Federation said: "Not a man has spoken here tonight in favor of a general referendum who did not know that there was not a chance for a referendum on the question of salary increases for all employees. They all know there never was a chance of such a proposal going on the ballots in December."

President Cunningham praised the firemen's organization as one of the "most militant and efficient bodies of the Atlanta Federation of Trades."

Must Aid Themselves.

"If you back the firemen and put their raises over, later you can do the same thing for yourselves. It would be fatal to you men to stand by and allow the firemen's raise proposal to be defeated."

Councilman York dwelt at length on his fight to obtain a minimum wage of $100 a month for all semi-skilled and clerical help in all city departments, declaring his intentions of reintroducing the measure at the next session of council and eliminating the referendum feature.

D. L. Bowles, of the city construction department, president of the local, Charles Martin, employee of the water department, B. R. Dixon, of the water department; Charles F. Jackson, of the Atlanta Federation of Trades; L. L. Wallis, general manager of parks, and F. B. Florence, city tax collector, were among the speakers.

"I have collected $15,000,000 through my offices this year, and I be-

Continued on Page 4, Column 5.

DID YOU EVER

pass up a bargain counter in a store, and then have a friend show you some wonderful "find," the next day, which she had bought at bargain prices from the self-same counter!

Made you feel that you'd missed something, didn't it?

Every day you fail to read "THE WOMEN'S SPECIALTIES" Department on the Classified Pages, you are passing up opportunity. Become a daily reader! Get your share of its special offers.

BIDS ARE ASKED TO OPERATE DIXIE AIR MAIL ROUTE

Proposed Service Is Scheduled To Join Atlanta, Jacksonville, Tampa and Miami.

CONTRACTS PROVIDE SIX TRIPS WEEKLY

Aviation Center To Exterminate Boll Weevil By Calcium Arsenate Dusting Now Planned.

By direction of the postmaster general bids are sought for the operation of a contract air mail route to join Atlanta, Jacksonville, Tampa and Miami, the service between Jacksonville and Miami to start not later than April 1, 1926, and the service between Atlanta and Jacksonville not later than June 1, 1926, it was announced Saturday by Postmaster E. K. Large.

Another announcement of interest Saturday was the proposal by the Aerial League of America, with headquarters in New York, to establish a great southern aviation center in Ford City, Alabama, which will pay especial attention to a war on boll weevils by dusting cotton with calcium arsenate. The information came in a letter to State Geologist S. W. McCallie.

Details of the plan for bids were received by Postmaster Large Saturday. They call for a schedule requiring a flying time of 90 miles an hour. The contract is open to bidders regardless of where they reside. The contracts will be limited not to exceed a four-year term.

Schedule Planned.

Under the plan the following schedule is to be maintained, service to be not less than six trips a week:

Leave Atlanta 7 a. m.; leave Jacksonville 10:25 a. m.; leave Tampa 12:30 p. m., and arrive Miami, 3 p. m.

Leave Miami 7 a. m.; leave Tampa 9:40 a. m.; leave Jacksonville 11:40 a. m., and arrive Atlanta, 3 p. m.

Proposal blanks can be obtained from postmasters on the route. The postage rate over contract air mail routes is ten cents an ounce or fraction thereof where the length of the route is not more than 1,000 miles, 15 cents an ounce up to and including 1,500 miles and 5 cents additional for each zone traveled on the transcontinental government operated routes.

Proposed establishment of a great southern aviation center, with special equipment for airplanes for dusting calcium arsenate on cotton to exterminate the boll weevil, was announced Saturday in a letter received by State Geologist S. W. McCallie, from the Aerial League of America, of New York.

The letter also told of plans of the

Continued on Page 4, Column 2.

1 KILLED, 1 HURT IN FREIGHT WRECK

Conductor E. G. Salter Meets Death in L. & N.-Georgia Crash at Moore Street Crossing.

One man was killed and another was injured in the wreck early this morning of a Louisville and Nashville freight train and a Georgia railway switch engine pulling a string of freight cars. The crash occurred at the Moore street grade crossing.

Conductor E. G. Salter, of Etowah, Tenn., was killed instantly when the switch engine of the Georgia railway rammed the rear end of the other train which was pulling onto the main line en route to Etowah. There were two cabs on the L. & N. train, and Salter was in the second one.

His body was badly mangled and bruised, and he was so buried under the wreck that it took workmen several hours to extricate his body.

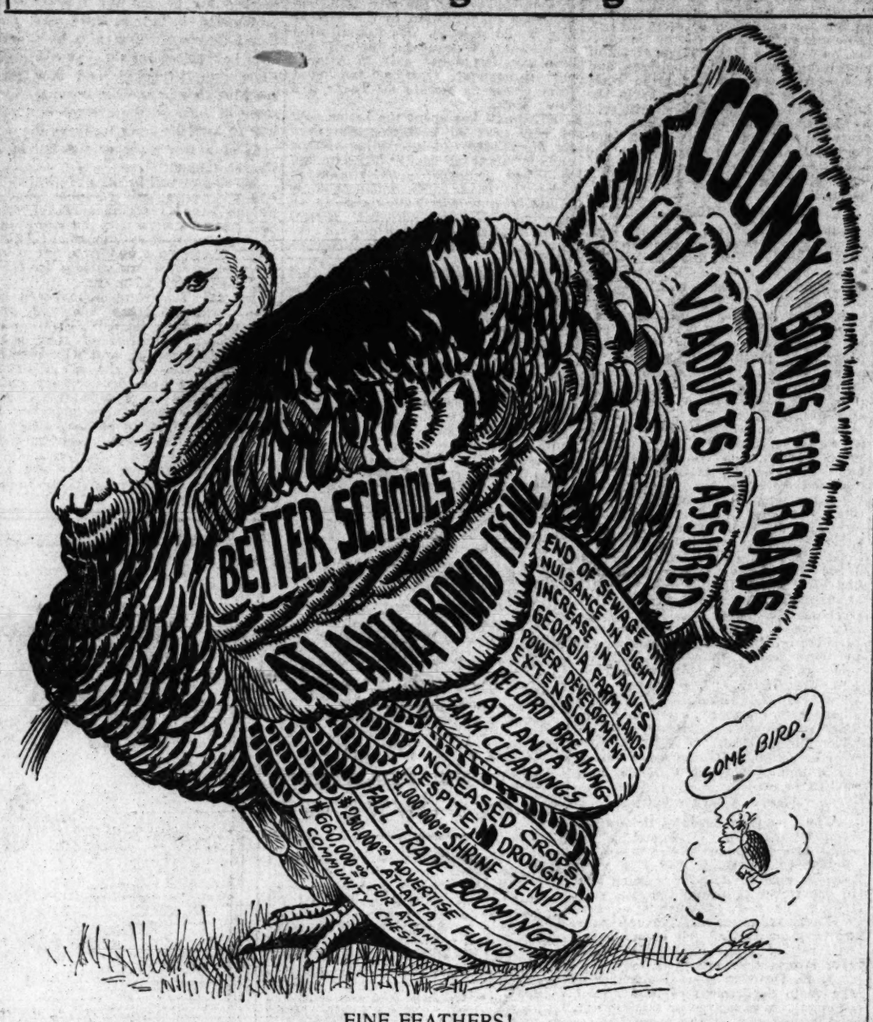
The injured man, Brakeman J. S. Hicks, of Marietta, was also on the L. & N. train. He was rushed to the Davis-Fischer sanitarium. It is not believed his condition is serious.

Both trains were moving in the same direction. The switch engine struck the other train with such force that the rear cab was forced on top of the second cab. The walls of the second cab gave way and Conductor Salter's body was caught in the wreck.

The L. & N. train had just made up and was leaving for Etowah. It carried 60 freight cars, and was a double-header. Conductor Salter was riding extra on the train and was going to Etowah to report for duty. The engineers on the L. & N. train were P. H. Dorsey and J. W. Hicks.

No report on the cause of the wreck has been made

Thanksgiving



FINE FEATHERS!

QUEEN ALEXANDRA TO REST IN CHAPEL NEAR HER HUSBAND

Funeral of Former British Ruler To Be Held Friday, With Burial in Church at Windsor.

London, November 21.—The dainty Danish princess, who became a queen of the world's greatest empire, will go to her final resting place next Friday at the side of eight monarchs, former kings of England. The Dowager Queen Alexandra, consort of the late King Edward and mother of King George V, will be buried in St. George's chapel at Windsor, near the vault which shelters her husband.

While Britons from Hongkong to Calgary, from Singapore to Malta mourn the passing of the queen mother, England will witness the most impressive funeral since the death of Edward in 1910. Simultaneous with the ceremonies at Windsor, memorial services will be held in Westminster abbey at 11:30 a. m.

Private services, attended only by members of the royal family, were held at the bedside of Alexandra at Sandringham this morning. Later, members of the Sandringham household, old residents of the estate and acquaintances of the neighborhood were permitted to pass through the bedroom and view the body of the queen. The body will lie in state tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday in the Sandringham church, where the royal family will attend special services at 11 a. m. tomorrow.

Alexandra often had expressed the wish that she be buried beside her husband and her body probably will be taken to Windsor over the same route traversed by Edward's cortege.

The British court will observe three months' mourning for the late queen, two of them full mourning, one half-mourning.

It is not likely that anything will become known publicly regarding the will of the queen, as no court has jurisdiction to probate it. She had an annuity of approximately $350,000 from the government, besides a large private fortune, but she gave liberally to charity and it is impossible to estimate the sum at her disposal when she died. The Sandringham estate, which cost King Edward $1,000,000, will pass to King George.

RECORDS CONFIRM DIVORCE SUIT FILED BY PEGGY JOYCE

Paris, November 21.—(AP)—Court records show that Peggy Joyce introduced a demand for a divorce from her fourth husband, Count Morner, some weeks ago.

Following the usual procedure the magistrate sent both parties summons to appear before him in "reconciliation proceedings." Count Morner failing to appear, the court registered a document establishing "non-reconciliation."

Precedents all show that a divorce decree follows the registration of such a document automatically within 60 days.

Upon her arrival in New York on the Mauretania Miss Joyce declared she had no intention of divorcing Count Morner. She remarked she was as much in love with her husband as any woman is after two years of marriage.

Gen. Butler Going Back To Marines

Director of Philadelphia Police for Two Years Bitter at Treatment.

Philadelphia, November 21.—(AP)—Brigadier Smedley D. Butler, for the last two years director of public safety in Philadelphia, is going back to the marines.

He made the announcement definitely today for the first time in an address before the New Century club and declared to his audience of women that his job here "is not worth staying for—a waste of time."

He asked that complete support be given to Assistant Director George Elliott, who is slated to succeed him when his leave of absence from the marines expires December 31.

"I was brought here at the insistence of your leading political men. I was told that you were dirty, filthy, that you needed a cleaning. After I came, every one ran away except your mayor. They insulted me, kicked me around, and you sat back and let them.

"I've shed more blood for my country and your country than all the politicians in seven generations. I have learned a lot of things, and no one can ever persuade me to serve in a public office again except in war time."

CHEST CAMPAIGN TAKES NEW TURN

All Former Workers Asked To Meet To Launch Concerted Final Drive For 1926 Fund.

DENIES CONNECTION WITH TAG SALE

Community Chest officials stated Saturday they had nothing to do with the sale of tags on the street Saturday "for the benefit of the Community Chest." Such action is directly contrary to the plan of the Community Chest, it was stated, which discontinued tag days for the various charitable institutions of Atlanta when the Community Chest was organized.

Campaigners who have worked in the Community Chest drives of the past two years have been called to meet at the chamber of commerce Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock, with Eugene R. Black, as chairman, to lend their aid in putting the Chest drive for $666,000 over the top this year.

At the same time the neighborhood campaign in which workers have been canvassing residence districts of the city for subscriptions to the Chest, will be brought to a close with a supper rally for workers at the chamber of commerce at 6:30 o'clock. At this meeting final reports will be made and the neighborhood work brought to a close.

The general campaign, the next stage of the Chest drive this year, will get under way with a dinner at the chamber of commerce at 6:30 o'clock Friday night, November 27. Robert L. Foreman is chairman of this movement and plans a week of intensive work to bring the Chest campaign to a close the first week in December.

Interest was aroused in the Community Chest appeal cost Sunday when pastors of the city called upon

Continued on Page 4, Column 2.

TAXABLE PROPERTY INCREASE IN 1925 SHOWS BIG GAINS

Jump of $11,714,768 in Values Over 1924 Shown In Complete Compiled Returns.

Total value of property assessed for taxation in Georgia for 1925 is $1,054,374,625, according to the returns made to the office of Comptroller General William A. Wright, which have just been completed and compiled.

This is an increase over 1924 of $11,714,768, when the assessed values were given as $1,042,659,857, and a still greater increase over the figures for 1923, which were $1,024,645,571.

A remarkable fact in regard to the increase for both the years 1924 and 1925, is that it is almost entirely due to Fulton county. The increase in assessed values in Fulton county for 1925 over 1924 is approximately the same as the increase for the entire state, while in 1924 the Fulton county increase was considerably greater than that for the entire state, thus overcoming a decrease which would otherwise have been shown that year.

Fulton county returns for 1925 are $246,493,690; for 1924, they were $235,057,180 and for 1923 they were $203,990,265.

The total tax derived by the state from the 1925 assessed values, at the

Continued on Page 4, Column 4.

22 VESSELS LYING ALONG 'RUM ROW' WITH XMAS BOOZE

New York, November 21.—(AP)—Coast guard officials announced today that 22 vessels, scattered recently by the government agents, have reassembled and are lying off the north Jersey coast with their holds filled with liquor intended for the holiday trade.

The coast guard acknowledged itself puzzled at new tactics employed by the rum carriers and rum runners, which have been ranging from Montauk point to Atlantic City, keeping constantly on the move and approaching from 100 miles out to within 15 miles off the coast. Just how the carriers are keeping the rum runners informed of their whereabouts is worrying the government forces.

PALL OF SMOKE COVERS ATLANTA; CODY IS PUZZLED

Downtown Atlanta took on a combined appearance of London and Pittsburgh Saturday night when a pall of smoke descended and wrapped the entire district in its murkiness. It didn't smell so good and did the eyes no good, but it was there just the same.

Fire Chief William J. Cody said he knew of no fires about the city which would have emitted so much gloom, and was inclined to attribute the phenomenon to atmospheric conditions holding the smoke in the air instead of allowing it to drift off as under normal conditions.

6 DEAD AND 11 INJURED IS TOLL OF ACCIDENTS IN GEORGIA SATURDAY

RECEIPTS LARGER DESPITE SLASHES OF U. S. TAX RATES

Total of $689,134,185 Collected in Personal Income Taxes to September 30 for 1924.

7,298,481 FILED TREASURY RETURNS

Though 399,840 Fewer Returns Were Filed Than For 1923, Over $25,000,000 More Was Collected.

Washington, November 21.—More than 7,000,000 persons, with an aggregate net income in 1924 of $25,023,210,893, placed $689,134,185 in personal income taxes into the United States treasury up to September 30 last.

The number of persons filing income tax returns dwindled 399,840 from 1923, but the 7,298,481 who paid swelled the total tax returns to the government by $25,482,680 more than was received for the previous year.

These statistics were shown in a preliminary report made public Saturday night by the treasury department.

Average Income $3,428.55.

The average net income of filers of returns was $3,428.55; the average amount of tax, $94.42; and the average tax rate, 2.75 per cent.

More than $20,000,000,000 of income was exempt from the normal tax because of personal exemptions and credits for dependents, dividends, interest on government obligations not wholly exempt from the sale of assets held for more than two years. Of this amount, $16,657,519,698 is directly attributable to personal exemptions and the exemptions allowed for dependents.

A tax reduction amounting to $27,538,273 resulted from the 25 per cent tax credit provision of the revenue law applying to the tax on the first $5,000 of net income, whether earned or otherwise, and if specifically earned, to the tax on an amount not exceeding $10,000.

Wage Earners Pay 47.12 Per Cent.

The wage earner and the men who receive commissions, bonuses and directors' fees accounted for $13,736,563, or 47.12 per cent of the net income on which returns were made.

Business, trade, commerce, partnerships, farming and profits from incidental sales of real estate, stocks, bonds and other property were sources which accounted for $7,974,366,592 on the net incomes, the remainder of which was made up from property returns in rents and royalties, interest on bonds, notes and the like, and from dividends.

The statistics disclose that the 7,298,481 persons filing returns gave $528,441,698 in contributions and charities.

The year 1924 saw the big moneyed man coming back with a vengeance from the financial rebuffs he suffered with the post-war deflation. Some 773 persons filed returns on net incomes of $300,000 and over, an increase of 231 over 1923.

There was a decrease of 464,345 in the number of persons filing returns

Continued on Page 4, Column 2.

Greek Carries Wife's Ashes For Two Years

Deposits Them With Undertaker After Assurances of Safe Keeping.

Washington, November 21.—For two dreary, lonesome years, George P. Vassillades, a Greek, carried a little steel box with him constantly. During the day, it was under his arm wherever he went. At night, it was beside him as he slept. It contained the ashes of his wife.

Vassillades came to this country with his wife, his baby and his mother-in-law more than two years ago. The mother-in-law was held up at Ellis island by the immigration authorities. The wife was sickly. She died soon after her arrival. Her body was cremated here.

"In Turkey and Greece," Vassillades said in explanation, "graves are no longer sacred. They are used over and over again. A body rests a month, perhaps two months, and then it is dug up and the grave is used for another. The bodies are thrown into a charnel house to decompose and make room for others. Loved ones are lost to you."

Vassillades feared some unknown American burial custom would rob him of his wife's body. He solved his dilemma through cremation and then the lone vigil over her ashes.

He has been assured by the District of Columbia health department that America honors her dead and Saturday he turned the box of ashes over to a local undertaker for safe keeping.

Three Homes Given Bride By S. A. Lynch

Costly Jewelry and Handsome Car Also Given to Wife.

Following announcement of the wedding in Paris of Mrs. Julia Dodd Adair, of Atlanta, to Stephen A. Lynch, well-known capitalist, formerly of this city and now of Florida, news was received here Saturday of a lavish array of gifts presented by Mr. Lynch to his bride.

These present included:

Homes in Paris, Miami and New York city; a string of pearls of her own choosing; a cabichon diamond ring and a ruby ring; a diamond bracelet, an inch wide; a specially built Rolls Royce which will meet them when they arrive in London.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynch are now honeymooning at Monte Carlo, for which the bride has prepared a gorgeous trousseau. Particularly attractive to the feminine eye is an orchid Kasha coat, with its marvellous trimmings of orchid fox, a wrap suitable for protection from cold weather and for evening wear, a cream chiffon velvet coat, elaborately embroidered in poppies, and introducing white fox collars and cuffs.

Mrs. Lynch will add chinchilla and mink coats to her trousseau before going to Switzerland in December to enjoy the winter carnival at St. Moritz.

Returning early in January to the United States, she will include in her wardrobe gowns and wraps, hats and shoes, appropriate for a season at America's Riviera and the brilliant opening of Mr. Lynch's new hotel, the Columbus, in Miami.

BROTHER OF SLAIN GANGSTER KILLS WITNESS IN COURT

Chicago Gang War Invades Coroner's Inquest When Spectator Shoots Witness While on Stand

Chicago, November 21.—(AP)—Gang warfare invaded the coroner's inquest in Chicago today when Sam Vinci, attending an inquest into the death of his brother, Mike, slain yesterday, whipped out a pistol and shot to death John Minatti, a witness, while the latter was testifying.

For a moment after the crack of the pistol shot, the court room sat silent and amazed as Minatti crumpled in his chair. Then there was a wild scramble for exits. A policeman sitting near Vinci grabbed his pistol before he could pull the trigger a second time. His indictment for murder will be sought on Monday.

Joseph and Peter Vinci, brothers of the slayer, and all members of the Vinci family of gangsters were arrested. Vinci told the police he believed Minatti had killed his broth-

Continued on Page 4, Column 4.

LADLOW SLATED FOR PRISON POST

Salvation Army Lieutenant Is Recommended for Chaplin of Atlanta Institution.

Washington, November 21.—(AP)—Lieutenant W. B. Ladlow, Salvation Army worker, now stationed at Troy, N. Y., has been recommended for appointment as chaplain of the Atlanta federal penitentiary. He was chaplain of the state prison at Jeffersonville, Ind., before that institution was closed.

LADLOW TO SUCCEED CHAPLAIN SEWELL.

Lieutenant Ladlow is slated to succeed the late Dr. Joseph Asbury Sewell, for 10 years chaplain of the Atlanta institution. Chaplain Sewell died November 10 after tendering his resignation as chaplain to Warden John W. Snook on September 26. The resignation was to be effective when another chaplain was appointed and the department has considered many applicants.

Father Thomas P. Hayden, Catholic chaplain, was involved in the prison bribe plot probe and was succeeded on February 9, 1925, by Father Emmett M. Walsh. Father Walsh retired May 16 and Father C. W. Vogel was appointed to succeed him. Lieutenant Ladlow will be the chaplain, assisted by Father Vogel, in the event that Attorney General J. G. Sargent passes favorably on the recommendations of Luther C. White, superintendent of federal prisons of the United States.

AUTO ACCIDENTS LEAD IN CAUSE OF FATALITIES

New York Woman Meets Instant Death When Pinned Under Car in Waters of Satilla River.

ILLINOIS YOUTH INSTANTLY KILLED

Ten Valuable Race Horses Killed Near Bainbridge in Wreck That Injures Seven Persons.

Automobile, grade crossing and hunting accidents claimed a fearful toll throughout Georgia Saturday, six persons being killed and 11 injured. A fearful property loss was also sustained at Bainbridge when 10 valuable race horses were killed in a train wreck. Seven passengers on the train were also slightly injured.

A minister, Rev. E. Watkins, was instantly killed when hit by an automobile while crossing a street at Wadley.

A New York woman, a tourist from Florida en route home, was drowned in the Satilla river near Baxley, when the automobile in which she and her husband were riding ran off the bridge, pinning her under the car.

At Andersonville a 15-year-old boy, of Marion, Ill., was instantly killed when he lost control of the automobile in which he and members of his family were traveling south.

A grade crossing accident near Waycross Thursday resulted in the death Saturday of Nat Eagley, whose car collided with an Atlantic Coast Line train.

John Bray, a Johnson county farmer, died of injuries received when the gas tank of his car exploded when a lantern was used to furnish light.

Arthur R. Jackson, of Jesup, was killed near Jacksonville, Fla., as his automobile turned over and at Americus, a young boy while hunting was injured by the accidental discharge of a gun.

Three persons were seriously injured at Lumber City as a result of an automobile wreck on the Dixie highway.

WOMAN DROWNS AT BAXLEY.

Baxley, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Mrs. P. E. Crowther, of 133 West 117th street, New York city, was drowned in the Satilla river near here today when the automobile in which she was riding plunged from the bridge into the water and pinned her beneath it.

Mr. and Mrs. Crowther were returning from Florida and in some unaccountable manner the car plunged from the bridge and landed in shallow water. Mr. Crowther was not seriously injured but he was unable to lift the car from his wife and when passing motorists went to the rescue, Mrs. Crowther was dead.

More than 30,000 tourists cars have passed through Baxley within

Continued on Page 4, Column 3.

The Weather

FAIR

Washington—Forecast:
Georgia: Fair and slightly warmer Sunday; Monday partly cloudy and colder, moderate west and southwest winds.

Local Weather Report.

Highest temperature	62
Lowest temperature	36
Mean temperature	49
Normal temperature	50
Rainfall in past 24 hours, ins.	.00
Excess since 1st of mo., ins.	2.07
Total rainfall since Jan. 1, ins.	32.37

	7 a.m.	N'n	7 p.m.
Dry temperature	37	61	56
Wet bulb	35	48	47
Relative humidity	77	36	50

Reports of Weather Bureau Stations.

STATIONS AND STATE OF WEATHER	Temperature 7 p.m.	Temperature High	Rain 12 hrs inches
ATLANTA, clear	56	62	.00
Birmingham, clear	54	62	.00
Boston, clear	44	52	.00
Buffalo, clear	50	52	.00
Charleston, clear	52	58	.00
Chicago, clear	54	56	.00
Cincinnati, cloudy	32	44	.00
Des Moines, cloudy	40	58	.00
Galveston, cloudy	60	62	.00
Hatteras, clear	48	54	.00
Havre, clear	28	36	.00
Jacksonville, clear	54	66	.00
Kansas City, clear	46	68	.00
Memphis, clear	62	70	.00
Miami, cloudy	68	74	.00
Mobile, clear	58	64	.00
Montgomery, clear	56	64	.00
New Orleans, clear	56	60	.00
New York, clear	48	52	.00
North Platte, clear	32	44	.00
Oklahoma, clear	54	68	.00
Phoenix, cloudy	64	74	.00
Pittsburgh, clear	48	54	.00
Raleigh, clear	50	58	.00
San Francisco, cloudy	64	64	.00
St. Louis, clear	60	68	.00
Salt Lake City, clear	40	44	.00
Savannah, clear	54	60	.00
Tampa, clear	60	68	.00
Toledo, clear	50	60	.00
Vicksburg, cloudy	60	60	.00
Washington, clear	50	58	.00

C. F. von HERRMANN, Meteorologist, Weather Bureau.

McKeown Brothers To Erect Manufacturing Plant Here To Handle New Business

Big Truss and Support Firm To Erect Four Buildings at Cost of $150,000.

Having been "sold" on Atlanta's advantages from a manufacturing and distributing standpoint, McKeown Brothers Company, Inc., of Chicago and New York, internationally known makers of wood trusses and building supports, have selected this city as the site for their southern factory and will begin erection of four buildings on a lot on Glennwood avenue about December 1, according to an announcement Saturday by Frederick T. Newell, secretary of the industrial bureau of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce.

John C. McKeown, president of the firm, has been in Atlanta for the past week making plans for establishment of the factory and announced in connection with the revelation of plans for the new factory that payrolls of the concern in Atlanta will amount to approximately $400,000 a year. Labor will be recruited solely from Georgia, he said.

Advantages Emphasized.

The Atlanta factory will be the only factory of the McKeown company other than the one in Chicago, and will serve southern and eastern states. Determination to locate the plant here was made when it was brought to the company's attention by the chamber of commerce that Atlanta's strategical position for a manufacturer or distributor in the south and east is second to none, and that this city has rail facilities unequlled anywhere in the south.

Mr. McKeown stated that he and his son are contemplating plans for erection of another large industry in Atlanta, the details of which have not been worked out, and expects to make an announcement in the near future concerning the new industry.

An interestig fact brought out about Atlanta's commercial advantages by Mr. McKeown Saturday was his announcement that on account of proximity of raw materials and the facilities furnished by the railroads and other transportation companies, he will be able to manufacture trusses in Atlanta and deliver them in New York and the east at a much lower cost than under the present condition, that is, manufacturing in and shipping from Chicago.

"Every time I visit Atlanta, I am more and more impressed by the importance of this city and its position to the markets of the south and east," Mr. McKeown said Saturday. "Atlanta is a fine, growing town—unquestionably the finest town in the south. We expect our Atlanta factory to do a large business."

Mrs. McKeown Likes City.

Mrs. McKeown, who accompanied her husband on this trip to Atlanta, is so impressed with this city that she insists that they erect a winter home here.

Four buildings are to be erected at a cost of $150,000 on the five-acre tract on Glennwood avenue. Railroad facilities on the Atlanta and West Point railway belt line provide transportation for the factory's products, which are wood "lattis trusses," wood "bowstring" trusses and wood trusses of other types. The trusses are used as roof supports for all buildings requiring clear floor space, such as commercial garages, machine shops, storage buildings, assembly halls, gymnasiums and the like. The spans are built for spaces of from 30 to 150 feet in width, and are made of pine and other woods shaped by processes of special machinery, Mr. McKeown owning the patents. He is the originator of the bowstring truss, and has been in the manufacturing business for over 35 years, for 22 of which he has been making bowstring trusses.

Mr. McKeown is very proud of the fact that he was the first manufacturer in America to start the Saturday half-holiday for factory workmen, a practice which began 31 years ago.

The United States government used McKeown trusses in many of its airdomes. The company has just installed trusses in the telephone company building in Chicago, the trusses being 130 feet in length with supports.

LOFTIS BROS. & CO. EST'D 1858

The Old Reliable Credit Jewelers—Largest in the World

16 South Broad St.—Northeast Corner Alabama St.

ENTRANCE RIGHT AT THE CORNER

DIAMONDS WATCHES

Genuine Diamonds Guaranteed

CASH OR CREDIT

Choose Gifts From Loftis!

This is a good time to choose all your gifts for Thanksgiving and Christmas, while our stocks are complete. Why shop around for trifling gifts when you can get worth-while gifts on credit from Loftis, and have all charged to your one account. Our courteous salesmen are ready to serve you—suggestion is a part of the Loftis service. Come in and open a charge account.

A Diamond Ring Is the Best Gift of All

"Natalie" Diamond Ring

A rare value in an 18-K white gold ring, delicately pierced and engraved. Octagon top. Set with a blue white Diamond of dazzling radiance.

$37.50

"Colette" Diamond Ring

A triumph of beauty. Graceful design in 18-K white gold. Ring has octagon top and is set with a blue white Diamond of selected quality.

$100

Terms to Suit Your Convenience

RADIO FANS—Listen in on WHT, Chicago, every Tuesday night from 7 to 7:30; every Friday night from 10 to 10:30, central standard time—Loftis Bros. & Co.'s hours of music. Wave length 400 meters.

White Gold Wrist Watch

New design in a beautiful wing-end oval

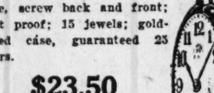
Wrist Watch. Solid 18-K white gold case, hand-engraved. Fancy dial. High-grade 17-jewel movement, guaranteed; ribbon wrist band with solid white gold clasp.

$37.50

Other styles at $12.50, $15, $18.75, $22.50, $25, $27.50 and up to $700.

Diamond Set Wrist Watches at All Prices

WEDDING RINGS



The "Elite," solid 18-K white gold..... $7.50

The "Elite," all-platinum, or 18-K white gold, set with your choice of 3, 5, 7 or 9 beautiful blue white diamonds, $22.50 and up.

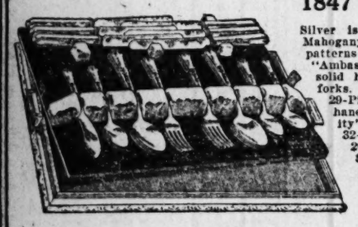
Elgin Watch

High grade, gold filled. Open face, screw back and front; dust proof; 15 jewels; gold-filled case, guaranteed 25 years.

$23.50

FREE—Beautiful Ribbon Waldemar Chain with gold-filled slide is given FREE with each watch.

1847 Rogers Silver Sets



Silver is on velvet pad in handsome Mahogany "Utility" tray. Choice of patterns: "Ancestral," "Anniversary," "Ambassador," or "Old Colony," with solid handle knives and flat handle forks. 29-Piece Set, $36.10.

29-Piece Set, with embossed solid handle knives and forks, in "Utility" tray, $33.40.

32-Piece Set, $35.70.

26-Piece Set, in fancy chest, $31.10.

50-Piece Set, in Polychrome chest, $67.00.

29-Piece Set, hollow handle knives and flat handle forks, $32.10.

See Our Store Windows for Special Bargains

Watches repaired; all work guaranteed. Diamonds remounted. Old jewelry repaired and remodeled. Old-style wedding rings modernized. Lowest prices.

Call or write for Catalog 374. Phone Bell, WAlnut 3737, and salesman will call.

Open Monday and Saturday Till 9:30 p. m.; other days till 6:30

Our complete service gives you ample time to devote to your jewelry shopping up to 9:30 p. m. on Saturdays and Mondays.

MEDICAL SCIENCE

reveals that everyone needs vitamins in abundance every day and these can only be absorbed from the food one assimilates.

This is where Scott's Emulsion of vitamin-tested cod-liver oil with glycerine and the hypophosphites of lime and soda meets the test and serves the need. It is the very food and tonic that thousands of grown persons require to give energy for the day's work and children need for zest, for study or play.

Nervous, overwrought mothers use Scott's Emulsion to keep well and strong for their daily duties.

Three generations have proved the merit of Scott's Emulsion.

Do not put off a definite duty. Protect the health of your family with Scott's Emulsion of absolutely true cod-liver oil.

Scott a Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. 25-9

RADIO EXPOSITION SUCCESS ASSURED

With Atlanta's first radio-electrical exposition scheduled to open two weeks from Monday at the municipal Auditorium plans rapidly are being perfected for the exhibition of every line of radio and radio accessories on the market, as well as a high class program of entertainment for each matinee and evening performance during the week.

All but a few of the booths in the huge Auditorium have been reserved by local and national dealers, and every type of radio receiving set from the smallest crystal detector to the huge tube sets, costing more than $2,000, will be shown the public of Atlanta.

Crystal Studio.

Among the features that have been arranged to date are the erection of a crystal studio, covering the entire stage, thereby enabling everybody in the Auditorium to have a full view of the broadcasting station at all times; a radio-set building contest for amateurs; presentation of continuous music during the matinee and night programs; personal appearance of some of the country's outstanding radio announcers; presentation of some of the finest radio acts in the country, and several others.

In addition, exhibitors who will have booths, already have offered prizes for various contests, totaling more than $1,000, and this sum is expected to be greatly augmented when the complete list is ready. Radio sets, batteries, head phones, loud speakers and all manner of other radio accessories will be given away.

George Hay, chief announcer of WSM, at Nashville, whose voice also has been heard from stations WMC at Memphis and WLS at Chicago; Graham McNamee, of New York city, whose broadcast of the last presidential inauguration was heard by more people than ever had listened to a single announcer before; Leo Fitzpatrick, "The Merry Old Chief" of the Jewett Radio and Phonograph company, Detroit and Pontiac, Michigan; Harold Hough, "The Hired Hand," of WBAP, Fort Worth, Texas, and others are among the announcers whom officials have invited to attend.

Heavy Advance Sale.

A heavy advance sale of tickets has been reported to headquarters in room 126, Biltmore hotel. A unique contest to determine the five most popular girls in Atlanta is being held in the ticket sale, and the five girls selling the most number of tickets will receive diamond rings and wrist watches as prizes. All girls entered will receive remuneration for whatever efforts they put forth.

A. K. Dearing, general manager of the radio department of J. M. High company, is in charge of this contest, and he states that the entry list for contestants is by no means closed, and that any young lady in Atlanta may enter. Details can be secured from him, or at radio headquarters in the Biltmore.

Mason Brothers Remodel Store For Annual Sale

Completion of an extensive remodeling program at Mason Brothers' large furniture store at 6 West Mitchell street is being followed by the annual "No Money Down Sale," which has proven so successful in the past few years, it was announced Saturday.

Expressing confidence in the city of Atlanta as one of the greatest merchandising centers of the south, C. M. Mason, president of the firm, declared that he expects the present sale to be the greatest in the history of the store.

Mason's "No Money Down Sale" has been operated for several years past, and has always attracted large crowds to the store, and crowds this year are easily exceeding those of previous years, officers of the firm said Saturday. The sale has been in progress one week, and many Atlantans have taken advantage of the bargains offered.

With the immense stocks from which to select furniture needs, combined with the unusual features of the "No Money Down" sale, is proving a strong drawing card, firm members point out, and resulting in tremendous sales.

CANDLERS ACTIVE ON BUYING SIDE IN REALTY DEALS

Observers of real estate conditions in Atlanta have called attention to the fact that members of the Candler family are now actively in the real estate market, and this is regarded as an omen of a rise in real estate values. It is a fact well known to students of real estate history that Asa G. Candler, Sr., in past times entered the real estate market as a purchaser when conditions were favorable to the buyer and not to the seller. Mr. Candler made extensive real estate investments in the year 1908, a period bordering on a panic, when no other buyers would invest in real estate at all.

He also came into the real estate market in 1913 and 1914 at the outbreak of the war and made extensive purchases at a time when he was practically the only buyer in the field. Real estate observers now call attention to the entrance of younger members of the Candler family in the real estate market as forecasting future activity. Walter T. Candler recently bought the corner of Houston and Ivy streets, making an investment of a quarter of a million dollars. Soon after he purchased an additional lot on Houston street at $128,500.

William Candler has just closed a trade for the corner of West Peachtree and Fifth streets, paying $1,250 a front foot.

PEACHTREE ROAD COMMERCIAL BANK OPENED TO PUBLIC

Opening of the Peachtree Road Commercial bank at Buckhead Saturday was attended b ymany depositors, the bank serving a territory with a large radius around Buckhead.

Officers and directors of the new institution were on hand to welcome those who attended the opening, and received congratulation of their friends on the new enterprise.

George P. Donaldson, retired business man who has large real estate holdings in Fulton county, is president of the new bank, while Dr. T. N. Bussey is vice president, John S. Thompson, recently of Jasper, is cashier, and is assisted by Mrs. Thompson.

Directors of the bank, in addition to the officers, are George Mathieson, D. N. Williams, John D. Russell and George O. King, all of whom are widely known in Fulton county.

COTTON PRODUCTION OFF IN BUTTS COUNTY

Jackson, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Prior to November 1 there had been ginned in Butts county 4,298 bales of cotton, as compared with 2,964 bales the same date in 1924. Though the ginning figures are ahead of last year, the total yield will be less.

It is now estimated that Butts county will produce about 4,500 bales this season, whereas the total yield in 1924 was 5,678 bales.

Little Hope Seen For General Drop In Building Costs

Little hope of any immediate substantial lowering of general labor costs in the building industry is found in statistics made public Saturday by the building research bureau of G. L. Miller and company, nationally known investment banking house specializing in building construction.

Figures compiled by the research bureau from official reports of the average paid up membership in the 17 building trade unions in the United States showed that they now have a membership of more than 864,000. This represents a gain in the last two years approximately 44,617 new members, an increase of 5 per cent over their former membership.

"This membership gain," said the research bureau, "has placed labor in a more favorable position than ever before to oppose any attempt to deflate seriously the improved standards of living it has recently achieved.

"Although the unions only actually control between 38 and 40 per cent of the 2,250,000 wage earners in the construction industry, the wages and worknig conditions attained by the organized crafts are generally accepted as the basis of compensation for all building workers.

"Another important factor in the wage situation is that there is no perceptible indication that the building labor supply will greatly exceed the demand. The apprenticeship system has failed to perform its function and native American workers have not been attracted to the industry in large numbers. Limitation of immigration, first by the war and later by legislation, together with strict laws against contract labor, and the condition of employment in some European countries, have also greatly reduced the supply of skilled and unskilled labor recruited from abroad, especially from northwestern Europe. Therefore, the probability is that under normal building conditions there will be a utilization of the available force practically to capacity for some time."

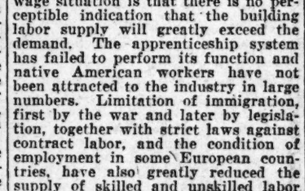
Prominent Mason Dies.

Hopkinsville, Ky., November 21.—(AP)—Dr. Earl W. Weathers, 45, former grand master of Kentucky Masons, died here this afternoon as a result of an automobile accident last night.

Joe Penick, traveling salesman, who also was seriously injured in the accident, is reported as "resting well."

Wrong Address Given.

G. W. Rogers, proprietor of a barber shop at 1 Walker street, denied Saturday that four men, arrested Thursday on charges of loitering, one of whom is held for the United States government on narcotic charges, resided at that address. Mr. Rogers stated that none of the four was in anyway connected with that address.



ARTIFICIAL EYES IMPROVED

Reinforcement prevents easy breakage. Properly fitted, prevent detection or irritation. LOWER PRICE. Can be fitted anywhere by mail, and three days' trial allowed. No fit, no sale. Customers in every state of the Union. Assortment always exceeds 50,000 so we can suit anyone. Eyes blown to order. Send your name and names of all you know who wear an Artificial Eye for free booklet that explains everything about eyes. Do it NOW as this ad. may not appear again. Our low price will surprise you.

DENVER OPTIC CO.

992 Barclay Block, Denver, Col.

Wide-Spread Interest Manifested in Dr. Small's Unique History of Atlanta

Following the announcement in Wednesday's Constitution that the episodic history of the city of Atlanta, since its inception to the present day, would start in The Constitution of Monday, wide-spread interest has been manifested not only in Atlanta but throughout Georgia and even from states as remote as Texas and New York.

Dr. Small has spent the better part of this year in gathering the data for his unique and interesting volume and in securing many hitherto unpublished photographs of Atlanta in its early days. The manuscript is complete and will run regularly in the daily Constitution for several months after the publishing of the first installment on Sunday, November 29.

The Constitution doesn't plan that this shall be a stereotyped and statistical history after the conventional fashion. Rather, it will be a series of stories of how Atlanta came into being, and of the men and episodes that have made up the progressive life of the city from its origin until today.

It will not be a combination of diary and dry-as-dust figures of no present significance; but it will omit no fact of personal or material importance that had its effect upon the development of the "Atlanta spirit" and the city's influence.

Atlanta has brought into activity and efficiency, both at home and abroad in the nation, men of outstanding abilities and power in many lines of endeavor and achievement. The stories of their lives and accomplishments are interesting as examples, and sometimes thrilling in their dramatic and dynamic effects. To recall them to the study of the living will be instructive and stimulating to emulation. They will also serve to identify, for the citizen of today, reasons for places and names that are now mysteries.

Atlanta has been identified with movements and enterprises that have reached far beyond her borders and profoundly influence state and national interests. Few now living realize how important those events were when they happened, and how far-reaching they have since become. The story of some of the greater of them will be as fresh news today as the advent of a new state or the fall of a French cabinet.

Each story will be complete in itself, but the series will combine into a unique running romance of the rise and progress of a city acclaimed at home and abroad as a magical realization of municipal ambition. It is of such realizations that nations are born and civilization advances.

For this important history-writing, The Constitution has obtained the services of Rev. Sam W. Small, who first joined its staff of writers in 1875, 50 years ago, and who is well-known as one of the accomplished journalists of the half-century past. His contributions to the editorial page of The Constitution are notable and read with delight by the paper's readers. He knows better, perhaps, than any living man the characters and the episodes of Atlanta history and has the ability to present them in an illuminating style.

SLAYER OF WIFE AND TWO CHILDREN TAKES OWN LIFE

Detroit, Mich., November 21.—(AP) Richard Brusseau, sought since Friday morning for the slaying of his wife and two sons, died late Saturday afternoon from a bullet wound in the head, which police believe was self-inflicted. Brusseau was found lying near the side of a road 20 miles from Detroit. A pistol was found lying nearby.

Domestic troubles cost the lives of the four members of the family, Mrs. Brusseau told police yesterday before she died from wounds inflicted by her husband. The other victims were Harold, 11, and Richard, Jr., 7. Another son, Clifford, is the only surviving member of the family.

STILESBORO HOLDS ANNUAL FLOWER SHOW

Taylorsville, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—The annual flower show held at the school auditorium at Stilesboro Friday was of unusual beauty.

The spacious room was formed into a grove of spruce pines and in the midst of the grove was a huge basket fashioned of evergreens and vines, lined with moss. In this basket were the prize chrysanthemums, each perfect as to flower and foliage and of every known variety.

Underneath the pines were beds and baskets of smaller chrysanthemums among ferns and palms.

In the annex, a tea room arranged with the autumn colors was an added attraction.

To be amidst this riot of wonderful colors with the pungent odor of the pines mingled with the delicate fragrance of the chrysanthemums gave one a feeling of having been transported to fairyland.

TECH AND GEORGIA STUDENTS PRAISED

Appreciation of the friendly atmosphere which prevailed during and after the football game between Georgia Tech and Georgia university is expressed in the current issue of The Technique, official publication of Tech.

The editorial in full follows:

"Welcome Georgia!

"To the students of the University of Georgia, to the football team and to the Georgia alumni, the students of Georgia Tech extend a most cordial welcome to the campus. We are glad that the day has finally arrived when these two institutions resumed athletic relations on the gridiron, and we hope that this relation of friendliness will continue throughout the years to come.

"The past has gone—it is dead, and since there were probably faults on both sides we will let the dead stay dead.

"Two great institutions such as Georgia and Tech within the same state should have the very best relations of friendship and rivalry existing between them. We hope the game will mark a new era in the history of the two state institutions, will mark the dawning of a new state spirit and tend to build a greater and more influential educational system in the state of Georgia.

"The students are masters of the situation, responsible for good or ill feelings and upon them will fall the privilege of building up good will between the two schools. Just to what extent this spirit shall exist will depend upon the attitude of the students, of Tech as well as Georgia. So let us all take advantage of this opportunity and exercise influence in such a manner that there will always exist the best relations between Tech and Georgia."

WASHINGTON LEGION ELECTS DR. J. M. TOOMEY

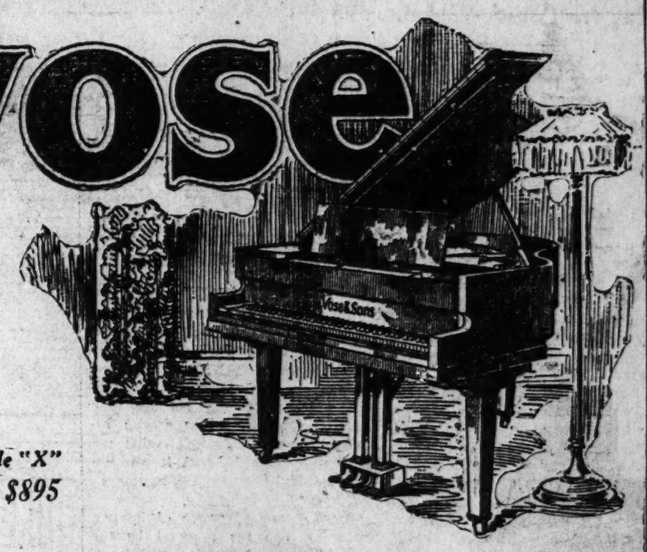
Washington, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Reports submitted by officials of the Jerome A. Wootten post, American Legion, at the annual meeting disclosed some interesting figures touching activities of the local post for the past year.

C. B. Golson, treasurer of the Wilkes County Fair association which for the past two years has been sponsored by local Legionnaires showed a profit from the October fair of approximately $1,250. This is considered remarkable in the face of the summer drouth in northeast Georgia, which proved such a heavy blow to the agricultural interests of this section of the state.

At the annual election of officers held at this time, Dr. J. M. Toomey was named commander of the post for the ensuing year. C. B. Golson was elected president of the Legion Fair association. Other officers named were J. H. Blackmon, vice commander and service officer; B. I. Cheney, adjutant; Dr. H. C. Gilbert, assistant adjutant and historian; Holland Strother, chaplain.

The directorate is composed of John K. Griffin, James D. Ellington, Hillyer H. Johnson, George H. Standard, H. C. Gilbert, Izzie Simowitz, C. B. Golson and D. T. Goodwin.

Vose



Style "X" $895

We Challenge Comparison

A NAME that has stood for three-quarters of a century for predominating piano value. Vose is one of the very few pianos that has survived this long period of time—not only survived but has steadily progressed under the guidance of generation after generation of the Vose family. TONE is the most fundamental factor to consider in selecting a piano—we know the sweet tone of the Vose will appeal to you.

Convenient Terms. Catalog upon request.

PHILLIPS & CREW PIANO CO.

181 Peachtree Phone WAlnut 8061

An Interesting Pre-Holiday Sale!

Don't Let It Slip! Use Your Credit!

The reductions offered here are GENUINE. Every offer as advertised, without question.

THE HUB

83 Whitehall St. - 83 Whitehall St.

We'll trust you for your Purchases, without security—on your Promise to Pay!

DRESSES at 20% OFF!

AND PAY $2.00 DOWN, ANY CHOICE!

The balance will be arranged to suit your convenience. All regular stock, prices plainly marked— $11.98; $15.98 Etc. Also Stout Sizes

Strong Holiday Offers

FUR-TRIMMED Coats for Women $24.98 UP!

There's quality in these Coats of ours; you need not be afraid of the Low Price!

TWO-PANTS Suits for Men formerly at this price with only one pair! $39.50

CREDIT! Terms arranged anyway you like:

A Fair and Simple Plan

Plans Are Being Completed For Georgia Baptist Meet In Savannah December 9-11

Annual Convention Will Be Held in First Baptist Church With Dr. John D. Mell Presiding.

BY LOUIE D. NEWTON,
Editor Christian Index.

Savannah, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Baptists of Georgia are looking forward with a great deal of interest to the opening of the 103d session of the Georgia Baptist convention, which meets in Savannah, December 9-11, the sessions to be held in the First Baptist church.

Dr. John D. Mell, of Athens, is president of the convention and will call the meeting to order at 10 o'clock, eastern time, December 9. It is likely that Dr. Mell will be reelected president of the convention, which position he has held for 13 years. Dr. B. D. Ragsdale, of Macon, is secretary of the convention and will also likely be reelected to this important position which he has filled for 29 years. Rev. W. T. Granade, of Statesboro, is assistant secretary. Dr. E. J. Forester, Sparta, is treasurer.

The convention will likely draw a larger attendance this year than usual in view of the fact that a number of important matters will be discussed at the approaching session. The committee on order of business has suggested a period of several hours on the afternoon of the first day as an open conference which is intended to bring before the convention a full and frank discussion of the entire scope of the denomination's work.

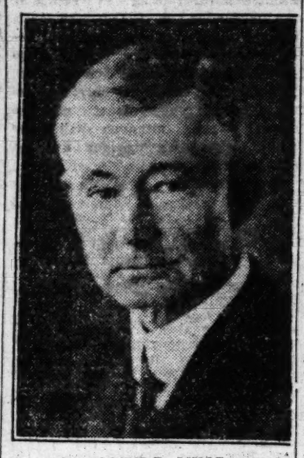
It is the belief of the committee on order of business that this open conference will prove a wholesome experience for the convention by bringing to bear all the information which any messenger may wish concerning every phase of the cooperative work of the churches.

Decrease in Receipts.

The regular reports of the convention will reveal a decrease in the receipts of the boards this year as compared with last year. This decrease is due to the drouth which cut off the money crops of a large section of the state and to other conditions which are generally believed to be operative in the minds of the people not only in the Baptist churches but in other communions. There is an apparent lessening of gifts to general causes throughout the church circles of the country. Evidence of this condition is revealed in the deficits reported by mission boards of several of the largest church bodies in the United States.

It is the hope of the leaders in the respective departments of the Baptist life of Georgia to discuss these conditions in such frankness at Savannah as to call out a renewed interest of the messengers and make next year a year of revival in the effort to spread the missionary, benevolent and educational programs of the denomination.

The exact figures of the gifts of Georgia Baptists are not yet completed and will not be available until after the books close on December 2. The report will be published at the convention which now promises to be above $400,000 for the year. This will likely result in a slight deficit on the state mission board and will show a decided decrease in the money contributed by Georgia Baptists to foreign and home missions as administered through the foreign mission board of Richmond and the home mission board in Atlanta.



DR. JOHN D. MELL.

Dr. Arch C. Cree, executive secretary of the Georgia Baptist convention, is hopeful that the response of the churches in the remaining days until the books close will swell the total to $450,000. If this amount is realized, the reports to the respective agencies will be fairly optimistic. Slight deficits will be shown in several of the educational institutions, particularly the secondary schools, but the entire amount will not be anything as large as has been reported on several occasions in the past when disasters such as the boll weevil struck the state.

Report on Missions.

The report on foreign missions, which comes on the first day of the convention, will be of vital significance in view of the present distress of that board to carry forward its work under the decreased receipts from the seventeen states of the Southern Baptist convention. Dr. J. F. Love, secretary of that board, will address the convention.

Dr. B. D. Gray, secretary of the home mission board, is expected to attend the convention and deliver an address on the second day afternoon when that report will be heard.

Among the principal addresses of the convention will be the keynote address on Wednesday morning, at the opening of the convention, by Dr. William Russell Owen, pastor of the First Baptist church, of Macon; the address of President Mell on the same morning, and the address of Dr. Arch C. Cree immediately following the president's address.

Dr. W. A. Hogan, of Lincolnton, one of the leading preachers of the state, and moderator of the Georgia association, will preach the convention sermon at noon on Wednesday.

Wednesday night's program will be devoted to a discussion of the 1926 cooperative program, the discussion, led by Dr. J. E. Dillard, pastor of the Southside Baptist church of Birmingham. Dr. Dillard is one of the most widely known preachers of the south and serves one of the largest churches in the United States.

Thursday night's program wil. be devoted to a discussion of state missions when reports on the Sunday school, B. Y. P. U., W. M. U., enlistment, and other departments will be made. Dr. Cree will be in charge of this period.

The report on education comes the second day morning and will claim the attention of the convention as perhaps no other one report. Addresses by President Weaver, of Mercer university; President Chamlee, of Bessie Tift college, and the heads of the other institutions will likely come at that hour.

Has 395,000 Members.

The Georgia Baptist convention is composed of messengers from the 2,000 white Baptist churches of the state with an aggregate membership of 395,000 persons. There are 1,100 pastors in the state and more than 2,500 Sunday schools.

On December 8, beginning at 11 o'clock, the annual pastors' and laymen's conference will be held in Savannah. Among the principal speakers for this conference are Dr. E. J. Forrester, of Sparta; R. L. Bugg, of Atlanta; Judge Frank Jenkins, of Atlanta and Eatonton, and Dr. J. T. Henderson, of Knoxville, Tenn. Dr. T. B. Rice, of Greensboro, is president of this conference and will preside at the session. Rev. L. E. Dutton, of Cartersville, is the secretary of the conference.

The Baptists of Savannah are making ample preparations for the convention. The Savannah hotel is designated by the local committee as hotel headquarters. Many courtesies will be extended by the hospitable people of that city. Eentertainment, consisting of lodging and breakfast, is offered to all pastors who apply for same to D. T. Furse, Box 987, Savannah, by December 4. The messengers are anticipating their visit to Savannah with pleasure.

TWO NEGROES HURT IN TRUCK COLLISION

Will Jordan, of 151 Martin street, and Spencer Turnipseed, of Jonesboro, negro truck drivers, were both injured Saturday morning when their trucks collided at McDaniel and Rockwell streets. Cases were made against both negroes by Call Officers J. G. Bowman and L. P. Higgins.

Can you drive your car all year round without giving its cooling system the slightest care, or even a single thought?

DEMONSTRATING ALL THIS WEEK

THE WORLD'S GREATEST MOTOR COOLING SYSTEM

Franklin's new copper-radiation air-cooling system is as far ahead of the industry in engineering as the New Franklin Designs are in style and beauty.

It not only completely erases every care, worry, handicap and expense inevitable with other cooling systems, but it permits a worth-while increase in high power.

Yet this is only one reason why the New Franklin Sedan is the finest all-year car ever made. Equally important are Franklin's flexible construction, freedom from excess weight, and transmission-type service brake.

These features protect both passengers and car on slippery, rutty roads, insure easier handling in sand and mud, and reduce skidding to a minimum. An electric primer and fuel transformer provide quick starting at all times.

One ride will show you all this—and more. A telephone call will bring a Sedan to your door.

The New Oxford Model, leather-upholstered, is now available at a small extra charge.

FRANKLIN SEDAN

FRANKLIN MOTOR CAR CO.
151 West Peachtree Street, ATLANTA, GA.
Other Franklin Dealers in This Vicinity

Rome, Ga.—G. H. Hays
Montgomery, Ala.—Salter-McKee Automobile Co.
Jacksonville, Fla.—McMurria Motor Company
Savannah, Ga.—P. S. Bacon Motor Co.
Augusta, Ga.—Marshall-Corley Company, Inc.
Macon, Ga.—Chas. H. Yates Motor Company
Columbus, Ga.—McMurria Motor Co.
Griffin, Ga.—McElroy's Garage
Athens, Ga.—Epps Garage
LaGrange, Ga.—Harry W. Hennessy
Greenville, Ga.—J. K. Simonton

Baby Swings 98c By Mail, 10c Extra.

Bass Dry Goods Co.

All Cash Mail Orders Filled

18 W. MITCHELL ST. ATLANTA, GA.

Solid Oak High Chair as Shown, $2.98

3 DAYS OF THANKSGIVING SPECIALS

RUGS RUGS RUGS

Atlanta's Lowest Rug Prices

ORDER BY MAIL

These are really wonderful values. A full 9x12-ft. high-grade seamless all-wool Brussels Art Square. Perfect quality. Such makes as Mohawk Bigelow, Hartford and Smith's at special $19.75

A genuine seamless Smith Velvet Square, full 9x12-ft., in choice Oriental patterns and beautiful colorings and perfect quality. These are wonderful values and will not last long at this low price $24.50

Here is one of Atlanta's greatest values in an art square. A seamless 9x12-ft. Smith's Axminster Square in good Oriental patterns and beautiful colors. You can't afford to miss these if you want to buy an art square $29.75

9x12-ft. Wool Fiber Squares in good colors. A wonderful value in an inexpensive square for bedrooms.. $7.95

250 Tapestry Rugs, 27x54 inches, in big line of colors. A real value going now at 98c

100 Beautiful 27x54-inch Katonah Velvet Rugs in an assortment of Oriental, floral and animal patterns. All perfects. Real $3.00 value, for $1.98

Smith 27x54-inch Axminster Rugs in good colors and patterns. A wonder at only $2.98

These you will buy in quantities. 36x63-inch Smith Axminster Rugs in best patterns and colors. Rugs most stores sell for $7.50 and up. Our price $4.95

The Home of Gold Seal Congoleum

GOLD SEAL CONGOLEUM GUARANTEE SATISFACTION GUARANTEED OR YOUR MONEY BACK

The floor covering that you know is guaranteed to give wearing satisfaction. We have for many years sold "Gold Seal" Congoleum Floor Covering, and have never sold any merchandise which has proven so satisfactory to our customers. Many colors to select from, such as tile, carpet and wood patterns. A full 9x12-ft. Square in choice of patterns (not bordered), at only..... $8.95

Congoleum Gold Seal Art Rugs Reduced

6x9-ft. Bordered Art Rugs....$6.95
7½x9-ft. Bordered Art Rugs...$9.90
9x10-½-ft. Bordered Art Rugs $12.95
9x12-ft. Bordered Art Rugs.$14.75

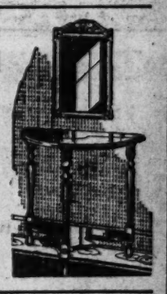
Pedestal Tables

Just the table for corners to sit lamps, ferns, or can be used for so many different things. Size of top, 14x14 inches; 29 inches high. Beautiful mahogany finish. These tables were made to sell for $5.00, but in a Special Sale at $2.98

Console Table and Mirrors

Beautiful Mahogany Console Table, in 2 beautiful designs. A wonderful value at the price. The mirror 14x24 inches. In an assortment of finished frames—

Each, $4.95



CHIFFOROBES

In 5 styles, either walnut or mahogany, a big lot of fine chifforobes. In fact, I am sure we can please you. Priced much under price because they were bought at a sacrifice price. Regular $27.50 to $65 values. Priced up from

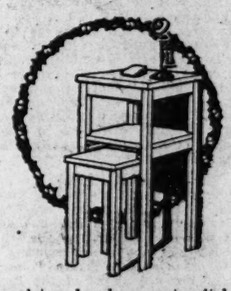
$19.75
$24.75
$29.75

$19.75

End Tables

As pictured in brown mahogany finish, very strongly built. Really a $7.50 value. Monday at .. $5.95

Telephone Sets



As pictured, phone sets (table and bench) in mahogany finish. Very strong and durable. A $7.90 value in this Sale $4.95

Davenette Tables

A large line of beautiful mahogany finish library and davenette tables in many styles to select from—every one a genuine bargain, Priced $9.95 to $19.75

Breakfast Room Suites

Look our line of unfinished breakfast room suites over. Five-piece suites priced at $10.90. Gate-leg table, buffet and servers sold separately or in suites.

Dress Flannels

Full 54 inches wide, fine wool dress flannel, in black, navy, henna, gray and pencil blue, yard $1.48

Dress Goods

Wool serges, 54 inches wide; and fine, all-wool, novelty dress goods, 36 inches wide, all colors, yard 98c

New Cloakings

$4 and $5 dress goods, new cloakings, Poiret twills, broadcloth, striped flannels; sponged and shrunk, choice, yard $1.98

Charmeuse Satin

Ten pieces, all-silk Charmeuse in black and all good colors, extra quality, a $2.69 value choice yard $1.48

Silk Umbrellas

Ladies' and Men's new silk, and Gloria silk umbrellas, at just half the regular prices.

Luncheon Sets

All-linen luncheon sets, table cloth and six napkins, in all-white and white and colors, set $3.95

Wool Blankets

Beautiful wool plaid blankets, with one-inch silk binding, all colors, pair $4.90

Good Blankets

Wool-fleeced blankets, in solid gray and tan, and pretty plaids, to sell Monday, pair $2.95

Plaid Blankets

Full double-bed size, wool-fleeced blankets (not pairs) in pretty plaids, Monday, each 98c

Heavy Comforts

Full double-bed size comforts, with neat print covers, scroll-stitched, Monday, each $2.98

Sateen Comforts

Extra large size comforts, filled with white-corded cotton, sateen covers, Monday, each $4.90

White Spreads

Full double-bed size white spreads in Marseilles patterns, to sell Monday, each $1.39

SPECIAL SALE

COATS

One hundred pretty and stylish winter coats of all-wool velour; imported tweeds, etc., in all colors and pretty sport plaids; many fur trimmed coats in the lot; all sizes and newest styles: Values to $20.00 ..... $7.90

COATS

Two hundred and ten of the season's prettiest coats in all the new, all-wool materials and all the newest styles, including the flaring skirts and straight lines; handsomely fur trimmed; all colors: Values to $30.00 ..... $14.90

COATS

These are really gorgeous coats—Bolivias, Velours, Broadcloths, Needlepoint, etc., in all the newest shades; handsomely silk-lined. All have fur collars and cuffs, some are fur trimmed on the sides: Values to $45.00 ..... $24.75

GIRLS' AND MISSES'

COATS

In all the new winter styles and all the new materials, including satin-faced broadcloths, with fur collars and cuffs and lined throughout. All colors; sizes 2 to 14 years; coats worth to $17.50 to sell Monday at

$3.90 $6.90 $9.90

SWEATERS

Infants' sweaters and four-piece sweater suits; children's school sweaters, men's and boys' slip-over and coat sweaters, women's sweaters in all styles, college sweaters; all sizes and colors:

$1.98—$2.98 and $4.98

HATS

All the latest styles in winter hats of silk velvet and satin, in black and all shades; large and small shapes; all the newest trimmings; two hundred and fifty of these regular $5 hats to sell Monday, choice $1.95

STONE MOUNTAIN BOOKLET OFFERED

A beautiful new magazine, presenting all phases of the Stone Mountain Confederate memorial, lavishly illustrated and printed on heavy calendar paper, has just been issued by the Memorial association and is now ready for sale to the public at 50 cents a copy. The magazine is entitled "Custodians of Imperishable Glory," which is taken from the address by Governor E. Lee Trinkle, of Virginia, at the commencement of work on Stone Mountain June 3, 1923, which concluded with the following peroration:

"Centuries will be born to die; age will follow age along the unending pathway of the years; cities, governments and peoples will change and perish—while yet our heroes, carved in stone, will stand on guard, custodians of imperishable glory."

On the front cover of the magazine is a remarkable nature study of Stone Mountain heretofore unpublished, showing the towering wall of gray granite slightly obscured in a mist, while a brilliant flood of sunshine falls across the trees and grass of a lovely stretch of meadow by the mountain side.

Feature Articles.

Embraced in the magazine are the following articles: "The Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial," which gives a complete description of the project; "Administration of the Memorial," which gives detailed information as to the personnel of the board of directors, the executive committee and officers, the charter and by-laws of the association, the inception of the project, etc; "The Sculptor of the Memorial," in which is presented a sketch of the life and works of Augustus Lukeman; "Confederate Veterans Praise Lukeman's Work," in which article are reproduced a most remarkable symposium of letters received from the commanding officers of United Confederate veterans and other high authorities regarding Mr. Lukeman's design for the central group; "The Confederate Memorial Half-Dollar," giving the history of the act under which these coins were minted and a list of those to whom numbered coins have been presented; "The Harvest Campaign," setting forth the general plan under which the coin sale campaign is now being conducted throughout the south under direction of southern governors; "Noblesse Oblige," which is a statement of the patriotic appeal of the coin; "The Founders' Roll," describing this very interesting feature of the plans for financing the memorial.

The magazine is made to sell for 50 cents, which price covers the cost of publication and distribution, with a profit of a few cents on each copy. The magazine is delivered in a heavy envelope very handsomely printed with a cord to secure the flap, so that the magazine is ready for mailing immediately. The rates of postage are printed on the face of the envelope cover. The association will receive orders direct for the magazine and will sell them at the studio at Stone Mountain, as well as on news stands in the city. The magnificent booklet is a complete Atlanta product. All the engraving was supplied by the Southern Engraving company.

Chapter Dissents.

Longstreet chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, of Gainesville, has adopted a resolution dissenting from the action of the Georgia division of the U. D. C. at Sandersville, and pledging its support in the campaign to complete the sale of Georgia's allotment of Confederate memorial half-dollars. The action was taken at a meeting presided over by Mrs. W. A. Roberts, president.

RECEIPTS LARGER DESPITE SLASHES

Continued From First Page.

for net incomes under $5,000, compared with 1923, and a jump of 59,811 in 1924 over 1923 in persons filing returns on net incomes of $5,000 to $50,000.

Persons enjoying incomes from $50,000 to $100,000 were 3,182 greater in 1924 than in 1923, while those having $100,000 to $300,000 incomes increased in the same period by 1,281.

The treasury has not yet completed a compilation of the income tax returns by partnerships and corporations.

BIDS ARE ASKED FOR AIR MAIL ROUTE

Continued From First Page.

league to discover new sources of supply of calcium arsenate in the south, and indicated that it was the purpose of the organization to make a careful investigation of Georgia to see if it would be possible to manufacture the calcium arsenate in this state.

The new aviation center is to be established at Ford City, Colbert county, Alabama, and it will be intended as a central aviation station for the entire south. A plentiful number of aircrafts will be kept there, and it is expected that they will be available for the dusting of cotton in almost any part of the cotton growing states of the southeast.

May Use Power.

The new air station will be known as the "Muscle Shoals Air Junction," and, while the letter did not state what was contemplated as the principal source of supply for calcium arsenate, it is surmised that it is the plan of the organizers of the league to make some use of the great water power development at Muscle Shoals.

The letter was signed by Henry Woodhouse, president of the league.

In his reply, Dr. McCallie stated that, so far as known at present, there are no arsenical ores in Georgia in sufficient quantity to make them of commercial value. He stated that at a few points there are limited amounts of arsenic pyrites, but they are apparently too small and too low in arsenic content to make it worth while for commercial exploitation.

The Aerial league, in its letter, stated that it was anxious to hear of any possible arsenic ore deposits in Georgia, with the location of the land, and, if possible, the name of the owner.

CHEST CAMPAIGN TAKES NEW TURN

Continued From First Page.

men of their congregations to volunteer in the drive work. At the same time leaders of men's Bible classes in Sunday schools also made appeals to their classes for workers.

The preliminary work of the campaign, handled by the "big gifts" committee under Dr. T. P. Hinman, the groups committee under G. C. Bowden and the neighborhood campaign, under W. R. C. Smith, will be completed this week and as a result of their work the general campaign will be called upon to raise a smaller sum this year than in either of the previous years of the Atlanta Community Chest, it was said.

Foreign Minister Regrets German Attack on Italy

Berlin, November 21.—(AP)—Foreign Minister Stresemann today attempted to lessen the sting of the attack on Premier Mussolini, of Italy, made in the reichstag yesterday by Dr. Rudolph Hilferding, socialist leader and former minister of finance.

Speaking in the reachstag today regarding the incident, which apparently embarrasses the government, Dr. Stresemann said he regretted the decision of the economic understanding between Italy and Germany should be made the occasion of sharp and insulting attacks on the Italian government and premier.

"I deem it inopportune for us to debate the affairs of others," he said, adding that the question of racial minorities, raised by Dr. Hilferding's reference to conditions in the South Tyrol "could be discussed in the League of Nations."

Count Reventlow the fascist, leader, followed with another attack on Italian government policy in the south Tyrol.

Dr. Helferding's attack came during the debate on the German-Italian trade treaty, which he said "has depreciated because it bears the signature of Mussolini.

TEN MEN ARE HELD IN FLOGGING PROBE

Moulton, Ala., November 21.—(AP) With the arrest here of four more men in connection with the clubbing of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Hall, their son Percy and a visitor, Charlie Hawkins, at their mountain home six miles from Moulton, the total held today in connection with the case was brought to 10. Six were taken into custody near here and removed to Huntsville where they have been unable to make bond of $1,000 each.

They are awaiting action of the federal grand jury in the spring.

The government's action in taking a hand in the case is unique, the federal charge being that the men invaded the premises of another in disguise for the purpose of intimidation. The department of justice has proceeded on the ground that the victims of the assault were American citizens whose rights were assailed by a masked band.

The band of men is reported to have visited the Hall home on the night of November 8, armed with cudgels, with which they severely beat Mr. and Mrs. Hall and the two young men. The aged couple was badly bruised about the head, although both are recovering at the Hall home. Hawkins was also severely hurt. He is also expected to recover. Percy Hall is less seriously injured.

SIX DEAD, 11 INJURED, IS TOLL OF ACCIDENTS

Continued From First Page.

the past year and this is the first accident in this section.

MINISTER KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT.

Wadley, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Rev. E. T. Watkins, of Wadley, was hit and instantly killed by an automobile tonight at 6 o'clock. He was crossing the road at an intersection and the accident was said to be unavoidable.

The car was driven by Wilson Spearman, an 18-year-old school boy of Wadley.

Rev. Watkins is survived by his widow and nine children, Mrs. J. J. Jarell, of Texas; Miss Vienna Watkins, of Macon; Miss Pearl Watkins, of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. J. J. Bush, of Macon; Mrs. William Donovan, of Wadley; Red Watkins, of New Orleans; Charles Watkins, of Bartow, Ga., and Brooks and Lewis Watkins.

GEORGIAN KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT.

Jacksonville, Fla., November 21.—(AP)—Automobile accidents today took a toll of one life and a second death was anticipated during the day in Jacksonville and Duval county, a child being critically injured.

Arthur R. Jackson, 23, of Jessup, Ga., was instantly killed early today when the automobile in which he was riding with two companions hurtled into a ditch on the Cleveland highway, failing to round a sharp curve while it was said to have been going at a rapid rate of speed.

J. S. Geiger, justice of the peace, viewed the body and pronounced death due to an unavoidable accident. The other passengers left the scene before their names could be ascertained.

Curtis Harris, 6, is believed dying at the St. Luke's hospital, where he was taken after being struck by an automobile driven by J. L. Oglesby, a resident of Nassau county, near Callahan. The child's skull was crushed badly, hospital attendants said.

YOUTH IS KILLED AT ANDERSONVILLE.

Americus, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Paul Landers, 15, was instantly killed this afternoon near Andersonville, when an automobile in which he was traveling overturned while going down a steep hill just beyond the Central of Georgia railroad at that place. In the car with him at the time of the accident were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Landers, and two sisters, Misses Julia and Rosemary Landers, who escaped without serious injury.

Young Landers stuck to the wheel and attempted to guide the car in the middle of the road, which probably cost his life.

The party was en route from Marion, Ill., where the family had lived, to Panama City, Fla., where they had planned to make their home.

A short distance from where the accident occurred the car was stopped and an effort was made to locate the trouble which had developed. It was after this stop that young Landers found the trouble was with the brakes which he managed to release. Instantly the car plunged forward, although the engine was not working and the clutch was out. He became excited and soon lost control of the machine. His body was badly mangled and death was instantaneous.

The body was brought here and prepared for burial, being sent to Marion tonight for funeral and interment there.

Suffering from accidental gunshot wounds, Charles Slappey, young son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Slappey, is a patient at the Americus and Sumter County hospital.

In company with several young friends, Slappey was hunting in the woods near Andersonville, where his parents reside, when a gun held by his younger brother was unaccountably discharged. The charge made an ugly wound in the youngster's forearm, but physicians who are attending him say he will soon recover.

VALUABLE HORSES KILLED IN WRECK.

Bainbridge, Ga., November 21.—(AP) Ten race horses, valued at $3,000 to $20,000 each, were killed early today when an Atlantic Coast Line passenger train was derailed three miles from here. The horses, in charge of George Aaron, were en route from Kentucky to Miami for the winter racing season.

Eight of the horses were killed outright and two others died later in the day.

Seven of the passengers suffered slight injuries. Traffic was delayed several hours. The cause of the wreck has not been learned.

THREE PERSONS HURT AT LUMBER CITY.

Lumber City, Ga., November 21.—(AP)—Three persons are in serious condition here, the result of an automobile wreck on the Dixie highway Friday night.

Those injured are Otis Renfroe and Misses Oneda Webb and Myrtle Rogers.

Miss Webb has a crushed knee and is badly cut on the body and head. Miss Rogers is suffering from internal bruises and a gash on the head. Renfroe has both legs broken and is badly bruised about the head.

Tom Britt, driver, who escaped injury when the car turned over, is in jail, charged with driving a car while under the influence of liquor.

GRADE CROSSING ACCIDENT FATAL.

Waycross, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Nat Bagley, who was seriously injured in a grade-crossing accident near Willacoochee yesterday, when an Atlantic Coast Line train collided with an automobile in which he was riding, died early this morning at the Atlantic Coast Line hospital here.

Bagley suffered a fractured skull and was badly bruised. He was rushed to the local railroad hospital where every medical attention was rendered.

He is survived by one brother, R. H. Bagley, of Nichols. The body was sent to Nichols, Ga., his home, today where funeral services and interment will be held.

TANK EXPLOSION FATAL TO FARMER.

Wrightsville, Ga., November 21.—(AP)—John Bray, prominent Johnson county farmer, died Friday night from burns received in an explosion of gasoline at the Bray plantation Thursday night.

Members of the family were filling a tank with gasoline, one holding a lantern, when the fumes exploded.

John Bray, Jr., and Halley Bray, sons, also were badly burned.

The automobile in which they were filling the tank was destroyed.

GANGSTER'S BROTHER KILLS COURT WITNESS

Continued From First Page

er, Mike, yesterday. He also maintained that Minatti was implicated in the death of another Vinci brother, slain a year ago.

Vinci shot just as Minatti denied knowing Mike Vinci or the man who shot him.

"When he denied knowing my brother," Vinci said, "I was sure he had killed Mike and I killed him.

"I aimed straight at his heart. I looked around and I was careful that I did not hit any one else. There is nothing to be sorry for. His death was nothing more than what my poor brothers had to suffer."

MONEY COLLECTED BY TAG CANVASSER SEIZED BY POLICE

Police Saturday confiscated the sum of $22.15 from a young woman giving the name of Miss Karine Austin, of an Inman Park address, on complaint that she had sold a tag at Edgewood and Pryor streets representing that proceeds were to go to the Community Chest.

Captain A. J. Holcomb stated the young woman told him she was selling the tags on a percentage basis and was unacquainted with the use to which the money was to be devoted. The tag bore the name of "Loyal Harvesters," which organization had a permit to sell tags on the streets Saturday.

No case was made against Miss Austin and Chief of Police Jett will decide Monday what is to be done with the confiscated money.

TAXABLE PROPERTY SHOWS HUGE GAINS

Continued From First Page.

rate of 5 mills, will be $5,741,353.55. In addition to the total amount of taxable property returned, there is a total of professional tax for the year of $90,480, and the number of polls in the state is given as 379,245.

Comparison of the classified property value in the state as a whole for the three years, 1923, 1924 and 1925, is as follows:

	1923	1924	1925
Aggregate value of land	$302,286,282	$299,738,196	$298,198,844
City and town property	380,685,091	411,255,784	424,183,124
Shares in banks	41,367,084	39,124,692	38,713,126
Stocks and bonds	6,150,802	4,374,221	4,933,280
Money and solvent debts	53,030,153	53,795,954	47,851,306
Building and loan associations	387,408	506,213	122,692
Merchandise	63,176,381	61,519,559	64,583,136
Automobiles	18,925,218	20,318,425	22,282,560
Manufacturers	57,429,123	66,656,329	60,151,470
Iron works	1,444,463	1,300,691	1,279,188
Mines and mining	61,028	36,805	27,785
Household goods	35,256,833	34,678,543	34,932,747
Jewelry	1,806,594	1,739,571	1,760,987
Horses and mules	21,682,921	19,584,408	18,847,306
Cattle	7,600,965	6,737,376	6,526,223
Sheep and goats	120,807	104,065	110,387
Hogs	2,232,643	1,682,860	1,596,610
Dogs	147,547	133,602	134,537
Timber lands & mineral leases	1,928,863	1,981,532	1,776,887
Wagons and pinatation tools	8,404,996	7,763,911	7,686,750
Cotton and corn	1,057,827	559,945	399,340
Defaulters	1,601,396	1,835,357	1,498,418
All other property	7,962,084	7,169,849	7,797,587

Tech Professor Will Play Villain in Brolund Movie

Miss Pearl Bessent and Professor John William Jefferies, who will play leading roles in Atlanta movie.

John William Jefferies, professor of merchandising and advertising at Georgia Tech, has been chosen to play the role of the villain in the moving picture comedy which is to be filmed in Atlanta, under sponsorship of The Constitution and with "Slim" Brolund, famous screen star, in the feature role.

With the announcement made Saturday morning that Miss Pearl Bessent, of 190 Ponce de Leon avenue, would be the leading lady for this picture, the cast which is to enact the screaming farce entitled "An Atlanta Romance," is rapidly filling up.

"Tigers" Will Appear.

Another announcement made by Mr. Brolund Saturday in regard to his cast, is that the "Briarcliff Tigers," among the leading contenders for the football championship of the Atlanta Sandlot league, have been selected to appear in the film. There is one situation where a young man, fresh from the country, inadvertently wanders onto a football field during the big game between the "Tigers" and the "Wildcats." What happens to the unsophisticated youth is a-plenty.

In giving instructions to the "Tigers," in their work before the camera, Mr. Brolund made it plain that he expected them not to "pull their punches," and that he, as the innocent youth, desires to be rough-handled in the most approved fashion. The "Tigers" replied that they did not care how far they went and assured him the treatment would be rough enough, if he would just "leave it to them."

The "Briarcliff Tigers" include the following well-known Atlanta youngsters:

Bert Blair, Marvin Williams, Bill Stayton, Charles Whitaker, Leonard Day, Asa W. Candler, Deneen McCormack, James Payne, Alfred McCash, Josh Davis, John Howard, John Ezell, Allan Davis, Louis Regenstein, Malcolm Keiser, Jack Hair, Frank Markert, Hadley Shelton, Eliott Hass and others.

Former Army Officer.

Professor Jefferies, selected for the villain of the play, has been on the Tech faculty for four years. He is a graduate of the U. S. Military academy, having left the service in 1918. He graduated from Tech in 1922. He has traveled for grain brokers and has spent much time in various cities of the country, but states that in his opinion Atlanta is the ideal American city and therefore located here. He is well known among local business men.

Mr. Jefferies has played in several moving pictures made by the old Edison company and brings considerable acting experience to his work for the local screen comedy.

"An Atlanta Romance" will be shown for an entire week at the Howard theater, after it is screened. Many prominent Atlanta people will take part and all scenes will be laid in the stores, streets and parks of the city.

CITY, COUNTY WORKS BACK FIREMEN'S HIKE

Continued From First Page

lieve the city is able to pay you men the additional wages you ask," said Mr. Florence.

Jenkins Urges Aid.

J. S. Jenkins, fireman of No. 11 engine company, made a strong appeal to the members to support the firemen in their fight.

Necessity of a special session of city council prior to the general city election December 2 was pointed out Saturday by City Clerk Walter C. Taylor. It is necessary that council adopt a registration list and the next regular session of council falls on December 7, five days after the scheduled election, he said. In addition to the firemen's referendum, Atlanta voters on election day are to formally elect the nominees for council and heads of departments, chosen in the white primary last September.

DAVIDSON RAPS ALLEN'S THREAT.

An attack on Councilman Cecil G. Allen, of the second ward, who, he alleges, has threatened to seek a court injunction to prohibit the public referendum December 2 to determine salary raises for city firemen, was contained in a statement issued Saturday by E. A. Davidson, city fireman and chairman of the referendum campaign committee.

Davidson's statement follows:

"According to newspaper reports, Mr. C. G. Allen, councilman from the second ward, thinks the people shallow and incapable of grasping the meaning of the petition they signed requesting a raise referendum for the firemen. He charges deceit and intends getting an injunction on these grounds.

"I hardly think the people will appreciate the slam handed them. Neither do I believe that he can convince any judge that there are 10,000 people in Atlanta who are so simple as to request something they don't want.

"He says they were misled into signing something they didn't understand, notwithstanding the fact that the proposition was stated in simple language.

"Mr. Allen thus reflects on the intelligence of the people he represents and is unaware of the fact he has insulted them.

"From all indications the people do understand and are going to vote accordingly, Mr. Allen deceives himself only.

(Signed) "E. A. DAVIDSON,
"Chairman Referendum Committee."

FRENCH PREMIER THREATENS TO QUIT

Paris, November 21.—(AP)—The chamber of deputies, upon Premier Painleve's threatening to resign if the discussion on the government's finance bills were not hastened, decided today to hold a session at 9 o'clock tomorrow and then adjourn. The chamber has voted only two articles of the government measure since last night, although sitting until 7 o'clock this morning and resuming at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

In making his appeal, M. Painleve said: "I address a supreme appeal to your patriotism, your endurance, to finish this debate. If my appeal is not responded to it will be impossible for me to conserve longer the responsibility of the government."

Former Premier Herriot, leader of the radical socialists, seconded M. Paineleve, assuring him that the chamber has always responded to an appeal to its patriotism. M. Painleve then fixed tomorrow morning for its session and this was accepted without opposition.

After a skirmish in which M. Valiant-Courturier reproached the government for repressing the communists while allowing the fascist and like organizations, such as the Patriots' league, ample liberty, the discussion of interpellations relative to the "blue shirts," or fascisti, their propaganda and organization, was adjourned until the second Friday in December.

Lee's Bodyguard Coming To Visit Stone Mountain

The faithfulness of an old-time negro slave, told in song and story, will be shown in Atlanta Tuesday when a former bodyguard and cook to one of the world's greatest soldiers, General Robert E. Lee, will visit Stone Mountain to see the monument to his former master.

He is William McLee, now 87 years old and living in Norfolk, Va. He is a member of the Pickett and Buchanan Confederate Veterans camp.

He is to arive in Atlanta over the Seaboard Air Line railroad next Tuesday.

Notice of his coming was sent to Acting Chief of Police E. L. Jett by W. S. McClure of Norfolk. He wrote to Chief Jett and asked that the negro be provided with a good home while in Atlanta and be carried to Stone Mountain to see the memorial there.

Chief Jett wrote Saturday to McLee and advised him that he will be met when the Seaboard train arrived. "You will find many friends in Atlanta and I am sure you will have a good time here. We will expect you at the time mentioned in Mr. McClure's letter," Chief Jett wrote.

McLee served with General Lee throughout the civil war as body servant and cook. Chief Jett is arranging for a place for him to stay while in Atlanta and will send representatives to the train to meet him.

2 PRISONERS ESCAPE FROM CITY STOCKADE

A daring jail delivery was made early Saturday night from the city stockade by two prisoners, serving 30-day sentences each, by sawing the bars on a second story window and dropping to the ground. They were, Paul Harris, of 324 West Tenth street and Orin Bass alias Roy Bowden alias J. M. Bowers, alias Robert Durham.

Bass also was being held for the state court under a $300 bond on a charge of operating an automobile while drunk. Harris had served nearly half his sentence, police said.

EIGHT AUTOMOBILES STOLEN IN ONE DAY

Despite recent activity of the police and detectives in arresting automobile thieves, eight reports of stolen cars were received at police headquarters Saturday.

Cars were taken from every section of the city. Owners and addresses follow: George Goodale, 87 Walton street; T. B. Bryan, 133 East 17th street; B. J. Glass, 333 Pearson street; Miss L. I. Clark, 1423 Peachtree road; Homer Knight, 38 Eddy street; A. H. Crawford, 15 Ivy street; T. J. Lowe, 421 Courtland street; and Arthur Fleming, Smyrna.

MAN GOES INSANE WHILE WATCHING GIRL EAT ECLAIR

Paris, November 21.—(AP)—The sight of a young woman eating a chocolate eclair with great relish outside his glass cage caused Albert Wolly, a professional faster, to go violently insane. After gazing fixedly at the fast disappearing dainty in the girl's fingers, Wolly suddenly arose, seized his chair and smashed the glass in an effort to reach the food.

He was taken to a hospital, raving. The faster was on the twelfth of his scheduled 30 foodless and sleepless days, and had been an attraction in a busy Paris thoroughfare, where his cage was installed in a large hall.

NATION-WIDE WAR UPON RACE TRACK GAMBLING PLANNED

Washington, November 21.—(AP)—Reform associations are planning to launch a nation-wide legal war on race-track gambling.

A committee to bring legal action in several states is being organized here with the backing of the International Reform federation, the Civic League of New York, the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Morals and anti-race-track associations in Maryland, Louisiana and Kentucky.

CLARA MORRIS' BODY TAKEN TO NEW YORK

New Canaan, Conn., November 21.—(AP)—The body of Clara Morris, noted actress, who died here yesterday, was taken to New York this afternoon for funeral services at the Little Church Around the Corner on Monday at 4 p. m. The burial will be in Kensico cemetery, New York, on Tuesday.

Rader Charge of Non-Religion In Colleges Shown Unfounded

More than 80 per cent of the college students of Georgia are church members and only two students in the entire state expressed unbelief in God, according to statistics made public Saturday by Professor Joseph S. Stewart, of the department of secondary education at the University of Georgia.

These figures were compiled by Professor Stewart after the Rev. Luke Rader, an evangelist, had charged in a sermon delivered in Atlanta Sunday, October 18, that 50 per cent of the students entering colleges "believe in God," while only five per cent leave college in this belief.

To get information as to these charges Professor Thomas sent out a questionnaire in which he asked the following questions:

What per cent of this year's freshman class do not believe in God?

What per cent of this year's freshman class are church members?

What per cent of this year's senior class believe in God?

What per cent of this year's senior clas sare church members?

Replies were received to the query from Agnes Scott college, Bessie Tift, Brenau, Emory university, LaGrange college, Mercer, Shorter college, Piedmont college, Wesleyan, Georgia Southwestern college, Georgia Tech, North Georgia Agricultural college, State Normal school and the University of Georgia, which are virtually all the leading educational institutions.

It was shown that an average of more than 85 per cent of the freshmen are church members and that more than 75 per cent of the seniors are church members making a grand average of more than 80 per cent for all the schools.

In all these institutions only two students declared their unbelief in God and these were in a girls' college.

Nearly all the heads of the institutions wrote Professor Stewart letters denying indignantly statements that college students do not believe in God and that they are turned out of colleges with their belief in God shaken.

Professor Stewart summarized his finding as follows:

The public high schools are fit places to train the youth in cooperation with the local churches and the home, as all but 8 per cent of the nearly 3,000 freshmen reported come from these schools.

The Georgia colleges without exception are fit places for Georgia youth during the post adolescent years, when they rethink their religion and still show almost unanimous belief in religious life.

No college or group of colleges has a monopoly on things religious but all respect the religious beliefs of their students and throw a wholesome environment about them.

The many different churches are caring for the youth in the colleges affiliated with them as never before, as witness the appointment by the Baptists of a student assistant to the local church at Athens to care for students at the university affiliated with that denomination.

GOVERNMENT LIFTS CATTLE QUARANTINE

Washington, November 21.—(AP)—The department of agriculture today issued an order, effective December 10, lifting cattle tick quarantine in 601 counties in the south and partially removing the quarantine in 121 other counties.

The infested area in North Carolina was released from the quarantine, leaving this state entirely free from the restrictions which now make six states free from the disease including California, Georgia, Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Today's action, the department says, means that since the campaign against the tick was begun, 601 counties have been freed from the pest and 121 others partially freed.

The department of agriculture began the campaign against the cattle tick in 1906 when 984 counties in 15 southern states were infested. The territory to be released in the various states follows:

Arkansas—Crawford and Cleburne counties, the remainder of Van Buren and part of Jefferson counties.

Alabama—Bibb, Shelby and the remainder of Jefferson counties.

Florida—Bay, Calhoun, Gulf, Jackson, Liberty, Martin, Washington, and parts of Franklin, Holmes, Okaloosa and Walton counties.

North Carolina—Brunswick, Carteret, Columbus, Craven, Jones, Onslow and Pamlico counties.

Oklahoma—Latimer and parts of Choctaw and Pushmataha counties.

Areas requarantined include the remainder of Mobile county in Alabama; Cameron, Calcasieur, Vermilion and the remainder of Catahoula parishes in Louisiana and parts of the counties of Brooks, Duval, Kenedy and Jim Wells in Texas.

RECORD PRICE PAID FOR SADDLE HORSE; $25,000 IS FIGURE

Kansas City, Mo., November 21.—(AP)—What is said to be the highest price ever paid for a saddle horse was given at the American royal livestock show here late today, when Mrs. W. M. Matson, San Francisco, paid $25,000 for Chief Longview, owned by Mrs. Loula Long Combs of Kansas City.

QUEENA MARIO TO WED IN CHICAGO WEDNESDAY

New York, November 21.—(AP)—Miss Queena Mario, whose debut with the Metropolitan Opera company took place in 1922, will leave tomorrow for Chicago, where she will be married on Wednesday noon to Wilfred Pelletier, also of the Metropolitan Opera company.

Tire Punctured 857 Times Leaks No Air

A new and amazing scientific puncture-proof discovery has been perfected by Mr. O. S. Nelson, S-610 Logan Bldg., Mitchell, South Dakota, with which an automobile tire was punctured 857 times without loss of air. Makes all old as well as new tires puncture-proof. It increases the mileage of tires enormously. Makes ordinary tire troubles go forever. Prevents tire changing. It is inexpensive. Mr. Nelson wants agents and is willing to send samples for demonstration at his own risk. Write him today.—(adv.)

Atlanta Biltmore
ATLANTA, GEORGIA
Where Southern Hospitality Flowers
One of the greatest of the famous Bowman chain, and the South's most superb hotel.
Surpassing comfort.
RATES: Single, $3.50, $4.00, $5.00 Double, $6.00, $7.00, $8
Write for latest booklet "C"
ATLANTA BILTMORE HOTEL COMPANY
HOLLAND B. JUDKINS, Vice Pres.-Mgr.
WILLIAM C. ROYER, Associate Mgr.

That Baby You've Longed For

Mrs. Burton Advises Women on Motherhood and Companionship.

"For several years I was denied the blessing of motherhood," writes Mrs. Margaret Burton of Kansas City. "I was terribly nervous and subject to periods of terrible suffering and melancholia. Now I am the proud mother of a beautiful little daughter and a true companion and inspiration to my husband. I believe hundreds of other women would like to know the secret of my happiness, and I will gladly reveal it to any married woman who will write me." Mrs. Burton offers her advice entirely without charge. She has nothing to sell, but will appreciate it if those writing her will enclose stamps to cover postage. Letters should be addressed to Mrs. Margaret Burton, 152 Massachusetts, Kansas City, Mo. Correspondence will be strictly confidential. —(adv.)

Stop Rheumatism In 48 Hours

Don't suffer from those terrible stabbing pains of Rheumatism, sciatica, neuritis, gout and swollen joints. No matter how much you suffer, or how old or stubborn your case—or what you have tried—I confidently predict your trouble will yield to my famous Anti-Rumatix treatment, and your pain will vanish seemingly like magic. Many sufferers get amazing relief in a few hours. To prove it, I am offering to send a $1 treatment absolutely free and postpaid to every sufferer who writes me. Since this never costs you anything and does not obligate you in any way, write for the free treatment today, and prove at my risk that you can be rid of Rheumatism. AUGUST EYSSELL, Dept. 10 Eyssell Laboratories, Kansas City, Mo.

Winter Haven

The Capital of Florida's Orange Industry

Nowhere is Florida's industrial solidity better demonstrated than at Winter Haven—where millions of boxes of citrus fruit are grown and shipped each season to all parts of the United States. Five huge packing plants, one the largest in the world, are at Winter Haven. Five citrus nurseries, including the largest in the world, are located here.

No wonder, then, that Polk County is the richest county per capita in the world! And that property values are increasing daily. Write today for information about the wonderful residential and resort features of Winter Haven and the opportunities for profit in Florida's citrus capital.

Haven-Villa Corporation
Atlanta Branch Hurt Bldg.
MAIL NOW

Haven-Villa Corporation
Atlanta, Ga.
Gentlemen:—Send me your free descriptive booklet of Winter Haven and information as to how I can become a guest on your next Pullman De Luxe tour.
Name.....
Address.....

CANARIES
Loud, Sweet Day and Night Singers
Largest stock to Select from—
$3.25 to $15.00

Parrots
Large Double Yellow Head Birds, guaranteed to talk—$10.50
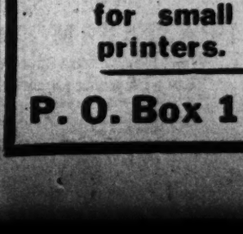
while they last. Also Isle of Pines, Yellow Neck Panamas and Red Heads.
Large White Sulphur-crested Cockatoos, Love Birds, Goldfinches and Bullfinches.
BIRD CAGES
of all descriptions, Round Brass Dome Cages—
$4.00
$7.00 Values
CAGE STANDS
$6.85
$10.00 Values

Persian Cats and Kittens. Scotch Collies, Spitz, Boston Bulls, Airedales, Fox Terriers and Police Puppies. Supplies of all kinds. We ship to all points and guarantee safe arrival.
Banker Pet & Poultry Co.
68 Edgewood Ave., Atlanta, Ga.

DR. T. Y. YOUNG
Famous Herb Specialist in Atlanta Over 18 years.

Don't Delay! Call at Once!
Male or Female Call or Write
No matter what your trouble is, no matter how serious your disease may be, Dr. Young's Herb Treatment will surely help you.
No dangerous drugs or surgical operations. All diseases treated with my pure nature herbs—with astounding results in every case.
THE ORIENTAL HERB CO.
83 Auburn Ave. Atlanta, Ga.
Hours: 9:00 A. M. to 7:00 P. M.



DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

Mother! It's Cruel to "Physic" Your Child

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" every day or two was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which regulates the bowels. A single dose will establish natural, healthy bowel movement for weeks at a time, even if the child was chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it is often months before another dose is necessary. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and so pleasant that even a cross, feverish, bilious, sick child gladly takes it.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicines and just see for yourself.

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

FOR SALE
Flat newsprint paper suitable for small publishers and job printers. The price is right
P. O. Box 1731, Atlanta, Ga.

DAVISON-PAXON-STOKES CO.

AFFILIATED WITH R. H. Macy & Co. Inc. NEW YORK CITY.

Don't Fail To See The Passion Play Picture---Auditorium, Week of Nov. 30---Sponsored by The Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs

By the way—

There are only 27 shopping days before Christmas!

The season is actually upon us. Most people don't think about it until Christmas bells and holly wreaths appear.

Now is the time to begin your hunt for Christmas Gifts. We are advertising daily countless attractive, appropriate gifts, at prices as low as the lowest in the city on merchandise of like quality.

Make up that list now, and get the burden of your shopping out of the way before the hectic, last-minute rush prevents you from taking time to think and plan and enjoy your gift-buying.

Holiday Hints at Our Usual 'Low-as-the-Lowest' Prices

Make It a Gift of Gloves!

French Kid Gauntlets
$4.50 and $4.95 Pr.

SMART flare cuffs, or the trim turn-back styles in these glace and suede French kid gauntlet gloves. Either mode is good with the prevailing fashions in long, tight sleeves. Several distinctive patterns. Many colors.

Washable Fabric Gloves
$3.75 and $3.95 Pr.

NATURAL colored chamois and white Doette gloves that are extremely smart for dress wear. They are in slip-on styles, with the chic picot edge topping them off. A joy to wear because you can wash them so easily!

Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co. Street Floor

Another Purchase Through R. H. Macy & Co., Inc.

Heavily Plated

Silver Vegetable Dishes

$5.00 Each

The woman who takes pride in her housekeeping is most particular about her table. Give her silver candlesticks, or silver hollowware and you have paid her a compliment as well as presented her with a useful, beautiful, valuable gift.

BEAUTIFUL! And with a cover of such depth that it makes a second vegetable dish in itself. There is the same dish with divisions making it suitable for three vegetables, at $5.95.

Sterling Silver Candlesticks

$4.95 Pair

HAMMERED SILVER, engraved, or plain—beautiful candlesticks, rich as platinum! There is no lovelier gift! And at the holiday season they are offered to you at an amazing price—possible only through our Macy affiliation which affords us the best at the lowest possible cost!

Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co. Street Floor

To Be Embroidered

Unbleached Bed Spreads, $1.89

Full-sized bed spreads to be embroidered. In pastel shades. Fringe to finish, from 25c to 35c.

Pillow Cases, 98c Pr. Usually $1.25

Regular size. Two patterns to choose from.

Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co. Second Floor.

Bed Spreads---Special Values!

Krinkled Spreads
$1.98 Each

Krinkled spreads—which means that they don't crinkle or get mussed easily. With Bolster attached. In pink, blue and gold.

Candlewick Spreads
$3.95 Each

Handsome bed spreads made in North Georgia by a special weaving process. With bolster attached. Blue, pink, and gold.

Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co. Street Floor

The Metallic Mode IN FASHIONABLE HATS

$5.84

Some Sparkle with Rhinestones
Some Glow with Metallic Brocades
Some Flash with Metallic Embroidery
Some Twinkle with Beaded Designs

BUT ALL ARE SCINTILLATING EXAMPLES OF "THE METALLIC MODE"

Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co. Second Floor.

Short Skirts Demand

All-Silk Hose

$1.95 Pr.

Chiffon—Full-Fashioned!

Amazing Quality! Amazing Price!

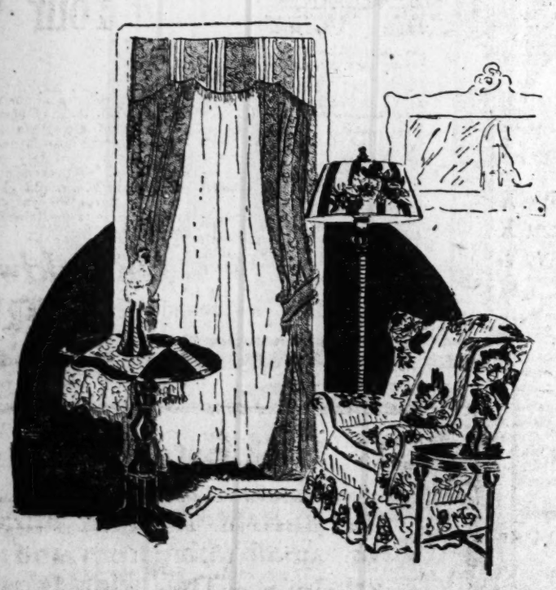
The silk tops give one a feeling of security—that luxurious, "silk-all-the-way-up" feeling that is yours only when you are wearing the best in hosiery! Atmosphere, crash, champagne, blush, gunmetal, and French nude—the leading shades.

Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co. Street Floor

Of Course the House Must Look Its Best for the Holidays!

Curtains and Curtain Materials

Fresh, crisp curtains at the windows—what a difference they make in the appearance of the whole house, within and without! Get them up, now, and out of the way before Christmas and company descend upon you with a rush!



Filet Net Curtains
$1.14 Pair

Usual Price Would Be $1.49 Pr.

Beautiful quality figured filet net—as dainty a pair of curtains as one could desire. Your room will assume a brighter, fresher air—for it is amazing how new, sheer curtains can dress up a whole room! Several attractive patterns.

Dimity and Marquisette

Curtaining
39c Yd.

Dimity curtaining that is charming for bed room or breakfast room. Marquisette curtaining, for any part of the house—in ivory, with blue, rose, or gold dots. Also in cross-bar designs in several light, pretty shades. All 36 inches wide.

45-Inch Rayon, $1.49 Yd.

Usual Price Would Be $1.98 Yd.

In designs and colors that make charming draperies. The fabric itself is very serviceable and highly practical—for it is easily washed, and the colors are guaranteed fast.

Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co. Fifth Floor

The Foundation of the Perfectly Appointed Table---

Linen Table Cloths

$1.98 Each

So Low Priced Only Because of a Very Special Purchase!

50 inches square, cloths ready hemmed, of beautiful quality linen. Checked in big squares of gold, blue, or lavender. They give an air of festivity—and are extremely smart and new.

Just imagine—one of these gold checked, sheer linen cloths on your Thanksgiving table, with a bowl of golden chrysanthemums in the center—gleaming silver—glasses—and King Turkey! In such a setting the dinner tastes twice as good!

Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co. Street Floor

The Gift for Car Owners—

Auto Robes
$9.94 Each

All Wool

Warm and snug! You can ride for hours, in bitter weather, and not suffer from wind or cold, if you are wrapped up in one of these all-wool rugs. Their dark colorings are pretty as well as practical.

Comfort Is the Word!

All Wool Filled Comforts
$9.94

Usually $10.89

72x88 inches. The kind that tuck in all round, and keep you so warm you'll simply hate to roll out in the morning! Rose, or blue borders.

Davison-Paxon-Stokes Co. Street Floor

JAY-CEES SPONSOR WEEK OF THANKS

"Atlanta's Thanksgiving Week" will be observed, beginning today and continuing through Saturday under auspices of the junior chamber of commerce, during which time citizens will be asked to give thanks for the things that make this city great.

Mayor Walter A. Sims Saturday issued a proclamation setting aside the entire week as "Thanksgiving Week" and urging Atlantans to join in expressions of gratitude for benefits bestowed by the Gracious Giver and invoke a continuance of His favor.

The people of Atlanta, in common with those of the nation, never have had greater reason to be thankful than in this year which is drawing to a close, Mayor Sims pointed out in the proclamation. The advantages Atlanta enjoys are too manifold to enumerate in one day of thanksgiving, so the junior chamber taking cognizance of this fact, suggested that the entire week embracing Thanksgiving be observed, the proclamation sets forth.

John M. Slaton, Jr., president of the junior chamber, Saturday announced the appointment of a committee composed of Frank Maloney, chairman; Charles E. Boynton, Jr., vice chairman; Frank L. Stanton, Jr., and Atha Baugh, to represent the junior chamber in carrying out the week's observance. This committee is to have charge of all publicity for the week, and will issue daily articles dealing with the observance.

The keynote of the week's celebration is to be the new prosperity which has come upon Atlanta and the rest of the nation, with Atlanta having the finest people in the world, the best organizations and great achievements to her credit, said Mr. Slaton in announcing the committee.

89th Birthday Is Celebrated By Dr. Cleveland

Memories of nearly three-quarters of a century of service to mankind were brought to mind Thursday in celebration of his eighty-ninth birthday by Dr. Thomas P. Cleveland, of 100 Highland View, when lifelong friends showered him with congratulations.

Particularly pleasing to Dr. Cleveland were the visits of many couples he married years ago, and the children of the third and fourth generations of his friends.

Cards of congratulations were received from many of his former pastorates. Dr. Cleveland is chaplain of Camp 159, United Confederate Veterans, having served in General Longstreet's corps during the war between the states.

He was born in Washington, Ga., and after attending schools, graduated at Princeton, and later from Columbia theological seminary. He served three years in the war between the states, and after the surrender at Appomattox he began his ministerial work at the Pavli Presbyterian church near Athens.

Dr. Cleveland was pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Gainesville for twelve years, and taught Latin, Greek and logic in the Georgia Baptist Female seminary (now Brenau college). He was at one time principal of the old Gainesville college, and was Hall county school commissioner for years.

In Atlanta, Dr. Cleveland served as pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian (now Westminster) church, the Wallace Memorial church and the Hapeville Presbyterian church. He retired from active service a few years ago. He was associated with the late Professor T. A. E. Means both in the Gainesville college and the Sunny South military academy in Atlanta.

Presbyterian Church At Morningside Holds First Services Today

First services since the church was organized last Sunday will be held today at the Morningside Presbyterian church with Rev. Carl McMurray presiding, it was announced Saturday. The new church will begin its work with a full organization of church committees, Sunday school, Christian Endeavor, woman's auxiliary and other branches.

Rev. Mr. McMurray came to Atlanta from Princeton and served as associate to Dr. J. Sprole Lyons, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, until he took up his duties in the Morningside territory last July.

The new church received its charter and was organized with impressive ceremonies Sunday, November 15, Dr. Lyons conducting the ceremonies. Rev. McMurray is a graduate of the South Carolina Presbyterian college, University of South Carolina, Columbia seminary and Princeton university. He served as an ensign in the United States navy during the world war.

Associated with the minister in his ministerial work will be the newly elected elders as follows: W. G. Vaughn, B. G. Jeffries and F. W. Schanck. The deacons are C. M. Lanham, W. R. Buck, W. B. Walthour and J. B. Bost.

COLQUITT MANDAMUS HEARING CONTINUED

Hearing of the petition by Colquitt county authorities for a mandamus to compel Peter F. Bahnsen, state veterinarian, to establish dipping vats for cattle in that county so that a cattle tick quarantine may be lifted, was continued Saturday in Fulton superior court until next Saturday, when a date for the hearing will be set for some day in the following week.

DELTA TAU PLEDGES HOSTS AT SMOKER

Emory University, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—The Beta Epsilon chapter of Delta Tau Delta was entertained at an elaborate smoker given by the pledges on Thursday night at the chapter house on Emory drive. Sandwiches, punch, fruit and a variety of cigars and cigarettes were served.

The pledges of the chapter are Julian Dell, president; Stephen C. Tate, vice president; Alexander Boone, secretary and treasurer; William Mitchell, "Red" Fischer, Clarence Powers, Harold White, Norman Hatcher, W. C. Horton and Floyd Faber.

CHATTANOOGA PASTOR IN COLUMBUS REVIVAL

Columbus, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Dr. John W. Inza, of Chattanooga, has arrived here to conduct a 10-day revival campaign which started Sunday morning at the First Baptist church.

Dr. Inza is a national chaplain of the American Legion and pastor of the First Baptist church of Chattanooga. The chaplain was the first man to hold the office of national chaplain.

State Institution To Use Constitution Feature as Means Of Teaching Deaf and Dumb

The unique idea of using the illustrated strip "High Lights of History" which is running as a popular newspaper feature in The Constitution as a means of teaching leading facts in history to pupils at the state school for the deaf and dumb at Cave Springs, is being worked out with much success by Professor James C. Harris, head of that institution, it was revealed Tuesday.

Value of this idea in teaching his pupils was impressed on the mind of Professor Harris when he first saw them used in The Constitution and he at once took steps to see if the strip could be used in his school. Professor Harris, who is recognized by the State Teachers' association as the dean of Georgia's active teachers, first applied for permission to use these strips in his institution when he discovered the feature was copyrighted. He then took the matter up with the McClure Newspaper syndicate and asked for a complete set of the matrices.

The simplicity of teaching history, particularly of the early colonial history of the American colonies, by means of a series of illustrated articles giving the pupils a graphic view of the various outstanding events formed the chief appeal to Professor Harris and his success with the work has been remarkable. As he goes further into the plan he is thinking of extending the method to instruction in other subjects.

"This is a remarkable tribute to the value of this tabloid history to bring the events in simple, easily-understood form to the eye of the deaf child," Professor Harris said in discussing his unique work. "The eye gate is the deaf child's approach to any study, for with the eye he must both see and hear. I am glad to find such clear and faithful pictures as an aid for the history classes in the school and no doubt these are being enjoyed by the children as their work is made easier thereby."

From the matrices of the series of strips Professor Harris has had stereotyped plates cast and at the school has the pictures reproduced when needed.

Many other subscribers to The Constitution are showing marked interest in the "High Lights of History" and are preserving a file of the pictures so they may have a serial chronological set of them for use for their children in the home.

The unusual experiment, which Professor Harris has conducted in teaching the deaf children through the "High Lights of History" is expected to broaden the entire field of this class of instruction which is necessarily limited because of the deficiencies of the pupils.

Public Is Invited To George Speech On World Court

Senator Walter F. George will address an open meeting of the Woman's club at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon on the subject, "The World Court," it was announced Saturday by Mrs. Hamilton Douglas.

Due to many requests to Mrs. Norman Sharp, president of the club, it was decided to invite the public to the lecture. Senator George is to introduce a bill at the next session of the senate calling for American participation in the world court.

FINAL RITES MONDAY FOR JAMES W. VAUGHAN

James Willis Vaughan, sheriff of the Georgia supreme court for the past 45 years, died suddenly Saturday morning at his residence, 37 East Merritts avenue.

Sheriff Vaughan had, as usual, gone to his office at the state capitol early Saturday. He complained of a pain in his chest, however, and returned to his home shortly after 9 o'clock, where he died within an hour.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son, with Bishop Warren A. Candler officiating. Interment will be in Oakland cemetery.

Mr. Vaughan was 76 years old and one of the most popular men at the state capitol. He was born in Littleton, N. C., February 26, 1849. His family moved to Atlanta when he was 10 years old and he had been a resident of this city ever since.

He was married in 1878 to Miss Annie Crusselle, who survives him. Bishop Candler, who will conduct the funeral service, officiated at the wedding, which was the first wedding solemnized by the young Methodist clergyman after he had been ordained to the ministry.

Mr. Vaughan was an active member of St. Mark's Methodist church and was a member of Judge Warner Hill's men's Bible class. He led an exemplary life and served faithfully the court of which he was so long sheriff. He was never absent from his duty except on account of illness, which occurred but seldom during his life, and he was never known to be late for any cause.

Justices of the supreme court will act as honorary escort at the funeral, and pallbearers will be Logan J. Bleckley, Samuel G. Walker, W. F. Crusselle, Guy Crusselle, G. B. DeSaussure and Dr. John W. Hurt.

Mr. Vaughan is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. L. J. Blanton; a brother, Dr. Charles J. Vaughan, and two grandchildren, Vaughan Blanton and Miss Annette Blanton.

Emory Will Meet Alabama Teams In Dual Debate

Emory University, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Emory will meet her second forensic foe of the 1925-26 season December 15, when a dual debate with the University of Alabama will be staged. Alabama will send a team to Emory to defend the negative side of the question:

"Resolved, That the United States should enter the world court," while on the same night Emory will be represented on the negative side of the same question at the University of Alabama by David A. Lockmiller and Glenn Elliot.

George K. Smith and Henry Matthews will defend the affirmative side for Emory against Alabama's team here. The debate at Emory will be held in the Theological chapel at 8 o'clock.

With a virtual victory over the strong picked team from Oxford university, Oxford, England, already chalked as a win, Emory's debate coaches, Professor Nolan A. Goodyear and Professor MacLeod, are bending every energy toward putting out debate teams this year which will repeat their performance of last season and again take the debate championship of the south.

All debaters who will represent Emory against Alabama are veterans of at least one battle, and Lockmiller and Smith have engaged in two and three intercollegiate encounters respectively.

Other opponents whom Emory will meet during the coming season include teams of Furman university, January 15, and Duke university, February 15. Debates that have been arranged, but for which time and other details have not been decided upon include Southern Methodist university, University of North Carolina, University of Arizona and Oregon Aggies.

MRS. SALLIE SAUL, LEADER IN CHURCH ACTIVITIES, DIES

Mrs. Sallie F. Saul, 84, of 55 West Harris street, a devoted member of First Methodist church, and an active missionary worker in Atlanta prisons, died at her residence Friday night after an illness of two months.

In addition to her work in church affairs and in prisons, Mrs. Saul took an active part in W. C. T. U. work and in mission efforts in Atlanta mills and factories. She was a member of the Epworth league, of the First Methodist church.

She was the widow of a former Methodist minister who withdrew from the conference nearly 25 years ago to enter the evangelistic field. He died eight years ago. Mrs. Saul leaves no survivors.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon from the chapel of T. C. Bazemore. The Rev. W. M. Hunton will officiate and interment will be in College Park cemetery.

Upshaw To Lecture At Inman Park Church Next Friday Night

Representative William D. Upshaw will give a lecture next Friday night at Inman Park Methodist church on "Country Folks in Town." Proceeds of the lecture will go to the church building fund to complete payment on additions to the edifice during the past few months, those in charge of arrangements state.

Congressman Upshaw is giving his services, members declared, while a small admission charge will be made for the purposes stated.

The lecture will begin at 8 o'clock, and will be in the church auditorium.

WANTED
Saleslady and Assistant Buyer
For Hosiery Department
Must have good record of service as saleslady. Hosiery experience preferred, but not altogether essential.
Apply in person 8 to 9 a. m. or 5 to 6 p. m. only
Mr. Edison Chandler Boot Shop

The Haven Villa Corporation and the Chamber of Commerce of Winter Haven, Florida, cordially invite you to A FREE LECTURE ON
FLORIDA
One Hundred New Slides of 100 Beautiful Views Never Shown in the South Before.
The Grey Room, Piedmont Hotel
Monday, Nov. 23, at 8 P. M.
Come and hear all about our next tour November 27th
The Haven Villa Corporation
124 Hurt Bldg. :: Atlanta, Ga.
WALNUT 0661

JACOBS' BIG DOLL DEPARTMENT
THE LARGEST ASSORTMENT IN ATLANTA!
LISTEN, LITTLE GIRLIE! HOW GOOD HAVE YOU BEEN? HAVE YOU MINDED MAMA AND PAPA ALL YEAR LONG?
Of course you have!
So come and pick out the doll that you want Santa to bring you for a Christmas present. Ask Mother to bring you to Jacobs'—where you will find among hundreds and hundreds of dolls just the dolly for you.
Open Now!
MAIN STORE
Second Floor
GROWN-UPS
Like these dolls. Jacobs' dolls seem to take mothers again through the glorious realm of childhood days.
If you see our dolls, you'll never be able to leave the store without one. In fact, once you begin holding these wonderfully dear dolls in your arms, you won't be able to decide which one you like best.
But leave it to the baby. Every little girl is a good judge of dolls. Here she will find the doll that pleases her.

477 MAMA DOLLS WALKING OUT!
Formerly $4.00, this was the price last year. This year the same dolls are selling at $1.33.
$1.33 Each
Large size, 22 inches, unbreakable Mama Doll. Dressed in checked rompers. Patent leather shoes. Lifelike. Says Mama loud and plain.

Here is a magnificent doll. Large size. 22 inches. See it Monday at Jacobs'.
This doll is really a dear. She calls "Mama" in a very sweet tone. At Jacobs' Monday.
WHY ARE THESE DOLLIES SO AMAZINGLY LOW IN PRICE?
Because we have them from last year's stock—left over, reduced from $4.00 to $1.33. Was there ever such a bargain in dolls?
The romper on each doll can be replaced with a dainty dress by any industrious mother.
ALL CLEAN, FRESH STOCK
There will be a big demand for this doll. No phone orders will be taken on this specialty tomorrow.

UNBREAKABLE
Mama Doll
95c Each
A real treasure from Doll Land. Checked rompers. Patent leather slippers. Socks and cap. Says "Mama" very distinctly.
IMPORTED
Baby Doll
$1.47 Each
Sleeping eyes. Pretty infant dress and slip. Cries like a baby.
On the Toy Counter
MAIN STORE, 2nd Floor
19c each
Drawing Masters, Paint Sets, Kewpie Dolls, Doll Suitcases, Kiddie Garden Sets, Books for the little folks.

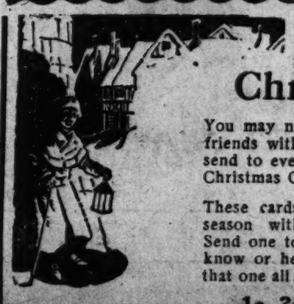
Unbreakable
Baby Doll
$1.89 Each
Wrapped in pink and blue blanket. Daintily clad. Coos for it's mama.
BYE-LO
Babies
$3.95 Each
The original baby doll. Outfitted in infant dress and bootees. Eyes that close in sleep and a voice that sounds almost human.

Genuine Kestner
Character Dolls
$1.00 Each to $12.50 Each
Sizes, 8½ inches to 24 inches. You can rock this doll to sleep. Her arms and legs move for you. At Jacobs' Monday.
LOOKS LIKE A REAL BABY

FREE

Free!
Jungle Monkey
Looks like the real article from Darkest Africa. A genuine joy for youngsters—boys and girls.
Free to any child who is accompanied to Jacobs' Doll Department by an adult.

Unbreakable
Baby Doll
$2.95 Each
Every little girl will love this darling from doll land. See it tomorrow. Dressed in attractive infant dress and slip.
JACOBS'
Extra Salespeople — Extra Bundle Wrappers — Extra Delivery Force—All to Give You Prompt Service in Jacobs' Doll Department

Monday Savings At JACOBS'
You Can Order by 'Phone or Mail. Add 7c to every $1 Purchase by Mail.
Wine Cardui 79c
Woodbury Facial Soap, 3 for 50c
Williams Holder Top Shaving Stick 29c
Jeans Henna 86c
Mufti 28c
Scotts Emulsion (large) 91c
Frostilla Lotion 29c
Mennen's Talc for men 21c
Laxative Bromo Quinine 24c
Waterbury's Compound 89c
Recolac 86c
Kolorbak $1.42
Ipana Tooth Paste 42c
Gillette Blades, 5's 39c
Mavis Talcum 22c
Vick's Salve 24c
Lysol 23c
Theatrical Cold Cream, ½ lb. 39c
666 (large) 45c
Creomulsion 89c
Mad Nail Polish 29c
Citrocarbonates 83c
Coty's Face Powder 89c
Pond's Vanishing Cream 31c
Horlick's Malted Milk $2.95
Aspironal 43c
Ashes of Roses Rouge Madarin .. 29c
Wampole's Extract Cod Liver ... 77c
D. & R. Cold Cream (medium) .. 46c
McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets .. 53c
Marmola Tablets 91c
Hind's Honey & Almond Cream . 39c


Christmas Cards!
You may not be able to remember all your friends with gifts this season. But you can send to every one you know an appropriate Christmas Card.
These cards express the sentiments of the season with style, dignity and sincerity. Send one to each of your friends to let him, know or her know that you are wishing to that one all the joy of the Yuletide season.
1c, 3c, 5c, 10c to 50c Each

"Battle Above the Clouds"

SORROWFUL MEMORIES ENHANCED BY TOURIST TIDE

Fought Sixty-Two Years Ago

BY LEE LANGLEY.

Chattanooga, Tenn., November 19.—Sixty-two years ago, measuring time by the days of the week, the civil war battle of Lookout mountain, better known in history as "the battle above the clouds," was fought.

Sunday 62 years ago marked the beginning of the end of the civil war. The stage set for the final act of this four years' tragedy was Lookout mountain, at that point facing the city of Chattanooga.

The sixty-second anniversary of this fateful conflict brings up hallowed, if sorrowful, memories, but only when its influence upon our national life is considered can we realize the value of the service rendered the nation by patriots who fell in the struggle. The union not only was made secure on Lookout mountain that day, but there the future political destiny of the United States also was cast and the foundation for our present material wealth and power was laid.

Dawn broke that sad Sunday with dismal and lowering clouds settling over the great mound like a mantle of mourning. A grey-blue pall of death enveloped the hurrying and scurrying troops of both armies. The gorgeous landscape of departing autumn was shrouded in gloom. The glories of nature's peerless canvas, painted in tints of gold, lavender and crimson, on this, the highest point of the old Cherokee nation, famous for the beauty and richness of its foliage and flora, was obscured, sodden, forbidding. Nature seemed to have responded in kind to the purpose of man to turn this garden of virgin beauty into a human abattoir.

Death stalked every living thing on that part of the mountain within the Tennessee boundary and facing the little city of Chattanooga. The Confederate forces in possession of the mountain top had been without much to eat for three days except parched corn and were slaughtering everything in the form of beast and bird to be found.

Scouts from Hooker's command had crept under the shadows to the foot of the mountain, seeking places where the heights might be scaled. Sergeant Roper finally climbed the Palisades to "Roper's rock," a performance equal to that of any modern "steeplejack." Figures in blue and in grey were peeking through the occasional rifts in the clouds for a chance to reduce the enemy's strength by even one man. A Confederate sharpshooter crawled into a crevice under a great rock directly over Walthall's headquarters at Craven's house and picked off a dozen or two of the enemy before his hiding place was discovered. Union scouts located his retreat and a battery of guns trained on him. Monday morning his body was found sitting upright in his sepulchre of riven stone, his rifle still in his hands.

The occupation of Lookout mountain on this bleak and dreary Sunday, however, was recognized by both sides as the predominant factor in the rising hope for a speedy ending of the civil war and prevention of further waste of blood and treasure.

Sixty-two years ago this Sunday Lookout mountain was the warheart of an impassioned and disrupted nation. Every sight and every approach of the palisades and peaks of this towering battleground brought intense excitement to the men of both armies and inspired hopes and fears in the breasts of the people of both sections.

If the Confederate forces could have retained its possession, in the judgment of their military leaders, they could have resisted the approaching onslaught of the enemy and forced the union army back to the Ohio river.

The troops of both armies had been concentrating gradually at Chattanooga, where it was certain the immediate fate of the union would be decided. In preparation for this critical conflict a long line of gray figures, headed by Longstreet, had crept across the mountains from the east. From the west came a blue line behind Sherman. In Washington, President Lincoln anxiously awaited reports on the success of the campaign to capture Lookout mountain. The president and his military advisers knew that if the strong Confederate line of defense from Memphis to Richmond could be broken at Chattanooga the struggle between the states could not continue much longer, and that the union would triumph.

The Confederate armies of Virginia and Mississippi were united by a chain of railroads running from Memphis, Huntsville, Chattanooga, Knoxville and Lynchburg to Richmond. At Chattanooga this direct line was intersected by another line of railroads from Nashville to Atlanta, and from there into all parts of the south. It was the object of the Union generals to break this line at Chattanooga, and thus isolate the Confederate armies.

In September, Bragg had driven Rosecrans from Chickamauga back into Chattanooga, where he was practically invested. The Confederates were in control of the railroad from the west from Stevenson, Alabama, to Chattanooga, a distance of 60 miles. Rosecrans was compelled to bring his supplies to Bridgeport, by water and transport them by land into Chattanooga. This required a large force of men and teams and the supply trains were constantly harassed and menaced by Confederate calvary, and many of them destroyed. When Grant and Sherman arrived from the west and Hooker reached Chattanooga with the 11th and 12th army of the Potomac the forces of Rosecrans were on the verge of being starved out.

General Thomas, who had succeeded General Rosecrans, persuaded General Grant to permit General Hooker to make a demonstration against Lookout mountain with his own troops and two divisions of General Sherman's.

General Hooker's movement began at daylight, November 24. On the brow of Lookout mountain stands the New York peace monument, erected at a cost of $100,000. On the towering pedestal a soldier in blue is clasping the hand of a soldier in grey; atop the figures stands "Old Glory" and on the top of the flagstaff the American eagle spreads its wings. An inscription in one panel reads:

"This monument is erected by a grateful commonwealth in commemoration of the service of the officers and soldiers of New York in the 11th and 12th corps from the army of the Potomac who took part in the battles and military operations about Chattanooga, October and November, 1863.

"Erected by the state of New York, A. D. 1905. Under the supervision of the Gettysburg and Chattanooga monuments commission. Major General D. E. Sickles, U. S. A. chairman; Colonel L. R. Rogers, Colonel C. Beckwith, Adjutant General S. N. Y., ex-officio, Major General A. S. Webb, Major A. G. McCook, Major T. W. Bradley."

Of the chief actors in the dramatic struggle for the possession of Lookout mountain General Grant became president of the United States; General Sherman succeeded General Grant in command of the army as general. The south considered General Sherman's war measure as harsh and even cruel but the doughty warrior proved the soundness and robustness of his Americanism when, in the dark days of reconstruction, he wrote: "I do think some political power might be given to the young men who served in the rebel army, for they are better class than the adventurers who have gone south purely for offices." An equestrian statue to General Sherman stands at the eastern entrance of Central park, New York and another in Washington on the spot where he reviewed the grand march of the Union army in 1865.

After the war General Thomas was assigned to the military divisions of the Pacific, and stationed at San Francisco, where he died.

An equestrian statue to General Hooker was unveiled on Beacon hill, Boston, June 25, 1905.

On the Confederate side General Bragg, after the war, became chief engineer of the state of Alabama, an engineer of improvements at Mobile bay.

General Walthall succeeded L. Q. C. Lamar, as United States senator from Mississippi, and served as chairman of the committee on military affairs. General Pettus served in Alabama in the United States senate with distinction. Captain Evan P. Howell, who commanded Howell's battery, was joint publisher with Henry W. Grady of The Atlanta Constitution for 35 years and one of the most influential men of the south.

The accepted theory, whether well founded or not, is that the Civil war was fought to free the negro slaves of the south. Considering at face value what has followed that war an analytical and constructive mind is forced to the conclusion that it was an instrument of Providence to free the white people of the south from a social and economic system that was an otherwise irremovable barrier to progress and the development of unlimited resources. The south under the old slave system could not progress or be developed. Slave labor was unsuited to industrial operations and the white labor was not much better, being content to live on the crumbs from the slave owners' table and the pickings around the big plantations.

On the battle-scarred top of Lookout mountain this Sunday, 1925, dwell 6,000 happy and prosperous people. There stand some of the finest homes and private estates in the south. When the settling smoke of the battle above Lookout mountain met and merged with the clouds lifting from the valley in 1863, Chattanooga was a dilapidated river town of 3,500 people. The population was almost evenly divided in its loyalty to the north and to the south. Human passions had been fanned into red flames by the conflicts between opposing armies continually beating around its walls. Neighbors and even families were as strangers. Today Chattanooga is a metropolitan city with a population of 92,000, with approximately 400 of the most prosperous manufacturing industries in the country within its boundaries. One hundred and fifty miles to the south is Atlanta, destroyed by Sherman in April, 1864, with a population of 250,000 and numerous industries sending their products to the markets of the entire world. A little westward, 160 miles is the great iron and steel city of Birmingham with a population of 200,000 that had not then been founded.

The people of the north and the south now are meeting and mixing together in far greater numbers now than they ever have. We acknowledge a large obligation to the southern climate for this happy condition. The lure of comfort, pleasure and profit in Florida has brought into contact with their southern neighbors hundreds of thousands of northern people who previously had known nothing of the people of the south or the richness of its resources except what they had read from partisan sources. They are now viewing the battlefields of 1861-1865 with new interest and new understanding.

Talented Vocal Students

Trained or coached by a Great Opera Singer in her own home. Write for particulars.

GERTRUDE RENNYSON,
Far Rockaway, New York

Southern Offices Of Marcus Loew Established Here

Reestablishment in Atlanta of southern offices of Loew's, Incorporated, with Howard W. McCoy, prominent amusement and theatrical manager, in charge as division manager was announced in Atlanta Saturday. Mr. McCoy has arrived in Atlanta and is at work establishing the new offices in Loew's Grand theater building.

Under the new plan southern activities of Marcus Loew enterprises in all the states of the south from Virginia to Florida and from Georgia to Texas will be directed from the Atlanta office. Several years ago the southeastern offices of the Loew organization were located in Atlanta with E. A. Schiller in charge, but when Mr. Schiller went to New York to assume his duties as general representative of Loew's Incorporated the Atlanta offices were discontinued.

HOWARD W. M'COY.

Recent consolidation of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, controlled by Loew's, Incorporated, with the United Artists gives the Loew interests the largest motion picture organization in the world, it is said, and all the southern business of this organization will be directed from the Atlanta offices.

Mr. McCoy has been with Loews', Incorporated, for three years coming to Atlanta as southern division manager from New Orleans where he was manager of Loew's Palace theater. He has had many years' experience in the theatrical business having served as manager of "Peg o' My Heart," Holbrook Blinn, Helen Ware in "The Escape" and numerous other attractions.

In the world war Mr. McCoy served with the 151st field artillery and as aide on the staff of Brigadier General George G. Gatley. He was wounded three times in the fighting in the Argonne and at Chateaux Thierry. Prior to this service he was stationed for two years on the Mexican border.

18-Hour Voyage Comes To End After 35 Days

London, November 21.—(AP)—What should have been an 18-hour voyage from Philadelphia to New York came to an end after 35 days, when the captain and crew of the steamer Algiers were landed at Cardiff, Wales, yesterday. The rescued men now are on their way back to America on the steamer Doric, which sailed today.

The coastwise freighter Algiers set out from Philadelphia, October 16. Captain W. G. Hanson was in command and his crew numbered 22. With engines broken down soon after the start, the Algiers drifted in strong northwest gales and heavy seas, 380 miles off Chesapeake, out of the track of shipping. She was without wireless, and her flare signals went unobserved.

The Algiers, leaking badly, wallowed for 13 days, nine of them without food nor fires in her boilers. The four days' rations carried by the vessel soon were exhausted.

Finally, the British freighter, Rassay sighted the helpless ship, but the seas were heavy. One of the Algiers' boats capsized and another was broken, but all the crew eventually were hauled aboard and brought safely to port.

RUSSELL ENTERS RACE IN DECATUR FOR COMMISSIONER

Another hat was thrown into the ring for city commissioner of Decatur Saturday with the announcement of John G. Russell, prominent Atlanta hotel man, that he is a candidate for one of the two positions which are to be decided December 2.

There were already four candidates in the field for the two vacancies, Mr. Russell making the fifth. South Decatur people hope to equalize matters with the election of Mr. Russell in order to have a more proper representation in the administration of the city government, as north Decatur has four representatives to south Decatur's one at present, friends of Mr. Russell said Saturday.

JOHN G. RUSSELL.

He is very well known throughout Georgia as well as Atlanta, being publicity director for the Dinkler Hotel company, and having served before that time as assistant secretary of the Atlanta Convention and Tourist bureau and the Atlanta Hotel Men's association. He has the support of the South Decatur Civic club, it is said.

PREACHER-OIL STOCK SALESMAN INDICTED

Ashland, Ill., November 21.—(AP)—Eight criminal indictments and five civil suits against the Rev. Edward Bryant Crump, who turned oil stock salesman and sold the Thornley family, wealthy farmers, here, approximately $175,000 worth of oil leases in a Bowling Green, Ky., oil field.

The civil suits, which are filed in circuit court at Virginia, the county seat, also name V. G. Elmore, local grain man, and James J. Wyatt, cashier of a bank here.

The minister's whereabouts are not definitely known here since he jumped a $3,000 bond signed by a Bloomington, Ill., banker by not appearing in court here October, 1924.

The suits were filed by Jimmie, Carl, Walker and Howard Thornley, brothers, and Mrs. Ross, a sister.

Confidence game is the basic grounds for the indictments returned by a grand jury against Mr. Crump. The Thornleys claim that Wyatt and Elmore combined with the preacher to cheat and defraud them by selling them worthless interests in oil properties, oil lands, and leases on fraudulent presentations.

The civil cases cannot be tried until next spring and, in the meantime, the warrants await the return of the preacher-oil salesman, who, it is said, has left the oil lease business and gone in for asphalt deposits in Kentucky.

POLICE DECLARE WAR ON IRISH BOOTLEGGERS

Belfast, November 21.—(AP)—The manufacture of poteen (Irish bootleg whisky), has developed into such a profitable industry in County Galway that the police are regulating the sale of molasses, yeast and brown sugar, requiring purchasers to have permits.

Anyone leaving the county without a permit for yeast or sugar carried in his donkey cart, even if it is for a Christmas pudding, lays himself open to confiscation of the cart and everything it contains, and in addition a fine equivalent to $250.

QUARTERLY MEETING HELD AT COVINGTON

Covington, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—The fourth and last quarterly conference was held in the First Methodist church of Covington on Wednesday evening, at which time Rev. Walter G. Crawley, presiding elder of the Oxford district, presided and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year.

Stewards: R. E. Everitt, R. R. Fowler, R. W. Campbell, S. C. Candler, C. T. Castleberry, C. L. Harwell, A. L. Loyd, R. A. Norris, W. B. R. Pennington, E. M. Piper, C. D. Ramsey, Dr. J R. Sams, Dr. S. L. Waites, H. T. Shaw.

Trustees of church and parsonage: H. E. Wright, A. H. Hays, R. E. Everitt, A. S. McGarity, C. C. Brooks, S. A. Brown and C. L. Harwell.

Sunday School Superintendent: J. L. Elliott.

Charge Lay Leader: Dr. J. A. Wright.

There have been 60 additions to the church the report showed.

The pastor, presiding elder, conference and general assessments will be paid in full, which leaves the church in excellent financial condition at the beginning of the new conference year.

Activity of the church during the past year has been splendid. A resolution was passed by the members of the church asking the North Georgia conference to send the pastor, the Rev. J. Lee Allgood, back to the church for another year.

SOVIET TRADE TREATY RATIFIED BY ITALY

Rome, November 21.—(AP)—The senate today ratified the commercial treaty with soviet Russia, signed February 7, 1924, marking Italy's de jure recognition of Russia.

MASONS WILL HONOR NEW GRAND MASTER

William S. Richardson, grand master of Georgia Masons, will be given a special reception Wednesday by the Atlanta Masonic club at its regular weekly luncheon at noon at the Peacock cafe. A special program has been arranged and announcement is made in a folder which is being sent to master Masons in the city.

Claude N. Hughes is president of the club and will preside. Attorney General George N. Napier will introduce Mr. Richardson, who will deliver a short address. Other short speeches will be made. Mrs. Dwight Bayley, accompanied by Mrs. J. K. Martin and Perry Bremer, accompanied by Adolph Verdi, will render vocal and cornet solos respectively.

Noted guests who will attend are James D. Hambrick, N. H. Ballard, William G. England, Charles L. Bass, Joe P. Bowdoin, past grand masters; Clifford Walker, governor; A. G. Miller, deputy grand master; Perry L. Blackshear, grand commander, Knights Templar; William A. Sims, grand high priest, grand chapter Royal Arch Masons; Clarence H. Andrews, grand master, grand council; Forrest Adair, 33rd, ancient and accepted Scottish rite; Charles A. Bowden, potentate Yaarab temple, Shriners; Raymond Daniel, junior grand warden, and W. G. Mealor, past grand commander, Knights Templar.

SENATOR FOSTER ILL AT WESLEY HOSPITAL

Emory University, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—State Senator A. G. Foster, of Madison, Ga., is a patient at Wesley Memorial hospital and will be here about a week or 10 days for treatment physicians announce.

Senator Foster is a well-known attorney of east Georgia and is one of the most prominent members of the Georgia senate. He represents the 28th district, which is composed of Jasper, Putnam and Morgan counties.

WHAT MY NAME MEANS TO YOU

Good DENTISTRY

Reasonable PRICES

Indestructible BRIDGE WORK

Fine WORKMANSHIP

First-class SERVICE

Insured of High-Class Work in a

Neat, Well-Equipped Office

LADY ATTENDANT

Dr. E. G. GRIFFIN

DENTIST

63½ Whitehall St.
Phone WAl. 8570

Coming! Atlanta's First National RADIO ELECTRICAL EXPOSITION

All Week, December 7th-12th

SEE AND HEAR—World Famous Announcers—National Radio Entertainers—Dixie's Greatest Stars

In Action Daily at Crystal Studio

The South's greatest symposium of the newest wonders of radio.

More Than $1,000 in Prizes

Wait for It! Watch for It! Bring the Family!

ASPIRIN

SAY "BAYER ASPIRIN"—Genuine

Unless you see the "Bayer Cross" on tablets, you are not getting the genuine Bayer Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians over 25 years.

DOES NOT AFFECT THE HEART

Safe → Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proven directions. Handy "Bayer" boxes of 12 tablets. Also bottles of 24 and 100—Druggists.

for Colds, Pain, Headache, Neuritis, Toothache, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Rheumatism

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

The Grand Piano Department of Ludden & Bates Consists of

Dainty Little Grands

That Sing Under The Fingers

$475 and up

The home that possesses a beautiful Grand Piano is quickly appraised by the visitor—casual or constant—as one of high musical appreciation and discriminating choice. Our store is really headquarters for Grand Pianos.

A LARGE STOCK
Of SpeciallyLow-Priced Exchanges Upright and Grand Pianos, Ranging in Price From—

$90.00 and Up

These Well-Known Makes to Choose From

- Chickering—Grand and Reproducing Pianos.
- Ludden & Bates—Grand, Upright and Player Pianos.
- Kranich & Bach—Grand and Upright Pianos.
- Ivers & Pond—Grand and Upright Pianos.
- Schubert—Grand and Upright Pianos.
- Mathushek—Grand and Upright Pianos.
- Frances Bacon—Grand Pianos.
- Haines—Grand Pianos.

Ludden & Bates

"SOUTHERN MUSIC HOUSE

80 N. Pryor Street WAlnut 0811

A. W. Leonard Says:

"Jacksonville is Best"

Seattle Man on Tour Lauds This City as Leader of Florida

Mr. Leonard is president of the Puget Sound Power and Light Company and a man of large affairs on the Pacific Coast. His desire to see Florida caused him to make a trip across the continent, and he was astounded at what he found.

A. W. LEONARD
OF SEATTLE, WASHINGTON

"Florida is a marvelous state," said Mr. Leonard. "Her development, it seems to me, has only begun.

"The climate, of course, is a great asset to the state, and her resources are vast.

"After an inspection tour of two weeks, during which I visited many cities, I am convinced that Jacksonville is the most ideal city in Florida in which to live.

"Jacksonville, because of its strategic location, has the brightest future of any city in the state. The surrounding territory is fertile. When the highway system now being planned is completed farm production will be marvelous.

"The port of Jacksonville is ideal for its shipping facilities and will be an even greater factor in the growth of the city.

"As the gateway to the state, Jacksonville will continue to profit more and more through its railway facilities.

"The increasing number of tourists and prospective homemakers in Florida largely will come first to Jacksonville. Many of them will be so impressed with the city that they will remain.

"The future of the city, in my judgment, will show a steady, conservative growth, based on a firm foundation, due to its natural resources, location and climate."

Mr. Leonard was enraptured with the beach. Coming from the Pacific coast he compared it with the beaches there and said "that there is no beach on that coast that compares at all with the Jacksonville beach."

This man of big affairs has just made an automobile trip over Florida which included Pensacola, Tampa, Miami and other cities, with side trips to points of interest in the state. Read carefully his opinion.

The fact that so many of the Nation's biggest men, financiers, writers, statisticians, etc., are openly stating that Jacksonville is and will continue to be the leading city of Florida is evidence that they see now and for the future a city built on solid commercial and industrial foundation.

JACKSONVILLE HEIGHTS
IS ALMOST RIGHT IN THE EDGE OF JACKSONVILLE

Jacksonville Heights
10-Acre Tracts $1,000
$150 Cash Balance $34 Per Month

Call, Telephone or Write TODAY!

ODELL & MAY

Exclusive Agents

191 Peachtree St. WAlnut 0320

ODELL & MAY, Agents
Jacksonville Heights Improvement Co.,
191 Peachtree St., Atlanta, Ga.
Gentlemen:
Without obligating me in any way, please give me further information regarding the ten-acre tracts you are offering in Jacksonville Heights, located near the city limits of Jacksonville, Fla., for $1,000 on easy terms.

NAME .....

STREET OR R. F. D. .....

TOWN ..... STATE .....

R. N. BERRIEN, JR., ASKS CLEMENCY

A petition for clemency for R. N. Berrien, Jr., former Atlanta broker who is now serving a sentence of from three to five years on a charge of misappropriation of state school funds, probably will be heard by the Georgia prison commission early in December, it was stated Saturday.

The hearing originally was expected to come up the first week in November, when the regular November docket of parole and pardon hearings was held, but it was postponed on account of the illness of the petitioner's sister, Miss Laura M. Berrien, of Washington, D. C., who has been active in the effort to secure her brother's release. The hearing now will be held, it is understood, on a date when Miss Berrien is able to appear before the commission.

A number of petitions and letters recommending release of Berrien have been sent to the commission by Miss Berrien. Her brother, she says, is suffering from the effects of a recently dislocated shoulder and also is afflicted with an old heart affection.

W. O. Rowland, warden of the Colquitt county chaingang, where Berrien is serving his sentence, has written the commission stating that the injury to Berrien's shoulder occurred while he was driving a car there and wrecked it to prevent a collision that would have resulted in injury to several other persons.

Representatives Cliff Hatcher and W. L. McElmurry, of Burke county, where Berrien spent his early life, have joined in the plea for clemency.

Solicitor General John A. Boykin, of Fulton superior court, however, has written protesting against the extension of clemency for Berrien.

"In my judgment," Solicitor Boykin writes, "the character of the offense and the large amount of school funds misappropriated by Beriren demanded a heavy penalty. It is my opinion that the defendant should serve the full term given him by the jury. He is an educated and intelligent man and there are not facts or circumstances connected with the case which, in my opinion, would justify clemency."

VETERANS' PENSIONS TO BE PAID MONDAY

Thomas H. Jeffries, ordinary of Fulton county, stated Saturday that the check for Fulton county pensions has been received and that Confederate veterans will be paid on Monday, November 23, and widows of veterans will be paid on Tuesday. Payment at this time will be about $40.

Rheumatism Aching Joints Lumbago Neuritis

With applicator attached to cork, just brush "Heet" over the pain area, whether in hands, shoulders, feet, legs, back, neck or body. Instantly you feel this harmless, glorious, penetrating heat draw the pain right out of the aching or swollen joint, muscle or nerve. Besides, "Heet" scatters the congestion and establishes a cure.

"Heet" contains two soothing, penetrating ingredients, too expensive to use in ordinary liniments or analgesics. "Heet" is a clean, fragrant liquid; doesn't stain, blister or irritate the skin. Druggists guarantee each 60-cent bottle.

ESTABLISHED, well-known and popular automobile company has openings for three real high-class, neat salesmen. Real remuneration to right party. Apply by letter, giving experience and references.

Address W-975, Constitution

The New Balkite "B"—$35

Supplies plate current from the light socket

Balkite "B" replaces "B" batteries of all types and supplies uniform constant plate current from the light socket. Once connected to your set and adjusted to its requirements, it needs no further adjustment, and can be put in operation at any time by simply turning on the current.

Like all other Balkite Radio Power Units Balkite "B" is entirely noiseless in operation, and is a permanent piece of equipment with no bulbs or moving parts, nothing to break, replace or get out of order.

This new model fits any set requiring not more than 20 milliamperes at 90 volts—practically all sets of 5 tubes or less, and most 6 tube sets. Fits in your present dry cell compartment. Current cost about 1/10c per hour.

Balkite "B" II The same popular model as offered last year. Same as Balkite "B," except has much greater capacity and flexibility, and will fit any set, including sets of 8 tubes or more. Current capacity 40 milliamperes at 90 volts. Price $55

Sold by leading radio dealers everywhere

Manufactured by

FANSTEEL PRODUCTS CO., Inc., North Chicago, Ill.

FANSTEEL Balkite Radio Power Units

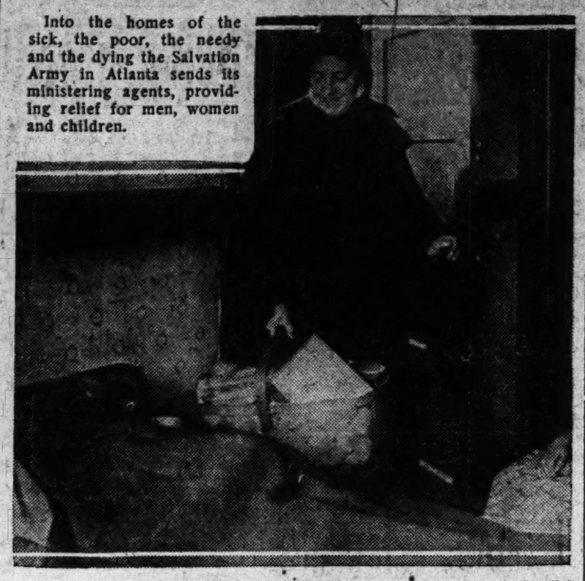
BALKITE BATTERY CHARGER · BALKITE TRICKLE CHARGER · BALKITE "B" · BALKITE "C"

Salvation Army Carries On

WORKERS NEVER TIRE OF ENDLESS AIDING PROGRAM

Work of Salvaging Humans



Into the homes of the sick, the poor, the needy and the dying the Salvation Army in Atlanta sends its ministering agents, providing relief for men, women and children.

Feeding the hungry, clothing the naked, ministering to the sick and consoling the suffering, the old reliable Salvation Army in Atlanta goes on forever, like the proverbial brook in its work of carrying relief to the unfortunate, the needy, the weary and the heavy laden. The army is one of the beneficiaries of the community chest and its record in Atlanta for real, tangible service is second to that of no other similar organization.

While the Salvation Army, through its emergency relief department, takes care of thousands of cases every year which could be handled by no other organization, it also extends its work to the homes and hovels of sufferers and seeks out those who need food, clothing and medicine, and in many cases is the only agency which stands between many people and actual starvation and death.

Value of the Salvation Army to the needy travelers of the country long since has been demonstrated. Time and again, week in and week out, workmen and artisans temporarily out of positions and "broke" arrived in Atlanta and are aided by the Salvation Army. The organization takes these men, provides them with good clean beds in which to sleep, gives them meals until they can obtain work and assists in getting jobs for them. In Atlanta and in numerous other cities of the country there are many men now holding executive positions in big organizations that owe all their success to early help received from the Salvation Army.

Emergency relief work of the Salvation Army in Atlanta is handled at the headquarters at 38½ Luckie street, under direction of Adjutant Eunice McCrae. An emergency home for women is operated on Williams street and an emergency home for men and a hotel is operated at 271 Luckie street, under the direction of Staff Captain William H. Range.

To show the far-reaching service of the Salvation Army to penniless men who have arrived in Atlanta seeking positions, it is stated that last month the emergency home for men provided 372 men with lodging and provided 750 men with meals. In many cases men were furnished with clothing, although in most cases the men prefer to work and buy clothing at a nominal price rather than to take clothes in charity, according to the officials.

Through investigators the Salvation Army seeks out people in dire need of help, who need food, fuel or medicine and these investigators make regular reports to headquarters. Where cases are deserving the Salvation Army carries prompt relief. Where cases are reported to the army headquarters investigators are sent to the scene immediately and a report made.

Although relief work is one of the greatest services rendered by the Salvation Army, it has many other activities. It promotes wholesome sports for homeless children, maintains hospitals, takes care of orphans and provides medicine and medical attention for those too poor to obtain these services.

FAMOUS NEGRO TENOR GIVES CONCERT HERE

Roland Hayes, Georgia negro tenor, is to appear in concert at the Atlanta auditorium December 18.

On his return voyage recently from triumphs in Europe, Hayes gave a recital in which he was accompanied by Paderewski, the world's most noted pianist. The two had met for the first time in Paris. Hayes' first American recital this season will be given in Carnegie hall, New York city, November 27.

ROLAND HAYES

Hayes was born and reared in Georgia and is generally acclaimed the greatest negro tenor.

NEW HAVEN ROAD WINS RIGHT TO OWN STREET RAILWAYS

New York, November 21.—(AP)—The New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad today won its fight for modification of the decree of 1914, which required it to divest itself of its street and suburban railways in New England. Federal Judge Winslow rendered the decision favorable to the railroad.

The decision gives the New Haven the right to control the Berkshire Street railway and Vermont railway, the New York and Stamford Railway company, the New England Investment and Security company, and the Connecticut company.

Judge Winslow's opinion did not deal with that part of the 1914 decree which required the New York, New Haven and Hartford to dispose of its holdings in the New England Steamship corporation, and the New York and Hartford Steamship company. Earlier, he had indicated his agreement that the jurisdiction of these two steamship lines should be left in the hands of the interstate commerce commission.

THREE ANNOUNCE AS CANDIDATES IN HAPEVILLE

A citizens' ticket, composed of Eugene F. King, for mayor, and George O. Moody and William A. Landers for council, has taken the field in the municipal election at Hapeville, it became known Saturday.

Mr. King is opposed in the mayor's contest by G. H. A. Thomas, councilman, whose term expires December 1, the day of the election. K. B. Benton, the other councilman, has moved from the city and is not a candidate for reelection.

Mr. Thomas will name others to make the race with him, it was announced, and a hot race is expected.

All the entries are prominent residents of Hapeville. Mr. Moody is a well-known Atlanta newspaperman and has been active in civic affairs of Hapeville for several years.

Negro Youth Taken In Burglary Effort, Policemen Charge

Quick work by Call Afficers Fred L. Tippen and W. A. McKinney Saturday afternoon resulted in the capture of Clyde Jackson, 19, negro, of 190 Houston street, who is charged with attempting to burglarize the home of Mrs. John E. Murphy at 979 Peachtree street.

Neighbors are said by police to have discovered Jackson entering the Murphy home, and telephoned the police. Call Officer Tippen was told that Jackson used a pass key to gain entrance to the house. The negro was cornered by the police in the rear of the house, and denied the charge of burglary, stating that he was on his way to see a negro girl who was employed on the Prado.

A teachers' mutual assistance association is maintained in Cleveland, Ohio, and during the year ending June, 1925, 129 teachers of the city availed themselves of its benefits.

Thin Weak Children Get Strong Quickly

Mother: Forget the nasty tasting stomach upsetting cod liver oil and give the thin, puny, underdeveloped children McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets if you want to put roses in their cheeks; give them a good appetite and put pounds of good, healthy flesh on their bones.

Doctors know all about them and so does Jacobs' Pharmacal Co., and all druggists, for they are in great demand, because they are not laggards but show results in a few days.

They are not expensive either—60 tablets—60 cents and children take them like candy.

A very sickly child, age 9, gained 12 pounds in seven months and is strong and healthy.

One skinny woman gained 9 pounds in 24 days.

Ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets and if they don't do your frail child the world of good in 30 days your druggist is authorized to hand you back the money you paid for them.—(adv.)

NO ONE NEED HAVE CORNS ANY LONGER

Newest, Best Remedy For Corns Stops Pain—Shoes Don't Hurt Any More

SIX WAFERS FOR 10c GUARANTEED RESULTS

The newest, best remedy for corns is a tiny, thin as paper corn wafer. No burning acids or bulky doughnut pads to add pressure when shoes are on. Press an "O-Joy Corn Wafer" on the corn or callous with your finger. It sticks there. Strong as oxen, gentle as can be. The pain stops at once. Slip shoes on and forget it. Later out comes corn, callous, roots and all. Guaranteed to never fail. Ask druggist for O-Joy Corn Wafers—six wafers for 10c.

Air Pictures At Night Time Are Success

Experiment Conducted by Army at Rochester Demonstrates Its Practicability.

Rochester, N. Y., November 21.—(AP)—Aerial photography at night is an accomplished fact.

One of the most important experiments of recent years, looking to the advancement of photography as a means of revealing enemy secrets to American forces in time of war, was proclaimed this afternoon a complete success.

It was announced at the Kodak Park Laboratories of the Eastman Kodak company that army tests made over Rochester last night, using a Martin bombing plane and 50 pounds of flashlight powder, had produced remarkably clear photographs. Tests were under the direction of Lieutenant George W. Goddard.

"Only an erroneous estimate of the amount of flashlight powder needed or a rocking plane could have prevented successful pictures resulting," Goddard said.

"Darkness became daylight twice last night for the brief space of one-fiftieth of a second. The powder, dropped from an altitude of 3,000 feet, ignited with a detonation that shook hundreds of Rochester buildings and broke windows in isolated houses.

ATTORNEY BEGINS NEW HUGHES FIGHT

A new fight for the freedom of Mrs. Ida May Hughes, now serving a life term in the state prison at Milledgeville for the murder of her mother-in-law, Mrs. M. C. Hughes, on December 30, 1923, developed Saturday when Judge R. R. Jackson, her attorney, announced that he is preparing a motion to get an early hearing on his appeal to the United States supreme court.

Judge Jackson will ask that tribunal to rule at once on his plea for the prisoner, and he expects the court to hand down a decision soon after the Christmas holidays.

The petition will claim that the constitutional rights of the defendant were violated at the trial when the verdict of the jury was published while the defendant was not present in the courtroom. The citations of error also will set forth that Fulton superior court, in which Mrs. Hughes was tried, was not in session when the guilty verdict was read.

Mrs. Hughes was convicted in Judge G. H. Howard's division of Fulton superior court, and her attorneys took the case to the supreme court of Georgia, where the findings of the lower court were affirmed. Executive clemency was sought, and Governor Clifford Walker commuted her sentence to life imprisonment following one of the most sensational fights in the annals of Fulton county. After this, Judge Jackson filed an appeal in the United States supreme court.

It might take many months for the supreme court to take up the Hughes case, but the extraordinary motion being prepared by Judge Jackson may bring the case before it for consideration shortly, it is said.

Solicitor General John Boykin stated Saturday that he would fight the attempt to free Mrs. Hughes.

The point of law involved is considered very intricate, for if the court rules that Mrs. Hughes' constitutional rights were violated when the verdict of the jury was read, she will go free because her life already has been placed in jeopardy at the former trial and she could not be tried again.

Lawyers throughout the United States are keenly interested in the case.

Whittier paid for his education by making slippers at 25 cents a pair.

Kills Catarrh Germs In 3 Minutes!

Newly discovered treatment kills the germs, heals the tissues and works wonders in ridding catarrh victims of their suffering.

Chronic catarrh, no matter how bad, and the most stubborn cases of bronchial asthma now yield instantly to the amazing discovery of a famous French scientist. This drugless method, called Luxor, kills the countless germs that line the breathing passages in three minutes time, yet is positively harmless to the most delicate membranes and tissues.

Results in a Single Night

Luxor clears the head and lungs like magic. The germ laden mucus that causes all the trouble is quickly eliminated, and the sore, inflamed tissues respond instantly to the wonderful healing powers of Luxor. Sufferers are relieved in a single night, and thousands of former catarrh victims report almost miraculous cures with this remarkable treatment. To prove it, and to introduce Luxor to ten thousand more sufferers, in one month, I am making this startling offer.

FREE TREATMENT

I offer to send a treatment free and postpaid to any one who will write for it. No obligation. No cost. It is absolutely FREE. If it cures you, you can repay the favor by telling your friends—if not, the loss is mine. No matter what you have tried, just send me your name and address for this generous free treatment and let me prove that you can get rid of catarrh. Be sure to write at once.

W. R. SMITH

5602 Luxor Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

Monday---Last Day of Our Great Sale!

Monday is the Last Day of our mighty sale of 9 CARLOADS OF FINE FURNISHINGS. Many added attractions for Monday's selling. If you have not already benefited by this sale, by all means visit us Monday. Here you will find a real treat! Come early!

Coarload Sale of BEDROOM SUITES

Carload Sale of BREAKFAST ROOM SUITES

Carload Sale of BED-DAVENPORT SUITES

Carload Sale of KITCHEN CABINETS

Carload Sale of GAS and COAL-WOOD RANGES

$1 Will deliver your choice Kitchen Cabinet, Rug or Range.

Carload Sale of OVERSTUFFED SUITES

Make your Christmas purchases Now! Buy now at a genuine saving!

$5 Will deliver any Suite you select tomorrow.

Carload Sale of DINING ROOM SUITES

Carload Sale of RUGS, ART SQUARES

Carload Sale of LIVING ROOM SUITES

SPECIALS for Monday Only!

PITCHERS. 2-qt. solid Aluminum. Good quality. A Bargain! Monday only 59c

PRESERVING KETTLES. 18-qt. enameled. A splendid value! Monday only 99c

RAG RUGS. Full 27x54-inch. You will want some of these! Monday only 99c

COAL HODS. Full 17-inch. Galvanized. A Bargain! Monday only 39c

CARPET SWEEPERS. Full size. Regulars. Come early! Monday only $2.48

BATH MIRRORS. Large size. Good plate. A Bargain! Monday only 99c

POKERS. Long, nickeled Fire Pokers. Special! Monday only 10c

The above Specials are for Monday Only. No mail, phone or C. O. D. orders. We suggest that you come early in order to get your share of these genuine Bargains. Many other such values will be offered throughout the entire store.

Dinner Set Free!

A beautifully decorated $12.50 full 42-piece DINNER SET will be given FREE this week to each purchaser of one or more Suites, or a Kitchen Cabinet. This is a fine set—one you will appreciate.

Baby Wheel Beds---Monday

$2.98 White enameled. Rubber-tired wheels. This is a value you will buy immediately. Come Monday for these at .... $2.98 (Thick, well-made Mattresses for these Beds ..... $2.00)

Visit Us Monday-realize these savings!

Christmas isn't far away, so why not take advantage of this offer and make your Christmas Purchases NOW! Any purchase you make will be STORED FREE until you are ready for delivery. Our usual LIBERAL TERMS will gladly be arranged on any purchase you make. Tomorrow is the LAST DAY of this sale. Those who have not already visited us we urge to do so tomorrow. You will be more than pleased with the fine merchandise we are offering at such attractive prices. Suites in the very newest styles, finishes and upholsterings. Other merchandise of the same high quality. Again we urge that you visit us tomorrow and take advantage of these choice values. Realize the savings that are being offered. MONDAY—LAST DAY!

Kitchen Cabinets

Finest grade. Standard. Has every convenience. Porcelain top. FREE DINNER SET with each one purchased tomorrow. Special! Buy Now!

$1 CASH-$1 WEEK

4 W. Mitchell Street

Rhodes-Wood FURNITURE CO.

COMPLETE HOUSE FURNISHERS

4 W. Mitchell Street

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

VOL. LVIII., No. 162. ATLANTA, GA., SUNDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 22, 1925.

Hint Impeachment Of 'Ma' Ferguson In Texas Road Row

Call for Special Session of State Legislature in January To Take Action Is Circulated.

ATTORNEY GENERAL SEEN AS CANDIDATE

State Highway Chairman Attacks Moody for Letting Off Road Company So Easily.

Dallas, Texas, November 21.—(AP)—The Texas highway situation, which came to a sudden climax yesterday with an agreed judgment against the American Road company for $600,000 and cancellation of its contracts and state permit, was the center of swiftly moving events today. The high spots of the many sided controversy are these:

Representative T. K. Irwin, of Austin, issued a call for a special session to "impeach all those who aided or abetted and contributed to fraud against the people of the state of Texas."

Attorney General Dan Moody obtained an order from Judge George C. Calhoun, of the district court at Asutin, restraining the Hoffman Construction company of Eastland from collecting $351,047 on road contracts.

Moody Goes to Washington.

Moody is on his way to Washington to argue the Texas-Oklahoma injunction case in the supreme court.

Citizens of Williamson county said Moody would be compelled to run for governor and the Williamson Sun editorially announced that Moody would be demanded for governor.

Frank V. Lanham, chairman of the highway commission, declared that Moody had failed to save the state anything, charging that Moody permitted the American Road company to "escape with summer profits on highway work at 33 1-3 per cent profit."

Joe Burkett, member of the highway commission, issued a statement explaining his connection with the highway embroglio.

"Ma" Ferguson Silent.

While all of these things were transpiring, Governor Miriam A. Ferguson and her husband, James A. Ferguson, who early in the week had attempted to intervene in the American Road company suit with the intention of opposing Moody, kept silent, except that Mrs. Ferguson, when asked whether or not she would call for resignation of her highway commission, is reported to have answered, "Oh, dear, no."

Irwin's special session call is in the form of a resolution to be signed by house members joining in the call and requests Speaker Lee Satterwhite to convoke the house on January 10. It declares that, in addition to the highway department, "many other state departments are reported as being conducted in an irregular and incompetent manner, exciting the distrust of the people and tending to destroy their respect and veneration for their government."

Irwin said he had talked by telephone to many members of the legislature over the state, and that only one had declined to join him in the call. The petition to the speaker requires 50 votes to be legal, and then the speaker may pursue his own discretion.

Constitution Shows Record Grid Throng

Remarkable Air View Presented in Today's Gravure Section.

The only photograph showing all of the south's greatest sport crowd, assembled to view the football battle between Georgia and Tech a week ago at Grant field, is published in the gravure section of today's Constitution.

The photograph is one of the clearest aerial views ever made. It was taken from a low altitude by Francis E. Price, Constitution staff photographer, from an airplane piloted by Beeler Blevins. Through the skill of Mr. Blevins, who maneuvered the plane into position for the perfect "shot," and through the years of experience of Mr. Prince in making photographs from the air, The Constitution is able to present to its readers one of the most beautiful aerial photograprs ever made, and the only one of the greatest crowd ever gathered to witness a football game in the south.

The photograph shows the onld concrete, roofed stands at the left; the temporary wooden stands at the upper left, and the gleaming white new stands above and sweeping to the right. The two football teams are easily distinguishable in the center of the mass of humanity. Only one spot is shown to be vacant, the extreme lower end of the new stands, where the temporary stands interfered with the view of spectators.

Nearly 32,000 persons are in the great crowd pictured. They saw one of the finest and cleanest football games played in the south this year and witnessed a Tech victory by 3 to 0. It was the first meeting between the two schools in nine years.

BANK CLEARINGS IN ATLANTA REACH NOVEMBER RECORD

Total for Past Week Reported Third Highest of Any Week in History of City.

With Atlanta bank clearings for the past week registering $96,580,105, a new high record for weekly November clearings was established. Clearings for the week were the third highest of any week in the history of the city.

The highest record of weekly clearings was established during the week of October 25, 1919, when the total reached $99,563,547.63, the next highest week being for October 17, 1919, when the total registered $96,643,314.60.

Clearings for Saturday were placed at $94,359,143.56, or an increase of $4,124,877.65 over the same day last year. Total weekly clearings for the week ending Saturday registered an increase of $21,300,938.62 over the corresponding week for last year.

Seventh in Increase.

Atlanta took seventh place in percentage increase among leading cities of the United States for clearings during the past week, according to the weekly report isued by Bradstreet's. Atlanta showed a gain of 21.4 per cent. Nashville headed the list of southern cities with a gain of 40.1 per cent.

Atlanta attained a high place among leading cities of the country in amount of clearings registered for the month of October, according to another report just issued.

Clearings during the month of October were placed at $399,943,500, showing an increase of $108,806,600 over the corresponding month for 1924 and an increase of $126,526,300 over the corresponding month for 1923, according to the report.

Table of Clearings.

Clearings for the principal cities of the United States showing percentage of gain or loss as compared to the past week follow:

	November 19	Inc.	Dec.
New York	$6,188,000,000	9.5	....
Chicago	774,000,000	11.6	....
Philadelphia	685,000,000	17.0	....
Boston	545,000,000	7.7	....
San Francisco	137,299,000	....	28.6
Pittsburgh	189,782,000	11.8	....
Detroit	191,185,000	24.0	....
Los Angeles	197,809,000	20.1	....
St. Louis	129,200,000	1.7	....
Kansas City	171,000,000	6.2	....
Cleveland	133,087,000	15.6	....
Baltimore	133,253,000	17.6	....
Minneapolis	112,448,000	....	8.9
Cincinnati	81,851,000	12.9	....
Atlanta	96,437,000	21.4	....
New Orleans	80,000,000	16.6	....
Richmond	71,229,000	1.7	....
Buffalo	63,682,000	21.3	....
Dallas	69,157,000	7.8	....
Seattle	54,709,000	20.7	....
Omaha	48,615,000	14.3	....
Milwaukee	44,010,000	10.2	....
Portland, Ore.	51,474,000	19.8	....
Denver	41,253,000	....	1.2
Louisville	40,679,000	14.0	....
Houston	42,300,000	....	10.5
Birmingham	31,078,000	....	.1
Oklahoma City	40,434,000	1.0	....
Washington, D. C.	30,233,000	20.3	....
Memphis	33,525,000	....	5.3
Nashville	33,551,000	40.1	....
Indianapolis	18,733,000	....	1.0
Newark, N. J.	31,267,000	36.8	....
Oakland	26,658,000	58.3	....
Savannah	24,819,000	7.8	....
Salt Lake City	25,470,000	30.3	....
Columbus	15,222,000	15.1	....
St. Paul	16,212,000	12.5	....
Fort Worth	18,371,000	....	1.9
Providence	18,853,000	32.3	....
Rochester	13,800,000	16.0	....
Spokane	13,616,000	21.0	....
Des Moines	12,485,000	5.9	....
Galveston	12,438,000	....	7.4
Norfolk	10,208,000	5.1	....
Akron	6,680,000	....	20.0
Wichita	8,317,000	8.7	....
St. Joseph	8,006,000	....	1.2
Sioux City	7,128,000	7.3	....
Grand Rapids*	9,059,000	....	....
Duluth*	12,709,000	....	....
Total U. S.	10,872,583,000	9.7	....
Outside N. Y.	4,684,583,000	10.0	....

CHILE WITHDRAWS IN BOUNDARY WAR

Claims General Pershing Broke Promise for Early Promulgation of Election Law.

Arica, Chile, November 21.—(AP)—Augustin Edwards, head of the Chilean delegation, has been instructed by his government to withdraw from the work of the plebiscitary commission constituted in connection with President Coolidge's Tacna-Arica award, and to attend no further metings of the commission, which, it asserts, has no intention of promulgating an electoral law.

The Chileans explain that General Pershing, head of the commission, a week ago personally promised both Senor Edwards and former President Alessandri the early promulgation of an election law, but shortly afterward it was declared by the American representatives that it would be impossible to enact such a law for a long time.

This, the Chileans contend, is a violation of the award, which provided for the immediate holding of elections, and they decline to submit to further delay.

The commission, in the meantime, will continue to function, despite Chilean abstention.

CONVICT GARB FINALLY DONNED BY STEPHENSON

Former Klan Boss of Indiana Keeps Stiff Upper Lip as He Enters Doors of State Penitentiary.

NUMBER 11,148 ASSIGNED TO HIM

Asserts He Was Railroaded by Hostile Public Sentiment—Lawyers at Work on His Appeal.

Indiana State Penitentiary, Michigan City, Ind., November 21.—Manifesting the same fighting spirit that elevated him to the pinnacle of political power, D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Indiana Ku Klux Klan, entered the state penitentiary this morning to spend his remaining days in expiation for the murder of Miss Madge Oberholtzer, of Indianapolis.

"The fight is only starting," Stephenson muttered over and over as he stood awkwardly in the warden's office, waiting to be duly registered, bathed, examined and transferred into a number.

"I didn't have a chance for a fair trial at Noblesville with the mob hissing and shouting during the proceedings," he said with lips that would tremble despite him. The former grand dragon of Indiana, who boasted that his word was law, seemed oblivious to the walls of stone, the cells, the guards in uniform. It was apparent that he had steeled himself for the ordeal. He had determined to exhibit no emotion and he succeeded in a large measure.

Few See Him Leave.

Stephenson reached here shortly after 11 o'clock by automobile, in company with the sheriff of Warren county. The trip from the Noblesville county jail began just before daybreak. Only a few persons witnessed his departure. They stood in a hushed group outside the jail. When Stephenson appeared, he was permitted to shake hands with a few of them and to murmur farewell. He talked little as the automobile roared over the Indiana highways.

Stephenson was put through the same rigid examination as the ordinary prisoner. His finger prints were taken and filed, his head was shaved, there were Bertillon measurements, and he was given a prison suit and a number.

Stephenson is now convict number 11,148.

Lawyers Plan New Trial.

While the klan leader was submitting to the iron formula of prison life, his attorneys back in Indianapolis were making preparations to obtain a new trial for him. If the judge who heard his trial and sentenced him refuses a new trial, they plan to take the case to the state supreme court.

Stephenson was convicted of murdering Miss Madge Oberholtzer, an educational worker in Indianapolis, who, it is charged, was in love with the klan leader. She died last March, from the effects of poison she swallowed in a hotel room in Hammond, Ind., where, she charged, Stephenson with the assistance of two aides forced her to accompany him. The murder indictment was based on the charge that Stephenson caused the girl's death by refusing her medical aid.

Stephenson's aides, Earl Gentry and Earl Klenck, were tried with him, but were found not guilty.

LAWLESSNESS HIT BY METHODISTS

Laxity of Prohibition Law Enforcement and Attack on State Marriage Law Deplored.

BY DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.

Griffin, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Strongly condemning the evident laxity in enforcement of the prohibition law, as well as the attacks heaped upon Georgia's recently enacted marriage law, the spread of lawlessness, and calling on the newspapers of the state to refrain from making insinuous attacks on the prohibition law, the North Georgia conference of the Methodist church today neared the conclusion of its meeting, a session which is said to have produced greater results than any of previous years.

The conference will adjourn Monday, at which time the appointments will be announced.

The strong stand taken by the conference relative to law enforcement, resulted from a unanimous vote of approval given the report made by the temperance and social service body, which called attention of the conference to these conditions now prevalent over the state. An overwhelming vote also was given against

Continued on Page 11, Column 2.

Astronomer Confirms Finding of New Comet

:: SEEN FIRST ON NOV. 14 BY AMATEUR OBSERVER ::

Lake Geneva, Wis., November 21.—(AP)—Confirmation of the appearance of an entirely new comet, different from that observed a few years ago, was announced tonight by Professor Edwin B. Frost, director of Yerkes observatory of the University of Chicago, here.

Professor Frost said the comet was reported on November 14 by Leslie C. Peltier, an amateur observer of Delphos, Ohio, but was moving so fast that it had passed out of the location in which he reported it before a search was made for it from the observatory here.

It was observed and photographed tonight, however, by Professor Van Bresbroeck and Professor F. E. Ross. It is moving very rapidly toward the southeast at a rate of four degrees a day and is in the constellation of Hercules. At 6 o'clock tonight, its position was right ascension, 17 hours and 51 minutes, declination north 27 degrees and of the eighth magnitude.

The new comet does not show a tail and Prof. Frost said he could not predict if it would grow brighter.

"It must be relatively near the earth, however," he said, "because it is moving so fast. The comet discovered a few days ago is becoming fainter and will not become visible to the naked eye, but it is impossible to say yet whether the newest comet will be seen without the telescope."

SHRINERS' MOSQUE PROGRAM BEGINS WITH BIG PARADE

Impressive Exercises To Mark Ground-Breaking For $1,000,000 Structure Monday Afternoon.

Charles A. Bowen, illustrious potentate of Yaarab Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., and members of his divan, will officially break ground Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock for the construction of the new Shrine mosque and civic auditorium to be erected at Peachtree and Kimball streets.

The affair will be in the nature of a celebration of the victorious $1,000,000 building fund campaign, concluded less than a month ago. All of the organizations of Yaarab Temple, including the "million-dollar band," the Oriental band, the Patrol, the degree team, and Chanters, will be present in full uniform, as will hundreds of other Shriners.

Those in charge have planned a parade with the divan and the band leading the procession, from the corner of Mitchell and Whitehall streets to the lot on Peachtree street. The parade will begin at 2:30 o'clock, members of the uniformed body assembling at Yaarab Temple's temporary headquarters on the corner of Spring and Harris streets, at 2 o'clock, to make preparations.

John A. Hynds, past illustrious potentate of Yaarab, is to make the official address at the ground-breaking exercises, following which Potentate Bowen will turn the first shovel of earth.

Members to Participate.

Members of the divan who are to assist in the ceremonies are Tom C. Law, illustrious assistant raban; W. Frank Luckiesh, illustrious high priest and prophet; John C. Joiner, illustrious oriental guide; James S. Floyd, illustrious treasurer; George E. Argard, illustrious recorder; R. N. Fickett, first ceremonial master; Byron L. Milling, second ceremonial master; Virlyn Moore, marshal; Walter G. Bryant, captain of the guard; Roy S. Mather, outer guard; Fred Wooddall, director.

There are a number of interesting features of the ground-breaking ceremony other than the fact that it officially launches the temple building project.

It is doubtful that any money-raising project carried on in the south has been so quickly followed by active steps to promote the project for which the funds were raised, leaders said Saturday. Immediately following exercises Monday work of demolishing the Willis Ragan home, which has stood as an Atlanta landmark for generations, will begin. Soon thereafter the Joseph Moody home will be torn down, and Potentate Bowen has stated that actual building operations will begin in the early spring.

Detruction of the Ragan and Moody dwellings means that almost the last of the Atlanta "mansions" of other days, where visiting celebrities were

Continued on Page 13, Column 3.

GRADE CROSSINGS ON INCREASE SAYS A., B. & A. SPEAKER

Six Times As Many Crossings Created as Are Being Eliminated Says Railroad Official.

Manchester, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—That the grade crossing question as to highways and railroads is one of the greatest problems before the American people today and that total elimination is impossible because of the staggering cost was the declaration of Harry Huddleston, of Manchester, speaking before the Manchester Kiwanis club yesterday.

Mr. Huddleston, who is superintendent of the Birmingham division of the A., B. & A. railroad, spoke upon request on the subject of "Grade Crossings," and in part said:

"When I was requested to speak before your body on the subject of grade crossings, I immediately made inquiry to get the facts and figures on this subject from statistics that had been gathered by the railroads of the country and the interstate commerce commission that would be authentic, so that all of you could realize as I do that the grade crossing question as to railroads and highways is one of the greatest problems before the American people today.

Roads Increase Wealth.

"There seems to be no other way to so effectively increase the wealth and prosperity of a community as to fix it so you can get into it and out of it by good roads, and we all know the thing that fixes the value of a piece of real estate is the number of people that pass it every 24 hours. Our community, as well as other communities served by the A., B. & A. railroad, is growing by leaps and bounds, and for your information to show that this statement is true, the Gill district in which Manchester is now located had a taxable value before this railroad went through here of only about $35,000, and today the taxable value of property in this same district is far in excess of a million dollars.

"With this prosperity comes the demand for better roads and every county is spending huge sums upon good roads development. With the good roads comes automobiles of all descriptions from the cut-downs to the limousine and from the jitney to the magnificent palatial coaches. In their wake come trucks from the size of a wheel-barrow up to and as big as a box car.

"The number of automobiles in use in Georgia in 1923 were 173,889 and in 1924 there were 207,543 tags issued and the secretary of state offices advise they expect the number this year to reach 250,000 and over 17,000,000 in the United States.

"On December 31, 1923, there were 243,785 highway grade crossings over class 1 railroads, and then that same year there were 2,268 persons killed and 6,314 injured at these grade crossings, 154 of whom subsequently died.

"Of course the complete separation of the grade of railroad from highway would be a solution of this problem, but its physical accomplishment alone would require generations of time and an estimated cost as compiled by the interstate commerce commission of about $19,000,000,000, and this is as much as the existing value of the railroad properties in the United States. The railroad dollar now is already consumed in wages, material, equipment,

Continued on Page 13, Column 3.

Government Agents Launch Hunt for Noted 'Sheik' Bandit

:: JUSTICE AGENTS ARE OUT FOR REVENGE ::

Washington, November 21.—Agents of the department of justice, who have impersonally run hundreds of criminals to earth, have launched a man-hunt of their own.

The hunted individual is Martin James Durkin, of Chicago, murderer, automobile thief and bandit. He killed Edward C. Shananhan, justice department operative, and the first of the force to be killed since its establishment in 1907.

The justice agents are out for revenge.

Durkin, although only 26 years old, has a criminal record from Sacramento, Cal., to Hudson, N. Y. He is wanted by state police at the latter place.

Described as a "sheik," the criminal is referred to as the most desperate man at large in the country today. As he shoots with either hand and is quick on the draw, officers have been told to capture the man dead or alive.

Durkin began his criminal career when only a boy, according to record. During his years of crime he went under the names of Martin Westford, Edwin McCarthy, Martin Long, B. B. King, Robert Westberg and David Fanberg.

Sought by justice department agents on a charge of violating the national motor vehicle theft law, Durkin was in a garage at Chicago when Shananhan entered the place to question him. Without a word of warning Durkin shot and killed the federal sleuth.

Durkin was later lured back to his sweetheart's home at Chicago and surrounded. He shot his way clear. Sergeant Harry Gray, of the Chicago police department, and Lloyd Austin, a resident of the bombarded house, were killed in the exchange of fire. Two more murders were thus listed against Durkin.

After his remarkable escape, it was reported that Durkin wore a bullet-proof vest that saved his life. Federal officials here, however, believe the man is just lucky and described him as "a cat with nine lives."

Federal authorities believe Durkin is hiding in one of his underworld haunts in some big city. Every nook and corner he is known to have frequented is being watched.

A reward of $500 for his arrest or information leading to his arrest has been offered by the Chicago police department. Should Durkin be arrested by federal agents he would never stand trial on the motor theft charge, as he would be taken to Chicago to stand trial in the state courts for murder.

NEGRO BANDIT SLASHES FACE OF HIS VICTIM

Robert Copeland Offers Resistance and Sight Is Threatened as Bandit Wields Knife.

WHOLESALE STORE IS AGAIN LOOTED

Auto of Negro Tire Thief Is Struck by Train in Flight Out Whitehall Street.

Detectives are searching for bandits who Saturday night staged a series of daring robberies in various parts of the city. A number of other small burglaries and confidence schemes are also under investigation.

As a penalty for resisting a daring negro bandit Saturday night while on his way home, Robert Copeland, 29, of 288 East Georgia avenue, was seriously cut on the face and came near losing the sight of his left eye when he was slashed with a knife. After cutting Copeland, the negro escaped with $3 and a gold watch.

Copeland told police that as he was nearing his home on Georgia avenue the negro stepped suddenly from a side street and ordered him to put up his hands and give him his money. He struck at the negro with his fist but missed and the negro then cut him with the knife, he told police. The bandit then leaped at Copeland and, throwing him to the pavement, took his money and watch from him.

Summons Ambulance.

Copeland went to his home and called Grady hospital ambulance. Physicians at the hospital feared at first that the vision of his left eye would be lost, as the knife slashed the eyelid and made a deep wound in the left cheek.

Robbery of a wholesale grocery store for the second time within two days was reported to police Saturday night. The robbery was reported from the Paradies & Rich wholesale grocery, 178 Mangum street. The burglars escaped in a red touring car with seven cases of cigarettes valued at $1,000.

A passer-by reported to police that two negroes were at the place, and Call Officers C. G. Hughes and M. B. Johnson answered the call. The negroes had left before the officers arrived.

Nine other cases of cigarettes were stacked on a truck owned by the store, and seven other cases were piled near a second-story window. Police believe that the negroes had planned to stage the robbery and haul the cigarettes away in the truck, as the garage door had been broken.

Burglars entered the same store early Friday morning and carted away nearly $1,000 worth of cigarettes, which were recovered in a vacant house Friday night.

Seek Injured Negro.

Detectives Hugh T. Brown and A. G. Stone are searching hospitals for a negro thief who is believed to be injured but who made an almost miraculous escape in an automobile Saturday night after being struck at the Whitehall street crossing by a passenger train.

According to police, the negro took an automobile tire from the parked automobile of W. C. Harris, in front of 570 Whitehall street. As he was leaving, he was discovered in the theft, and throwing the tire in his automobile, he drove down Whitehall street at a rapid rate of speed.

Just before crosing the railroad tracks, the gates began to lower, but he continued his dash across the tracks. As he was almost across, the train struck his machine and catapulted it over the gates on the other side between two rows of automobiles.

Both front tires were punctured as the machine struck the pavement, but the thief drove down the street at a rapid speed. Police believe that the negro was hurt in the accident.

Purse-Snatcher Chased.

A purse-snatcher eluded a crowd of men Saturday night and escaped with a purse containing $6.50 and a bank book, which was snatched from Mrs.

Continued on Page 13, Column 3.

SUBMARINE SUNK BY SWEDISH BOAT

British Admiralty Announces Its Belief Loss of M-1, With 68 Men, Was Due to Collision.

London, November 21.—(AP)—Loss of the monitor submarine M-1 with 68 lives last week now appears to have been due to a collision with a Swedish steamer, the admiralty announced today.

Information sent by the captain of the steamer Vidar, now at Stockholm, that he felt a shock at the time and in the vicinity of the submarine's disappearance, leads to the conclusion that the M-1 struck the Vidar and sank immediately.

The admiralty statement was issued after an examination of the Vidar's hull. The admiralty thinks the collision occurred while the submarine was submerged, and adds:

"Under the circumstances, it is certain that the M-1 was rapidly and completely flooded and that the crew perished immediately."

The Vidar is a freighter of 2,150 gross tonnage.

Gentlemen Bandits Bind Family, Get $71,000 in Stamps

BURNED BUILDING ON EMORY CAMPUS TO BE REPLACED

Construction of New Unit To Cost $100,000 Will Be Started at Once.

Construction of the building which will replace the temporary structure recently burned on the campus of Emory university will be started at once, it was announced Saturday. It will consist of a dining hall and cafeteria, connected by a kitchen which will open in each of the two wings, the kitchen to be located in the center.

Working drawings for the structure now are being prepared by architects. It will be two stories high. The ground floor will contain storage rooms, lockers and will have enough space in the two wings to accommodate 1,000 persons. The upper floor will be devoted to an auditorium for student activities. Cost of the building is estimated at $100,000.

Harmonizing with the other buildings on the campus, the new structure is designed in the Italian renaissance style and will be constructed of brick and concrete with an exterior finish of Georgia marble.

The unit will be 50 by 120 feet. The entire top floor will be one room 20 feet in height. The ceiling will be beamed and paneled in geometrical designs and stained in color in accordance with the best examples of the Italian masters. The walls will be wainscotted eight feet high with hardwood paneling. As this room is to be used as a chapel, a stage complete with footlights, proscenium arch, and curtains is to be built in but so designed as to be readily removed. The auditorium will have a maximum seating capacity of about 1,000.

On the ground floor will be a Y. M. C. A. room seating 150 people and joined directly to the Y. M. C. A. secretary's office. Other rooms will accommodate the student store, a barber shop, the student publications, and athletic headquarters. There will also be a large dressing room with sufficient lockers and showers for all branches of athletics.

The main entrance to the building will be a large vaulted vestibule, located in the center of the long side, which will contain coat racks sufficient for all students using the building.

The new building, which will be constructed in the dormitory group on approximately the same site as the burned chapel, is the first structure to be erected under the $10,000,000 expansion plans adopted by the trustees of the university at their meeting last June. This program covers a period of 10 years and embraces $6,500,000 for endowment and $3,500,000 for new buildings, not including the $400,000 library now nearing completion on the campus.

The building committee consists of Asa G. Candler, W. D. Thomson and Harvey W. Cox, president.

SECOND SYMPHONY PROGRAM TODAY

Noted Harpist To Add Solo to Concert—Popular Numbers To Feature Offering.

One of the outstanding treats of the local musical season is in store for Atlantans this afternoon when Mrs. William Butt Griffith, harpist with the Atlanta Symphony orchestra, will give a solo as the second number on the program at Loew's Grand theater.

The concert is the second in the 1925-26 symphony series and will begin promptly at 3:30 o'clock. The program announced is distinctly of the "popular" classification.

Mrs. Griffith, who has been the recipient of enthusiastic applause whenever she has appeared in the past, will give as her number "Harpe D'Eole," by Louis Hasselmans, one of the most exquisite harp compositions in the musical library.

The great orchestra of 70 pieces, under the baton of Conductor Enrico Liede, will present as the first number this afternoon the ever popular "Martha" overtrue by Flotow.

Another of the most popular numbers is the third selection for today's program, when selections from Puccini's "Madame Butterfly" will be played. Two preludes from the "Jewels of the Madonna" is another operatic selection which adds to today's concert.

The work by Saint-Saens, "The Swan," will be played as the next to last selection and unless every prece-

Continued on Page 11, Column 1.

One of Group Is Reprimanded by Leader for Swearing in Presence of Women of House.

FORCE POSTMASTER TO GIVE UP KEYS

Stamps Worth $77,000 in Another Safe Overlooked by Bandits Through Man's Cunning.

Superior, Wis., November 21.—(AP) Robbers who engaged their victims in scholarly conversation of poets, music and arts were being sought by police tonight for the robbery from the local postoffice of $71,000 worth of postage stamps early today.

Five men, carrying out a well-planned plot, invaded the home of Charles J. McGill, last night, awaited the gathering of the entire McGill family, extracted the combination of the postoffice vault from the assistant postmaster, who is 67 years old, after which four departed for the postoffice while one stood guard.

Missed $77,000 in Stamps.

The robbers concluded their task at 3:20 a. m. today, after which they returned to the McGill home, and called for their fifth companion. They obtained $71,157.04 in stamps from the postoffice safe, but overlooked $77,000 in stamps in a safe for which they had obtained the key from McGill. The latter had informed them that the safe contained "nothing much" and they did not bother to open it.

Polite to the extent of reprimanding one of their group for swearing, the men were "perfect gentlemen," according to members of the McGill family.

"This is strictly business," the leader told McGill, his two sons, two daughters and another girl, who resided with them. "This is no joke. We are not playing. Give us the information we desire and we will not harm your daughters or your home."

Two Men Are Bound.

The five men bound McGill and his son, Leon. They did not bind the girls, but requested them to be seated on a sofa. Apparently acquainted with the number of members in the McGill family, they waited until the arrival of Emmett McGill, who arrived shortly before midnight from a theater. He also was bound. Fred A. Olson, a student who resides with the McGills, then entered, and seeing the masked men, fainted.

With the entire family assembled, McGill was taken into the kitchen, where two of the four men pressed guns against him and demanded the combination to the safe.

As the men left for the postoffice they cautioned their guard not to touch any objects for fear of leaving fingerprints.

Finger Prints on Glass.

This caution, however, was disregarded by the man, as a result of which authorities were given their most important clue. Emmett McGill asked for a glass of water. The guard obtained it, leaving his fingerprints on the glass. This was saved by members of the family and is being held for United States postal inspectors.

The guard removed his overcoat which he forgot to take with him.

One man was killed and another seriously injured late this morning when an automobile, which the police said they believed carried two of the robbers, dashed down Superior's main street at 40 miles an hour. After hitting the two men, the car dashed away at 60 miles an hour, pursued by motorcycle police.

Women Voters Offer Ballot Test to City

Eleven Public Issues Are Presented To Show Views of Citizens.

Because the League of Women Voters believe that many hundreds of ballots are thrown out of every election due to improper marking, the league announced Saturday that a demonstration ballot has been prepared and is published in this issue of The Constitution for the education of Atlanta men and women. Every voter is invited to test his or her knowledge of proper voting by marking the ballot and sending it to the league. All votes must be in the hands of the league by November 24, when they will be opened and counted during a luncheon on the Ansley hotel roof.

Several propositions are advanced in the ballot published today. Three are to be voted upon. All others must be scratched from the ballot to make it acceptable to the league. Schools and bonds are to be voted for as one vote each, although any of the items under the heading may be scratched.

The league pointed out in making the announcement that it does not wish to be connected with furtherance of any of the issues brought

Continued on Page 11, Column 2.

Orrin Randolph Smith Voted By Daughters of Confederacy As Stars and Bars Designer

Several Thousand Dollars, Derived From Membership Tax, Set Aside for Lee Fund.

Hot Springs, Ark., November 21.—(AP)—Orrin Randolph Smith designed the Stars and Bars, the Confederate flag, in the opinion of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, which has been investigating the claim of contestants for the honor for many years. Delegates to the 32nd annual convention voiced this opinion tonight, by adopting a majority committee report.

When Mrs. St. John A. Lawton, of Charleston, S. C., chairman of a committee which has investigated the designing of the flag, recommended that the organizations go on record as believing that evidence available made it reasonably certain that Smith was the designer, several delegates objected. After lengthy debate, the committee retired and returned with two recommendations.

Mrs. Lawton announced that the claim of friends of Smith was the best in the belief of a majority of the committee. Mrs. John L. Woodbury, of Louisville, Ky., presented a minority recommendation. A motion to substitute the minority report for the majority report was rejected.

Daughter Introduced.

Miss Jessica R. Smith, of Lewisburg, N. C., and Washington, D. C., a daughter of Orrin Randolph Smith, was introduced and expressed her appreciation of the action of the delegates in approving the claim of her father, who is dead. Similar action has been taken by the United Confederate Veterans. Opponents of the Smith claim did not ask that any other person be declared the designer of the flag.

The convention today voted to convert several thousand dollars received from per capita taxes into a Lee memorial fund, set aside $2,000 for the purpose of supplying authentic data in connection with the production of certain historical films, and tonight elected Mrs. C. C. Clay, of San Francisco as honorary president-general.

Chosen on Fourth Ballot.

Mrs. Clay received the required majority on the fourth ballot. Three other honorary presidents were selected Thursday.

The proposal to convert per capita tax funds into a trust fund, brought about the most spirited discussion of the day, during which delegates from Georgia and Missouri opposed recommendations made by Mrs. Roy Weeks McKinney, of Paducah, Ky., chairman of the Lee memorial committee, who reported that plans for work, in connection with the chapel that daughters had planned to sponsor, had been withdrawn.

Opponents of the proposal urged that the money raised for the memorial be returned to the donors.

Members of the committee said they had not determined what use they would recommend should be made of the money.

Will Patent Badges.

The delegates voted to have their badges patented and to have a special insignia designed for honorary presidents.

Approximately $3,800 was subscribed on the floor of the convention today to the Norman V. Randolph relief fund to supply financial assistance to widows of Confederate veterans living in the northern and eastern states. North Carolina led the list of contributors with $500. Florida, Alabama, South Carolina and Tennessee each contributed $200. Virginia subscribed $305 and Texas $278.

$1,000 for Essays.

Other action taken today provided for the awarding of two prizes of $500 each for Confederate essays. The prizes will be awarded biennially out of a gift of $10,000 for educational work provided by Bernard Baruch, of New York, in memory of his mother, Mrs. Simon Baruch. All students of American educational institutions will be eligible to compete for the prizes and the essays pertaining to any significant theme in the history of the south.

Mrs. T. Whitehead Holt, of Charleston, S. C., chairman of the committee appointed to make efforts to have the war of 1860-1865 referred to as the "war between the states," instead of the civil war, declared the situation is discouraging, and it seems that the public cannot be educated as much as had been hoped in this respect. Mrs. Holt said the committee would attempt to have all school children taught the proper term to use in order that future generations will not class the "Lost Cause" as a "civil" war.

ARTISTIC Picture Framing
The Neatest and Best At Right Prices
For Home— For Office
Sou Book Concern
71 Whitehall
GAVAN'S

Danger Lies in every Cold

Many thousands of people every year die from results of colds. Pneumonia alone claims 150,000. So a cold is a very important matter. Treat it in the best way known.

That way is Hills' Cascara-Bromide-Quinine. It stops millions of colds every winter—stops them in 24 hours.

Take it the moment a cold begins. Take it to end a cold, to check grippe. Nobody has ever found a better way. At all druggists.

Be Sure It's HILL'S CASCARA BROMIDE QUININE Price 30c
Get Red Box with portrait

Cabbage and Sausages Woman's Diet

"I have doctored with the best doctors in the United States. Some said one thing and some another was ailing me and all wanted to cut me open, but Mayr's Wonderful Remedy saved me, so now I eat cabbage, sausage and anything I want to. Nothing hurts me." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Jacobs' Pharmacy and druggists everywhere. —(adv.)

666 is a prescription for Colds, Grippe, Flu, Dengue, Bilious Fever and Malaria.
It kills the germs.

Metal Beds Refinished In Wood Finishes
Mahogany, Walnut, Oak, Ivory, etc.
Silverware, Auto Parts, etc., Replated and Made New.
Simmons Plating Works
125 So. Pryor St. WAlnut 6244-45

CHILDREN CRY FOR Fletcher's CASTORIA

MOTHER:—Fletcher's Castoria is especially prepared to relieve Infants in arms and Children all ages of Constipation Wind Colic To Sweeten Stomach
Flatulency Diarrhea Regulate Bowels
Aids in the assimilation of Food, promoting Cheerfulness, Rest, and Natural Sleep without Opiates
To avoid imitations, always look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

METHODISTS MEET IN MACON TUESDAY

Macon, Ga., November 21.—(AP)—More than 600 delegates are expected to attend the annual South Georgia conference here of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, which will be held at Mulberry Street Methodist church beginning Tuesday, November 24. The conference will continue for a week.

Preparations are being carried forward for the entertainment of the ministers and laymen during their stay in Macon. The majority of those arriving for the conference will be cared for in private homes.

Bishop Warren A. Candler, of Atlanta, will be present and will deliver the Thanksgiving sermon. The Mulberry Street church and other Methodist churches of the city have named committees to handle the details in connection with the conference opening.

Leaders of the conference emphasize that it is the intention to avoid debate on the unification question, and to proceed to a vote by the conference without a word of discussion. The plan is said to have been thrashed out among the ministers and the churches, in advance of the conference, and the early vote will be taken in the interest of time.

Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, of Macon, will preside over the conference session. This will be the first time the conference has met in Macon in years. Dr. Walter Anthony, pastor at Mulberry church, in charge of local arrangements, states that everything is in readiness for the opening.

A postoffice is to be established and telephone connections installed. As fast as delegates arrive, they will be met at different trains at the station and escorted to the homes where they are to be housed during their visit here.

ALEXANDER DISCUSSES RACIAL DIFFICULTIES

Indianapolis, Ind., November 21.—(Special.)—"The popular picture of the negro mind which the white people have is the picture of a negro mind that never did exist," said Dr. Will W. Alexander, of Atlanta, secretary of the inter-racial commission at the annual meeting of the board of home missions and church extension of the Methodist Episcopal church here.

Dr. Alexander said in part:

"Negroes understand whites better than whites understand negroes, and yet much that negroes attribute to whites is not true. The relationships are made difficult by misunderstandings on both sides.

"There is much good will among whites in the south for negroes. The difficulty is that it is good will towards the type of negro that no longer exists.

"Our investigations further revealed that racial difficulties grow largely out of the mental attitudes.

"We discovered that by bringing intelligent colored and white men together in frank and friendly discussion this chasm between them could be bridged.

Work of Commission.

"The work of the commission on interracial cooperation has been to try to build a bridge across the gulf that exists between the intelligent white men and intelligent negroes.

"There are two fundamental principles for creating better race relations: conference and cooperation.

"There had been a conspiracy of silence in the south on this question. Dr. Moton says that negroes tell white men what they think is safe for white men to know; and that white men tell negroes what they think negroes have sense enough to understand. You cannot get along that way. The first step is to bring this question to open, frank discussion.

"Right race relations are a by-product. If men work together around the concrete task, they will soon change their attitudes to one another.

"With many others, I am convinced that the millions of negroes in America have something of great value to contribute to American life.

Worthy of Confidence.

"The negro is not a menace to America. He has proved himself worthy of confidence. He has been, and may continue to be, a blessing. In the years that are to come he needs the help of those who have voices of influence.

"The forces working for racial good will in America have been unified. Never before since the civil war has the negro had such a chance to speak for himself. Not only have negroes in these days been speaking for themselves, but they have found new voices to speak for them." During the 35 years previous to 1922 with 439 lynchings, there had been but one indictment, so far as the records show. The poor and ignorant everywhere have a hard time in the courts. Possibly the thing which has mattered most has been the changed attitude which has come to the white people who have been doing the work."

PERFUME AND CORN FOUND AS DOCTORS SEEK FOR POISON

Perfume and corn whisky combined to produce a peculiar effect on Julian Thompson, 21, of 22 Western avenue, according to physicians who treated him at Grady hospital late Saturday.

According to physicians, Thompson came to the hospital Saturday night asking for treatment. He said that he was stopped near his home by three strange men and forced to drink something which he believed to be poison.

A stomach pump was used and a quantity of corn whisky and perfume was pumped from his stomach, doctors said. He was dismissed after treatment.

LIVE TISSUE TAKEN FROM 1913 CHICKEN IS STILL GROWING

New York, November 21.—Live tissue, taken from the heart of a chicken in 1913 by Dr. Alexis Carrell, still is growing under the care of Rockefeller Institute experts. Had it not been pared down each day, it now would be "a colossal monster," overspreading the entire city of New York, they said today.

The tissue doubles its growth every 24 hours. Motion pictures showing this growth are being studied by scientists with great interest. As long as the tissue is nurtured and irrigated, it cannot die, institute officials said.

German, American Film Companies Conclude Big Trade Agreement

Berlin, November 21.—(AP)—An important deal involving American participation in the German film industry was concluded today with an agreement between the Universal Pictures corporation, of New York, and the Universal Film corporation, of Berlin, popularly known as Ufa.

It provides for reciprocal competition in the production and presentation of American and German films in the United States and in the European markets where Ufa operates.

The American corporation is reported to have advanced the German firm a loan of 15,000,000 marks, to run 10 years at an average interest of 8 1-4 per cent.

ADVANCE OF DRUSE REBELS IS HALTED

Beirut, Syria, November 21.—(AP)—A definite turn of the situation in southern Lebanon in favor of the French is indicated by the most recent developments.

French reinforcements appear to have broken the spirit of the revolting Druse tribesmen in this region and have removed the danger of the Druses reaching Jessin, on the road from Damascus to Sidon.

As a result Sidon is no longer menaced. A calmer atmosphere has been restored to the entire Mediterranean coast, from Beirut southward to Tyre.

Native volunteers, heartened by the successes of the French troops, are organizing everywhere.

The Druses are believed to have lost their best chance to reach the coast yesterday when the French repulsed their attempts to take the bridges over the Litany river. Sharp encounters here resulted in 50 Druse casualties and only unimportant French losses. This success was followed today by another reported in a French communique in which two Druse attacks on the town of Rasheiya, 30 miles west of Damascus, were repulsed with heavy Druse losses.

Druse sources, however, report one setback for the French. They say that a reconnoitering force of 60 men under a French officer was ambushed north of Rasheiya Thursday and that only 15 survivors escaped. They also state that the French acting high commissioner yesterday gave orders that no more arms are to be issued to the native Christians and that the arms already given out will be withdrawn.

SEARCHERS FAIL TO FIND TRACE OF MISSING GIRL

Northampton, Mass., November 21.—(AP)—State Detective Joseph V. Daly and a band of searchers who today followed a police dog through the Mount Tom reservation near here hunting for Miss Alice M. Corbett, Smith college junior, who disappeared November 13, returned tonight satisfied that the girl is not on the reservation.

George Morrison, power lineman, had reported having seen a girl answering to Miss Corbett's description wandering through the woods near Whiting's peak yesterday, revolver in hand.

Morrison, who also had reported seeing lights in a supposedly deserted cabin near Whiting's peak, had disappeared today, Daly said. A search of the cabin today showed that the girl could not have occupied it since her disappearance.

PRAIRIE FIRES HIT ROSELAND RESERVATION

Valentine, Neb., November 21.—(AP)—Two large prairie fires were raging over the Rosebud reservation late today, threatening to duplicate the damage suffered in the locality last spring.

The largest fire, evidently, started northwest of Lakeview, S. D. Telephone messages from there said that all people available were fighting the flames.

The second was north and east of the other and 30 miles due north of Valentine. A side fire from this one had burned all the range and feed on the ranch of William Neihaus, who lost heavily in last year's fire.

The wind was variable but high, averaging 30 miles an hour and holding steady from the northwest. The country is very dry.

MRS. BOLLING DIES OF HEART DISEASE

Washington, November 21.—(AP)—Mrs. William H. Bolling, 82 years old, mother of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, died here today after several months' illness from heart disease.

Mrs. Bolling, who had been living in Washington for 22 years, was first stricken with pneumonia last June while in Atlantic City, and since that time her condition had become steadily worse.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon in the home of Mrs. Wilson, where President Wilson died. Burial will take place Monday in Wythesville, Va., where she was born, and the body will be laid to rest beside that of her husband, Judge William H. Bolling, who died some years ago.

Beside Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Bolling is survived by two other daughters and five sons. They are Mrs. Alexander H. Galt and Miss Bertha Bolling, both of Washington, and John Randolph Bolling, Rolfe E. Bolling, Richard Wilmer Bolling, Julian C. Bolling and Dr. W. A. Bolling, the last named of Detroit.

RECORD ESTABLISHED IN MAD-DOG KILLING

What is believed to be a new record for killing mad dogs was made late Saturday by Call Officer Otis Hewell. A call was received at 27 Fortune street and Officers Hewell and H. P. Sibley answered, armed with shotguns.

Six dogs, believed to be mad were staging a battle royal and Officer Hewell fired into the bunch and four fell the first shot, according to police report. The other two were killed later.

GERMAN IMPERIAL COUNCIL APPROVES LOCARNO TREATIES

Berlin, November 21.—(AP)—The reichsrat, or imperial council, today approved the government bills giving effect to the Locarno treaties and providing for Germany's entrance into the League of Nations.

The vote was 46 to 4, with three abstentions.

The reichsrat comprises representatives of the federated states making up the German republic. The assent of the reichsrat to all bills is required before their introduction into the reichstag or parliament.

EXHUMATION OF BABY ORDERED FOR PROBE

Chicago, November 21.—(AP)—Exhumation of the five weeks' old son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Allen was ordered today for further examination in the investigation of its death by chloroform in the Allen suite in a north side hotel Tuesday night.

Examination of the baby's brain was planned. Tests of its vital organs have developed that the poison was administered in food. Mrs. Allen said either she or the nurse prepared the baby's food.

Previous to the baby's birth, prosecutors have learned, Mrs. Allen suffered a nervous breakdown, necessitating treatment in a sanitarium.

Railroad Man's Heart Beat Makes Bed Shake

Charles Green, a railroad man, was troubled for years with gas fermentation of food and was dizzy and bloated. His heart beat so laboriously that his bed seemed to shake. Finally he tried the mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc. (known as Adlerika), and this helped him.

Many people keep the OUTSIDE body clean but let their INSIDE body stay full of gas and poisons. Give the inside a REAL cleansing with the mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as sold under the name of Adlerika. This acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, eliminates metabolic poisons and removes old matter which you never thought was in your system, and which caused sour stomach, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache, etc.

Whenever you eat too much heavy food, let Adlerika REMOVE the undigested surplus and leave you feeling fine. ONE spoonful relieves GAS and takes away that full, bloated feeling. Even if your bowels move every day, Adlerika brings out much additional matter which might cause trouble. Don't waste time with pills or tablets, but let Adlerika give your stomach and bowels QUICK relief.

What Doctors Say

Dr. G. Eggers reports Adlerika is the best medicine he has used in 37 years.

Dr. W. H. Bernhart writes he could not get along in his practice without Adlerika.

Dr. J. J. Weaver, a doctor for 50 years, says he knows no medicine better than Adlerika.

Dr. L. Langlois prescribes Adlerika regularly with GOOD effect.

J. E. Puckett writes: "After using Adlerika I feel better than for 20 years. AWFUL impurities were eliminated from my system."

Adlerika is a big surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines because of its REAL and quick action. Sold by leading druggists everywhere.—(adv.)

KNOW STUDIO PARK!
The Eyes of the Motion Picture Industry Are Focused on Pinellas Park, St. Petersburg,
FLORIDA

Florida with its natural settings of outdoor beauty, wonderful climate and economic conditions, has attracted the attention of the Motion Picture world!

And to Pinellas Park—just six and one-half miles from the business district of St. Petersburg, the Sunshine City—falls the distinction of being the choice location, after exhaustive investigation throughout the state, for the most desirable site for the new $250,000 Motion Picture Studio which has been planned. According to these men of experience and standing in the Motion Picture Industry, Pinellas County embraces more completely the essentials so necessary to the production of feature pictures.

WHY??
Here Are the Reasons:
1—Florida offers more hours of Sunshine than any other section of the country—guaranteeing a minimum loss of time in outdoor filming.
2—Florida is nearer the financial heart and the releasing center of the Motion Picture Industry—four days nearer than the West Coast.
3—Florida offers a greater variety of natural scenery, tropical, metropolitan, rural, sea and still water, with combinations that can be used to unusual advantage.
4—A great saving in time and money in transportation and a closer touch between the producing center and the executive offices.
5—These any many other impelling reasons prompted the establishment of Studio Park in Pinellas County, at Pinellas Park.

a home community of Rare Prestige

And only a few minutes' drive from the very heart of the greatest city of West Coast Florida. Located in the proximity of such wonderful business and social activity, Studio Park is destined to become one of the outstanding home communities of "The Sunshine City."

You know the history of success overshadowing like developments in close connection with the larger motion picture studios in the West. There is prestige and charm in living in a motion picture community, and those securing homesites at the original pre-development prices will indeed be fortunate. Wide boulevards, a WHITE WAY, palms and tropical growths will make Studio Park a community of exceptional beauty, establishing it as one of the show places of "The Sunshine City."

Harry P. Carver, well known in the Motion Picture world as former general manager of Cosmopolitan Productions, is vice president of Florida Motion Picture Industries, Inc. Many letters have already been received from his friends in the industry congratulating him on his project, which will make possible the coming to Florida of the larger producing companies.

Now Selling

The pre-development sale is now on! It has just started—choice sites are now available at the original prices. These prices are low and the FIRST UNIT will be quickly absorbed. Now is your opportunity to get in on the ground floor of what promises to be one of Florida's most popular home communities and most profitable investment opportunities. Call at the local office today and learn more facts regarding this development which offers such an unusual opportunity for actual profit!

Licensed by Georgia Securities Commission

Florida Motion Picture Industries, Incorporated
Leo Kilgannon, President
660 Central Avenue
ST. PETERSBURG——FLORIDA
Owners and Developers

THOMPSON & FISHER—Exclusive Agents
207 Haas-Howell Building WAlnut 7332
ATLANTA

DINKLER TO HEAD BIG HOTEL SYSTEM

New York, November 21.—(AP)—The Dinkler Hotel company, described as the "Statler system of the south," has been incorporated in Delaware to acquire a string of first-class hostelries in leading southern cities.

Carling L. Dinkler, who now has interests in 25 other southern hotels, will be president.

The rapid growth of the south was said by organizers of the new company to have created the strong demand for first-class accommodations both for tourists and business men who are going south in larger numbers than ever before.

SECOND SYMPHONY PROGRAM GIVEN TODAY

Continued From First Page.

dent fails the orchestra is going to have to repeat this number as an encore.

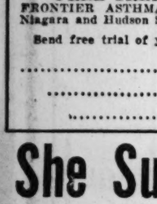
The concert will close with the overture, "Il Guarany," by Gomez.

As in past years, the entire ground floor and first balcony of the theater is reserved until after the playing of the opening number on the program for holders of reserved seat tickets. The upper gallery is free to the general public but as its capacity is strictly limited first-comers will be admitted until it is full and all others will be forced to forego the privilege of hearing the concert, except those few who may be able to find seats not taken in the reserved sections after the first number is concluded.

Tickets for reserved sections cannot be sold today but any who desire to make sure of seats for the remaining six concerts of the series, may secure reservations by applying during the week at the office of the Phillips & Crew Piano company, Peachtree and Ellis street.

In order to meet a special demand, the association also has decided to sell reservations for single concerts, which may likewise be secured in advance during the week.

APPLY SAGE TEA TO DARKEN FADED HAIR



Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients. It is known as Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur Compound and can be obtained at all drug stores for only 75 cents a bottle.

While gray faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.—(adv.)

FREE TO ASTHMA SUFFERERS

Free Trial of a Method That Anyone Can Use Without Discomfort or Loss of Time.

We have a method for the control of Asthma, and we want you to try it at our expense. No matter whether your case is of long standing or recent development, whether it is present as occasional or chronic Asthma, you should send for a free trial of our method. No matter in what climate you live, no matter what your age or occupation, if you are troubled with asthma, our method should relieve you promptly.

We especially want to send it to those apparently hopeless cases, where all forms of inhalers, douches, opium preparations, fumes, "patent smokes," etc., have failed. We want to show everyone at our expense, that our method is designed to end all difficult breathing, all wheezing, and all those terrible paroxysms.

This free offer is too important to neglect a single day. Write now and begin the method at once. Send no money. Simply mail coupon below. Do it Today—you do not even pay postage.

FREE TRIAL COUPON
FRONTIER ASTHMA CO., Room 34-D Niagara and Hudson Sts., Buffalo, N. Y.
Send free trial of your method to:
.....
.....
.....

She Suffered

"I had a bad leg for 20 years, tried everything and had doctors but no benefit. I tried Peterson's Ointment and 5 boxes healed my leg. I can never praise it enough. My leg was so painful at first that I had to put fresh ointment on every two hours, night and day. It stopped the pain at once." Mrs. Mark Richards, Lake Linden, Mich. Fine for piles, eczema and all skin troubles and blemishes. Big box 60 cents at all druggists.

The mighty healing power of Peterson's Ointment quickly clears the skin of all rashes, pimples and blemishes. Peterson Ointment Co., Buffalo, N. Y. —(adv.)

PILES CURED WITHOUT SURGERY

No knife, burning, discomfort or detention from business. Read this noted Specialist's book on Rectal diseases—Dr. Hughes' celebrated original bloodless treatment for Hemorrhoids. Produces positive and permanent results. Do not be deceived by imitators. Write for this book today, free to Pile Sufferers, or call personall,. No charge for consultation.

DR. T. W. HUGHES
Rectal Specialist
18½ N. Broad St., Atlanta, Ga.

Will Play Solo in Concert

Mrs. William Butt Griffith, harpist with the Atlanta Symphony orchestra, who is soloist for this afternoon's concert at Loew's Grand theater.

DEMONSTRATION BALLOT

Vote for the three things you consider the most important for Atlanta.

Scratch those items which you are NOT voting for.

All but three items must be scratched in order that the ballot be counted.

Schools and Bonds count only one vote each, though you may scratch any of the items under either one that you do NOT desire.

All ballots must be at 356 Candler annex by Tuesday at 6 p. m.

BALLOT

ADEQUATE EXTENSION OF POLICEWOMEN'S WORK

BONDS:
(a) Art Museum Bonds
(b) City Hall Bonds
(c) School Bonds
(d) Viaduct Bonds

CLEANER STREETS

COMMUNITY CHEST

COUNCIL MANAGER FORM OF GOVERNMENT.

INCREASED SALARIES FOR FOR CITY EMPLOYEES.

MUNICIPAL TOURIST CAMP.

NATIONAL ADVERTISING FOR ATLANTA.

SCHOOLS:
(a) All Day Sessions (with hot luncheons accessible to children)
(b) School Bonds
(c) School Practice Houses

SMOKELESS ATLANTA.

SOLUTION OF TRAFFIC PROBLEM.

SUNDAY MOVIES.

WOMEN VOTERS OFFER BALLOT TEST TO CITY

Continued From First Page.

out in the ballot. It has taken 11 issues which from time to time have been brought before the public, and has placed its approval on none of them for the purposes of this balloting. The result, however, will serve to show a definite trend of thought in the minds of voters, since only three of the issues are to be counted in the balloting.

The league said that suggestions as to the matter to be contained in the ballot have come from many persons and organizations. The city was canvassed, it was said, to get an idea of what is uppermost in the minds of the city voters.

Ballots when marked should be mailed or taken to 356 Candler annex and must be in the hands of the league by November 24 or they cannot be counted.

Citizenship School.

Training in citizenship and the use of the ballot will be given Atlanta women Tuesday in an all-day free citizenship school to be conducted on the roof garden of the Ansley hotel by the league in cooperation with the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs and the Atlanta Parent-Teachers' association.

The chart for the day will consist of the following text: "Woman's place is in the home, but, madame, who keeps your home," the lessons showing how the home is affected by city government.

Mrs. R. L. Turman, president of the Atlanta league, and chairman of the citizenship training committee of the state league, will be in charge of the school. Sessions will open at 10 o'clock, and will adjourn for luncheon at 12:45 o'clock.

A straw ballot will be conducted to select Atlanta's most vital needs, and three subjects will be chosen from the list. Then an election will be held to demonstrate proper means of marking ballots.

Poll taxes, registration, manners of election, council manager form of city government, and the league's policies will be discussed at the school, with the idea in view of showing how the home is controlled by the vote.

Large numbers of Atlanta women are expected to attend the course. No charge is to be made for the lessons.

LAWLESSNESS HIT BY METHODISTS

Continued From First Page.

the proposed changing of the time for the holding of the annual sessions.

Ministers Retired.

Seven ministers were superannuated by the conference today, while a class of 20 men were received into the conference on trial.

During the year churches in the conference raised the amount of $1,760,120 for all purposes, statistics furnished the conference show, which is an increase over 1924 of $31,377.

An increase in membership was also noted this year over last, the net increase being given as 2,542. The budget adopted for the conference in 1926 and for general work was placed at the figure of $251,470. These reports and many others were submitted to the conference during the afternoon session from boards and commissions.

The session tonight was given over to the staging of a pageant by the Griffin Epworth league.

A feature of the day session was the entertainment provided the conference by Misses Mildred McCrory, Harriet Evans and Lucile Seward, of Wesleyan college, Macon.

Ministers who were superannuated today were: J. A. Quillian, Athens; F. D. Cantpell, Union Point; W. B. Dillard, Winder; W. W. Denson, Atlanta; Lucien Roper, Palmetto; G. W. Duval, Smyrna, and M. B. Whittaker, of Brooks.

Men received into the conference on trial were A. C. Stratten, J. Foster, D. C. Starnes, W. L. Brackman, Thomas E. Sherwood, L. C. Hayes, Jr., H. E. McBreyer, R. W. Allison, M. Elrod, N. A. Parsons, R. M. Jones, N. P. Manning, L. L. Burch, B. N. McHan and J. L. Varner. L. G. Marlin was readmitted to the conference, while W. J. Bryson was received from the Baptist church.

Services On Sunday.

Sunday services will be conducted in Griffin churches by visiting Methodist ministers, with Bishop Candler preaching at the First Methodist church at the morning hour and Bishop Darlington at night.

Atlanta ministers who will conduct preaching services in Griffin Sunday are: Dr. T. R. Kendall, Sr., will have charge of the love feast at the First Methodist church; Dr. S. P. Wiggins will preach at the First Baptist church; Dr. S. R. Belk at the First Presbyterian; Rev. L. M. Twiggs at the First Christian; Rev. Henry B. Mays at Hanleiter church; Rev. W. J. Debardeleben at the Second Baptist church at the morning hour and at the Kincaid Methodist church at night.

In his report to the board of education, Dr. Elam F. Dempsey, secretary of education, North Georgia conference, said in part:

"It was in May, 1918, at the session of the general conference held in this state at Wesley Memorial church, that the Christian education movement was authorized. It was preceded by the Centenary, so that its preparation campaign and that for subscriptions fell in the late winter and spring of 1921. Subscriptions were made so that the first of the five annual payments fell due November 1, 1921.

"The financial depression which followed in the wake of the world war had already come upon the country so that subscriptions fell short of accepted quotas in almost every instance. The whole church subscribed a total of about $18,000,000.

Statistics of North Georgia.

"In our own conference, upon an accepted quota of $1,765,000, we had 17,581 subscribers, who agreed to pay only $741,000. In this group of subscribers, there are 5,000 who made deferred subscriptions, placing their first payment at November 1, 1924. We see, therefore, that this great host of subscribers is just now due its second payment. Besides these, there are a large number who have given deferred subscriptions with initial payments at varying dates.

"When we take into consideration the ravages caused by the boll weevil and by the drouth this year we will readily see that, for our people to have paid as of November 12, 1925, $263,502.10 total for the period covered by the movement, is a very brave and generous thing. This sum represents a very high percentage of payment upon pledges that have fallen due. Another thing that makes this percentage of collection upon pledges far above the average of our conferences, is the fact that, in multiplied instances, the payments are almost negligible; in other words, the subscriptions are so small that we have to make a dishearteningly large number of collections in order to present anything like a respectable sum total.

"Our special period, giving us the right-of-way over all other connectional movements, extends through January 31, 1926, and we should most energetically use every means to go forward to better collections than ever.

Six Colleges Seek Funds.

"Turning now briefly to my work as secretary of education, in every way possible I have sought to foster the interests of all our schools, keeping them in mind individually and regarding them as relating to one another in a system. I would be glad to see our Georgia colleges in such relation to one another that there was a well-defined and definitely conscious coordination of work among them and as each is related to the other.

"For the four years past, the outstanding goal of endeavor upon my part in this relation has been that each of our colleges should secure an adequate endowment—by which I mean an endowment the annual income from which is about equal to the budget of the institution for current running expenses. Without such endowment, no school can be assured of perpetuity. There is no lesson of educational history more positively true than this. So true is it that it is among educators, a truism.

"But it has not reached the mind of our populace and we must continue our activities to convey it to them and to fix it as one of their standard convictions. I believe we will, within a year or two, attain this coveted goal and that our present institutions of learning will thereby be established permanently in their invaluable ministries to the church and the state.

Candler Able Chairman.

"In all these activities, and in more, I have at all times had the enthusiastic, the patient, and the wise counsel of the chairman of our board, Judge John S. Candler. In ways untold and in energies constantly exerted and which are unobserved by the world about us, this devoted educational leader is constantly fostering every interest of our educational program, not only in our own conference but in the church at large.

"As a member of the general board of education, Judge Candler is in constant demand in the whole field of the church for counsel and for inspirational speaking and leadership."

WINTER POULTRY SHOW SOON AT CARROLLTON

Carrollton, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Plans are completed for the largest and best poultry show, December 1-4, that has ever been held in this section. Space has been arranged to care for 1,000 birds.

Many special prizes are offered by the American association to winners of the Georgia winter poultry show.

A premium list of all prizes may be secured by writing Miss Irene New, secretary; H. H. Alexander, superintendent, or J. T. Cox, Jr., at Carrollton.

FOR BUSINESS HOUSES
Engraved Christmas Cards
$50.00 to $80.00 per thousand
Many Effective Good Will Builders
CALL WALNUT 3869
KEELIN PRINTING CO.
67-A Walton Street

What does your mirror reveal?

Pimples—or a beautiful clear skin such as S.S.S. gives

OH, the charm that lies in a perfect skin! It's clear, soft, velvet smoothness is the admiration of all men and the envy of less fortunate women.

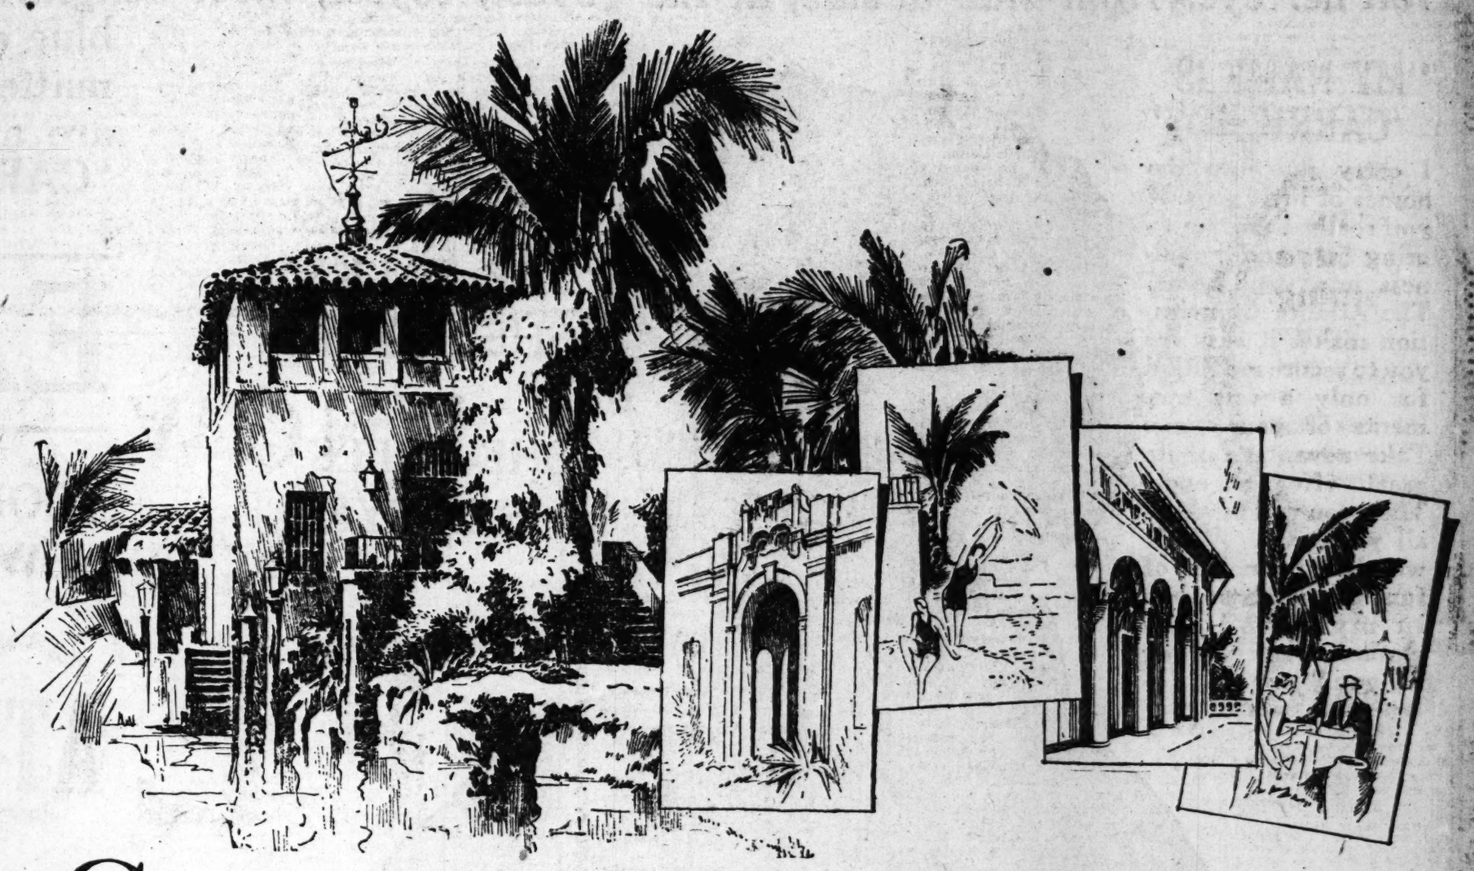
But what heartaches, when your mirror reveals unsightly pimples, that mar this greatest of all womanly charms. Pimples, blackheads, blotches, eczema and all skin disfigurements tell a story of weak blood. Blood lacking healthy, rich, red-blood-cells.

And yet, how easy it is to be free from these annoying, beauty-destroying blemishes. How easy to keep the skin clear, clean and radiant with the glow of health. Simply build rich, red blood. S. S. S. helps Nature do it. It builds red-blood-cells by the millions! Pimples nor any other eruption can remain when the skin is nourished with the rich, red, pure blood that S. S. S. helps Nature build. They are driven right away.

And there's no other way. Nothing but a plentiful supply of healthy red blood will keep your skin healthy. For 100 years S. S. S., made from vegetable medicinal ingredients, has proven it.

And oh, the joy of living S. S. S. brings back to you. Notice for yourself the quick difference in the way you look, feel, sleep and eat after taking S. S. S. At all drug stores. The larger size is more economical.

S.S.S.



Cut the "unclipped" coupons offered by investment at CORAL GABLES

AN INVESTMENT at Coral Gables is as safe as a gilt-edge bond. For it has as security the countless millions already spent in building this marvelous spot into a thriving, growing city.

Through that expenditure, thousands are finding prosperity and true enjoyment where but five years ago spread tropical fruit groves. It is that expenditure that has caused the sensational growth that amazed the country—and has made Coral Gables properties show average increases of one hundred per cent every year.

It is this fact, the knowledge that Coral Gables is an actuality, not a dream; an assured success, not a speculation, which has attracted the shrewdest buyers in the country to Miami's marvelous suburban city. It is this fact that makes your investment—which need be only a moderate sum—so safe.

In Coral Gables are Unparalleled Opportunities

What the millions spent in the last few years have achieved cannot compare with what the coming growth promises. Already more than $40,000,000 further are pledged for new developments. Spacious new plazas and entrances are being built. Ground will soon be broken for the $15,000,000 University of Miami, the $500,000 Mahi Temple of the Mystic Shrine, a $1,000.000 University High School, a new Kanway Station, a magnificent Conservatory of Music and other remarkable projects.

Each of the buildings as they are erected are just so many coupons that you might clip as profit on your investment. For every one as it reaches completion adds incalculably to the value of Coral Gables property.

The Irresistible Rise in Property is Approved by Noted Authorities

The fascinating story of the rise in Coral Gables property is known everywhere. Yet the upward surge of prosperity has only begun. Authorities such as Babson, Forbes, Brisbane, Untermeyer and others agree that Florida offers the best opportunity for profitable investment in the country today. The next few years will see the most amazing transformation in the history of this state. Limitless opportunities present themselves to the investor. Make an investment now. And ride along with thousands to success.

Rex Beach was won by the Charm of Coral Gables

Few people know this country better than REX BEACH. He is strictly an individual—a man of true discrimination and taste. The beauty of Coral Gables won him immediately. His enthusiasm has led him to write a book upon the miracle of Coral Gables. Let us send it to you, together with full information about Coral Gables—free!

Special Announcement

Get in touch with this office for a trip to Coral Gables on our Special Pullman Saturday, November 21st. Call or telephone for all the necessary information regarding the best way to visit Miami as our guests.

Illustrated booklets, maps, price lists and complete information about Coral Gables may also be obtained here without obligation to you. Let us show you what has been accomplished in Coral Gables, and tell you of the thousands of opportunities that await the early investor.

BB-17
CORAL GABLES CORPORATION
185 Peachtree St.
Phone WAlnut 1820
Please send me Rex Beach's book and full information about Coral Gables. I understand that this places me under no obligation.
Name.....
Street.....
City.....State.....

CORAL GABLES
Miami Riviera
40 Miles of Water Front
GEORGE E. MERRICK

For information — write, phone or call
CORAL GABLES CORPORATION
185 Peachtree St. Phone WAlnut 1820

FREE!

GET THIS ROLLING EYE DOLL FREE!

"CARRIE JOY"

Will carry joy and gladness to the heart of any little girl. She is beautiful, animated, durable and lifelike. She closes both her eyes when put to sleep and wakes up calling MAMA, as a real baby does. At the will of her little mother she can be made to wink and blink and roll her eyes from side to side, in the gayest, coyest, most delightful baby manner. Her natural, laughing blue eyes are guaranteed never to fall out, no matter how much they wink, close or roll. They are a marvel of doll craftsmanship that puts "CARRIE JOY" in a class by herself.

"MY NAME IS 'CARRIE JOY'

I carry joy into the homes of little girls. If you really want me to bring joy and happiness into your home, The Atlanta Constitution makes it easy for you to secure me FREE for only a few moments of your time. Take advantage of its great offer at once. Then you will have me all your own. Won't we then have lots of fun? I'm all dressed up in my brand-new clothes, just waiting for you."

SHE WALKS!
SHE TALKS!
SHE SLEEPS!
and
SHE ROLLS
HER EYES!

Her clothes are beautiful, but you can take them off and make new ones whenever you like.

She is over 19 inches tall, much larger than she is in this picture. Isn't she a real beauty?

(Copyright, 1924)

The Exclusive, New, Patented Doll "Carrie Joy"

(Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.)

To say that "Carrie Joy" opens and closes her eyes, that she winks and rolls her eyes gaily—is not enough; her exquisite features and charming costume are most realistic; the amazing beauty of "Carrie Joy" must be seen to be appreciated. She can be seen at the office of The Atlanta Constitution, Alabama and Forsyth Streets.

EASY TO WIN!

COLLECT NO MONEY; JUST SECURE 2 NEW SUBSCRIBERS FOR SIX MONTHS TO DAILY AND SUNDAY

ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

DELIVERED TO THE HOME

AT 20 Cents Per Week

PAYABLE TO OUR CARRIER

Here Are the Terms of the Offer---READ CAREFULLY!

Two new subscriptions to the daily and Sunday Constitution are required, each for a term of six months, subscribers to pay the carrier at the rate of 20c a week or 90c a month.

This applies to the city of Atlanta and nearby suburbs. For other points in Georgia and adjoining states where we have a carrier delivery service, three subscriptions are required. The extra subscription for contestants out of town is required in order to defray expense of packing and delivery of the doll to the contestant.

We investigate the validity of the order, and the subscriber's responsibility and reserve the right to accept or reject any subscription order at our option for the city and suburbs of Atlanta, and the local dealer outside of Atlanta will exercise the same right.

Anyone may earn a "Carrie Joy" doll. The offer is open to boys, girls, men and women of all ages. Boys and girls who live in other towns and cities where the daily and Sunday Constitution is sold and delivered by local news dealers are eligible.

Clip out the coupon blank below and bring or mail to The Atlanta Constitution, circulation department, Atlanta. A subscription book with all the necessary instructions for securing the subscriptions will be delivered to those who present the enrollment blank in person.

Those sending the enrollment blank by mail to The Constitution will receive the subscription book and necessary instructions by return mail. CUT OUT BLANK AND BRING OR MAIL TODAY.

BOYS!

The Atlanta Constitution has a few Constitution "EXPRESS WAGONS" on hand. Any boy who will secure three new six months' subscriptions, acceptable to The Constitution, or its out-of-town dealer, after verifying, can have one of these wagons.
The wagon will be delivered at The Constitution office to city contestants, and sent by express, charges collect, to out-of-town contestants.

R. F. D. Residents

Cut out the coupon, sending to The Constitution with your route number, and you will receive by return mail an offer that will enable you to win "Carrie Joy."

"Carrie Joy" Doll Coupon

Atlanta Constitution
Circulation Dept.
Atlanta, Ga.

Send a subscription book and instructions for getting a "Carrie Joy" doll without paying or collecting any money. I promise to abide by the requirements and verification decisions of your offer.

NAME.....

NO. ..... ST

P. O. .....

STATE.....

A Suggestion to Mother, Father, Aunts and Uncles

This is your opportunity to get a beautiful life-size baby doll, 19 inches tall, for Christmas for the little daughter or niece. The doll can be had immediately after orders have been verified and accepted.

Junior Highs Are Failing,

DO NOT PREPARE STUDENTS FOR HIGH SCHOOL, CLAIM

Is Complaint of Parents

By Bessie S. Stafford.

In a letter written to the editor of the woman's department of The Constitution a charge is made which is worthy of special consideration as it represents the opinion of a number of other letters received along the same line.

Adjustment Necessary.

Surely such a concert of voices raised in the same complaint upon a matter so vital as the education of a boy or girl would warrant careful consideration of the matter to find out whether some adjustment is not necessary.

Mrs. Alice E. Means, of 267 Lee street, residing in the seventh ward, wrote the letter, which is published below, expressing the views of a number of other parents.

Other views on the matter will be welcomed by this department.

Mrs. Means' Letter.

Mrs. Means' letter says:

"To Editor of the Woman's Department of The Constitution: The civilization of a country can be accurately judged by the care and opportunity bestowed upon the children who are growing up to carry on the work of the last generation.

"Every morning loving mothers are cooking, wrapping lunches and getting girls ready for the long trip across town. Many of them must go to the senior high school.

"Think of the years it has taken and the sacrifice required to bring these girls to the portals of high school!

"When we were passing the bond issue a few years ago and changing our school system for the better (?) we were assured that with the advent of 'junior highs' all our school troubles would be ended.

"The first class from junior high went up this semester and now these girls are finding that somewhere there is a missing link in the educational scheme. These girls after a strenuous quarter are finding themselves not up with the work and that the curriculum is at least a half year beyond their preparation. These are not stupid, inattentive girls, but those who are 'A' pupils in junior highs.

"Some of the high-school teachers are so unsympathetic towards these girls that the pupils are intimidated and they are given no explanation and no efforts are made to bring them up with the work.

"Girls of 15 years are sensitive and non-aggressive as a rule and are not going to ask questions of teachers who will perhaps call attention to their lack of information.

"These teachers fail to realize that the parents of these girls make possible the salaries paid and that the parents have a right to know why their girls are not receiving the help in their school work that is required. There is surely something materially wrong in a system that made it possible a few years ago for an entire freshman algebra class, with one exception, to fail to make the required units. Our superintendent who lives 'In the house by the side of the road,' is requested to visit these class rooms and learn from the students of the existing conditions.

"If assured that their confidence will be inviolable they 'can a tale unfold,' but no girl wishes to bear the brunt of a teacher's displeasure.

"If given understanding teachers these girls can be brought up with the work now, but if something is not done soon many of them will be withdrawn from school, and perhaps the entire year taken over. Think! A year out of a girl's life and a large sum from the taxpayer!

"I have no ax to grind. My children have all gone through the mill, so to say, but these girls have told me of existing conditions and I bring it to the editor of The Constitution, who always has the interest of our citizens at heart. Perhaps all that is necessary is to bring this to the superintendent and parent-teacher associations—at least, let's hope so.

"MRS. ALICE E. MEANS.
"267 Lee street, Nov. 16, 1925."

Oglethorpe Band To Provide Music At Kle Club Ball

The Oglethorpe University band will furnish the music for the Christmas Stocking Fund ball, which is to be given at the auditorium on the night of Saturday, November 28.

The ball is being given by the Kle club, the ladies auxiliary of the Atlanta lodge of Elks, and is for the purpose of financing the plan of that organization to give every poor child in Atlanta, who otherwise would be without a visit from Santa Claus this year, a stocking full of toys, candies and other good things on Christmas Eve.

Mrs. J. J. Gordon, chairman for the ball, announced Saturday that it had been decided to forego any other form of entertainment except dancing, so that those who attend may dance to their heart's content from 8:30 o'clock until midnight.

The use of the auditorium and the services of the band and all other contributors to the success of the affair are being given free, in order that the receipts may go in full to the Christmas Stocking fund. Admission for each couple is $1 and the Kle club is confidently expecting to see at least one thousand couples present, to augment their fund for the poor children by at least $1,000.

FACE OF HIS VICTIM SLASHED BY BANDIT

Continued From First Page.

Elizabeth Hecht, of 242 South Pryor street, as she was walking on South Pryor near Fair street.

Mrs. Hecht's cries brought a crowd to the scene and nearly 25 men chased the thief down Pryor street to Garnett street, where he escaped in an alley. Mrs. Hecht told Call Officers G. E. Williams and J. H. Crankshaw that the man snatched the purse and ran so quickly that she was unable to tell whether he was a negro or white.

Mrs. E. McDaniel, of 45 Currier street, reported Saturday night that a negro snatched her purse containing $22 in money and a fountain pen as she was standing in front of her home. The negro was chased several blocks but escaped.

Mrs. McDaniel said the negro stepped suddenly in front of her and snatched the purse before she was aware he was near. She described him to Call Officers M. B. Johnson and C. G. Hughes as being a mulatto and weighing about 160 pounds.

Theft of Chickens.

Three residents of Oakland avenue reported chicken thefts Saturday night. Forty-one chickens were reported stolen from the street. Mrs. L. W. Dozier, of 183 Oakland avenue, and Mrs. A. B. Plunkett, of 251 Oakland avenue, reported the theft of 15 chickens each, and Mrs. J. H. Henderson, of 219 Oakland avenue, reported the theft of 11 fowls.

Mrs. M. J. Coggins, of 287 Lucile avenue, Saturday asked police to search for a man giving the name of Frank Roth and representing himself as a jeweler. She said that last Thursday he came to her home and asked if she had any jewelry to be repaired. She said she gave him a diamond ring to be reset and has had no word of him since.

Mrs. J. D. Jones, of 61 Lucile avenue, reported the theft of some old clothes given to a negro to sell. The negro represented himself as a cleaner and promised to sell the clothes for her, she told police.

Delivery Boy Held Up.

Joe Kimber, negro, a delivery boy for a downtown pharmacy, was held at the point of a gun Saturday night and robbed of $30 in cash which he had collected for C. O. D. packages for the drug store. Call Officers Chewning and Lee investigated.

According to the officers' report, Kimber was on his way to deliver a package at 181 Fulton street and as he neared Crew street, on Fulton street, three white men drove up to the curb and ordered him to stop. Two of the men then left the machine and robbed him of the money and sped away before he could call for help, police said.

SHRINERS' PROGRAM BEGINS WITH PARADE

Continued From First Page.

entertined and the social life of the city had its extreme prominence, are gone.

The plot where the Shrine will build faces the Georgian Terrace hotel. It has a frontage of 190 feet on Peachtree and 300 feet on Kimball street, and was purchased from C. J. Byrd a number of years ago. He had acquired it in three separate parcels, one owned by the Joseph Moody interests and Mrs. Joseph Moody, one by the Willis Ragan estate, and the third held jointly by these two and Mrs. S. M. Inman. The cost to the Shrine was about $200,000. Local realtors have since valued it at nearly a half million.

Workers Again Active.

The men who are taking part in the exercises Monday were nearly all active workers in the $1,000,000 drive which had such splendid success in Atlanta. This campaign was conducted within a period of 12 days, and more than $1,000,000 in pledges was turned in by the workers.

Potentate Bowen has invited A. S. Adams, general chairman, and his executive committee to have a prominent place to be the guests of honor at Monday's exercises. The hundreds of Shriners who worked to make the campaign a success will attend in a body, having a very special interest in the building of the mosque-auditorium.

Further celebration of the $1,000,000 victory has been announced by Potentate Bowen in the form of a big Shrine ceremonial to be held on December 19. The class of candidates initiated at this time will be known as the "victory class," and their names will be carried permanently on the Shrine records in this way. George E. Argard, the recorder, has stated that all applications, together with check for $109.05, must be in his hands not later than December 8.

GRADE CROSSINGS ARE ON INCREASE

Continued From First Page.

service, essential improvements, taxation and other necessary expenses with only a very slim return to those who have their money invested in them. This separation of the grades, you can very readily see, would necessitate practically doubling present freight and passenger rates, which would be an excessively heavy burden on the man who pays the freight and one which they could not and would not stand, and you no doubt realize for what the railroads pay out directly must be repaid to them indirectly by the public.

More Created Than Removed.

"Even though the crossings now existing were being eliminated, statistics show that an average year 705 of these crossings were eliminated and 4,437 new ones created and at this rate the crossings in this country will be eliminated when that fabled frog crawls out of the well. Therefore, until some better plan is originated, the only solution of this problem we have before us is the cooperation between the railroads and their employees and the state and town authorities, assisted and encouraged by the press, civic authorities, automobile organizations, educators and the public generally. There must be a thorough understanding and perfect harmony in the effort to educate everybody of the danger lurking at railroad crossings.

"The last legislature of Georgia took a very advanced step in this direction by passing a law requiring county authorities to designate every dangerous crossing where the view is obscured as unsafe, requiring the railroads to put up a sign to this effect and the public to bring their automobiles to a full stop before going across, and this same law requires motorists to reduce speed to six miles at all other crossings.

"It will require a great deal of education to train the public and drivers of automobiles in general to appreciate the value of these orders, and it should be the duty of everyone to impress upon all over whom he has any influence the necessity for stopping at grade crossings and looking to be sure that there is no train coming before going across.

"The A. B. & A. has been actively engaged in educational work having for its purpose the elimination of grade crossing accidents for many years. For the last four years all class 1 railroads have conducted through the four summer months their careful crossing campaigns, in which we have taken active part. That these campaigns have done much effective accident prevention goes without saying. In spite of the ever increasing number of automobiles in service and the great number of miles made by trains the number of fatalities at grade crossings are being reduced year by year.

"Another feature of the grade-crossing peril has been presented in the last few years in the school bus problem. Schools are being consolidated and the children are collected and brought from a distance in large busses, and in many cases the drivers of these busses are the larger boys of the school, and the fact that thousands are in use with so few accidents speaks well for the care of these youthful drivers.

"However, in our own state several serious accidents have occurred involving these busses, the last one of which is fresh in the minds of all of you, which happened at Nahunta, Ga., on the Atlantic Coast Line railroad and in which boys and girls, 12 of them, lost their precious little lives.

"The A., B. & A. foresaw this danger and for the last three years have handled with county trustees, county superintendents, school principals and even the teachers themselves to impress upon them the danger lurking in this service and urged them to take the necessary steps to know that each bus stops at every railroad crossing before crossing over it. The school authorities have been very responsive to our efforts and we mean to keep right after them so as to prevent, if possible, such accidents.

"The tax-paying public has done its part for those who drive automobiles in constructing and maintaining good public highways. It is now up to the careless automobile drivers to do their part by sparing the tax-paying public from further additional expense of grade changes at railroad crossings. All that is necessary for these drivers to do is to "Stop, Look and Listen" before crossing a railroad track.

"Because a small per cent of the hundreds of thousands of automobile drivers persist in carelessly crossing railroad tracks there are those who demand that grade crossings be eliminated, little ignoring the fact that the danger is in the driver rather than in the crossing, or that the public's share of the expense of such grade changes would be large and burdensome and it would be no expense to the taxpayers, or the man driving the car, to stop at railroad crossings.

"I trust that the facts and figures as given you here tonight will convince you of your duty as a citizen and a taxpayer to do everything you possibly can to assist in this great question, and I assure you that the railroads are not interested in this matter merely from a money standpoint, but more from a humanitarian standpoint in saving the lives, limbs and suffering of the people of this country."

RHINELANDER CASE IN FATHER'S HANDS

White Plains, November 21.—(AP)—While Isaac Mills, counsel for Leonard Kip Rhinelander, stated positively today that the Rhinelander annulment suit will continue Monday, it was rumored that the decision as to whether the case is to be continued is entirely in the hands of Philip Rhinelander, millionaire father of Leonard.

Throughout the trial, through which Leonard is seeking freedom from his negro bride, the former Alice Beatrice Jones, the head of the old Huguenot family has remained in the background. Yesterday, when the introduction of a certain "mystery letter," written by young Rhinelander, caused a hurried adjournment until Monday, Philip Rhinelander was reported to have taken active control of the case.

Today's addition to the crop of rumors that has flourished since the sudden adjournment had it that a "board of strategy" conferred with Philip Rhinelander in a New York office as to the wisdom of continuing the case and braving introduction of these letters.

It was said that Leon R. Jacobs, young Rhinelander's counsel, consulted with members of the "board of strategy" yesterday.

At Philip Rhinelander's New York home, it was said he had not been seen for six weeks.

AMERICANS REJECT FIRST OFFER MADE ON RUMANIAN DEBT

Washington, November 21.—(AP)—The American debt commission has declined to accept the first formal offer for a funding of Rumania's debt to the United States, and today submitted to the Rumanian commission a counter proposal.

The formula submitted to the Rumanians is substantially the terms of the British-American settlement, with modifications to meet Rumania's particular situation.

The Rumanians have promised a reply Tuesday afternoon, and both commissions appear to expect a settlement.

World Court Holds Decision of League On Mosul Must Stand

The Hague, November 21.—(AP)—The permanent court of international justice delivered its findings today regarding the dispute between Great Britain and Turkey over the Mosul area of Mesopotamia.

The court declares the decision to be taken by the council of the League of Nations shall be binding upon the parties concerned and shall constitute definite determination of the frontier between Turkey and the British mandate state of Irak (Mesopotamia), of which Mosul is a part.

The league council's decision must be by unanimous vote.

The representatives of the parties to the dispute are to participate in voting, but their votes will not be counted in ascertaining whether there is unanimity.

The questions which the court has asked to decide have no bearing on the fixing of the boundary, but only on the powers of the league council.

Snelling Predicts Favorable Action On Extra Session

Washington, November 21.—(Special.)—Chancellor Snelling of the University of Georgia in an address before the Washington alumni at a dinner Saturday night, predicted that Governor Walker would call an extra session of the legislature about January 10 and that the legislature would vote a bond issue for education.

The chancellor, who has been in close touch with the governor and members of the legislature, said that he would urge that the amount of the issue be $20,000,000 instead of $15,000,000 which has generally been set as the amount declaring that this increase, he believed, is necessary. Assurances he has received from members of the legislature, he said, indicate that the legislature, if called into extra session as expected, would vote aid to the university before it adjourned.

Chancellor Encouraged.

Generally the chancellor expressed himself as greatly encouraged over the situation. He presented detailed figures showing how far Georgia is behind in education but believes the situation can be remedied through cooperation of forces which are now working for the upbuilding of the state in all lines. He advocated establishment of a system throughout the state for extending educational advantages to those who are not in a position to attend the regular schools along the lines now being mapped out by George Foster Peabody and Harold Hirsch.

Jerome Michaels, of Athens, and now of the department of justice, presided at the dinner in honor of the chancellor, which was attended by a number of alumni and their wives. Judge W. G. Brantley, former congressman from Georgia, made an address. Among others who spoke were Miss Jessie Dell, formerly of Sylvania, now civil service commissioner; Captain A. C. Hodgson, United States navy, formerly of Athens; Hill Freeman, dean of the law school of the University of Maryland; and E. Way Highsmith, formerly of Baxley, Ga., now of the department of justice.

EXTRA SESSION DECISION SLATED.

Announcement of his decision in regard to the proposal for an extraordinary session of the legislature is expected from Governor Clifford Walker soon after he returns to his office this week. The governor was in Baltimore all last week with Mrs. Walker, who underwent a minor operation there. He is expected back again Monday.

Shortly before leaving for Baltimore the governor intimated that he would probably announce his decision regarding the extra session within two weeks' time, and if this is done, it will mean that he will make a definite statement some time this week.

No detailed report as to the trend of sentiment regarding the extra session, in replies from members of the legislature to a letter asking their opinion sent out by the governor some weeks ago, has yet been made. A number of members of both houses have made public copies of their letters to the governor, the majority of these being opposed to the session. However, it is believed that the supporters of the extra session would be inclined to leave publication of their views to the governor, while those who opposed it would not. Therefore, letters so far published are not considered as fairly representative of the entire membership of the assembly.

Should the governor call an extra session, it is believed that he would probably name January 10 or 12 as the date for convening and that he will include in the call the subject of past-due pensions for Confederate pensioners, a bond issue for improvement of the state educational system and the subject of paved roads for the entire state system of highways.

At its regular session the legislature passed a bill providing that past-due pensions be paid by two-year scrip, but failed to provide for redemption of this paper. Consequently, it is the belief of the majority of lawyers that the act is unconstitutional and that the scrip, if issued, would be worthless. Straightening out this pension tangle is the primary reason for the proposed special session.

SUITS FILED AGAINST MACON POWER FIRM

Macon, Ga., November 21.—(AP)—Mrs. Bennie Wallace, mother of one of the children killed when an automobile and street car crashed head-on October 20, has filed suit against the Macon Railway and Light company for $15,000 damages.

Mrs. Wallace's seven-year-old son and three other children were being taken to school by D. I. Walton when the crash occurred.

Mrs. Bessie Britchett, widow of T. W. Prichett, has filed suit against the railway company for $30,000 damages for the death of her husband on September 9, when he was struck by a street car while delivering groceries.

Bartow Soil Survey.

Taylorsville, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Glenn Fuller, from the State College of Agriculture made a survey of the farms around Taylorsville, Tuesday, testing the soil. He reports the soil over Bartow, particularly that on the Etowah river in this county, is the best he has seen in the south, and another high quality is its durability. He says there is wonderful possibilities if the land is developed properly.

Convict labor is to be used in reforestration work in Michigan.

"She praises it to everybody!"

Mrs. Crane had indigestion for ten years; Tanlac brought immediate relief.

*As a climax to long years of suffering, Mrs. Hattie Crane got so bad she couldn't sleep and there were days when she couldn't walk across the floor. At times the gas pressure was so great she could scarcely breathe. She was faint and dizzy. She writes: "Tanlac brought immediate relief and six bottles were enough to rid me of my troubles and bring back the joy of living. My health is better than ever and I am so pleased with Tanlac I praise it to everybody."

*Authentic statement from our files.

You don't have to take our word for Tanlac. Just try this marvelous tonic yourself and see how quickly it brings results. There is nothing like Tanlac to cleanse and revitalize sluggish blood, restore lost appetites and put the whole body in fighting trim.

Results come quick. You start feeling better right from the first dose. Before the bottle is gone you will wonder what miracle has happened to you.

Tanlac is absolutely pure and harmless. It is a natural tonic, a formula of roots, barks and healing herbs gathered from every part of the globe to bring you health and strength

NOTE: For Constipation, take Tanlac Vegetable Pills, Nature's own harmless laxative.

TANLAC
FOR YOUR HEALTH

Monday
RICH'S
BARGAIN BASEMENT
for Wonder Values!

THANKS-GIVING TURKEYS
— — ALIVE OR DRESSED — —

Fancy Quality
Dressed to Order
While You Wait

SOUTHERN PRODUCE DIST.
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL
Phone WAl. 7327 143 S. Pryor St.

Knabe

America's Greatest Piano

ALL those qualities which the most discriminating demand are found in The Knabe. Its tone, its craftsmanship, its lasting qualities are unsurpassed. And it brings with it, besides, that atmosphere of fine tradition which only supreme piano achievement can ever be heir to.

LET us tell you how easily this splendid instrument may be yours.

Edico Piano Co
AMPICO & EDISON

241-243 Peachtree
Opposite the Capital City Club

FLORIDA ACREAGE

Eighty acres in Jacksonville Heights. Bought early, close in, on paved road to Orange Park. Will divide. Terms.

$150.00 Acre

No Agents.

WALNUT 5629

Clothing For The Family

Credit At Cash Store Prices

Smart Silk and Wool
Dresses
$13.98 to $22.50
Others up to $35
The new Flare back models; also two-piece styles.

Women's and Misses'
COATS
$22.50 $29.50
$35 and Others to $69.50
Richly fur-trimmed coats, in your choice of styles and colors, including lipstick red, grackle-head blue, rust, black, etc., on credit at cash store prices.

Men's 2-Pants
Suits and O'Coats
$29.50 to $35.00
Others $22.50 to $45.00

All wool styles that LOOK and ARE the equal of the best merchant-tailored Clothes available. Savings of $5 to $15.

Millinery $4.98

Girls' Coats $8.50

Boys' Suits and O'Coats $8.50

THE FAIR
93 Whitehall Street

GOVERNMENT ESTIMATES 15,298,000-BALE COTTON CROP

Bullish Government Report Causes Cotton Prices To Soar

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Close.
Dec.	20.35	21.15	20.00	21.00-15	20.33
Jan.	19.40	20.19	19.15	20.10-19	19.50
Mar.	19.38	20.24	19.16	20.17-24	19.50
May	19.02	19.90	18.80	19.83-85	19.09
July	18.70	19.53	18.80	19.45-55	18.75

RANGE IN NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Close.
Dec.	19.35	20.13	19.00	20.10-13	19.55
Jan.	19.12	20.07	18.90	20.00-07	19.30
Mar.	18.97	19.69	18.50	19.55-58	18.92
May	18.47	19.34	18.25	19.24-29	18.64
July	18.14	19.05	18.04	19.05	18.35

New York, November 21.—(AP)—The government crop report was followed by an advance of nearly a cent a pound in the cotton market today. January contracts, which had sold off to 19.15 before the bureau report, advanced to 20.19 or 104 points from the low level of the morning and 69 points above Friday's closing quotation. January closed at 20.10, the general market closing steady at net advances of 60 to 74 points.

Liverpool cables made a relatively steady showing, but the market here opened at a decline of 1 to 19 points and worked steadily lower before the government report was issued. It seemed the trade was more inclined to expect an increase than a decrease in the crop figures, and while part of the selling was attributed to southern hedging or further pre-bureau liquidation, there was probably some local pressure. December sold off to 20.00 and March to 19.15, net declines of about 25 to 35 points on active positions before trading was suspended for publication of the official figures.

The reduction in the crop indication from 15,386,000 as of November 1 to 15,298,000 bales as of November 14, did not seem to be a very important change on the face of the figures. Combined with the ginning returns of only 12,249,935 bales to November 14, however, they evidently created an impression that the market had seen its highest crop figures of the season. Possibility that estimates of the yield might have to be scaled down seemed to be emphasized by the supplemental report stating that because of the low price some cotton might be abandoned in the fields this season.

Prices went up with a rush when the market reopened today. While the first big advance was followed by moderate setbacks under realizing, the highest levels were reached in later trading, December selling at 21.15 and March at 20.24, or 60 to 82 points net higher on the active positions. Last prices were within 5 or 10 points of the best.

SPOTS IN NEW YORK.

New York, November 21.—(AP)—Cotton spot steady; middling 21.65.

NEW ORLEANS MARKET VERY ACTIVE AFFAIR.

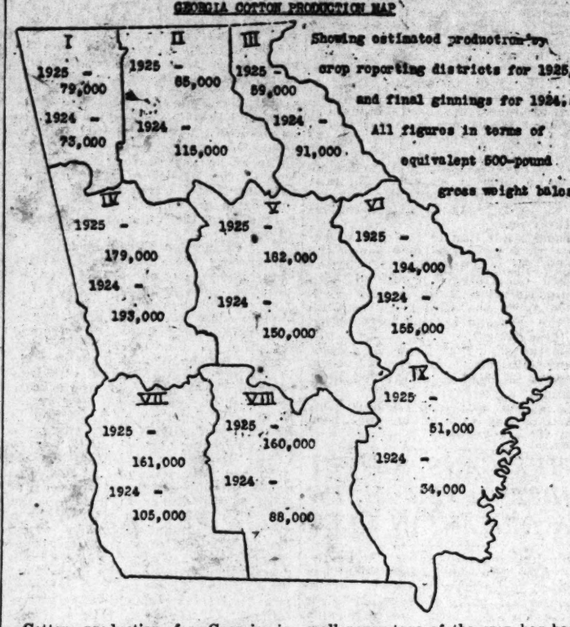
New Orleans, November 21.—(AP)—The market was a very active affair being enlivened by the publication of the government's crop report giving an estimate of production of 15,298,000 bales and ginning to November 14, of 12,249,935 bales. Both these totals came as surprises, as they were lower than expectations. Prices which had declined as much as 40 to 55 points before the report was issued promptly advanced to levels 108 to 119 points above the lows.

Trading was very active during the whole part of the short Saturday session. At the start the market showed losses of 14 to 22 points, and later in the first hour December traded as low as 19.00, January at 18.90 and March at 18.50, the decline being due to last-minute liquidation and some short selling in anticipation of an increase in the crop estimate and comparatively large ginnings.

When the market suspended to receive the bureau report prices were but little above the lows. Right after the resumption of trading following the publication of the bureau prices advanced sharply, December advancing to 20.10, January to 19.98 and March to 18.50, or 90 to 100 points above the prices ruling just before the report was issued. While there was a reaction of 24 to 36 points from the first highs reached, the market rallied again near the end, making new highs at 20.13 for December and 20.07 for January, or 108 to 119 points above the early lows. The close was practically at the highs of the day.

Exports for the day totaled 40,444 bales.

Georgia Cotton Production Estimated at 1,150,000 Bales



Cotton production for Georgia is estimated at about 1,150,000 bales—500 pounds gross weight— in the official report issued today through the Georgia Cooperative Crop Reporting service. The indicated yield per acre is 158 pounds.

Ginnings for Georgia up to November 14, as reported by the census bureau, amount to 1,145,000 running bales. The figure for the United States is 12,250,000 running bales. Estimated production for the United States is 15,298,000 500-pound gross weight bales.

"Practically all the cotton has been out of the field for several weeks," the report says, "so that only a very small percentage of the crop has been exposed to rains of latter October and early November.

"Growers in practically all parts of the state have realized better yields than they estimated earlier in the season, although the crop turned out very poorly in many north-central and northeastern counties, owing to severe drouth damage throughout the growing season."

The production estimate is based on reports to the service of about 1,500 crop correspondents, covering yield per acre, per cent of acreage abandoned, per cent of crop picked and ginned, condition at time of harvest, and other available material, as of November 14.

Steel Market Reported Active In This District

Birmingham, Ala., November 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—The week just closed saw pig iron practically out of the market with very few sales because no appreciable supply of the metal is in sight. What little pig iron was sold brought $21 and $22 for future delivery. Only a small amount of spot delivery was sold and that was bought for $22 and $23.

Furnaces which have been idle for months are being blown in in order to meet the increasing demand for iron. The Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron company blew in its No. 1 furnace at Gadsden last Sunday morning to help replenish the depleted supplies in the company's stock yards.

Seller's Market.

Inquiries already are coming in for the second quarter of 1926, but no sales are being made, no quotations are being offered and no efforts to sell have been reported. It is strictly a seller's market.

Consumers in the home territory have been manifesting some uneasiness lately over the possibility of not being able to get all the iron that will be needed at a reasonable figure.

Before the end of the first month of 1926 it is believed pig iron will be quoted at $25 for No. 2 foundry.

Steel Market Active.

The steel market is reported very active in the Birmingham district. All plants are in operation and many orders are still coming in. Birmingham's unfilled tonnage is greater than in any other section of the country in proportion to the number of plants.

Completion of the sheet mill at Fairfield means much to the district. It is expected to be in operation soon.

The Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad company alone has in hand orders for more than 400,000 tons of steel rails. Orders for tonnage to be delivered by Birmingham district mills are the greatest cause for optimism in the district.

Large Car Orders.

In addition to this extensive buying in rails car orders have been received by the Chickasaw Shipbuilding & Car company for several thousand cars to be built during the remainder of 1925 and the first six months of the ensuing year.

Railroad accessories, including tie plates, bolts, spikes, nuts, and the like, have been purchased in this district in large quantities. Rivets and structural steel for railroad use also have been ordered.

It is reported that the St. Louis & Southwestern railroad will order 10,800 tons of equipment soon.

The coke market has eased up. Sales of coke are quoted at $5.75 for foundry. None of the coke is going farther east than Washington, D. C. Coke cars are very scarce.

Effect of Strike.

The Alabama bituminous field has been indirectly affected by the anthracite strike in that coke from the West Virginia fields which formerly was sold in the middle east is going farther east and into New England to fill the wants of those sections so that Alabama coke is now being shipped into the regions formerly furnished by the West Virginia producers. Alabama coke is now being shipped to Chicago and to other Great Lakes cities which formerly looked to West Virginia. Cars for this haul are more plentiful since the cars can make the round trip within a week.

The demand for the coal is good. All mines are working on a six-day-a-week basis.

Clay products, Portland cement and other products of the district are still in big demand and most of it is leaving in train loads. Cast iron pipe also is in good demand.

CURB PRICES GAIN IN STRONG CLOSE

New York, November 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—The strength that developed in the last hour's trading on the curb exchange today was in marked contrast to that which prevailed in the opening dealings. Urgent buying appeared in the general list, the result that early losses were quickly recovered. Oil shares were also in better demand under the leadership of International Petroleum, which rose about one point on heavy sales.

The week's trading, including a period of several days of acute unsettlement and uneasiness, chiefly was attributed to the sharp declines in many groups of stocks on the stock exchange which observers said impaired accounts in which many curb securities were carried and forced liquidation in those issues. Toward the end of the week there was a moderate recovery, reflecting efforts to cover shorts put out on the early declines.

The dealings in the utility stocks were on a large scale and those issues had the widest movement. Over one million shares of Northern States Power changed hands on wide fluctuations including a decline of six points to 120 followed by an advance to 146.

National Power, after yielding to 428, moved up to 440. Lehigh Power, after falling from 195 3-4 to 181 recovered a good part of its loss. Electric Railway securities, one of the lower priced issues, was prominent, moving up from 20 to 25 1-2.

Baking stocks were features in the industrial group, led by General Baking A, which rose over 5 points to above 80. Attention was attracted to American Seating stock, which on small transactions ranged during the week from 240 1-2 to 285. Trans-Lux was disturbed in its position by the litigation of patents and dropped from 14 1-2 to 11 1-4. Nickel Plate stood out as an important feature of the market, advancing from 105 3-8 to the new high record of 111, afterward reacting to 108.

A feature of the oil stocks was heavy trading in Salt Creek Producers which ranged from 9 7-8 to above 31.

Sugar.

New York, November 21.—Raw sugar was firmer today. While no sales were openly reported, it was believed in trade circles that yesterday refiners purchased at least 150,000 bags of Cuban for through shipment at from 4.02 to 4.08, duty paid, with available today below the latter price.

Reports that one central was to start grinding in Cuba early next week led to a little liquidation in raw futures but trade interests and houses with Cuban connections were again on the buying side and prices ruled generally higher throughout the short session. Active positions at one time were two to three points above the previous close, but eased off a trifle and the close was unchanged to two points net higher. December closed 2.30; March 2.44; May 2.56; July 2.66.

No changes were reported in refined sugar with prices ranging from 5.00 to 5.40 for fine granulated.

Production Prospects Decline 88,000 Bales in Two Weeks

Washington, November 21.—(AP)—Cotton production this year will probably total 15,298,000 equivalent 500-pound bales, the department of agriculture today announced. A fortnight ago 15,386,000 bales were forecast. Production last year was 13,627,936 bales.

The forecast of production was based on reports of condition, abandonment, probable yields, ginnings, etc., to November 14, and upon the assumption of average crop influence during the remainder of the harvest season.

Indications point to a yield of 165.5 pounds of lint cotton per harvested acre, compared with 166.4 pounds indicated from November 1 conditions, and 157.4 the final yield per acre harvested last year.

The indicated yield per acre follows: Virginia, yield, 242 pounds per acre; North Carolina, 238; South Carolina, 155; Georgia, 158; Florida, 172; Missouri, 235; Tennessee, 191; Alabama, 186; Mississippi, 264; Louisiana, 227; Texas, 117; Oklahoma, 150; Arkansas, 199; New Mexico, 289; Arizona, 286; California, 370; all other states, 246.

Cotton production prospects declined 88,000 bales in the first half of November, the losses being caused, the crop board said, by frequent or heavy rains which also resulted in some further lowering in the grade of unpicked cotton.

The board, in its comments on the forecast, said:

"During the first half of November heavy and frequent rains caused considerable losses to open cotton, particularly in Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Tennessee and Missouri. High water has also caused some losses in the lower Mississippi valley. The rains have resulted in some further lowering in the grade of unpicked cotton in the states affected. From a third to a fourth of the crop is still in the fields in Arkansas, Oklahoma, northwest Texas and New Mexico. In Missouri only about half has been gathered and the remainder is being gathered under great difficulties. In all these states the final yield is still dependent on weather conditions. In some sections the grade of the lint and seed still in the fields has already been reduced to such an extent that at the present low price there is a tendency to leave some cotton unpicked.

"In the Carolinas, Georgia, Florida and southern Texas the crop was mostly picked without serious weather injury.

"The price paid for picking has this year averaged about $1.27 per hundred pounds of seed cotton. The average last year was $1.25. The price this year ranges from an average of 86 cents per hundred in South Carolina to double that figure in Arizona and California. Comparing with last year, the price of picking averaged 10 per cent lower in Texas and South Carolina and Virginia, and the same as last year in New Mexico. Elsewhere the price was higher than it was last year. This year's price of picking has averaged about $19.00 per bale."

The next production report, to be issued December 8, will announce the revised acreage and percentage of acreage abandoned, yield per acre, and total production by states, and will be the last report until the revision in June next, after the final ginning report.

	Nov. 16 1925	Nov. 1 1925	Oct. 18 1925	Final 1924-25
Virginia	48,000	48,000	48,000	39,717
North Carolina	1,065,000	1,080,000	1,120,000	858,017
South Carolina	865,000	860,000	850,000	837,268
Georgia	1,150,000	1,150,000	1,120,000	1,039,092
Florida	41,000	42,000	40,000	19,752
Alabama	1,315,000	1,290,000	1,270,000	985,276
Mississippi	1,870,000	1,885,000	1,820,000	1,115,611
Louisiana	895,000	895,000	880,000	456,232
Texas	4,050,000	4,100,000	4,050,000	4,851,878
Arkansas	1,480,000	1,480,000	1,470,000	1,086,288
Tennessee	480,000	485,000	475,000	355,929
Missouri	235,000	245,000	230,000	199,827
Oklahoma	1,500,000	1,520,000	1,575,000	1,504,651
California	130,000	130,000	130,000	79,913
Arizona	94,000	94,000	90,000	109,918
All other states	80,000	82,000	78,000	68,232
Total	15,298,000	15,386,000	15,226,000	13,627,936

About 70,000 bales additional to Calif ornia are being grown in lower California, Old Mexico.

INCREASE IN COTTON GINNING IS REPORTED.

Washington, November 21.—(AP)—Cotton of this year's crop ginned prior to November 15 totaled 12,249,935 running bales, counting round as half bales and excluding linters, compared with 11,162,235 bales to that date last year, and 8,369,498 in 1923, the census bureau today announced.

Included in the total ginnings were 216,739 round bales, counted as half bales, compared with 265,675 for 1924 and 213,494 for 1923.

The quantity of cotton ginned prior to November 14 last year was 81.8 per cent of the total crop, and in 1923 to that date it was 82.3 per cent.

Ginnings by states follows:

	Nov. 14 1925	Nov. 1 1925	Oct. 18 1925	Oct. 1 1925	Nov. 14 1924
Alabama	1,241,866	1,175,161	1,084,222	339,623	902,464
Arizona	57,182	44,529	30,679	16,074	65,251
Arkansas	990,022	885,577	708,446	536,753	877,946
California	47,794	31,449	16,898	8,000	42,445
Florida	38,956	37,337	25,900	20,925	18,046
Georgia	1,145,300	1,113,453	1,051,785	889,957	919,295
Louisiana	776,556	743,806	683,485	556,852	449,539
Mississippi	1,411,680	1,335,130	1,182,282	921,678	1,004,396
Missouri	140,088	111,297	72,983	48,977	104,132
North Carolina	945,535	855,650	709,909	392,970	540,593
Oklahoma	1,007,372	827,808	549,272	287,300	1,129,162
South Carolina	862,231	818,630	731,690	536,752	654,891
Tennessee	342,668	300,290	234,672	159,961	255,188
Texas	3,152,458	2,850,072	2,404,460	1,881,189	4,131,708
Virginia	38,119	31,011	21,962	6,822	13,777
Other states	52,098	8,173	21,649	9,567	38,181
Total	12,249,935	11,198,660	9,519,784	7,101,710	11,163,401

Stocks React Under Selling Pressure Against Motors

DAILY STOCK SUMMARY

	Twenty Industrials.	Twenty Railroads.
Saturday	135.61	111.48
Friday	136.50	111.98
Week ago	140.33	112.95
Year ago	108.21	97.91
High, 1925	141.78	112.95
Low, 1925	114.31	96.13

Total stock sales 1,027,600 shares.

New York, November 21.—(AP)—Stock prices experienced another sharp reaction today with selling probably inspired by raising of the San Francisco Federal Reserve bank rate, making the four per cent charge effective in all reserve centers outside New York. The selling, which is reported to have originated largely with bear traders, was most effective in the motors and high-priced industrial specialties, with most of the standard industrials and rails showing only minor recessions.

Outside the stock market, chief speculative interest centered in the further collapse of French francs to a new low record for the year and the sharp rally in cotton prices which followed the publication of the government crop estimate showing a reduction of 88,000 bales in production.

Motors showed a lack of effective buying support. Chrysler, which sold as high at 253 only a few weeks ago, was hammered down to 184 and then rallied to 184 7-8 for a net loss of about 10 points. Hudson sold down to 90 1-4 as against the year's high of 139 1-2, and then moved back to Motors broke 7 points to 432 on one sale, Mack Truck and General Motors each closed 3 points lower at 215 and 123, respectively, and Jordan, Pierce-Arrow preferred, Stromberg and Yellow Truck fell back 1 to 2 points. White moved against the current trend, closing 1 3-4 points higher at 83 1-4, after having sold as high as 84 3-4.

DuPont was hammered down over 8 points to 213 3-4 and American Can, Atlantic Gulf and West Indies, Brown Shoe, the Commercial Solvents issues, Mathieson Alkali, Sears-Roebuck and United States Cast Iron Pipe showed net losses of 3 1-2 to 6 1-2 points. United States Steel common closed 1 1-2 lower at 129 3-4 Radio Corporation touched a new record low at 39 1-4.

There were a few industrials to show independent strength. Federal Mining and Smelting, common and preferred; Liggett & Myers issues and Devoe & Raynolds advanced 2 to 4 points. All but Federal Mining and Smelting preferred to new high levels for the year. Rails were slightly reactionary, although Chesapeake and Ohio, which was heavy yesterday, closed 1 1-2 points higher at 119 1-4.

French francs broke 10 points below last night's closing quotation to around 3.87 cents, and then rallied slightly on short covering. Demand sterling held fairly steady around $4.84 1-4, and French francs around 4.00 cents. Polish zlotys rallied 20 points to 15.20 cents and the year's low established yesterday. Other leading rates showed only nominal changes.

Georgia Farmers Are Urged To Increase Corn Production

BY MARTIN V. CALVIN.
(Specialist in Agriculture and Economics, Ga. Dept. of Agriculture.)

Several days ago announcement was made by H. Lane Young, executive manager of the Citizens and Southern bank that he offered to the farmers of Georgia, through the Agricultural committee of the Georgia Bankers' association, a cash prize of $1,000 to the farmer who, in 1926, shall raise the largest crop of marketable corn on an area of five measured acres. The proposition impressed me as being a timely and practical proposition.

Each contestant will be compelled to resort to a new departure in the important particulars of putting the five acres in seed-bed condition; running the rows; applying per acre not less than 400 pounds of a commercial fertilizer rich in the kind of food the corn plants positively require; purchasing and carefully planting the very best variety of seed corn obtainable; diligently practicing the most approved cultural methods, and taking steps that will protect the crop against average drouth.

Remembering that corn is next to cotton in importance, I assembled facts and figures as to the production of corn, not only in Georgia, but in the ten cotton states during the years 1922, 1923, 1924. I tabulated the figures by states, then ascertained the annual average production by states, etc.

Production by States.

I will give you first the anual average production by states in order of rank: Texas, 98,426,000 bushels; Tennessee, 73,026,000 bushels; Oklahoma, 53,578,000 bushels; North Carolina, 51,540,000 bushels; Georgia, 50,679,000 bushels; Alabama, 49,063,000; Mississippi, 37,673,000 bushels; Arkansas, 37,065,000 bushels; South Carolina, 28,143,000 bushels; Louisiana, 24,204,000 bushels.

In annual average production per acre, the states took rank as follows: Tennesse, 23.0 bushels; North Carolina, 20.1 bushels; Texas, 18.5 bushels; Arkansas, 17.5 bushels; Oklahoma, 16.0 bushels; Mississippi, 14.6 bushels; Louisiana, 14.6 bushels; Alabama, 13.6 bushels; South Carolina, 12.5 bushels; Georgia, 12.1 bushels.

The figures in the foregoing paragraph emphasize the supreme importance of a high general average yield of all crops per acre; for the cost of production depends on the general average yield per acre.

In 1922, the ten states produced 555,422,000 bushels of corn; that was 19.1 per cent of the crop of the United States. In 1923, the ten states produced 476,944,000 bushels, which was 15.6 per cent of the United States crop. In 1924 the ten states produced 456,806,000 bushels—18.7 per cent of the entire country.

Value of Crops.

The total value of United States crop of cotton, 1922, 1923, 1924, was $4,220,986,000. The total value of the three years' corn crop, ten states, $1,391,656,721; that was 32.9 per cent of the value of the cotton crop. Both are based on farm prices of December 1 each year.

On the basis of the annual average production of corn by the ten states, the three years, the per capita production was 20.8 bushels. The allotment of corn meal per capita a year is 13 bushels, so there was left for the horses, mules and hogs, only 7.8 bushels a year. Each horse and mule requires 90 bushels of corn, or corn and oats, a year, and each hog, 22.5 bushels of corn a year.

January 1, 1924, the ten states had on farms 6,441,000 mules and horses, and 71,479,000 swine.

Corn and oats required for animals mentioned a year 839,372,500 bushels. Annual average production 609,626,000 bushels.

Do you not now realize that we must be up and reforming as to the production of corn in each of the cotton producing states?

Urges Corn Planting.

I have been trying for several years to induce some of our farmers to grow one to five acres in Golden Beauty corn. It is a rich yellow corn. I know the variety—afield myself. Planted 42 by 42 inches, two of the strongest plants, farthest apart, left in each hill, will give, with proper care, 35 bushels of the finest corn per acre. There is a prejudice against yellow corn because comparatively soft and liable to be attacked by weevils; not more so than any variety of white corn. Besides, there is a common-sense protection against the weevils. Golden Beauty may be planted as late as June 5-15, and matures in 90 to 100 days. Large stalks, large ears and an abundance of leaves—developing into the choicest of fodder; no better roughage than corn fodder for horses and mules.

REDISCOUNT RATE SET AT 4 PER CENT

San Francisco, November 21.—(AP) The Federal Reserve bank of San Francisco announced today an increase of its rediscount rate from 3½ to 4 per cent. The increase becomes effective next Monday.

WE PREDICT THAT SOUTHERN BAKING
(Stone Baking)
Shares will advance to $1000 each
Circular A on request
ALBERT G. OTGEN & CO., Inc.
16 Exchange Place New York

COMING PROFITS
Our next Market Bulletin will show five listed New York stocks which are in good physical position, now selling 100% under price of 1924. Write today for FREE Bulletin, G-21.
H. C. SCHAUBLE & CO.
63-65 Wall Street New York

THE LAUNDRY INDUSTRY
The Public Utility
of
The Industrial World

The Government Census does not classify the Laundry industry as a Manufacturing industry. By the very nature of its business, it is more of a Public Utility than an Industrial enterprise. Laundries do not manufacture anything; they sell to the public a service that is low in cost; universal in demand, and fundamental in its necessity.

Every other industry looks for prospective business to some particular class of people. The Laundry industry reaches out to every human being. Every person is hourly making use of something which must eventually be sent to the laundry.

The industry is exceptionally stable. The demand is constant because the need is constant. The business is, for the most part, on a cash basis, with few accounts receivable. This results in a minimum of credit loss. In marked contrast with the average industrial corporation, the inventory problem is of small consideration.

The expansion of this industry in the last ten years has been phenomenal. The total income for the year 1925 will approximate $500,000,000, which will give the Laundry industry a ranking of twelfth place among the leading industries of the country. Some idea of this growth may be gleaned from the fact that in 1919 the total income of the Laundry industry amounted to $236,000,000, as compared to $500,000,000 in 1925.

We believe that the securities of well-established companies in this field offer most attractive and profitable investment opportunities.

Our Statistical Department has compiled a pamphlet on this interesting industry, which we shall be pleased to furnish upon request.

Bonner, Brooks & Co.
120 Broadway
New York, N. Y.
London Boston

PUTS & CALLS WHAT THEY ARE HOW THEY WORK
A method of stock trading with as small a sum as $10, explained in our Free BOOKLET.
Tuchmann Co., 68 William St., N. Y.

FIRE CASUALTY

Announcement

Effective December 1, 1925, we will merge our Insurance Agencies forming the DICKEY-MANGHAM INSURANCE AGENCY with offices in suite 529 Grant building.

This change is brought about by our desire to render our clients more efficient service by reason of an enlarged organization.

We assure you that any business entrusted to us will receive our most careful attention. We also wish to take this opportunity to express our sincere appreciation of your past patronage.

J. L. DICKEY-BERGSTROM COMPANY
S. W. MANGHAM INSURANCE AGENCY
Suite 529 Grant Building Atlanta, Georgia

EDWARD H. INMAN JAMES L. DICKEY B. M. GRANT
J. W. GOLDSMITH, JR. S. W. MANGHAM J. P. GARLINGTON

BONDS LOANS

Closing Reports Only Complete

QUOTATIONS ON COTTON, STOCKS, BONDS, GRAIN, LIVE STOCK

Markets of World Fully Covered

BOND MARKET

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York, November 21.—Following are today's high, low and closing prices of bonds on the New York Stock exchange and the total sales of each bond: (U. S. government bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars.)

Sales (In $1,000)	U. S. Bonds.	High.	Low.	Close.
28	Liberty 3½s	90.19	90.16	90.17
1	Liberty 2d 4s	99.31	99.31	99.31
10	Liberty 1st 4½s	101.23	101.22	101.22
84	Liberty 2d 4½s	100.23	100.20	100.21
113	Liberty 3d 4½s	100.28	100.23	100.25
130	Liberty 4th 4½s	102.	101.29	101.31
4	U S Treasury 4s	102.29	102.26	102.26
6	U S Treasury 4½s	106.16	106.16	106.16
	Foreign.
5	An Jurg Marg Wks 6s	100	100	100
19	Argen Gov 6s A 1957	96½	96½	96½
20	Argen Gov 6s B 1958	96½	96½	96½
21	Argen Gov 6s 1959 ctfs	97	96	96½
26	Austrian Gov gtd ln 7s	100½	100½	100½
8	Chinese Gov Ry 5s	49½	49½	49½
7	City of Bordeaux 6s	84½	84½	84½
3	City of Copenhagen 5½	98½	98½	98½
2	City of Gr Prague 7½	93½	93½	93½
2	City of Oslo 6s ctfs 1955	99½	99½	99½
7	City of Rio de Jan 8s 1947	98½	98	98
27	Commwealth Australia 5s 1955	97½	97½	97½
8	Czechoslovak Republic 8s 1952	101½	100½	101½
2	Department of Seine 7s	88½	88½	88½
1	Dom of Can 5½ notes 1929	102	102	102
10	Dom of Can 5s 1952	104½	103½	103½
6	Dut E Ind 6s 1962	103½	103½	103½
3	Dut E I 5½s Nov 1953	102½	102½	102½
10	French Rep 8s	102½	102½	102½
40	French Rep 7½s	98½	98½	98½
81	French Rep 7s	89½	89½	89½
25	German Cent Ag Bk 7s	95½	95½	95½
94	German ext loan 7s rcts	101½	101½	101½
9	German Gen El 7s	95½	95½	95½
1	Gt Can El Pow Japan 7s rcts	90½	90½	90½
50	Japanese Gov 6½s	92½	92½	92½
1	Japanese Gov 4s	83½	83½	83½
16	King of Belgium 7s	96½	96½	96½
38	King of Belg 6½s rcts	93½	92½	93½
27	King of Belgium 6s	86½	85½	85½
16	King of Denmark 6s	103½	103½	103½
16	King of Hungary 7½s	97½	96½	96½
16	King of Nethlds 6s 1927	107½	107½	107½
5	King of Nethlds 6s 1954	103½	103½	103½
24	King of Norway 6s 1944	101½	101	101½
43	King of Norway 5s 1965	95½	95½	95½
24	Kingdom of Serbs Croats Slov 8s	92	91½	92
17	King of Sweden 5½s	102½	102	102
21	Mort Bk Chile 6½s	96	96	96
2	Paris-Lyons-Med 6s	77½	77½	77½
2	Paris-Orleans Rys 7s	84½	84½	84½
11	Rep of Bolivia 8s	98	98	98
1	Rep of Chile 8s 1941	108½	108½	108½
18	Rep of Chile 7s	101½	101	101½
39	Rep of Poland 7s	97½	96½	97½
7	Rep of Haiti 6s	96½	96½	96½
22	Rep of Poland 8s	89½	89½	89½
15	Saxon Pub Works 7s	93	93	93
6	State of San Paulo s f 8s 1950	101½	101½	101½
9	Swiss Gov 5½s 1946	103½	103	103
6	U K of G B & I 5½s 1929	118	118	118
11	U K of G B & I 5½s 1937	105	105	105
4	U S of Brazil 8s	101½	101½	101½
21	U S of Brazil-Cent Ry Elect 7s	87½	87	87
6	U S of Mexico 4s 1910 small assts	27½	27½	27½
	Domestic.
16	Am Ag Chem 7s	104	103½	103½
2	Am Chain s f deb 6s	98½	98½	98½
5	Am Smelting 5s	98½	98½	98½
5	Am Sugar 6s	106½	106½	106½
13	Am Tel & Tel 6½s	104	103½	104
67	Am Tel & Tel deb 5s 1960	97½	97½	97½
32	Am Tel & Tel col tr 4s	97½	97½	97½
5	Am Wat Wks & El 5s	96	96	96
25	Anaconda Cop 7s 1938	104½	104½	104½
32	Anaconda Cop 5s 1953	101½	101	101½
4	Andes Cop Min 7s	97½	97½	97½
21	Armour Co Del 5½s	94½	94½	94½
11	Balt & Ohio rfg 6s 1995	104	103½	104
10	Balt & Ohio cvt 4½s	94	94	94
83	Bell Tel of Pa rfg 5s B 1948	101½	101½	101½
14	Bell Tel of Pa rfg 5s C 1960	100½	100½	100½
44	Beth Steel con 6s	95½	95½	95½
3	Beth Steel pur mon 5s	93½	93½	93½
3	Bklyn Edison gen 5s A	101½	101½	101½
1	Bklyn-Man Tran s f 6s	90½	90½	90½
12	Canadian Pac deb 4s	80½	80½	80½
3	Central New England 4s	67	67	67
1	Central Pac 4s	97½	97½	97½
216	Ches & Ohio cvt 5s	131½	128	130
3	C & O cvt 4½s	97½	97½	97½
1	Chic & Alton 3½s	48½	48½	48½
2	C B & Q rfg 5s A	102½	102½	102½
2	Chic & East Ill 6s	74	74	74
25	Chic Gt Western 4s	62½	62½	62½
26	C M & St P cvt 4½s	54½	54½	54½
22	C M & St P rfg 4½s	55	54½	55
94	C M & St P 4s 1925	54½	54½	54½
5	Chic & Northw rfg 5s	98	98	98
3	Chicago Rys 5s	78	78	78
13	Chic R I P rfg 4s	87	85½	87
20	Chic Terre Haute & S E inc 5s	83	82½	82½
6	Chic Union Sta 6s ctfs	100½	100	100½
7	Chic & West Ind 5½s	99½	99½	99½
51	Chile Copper 6s	109	108½	108½
9	Cleve C C & St L rfg 5s 1974	96½	96½	96½
2	Colo & Sou rfg 4½s	94½	94½	94½
2	Cons Gas of Maryland 5s	82½	82½	82½
11	Cons Gas of N Y deb 5½s	104	103½	104
3	Consumers Power 5s	97	97	97
6	Cuba North Rys 6s	92½	92½	92½
3	Cuban-Dominican 7½s	93½	93½	93½
11	Den & Rio G con 4s	84½	84½	84½
27	Den & Rio G West gen 5s	66½	65½	65
1	Detroit Edison rfg 5s	102	102	102
16	Dodge Bros deb 6s	100	99½	100
5	Duquesne Light 5½s	104½	104½	104½
4	Eastern Cuba Sug 7½s	105½	105½	105½
9	Empire Gas & Fuel 7½s	103½	103½	103½
1	Erie R R 1st con pr ln 4s	75	75	75
37	Erie R R gen lien 4s	66½	66½	66½
32	Fla & East Coast Ry 5s 1974	96½	96½	96½
6	Goodrich 6½s	105	104½	104½
1	Goodyear Tire 8s 1931	110½	110½	110½
20	Goodyear Tire 8s 1941	120½	120½	120½
3	Gould Coupler 6s 1940	91	90½	91
3	Gr Trk Ry of Can 6s	107	107	107
13	Great Northern 7s A	110½	110½	110½
10	Great Northern 5s	96½	96½	96½
25	Hershey Chocolate 5½s	100	100	100
1	Hud & Man rfg 5s A	92½	92½	92½
3	Hud & Man adj inc 5s	74½	74½	74½
3	Humble Oil & Ref 5½s	101½	101½	101½
4	Illinois Bell Tel rfg 5s	101	100½	101
8	Ill Cent Chic St L & N O rfg 5s	99	99	99
11	Intern Rap Trans 6s	69½	69½	69½
1	Int B R T rfg 5s stpd	66½	66½	66½
12	Inter & Gt Nthen adj 6s	75½	75	75
4	Int Paper cvt 5s	94½	94½	94½
95	Int Tel & Tel cvt 5½s 1945	106½	106½	106½
7	Kas City P S & Mem 4s	88½	88½	88½
3	Kas City P & L 5s	100½	99½	100½
8	Kas City Sou 5s	92½	91½	91½
5	Kas City Terminal 4s	85	84½	84½
5	Kelly-Springfield Tire 8s	104½	104	104
3	Laclede Gas of St L 5½s	100½	100½	100½
1	Lehigh Val con 5s 2003	101½	101½	101½
2	Liggett & Myers 5s	100½	100½	100½
8	L & N unified 4s	92½	92½	92½
11	Louisville Gs & El 5s	97½	97½	97½
2	Manhattan Ry con 4s	90	90	90
3	Market St Ry 7s	98½	98	98
8	Mid-Continent Pet 6½s	101½	101½	101½
15	Midvale Steel cvt 5s	92½	92	92½
4	Mil El Ry & Lt 1st 5s B	89½	89½	89½
21	Mo Kan & Tex new pr lien 5s A	96½	96	96½
2	M K & T unw adj 5s A	89½	89½	89½
2	Mo Pac 1st 6s	101½	101½	101½
21	Mo Pac gen 4s	64½	64½	64½
1	Montreal Tramway cl 5s	97	96½	96½
1	National Acme 7½s	97½	97½	97½
5	Nat Tube 5s 1st 5s	101½	101½	101½
13	N Y Cent rfg & imp 5s	101½	101	101
25	N Y Cen con 4s	86	86	86
9	N Y Cen imp 4½s	92½	92½	92½
11	N Y Chi & St L 5½s	98	97½	98
21	N Y Edison rfg 5s	101½	101½	101½
1	N Y Ont & W rfg 4s	67½	67½	67½
10	N Y N H & H 6s 1941	107½	106½	106½
1	N Y Tel gen 4½s	97½	97½	97½
5	Norfolk & West cvt 6s	144½	144½	144½
16	No Am Edison s f 6s	102½	102	102
1	North Pac rfg & gn 6s B	107½	107½	107½
2	No States Pow 1st 5s A	97½	97½	97½
26	Ore-Wash R R & Nav 4s	86½	86½	86½
4	Otis Stl 7½s	100½	100½	100½
9	Pac Gas & El 5s	97½	97½	97½
46	Pan-Am Pet & Tr 6s	103½	103½	103½
2	Penna R R 6½s	111	111	111
42	Penna R R 5s 1964	98½	98½	98½
25	Penna R R gen 4½s	94	94	94
5	Pere Marquette rfg 5s	99½	99½	99½
5	Pierce Arrow 8s	107	107	107
26	Pitts C C & St L 5s B 1975	99½	99	99½
5	Port Ry L & P 5s	88½	88½	88½
1	Pub Serv El & G 5½s '64	103½	103½	103½
1	Pub Serv El Pow 6s	106	106	106
2	Pub Serv of N J 6s	99½	99½	99½
10	Repub Ir & Stl 5½s	93½	93½	93½
7	R Isl Ark & La 4½s	89½	89	89½
25	St L I Mt & So rfg 4s	95½	95½	95½
9	St L I Mt & So 4s R & G div	89	88½	88½
6	St L & San F pr ln 4s A	77	76½	77
12	St L & San F adj 6s	91½	91½	91½
6	St L & San Fran inc 6s	86½	86½	86½
2	St P & K C S L 4½s	85½	85½	85½
11	S A L con 6s	96½	96	96½
15	S A L adj 5s	87	87	87
95	Sinclair Con Oil col 7s	94½	94	94½
7	Sinclair Con Oil 6s 1927	106½	105½	105½
16	Sinclair Pipe Line 5s	86½	86½	86½
40	Skelly Oil 6½s	124	122½	123½
6	Sou Pac cvt 4s	97½	97½	97½
10	Sou Pac rfg 4s	89	88½	89
21	Sou Ry gen 6½s	111½	111	111½
2	Sou Ry con 5s	103½	103½	103½
20	Sou Ry gen 4s	80½	80	80½
2	S'western Bell Tel rfg 5s	100½	100½	100½
12	Penn Elec rfg 6s	102½	102½	102½
3	Third Ave adj 5s	39½	39½	39½
3	Third Ave rfg 4s	54½	54½	54½
8	Union Pac 1st 4s	91½	91½	91½
2	Union Pac cvt 4s	99½	99	99½
10	Union Pac rfg 4s	85½	85½	85½
7	United Drug 6s	103½	103½	103½
9	U S Rubber 5s	91	90½	90½
5	U S Steel s f 5s	105½	105	105
25	Utah Lt & Trac 5s	88½	88½	88½
2	Utah Pow & Lt 5s	95	95	95
3	Va Ry & Pow rfg 5s	97½	97½	97½
18	Virginian Ry 5s	99½	99½	99½
17	Wabash R R rfg 5½s	98½	97½	98½
11	Western Elec 5s	100½	100½	100½
24	West Pac 5s	95	95	95
4	Westinghouse Elec 7s	106½	106½	106½
1	Willys-Overland 1st 6½s	102½	102½	102½
8	Wilson & Co 1st 6s	99½	99	99
3	Youngstown S & T 6s	101½	101½	101½

Total sales of bonds today $5,206,000, compared with $11,514,000 previous day and $10,091,000 a year ago.

News, Views And Reviews

Stock Letters.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

New York, November 21.—The market continued to display weakness today, except for a temporary rally around 11 o'clock. The early trading was marked by extreme weakness in some specialties. Some buying then developed under leadership of one or two specialties. This rally did not hold and at the close selling broke out anew, carrying some of the motors down to new levels. The technical position of the market has not been corrected yet from the action of the market and further drives against prices are to be expected.

FENNER & BEANE.

New York, November 21.—There was continued selling during the early trading, caused by the announcement from San Francisco that the bank rate there had been raised to 4 per cent. This action brings the entire system outside of New York to a 4-per cent basis.

That New York will have to follow the same course seems inevitable, but when is an open question.

Selling pressure on a large scale in the motors and certain specialties carried prices of many issues to lowest level for the reaction, which started over a week ago.

JOHN F. CLARK & CO.

New York, November 21.—Movement of prices on the stock exchange this morning was irregular with a downward tendency for the most part. Selling became more pronounced as trading progressed, one of the significant features being an increase in activity as prices declined. Stop loss orders were dislodged in quantity. Special weakness developed in the high priced motors and the radio shares, but the rails were steady. The bears were restricting their efforts to a search for soft spots among the specialties.

Cotton Letters.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

New York, November 21.—The government report was followed by an advance of nearly a cent a pound in the cotton market here this morning. Prices declined before the report was issued, as if the trade had pretty well made up its mind the crop figures would be a slight increase, if anything. The advance which followed the report was not fully maintained, but for the present, at least, the talk of 15,000,000 bales or over of lint cotton has probably been eliminated and the tendency to buy on reactions increased.

P. R. DUGGAN & CO.

New York, November 21.—With the healthy trade outlook and the fact that this year's crop includes an exceptionally large percentage of low grades, we think that an improvement in prices will be witnessed, and therefore prefer the long side of the market around the present level.

JOHN F. CLARK & CO.

New York, November 21.—The production figure was not far from expectations, but the ginning was bullish and led to replacing of contracts sold before the report, which, together with Wall street buying and general short covering, closed the market a cent above lows before the bureau report. Comment was that the final estimate on December 8 will be no larger than today's, perhaps smaller. The crop reporting board points out, however, that their estimate a year ago today was 5 per cent less than the final ginnings. Gossip after the close is that the market may advance, but any bulge of consequence will no doubt meet selling by the south against actual.

H. & B. BEER.

New Orleans, November 21.—Prior to release of today's government crop report, the market was depressed, owing to further liquidation, influenced by the possibility of the government indicating a larger yield than indicated November 1.

After trading was resumed, after release of the government report, values advanced more than 100 points, which attracted realizing, causing the market to ease off again.

In view of the prospects for a record consumption by the world of American cotton this season, we favor buying cotton now, especially on depressions.

FENNER & BEANE.

New Orleans, November 21.—The comparatively small ginning returns coupled with a reduced estimate from the government was generally accepted as an admission that its figures were too large and that it has started trimming its estimates. The market responded to the change with a substantial advance and the highest prices were made just before the close.

Sentiment has changed entirely as a result of today's figures and indications are that prices will work higher in near future. The market acts like it is in an oversold condition.

C. P. ELLIS & CO.

New Orleans, November 21.—Except that it failed to confirm recent estimates of as much as 15,500,000 bales, we do not see that the bureau report changes the situation to any important extent. The trade has accommodated itself to crop ideas of something over 15,000,000 bales and the important factor in the situation from now on will be the question of consumption. We have all along felt and still feel that at these prices the world will take all the cotton available, and we think the demand for good spinnable cotton will be intensified by the unusually large proportion of undesirable cotton in the present crop.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

New York, November 21.—Once again the trade received a surprise because the government estimate was lower than the last report. While, of course, the falling off of the indicated crop was small as compared with the last report, nevertheless, it is felt that the only one more report to be made that we have seen the largest indicated crop that can be predicted and consequently the weight of the bales is now a thing of the past. It is probable the ginning which did more to change sentiment than the indicated crop because it was smaller for the period than had been believed would be the case.

It is not at all likely that we will have a runaway market, but it would seem that sentiment now is beginning to change and that we can expect the trade as a whole to take a more constructive point of view, especially as the large amount on long side cotton liquidated in recent are coming in and the realisation spreads that desirable cotton, both for spinning purposes and for delivery against contracts is seriously curtailed.

ORVIS BROS. & CO.

New York, November 21.—The government reports today disappointed the bears and encouraged the trade. It should be the means of thoroughly dispelling such gloom as has heretofore prevailed over the possibility of the price of cotton suffering any further important decline. Furthermore, at this time the best opportunity yet this season prevails for making an accurate crop estimate, and perhaps today figures represent a close approximation of what the yield will be.

With business conditions good, credit easy and a large portion of the crop having already passed along towards the ultimate consumer, the greatest possibility for constructive thought and action in price-making prevails since the time when transactions were conducted on the theory that the yield would be less than 14,000,000 bales.

Relying upon crop estimates as discarded price depressants and strong trade conditions favoring constructive action, we believe that prices will suffer only temporary reactions and the probability of advances are reasonably good.

Grain Letters.

FENNER & BEANE.

Chicago, November 21.—WHEAT: Liverpool closed 2½ to 3½ up and Buenos Aires closed 2½ to 4½ cents up while Winnipeg showed decided strength. In view of these upturns market here has a sharp upturn with general short covering. On the advance there was considerable profit taking and full gains were not fully maintained. At the same time interest in the market was broader and declines ran into buying.

CORN: There was persistent selling by commission houses, while the buying was largely confined to short covering. There was also selling by recent buyers suggesting profit taking.

OATS: Moderate trade with commission house selling of May on bulges and buying on resting orders.

Coffee.

New York, November 21.—Further declines occurred in the market for coffee futures today owing to rumors that Santos shippers were accepting bids at concessions and continued liquidation. March contracts sold off to 16.45 or 20 points net lower. The market closed at net declines of 17 to 30 points. December 17.00; January 16.65; March 16.41; May 15.83; July 15.53; September 14.93; estimated sales 37,000.

Spot coffee quiet; Rio 7s 18; Santos 4s 23½ to 23½. Cost and freight offers included part Bourbon 3s and 5s at 21.90.

Rio exchange on London 5-16 pence lower; dollar buying rate 30 reis higher. Rio market 150 to 250 reis lower; Santos 50 to 100 reis lower. Brazilian port receipts 45,000; Jundiahy receipts 18,000.

BOND PRICES DROP IN DULL TRADING

DAILY BOND SUMMARY.

	Sat.	Fri.
Ten first-grade rails	97.17	89.17
Ten secondary rails	91.11	91.22
Ten public utilities	91.1%	92.03
Ten industrials	98.55	98.27
Combined average	92.65	92.67
Combined month ago	92.48
Combined year ago	90.93

Total sales bonds, $5,206,000.

New York, November 21.—(AP)—Orderly recessions were the rule in today's quiet bond trading, which came under the restrictive influences of an advance in the San Francisco rediscount rate and the usual Saturday let-up in activity.

Primary interest in the railroad group centered in the action of St. Paul bonds following the compromise over reorganization terms. The favorable features of the modified plan appeared to have been discounted fully by the junior issues but prices still held firm on indications that the way had been cleared for an early lifting of the receivership without a court fight.

Other railroad liens fluctuated nervously, most of them yielding to week-end profit-taking. Norfolk & Western convertible 6's fell back about 2 points but Chesapeake & Ohio 5's recovered after an initial decline. Seaboard, "Katy," Frisco and other semi-speculative issues drifted irregularly lower.

Despite the break in French francs to the low level of the year, French bonds were steady. They were overshadowed in interest by the activity in the new Italian 7's, which continued to sell at a premium. Considerable German financing has been arranged for next week, including loans to the cities of Frankfort and Dresden and several corporate bond issues.

Government Report On Atlanta Live Stock

Furnished by United States department of agriculture bureau of agricultural economics market news service.

Saturday's receipts, estimated: Cattle, 75; hogs, 300.

Friday's receipts, actual: Cattle, 60; hogs, 717; sheep, 30.

Cattle: For the week, receipts moderate, quality plain; general market fairly active, fully steady; spots higher.

Hogs: For the week, receipts light, market uneven; extreme top $12.50, bulk for week $11.50 to $12.25

Quotations.

Slaughter Cattle:

Steers—
Medium	$ 5.75@$ 7.00
Common	4.25@ 5.75
Canners and cutters	3.25@ 4.25
Cows and Heifers—
Medium	4.00@ 5.50
Common	3.50@ 4.00
Cutters	2.75@ 3.50
Canners	2.25@ 2.75
Bulls—
Canners and bologna	3.00@ 4.50
Calves—
Medium to choice	4.75@ 7.00
Cull and common	3.75@ 4.75
Vealers—
Medium to choice	5.50@ 8.00
Cull and common	4.00@ 5.50
Hogs—
Medium weights, 200-250 lbs.	11.50@ 12.50
Light weights, 160-200 lbs.	11.50@ 12.50
Light lights, 130-160 lbs.	11.50@ 12.00
Killing pigs, 90-130 lbs.	11.00@ 11.50
Packing hogs—rough & smooth	10.00@ 10.50

Live Stock.

Chicago, November 21.—Hogs: Receipts, 3,000; active; steady at Friday's average; bulk desirable 160 to 260-pound averages, $11.15@11.25; practical top, $11.35; bulk packing sows, $9.90@10.40; killing pigs, $11.50 down; shippers 3,000; estimated holdover 2,000; heavyweight hogs, $11.00@11.30; mediumweights, $11.10@11.30; lightweights, $10.75@11.35; light lights, $10.05@11.50; packing sows, $9.00@10.60; slaughter pigs, $11.00@11.75.

Cattle: Receipts, 500; fed steer trade uneven; heavies strong to 25c higher; yearlings and lightweights, $2.50 lower; spots more; closing trade on little cattle at standstill; generally native trade 50 lower grades; both killer and feeder dealers showing interest; dwindling supply of stockers and feeders 50 to 75c higher; extreme top matured steers, $14.50 few above $12.50; best yearlings, $13.25; few choice, $12.00; fat cows, and heifers 25 to 75c lower; heifers off most; canners and cutters weak to 10c off; bulls about steady; vealers $1 lower; week's bulk prices follow: Grain fed steers, $8.75@11.00; grass steers, $7.25@8.50; fat cows, $4.35@6.25; heifers, $5.50@7.00; canners and cutters, $3.35@4.00; veal calves, $9.75@10.50; stockers and feeders, $6.50@7.50.

Sheep: Receipts, 500; for week around 1,500 direct and 12 double decks from feeding station; today's market nominal; compared week ago, fat lambs and yearlings 75 to unevn higher; clipped lambs and fat sheep mostly 25c up; bulks for week follow: fat lambs, $15.00@15.75; cull natives, $11.50@12.00; feeding lambs, $14.75@15.50; fat yearlings, wethers, $11.75@12.75; fat ewes, $7.00@8.25.

COTTON STATEMENT

New Orleans: Middling 20.37; receipts 9,171; exports 21,227; sales 4,714; stock 399,481.

Galveston: Middling 20.90; receipts 19,517; exports 8,324; sales 2,314; stock 577,108.

Mobile: Receipts 400; stock 25,000.

Savannah: Middling 20.38; receipts 3,293; exports 2,957; sales 763; stock 117,163.

Charleston: Middling 20.00; receipts 1,217; stock 42,898.

Wilmington: Middling 20.00; receipts 252; stock 29,531.

Norfolk: Middling 20.38; receipts 4,194; sales 1,559; stock 144,842.

Baltimore: Exports 100; stock 846.

New York: Middling 21.65; stock 42,456.

Boston: Receipts 19; stock 800.

Houston (port): Receipts 4,398; exports 4,398.

Minor ports: Receipts 3,438; exports 3,438; stock 6,182.

Total today: Receipts 45,959; exports 40,444; sales 9,850; stock 1,386,607.

Total for week: Middling 45,959; exports 40,444.

Total for season: Receipts 4,845,794; exports 3,235,944.

Interior Movement.

Memphis: Middling 20.50; receipts 12,767; shipments 12,368; sales 3,625; stock 186,682.

Augusta: Middling 20.31; receipts 2,111; shipments 2,345; sales 320; stock 100,373.

St. Louis: Middling 20.20; receipts 4,798; shipments 4,583; stock 9,640.

Houston: Middling 20.75; receipts 32,583; shipments 23,678; sales 12,581; stock 671,331.

Little Rock: Middling 20.75; receipts 1,194; shipments 1,424; sales 3,632; stock 49,256.

Atlanta: Middling 19.75 sales 1,800.

Dallas: Middling 20.50; sales 11,421.

Montgomery: Middling 19.45.

Total today: Receipts 58,453; shipments 46,398; sales 33,379; stock 1,023,276.

Moody's Weekly Review.

Moody's Weekly Review of Financial Conditions in its current issue says in part:

"Too much optimism is as bad as not enough, since it tends to build up weak margin accounts, and undermine the position of the market. Last Saturday out of 15 published opinions of financial houses, 14 were bullish and most of them enthusiastic.

"Possibly the market is now entering into its rather usual autumn reaction. At the present time a normal reaction in view of the great extent of the advance would mean about 8 to 12 points in the average price of 50 stocks.

"Such a reaction, should it occur, would be encouraging and stabilizing, rather than alarming. A reaction prior to the development of inflation is not dangerous even though an equal reaction after inflation has become a fact might be very dangerous.

"Bond prices promise to move almost horizontally between now and the early part of next year. But taking a longer view it appears conservative to slowly and deliberately exchange into higher grade and shorter term issues."

N. Y. Stock Transactions

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York, November 21.—Following is the complete closing list of today's transactions in stocks on the New York Stock exchange:

Sales.		High.	Low.	Last.
6	Abitibi Pow & Paper	6⅜	6⅜	6⅜
5	Ahumada Lead	9½	9½	9½
9	Air Reduct	112½	111½	111½
2	Ajax Rubber	11	11	11
61	Al Chem & Dye	111½	110½	110½
1	Al Chem & Dye pfd	121½	121½	121½
3	Allis Chalmers	89	88½	89
6	Am Agri Chem	25½	25½	25½
1	Am Agri Chem pfd	74	74	74
1	Am Beet Sugar	35	35	35
1	Am Beet Sug pfd	82	82	82
13	Am Bosch Mag	29	25½	29
20	Am Brake Shoe Fdy	143½	141½	143½
71	Am Can	245½	241	242½
7	Am Car & Fdy	108½	108½	108½
2	Am Car & Fdy pfd	126	126	126
1	Am Chain A	24½	24½	24½
4	Am Chicle	51½	51	51½
1	Am Chicle cfts	48	48	48
1	Am Drug Syn	45½	45½	45½
25	Am & For Power	41½	40	40
1	Am & For Power pfd	92½	92½	92½
1	Am Hide & Leath	12½	12½	12½
2	Am Hide & Leath pfd	62½	62½	62½
3	Am Ice	126	126	126
8	Am Internati Corp	42½	41½	41½
4	Am-La France Fire Eng	15½	15½	15½
1	Am Linseed	47½	47½	47½
12	Am Locomotive	119½	118½	118½
1	Am Metals	53⅜	53⅜	53⅜
1	Am Radiator	117½	117½	117½
2	Am Safety Razor	69½	69½	69½
2	Am Ship & Commerce	6½	6½	6½
35	Am Smelting	121½	120½	121½
1	Am Smelting pfd	112	112	112
2	Am Steel Fdrs	42½	42½	42½
12	Am Sugar Refining	72½	71½	72
3	Am Sumatra Tob	11½	10½	10½
1	Am Tel & Tel	143½	143½	143½
3	Am Tobacco	115½	115½	115½
19	Am Tobacco B	114½	114	114
2	Am Tobacco pfd	107½	107½	107½
23	Am Water Works	61	57	59
4	Am Woolen	46½	46	46
3	Am Zinc Lead & Smelt	9	9	9
20	Anaconda Copper	50	49½	49½
2	Archer-Daniels-Midland	40	40	40
5	Armour & Co of Del pfd	97½	97½	97½
3	Armour & Co of Ill A	25½	24½	25
2	Atlantic Gulf & W I ctfs	13½	13½	13½
20	Asso Dry Goods	57	56½	56½
15	Associated Oil	39½	39	39
20	Atch Top & Sante Fe	123½	122½	123
5	Atl Coast Line	224½	223	224
44	Atl Gulf & W I	53	52	52
1	Atl Gulf & W I pfd	53	52	52
3	Atlas Truck	16½	16½	16½
4	Austin Nichols	31	30½	30½
5	Auto Knit Hosiery	1½	1½	1½
41	Baldwin Locomotive	125	123½	123½
92	Baltimore & Ohio	92½	90½	92
3	Balt & Ohio pfd	66½	66½	66½
38	Bangor & Aroostock	50	48½	49
18	Barnsdall Corp A	24½	24½	24½
2	Barnsdall Corp B	28½	27½	27½
3	Bedding Bros	37½	37½	37½
15	Bethlehem Steel	47½	46	47½
2	Beth Steel 7 pfd	101½	101	101½
1	Botany Cons Mills A	42	42	42
7	Briggs Mfg Co	30½

Increased Rediscount Rate Causes Suspension of Wild Stock Market Speculation

Present Conditions Seen As Indication of Indefinite Continuation of Prosperity in Industry.

BY C. H. PLATT.
(Special to The Constitution.)

New York, November 21.—The stock marker had another real setback during the past week and, although it was highly resisten; to public liquidation, as it was responsive to public buying all summer, the buying was overcome at times by the volume of offerings. It was a week of great irregularity, for support came in behind special stocks that carried them up in the face of sharp and drastic declines in the list as a whole, but these specialties would also weaken upon the least withdrawal of the firmest sort of bidding.

Bears Show Profit.

It was not sufficient that buying orders be placed, but there had to be insistent bids to hold up particular favorites. The bearish element profited, and the bulls, while holding their stocks, were not averse to letting the list slide off before coming in aggressively. Of course, many of the speculative leaders look low just now, but the prices at which they stand would have seemed high last year.

Increasing of rediscount rates by the federal reserve banks called a halt to the wild speculation that has been prevalent for months. These advances were considered in the light of a warning and were well heeded. The general news is of a character to warrant the greatest optimism for future business in practically every line of endeavor, but speculators are wondering whether prosperity has not been discounted already and as most stock gamblers are inclined to let the other fellow set the pace, prices are backing and filing without the speculative support so much in evidence when a decided trend either way develops.

Selling Predominates.

In the early part of the week selling orders predominated, with aggressive efforts now and again to put up certain stocks, but these efforts failing to attract more buying the selected issues would sag off discouragingly. Extra dividends, as well as other tidings that in ordinary circumstances would be the cause of buying demonstrations, were announced almost daily, but with little notice being paid to them and less effect marketwise. It could hardly be termed a smash in security prices for many stocks stood their ground fairly well, while in others the volume of trading decreased decidedly when quotations were going against them.

Tighter money at this season of the year is not expected, nor is the action of security prices a cause for surprise when funds are higher priced. The average trader has been so astonished at the continuing advance in his holdings over such a long period that he anticipated a reaction and was willing to believe that even the slightest disturbance in financial conditions would bring about a panic. With this frame of mind prevailing the wonder is that an actual debacle did not develop.

Big Business Scale.

The fact is that the rediscount rate is of minor importance to public traders—the real backbone of a bull market—and so far as brokers are concerned their beliefs are plainly illustrated by sales of New York Stock Exchange seats at $150,000. The brokerage business is on such a stupendous scale that, following the quashing of an attempt to increase the number of stock exchange seats, agitation is now going on to put bonded clerks on the trading floor, similar to the practice on the London exchange.

Conditions as a whole point to an indefinite continuation of present prosperity in all industries and while political problems begin to loom larger as we approach the next session of congress no adverse legislation is anticipated.

Public utility officials continue to warn against wild speculation in the stocks of their companies, giving voice to the fact that such companies do not cut melons and can only earn a legitimate profit on their capitalizations, but the boom in that class of securities has been fairly over for a month or more and it would be entirely normal for them to seek levels more in keeping with their past earnings records.

Building Is Active.

Building activity is maintained at levels entirely beyond last summer's expectations; payroll statistics are enlightening as to the tremendous buying power of the masses, gold shipments are further swelling funds available for any purpose; interest payments on debts of foreigners to us add constantly to the ever-growing surplus; discontinuation of violent fluctuation in foreign exchanges show that other countries are becoming normal and our trade with the far east is 20 per cent above the corresponding period of 1924. The prices of common stocks ought to be high and despite occasional setbacks will be high until a major reason for low prices eventuates.

Oils Show Strength.

The oils are holding their own and in some instances advancing, when other divisions of the market shows depressing weakness. Production reports indicate a steady decline in high-grade oil production and the price of gasoline is advancing. Many of the companies have already begun the distribution of the large surpluses built up, and the outlook for oil shares is brilliant. Commercial aviation is expanding at a pace not generally realized by the public and will ultimately be as great a consumer of oil in its various forms as any industry with the possible exception of transportation as confined to trucks and busses. The coal strike has been a cause of turning thousands of manufacturers to oil and every householder who can use oil is doing so. Hardware sales are up sharply and included among the items most widely distributed are oil stoves. Every factor that enters into higher security prices is favorable to the oils.

Motor Market.

The unprecedented activity during the past few months might well be called a "motor market," and while timid investors believe this division to be through as a unit, there are multiple reasons for optimism about shares that yield close to 9 per cent, with earnings of the companies double dvidend requirements. There is probably more real investment buying of the motors right now than at any period since last spring. It is a known fact that the railroads have in contemplation such extensive purchases of trucks and busses during the coming year that, if their plans materialize, 1926 should be by far a better year for truck manufacturers than 1925. And parctically every one of the motor companies, even though they may have specialized in passenger cars in the past, could easily turn their manufacturing facilities into output of trucks and coaches.

Low Money Rates.

Although money is decidedly firm and there have been considerable withdrawals from New York banks, comparatively the rates are very reasonable. Heavy increases in reserves are shown in bank statements and this only bears out the frequent reiterations that call rates are arbitrary and have little legitimate effect on stocks so far as the actual values are concerned. Call rates are not given thought by the far-sighted stock buyer who is in a financial position to carry his stocks until they reach levels in accord with fundamentals as they apply to his particular selections.

Some of the railroads have had good advances while the market was breaking. Others have stood stationary and in isolated instances, among those most highly speculative, have shown minor recessions, but the undertone of rails is excellent and a casual glance at a day's trading sheets gives conclusive evidence that the railroad shares are being purchased in steadily increasing volume.

Rail Advance Certain.

An advance of broad proportions in rail stocks is as cetrain as anything can be, unless all signs fail. In a way the carriers are marking time awaiting a decision on the merger question, but the move is expected to precede directors' meetings in the early part of December. A more liberal dividend policy is apt to be put in effect by nearly all roads operating in the east. Car loadings are still high with bituminous coal shipments almost as great as the combined movement of anthracite and bituminous last year at this time.

Dividend increases by the leading copper companies are imminent. Many of them are earning double requirements. Earnings of all classes of manufacturers have been over-shadowed during the past year by the profits of metal manufacturers and this is beginning to show in the market action of the copper and nickel stocks. It has been predicted that within six months the steel companies will be turning business away. Higher prices should prevail, therefore, not only for the stock of steel companies but for the products also. Steel billets are selling at lower prices than a year ago, but this is a condition that will probably be rectified shortly. Furnaces are being blown in rapidly and small companies are particularly benefited by a cut in rates for steel shipments in the intercoastal trade from Atlantic to Pacific ports. Ingot production in the Pittsburgh district is at 85 per cent as compared with 80 per cent a week ago.

Bond Prices Steady.

Bond prices remain fairly steady with not a great deal of trading, although some funds have turned from the stock market into bonds as a result of uncertainty. The firming up of money helps bonds slightly. Foreign issues continue to dominate and are likely to do so for some time to come. A new and large Italian issue is about due. The Mexican bonds have attracted attention in view of the prospect for renewal of interest payments by the railroads of that country.

Cotton has had a tendency to move somewhat higher with ginning reports and production estimate favorable to stiffening prices. Weather reports have been continuously unfavorable over a period of weeks and one of the most important questions to be solved remains that of the quality of the year's production. In the speculative market there has been an unusually large amount of switching from earlier to distant months and the general impression prevails that prices are low enough just now.

WEATHER FORECAST FOR COTTON STATES

Louisiana: Sunday partly cloudy to cloudy, colder in northwest portion; Monday fair, colder in southeast portion; light, variable winds on the coast, becoming northerly.

Arkansas: Sunday, partly cloudy, colder; Monday fair.

Oklahoma: Sunday fair, colder; Monday fair.

East Texas: Sunday partly cloudy, rain in southeast portion; Monday fair, light to fresh northerly winds on the coast.

West Texas: Sunday fair, colder; Monday fair.

Financier Dead.

New York, November 21.—(AP)—Reginald Henshaw Ward, financier and diplomat, died here yesterday at the age of 63.

He was a descendant of General Artemus Ward of Revolutionary fame. From 1701 to 1706 Mr. Ward was consul general for Rumania at London. Pope Leo XIII gave him the title of count.

BIRTHS.

To Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Brooks, 124 Calhoun street, a girl, November 16.

To Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Withers, 25 Floyd street, a boy, November 14.

To Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Aderhold, 38 Flat Shoals, a boy, November 14.

To Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Tabe, 9 Sydney street, a boy, November 11.

To Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Boggs, 8 Hall place, a boy, November 2.

To Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Burts, Sr., 186 Lanier place, a boy, November 13.

To Dr. and Mrs. M. S. Farmney, 21 Lakeview avenue, a girl, November 15.

To Mr. and Mrs. F. Jackson, 99 Hampton street, a girl, November 18.

To Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Harris, 97 Woodlawn avenue, a boy, November 17.

To Mr. and Mrs. F. T. White, 4 Gordon street, a girl, November 1.

To Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Lester, 311 Dorsey street, a girl, October 20.

To Mr. and Mrs. William C. Hite, 406 East Washington street, a boy, October 29.

To Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Smith, 150 Lindsey street, a girl, November 14.

To Mr. and Mrs. P. Barker, 2 Berean avenue, a boy, November 15.

To Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Sherman, 150 Grove street, a boy, November 15.

To Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Watson, 68 Delta street, a boy, November 13.

To Mr. and Mrs. J. Hardin, 219 Pine street, a boy, November 11.

To Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Cox, 19 Williams street, a boy, November 14.

To Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Stroup, 11 Shelton street, a boy, November 12.

To Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Swafford, 223 Hendrix avenue, a girl, November 12.

To Mr. and Mrs. E. Hays, 35 Rhinehardt street, a boy, November 1.

To Mr. and Mrs. J. William Bush, 14 West Baker street, a girl; November 11.

To Mr. and Mrs. A. Buck, 145 Cherokee avenue, a girl; November 8.

To Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Ward, 1352 DeKalb avenue, a girl; November 9.

To Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Spratling, 44 Wheeler street, a boy; November 8.

To Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Bagwell, 216 Chattahoochee avenue, a boy; November 6.

To Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hollis, 80 Bellmont avenue, a girl; November 4.

To Mr. and Mrs. J. White, 163 McAfee street, a boy; November 6.

To Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rackus, 150 Middle street, a girl; November 3.

To Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Edwards, 20 Pickett street, a boy; November 4.

To Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Reed, 15 Bacon place, a boy; November 3.

To Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Gresham, 796 East Fair street, a girl; November 18.

To Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Harrington, 23 Glendale avenue, a boy; November 15.

To Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Cudlipp, 9 Bryan, a girl; November 1.

To Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Williamson, 587 Ponce de Leon avenue, a boy; November 15.

To Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Chambers, 91 Huntington road, a boy; November 11.

To Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Slarick, 41 Warner street, a boy; November 16.

To Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Whitten, 20 Ashland avenue, a girl; November 5.

To Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Harris, 254 Highland avenue, a boy; November 17.

To Mr. and Mrs. G. Savopoulous, 373 Pulliam street, a boy; November 18.

To Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hines, 13 Howell place, a girl; November 10.

Man Who Befriended Dog

$2,500 SET ASIDE TO PROVIDE DOG HOME

Left $7,500 by Civil War Vet

St. Louis, November 21.—(AP)—Years ago, a small boy fought for a friendless pup on the shore of the Mississippi river near here.

Today, the inventory of the will of Jacob Siler was filed and that boy, now a man, benefits to the extent of $7,500. The boy, Otto Schmitt, an interior decorator, was named executor of the will, which among its provisions, calls for a permanent home and bequests $2,500 to Siler's dog, Joe.

The unusual case involves the story of true love between man and dog. Siler, veteran of the civil war, died last July. Previous to his death, he lived with William P. Mertz, one of 5,000 persons who answered an advertisement of the aged bachelor, who offered approximately $5,000 in property in return for a home for himself and "Joe."

Schmitt was long a friend of Siler's. Their acquaintance started when the elderly man saw the youth fight a group of boys who amused themselves by throwing a small dog into the Mississippi. After the fight, Siler congratulated the boy for befriending animals.

The inventory today listed Siler's property. Division of the estate is to take place in three years. Mertz and Schmitt will each receive the same amount of money.

Joe, the dog, mentioned in the will as "one dog, no value," is provided for under the "dog Joe agreement." He lives with Mertz and a fund of $2,500 provides for his needs. Schmitt is to investigate his treatment at intervals. At the dog's death, the residue of the fund is to be divided between the two men after an autopsy has been performed over the body.

The Day in Finance

BY R. L. BARNUM

Wall Street Observers Predict Bull Market Will Continue Under Leadership of Oils, Rails and Steel Until Strain in Money Appears.

New York, November 21.—One week ago today it was pointed out in this column that despite the improvement that had taken place in the general business situation commercial loans had not increased as much as the usual seasonal gain at this time of year but that from all existing signs the increases in commercial loans was going to be at a faster rate. It was added that there was no reason to believe that what has not always happened stockmarketwise when the money market began to feel the strain from increasing commercial loans would not again be experienced and that hence for the longer look ahead the feeling in the best banking circles here was that the upward price trend in the stock market would be definitely stopped by one of two causes or possibly both working together, higher money and a return to overproduction of the basic commodities.

Within the past week the Federal Reserve bank at Cleveland has followed the example of the Boston Federal Reserve bank in increasing its rediscount rate from 3½ per cent to 4 per cent and the stock market has had another break such as followed the change in the Boston rate, not as severe but enough to indicate plainly that a decided change has occurred in the money and stock market picture. On November 10, the day following the unexpected increase in the Boston rate the stock market had a wide-open break with the total turnover 3,448,000 shares, the largest day's business in its history, comparing with 3,270,000 shares the previous high record made in April of 1901 and with 3,048,000 in December of 1916. Since November 10 there has been another 3,000,000 share day, the fourth in the history of the stock exchange, but with the figures below those of the 10th.

The rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve bank at Cleveland remained unchanged at 3½ per cent from August of 1924 until this week's advance to 4 per cent. It cannot be said therefore that the 4 per cent rate just established reflects tight money. But it can be said that it marks the passing of the period of easy money on which has been based the upward price movement in the stock market which has been going on since April of 1924 with temporary interruptions. It is now plain that on November 10, when the turnover was 3,448,000 shares, the stock market was going at such a rapid pace that it was not generally realized that the peak of the phase of the bull market under the leadership of the motors was being reached and passed.

While the peak of the bull market under the leadership of the motors was reached and passed on November 10, this does not mean that the bull market is over. Those in Wall street whose views count for the most are of the opinion that the bull stock market will continue under the leadership of the rails, oils and steels, until a real strain appears in the money market.

Wall street bankers are of the opinion that if a real strain appears in the money market as a result of expanding general trade, improving general trade will take the stock market along with it for a considerable period. On the other hand the belief exists that stock speculation will continue over a shorter period if a real strain appears in the money market without continued improvement in general trade but because of continued speculation in the stock market and in real estate.

So far the demand for commercial loans has not kept pace with improvement in general trade for the simple reason that most corporations have had so much cash on hand this autumn that they have been doing their own financing. Each day of improving general trade, however, brings nearer the time when these corporations must apply to their banks for required working capital.

That Wall street does not expect a real strain to appear in the money market in the near future but does expect the bull market to continue under the leadership of rails, oils and steel shares is evident from the fact that while the stock market was declining under the leadership of the overextended motor shares a powerful pool was formed for operating on the long side of no less than ten railroad stocks. While the motors were leading the stock market frequently more than one pool was operating in the same motor stock. However, until the powerful railroad pool in question was formed such a thing as one pool operating in ten different stocks was unheard of. Announcement that such a pool has been formed will come as a surprise even to many Wall street people usually well informed.

Compared with industrials a very different stock market situation exists in the rails. Industrial companies that have not increased their capitalization since the war are as scarce as hen's teeth. The motors for example have had one increase after another in capitalization as a result of stock dividends and stock splitups. Take for example General Motors which recently touched a new high for all times under the existing capitalization at 149¾. If each stock increase is traced back the price of 149¾ is equivalent to not far from $2,000 a share for the original shares.

In the meantime, that is since 1914, the capital stock of the railroads of the country as a whole has remained unchanged and with the floating supply being constantly absorbed by investors. In the matter of actual earning power the railroads of this country have never been stronger than today. That developments are rapidly shaping into the largest movement of railway consolidations ever experienced in this country is a matter of common knowledge. If a favorable decision should be handed down in the near future on the pending Nickel Plate merger which will act as a pattern for other proposed railroad consolidations, this decision coming on top of the large current earning power of many railroads plus the very small floating supply of railway shares could easily cause a stock market situation which with the public in its present frame of mind would justify the formation of a pool handling no less than ten different stocks, all of which have more or less community or allied interests.

Likewise, if the prediction materializes made by Chairman Gary, of the Steel corporation, that the steel manufacturers will shortly be turning away orders, it is conceivable that speculation in the steel shares is not over. That the oil companies are making very large profits is a matter of record.

EXCESS RESERVE SHOWS DECREASE

New York, November 21.—(AP)—The actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week show excess reserve of $22,378,980. This is a decrease of $22,304,490, compared with last week, when excess reserve of $44,683,470 was reported.

The statement follows:

Loans, discounts, etc., $5,361,982,000, increase, $4,822,000.

Cash in own vaults, member Federal Reserve Bank, $48,738,000, increase, $1,703,000.

Reserve in Federal Reserve Bank of member banks, $604,883,000, decrease of $23,297,000.

Reserve in own vaults, state banks and trust companies, $9,129,000, increase, $220,000.

Reserve in depositaries, state banks and trust companies, $12,388,000, increase, $503,000.

xNet demand deposits, $4,497,684,000, decrease $3,418,000. Time deposits $564,527,000, increase $5,769,000.

Circulation $23,507,000, decrease $95,000.

xU. S. deposits deducted $10,092,000.

Aggregate reserve $626,400,000.

Excess reserve $22,378,980, decrease $22,304,490.

Summary of state banks and trust companies in greater New York not included:

Loans, discounts, etc., $1,159,680,500, increase $314,000.

Gold, $4,754,000, decrease $673,100.

Currency and bank notes $24,163,900, decrease $1,000,900.

Deposits with Federal Reserve Bank of New York, $96,849,700, increase $2,011,000.

Total deposits $1,230,990,000, increase $158,800.

Do: Eliminating amounts due from reserve depositaries and from other banks and trust companies in New York and United States:

Deposital, $154,546,800, decrease $2,980,300.

Banks: Cash in vault, $37,530,300.

2,323 Americans Named by French Legion of Honor

New York, November 21.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Eagle tomorrow will print a list of 2,323 Americans who have received from the French government the decoration of the Legion of Honor. The Eagle will say the list was carefully prepared "in an effort to ascertain to what extent foreign propaganda in this country has taken the form of foreign decorations to American citizens."

United States Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, has written to Secretary of State Kellogg for a list of Americans thus decorated, the paper will say.

Actors, clergymen, army and navy officers, lawyers, journalists, members of the diplomatic service and university presidents are included in the list, as well as race horse owners, philanthropists and at least one dentist.

On the list are such names as General John J. Pershing, Florenz Ziegfeld, Admiral Benson, Mary Garden, David Belasco, General Tasker Bliss and many other prominent persons.

The name of Woodrow Wilson does not appear.

OFFICERS RESTRAINED FROM RAIDING HOUSE

Acting Chief of Police E. L. Jett and all officers acting under him were served with an injunction Saturday night signed by Judge George L. Bell to prevent them from raiding or searching the home of J. C. McMichael of 27 East Harris street or any other address to which he may move.

An injunction was filed several weeks ago by McMichael while living at 20 West Harris street. Later when he moved, police raided his new residence, it is alleged in the injunction. The injunction restrains the police department from raiding until a hearing is given on the first injunction and the amended injunction.

PIONEER CITIZEN DIES NEAR CRAWFORDVILLE

Crawfordville, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—J. C. Murden, one of the oldest and most respected citizens of the county, died at his home in Robinson, near here, today. Mr. Murden had reached the age of 91 years and was the oldest Confederate veteran in the county.

COAL MINERS STANDING SOLIDLY BEHIND LEWIS

Philadelphia, November 21.—(AP)—Reports received today from the anthracite region by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, indicated, it was said at Mr. Lewis' headquarters, that the miners are standing back of their chief in the present suspension.

Speaking for Mr. Lewis, Ellis Searles, editor of The Mine Workers' Journal, said that "thus far, none of the district local units has asked for financial assistance. Consequently the union is not called upon to go into its strike fund to help members in distress. In fact, there is no distress in the region, and miners and their families are living comfortably."

MORTUARY

W. T. LODEN.

W. T. Loden, 51, of 361 West Third street, died at the home Friday night. He is survived by his widow; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Loden, of Gainesville; three daughters, Mrs. Estelle Howard, Miss Mary Loden and Miss Fannie Loden, and six sons, Fletcher, Willie, Ernest, Telford, Frank and Harry Loden.

EDGAR WILSON.

Edgar Wilson, 73, of 512 Pulliam street, died at a private hospital Friday morning. He is survived by his widow.

JAMES LEROY BROOM.

James LeRoy Broom, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Broom, of 24 McDonald street, died at the home Friday. He is survived by his parents.

NICKOLAS SIBILIAS.

Nickolas Sibilias, 40, or 234 Fraser street, died at the home Thursday night.

In Memoriam.

In memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Dora Nabors, who died seven years ago today, November 22, 1918.

HER CHILDREN.

Card of Thanks.

Rev. and Mrs. B. H. and Brian Greene wish to express our heartfelt thanks to our many friends for their numerous expressions of love and sympathy, and the loving tributes paid to our departed loved ones, Annie and Margaret Greene. We pray that God's richest blessings may rest upon every one who has ministered to them and to us.

J. Austin Dillon Co.
Funeral Directors
Private Ambulance
344 S. PRYOR MA. 4680

FIRST DUNLAP LOANS MORTGAGE

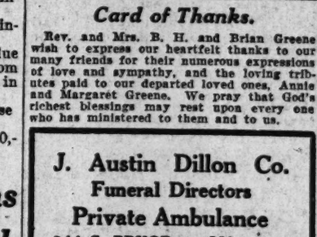
Prompt Loans

are made on Atlanta business and residential property through the Dunlap First Mortgage Loan Plan.

There is no waiting. Funds are advanced promptly. Let us explain the Dunlap Plan to you.

EDGAR DUNLAP
INSURANCE AGENCY
CANDLER BLDG.
ATLANTA, GA.

WE ARE THE SHOCK TROOPS
HARDY AND BOLD
FOR WE PUT THE KIBOSH
ON WINTER AND COLD



STEARNS COAL CO.
Phone WAlnut 9828
9829
349 Decatur Street

Lowest Interest Rates on Real Estate Loans
ATLANTA AND SUBURBS
Also in Other Smaller Georgia Cities
See us before you apply for a loan elsewhere. We are making attractive terms without red tape. Low rates and liberal repayment features.
MORTGAGE BOND & TRUST CO.
C. J. LEWIS, President. F. W. PATTERSON, Vice Pres. M. S. McLATCHEY, Vice Pres.
16 Walton Street, Corner Broad ATLANTA, GEORGIA

FIREWORKS

Write Us for Catalog and Price List.
We Will Ship Through Your Jobber.

GEORGIA FIREWORKS CO.
Atlanta, Ga.

In One Minute of Your Desk

Park your car, expedite your mail, take your meals, and let our Information Desk serve you while absent, etc.

Manufacturers' Agents or those having Materials for Display should appreciate our Display Windows and advertising fronts.

All of these conveniences, under the Arcade roof, increase your efficiency and save time for your patrons.

Occasional Office, Shop, Display Room or Street Store to offer, as we have under this one roof as many separate units as exist from the Viaduct to Ellis street, or from Viaduct to Trinity avenue.

Apply Peachtree Arcade Room 200

SECOND MORTGAGES

Perhaps a Second Mortgage on your home will solve your financial problem. Come in and ask about our plan.

FRANKLIN MORTGAGE CO.
WAlnut 9043 1005-1009 Healey Building WAlnut 9043

Funeral Notices

RICE—The friends of Miss Mary Ann Rice are invited to attend the funeral of Miss Mary Ann Rice this (Sunday) afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the chapel of Harry G. Poole. Interment in Casey cemetery.

SAUL—The friends of Mrs. Sallie F. Saul are invited to attend the funeral this (Sunday) afternoon at 3 o'clock from the chapel of T. C. Bazemore Co. The Rev. W. M. Huntton will officiate. Interment will be in the College Park cemetery.

SIBILIAS—The friends of Mr. Nickolas Sibilias and family are invited to attend the funeral of Mr. Nickolas Sibilias this (Sunday) afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Greek church. Interment in Greenwood cemetery. Harry G. Poole, funeral director.

M'GINTY—Died Saturday in Asheville, N. C., Mr. Robert McGinty. The remains will be brought to Atlanta Monday morning at 5:40 via the Southern railroad and removed to the chapel of Awtry & Lowndes Co., where funeral arrangements will be announced later.

LODEN—The friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Loden and family and Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Loden and family are invited to attend the funeral of Mr. W. T. Loden this (Sunday) afternoon at 4 o'clock from the residence, 361 West Third street. The remains will be sent Monday, November 23, to Gainesville, Ga., for funeral and interment. Harry G. Poole, funeral director.

COACHMAN—Miss Fannie Coachman died at the residence, 44 Washington avenue, Saturday morning, November 21, 1925. She is survived by the following nieces: Misses Bessie, Simmie and Hattie Twitty, Mrs. E. A. Speed and Mrs. Malcolm M. Lochartt. The remains were taken to Camilla, Ga., Saturday night at 11:30 o'clock via the Central of Georgia railroad for funeral and interment. Barclay & Brandon in charge.

FITTEN—The friends of Mr. DuBose Fitten, Mrs. Emily McDougald, Miss Louise Fitten, Mrs. E. T. Donnley, Mr. Frank Fitten, Mr. Donald Fitten and family are invited to attend the funeral of Mr. DuBose Fitten this (Sunday) afternoon at 4 o'clock from the residence of Miss Louise Fitten, 115 East Fifteenth street. Dr. J. Sprole Lyons will officiate. Interment in Oakland cemetery. Barclay & Brandon in charge.

HUDGINS—The friends and relatives of Mr. Burton F. Hudgins, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Hudgins and Master Thomas B. Hudgins are invited to attend the funeral of Mr. Burton F. Hudgins this (Sunday) afternoon, November 22, 1925, at 2:30 o'clock at the residence, 15 North Decatur road. Rev. W. H. Bedard, first reader of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, will officiate. Interment in West View cemetery. The gentlemen selected to act as pallbearers will please meet at the residence at 2:15 o'clock. H. M. Patterson & Son.

CAMP—The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Carl M. Camp, Janice May Camp, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Grafer, Mr. Fred Corbett and Mr. and Mrs. J. Crumley are invited to attend the funeral of Mrs. Carl M. Camp this (Sunday) afternoon at 3 o'clock from the chapel of J. Austin Dillon Co. Rev. H. T. Brookshire will officiate. Interment West View. The following gentlemen will please act as pallbearers and meet at the chapel at 2:45 p. m.: Dr. J. H. Lorenza, Mr. Ben Perryman, Mr. Arthur L. Cotton, Mr. J. Morris Ward, Mr. Bruice Taylor and Mr. R. H. Jarrell. New York papers please copy.

BENDER—The friends and relatives of Mr Charles Bender, Mrs. J. H. Robertson, of Dalton, Ga.; Miss Mary Burckel, Mrs. W. W. Jones, Mr. J. M. Burckel, Mr. William Burckel, and Mr. Edward Burckel, of Tupelo, Miss., are invited to attend the funeral of Mr. Charles Bender this (Sunday) afternoon, November 22, 1925, at 3:30 o'clock at the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son. Rev. W. E. Hauff will officiate. Interment in Oakland cemetery. The following gentlemen will please act as pallbearers and meet at the chapel at 3:15 o'clock: Mr. Chris Moninger, Mr. Carl G. Koppe, Mr. H. N. Steinicher, Mr. Henry Muench, Mr. A. S. Huth and Mr. William Baker.

CLYBURN—The friends of Mr. and Mrs. William Clyburn, Miss Virginia and Miss Theodosia Clyburn, Mr. James R. Clyburn, Miss Bessie and Miss Mary Clyburn are invited to attend the funeral of Mr. William Clyburn Monday afternoon, November 23, at 3 o'clock from the residence, 67 East Boulevard drive, Kirkwood. Rev. H. T. Brookshire, assisted by Rev. J. L. Jackson and Rev. J. F. Edens, Jr., will officiate. Interment will be in East View cemetery. The following gentlemen will please act as pallbearers and meet at the residence at 2:30 o'clock: Messrs. W. L. Cone, W. A. Winn, H. B. Sims, C. E. Foster, O. C. Trice and R. C. Robbins. Harry G. Poole, funeral director.

WILSON—The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Flippin, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Farris, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Moore, Mr. J. A. Farris, Mrs. W. A. Farris and Mr. and Mrs. Walker are invited to attend the funeral of Mr. Edgar Wilson tomorrow (Monday) afternoon at 2 o'clock from South Pryor Street Church of Christ. Rev. J. H. McBroom and Rev. W. R. Smelser will officiate. Interment Antioch churchyard. The following gentlemen will please act as pallbearers and meet at the chapel at 1:30 p. m.: Mr. W. F. Swinney, Mr. Frank Wilson, Mr. Lee Dodson, Mr. J. C. Boyd, Mr. W. S. Stroud and Mr. J. E. Keckley. J. Austin Dillon Co., funeral director in charge.

VAUGHAN—The friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. James Willis Vaughan, Dr. and Mrs. L. J. Blanton, Dr. Charles J. Vaughan, Miss Annette Blanton and Mr. Vaughan Blanton are invited to attend the funeral of Mr. James Willis Vaughan tomorrow (Monday) afternoon, November 23, 1925, at 2:30 o'clock at the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son. Bishop Warren A. Candler will officiate. Interment in Oakland cemetery. The following gentlemen will please act as pallbearers and meet at the chapel at 2:15 o'clock: Mr. Logan Bleckley, Mr. Samuel G. Walker, Mr. Ed Crusselle, Mr. W. F. Crusselle, Dr. J. W. Hurt and Mr. Guy Crusselle. Judges of supreme court will act as escort and meet at the chapel at 2:15 o'clock.

WALKER—The friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Denton, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Lyle, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morris, of Holly Pond, Ala.; Mrs. Venora Snuggs, of Holly Pond, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. George Adair, of Dadeville, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Dade Griffin, of Bremen, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Walker and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Walker, of Texas, are invited to attend the funeral of Mr. N. J. Walker this (Sunday) afternoon, November 22, 1925, at 2 o'clock at the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son. Rev. Irby Henderson will officiate. Interment in West View cemetery. The following gentlemen will please act as pallbearers and meet at the chapel at 1:45 o'clock: Mr. W. A. Wilder, Mr. J. T. Cary, Mr. C. J. Johnson, Mr. W. H. Johnston, Mr. J. M. Curtis and Mr. B. L. Garvin.

PROFESSIONAL CARD

Albert Howell, Jr. Mark Bolding
Hugh M. Dorsey Hugh Howell
Arthur Heyman W. P. Bloodworth
Herman Heyman

DORSEY, HOWELL & HEYMAN
Lawyers
506 to 520 Connally Bldg. Atlanta, Ga.

DENY THAW MOTION TO DISMISS SUIT OF GRANDMOTHER

New York, November 21.—(AP)—Federal Judge Thacher today denied the motion of Lawrence Copley Thaw to throw out of court the complaint of his grandmother, Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, in her suit to recover $600,000 which she gave him early this year. Mrs. Thaw is the mother of Harry K. Thaw.

Mrs. Thaw, who is 83 years old, charged in her suit that her grandson, by statements that were partly false, led her to believe that he had been unjustly discriminated against in the will of his father, thereby leading her to give him the $600,000.

Judge Thacher held that the facts alleged in Mrs. Thaw's complaint were sufficient "to set a court of equity in motion, in order that all the facts may be adjudicated."

FLORIDA LEGISLATURE ADJOURNS TO MONDAY

Tallahassee, Fla., November 21.—(AP)—The house of representatives of Florida's legislature, in extraordinary session, adjourned at 3:30 p. m. to reconvene Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

All general legislation pending before the house was carried over to Monday.

Four general measures, all recommended by Governor Martin, and which previously went through the house, were passed by the senate today shortly after 12 o'clock. They will go to the executive now for his approval.

The bills are those vesting the title to certain plots of ground in Tallahassee in the board of commissioners of state institutions; repealing the law prohibiting the sales of state seminary or school lands on credit, and authorizing the board of education to sell the lands; appropriating $50,000 to employ assistance for the different departments of state government, and fixing the compensation and provide for the payment of the salary and traveling expenses of state's attorneys in judicial circuits.

The house, passing 83 local bills during the morning session, practically cleared its calendar of local bills originating in that house. With the clearing of the calendar of local house bills, senate messages were taken up and senate bills began passing the house rapidly.

Representative Davis, of Leon, one of the authors of a bill for a new building at state prison farm and for a new public building, stated that the proponents and opponents of the bills had reached an agreement and speedy passage was expected when the house took up their consideration as unfinished business.

19 Foreign Papers Added To North American Alliance

Through the extension of the membership of the North American Newspaper Alliance to include 19 important foreign newspapers, The Constitution is now allied with the largest feature-gathering organization in the world.

Loring Pickering, general manager of the North American Newspaper Alliance, of which The Constitution is the only member in Atlanta, announced Saturday that, in addition to its 66 American and Canadian members, the alliance now has members in Europe, Egypt, Cuba and South America. The total circulation of alliance newspapers is now approximately 22,000,000. Plans are under way to admit more newspapers in Asia, Australia and South America. Thus The Constitution is allied with the most important journals in all parts of the civilized world, and through its membership in the North American Newspaper Alliance is able to share the biggest outstanding news features.

The new members of the alliance are: Neue Freie Presse, Vienna, Austria; L'Etoile Belge, Brussels, Belgium; Diaro de la Marina, Havana, Cuba; Ceske Slovo, Prague, Czechoslovakia; Berlingske Tidende, Copenhagen, Denmark; Uusi Suomi, Helsingfors, Finland; Petit Parisien, Paris, France; Berliner Tageblatt, Berlin, Germany; Az Est Dailies-Pesti Naplo, Magyarorszag, Budapest, Hungary; Corriere della Sera, Milan, Italy; Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Courant, Rotterdam, The Netherlands; Tidens Tegn, Oslo Aftenavis, Oslo Norway; Gazeta Warszawska Poranna, Warsaw, Poland; Diaro de Noticias, Lisbon, Portugal; Prensa Espanol—ABC—Blanco y Negro, Madrid, Spain; Dagens Nyheter, Stockholm, Sweden; Neue Zurcher Zeitung, Zurich, Switzerland; La Prensa, Buenos Aires, Argentina; Egyptian Gazette, Alexandria, Egypt.

It is interesting to note that the Petit Parisien is the wealthiest paper in France and has the largest daily circulation in the world. The Corriere della Sera is the most powerful paper in Italy and is widely read outside of Italy for its political editorials. La Prense, of Buenos Aires, is the largest paper in South America. The Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Courant, The Berliner Tageblatt, and the Neue Freie Presse of Vienna are all important European journals of large influence outside of their own countries. The Berlingske Eidende of Copenhagen is probably the oldest existing paper. It was founded in 1749.

Through its membership in this world-wide alliance, The Constitution is enabled to give its readers all of the outstanding news features, such as the recent Amundsen polar flight, Vincent Sheean's dispatches from behind the Riff lines and the opening of King Tutankhamen's coffin. These features were published exclusively in Atlanta by The Constitution. As a member of the North American Newspaper Alliance, The Constitution has extended its own news and feature-gathering resources to all parts of the civilized world.

INCREASE VOTED FOR MOTORCYCLE OFFICERS VETOED

Mayor Sims Saturday vetoed an ordinance approved by council and the aldermanic board providing salary increases for motorcycle policemen, because it was discovered a "rider" had been attached granting increases to the entire clerical department at police headquarters. Ten dollars a month increase for motorcycle policemen over

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

VOL. LVIII., No. 162. ATLANTA, GA., SUNDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 22, 1925.

Future Belles and Beaux and Their Charming Mothers

Mrs. Carl Vretman and her three adorable children, Emma Kate, Isabel and Carl, Jr., are seen in the upper left, while at the upper right Mrs. Randolph Palmer is shown with her young sons, George and Martin. These two charming matrons are sisters, having been before their marraiges, Misses Emma Kate and Isabel Amorous, popular members of Atlanta society. Mrs. Vretman returned to Atlanta several months ago for residence and with Mr. Vretman has again resumed her place in the city's social life. At the lower left is Mrs. Reginald Pope and her attractive young son, Reginald, Jr. Mrs. Pope was formerly Miss Patty McGehee and is one of Atlanta's most prominent young matrons. Mrs. Houston Crane, of Miami, Fla., and her bright young son, Houston, Jr., is seen at the lower right. Mrs. Crane was before her marriage Miss Helen Dykes, of this city, and with Mr. Crane and their son is now making her home in Miami. The photograph of Mrs. Vretman, Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. Crane were made by Thurston Hatcher and of Mrs. Pope by the Misses Mead.

Thanksgiving Is Keynote Of Week's Events

With the spirit of Thanksgiving enshrined in our hearts since the days of the Pilgrim fathers, we welcome again the happy season and direct our thoughts to its true significance—a day of prayer and praise to the Giver of all things!

The holiday phase of the season will be expressed in a round of gorgeous social affairs, beginning with the brilliant ball to be given by the Nine O'clocks, exclusive dancing club, at the Piedmont Driving club on Thanksgiving eve.

The day itself will be crowded to capacity, with parties, luncheons, teas and dances. Following a number of late informal breakfast parties, Grant field will be the scene of one of the largest crowds assembled in Dixie when the Golden Tornado of Tech will meet the Plainsmen of Auburn in the final gridiron contest of the season.

The game will be followed by numerous tea-dances at the hotels, clubs and fraternity houses, among which will be the special Thanksgiving tea-dance at the Biltmore hotel, the Chi Phi tea-dance given at the fraternity house on North avenue, and many others at which Tech and Emory fraternities will be hosts.

Notable among the events to take place Thanksgiving evening will be the elaborate dinner-dance, announced by the management of the East Lake Country club, which will assemble a large throng of club members and their visitors.

The Biltmore hotel also announces a Thanksgiving dinner-dance to be held at 8:30 o'clock in the handsome Georgian ballroom.

The interest of the college set will be divided on Thursday evening between several lovely dances and most of the crowd will probably flit from one to the other, being unwilling to forego any of them. Mrs. Robert W. Davis and Mrs. Joseph Raine will entertain at a dance in honor of the Bulldog club of Georgia Tech at the S. A. E. fraternity house on West Peachtree street. At the same hour the Merrimakers, under direction of Marthame Sanders and Erroll Eckford, will be hosts at a dance for the school contingent at Garber hall.

On Friday evening the Anak society of Tech will entertain at an elaborate dance at the Druid Hills Golf club, the society being one of the most exclusive and representative honorary societies of Tech.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce has planned a Thanksgiving dance to be given at the Henry Grady hotel on Friday evening from 9 to 1 o'clock.

The first formal dance of the season to be given under the auspices of the Shriners will be held at the Biltmore hotel on Friday evening.

Prominent Visitors.

A number of prominent visitors will add color and interest to the Thanksgiving gaieties, prominent among whom will be Mr. and Mrs. William J. Sturgis, of New York, guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. T. Quinby at their home in Ansley Park. Major and Mrs. John S. Cohen have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Geibriechs, of Paris, France, who are being delightfully entertained. Mrs. Geibriechs will be remembered as the lovely Miss Mabel Drake, of Atlanta.

Mrs. Susan Moore, of New York, arrived Friday to be the guest of her niece, Mrs. James M. Couper, and she is receiving a cordial welcome from many of her friends, having made her home in Atlanta.

A trio of lovely young visitors in the city who are receiving much social attention includes Miss Deneal McKenzie, of Salisbury, N. C., who is the guest of Miss Anne Davidson at the Georgian Terrace; Miss Elizabeth Cawthra, of New York, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Ivie Kenway, at her home on Rivers road; and Miss Frances Harper of Moultrie, the guest of Mrs. Edwin Cooledge, at her home on Peachtree street.

Mrs. Edwin Pate, of Laurel Hill, N. C., is an attractive matron who continues to be feted as the guest of Mrs. Franklin Chalmers.

The second of the series of Symphony Orchestra concerts will form a treat to music lovers and assemble society at the Grand theater this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Prominent Atlantans will be seen in the boxes as well as a number of charming visitors.

Box Parties.

Ex-Governor and Mrs. John M. Slaton will have with them Mr. and Mrs. E. P. McBurney, Mrs. Floyd McRae, Sr., Mrs. Julian Field and Mrs. John W. Grant.

Occupying a box together will be Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer L. Moore, Senator and Mrs. Hoke Smith, Colonel W. L. Peel and W. E. Chapin.

Mr. and Mrs. George Walker will have with them Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Amerine, Miss Zadie Amerine, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hodgson.

Occupying a box together will be Mr. and Mrs. St. Elmo Massengale, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Nevin.

In the box with Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Stone will be Colonel and Mrs. Frederick Paxon, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dunn and Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Rippey, Jr.

Miss Margaret Elder will entertain Miss Rebecca Ashcraft, Miss Harriet Shedden, Miss Louise Nelson, Dan Conklin, Jack Sharpe, John Stewart and George Harrison.

In the woman's division chamber of commerce box will be Mrs. Rae S. Addis, Miss Margaret Waite, Mrs. L. A. Dove, Mrs. Louise Armend, Mrs. Ira Farmer, Mrs. Corinne d'Arnau, Mrs. Morgan-Stephens and Miss Helen Knox Spain.

Mrs. Enrico Leide will entertain Mr. and Mrs. Williard C. Patterson and Rosebud Leide.

Occupying a box together will be

Continued on page 2, column 1.

Miss Harris And Mr. Scruggs Will Wed Dec. 9

Centering the sincere interest of countless friends are the plans for the wedding of Miss Aileen Harris and Edward DeLeon Scruggs, of Brewton, Ala., which are announced today. The wedding will take place on the evening of Wednesday, December 9, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lucian Harris, on Fourteenth street, at 8:30 o'clock.

The Rev. James W. Horton, of the Sacred Heart church, will read the marriage service, and the bride will be given in marriage by her father, Lucian Harris.

Miss Harris will have as her maid-of-honor her sister, Miss Mary Harris, and the bridesmaids will include Miss Margaret Scruggs, Miss Ellen Newell, Miss Catherine Raine and Miss Corday Rice.

Little Wellena Zachry, cousin of the bride-elect, will be flower girl.

Mr. Scruggs will have as his best man his brother, Thomas Richard Scruggs, and the groomsmen will include Stewart Harris, Chandler Harris, Hugh Nunnally, David Miller, of Brewton, Ala.; Edward Mac Lovelace of Brewton, Ala., and Howard Simpson, of New Orleans.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris will entertain at a reception immediately following the ceremony and will be assisted in entertaining by Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gillis parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Evelyn Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Joel Chandler Harris, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Julian Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Camp, Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Wagner and Mr. and Mrs. James L. Zachry.

Misses Will Hawkins and Louise Nelson will keep the bride's book.

Assisting in entertaining will be Miss Catherine Haverty, Miss Bessie White, Miss Ida Sadler, Miss Lucy Elizabeth Harper, Miss Mary Brown Spalding, Miss Callie Orme, Miss Telside Pratt, Miss Margaret Elder, Miss Louise Arnold, Miss Edith Coleman, Miss Elizabeth Whitman, Miss Valeria Manley, Miss Ethel Hunter, Miss Rebecca Ashcraft, Mrs. Tom Rippey, Miss Sara Hurt, Miss La Rose Wagener and Miss Mildred Camp.

Mrs. Trenton Tunnell and Mrs. George Weyman will serve coffee.

Among the out-of-town guests who will be present at the wedding will be Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gillis, of Brewton, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Vredenburgh, of Vredenburg, Ala.; Mrs. E. N. Lovelace, Miss Ann Boyd, Miss Elizabeth Purifoy, Miss Annie Lou Purifoy and Miss Julia Miller, all of Brewton, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Julian Harris, of Columbus, Ga. and Mrs. T. S. F. Frazier.

West End Civic Club Plans Committee Meetings for Week

The executive committee of the Woman's Civic club of West End will assemble at 2 o'clock Wednesday followed by the regular business meeting of the club at 3 o'clock. Mrs. L. A. Hollingsworth, chairman of the program, has secured Mrs. Henry Burpitt to play a piano solo and Mrs. Hazen Harris Eton to sing. Mrs. Burpitt will accompany Mrs. Eton. Mrs. C. C. Shipley, district president of the Needlework guild, is to be present to receive gifts to this worthy organization.

Four meetings will be held Tuesday. The hospital committee will assemble at 9 o'clock and will work until 2 o'clock, the hour when the public speaking class meets. They will serve their own lunch at the club. At 3 o'clock the Bible class is scheduled to assemble and at 8 o'clock in the evening the open house meeting will be held.

Mrs. D. O. Cogbill and the ways and means committee have secured the new store next door to Medlock and McDonald's pharmacy on Gordon street for the bazar which is held annually by the club the first week in December.

A mistake was made last week in regard to the time for the coavening of the class in public speaking but it has been arranged with Miss Ann Bowie to give the lecture at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon from this time on.

Dr. Wright T. Moore presented "John, the Beloved," at the Bible study class last week and in a most interesting manner showed the development of John's character from vivid exposition of the love of Christ, one of serious intolerance to a very

The Bluebirds at a recent meeting elected the following officers: Miss Mary Stewart, president; Miss Lucile Clark, first vice president; Miss Catherine Howard, secretary, and Miss Maybelle Howard, treasurer.

THANKSGIVING IS KEYNOTE OF EVENTS

Continued From First Page.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Phillips and Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Kline, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan McNeil, of Marietta.

Together will be Mr. and Mrs. Lott Warren, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Julian Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Harrington.

In the box with Mr. and Mrs. Clark Howell and family will be Miss Rosalee Howell, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Pegram.

With Mrs. Irving Thomas will be Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Courts and Mrs. McPherson.

In the city federation box will be Mr. and Mrs. John K. Ottley and party and Mrs. Potter-Spiker.

Others occupying boxes will be Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Foote and party, Mrs. Harry Mitchell.

In the Morgan-Stephens conservatory box will be Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Harner, Mrs. R. O. Lawhon, Mrs. M. E. Patterson, Miss Ora Lee, Miss Geraldine Dietz, Miss Mary Leffingwell and Miss Aileen Stephens.

An event of the most cordial social interest taking place during the week will be the elaborate reception at which Mrs. Frederick Grady Hodgson will be hostess Friday at the Piedmont Driving club, the beautiful affair to compliment her lovely young daughter, Miss Jennie Hodgson. Several hundred guests have been invited to meet the charming honor guest.

Dinner-Dance at Driving Club.

The Saturday evening dinner-dance at the Piedmont Driving club, on Saturday evening, was one of the most delightful affairs of the week's social events, and gathered together a congenial group of members and visitors.

The handsome ball room of the club, where the dinner-dance took place, presented a beautiful scene, with its pastel shaded walls, and brilliant chandeliers. The tables were placed around the dancing floor, and held as central decorations, baskets of lovely chrysanthemums.

Attractive dance music was played throughout the evening.

Among those entertaining were Mrs. Charles G. Adsit, who was hostess to a few friends, in honor of Allison Stout, of Chicago, the guest of his sister and brother Dr. and Mrs. Floyd McRae, Jr. In her party covers were placed for Dr. and Mrs. McRae, Mr. and Mrs. Westerfelt Terhune, Mr. and Mrs. Winship Nunnally, Allison Thornwell, Richard Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Dick, Mr. Stout and Mrs. Adsit.

A congenial party dining together included Mr. and Mrs. William Spalding, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Daniel, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nunnally, Mr. and Mrs. Charles King, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. John Hill, Mr. and Mrs. James T. Williams and Tom Lyons.

Mr. and Mrs. Guss T. Dodd entertained a party of friends. Covers were placed for eight friends.

Dr. J. G. Williams was host to a party of friends.

Miss Spalding Honors Visitors.

Miss Mary Brown Spalding was hostess on Saturday afternoon at her home, "The Homestead," at a bridge party in honor of Miss Jennie Hodgson and Miss Margaret Mackall, of Washington, D. C., and Miss Elizabeth Fell, of Scranton, Pa., the guest of Miss Will Hawkins.

The home was artistically decorated with lovely chrysanthemums and roses, in beautiful display.

Miss Spalding's grandmother, Mrs. E. L. Connally, and her mother, Mrs. John Spalding, and Mrs. Hal Hentz, assisted in entertaining.

The guests included 12 close friends of the hostess.

Miss Kendrick Given Party.

Miss Edith Kendrick was given a party on Saturday afternoon by her parents, Colonel and Mrs. William J. Kendrick, at their quarters in Fort McPherson. This party was in celebration of her 12th birthday and gathered a number of the little friends of the honor guest.

The Kendrick home was beautifully decorated with lovely flowers, a color scheme of pink and white being carried out.

It was a salmagundi party and proved a delightful occasion.

Among those present were Nancy Weber, Frenchy Hagood, Rosa Niller, Penelope Brown, Elizabeth Spalding, Sonny Spalding, Mary Neal, Elizabeth Neal, Elizabeth Cunningham, Cornelia Clay, Jane Cassidy, Dorris Johnson, Helen Johnson, Virginia Rowell and Anne Scott Harman.

O. B. X. Sorority To Give Formal Dance.

Invitations will be issued next week by the O. B. X. sorority to a formal dance for December 4 at the Druid Hills Golf club.

The occasion will assemble several hundred members of the college set and the following will act as chaperones: Mrs. T. B. Eckford, Mr. and Mrs. Turman, Mr. and Mrs. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Noel Park, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Howell, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Dallis and Mrs. Juliette Moseley.

Mrs. Edwin Pate Is Feted Guest.

Mrs. Edwin Pate, of Laurel Hill, N. C., the attractive guest of Mrs. Franklin Chalmers, continues to be honored at a series of delightful social affairs.

Mrs. Enrico Leide will be host at tea this afternoon at her home in Ansley Park in compliment to Mrs. Pate and her hostess.

Mrs. E. M. King will entertain at luncheon Monday at the Henry Grady hotel followed by a bridge tea at which Miss Julia McCullough will entertain at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue. Frank Troutman will be host at a theater party at the Forsyth Monday evening.

On Tuesday Miss Delphine Popham will be hostess at a bridge-luncheon at her home on Peachtree road. Aubrey Alexander will be host at a theater party Tuesday evening at the Atlanta.

Mrs. John Bratton will entertain at an informal bridge-luncheon Wednesday at her home on Lakeview drive. Miss Dorothy Moncrief will entertain at a tea at her home on Lullwater road on Wednesday in honor of Mrs. Pate and Mrs. Maxwell, the guest of Mrs. Clifford Ragsdale.

Wednesday evening Mrs. Pate will be honor guest at the dinner at which Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Chalmers will entertain at their home in Peachtree Heights, covers to be placed for twelve.

Mrs. Pate will be central figure at a party at the Thanksgiving dinner-dance at the East Lake Country club on Thursday evening.

Mrs. James E. Odum will give a bridge-tea Friday at her home on Piedmont avenue.

Mrs. Pate will return to her home in Laurel Hill, N. C., on Friday evening.

Junior Chamber Commerce Dance.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce will give their Thanksgiving dance at the Henry Grady hotel Friday evening, November 27, from 9 until 1 o'clock. This affair will be informal.

Mrs. Orme Honors Priestly Orme.

One of the loveliest affairs of Saturday afternoon and evening was when Mrs. Priestly Orme was hostess at her home "Mont Rest," at Stone Mountain, to a number of friends in celebration of Mr. Orme's birthday.

The artistic home was beautifully decorated with autumn leaves gathered from the grounds of this lovely estate and brilliant chrysanthemums grown in the gardens of the hostess.

About 75 guests motored out during the late afternoon to enjoy a social and informal hour before the buffet-supper, which was served at 7 o'clock.

This was one of the most delightful social affairs of the week and assembled a number of the friends of the host and hostess.

Week-End Tea-Dance At Biltmore Hotel.

Many interesting groups attended the regular tea-dance Saturday afternoon at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel.

Miss Deneal McKenzie, of Salisbury, N. C., the guest of Miss Anne Davison, was the honor guest in a party given by Miss Isobel Hunter. Completing the party were Cliff Smith, Charles Hekinson, William Gordy and William Turner.

Miss Helen Barbee and her guest, Miss Mildred Morrison, of Greensboro, N. C., were the guests of Asby Taylor and Ben Parker.

Mrs. Arthur Gresham was hostess in compliment to Mrs. Clifford Alden, of California, the guest of Mrs. William Alden. Covers were placed for Mrs. Clifford Alden, Mrs. William Alden, Mrs. D. H. Jeter, Mrs. Richard Walker, Mrs. Arthur Burke, Miss Ida Story, Miss Kate Milledge and Mrs. Gresham.

Mrs. William Marshall, of Washington, D. C., was honor guest at a party given by Mrs. Cooper Pope. A group of close friends were invited.

Among others entertaining were Allan Sommerfield, L. W. Seymour, Caldwell Holiday, V. D. Tuller and others.

Mr. and Mrs. Kline Will Be Hosts.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Kline will entertain at the concert-dinner at the Atlanta Biltmore Sunday evening. Covers will be placed for Mr. and Mrs. William Candler, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Paxon, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Seep and Mr. and Mrs. Kline.

Georgian Terrace Grill Opening.

The Georgian Terrace hotel management announces the opening of the grill Wednesday evening, at which time dinner will be served. Dancing will be a delightful feature of the occasion, the music to be furnished by the famous Louisiana Troubadours of New Orleans.

On Thanksgiving evening this well-known group of musicians will again play in the grill room, where dinner and dancing will be enjoyed by many society people.

Bessie Tift College News.

Forsyth, Ga., November 21.—The freshman class of Bessie Tift college will give the annual freshman-sophomore reception Wednesday evening.

The spohomers, under the leadership of their class president Eleanor Upchurch, of Bradenton, Fla., will give a Thanksgiving dinner.

Besides the program at the dinner hour two programs will be given in the auditorium Thursday. A testimonial service before breakfast and in the evening a pantomime will be presented.

The Guy Maier and Lee Pattison concert was given in the auditorium.

Albert Edward Wiggam, member of the staff of the American Magazine and distinguished lecturer, gave his lecture, "What Civilization Has Done for Mankind," in the Bessie Tift auditorium Friday evening.

The Atlanta club was entertained Thursday afternoon by Bettie Guthrie and Marilee Bennett.

The Kappa Delta society presented an attractive patriotic program in the chapel auditorium Saturday evening.

Ossie Price and Inez Shaw gave talks on Woodrow Wilson and Jewel Mercer read two pieces.

Miss Julia Allen, state leader of the Baptist young people's work, and Miss Juliette Mather, young people's leader of the Southern Baptist convention, were guests of the college Friday.

The Beta Phi Gamma club was entertained Saturday evening by Chamlee Carter of Moultrie and Dorothy Alexander of Forsyth.

Misses Caroline Hutt and Grace Hudson were joint hostesses Saturday evening when they entertained the Phi club in their suite.

Fort Valley Club Features Mrs. Warner.

The regular meeting of the Fort Valley Woman's club of Fort Valley, held Tuesday afternoon was featured by a splendid address by Mrs. Edward Grieg Warner, of Atlanta.

The opening session was presided over by the president, Mrs. E. L. Duke, who dispatched the business and turned the meeting over to Mrs. Charles N. Rountree, program chairman for the day, who presided over a brief civic program, when Mrs. R. D. Hale talked interestingly of "What Our Town Stands For," Mrs. A. M. Soloman, civic chairman of the club had for her subject, "Clean Up," and Mrs. H. P. Sanchez told "What Constitutes a Beautiful Town.

Mrs. C. N. Rountree then introduced Mrs. Warner, who has only recently returned from a two years tour around the world who spoke interestingly of many beautiful and historic places in many lands.

Mrs. Warner is a woman of rare culture and completely captivated her audience as she carried them with her around the world in 45 minutes and held their intense interest as she reviewed her wonderful experiences. The club members counted it a privilege to have Mrs. Warner speak to them. She is the guest of her sister, Mrs. E. J. Saywell and will be in Fort Valley until December. On Sunday morning she will speak at the Methodist Sunday school on the "Holy Land."

Georgia State Woman's College.

Valdosta, Ga., November 21.—"Stunt night," will be given by the departmental clubs on Wednesday evening preceding Thanksgiving day. A prize will be awarded the club giving the best stunt.

The first basketball game of the season will be played Thanksgiving morning between the Phi Lambda and Phi Kappa athletic associations.

On Wednesday evening J. W. Patton, head of the history department, will give a talk on world court with special emphasis of the part the United States can play in international affairs.

Mrs. A. E. Stokes and J. R. Stokes entertained the Faculty Poetry Study club at their home on Wednesday evening.

Under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A., Dr. Lawrence Southwick, president of the Emerson School of Oratory, gave Sheridan's "The Rivals" at the college on Wednesday night, November 19.

The Congress of Mothers and Teachers met in the rotunda of the college on Saturday, November 14.

Misses Florence Breen, Verna Scarboro and Elsie Gunn, members of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet, were hostesses at a delightful "oyster stew" given Saturday evening at "The House in the Woods," in honor of Dr. W. A. Smart, of Emory university, who has been speaking for the past week on topics of religious interests to the students of G. S. W. C.

Pure Food Show Dec. 4-5 At West End Woman's Club

The principal activity engaging the attention and interest of the West End Woman's club at present is the pure food show and bazar which will be held at the clubhouse, 218½ Lee street, December 4 and 5, opening at 1 o'clock Friday and running Friday and Saturday afternoon and evenings until 10 o'clock each night.

All the leading merchants of West End are cooperating in the affair and will have booths and demonstrations. Only articles sold in West End will be exhibited. The following firms will have booths: The American Bakeries company, Nifty-Jiffy company, Atwood grocery, Green and White bakery, Provano Drug company, Pillsbury flour, snowdrift and wesson oil, Nu-Grape, Liggett's pharmacy, R. A. Broyles, National Biscuit, R. I. Barge grocery, Duke's home products, Henard mayonnaise, Ballard & Ballard, Piggly-Wiggly, Atlantic & Pacific Tea company, Herren candy store, Burtchaels Electric company, Azile Flour company, Hollywood market, Merritt Grocery company, Cascade pharmacy, West View pharmacy, and the Maytag company.

Beautiful hand-made articles, home-baked cakes, Christmas wreaths and decorations, aprons, kitchen utensils, dressed dolls, candies and other articles suitable for Christmas gifts will be for sale.

The following women will have charge of booths: Mrs. Julius Spier, Mrs. Fred E. Johnson, Mrs. Alice Means, Mrs. E. L. Helvin, Mrs. Clyde Park, Mrs. M. P. Jones, Mrs. J. W. Young, Mrs. H. W. Wilder, Mrs. J. B. Withers and Mrs. Branyon. The public is cordially invited to attend this demonstration.

The program given by the literature department of the club the past week was one of the high lights of the club year.

Rev. Harold Shields, of Gordon Street Presbyterian church, delivered the invocation.

The program featured the American Indian, and the leading club paper was given by Mrs. Jere Wells, who was especially interesting in its rendition and showed much research. She was followed by a council meet of the Camp Fire Girls of Camp Totopochon. Miss Osteen is guardian. This ceremony was very colorful with lighted candles and girls in costume.

The climax was an address by John W. Good, Ph. D., dean of the history department of Agnes Scott college; the subject, "Religion and Legends of the Indians."

The club is to be congratulated upon the great privilege of hearing such a scholarly address. Hearty applause and a rising vote of thanks was given the speaker at the close of the address.

A poem, "As Long As His Rivers Flow Into the Sea," sent especially by Professor Neal, of Calhoun, its author, was next on the program, given to the accompaniment of "By the Water of the Minnetonka," by Mrs. Wilson Chambers.

The regular Thursday evening dance will be postponed for Thanksgiving, the next one to be held on the evening of Thursday, December 3. The club tea room will also be closed for Thanksgiving day. Mrs. C. D. Layton will be chairman of the tea room the week of November 22.

A business meeting of the club will be held Wednesday, November 25. Mrs. Chester Johnson will preside.

"Regenstein's Smart Styles"

REGENSTEIN'S

EARLY REDUCTIONS

ON

COATS AND DRESSES

A marked difference between this reduction sale and others. You will recognize that fact immediately you see these wonderful Winter Coats. They are sumptuously fur collared and cuffed with front fur effects running full length down on some of these coats. The very latest fashions in Flares, Straight lines and Wrappy Coats.

The FAVORED COATS for WINTER

Handsome Fur Trimmed Coats

$69.50

Equal To $89.50 Coats

ALL WINTER ENSEMBLE SUITS AT 25% Reduction

Handsome Fur Trimmed Coats

$89.50

Equal To $125.00 Coats

ALL WINTER ENSEMBLE SUITS AT 25% Reduction

Street Dresses—

One Group at

25% Reduction

This is a very unusual group of Dresses at this large reduction—early in the season. Smart styles in Woolens and Crepe Satins; navy, black and colors. Misses' and women's sizes.

Evening Dresses

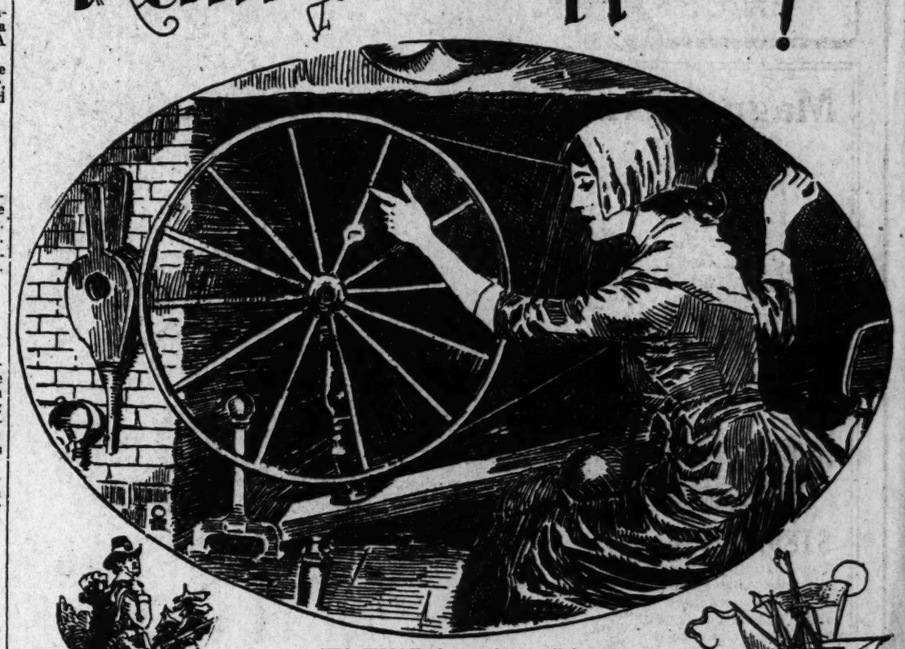
One Group at

33⅓% Reduction

A large group of fine Dresses—evening, party and dance styles in light shades and a few black. Georgettes, Satins and Chiffons. Several handsome beaded gowns in the lot.

REGENSTEIN'S

Ruth goes Shopping!



Crichton's Shorthand.

SO MANY people have spoken to me about Crichton Shorthand since my article last Sunday, and I am quite pleased, for having been a pupil of this excellent school I know there is none better or easier to learn and am therefore a Crichton Shorthand enthusiast.

In speaking of the Crichton Shorthand, Mr. H. M. Nicholes, Official Court Reporter, and Charter Member of the National Court Reporters' Association of America, says: "It is the most wonderful evolution in the teaching of the fundamental principles of modern shorthand that has been published since 1858."

Also, Mrs. Hamilton Douglas, Founder of the Commercial High School of Atlanta, says: "It is in a class by itself, without even a second to it."

No persons are better qualified to judge a system of shorthand than those who are in a position to know by experience and therefore their opinion is of the highest importance, and, as a matter of fact, this wonderful shorthand has been unqualifiedly endorsed by leading shorthand authorities.

"It is not what we say ourselves, but what others say that carries conviction."

Go and see Mr. Crichton; he will tell you all about this marvelous system of shorthand, and will be glad to give you a lesson demonstrating to you how easy it is to learn, how amazingly simple. You will be delighted.

A World of Charming Gifts.

AT THE Cole Book Company at 123 Whitehall Street is an unsurpassed assemblage of beautiful gifts for your selection, a store literally laden with fine and unusual merchandise.

There are books, a multitude of them; those of the latest fiction, volumes de luxe of standard editions, books of travel, books that the children will delight in owning; in fact, books for everybody of every taste in literature.

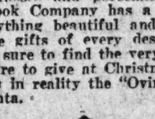
The Christmas cards are most attractive. You are sure to find those that express every degree of Yuletide sentiment. The stationery is unusually pretty and artistically boxed, and also the loveliest Florentine-tooled leather goods you can imagine, in desk sets, picture frames, cigarette cases, boxes, etc.

There are lamps of great beauty at Cole's; so colorful, adding an artistic touch to any room where they are placed.

Beautiful pictures are everywhere. Copies of the great masters and modern pictures, too.

Mirrors that are positively enchanting are scattered here and there in this "Shop of Gifts."

The arts of the ages have contributed their share to the Italian, French, English and India bric-a-brac, brasses and porcelains. The Cole Book Company has a variety of everything beautiful and among all these gifts of every description you are sure to find the very things you desire to give at Christmas, for Cole's is in reality the "Ovington's" of Atlanta.



The Small Hat Again Favored.

HATS that compliment the face so prettily—those are the hats that will be worn this winter, and are offered largely in small shapes in felts and satins. Some are flower and ribbon-trimmed, while many are offered with rhinestone pins.

TO THOSE of you who are dining out on Thanksgiving Day and are wondering where to dine after the football game, go out to the Peachtree Terrace Dining Room at 1119 Peachtree Street and have dinner; you will enjoy it.

The menus are well planned and the food is deliciously prepared and served in very attractive surroundings in a home-like atmosphere; try it, you will go there again.

For Joyous Surprises Give Something Electrical.

NOW is the time to make out your shopping list. If you do, your Christmas giving will be a joy to you instead of a worry. Even more of a joy will it be if you go to the Georgia Railway & Power Company's salesroom on Marietta Street and see the wonderful assortment of "things electrical" they have for your selection as gifts.

There are coffee services in either copper or nickle plate, consisting of urn, tray, sugar and cream—so good-looking you are sure to want one; percolators, toasters, grills, waffle irons, heating pads, curling irons, irons, vacuum cleaners, and heaters for the bath, nursery or the out-of-the-way room that is difficult to heat, and numerous other things.

Lamps are everywhere, both for the table or standing lamps for reading or bridge, with lovely stands and bases that are adorned with shades beautiful in shape and color, any one of which would make an ideal gift and add to the attractiveness of the home.

No matter what articles you desire in electrical gifts, the Georgia Railway & Power Company has them and will charge them to you, payable with your monthly electric service bills. NOW is the time to make your selections.

Good Things For Thanksgiving At Rogers.

ALMOST everybody is thinking of the Tech-Auburn football game that will be played on Thanksgiving Day, and are looking forward to it with pleasure, as it is always "a day of days" in Atlanta and quite a social event, too, for are not we all going to celebrate the holiday festivities by entertaining or being entertained at a delicious Thanksgiving dinner with a feast of good things after the game?

Every housewife will be engrossed the next few days with the planning of a menu that she thinks will be just what her family and friends will like and enjoy. She probably will wonder where to purchase this or that particular product of food with which to carry out her plans for a Thanksgiving dinner never to be forgotten for goodness.

The Rogers Stores are filled with an abundance of every edible that is good, and of the highest quality that would please the most epicurean taste. Why worry looking around at first one store or another for what you want, when you can find everything you desire right at Rogers', from the first course of your dinner straight through the menu to the after-dinner coffee?

Here is a Thanksgiving menu as a suggestion:

Fish—Pearl oyster cocktail.

Relishes—Libby's olives, hearts of celery, Funsten's pecans, salted; Ocean Spray cranberry sauce.

Soup—Campbell's cream of tomato with croutons.

Entree—Timbales of chicken and Broadcast cooked brains, chopped hard-boiled eggs in cream sauce.

Meat—Roast turkey stuffed with chestnuts or Pearl oysters, and giblet gravy.

Vegetables—Paris peas, corn pudding made from Rogers' sugar corn, Libby's or Del Monte asparagus tips au gratin on toast, using Kraft's American cheese; sweet potatoes candied with Sun-Maid puffed raisins and boiled rice.

Salad—Libby's or Del Monte fruit salad frozen, served on crisp lettuce with Rogers' Mayonnaise.

Dessert—Pie made from Mrs. Watson's pie crust and Rogers' or Stokley's pumpkin or Atmore's mince meat.

Cheese and Crackers—Philadelphia cream or Kraft's pimiento cheese, served with Block's or National Biscuit Company crackers.

Coffee—Demi-tasse or Rogers' Blue Label or Three-Mountain coffee.

Nuts, raisins and fruits are just as necessary to complete a Thanksgiving dinner as the turkey itself and at Rogers' there are for your selection fruits of all kinds, also Adriatic figs, Dromedary dates, Sun-Maid raisins, either seeded or puffed, Diamond Brand walnuts and Funsten's shelled pecans, etc.

The choosing of all these good things will be tres facile at Rogers', where you will receive splendid service and attention from their courteous salesmen and with their cooperation you will be enabled to purchase very quickly everything for the Thanksgiving dinner.

At the Mirror, Toyland Awaits You.

"SUCH a wonderful collection of toys," you will be sure to exclaim when you visit the toy department of The Mirror at 46 Whitehall Street.

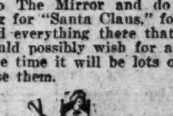
You will enjoy your shopping at The Mirror, even if you are a grown-up, for there are such a multitude of toys of every description, including the mechanical and electrical toys as well, that it will be a real pleasure to select what you want for the kiddies.

Every little girl wants a doll for Christmas. She can play with them like a sure-enough baby, dress and undress them, take them with her for a walk and when she dozes off into the Land of Nod her dollie is beside her asleep, too.

There are, besides beautiful dolls, pianos, perambulators, furniture both for the dolls and the little lady herself, laundry sets, doll houses completely furnished, miniature sewing machines, kiddie cars, teddy bears and other animals of all kinds, together with a world of things too numerous to mention that would delight her.

There are toys that all boys like—electric trains, automobiles, picture machines, velocipedes, sleds, sail boats, drums, bugles, baseballs and bats, boxing gloves, magic lanterns, and games of every kind you can think of.

Go to The Mirror and do your shopping for "Santa Claus," for you will find everything there that children could possibly wish for and at the same time it will be lots of fun to choose them.



Fashions in Fine Fabrics.

PLENTY of color will be the dominant note in fabric ideas for the coming season. The silks especially are decidedly exquisite, with designs in checks, plaids, geometric figures as well as stripes. Sombre colors, too, are in abundance.

Ruth (adv.)

MASON'S No Money Down Sale MASON'S

Startling Price Reductions Throughout the Store on Every Piece of Furniture for Our "No-Money-Down" Sale

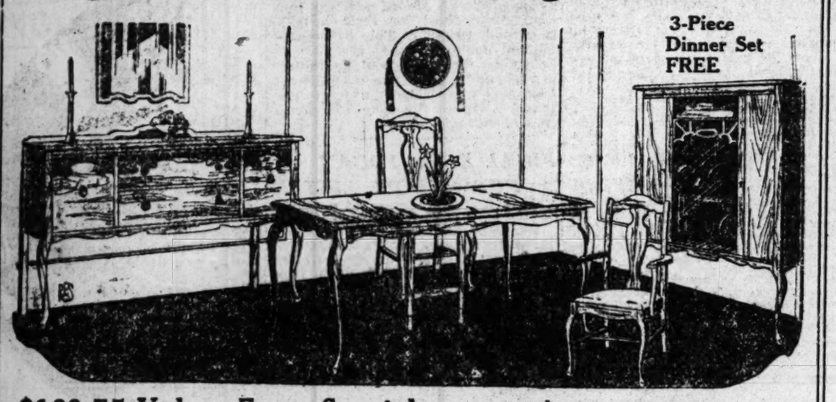
MONEY-SAVING PRICES!

Tomorrow begins the second week of Mason's Great "No-Money-Down" Sale. Think of it! Right now when folks are selecting the things they'll give their family, friends and sweethearts for Christmas presents—and, too, many families have wanted to refurnish a room, or just to fill in on a few odd pieces, or maybe an extra rug. Well, now is the time to get these things at Mason's low cut prices —and "No Money Down." Come in Monday!

VERY EASY TERMS!

COME TAKE YOUR CHOICE OF ANY ARTICLE IN OUR STORE FOR "NO MONEY DOWN"

Magnificent 9-Piece Dining Room Suite



$189.75 Value, Extra Special at . . . $139.50

This charming Queen Anne design suite is one of the outstanding suite values of the sale. Suite consists of large buffet, semi-closed china cabinet, oblong extension table, five side chairs and one host chair, upholstered in blue imitation leather seats. In a rich walnut finish. A limited number of these suites to sell at the low price of $139.50.

Pay No Money Down—$2.50 Per Week

FREE! 31-Piece Dinner Set Absolutely Free With Each One of These Suites Sold Monday.

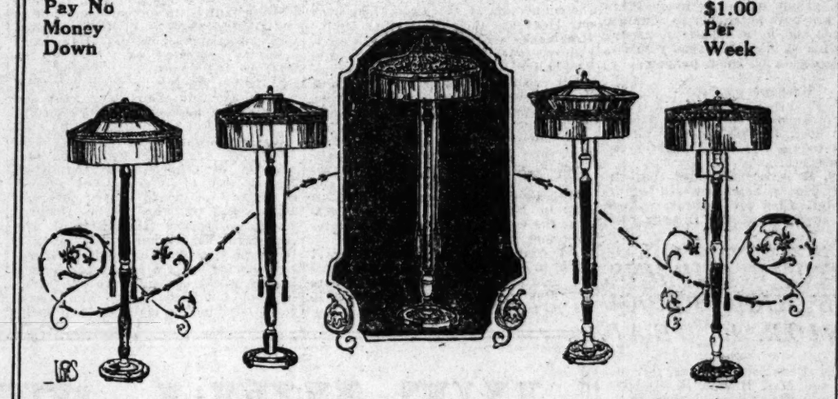
Remarkable Sale of New Floor Lamps

Pay No Money Down

$1.00 Per Week



$25 Value---Sale Price $16.95

Just arrived in time for this notable money-saving sale, these beautiful Floor Lamps come in many designs and color combinations in lovely silk shades, with the popular new polychrome stands and double pull chain sockets. This high-grade Lamp, made to sell at $25.00, goes in this sale tomorrow and while they last at, choice, $16.95.

Another lot of handsome Floor Lamps, beautiful pastel shades, hand-decorated, attractive base, regular $40.00 values; sale price $29.75

PROGRESS HOT BLAST Heaters

Buy your heater now before the rush starts. In the interest of good, prompt service, let us install your heater NOW before the rush! With our 19 years as exclusive dealers for the famous Progress Hot Blast Heaters, we can assure you that it has no peer as a heater and fuel saver. Sale prices start at

$19.75

Installed Free

Price includes FREE installation in your home. No "extras."

$1.00 Per Week

Complete Bed Outfit

Specially Priced for Monday

Not just an ordinary white bed outfit, but a distinctly superior metal bed, in your choice of rich walnut, oak or mahogany finishes; a National spring and a 45-pound rolled-edge cotton mattress. This splendid outfit complete goes in this sale for—

Pay No Money Down $21.75 Pay $1 Per Week

Massive 3-Piece Overstuffed Suite Now Reduced

Pay No Money Down — $2.50 Per Week

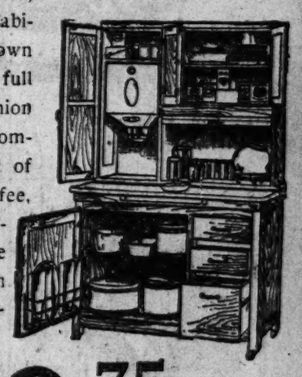
$200.00 Velour Suite, Sale Price $149

Here is the suite that you have long been looking for. These pieces, upholstered in velour. The frame finished in dull Mahogany of the Queen Anne influence. A beautiful overstuffed davenport with rolled arms, and is of a massive type. The club chair and wing chairs will add a tone of distinction to the suite and give your living room a delightful, inviting appearance. Full Nachmann spring construction, with loose cushions. See this suite Monday. Pay No Money Down—$2.50 Per Week.

FREE! BEAUTIFUL 31-PIECE DINNER SET FREE!

With These Big, Fine Kitchen Cabinets

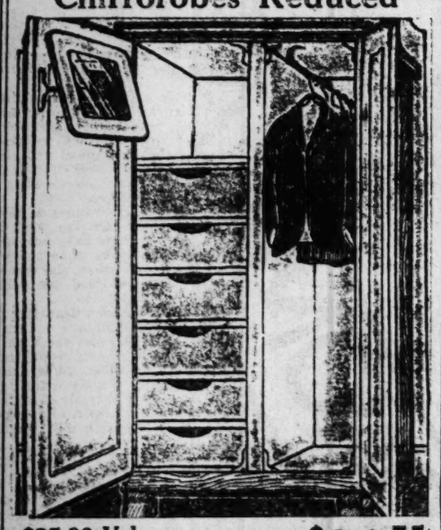
High-grade, well-constructed, large, roomy, solid oak Cabinet, made by well-known manufacturer. It has full tilting flour bin, crop-cushion door, 2 drawers, large compartment at bottom, set of glass canisters for coffee, sugar, spices, etc. A wonderful value without the 31-piece Dinner Set which you get free. Sale price—



$49.75

No Money Down—$1.25 Per Week

Chifforobes Reduced



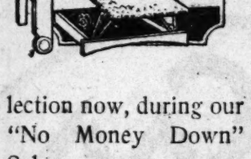
$35.00 Value $26.75

As pictured — with generous clothes-hanging compartment and dresser space. Choice of walnut, oak or mahogany finishes.

Pay No Money Down—$1.00 Week

EASY TERMS

Royal Easy Chairs



Royal Easy Chairs make fine Christmas Gifts for almost any adult member of the family, and especially for Mother or Dad. We are showing a fine assortment of styles, in a wide range of prices that are most reasonable. Make your selection now, during our "No Money Down" Sale.

$24.75

No Money Down—$1.00 Weekly

Polychrome Mitered MIRRORS

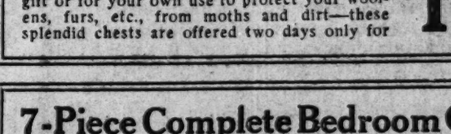
EXTRA SPECIAL TWO DAYS ONLY

As pictured, these beautiful mitered Mirrors with your choice of gold or silver polychrome frames, a regular $3.50 value, 2-day special at—

$1.49

No C. O. D., Phone or Mail Orders. "CASH AND CARRY"

Beautiful Tennessee Red Cedar Chests



Extra Special Two Days Only

Richly-finished, copper-trimmed genuine Tennessee Aromatic Red Cedar Chests. An ideal gift or for your own use to protect your woolens, furs, etc., from moths and dirt—these splendid chests are offered two days only for $16.95

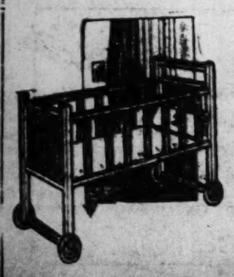
7-Piece Complete Bedroom Outfit

We advise you to hurry before these are all snapped up. Outfit consists of Dresser, Chest of Drawers, and your choice of walnut or mahogany finishes; wood-finished Steel Bed, 45-lb. Cotton Mattress, National Spring and two Pillows; 7-piece outfit complete for

SPECIAL! $69.75

No Money Down—$1.50 Per Week

Bassinet Special



Beautiful large, white enamel Bassinet, slat bottom, with rubber-tired wheels, easy to roll. It has deep sides and comfortable. Only 12 of these to sell Monday. A sensational special while they last. $3.98

Pay No Money Down

MASON BROS.

ATLANTA'S GREATEST FURNITURE HOUSE

6 and 8 West Mitchell Street

GEORGIA DIVISION

Daughters of the Confederacy

Mrs. Oscar McKenzie, Montezuma, president; Mrs. S. G. Lang, Sandersville, first vice president; Mrs. Frank Exley, Savannah, second vice president; Mrs. W. T. Bankston, Roberta, third vice president; Miss Laura Fraser, Flemington, recording secretary; Mrs. F. M. Mullino, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Charles Hillman, Quitman, treasurer; Mrs. Kirby Smith Anderson, Madison, registrar; Miss Mildred Rutherford, Athens, historian; Miss Rebecca Black DuPont, Savannah, recorder of crosses; Mrs. I. Bachinsky, Dublin, auditor; Mrs. Lee Trammell, Madison, recorder of crosses of service.

Honorary Presidents—Mrs. C. Helen Plane, Decatur; Mrs. W. S. Coleman, Atlanta; Miss Anna Carolina Benning, Columbus; Mrs. Ida Evans Eve, Augusta; Mrs. McCord Roberts, Atlanta, state editor.

Addres by Mrs. Harrold

Following are some of the outstanding points made by Mrs. Frank Harrold, retiring president general, at the recent convention:

During 1925, a total of 8,000 members were registered. Mrs. Woodliff will tell in her report of changes made in the membership application blanks, all of which have the approval of the president general.

In the two years of this administration, your president general's name has been signed to 27,000 certificates of membership in the United Daughters of the Confederacy, the Children of the Confederacy and to cross of service certificates.

Under further instructions from the Savannah convention there was established at Randolph-Macon Woman's college a fellowship of $5,000 in honor of the late Mrs. Cornelia Branch Stone, of Texas, honorary president and former president general.

The president general is happy to report a great and growing interest in these scholarships, and is especially proud to announce that the Woodrow Wilson scholarship for 1925 has been awarded to J. Summerfield Andrews, Roanoke, Va., and the Lee memorial scholarship at Washington and Lee university to Robert Bryarly Lee, Bel Air, Md.

The Legion History of the United States.

Your committee reports through Dr. Matthew Page Andrews, that these two volumes are practically ready for publication. Tentatively the volumes have already been issued. They are going through a final revision. Dr. Andrews reports that these volumes are as nonsectional as textbooks can be in this country, and that the suggestions of your committee and other representatives of other southern organizations were not only respectfully considered but heeded. For example, the origin of our political institutions and the founding of the first free assembly is made clear as in no history that has been offered even by southern authors now used in southern schools. It is, of course, the truth. Otherwise it would have met with the overwhelming objections of those who have predilections in favor of the former erroneous versions. This is one of the examples of the tremendous improvement made over the textbooks we now have. It is believed that if this book is generally used throughout the union the ideas of the children of the country will be liberalized from Maine to California. The presentation of these books has shown that men and women who interpret their communities and sections in terms of the whole can get together on a reasonable basis and these volumes should do much to teach the truth and promote the objects for which we are contending.

"Arlington," the Lee mansion in the national cemetery, is to be restored to its original splendor. This is in line with America's awakened interest in the preservation of historic spots. The spirit of the day demands a rejuvenating of the glories of our past.

A bill passed by congress last March authorized and directed the secretary of war to carry out this project. As nearly as is practicable the mansion will be restored to its condition preceding the war between the states. At that time it was the home of Robert E. Lee, then colonel, U. S. A., and destined to become a world hero forever.

The bill was introduced in the house of representatives by Mr. Cranton, of Michigan, and in the senate, without amendment, by Mr. Pepper, of Pennsylvania—both northerners.

While no appropriation was made, the estimates for the project have been submitted to the bureau of budgets by the quartermaster general of the army, General William H. Hart. Undoubtedly congress will authorize an appropriation for the necessary $225,000 at its coming session.

When properly renovated Arlington will join the stately pageant of historic scenes and will take its place with the other fine old landmarks in and near the national capital that have become shrines of the nation.

"It's a happy sign to a busy world that no matter whither paths lead, the spell of the old south ever calls, its glories never die nor romance fade. Like an old song its mellow charm rings through time's dim hall."

Plans are being perfected by the Thomas Jefferson Memorial association for the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the signing of the declaration of independence. Mrs. Livingston Rowe Schuyler heads a special committee which was authorized to cooperate with the association in this project. The committee was also authorized to contribute for our organization $1,000 toward the purchase of Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson.

The report of your recording secretary general shows that 33 new chapters have been organized and chartered during 1925, two of which are to the credit of Alabama, one to Mississippi, one to Colorado, one to Oregon, one to Arkansas, two to West Virginia, three to Florida, three to Tennesse, three to Florida, three to Tennessee, four to Virginia, nine to South Carolina.

Connecticut will shortly become the 39th state to boast one or more chapters of our organization within its bounds. An earnest group of women there have completed plans for securing a charter.

In our island possession of Porto Rico, a group of patriotic southern women are now preparing to organize a chapter and have already requested the sending of blanks necessary to formal completion of their purpose.

Recommendations.

No. 1. It is recommended that a vote of thanks be sent to Barnard Baruch, of New York, for his generous gift of $10,000 to the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

No. 2. It is recommended that the registrar general be empowered to purchase steel files for records, subject to the approval of the finance committee.

BURTON F. HUDGINS, BOYS' HIGH SCHOOL SENIOR, IS DEAD

Burton Franklin Hudgins, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burton B. Hudgins, of 15 North Decatur road, died at the home Saturday morning after a short illness. He was a popular student of Boys' High school, a member of the senior class.

He was a member of the Zodiac honorary fraternity of Boys' High and of the Hi-Y club. He also was advertising manager for the Boys' High annual and was considered one of the best debaters in school. He was head reporter of the Tatler, the school paper.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon from the home. W. H. Bedard, first reader of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, will officiate and interment will be in West View cemetery.

Members of the senior class will attend the funeral in a body. A special memorial meeting of the class will be held Monday morning. In addition to his parents he is survived by a brother, Thomas Hudgins.

STEWART AVENUE SCHOOL CAPTURES ATTENDANCE LEAD

Stewart Avenue school led all Atlanta public schools for attendance during the week ending Friday, wresting the honor from State Street school, which has led for many consecutive weeks.

Stewart Avenue reported a daily average attendance for the week of 98.4 per cent; Peeples Street school was next with 98; Pryor Street, 97.6; Boys' High, 97, and Joe Brown Junior High, 96.9.

PLANNING BOARD STUDIES BUSINESS ZONE EXTENSIONS

The city planning commission will act Monday on a petition seeking to extend the business zone to include more of the block at the intersection of Dill avenue and Allene street.

Since filing of the paper a petition bearing signatures of 25 property owners in Capitol View community protesting the change, also has been filed and will be considered at the same meeting.

"TECH NITE" FEATURE MONDAY AT WGST

The "Tech nite" program to be broadcast Monday night, November 23, from 9 to 10 o'clock, at station WGST at Georgia Tech, will consist of a band concert played by the Tech band, under the direction of Frank Roman, it was announced Saturday by Charles C. Shumard, chairman of the radio committee.

Six musicians and singers will appear on the program on artists' night, November 28, from 7 to 8 o'clock, it was announced. The artists who will appear on the program on this night are Charles Carter, baritone, Decatur; George C. Baker, baritone, Emory University Glee club; Alton O'Steen, pianist, Emory Glee club; Miss Anna Harwell, violinist; Miss Sarah Carter, pianist, and Mrs. Charles Carter, pianist.

On the same program H. W. Mason, assistant professor of experimental engineering at Georgia Tech, will deliver a short address on automobiles.

COMMERCIAL ART CLASS IS NOW OPEN

Registration books of the class in commercial art at Tech High school are now open, it was announced Saturday by officials of the school. The class is conducted under the Smith-Hughes law and is free to students. It has met with marked success, many students having been placed in good positions in Atlanta. There is a broad field for commercial artists in Atlanta, according to reports to instructors.

$50,000 SUIT FILED FOLLOWING CRASH

Talley James McMillian, 33, Saturday filed suit in Fulton superior court asking $50,000 damages from the Georgia Railway & Power company for injuries alleged to have been received by him on November 16 when he says a trolley struck his automobile as it stood stalled on the tracks on Stewart avenue at Elbert street. He charges the car was traveling at a reckless rate of speed.

The law firm of Poole & Fraser filed the suit.

Daughters of the American Revolution

State Regent—Mrs. Julius Talmadge, 1295 Prince Ave., Athens.
Other Georgia state officers:
First Vice Regent—Mrs. A. L. Wilkins, Eastman.
Second Vice Regent—Mrs. Herbert M. Franklin, Tenaille, Ga.
Recording Secretary—Mrs. Oscar McKenzie, Montezuma.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. Julian McCurry, Athens.
Treasurer—Mrs. W. M. Coney, 123 East 45th St., Savannah.
Auditor—Mrs. B. C. Ward, Atlanta.
Librarian—Mrs. John D. Pope, Albany.
Historian—Mrs. J. N. Talley, Macon.
Consulting Registrar—Mrs. W. S. Wilson, Savannah.
Editor—Mrs. Mell Knox, Social Circle.
Assistant Editor—Mrs. C. H. Leavy, Brunswick.
Chaplain—Mrs. J. A. Peacock, Dublin.

Message From President General

From being one of the months to which the ancient Romans never even troubled to give a specific name, November in the new world of America, across the sea from the one-time seat of world power, has come to be a month significant and set apart by custom and by governmental authority for the giving of thanks to Almighty God for benefits received.

Indeed, it is almost impossible to think of November as a month apart from the festival of Thanksgiving and that first Thanksgiving day when the devout Pilgrims, with prayer, with kindly thought of their Indian neighbors, and with a certain survival of the English holiday spirit, gathered together to give thanks unto God for His merciful protection and for the harvest yield with which they felt they had been so mercifully blessed.

There is, in fact, no holiday quite comparable to our Thanksgiving day anywhere else in the world. Like the old Greek folk-festivals, it commemorates the bounty of the harvest time and the poetic beauty of the season which witnesses the seed time culmination of the year. But it goes far beyond any Greek festival in showing the connection of all these things with our Heavenly Father and that Divine Providence which guides our destiny. Can we not continue to cherish and keep alive its truly unique and typically American spirit by seeing to it that it shall increasingly be a time for the celebration of all true customs; the simple blessings of the soil and of our common, everyday life?

It was in November of the year 1872 that the preliminary treaty of peace between the United States and Great Britain was negotiated, and it was in November of the year 1800 that the congress of the United States first met in Washington, D. C.

In connection with the former, I wish to stress the very urgent need for greater particularity in the care of valuable revolutionary records in all too many of our most ancient, honorable and historic courthouses. Not only have these priceless documents insufficient fire protection, but in all too many instances the mechanical appliances and devices for making them accessible are so primitive as to unavoidably entail needless wear and tear upon them by the person desiring to use them, no matter how patriotic or well-intentioned the individual searcher may be. Will you not look into this situation in your immediate locality? If it obtains, I am confident that you may be counted upon to strive to remedy it with your usual initiative, tact and splendid spirit of cooperation.

The latter date calls to mind certain other specific civic duties:

1. The need for appearing at the polls in this so-called "off year," that our local representatives may truly represent the types of good citizenship that you desire. This is a definite responsibility right in your very midst. We should neither ignore it nor look upon it as unimportant.

2. The need for following the legislation that is up for consideration at the coming sessions of the congress. Remember our legislators are in congress to represent us. We can at least be barometers of feminine public opinion by letting them know of our reactions to their stand upon the questions of public moment which are or should be of burning interest to us.

In our own day and generation, to November has come the honor and sanctity of treasuring in Armistice day—a day of international significance and of world commemoration. I know full well that I voice the sentiment of every Daughter of the American Revolution in expressing the hope that each succeeding Armistice day for many a year to come may find a world content with the blessings of honorable peace and steadfastly striving to maintain and make more real for all mankind the principles of social democracy for all mankind.

LORA HAINES COOK,
President General.

ATTENTION.

Mrs. McCurry, state corresponding secretary, calls attention to changes made in list of chapter regents published in proceeding:

Atlanta chapter, Atlanta, Mrs. Lucius McConnell, regent; Fort Valley chapter, Fort Valley, Mrs. C. B. Almon, regent; LaGrange chapter, LaGrange, Mrs. J. L. Bradfield, regent.

BOX FOR ELLIS ISLAND.

The Brunswick chapter will contribute a box of useful articles, including thread, needles, cotton cloth, stamped pieces for embroidering, woolen yarns, etc., for use by emigrants detained at Ellis Island, N. Y., who derive much pleasure and some profit from articles fashioned from the materials donated.

The women's organizations are putting on a campaign to make Fort Valley a "City Beautiful" and to this end Davenport Guerry, landscape architect of Macon, spoke at the courthouse on Friday afternoon to a large audience on planting the home grounds. Mrs. Ben Fincher, regent of the Governor Treutlen chapter, D. A. R., introduced Mr. Guerry, who was heard with a great deal of interest and appreciation by the large audiences composed of both men and women.

Writers' Club Plans For Beautifying Plot Now Being Considered

The author's grove committee of the Writers'-club, which is sponsoring the movement to beautify the author's grove and memoralize its founder, Mrs. Lollie Belle Wylie, has been in consultation with authorities on landscape gardening and the marking of trees in various sections of the country, and now are considering plans submitted.

Among the writers who have been honored in this group are: Jacques Futrelle, Lucian Lamar Knight, Lollie Belle Wylie, Edward McDowell, Charles W. Hubner, Bill Arp, Thomas Skeyhill, Mrs. William Lawson Peel, Henry Grady, Emma Lazarus, Miss Mildred Rutherford, Corra Harris, Frank L. Stanton, William Shakespeare, Miss Virginia Arnold, Joel Chandler Harris, Helen Gray, Sidney Lanier, Harry G. Harmon, Louisa Alcott, Granville Barker, Father Ryan, Edgar Allan Poe, Dr. George M. Niles, Henry Richardson, William B. Lane, Jack London, Johns Mayafield, Mrs. M. H. Harper, of Dawson, Ga.; Charles Alva Lane, Marshal Joffre, Madge Bigham, Mrs. Goose, David Pinski, Ella Wheeler Wilcox, Thomas Nelson Page, O'Henry, Eugene Field, Oscar Wilde, Rudyard Kipling, Uncle Remus, Dr. Frank Crane.

The first tree was for Jaques Futrelle in 1919. In 1920 29 trees were planted and in 1921, 14.

PHILLIPS AND CREW ADD RADIO SECTION

Phillips & Crew Piano company, the oldest established music house in the state of Georgia, have added a complete radio department and, according to officials, have selected the highest class of standard radio merchandise to offer to the Atlanta public.

In these lines are included the Radio corporation of America's Radiola, the Atwater Kent radio, Fada Neutrodyne, the Grebe syncrophase and the Chieftain, manufactured by the Mohaw Electric company. In these lines they offer to you practically every radio circuit that is in the market today, and regardless of why type of instrument desired it is in the radio department. In adding this department it was the desire to offer to the public the same class of radio merchandise in keeping with the line of pianos and phonographs that have made the firm's name synonymous of the best in music for the past sixty years.

However, to properly operate this department it was necessary for them to organize a complete radio department, and in doing this they had to secure the services of men especially trained for this work. This department is under the management of W. G. Quinn, who is considered one of the best authorities in the south on radio receivers and equipment, and has been connected with the largest southern radio firms for the past several years. The service department, which is next in importance to the sales department, is under supervision of V. W. Moore, who has been especially trained for their installations and service. This department without doubt is one of the most efficient in the south, and guarantees to the purchasers of radio equipment from this establishment absolute certainty as to results they will secure from their radio.

FINAL RITES TODAY FOR DUBOSE FETTEN

Funeral services for Dubose Fitten, 71, of Fort Myers, Fla., who died Friday night at a local hospital, will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon from the home of his daughter, Miss Louise M. Fitten, of 115 East Fifteenth street. Dr. J. Sprole Lyons will officiate and interment will be in Oakland cemetery. Mr. Fitten was a former resident of Atlanta.

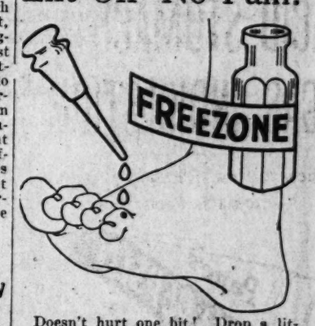
EMORY INDEPENDENTS TO PUBLISH JOURNAL

Emory University, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Another noteworthy splash in the journalistic field at Emory was made when the Independent Journal, official organ of the independent student body and independent council, appeared on the campus at 12 o'clock today and was met with much curiosity and favorable comment. The sheet, a four-page affair, carries timely and well-written editorials, snappy news stories of the happenings and attainments of the independent men, and several departments of humorous content.

The staff of the newborn Independent monthly is as follows: Sandy Clower, editor-in-chief; D. A. Lockmiller, associate editor; T. F. Bowden, J. T. Walker, Francis Carpenter, Rufus Camp, Peter Manning, G. K. Smith E. I. Lewis, Lawrence Haskew, J. P. Millican, and G. C. Baker, assistant editors.

CORNS

Lift Off—No Pain!



Doesn't hurt one bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers.

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.—(adv.)

Monday RICH'S BARGAIN BASEMENT for Wonder Values!

Quarantined!

JOHNNY is ill, a pretty sick boy, the Doctor says, and the whole family has been placed under rigid quarantine restrictions.

Nobody knows how Johnny caught the measles or maybe it is scarlet fever. Nobody even knows that six cases of the same ailment were reported last week from the block in which the washwoman lives.

Yet, dark, dirt-littered alleys, insanitary back yards, and squalid living and washing quarters have done their worst. And poor Johnny is the innocent victim.

If she had only sent her wash to the laundry! If she had realized how careful the laundry is about sanitation; how every garment is washed in soft, crystal-clear water with pure delicate soap, she would never have subjected her family to the dangers of contagion.

Remember this—if the laundry's worth was based on sanitation alone it would still be one of the most important institutions and necessities in all Atlanta.

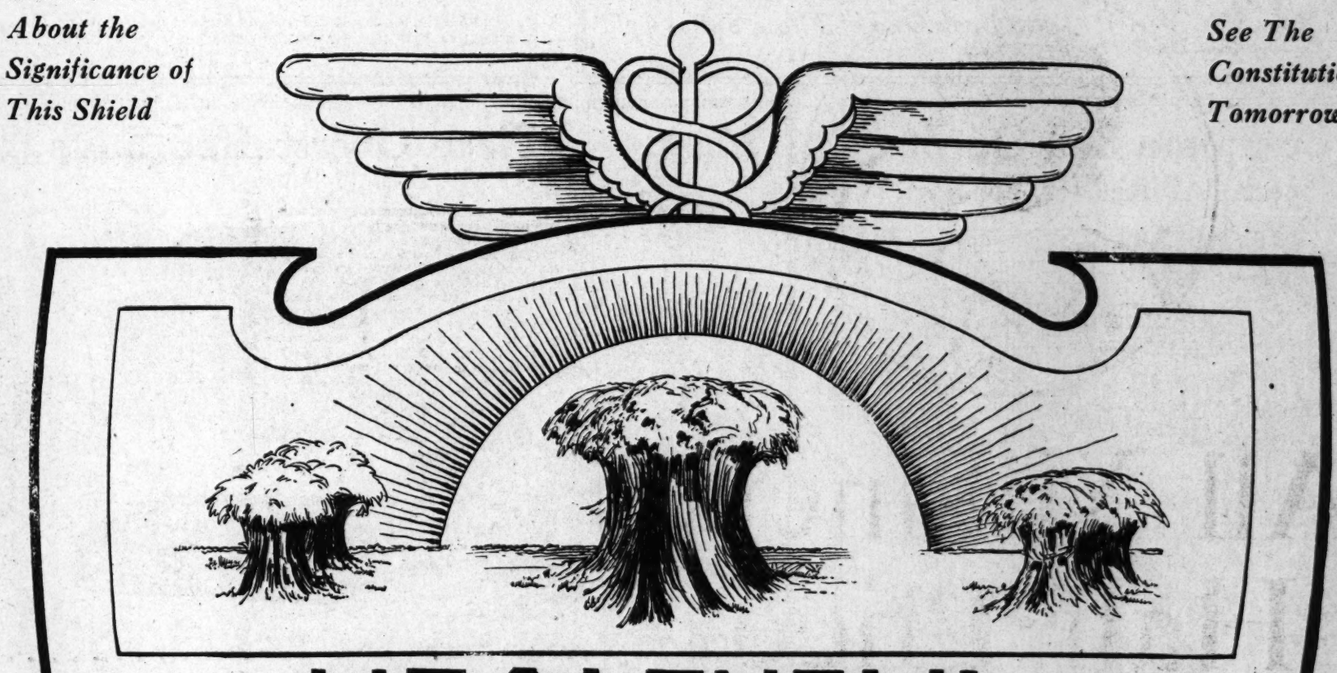
Let the route man have all your washing the next time he calls. You can't afford to take a chance with disease.

CAPITAL CITY LAUNDRY WAlnut 7121
MODEL LAUNDRY WAlnut 2372
EXCELSIOR LAUNDRY WAlnut 2454
PIEDMONT LAUNDRY WAlnut 7651
GUTHMAN LAUNDRY WAlnut 8661
TRIO LAUNDRY IVy 1600
MAY'S LAUNDRY HEmlock 5300
TROY LAUNDRY WAlnut 4908

WE WILL TELL YOU MONDAY

About the Significance of This Shield

See The Constitution Tomorrow



HEALTHFUL DEPENDABLE ECONOMICAL

ASSN.

You will be interested in this shield and what it stands for—it is a protection for your home. See Monday's Constitution.

When you grow familiar with this shield it will be in your home every day. See Monday's Constitution for particulars.

Mammoth Bazar Will Open At Woman's Club This Week

The entire public is invited to attend when the Atlanta Woman's club will present a scene of great activity during the coming week. All sorts of preparations are being made for the big bazar to be held at the clubhouse under the direction of Mrs. D. F. Stevenson, first vice president, and Mrs. T. G. Delph.

Delightful lunches will be served each day at the small cost of 35 cents, and the house committee, who has charge of this part of the program is preparing most delightful menus for each day.

The officers of the club will have charge of a booth, and are planning to have it very elaborately decorated in the club colors, blue and white, carrying out as far as possible the design of the club emblem. Mrs. Joel Hunter is chairman of the booth, and is receiving all sorts of handsome articles for the purchasers to choose from. Mrs. E. P. Crenshaw, chairman of the garden division, has appointed Mrs. John Simpson chairman of the flower-lovers' booth, and at this season of the year when so many flowers and bulbs are being used and planted, this booth will undoubtedly prove one of the biggest drawing cards of the entire bazar.

The junior insurance group with Mrs. N. O. Newman and Mrs. W. S. Johns in charge will have their booth to represent "doll land." Here will be found dolls of every description and size. Sleepy dolls, mamma dolls, baby dolls, in fact, almost any dolly that might appeal to the little girlie's heart. Mrs. Evans, chairman of the citizenship department, has appointed Mrs. A. A. LaVaque chairman of the citizenship booth, and many beautiful hand-made articles will be on display.

One end of the banquet hall will be turned over to the art department, and most beautiful works of art and hand-made creations will be available from the three tables that will be prepared by this department.

Mrs. George B. Hinman, chairman of fine arts, will be assisted by Mrs. W. F. Melton, Mrs. Earl F. Scott, Mrs. J. R. Little and every member of the art department.

The cooperative exchange of the club with Mrs. J. E. Miller as chairman will have a table, and some of the most attractive articles in the bazar will be seen at this table.

Among other booths attractively decorated will be the home economics, with everything appealing to the housewife, the municipal market booth, with its fresh fruits and vegetables, the hospital committee booth representing the Red Cross and with many articles made by the boys at hospital No. 48, the booth of the department of applied education and many others.

Among the ladies assisting during the week are Mrs. C. H. Hardin, Miss Margaret Hardin, Mrs. Reuben Arnold, Mrs. F. C. Fitten, Mrs. Frank Matthews, Mrs. F. R. Jones, Mrs. R. L. Beddingfield, Mrs. M. D. Farnham, Mrs. Ira Farmer, Mrs. M. T. Baker, Mrs. Frank Naedele, Mrs. C. W. Freeman, Mrs. Ben Simcox, Mrs. C. A. Wallace, Mrs. Cecil Cannon, Mrs. Brickman, Mrs. H. A. Russell, Mrs. J. A. Macauley, Mrs. F. O. Stone, Mrs. J. P. Billups, Mrs. Walter Hill, Mrs. Rawson Collier, Mrs. Snow, Mrs. J. A. Robertson, Mrs. C. R. Mitchell, Mrs. W. W. Moore, Mrs. J. H. Harris, Mrs. J. B. McNelly and many others.

ACID STOMACH!!

GAS, INDIGESTION

Chew a few Pleasant Tablets

—Stomach Feels Fine!

Instant stomach relief! Harmless! The moment "Pape's Diapepsin" reaches the stomach all distress from acid stomach or indigestion ends. Immediate relief from flatulence, gases, heartburn, palpitation, fullness or stomach pressure.

Correct your digestion for a few cents. Millions keep it handy. Druggists recommend it.—(adv.)

Club Women Urged To Attend Exercises.

Mrs. R. K. Rambo, president Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, announces that the memorial exercises for the boys who were in the world war, will be held at 3 o'clock at Pershing Point, under the auspices of the war mothers. She requests all federated club women to attend the exercises.

Senator George Will Address Club Meeting

Senator Walter F. George will address the Atlanta Woman's club Monday afternoon at the regular meeting, on the subject of the "World Court," a subject that every American is vitally interested in at this time, and which will be brought before congress in its next session, in December.

The international relations committee of the Woman's club is trying to get this subject fully discussed before the club members in order that it may be familiar to all, according to the chairman of the committee, Mrs. Thomas Brooks.

Mrs. Norman Sharp, president of the club, will preside over the meeting and introduce the speaker. She will also introduce the leaders in the junior department of the club, who will enroll the young people of the club and invite them to make their choice of groups and join the one they prefer. The chairman of the junior department is Mrs. Swan Burnett, who is assisted in the work by Miss Mary Cayce, Mrs. Paul LaBlant, Mrs. W. D. Pinkham and Miss Coleman.

Following the business session, Mrs. Mary Griffith Dobbs, music director for the club, will give a delightful program, as follows: Miss Margaret Baker Battle, soprano, will render several delightful numbers; Miss Battle will also present two of her pupils, Miss Mary McDaniel, soprano, and James Y. Bowen, baritone. Miss McDaniel will sing "Yesterday and Today" by Spress, "Love's a Merchant" by Carew; Mr. Bowen will sing "The Highway of Life" by Castin, "The Heart of Her" by Cadmen, "Uncle Rome" by Homer. Miss Helen A. Battle will accompany the vocal numbers at the piano.

The entire membership of the club is urged to attend and hear the above program which will be brilliant and instructive.

Civic Department Plans Movement.

The Atlanta beautiful movement, which is sponsored by the civic department of the Atlanta Woman's club and participated in by the various civic organizations of the city, has made distinct progress since its beginning.

The question which is brought to the attention of the workers at this time is that of the domestic smoke problem. Atlanta should be rid of smoke in order that its buildings might be modeled in more elaborate and artistic architectures, as those in northern cities, where the anthracite coal is used.

This can be done, as seen from an interview with A. W. Jones, city smoke inspector, as follows: "When approaching the domestic smoke problem we realize that little has been done to standardize methods. Nearly all smoke ordinances exempt residences from regulations. In the past, anthracite coal has been the principal fuel for domestic use of this country, and domestic smoke had not, therefore, been such a serious question; but as the country expanded and the cities grew, the demand for anthracite has far exceeded the supply. Freight rates enter largely into the reasons why we cannot use this fuel in the south. We are compelled to adopt methods of burning coal in such a manner as to reduce the smoke and give satisfactory results.

"Residence smoke, while making probably less than 10 per cent of the total smoke of the city, is particularly objectionable because it is produced in the section where its damaging possibilities are at a maximum. The smoke is discharged from low levels and distinguished from the high chimneys of a factory; hence it drifts into windows and throughout the residence territory very annoyingly.

"Improvement can be made by careful firing, education of householders in proper cleaning of chimneys, stopping all leakage in flues, keeping dampers in proper condition, having no other connections in the chimney than that used for each heater. Soft coal can be burned much more economically and with less smoke, if directions given by the Smoke Abatement league are carried out.

"Starting fires in the fireplace, the old-fashioned blower should be used, or a piece of tin to hold back the air over the grate. Great heat results and the distillation is rapid, turning the coal to coke rapidly. All so-called trash should be sifted for coke, to use again in the home fires."

Junior Department Chairman

Mrs. Swan Burnett, chairman of the junior department of the Atlanta Woman's club, who has just returned to the city and will take up her duties by enrolling the junior members at the meeting Monday afternoon, and enlarging her work through the assistance of the efficient chairmen in the department.

Citizenship School Attendance Urged.

Mrs. R. H. Wolfe, president of the Boulevard Park auxiliary, urges members to attend the citizenship school, under the direction of Mrs. R. L. Turman, which will hold a meeting on the Ansley roof garden on Tuesday, November 24, beginning at 10 o'clock. No charge will be made for the instruction received at this citizenship school.

Luncheon will be served at noon for 75 cents per plate. Those wishing to make reservations for the luncheon will please call the citizenship chairman, Mrs. W. H. Chambers, 165 Park drive, between the hours of 7 and 9 o'clock. Phone Hemlock 3316.

Mrs. Reamer Will Conduct Class.

The applied education department of the Atlanta Woman's club wishes to announce the second class in rhythmic exercises for November 30, 9:15 o'clock, in the banquet hall. The price is $5 for 10 lessons.

The class will be under the direction of Mrs. Ronald Reamer, formerly a director of physical education in Allegheny college. She is a graduate of Central School of Physical Education, New York city, and a pupil of Serova.

The work consists of relaxation exercises and in simple rhythmic movements to develop flexibility and strength.

Enrollments can be made at the clubhouse or with Mrs. J. E. Springer, Ivy 2250-W, or Mrs. Harry Russell, Ivy 2554-W.

Dr. Blanche Loveridge will give her closing lecture Tuesday, November 24, at 11 o'clock. The subject will be "Demonstration."

Art Department Calls Meeting.

The art department of the Atlanta Woman's club will have a call meeting Tuesday morning, November 24, at 10:30 o'clock. At this time an outline for the study of American art will be submitted; the program will be inclusive, affording opportunity for investigation of the many contributive phases of early creative ideas along with a review of existing relics brought over by the early settlers of the colonies.

In the five great expositions of fine arts America has been represented. In 1855 it had no section to itself, but in 1900 the American section of fine arts exhibit was second only to that of the French, and secured more honors than any other nation except France.

Charles Henry Caffin's "Story of American Paintings" will be one of the books used in connection with this course. The early period is often referred to as the Revolutionary period; it was made notable by the works of Copley, West, Trumbull and Stuart.

In the proposed course of study of American art the evolution of civilization and its corresponding influence will be considered. There are in Atlanta relics of early periods, many of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. Already quite a few antiques have been offered for use in the class. Atlanta has rich treasures in old pewter, old lace, fans, shawls, furniture, china, books and other things. Local art possessions will be featured.

Benefit Thanksgiving Dance at Club.

The Gibbons class of the Immaculate Conception church will entertain at a benefit Thanksgiving dance at the Atlanta Woman's club Thursday, November 26, from 9 to 12 o'clock.

All members of the college set are cordially invited to attend. Cards may be secured from any member of the class.

Chrysanthemum Show At Woman's Club.

The chrysanthemum exhibit at the Atlanta Woman's club during the past week was a remarkable success; the interest shown in the first exhibit of the kind ever held at the club indicated the fact that the women are in earnest in regard to beautifying their homes and the grounds in their community.

Mrs. Frank Matthews' collection of chrysanthemums was quite unusual; she had on display 12 immense blooms which attracted much attention. In this collection were Louisa Pockets, Nakotas, pink and yellow William Turners and many other large varieties.

Mrs. M. M. Rolleston exhibited perfect white blooms, Mrs. T. O. Plunkett's exhibit was three perfect Nerissas. Mrs. Plunkett was the woman to arouse interest in flower growing in this community through her splendid exhibits at the Southeastern fair.

Mrs. Henry Godbee entered a basket of five Ocontos at the chrysanthemum show and the basket was made by Mrs. Godbee. She is conceded an artist in making lovely articles of this kind and her basket met with much praise at the exhibit. She also entered five large pinks and a mixed variety. Her Louisa Pockets were of great size and beauty.

Mrs. E. P. Crenshaw, chairman of the garden department of the Atlanta Woman's club, entered a very lovely basket of bronzes.

Four of the flower lovers entered Pompons. Mrs. John Russell had four entries; Mrs. A. M. Dunn, three baskets of varieties, and Mrs. S. B. Nass was especially complimented on the daintiness of her baskets of Pompons.

The success of the exhibit, according to Mrs. Crenshaw, chairman of the garden department, is due to the untiring efforts of Mrs. Frank Matthews, chairman of the chrysanthemum circle of the department.

Mrs. J. J. Simpson, chairman of the bazar committee, is asking the members to supply the articles for the bazar, which opens at the clubhouse Monday, November 23, and wishes them to know that any hand-made articles, aprons, handkerchiefs, lingeries or any dainty piece of work will be very acceptable to the committee. The garden booth will also carry shrubbery, rose plants, hyacinths, tulips and narcissus bulbs. The public is invited to visit the garden booth.

Reception Honors Atlanta Federation.

One of the enjoyable events of the week was the reception given to the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs by the Stone Baking company in their new home on Highland avenue and Jackson street. The guests were greeted by Miss Sara Lou Ransom, wearing a southern girl's costume of lavender.

An inspection tour was made of the plant, after which the guests were served in one of the large rooms which is used by the employees as an assembly room. During the afternoon the Griffith quintet of the federation furnished the music.

Mrs. Robert K. Rambo, president of the Atlanta federation was most charming in a black velvet gown, as head of the receiving line. Among the many guests were seen Mrs. R. G. Hastings, Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, Mrs. William R. Prescott, Mrs. Ira Farmer, Mrs. W. L. Percy, Mrs. Hal Hentz, Mrs. R. F. McCormack, Mrs. F. J. Paxon, Miss Rosa Woodberry, Mrs. F. O. Stone and Mrs. T. A. Rippey.

Distinguished Guests To Be Honored at Club Dinner

Monday will mark a brilliant opening for the week of festivities at the Atlanta Woman's club, when Senator Walter F. George will be entertained at a delightful dinner, following an address in the afternoon on the world court and its significance.

A delightful round-table discussion will be held in the evening at 7 o'clock, when Senator George, Clark Howell, Governor Clifford Walker, Senator Hoke Smith will be honor guests and participate in the discussion.

Mrs. Norman Sharp, president of the club, will preside at the table and she will be assisted in receiving the guests by the members of the international relations committee of the club. The officers of the club will assist in entertaining and the music department of the club will render an exquisite program following the round-table discussion.

The club will be beautifully decorated with autumn flowers and leaves under the direction of Mrs. G. H. Brandon. The dinner will be given in the main club house after which the guests will repair to the banquet hall for the musical program under the direction of Mrs. Mary Griffith Dobbs.

Those assisting in receiving and entertaining are Mrs. Tom Brooke, Mrs. Hamilton Douglas, Mrs. D. F. Stevenson, Mrs. Albert Thornton, Mrs. W. O. Foote, Mrs. Irving Thomas, Mrs. John R. Hornady, Mrs. Joel Hunter, Mrs. E. V. Carter, Mrs. W. D. Williamsom and Mrs. J. K. Ottley.

Special guests of the occasion will be Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Sims, former Governor and Mrs. Hugh Dorsey, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Baskerville, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Willis, John Paschal, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maddox.

Other guests of the evening will be Dr. and Mrs. Richard Orme Flinn, Dr. and Mrs. Carter Helm Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Kreigshaber, Dr. and Mrs. Sprole Lyons, Edwin Johnson, Mrs. Luther Allen, Mrs. Spencer Atkinson, Mrs. Jack R. Hornady, Mrs. George Ripley, Mrs. L. D. T. Quimby.

ALWAYS $6 ALL STYLES

The HOUSE OF A THOUSAND STYLES

Atlanta New Orleans Memphis Birmingham

Silver Kid

—Also Gold

Evening Slippers

Every Size and Width $6

"A Perfectly Gorgeous Time!"

"IT WAS heavenly! The music! And the delicate lighting! And Jack! He said my new SILVER SLIPPERS had Cinderella's backed off the map! Got them at Chandler's! My but they have some bee-yu-tiful Evening Slippers this Fall! And just think, they're only $6.00!"

EDISON BROTHERS

CHANDLER Boot Shops

WHITEHALL Cor Alabama

ALL STYLES $6 ALWAYS

J. P. ALLEN & CO.

All Millinery Half Price

ONLY twice each year are you afforded the opportunity to choose Allen's high-grade Millinery at HALF PRICE. Those who have attended these events in the past need no urging to come. Women who have yet to participate in this event should not miss it—for it means an opportunity for selection and savings that has seldom been equaled—never surpassed. Finest model and pattern Hats—glorious Parisian models—EVERYTHING in our entire stock included.

Gold and Silver Lace and Metallic Dance Hats
Bright Colored Hats of Silk Faille or Bengaline
Smart Satin Hats for Street or Afternoon Wear
Draped Turbans of Satin Roi
Satin Off-the-Face Hats
Rich Velours in All Colors and With Smartest Trims

$ 5.00 Hats now..	$ 2.50
10.00 Hats now..	5.00
15.00 Hats now..	7.50
18.00 Hats now..	9.00
20.00 Hats now..	10.00
22.50 Hats now..	11.25
25.00 Hats now..	12.50
27.50 Hats now..	13.75
30.00 Hats now..	15.00
35.00 Hats now..	17.50

EVERY HAT IN OUR ENTIRE STOCK IS IN THIS SALE

EVERY HAT RETAINS ITS ORIGINAL PRICE—PAY JUST HALF

Nothing Reserved

J. P. Allen & Co.

Furniture of Individuality

Gift Furniture That Lives

MORE and more people are turning to furniture as the ideal Christmas gift. It combines all the characteristics of a real gift—beauty, permanence, usefulness and charm. And in buying gift furniture, it is so important to go to a store of character and prestige! You are naturally anxious to be sure that the furniture you buy will be the kind that will carry your message of friendship and love through the years. You will be surprised at the low cost of such furniture, as indicated in the representative items below.

Beautiful three-piece living room suites in mohair as low as... $185.00

Dining Room suites in the most popular period style, most of them 8 pieces, as low as $99.50

Wonderful bedroom suites in the most popular designs and finishes as low as $135.00

Five-piece breakfast room suites, beautifully decorated in colors, priced as low as $37.50

Secretaries, in authentic period designs, as low as.... $49.50

Charming occasional tables, finished in antique walnut color, as low as $15.50

Luxurious easy chairs, upholstered in tapestries, as low as $22.50

Graceful smoking cabinets, beautifully finished in walnut color, as low as— $2.00 to $35.00

Beautiful junior size floor lamps, with polychrome bases and Georgette shades, as low as..... $17.75

Even at these Low Prices, we will Divide Your Payments

292 Peachtree Street

FURNITURE OF INDIVIDUALITY
SATTERWHITE FURNITURE COMPANY
ATLANTA, GA.

21-23 West Peachtree St.

THE CONSTITUTION'S PARENT-TEACHER PAGE

Edited by MAINER LEE TOLER

OFFICERS GEORGIA BRANCH, NATIONAL CONGRESS OF MOTHERS AND PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATIONS—Mrs. Fred Wessels, Jr., of Savannah, president; Miss Katherine Dozier, of Gainesville, vice president; Mrs. P. H. Jeter, of Decatur, recording secretary; Mrs. James W. Calloway, of Columbus, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Albert Ehrlich, of Savannah, treasurer; Mrs. Guy Wells, of Eastman, auditor; Mrs. Kinloch Dunlap, of Macon, historian; Mrs. R. P. Brooks, of Athens, parliamentarian. First vice president, Mrs. O. L. Gresham, of Waynesboro; second vice president, Mrs. I. J. Hoffmayer, of Albany; third vice president, Mrs. Edward Dominy, of Fitzgerald; fourth vice president, Mrs. Reynolds Flournoy, of Columbus; fifth vice president, Mrs. Z. V. Peterson, of Atlanta; sixth vice president, Mrs. H. D. Cutter, of Macon; seventh vice president, Mrs. M. S. Lanier, of Rome; eighth vice president, Mrs. Duncan Barnett, of Athens; ninth vice president, Mrs. W. M. Johnson, of Gainsville; tenth vice president, Mrs. Hugh Pascal, of Harlem; eleventh vice president, Mrs. I. J. Brown, of Nahunta; twelfth vice president, Mrs. John Poe, Vidalia.

OFFICERS OF ATLANTA PARENT-TEACHER COUNCIL—Mrs. George M. Howsmon, president; Mrs. D. C. Shepard, first vice president; Mrs. Leo Sudderth, second vice president; Mrs. Richard Jones, recording secretary; Mrs. A. E. Wilson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. R. M. Brandon, treasurer.

William A. Bass Junior High P.-T. A. Outlines Yearly Program

The William A. Bass Junior High P.-T. A. has outlined the following program for 1925-1926, which should prove interesting and instructive to members:

October.

Organization.
Prayer.
Business.
Program (five minutes' talks).
A. A. Jamieson, Boy Scout executive.
J. H. Smith, principal William A. Bass Junior High school.
Miss Carrie Booker, assistant principal William A. Bass Junior High school.
Mrs. George Howsman, president Atlanta P.-T. A. council.
Mrs. Robert G. Stephenson, first vice president Bass P.-T. A.
Report fifth district meeting.

November.

Prayer. A Thanksgiving poem (original).
Community singing.
Business.
Program—
"What Our Boys and Girls Should Read," Miss Cox of Carnegie library.
"Gratitude—the Spirit of Thanksgiving," Mrs. Charles Goodman.

December.

(Fathers' Meeting Night.)
Prayer.
Community singing.
Business.
Program—
"The Responsibility of Fatherhood," Professor Floyd Fields, of Georgia Tech faculty.
Vocal solo, Mrs. Susan B. Johnson.
Dedication of David Mayer library: Presentation, Honorable John M. Slaton, ex-governor of Georgia; acceptance, J. H. Smith, principal Bass school.

January.

Prayer.
Community singing.
Business.
Program—
"Illiteracy—Its Opportunity for Service," Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent Atlanta public schools.
Vocal solo, Mrs. Benjamin Elsas.

February.

Prayer.
Community singing.
Business.
Program—
(A tribute to Mrs. Theodore W. Birney, founder and first president of the National Congress of Mothers.)
"The Responsibility of Motherhood," Mrs. John Rowlette, past president and historian of Georgia branch P.-T. A.
Violin solo, Mrs. J. T. Esell.

March.

Prayer.
Community singing.
Business.
Program—
Salute to the flag, Boy Scouts.
P.-T. A. creed, Girls' clubs.
"What Citizenship Means to the P.-T. A.," Mrs. Ira Farmer.

April.

(Night Meeting.)
Prayer.
Community singing.
Business.
Children's program—
(Arranged by Faculty.)
Convention data, Mrs. Z. V. Peterson.

May.

Prayer.
Community singing.
Business.
Annual reports.
Election of officers.

Eighth Grade Tea.

On Friday, November 20, the William A. Bass P.-T. A. entertained the eighth grade mothers at Tea.

Miss Carrie Booker, assistant principal, welcomed the mothers on behalf of the school and Mrs. Henry Baner, president, extended welcome for the P.-T. A.

Mrs. Robert Stephens, first vice president, introduced the speaker of the afternoon, H. Reid Hunter, assistant superintendent of public schools, who outlined the eighth grade program for the second semester and offered many helpful suggestions to the mothers.

Community singing and selections by a group of the school orchestra furnished the music for the afternoon.

Mrs. Nagle, membership chairman, and Mrs. Leo Strauss, grade chairman, sponsored the meeting.

Russell High P.-T. A. Meets.

The East Point High School P.-T. A. met Thursday afternoon directly after the school hour.

An attractive musical program was put on by Miss Alve Everton and those taking part were Misses Jessie Wooten, Lillie Ruth Hemperley, William and Jack Brown and Miss Everton, of Florida.

Mrs. E. G. Nabell presided over the business session.

Reports were encouraging from departmental chairmen.

The P.-T. A. is sponsoring a moving picture each Friday evening in the school auditorium for the equipment of the kitchen.

Seventh grade A of which Mrs. E. L. Humphreys is teacher was awarded the banner for the largest attendance of mothers.

Home Park P.-T. A. Activities Are Varied.

The Home Park P.-T. A. held a most encouraging meeting on Wednesday afternoon in the school auditorium, Mrs. T. H. Smith, president, presiding. Reports from various committee chairmen were heard, each report showing that the entire association was working with great zeal and cooperation. Mrs. E. C. West, finance chairman, reported a paper sale Thursday. Mrs. H. J. Gordon, magazine chairman announced several subscriptions for magazines. A most interesting report was given by Mrs. J. L. Hudson, juvenile protection chairman. Mrs. T. R. Kent, made a report on better films, explaining the work which her committee is seeking to accomplish for better films, at which time she announced a picture show to be given in the school auditorium at an early date.

Mrs. C. T. Holbrook, family service chairman gave a detailed report of the activity of her committee.

Mrs. Frank Stewart, citizenship chairman gave an interesting report of the meeting of the American citizenship committee of the Atlanta council of P.-T. A., stating a splendid program had been outlined for the year, in which again the "Five Constitutions" will be studied. Mrs. H. H. Reid, chairman of pre-school age committee urged all mothers who have children of pre-school age to meet with her Friday afternoon, at which time there will be a speaker to give an instructive talk on the welfare of both mother and children.

Mrs. H. O. Davis, illiteracy chairman announced that Superintendent Sutton had requested that a response be sent in by every school filling out the list of iliterates; every child to name every iliterate known to them.

Mrs. Wiley Hancock, chairman of safety, gave a detailed report. Reports were made by each grade chairman on what had been accomplished in the membership drive. Mrs. Smith spoke enthusiastically of the many constructive features presented at P.-T. A. council. She spoke of the importance of the hope chest and urged that early contributions be made. She also urged that the membership attend the Passion Play moving picture sponsored by the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, presented at the Auditorium-Armory, November 30 to December 5.

A motion indorsing a resolution passed by the P.-T. A. council for the suppression of salacious literature in Atlanta was made by Mrs. West, seconded by Mrs. Kent and carried. Mrs. Smith read an announcement stating that the P.-T. A. council had recommended that the association pay $8 monthly to the nurse fund for special classes. This was unanimously voted and passed upon. It was voted that the association pay the better films $1 to be used for better films literature.

Mrs. J. L. Hudson was elected vice president.

A count of mothers present was taken and Miss Carson's room was awarded the attendance prize.

Fair Street P.-T. A. Hears Dr. Kennedy.

The regular monthly meeting of the Fair Street P.-T. A. was held in the school auditorium Thursday at 2:30 o'clock with Mrs. Hansen, the president, presiding. A short talk was made by Mr. Johnson, a member of the fire department who presented the cause of the firemen in their fight for a raise in salary.

The principal speaker of the afternoon was Dr. Kennedy, city physician, who gave a most instructive talk on the method of preventing diseases common to children. The value of perfect teeth, use of serums, the careful attention to a well balanced meal, proper school lunches, the importance of a child drinking milk was stressed in his talk. Dr. Kennedy stated that a parent could cooperate in no better way than by taking the card sent home by the children to the family physician and having the physical defect attended to.

Hoke Smith Junior High P.-T. A. Holds Daddies' Meeting

A daddies' meeting of the Hoke Smith Junior High P.-T. A. was held Tuesday evening in the school building. W. A. Vernoy, second vice president, presided after being introduced by Mrs. Charles Foster, president. R. R. Richie, assistant superintendent of business affairs, gave the feature number. He briefly told of his work.

He said "education is the fundamental and is needed more than any other thing. It is the best representative of all times and is another example of the great Christ."

Colonel W. W. Gaines, Dr. R. M. Eubanks, W. C. Slate, members of the board of education and also members of the building committee, and W. B. Hartsfield, third ward alderman and mayor pro-tem, were distinguished guests present and gave brilliant addresses in the interest of the school.

Mr. Slate presented to the association a handsome cup donated by Mr. Vernoy. The girl or boy with the highest general average, in the graduating class, is to be honored by having their name engraved on the cup. The cup, against Mr. Vernoy's wishes, was entitled "The Vernoy Cup." Two smaller cups are to be given to the girl or boy with the highest average in the entire school.

The meeting was also in the form of a memorial of the death of Miss Annie Greene, who had been connected with Hoke Smith Junior High for two years as a faithful teacher and friend.

L. O. Kimberly, principal, briefly told of the work of the first quarter, stressing the point for parents to see their children did more studying at home. He gave a cordial invitation for visits to the school room by the parents.

B. T. Huiet, third ward councilman-elect, also scout master of Troop 49, was another guest of honor, who gave a brief talk.

Two violin selections were rendered by Miss Frances Chosewood, a pupil of Mrs. Morgan Stephens, accompanied on the piano by Miss Aileen Stephens.

The Hoke Smith Junior High orchestra consisting of Bennie Golden, Nodas Kakis, Louis Effel and Evelyn Campbell conducted by Miss Goldie Pugh, music director of the school, gave several selections.

Mrs. F. D. Terry, corresponding secretary, had pencils that were made of the school colors. A membership campaign is to be put on soon, with Mrs. W. A. Vernoy, chairman-in-charge.

Stanton P.-T. A. Reports Activities.

The Parent-Teacher association of Stanton school met on Wednesday, with Mrs. E. W. Brown, president.

The different chairmen of the Hallowen party made good reports, and the club realized a nice sum from the booths. Mrs. R. L. Thompson spoke on the Community Chest, and asked the ladies to do some work in the interest of this great movement. Mrs. Bennett's fifth grade and Miss Carmichael's third grade won the prizes for having most mothers present. Mrs. Brown urged the children to attend the Howard matinees on Saturday mornings. Leslie Blackwood from the sixth grade gave a pretty dance.

Miss Davis, a teacher from Joseph E. Brown Junior High, made a most interesting and helpful talk on the value of nutrition to the young child. She spoke about causes of malnutrition and urged the mothers to fix the right kind of lunches for their children.

Plans for giving a candy pulling at the school next Tuesday, November 26, were discussed.

Evelyn Jackson P.-T. A. Hears Miss Archer.

The meeting of the Parent-Teacher association of the Evelyn Jackson School of Music was featured by a talk given by Miss Cornelia Archer, of the school, on "Gherkins Fundamentals of Music."

Many interesting items of current happenings in the musical world were reported and discussed by the association. The president, Mrs. Hutchinson, and Miss Kathleen Clement led in this discussion.

A demonstration lesson on the piano was given by Mrs. Marion Vaughn to the baby of the school, Edward Fincher, who is only four years old, which was very interesting.

Mrs. A. D. McGaughey was appointed membership chairman, and Miss Rosemary McGaughey scrapbook chairman.

The association has planned to take up the study of the book, "Song and Symphony," by D. G. Skinner, for the coming year.

Joseph Brown P.-T. A. Reports Show Extreme Progress

The Joseph E. Brown P.-T. A. held its regular monthly meeting on Monday with the president, Mrs. W. L. McCalley, Jr., in the chair. Mrs. McCalley thanked the association for the flowers sent her on the occasion of the birth of William Lanford McCalley, III, and for the courtesy of the association in making her young son the mascot of the association.

The Buildings and Grounds committee in cooperation with the principal, Mr. Martin announced a program for Arbor day on December 4. The social chairman, Mrs. Montgomery announced that the next meeting would be a social affair with music furnished by the members of the faculty. Mrs. Lunsford, chairman of decorations had the library beautifully and artistically decorated with chrysanthemums. The membership chairman, Mrs. F. I. Volberg, with Mrs. L. W. Adams, co-chairman gave a splendid report. Mrs. F. W. Hadley as chairman of citizenship urged the women to register before December 19 and also gave notice of the citizenship school to be given on the Ansley roof by the Atlanta League of Women Voters which school promises to be most informing and interesting.

Mrs. D. M. Clarke, chairman of Ways and Means announced that the booth in the Whirl of the World had netted the association $22.00 and that $22.00 had been made on a rummage sale. The better films chairman, Mrs. Savage, asked for donations of clothing, etc., for the Christmas party given annually by the better films committee for the needy.

Miss Mary Gray of the faculty reported that the Red Cross baskets had been fixed and that baskets had been fixed by the school to send out for Thanksgiving. Mrs. N. B. Cawthorn, magazine chairman, asked for subscriptions to Home, School and Life and also asked for magazines to be given for distribution to the old ladies' home, soldiers, etc. The scrap book chairman, Mrs. Hugh Colwell, reported that she was keeping up with the notices for the school. The carnival, "Whirl of the World" proved to be a most successful affair. This affair was sponsored by the faculty. The association went on record as approving the recommendation of council for the suppression of salacious literature.

The new chairmen appointed are, legislative, Mrs. Turner Powell; recreational, Mrs. Wm. A. Rhodes; safety education, Mrs. W. M. McLarty; juvenile protection, Mrs. W. U. Bolen. Mrs. J. S. Nunnally has accepted the leadership of the Campfire girls in the school, which has three groups. Invitations were read from the Stone Baking company and from the Emory elementary school. Announcements were made of the Passion Play and of the nutrition classes yet to be held. Attention was also called to the fact that the next meeting would be held on December 14, the second Monday instead of the third. At the conclusion of the business session, Mrs. Gaston Haskins, program chairman presented Rodney Morrison, from the Community Chest, who explained the purpose of the chest. The music was provided by Miss Mary Buttrick, accompanied by Mrs. Massey.

Parent-Teacher Meetings

The executive board of the William A. Bass, Jr., High P.-T. A. will meet on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock in the David Mayer library. All members are urged to be present.

The regular meeting of the Bluebird club of the Faith Pre-school Circle will meet on Tuesday, November 24, at 3 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. T. R. Langley. An interesting program has been arranged.

The John B. Gordon P.-T. A. will meet in the school auditorium Tuesday, November 24, at 2:30 o'clock. All members are urged to come and bring a new member.

Parent-Teacher representatives of the better films committee will meet Tuesday, November 24, at 10:30 o'clock at Rich's tea room on the sixth floor. Note change of place and time. Plans for Christmas party will be discussed and a large attendance is requested.

The first evening meeting of the Peeples Street Parent-Teacher association will be held at 7:45 o'clock, Tuesday evening. Dr. W. A. Smart will deliver the address of the evening. Mr. Epps, soloist of the First Baptist church, will sing several selections. Mrs. R. M. Brandon has urged all members to attend the meeting.

W. F. Slaton P.-T. A. Hears Miss Simpson.

The regular monthly meeting of the W. F. Slaton P.-T. A. was held Wednesday afternoon with good attendance. The speaker of the afternoon was Miss Simpson of the United States bureau of public health. She gave the "Story of Life" in a most unique and impressive manner.

A membership drive is now on in this organization and effort will be made to enlist as many of the patrons as possible within the next month. The monthly attendance prizes were given to Miss Sewell's fourth grade and to Miss Cheely' kindergarten class.

Mrs. J. O. Young, Mrs. T. H. Johnston and Miss Pearl Acree were appointed to draft a new constitution to be presented at the next meeting. Mrs. J. E. Tippen gave an interesting account of the fifth district meeting to which she was delegate. Mrs. J. R. Brooks was named citizenship chairman, and Mrs. B. N. Anderson, co-chairman.

The program committee, with Mrs. J. W. Mangham as chairman, announced the program for the year as follows: September, organization; October, character building; November, health; December, week-day religious education; January, home influences; February, patriotism; March, home economics; April, citizenship; May, leisure time.

Commercial High Daddies Meet.

Commercial High held a daddies' meeting Friday night with a large attendance. Mrs. W. J. Milam was elected first vice president; Louie Marquardt, second vice president; Mrs. W. H. Evans and Mrs. J. H. Griffin on executive board. D-1 was the lucky class, winning all three prizes, box of candy, bannes and matinee tickets.

One of the daddies, J. H. Childress, won the drawing prize, which was a P.-T. A. pin.

Mr. Rithie, superintendent of the board, spoke on the "Need of Schools."

Formwalt Faculty Members Give Talks of Interest to P.-T. A.

Members of the faculty of the Moses W. Formwalt school gave several interesting talks at the November meeting of the Parent-Teacher association. This was an outgrowth of many requests from the patrons who expressed a desire to know and understand the work that is being done in the schools. The mothers were interested in knowing how to help their children measure up to maximum ability. Miss Kathaleen Wright spoke on health improvement. She asked for cooperation in getting the children physically fit so that they may be mentally fit. Miss Perle Bokritzky told about methods of motivated instruction used in the schools today. The talk was illustrated by a graph showing progress in spelling and a health chart made by the children. Miss Blossom Tucker stressed the fact that adjustment work is necessary in order to place children where they should be in school.

Miss Clestelle McNeal, a former Formwalt pupil, delivered an amusing reading on "Betty at the Baseball Game."

Mrs. B. G. Otwell, president, asked for the usual hearty cooperation of the association in supporting the coming showing of the "Passion Play" at the city auditorium.

Mrs. L. R. Sams, former principal of the school, was present and was heartily welcomed.

Mrs. S. B. Harris, chairman of the welfare committee appealed to the mothers for help in replenishing the hope chest for the benefit of needy children. She also requested that the members save Sunday papers of December 13, as that day has been set aside for the school to take papers to the Grady hospital.

The lucky number was won by Miss Kate Binford who was awarded a beautiful hand-painted woven tray made by the ungraded class.

The following classes were awarded prizes for having the highest percentage of mothers present:

Miss Mary Clary, low four-one; Mrs. Leola Frost, low one-two.

Miss Cone Addresses Highland P.-T. A. on Interesting Subject

At the meeting on Wednesday afternoon of Highland P.-T. A., Miss Clara Lee Cone, of the Girls' High school, addressed the mothers on "Nutrition for Mal-nourished Child." She spoke also of the benefits to be derived from a school cafeteria.

The president, Mrs. E. D. Crawford, announced the resignation of Mrs. W. K. Wyant as secretary, in order that she might devote her entire time to her duties as house chairman. Mrs. W. S. McCurdy was elected to take her place.

Mrs. C. A. Alexander, who has worked so efficiently as membership chairman, announced a paid membership of 200 members. She told also of a series of grade meetings being held at the school for the mutual help and conference of mother and teacher. The mothers of the fifth and sixth grades are invited to meet with their teachers on Tuesday at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. E. K. Large reported the carnival a great success, the total proceeds being $257.25. The association gave a vote of thanks to Mrs. Large and her committee. It was voted to place $100 of this money at the disposal of the teachers to be used for special needs of the school as necessary.

Mrs. Crawford announced the appointment of four new chairmen as follows: Yard, Mrs. E. D. Knight; hospitality, Mrs. Clyde Wood; pre-school age, Mrs. P. C. Fable, and house welfare, Mrs. W. K. Wyant. Mrs. Knight will take up the work of recreation chairman in connection with her work on the yard.

The amount of $1 was voted to to better films committee of council to aid in carrying out their work.

Mrs. Crawford made an appeal for books to be sent by the children to school for use in the library.

Including a free-will offering and a donation from the treasury, the association will contribute $30 which is 10 scholarships to the illiteracy fund.

A count of mothers present showed Miss Wyan's room and Mrs. Williamson's room to be winners of the attendance prizes.

Forrest Avenue P.-T. A. Continues Progress.

The regular meeting of the Forrest Avenue P.-T. A. was held Wednesday. One hundred dollars was reported made from the Halloween carnival given at the school on that day.

The roll call by grades was had, the prizes going to Miss Parham of the fifth grade, Miss Marion Jack of the second grade, only having one mother less, and the highest percentage of mothers went to Mrs. Eula Peacock Baskin of low-one.

The kitchen committee, Mrs. Jim Watkins, chairman, reported $40 realized by serving lunches to the children, and Mrs. L. P. Taylor of the house committee, reported $35 from the same source. Mrs. J. R. Walters, of the pre-school committee, reported that at the baby health clinic held each month at the school, there was an average attendance of 18 mothers.

Mrs. L. J. Brumbelow, chairman of the better films committee, announced that the next picture at the school would feature Jackie Coogan and asked that the mothers send their children if possible.

Mrs. Rawiszer urged that more of the mothers help in the kitchen to serve lunches to the children as they serve about 125 per day. It was determined that illiteracy scholarships be bought for the association with the proceeds of the afternoon's birthday offering, as this was one splendid work that had been overlooked by the school in the past.

It was also unanimously voted that medals for the children of the sixth grade on their promotion day be dispensed with this year.

The matter of making a house-to-house canvass for clean and mended cast-off clothing for the Howard theater was voted upon. This clothing is to be used in the city schools and is a most worthy enterprise, as there are few schools that do not have to help clothe some of their children.

A vote was taken as to whether films should be shown at the school every Friday or every second Friday and it was voted that the latter experiment be tried out, as on account of the high cost of films, the exchequer had become somewhat depleted.

A candy pulling for Wednesday, December 2 was announced to be held at the school, the proceeds to swell the coffers of the general fund.

The next meeting of the Forrest Avenue school will be held on the night of December 16, when "Daddies' Night" will be celebrated and a cordial invitation for the fathers was given by Mrs. Rawiszer. She also announced that Dr. Willis A. Sutton would be the principal speaker of the occasion.

The medical report of the visiting physician and nurse was given and the mothers urged to have their children's teeth examined so as to bring up the standard of the school and win for the children a holiday as well, and to also remedy by consulting a physician whatever defect the slips brought home by the children indicated.

The drawing of the attendance prizes brought out the fact that Mrs. R. G. Ryan and Mrs. L. L. Higgins were the lucky number holders and some prize "mums" of white and yellow donated to the association by Mrs. Frank Coursey were also distributed to other lucky number holders.

The fourth, fifth and sixth grades had submitted a number of most attractive health posters which indicated much expenditure of thought and the clever execution of some really worthwhile ideas. The prize for the sixth grade was won by Lucile Taylor, for the fifth by Louise Ryan and the fourth by Frederick Taylor.

John F. Faith P.-T. A. Hears Address By Miss Wesley

At a large, enthusiastic gathering of the John F. Faith P.-T. A. on Thursday afternoon, November 19, Miss Emma Wesley, principal of the school, gave a most stirring heart-to-heart talk on "Character," stressing the importance of the early training in the home. This address was the third of series of lectures on "Health, Scholarship and Character,' all of these proving very beneficial to the Parent-Teacher association.

Yearly Program.

Another important feature of the meeting was the adoption of the program for the term 1925-1926, which was presented by Miss Wesley, program chairman, and unanimously adopted. An outline of the program follows: In Parent-Teacher programs for the year 1925-26 it is the plan to have on each program, a child or Normal student; a teacher, supervisor, superintendent or board member; a parent or neighbor; a citizen, preacher, doctor, dentist, lawyer, banker, good man or woman, and music on each program—vocal, instrumental, orchestra or glee club.

The subjects for each month are: September—"Health," medical examinations, dental work, nutrition, play, lunches; October—"Scholarship," curricula, home study, child study, enrollment week, education week, library, long day; November—"Character," parent, teacher, child, habits; December—"Attendance and Promptness," visiting teacher, state, law, excuses; January—"Thrift," banking, economy; February — "Patriotism," citizenship, voting, flag, loyalty; March — "Kindergarten," pre-school age, nursery, baby clinic; April—"Teacher Training," work at the Atlanta Normal Training and Faith school; May—"Homes," ideals, house, furniture, duties, scarcity, necessity.

Resolutions against salacious literature, which were recently passed by the P.-T. A. council, were also passed. Interesting reports were given by each of the chairmen on their work for the month and Miss Mary Holder, chairman of grounds, asked each one present to plant a blossoming tree or shrub on Arbor day, which will be the first Friday in December.

Mrs. Kinney won the mother's prize and Miss Campbell's first grade won the picture for having the most mothers present. Mrs. S. C. Roby sang the beautiful solo, "Mother, Pal of My Childhood Days."

Ormewood P.-T. A. Sponsors Health Program

The Ormewood P.-T. A. held its meeting at the school, Friday afternoon. A splendid health program was given. Miss Cone, teacher of nutrition at the Girls' High school, gave a talk on "Nutrition of the School Child." This was followed by a talk on "Teeth," by Dr. R. M. Eubanks. Miss Alexander, supervisor of nurses, also talked on "Health."

Mrs. Stone, chairman of ways and means committee, reported $26.65 from the Halloween party. She told her plans for a candy pulling some time in November.

Mrs. Dalton, chairman of juvenile protection, gave a report of a recent meeting she attended of juvenile protection committees.

Mrs. Weyburn, chairman of family service, asked for clothes for the love chest.

The association voted to buy a set of the Quarles World books for the school.

A campaign for 100 per cent membership is on. The first class to have 100 per cent will be given $6 and the other classes will each be given $5 as it gets to 100 per cent.

A count of the mothers present was taken and the prize went to Miss Dover, low first grade, for the third consecutive time.

The sixth grade mothers served lunch to the faculty.

Pryor P.-T. A. Announces Program For Year

The program committee of the Pryor P.-T. A. has planned the following programs for the year 1925-26:

October, business meeting.
November, health, character and scholarships, Superintendent Sutton.
December, Christmas program, school.
January, citizenship, Mrs. R. L. Turman.
February, child welfare program.
March, equipment, R. R. Ritchie.
April, southern program, school.
May, business meeting, election of officers.

Girls High P.-T. A. Are Entertained By Student Body

The regular November meeting of the Girls' High School P.-T. A. was held Tuesday afternoon. The increased attendance was most gratifying and showed that the membership committee, under Mrs. R. P. Smith, is doing splendid work.

The executive board recommended that the association join the better films council and that $3 be given as a reward to the class having the most mothers present at each meeting. These recommendations were accepted. Mrs. Welchel's class was awarded the attendance prize at the October meeting and was the winning class at the November meeting.

Mrs. J. S. Boardman, citizenship chairman, urged every woman to register for future elections. Miss Muse announced that Miss Margaret Jackson of D-7 was winner of prize in a recent essay writing contest.

The outstanding feature of the meeting was the entertaining and instructive program by members of the student body, Miss Mary Tucker, president of Mallon society, presiding. She told of the different activities in the school and introduced the presidents of each. Miss Mary Broughton, unanimously elected head of student government, gave an interesting talk on student government; Miss Virginia Wilson outlined the purpose and work of the athletic club; Miss Fay Tilman, president of the bank, stated that over $1,500 had been deposited by the students this year; Miss Dorothy Lambert, an official of the school publications, set forth the fact that the Girls' High Times and the Annual are not only activities themselves, but promote all the other activities; Miss Montez Blackwell boosted the girls reserves, Camp Fire Girls and Junior Red Cross organizations; Miss Edith Walthall assured her hearers that the Dramatic club, now known as the Peter Pan Players, is the most important of all the Girls' High organizations.

The musical numbers of the Glee club and the Mandolin club were greatly enjoyed. Miss Moore sponsors the Mandolin club, of which Miss Mary Ellen Parks is president.

Williams Street P.-T. A. Meets.

The P.-T. A. of Williams Street school held its regular monthly meeting Thursday, November 19. Mrs. S. F. Herder, chairman of ways and means, announced that the Halloween party was a success and thanked the teachers and mothers for their wonderful cooperation. On motion of Mrs. Herder it was voted to give each class $2.50 to be used as the teachers saw fit.

Reports from the chairmen of the different committees were received with interest.

Mrs. Julia O'Keefe Nelson was introduced and after extending greetings to the mothers, refreshments were served and a social hour spent.

Spring Street P.-T. A. Meeting Featured by Chairmen Reports

The November meeting of Spring Street P.-T. A. was strictly a business meeting, a succession of reports. The first report was by Mrs. Guy King, Girl Scout chairman. Madeleine Provano received second place among the seven best letters written by Girl Scouts on the subject, "Why I Am a Girl Scout."

Mr. Barry, leader of troop No. 20, said that a new scout master, Mr. Coles, would be installed next week and praised the work that George Morton had accomplished as assistant scout master.

The various grade committee chairmen were called as follows: Mrs. C. N. Davie, Miss Adamson's sixth grade; Mrs. F. Vaughan, Mrs. Baumstark's sixth grade; Mrs. W. Parker, Miss Brown's fifth grade; Mrs. Nat Harrison, Miss Setze's fifth grade; Mrs. W. W. Alexander, Miss Womack's fourth grade; Mrs. Rockwell Johnson, Miss Ogilvy's fourth grade; Mrs. Perry Blackshear, Miss Penick's third grade; Mrs. W. W. Davidson, Mrs. Rayfield's third grade; Mrs. D. Hunt, Miss Harbin's second grade; Mrs. Paul Etheridge, Miss Dunwody's second grade; Mrs. T. K. Johnson, Miss Lovett's first grade; Mrs. Edwin Yancey, Miss Camp's first grade; Mrs. H. N. Kraft, Miss Landrum's kindergarten.

These chairmen reported their paid membership roll and three reported 100 per cent teeth; in Mrs. Baumstark's room first, then Miss Dunwody's room and the kindergarten. Mrs. Provano as membership chairman summed up the various reports, announcing 196 mothers and 114 fathers as members of the Spring Street P.-T. A. Mrs. Arthur Howell announced that 125 bottles of milk were being sold daily.

Mrs. W. R. C. Smith made an interesting report of the work of the better films committee, asked for a better patronage of the Saturday matinee, and reminded the mothers of the annual Christmas old clothes contribution which the better films committee always sponsors.

Miss Bennan urged a prompt attention to the matter of teeth certificates as only 40 more is needed to have 100 per cent for the whole school. Mrs. Mahoney thanked Mrs. G. Allen Camp for a wonderful slide for the playground.

A motion, indorsing a resolution passed by the P.-T. A. council for the suppression of salacious literature in Atlanta was made by Mrs. Yancey, seconded by Mrs. Davie and carried.

The daddies' meeting was announced for the second Wednesday in December, when Mr. Sutton will be the principal speaker.

Mrs. Baumstark's sixth grade won the matinee tickets, having the greatest number of mothers present, and also the picture for the upper grades. Miss Rayfield's third grade won the picture for the lower grades.

Joel C. Harris P.-T. A. Offers Picture Show

The regular monthly meeting of Joel Chandler Harris P.-T. A. was held Tuesday in the school auditorium. The president, Mrs. A. D. Gregory, announced the purchase of 200 additional chairs for the auditorium, thus providing ample accommodation for the growing attendance on the Friday night picture shows. This is a regular weekly show, well chaperoned and preceded by a program arranged by the school children.

Mrs. M. M. Burns, chairmah of pre-school circles, presented an interesting program, explaining details and departments of her work. Miss Bettie Withington read two numbers and little Jaquelline Gullatt appeared in interpretative dances. Both little girls delighted the audience.

The association indorsed the presentation of the Passion Play as announced by Mrs. R. K. Rambo, president of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs.

The president announced the appointmeht of Mrs. Reginald Knupp as vice chairman of the citizenship committee to assist Mrs. Glenn Corbett. This department which is combined with the illiteracy committee, made an excellent report. The association voted to take four illiteracy scholarships and voted $1 for the better films party at Christmas.

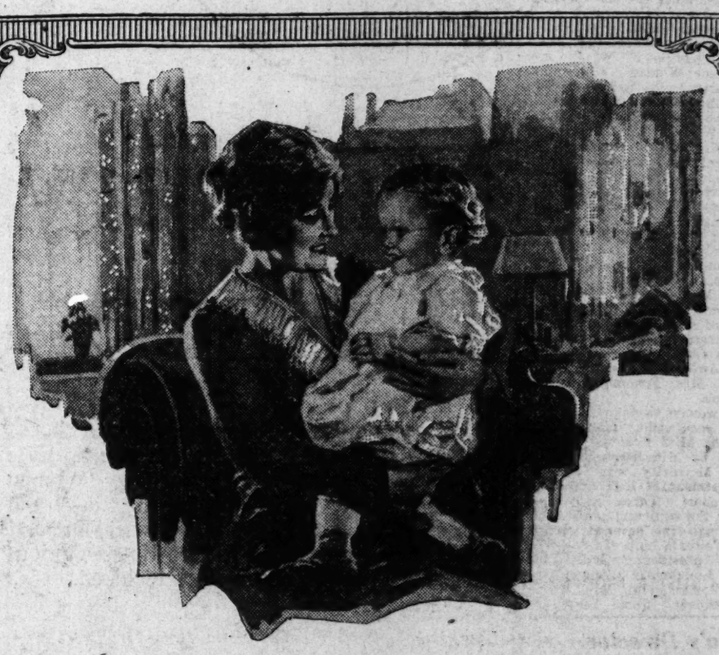
Announcement was made of a very successful Halloween carnival with proceeds amoulting to $122.75, and the purchase of new volley ball and basketballs, and a stereopticon attachment for use in school rooms with the picture machine. The class in interior decorating gave a display of their recent work and Miss Williamson, instructor, lectured briefly on the art of interior decoration.

The December meeting will be at night, especially honoring the daddies and urging them to become sustaining members of the association. A program will be prepared by the grade teachers.

O'Keefe Jr. High P.-T. A. Entertains.

H. G. Hastings, principal, and Miss Rusha Wesley, assistant principal, were the speakers at the tea given Friday, November 20, at O'Keefe Junior High to the eighth grade parents and teachers. Each teacher introduced himself and briefly explained his work. Mothers were asked to see that each child contributed one can of any variety of food as a Thanksgiving offering from O'Keefe to the Home for the Friendless. Mothers were requested, also, to please save Octagon soap wrappers for the school, as, with a small cash addition, the wrappers can be turned in and exchanged for flat silver.

Tea was later served from a table lovely with a Madeira cloth and silver vases of chrysanthemums.



MOTHERHOOD—

IT may be that the blessing of Motherhood is denied you because of physical weakness. In many cases this condition has been corrected by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

BABY OF MRS. FRANK DERBY RUTLAND, VERMONT

"I want to thank you for the help your wonder medicine has done me. I had one boy ten years old and we wanted another but the other children lived only a few hours. I was in a nervous, run down condition with some female weakness for at least two years. My sister bought the first bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for me seven years ago and as it had helped me then I began taking it again with Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine and the Liver Pills, while I was carrying this baby. He is a lovely healthy boy and of course I nurse him. I am in better health myself than I have ever been since I was married and I lay it all to Providence that guided me to take your medicine. I will be very glad to answer letters to any one I can help as I am so happy over my baby boy."

—Mrs. Frank Derby, 9 Clover St., Rutland, Vermont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. LYNN, MASS.

THIS PAGE HAS BEEN FOR A QUARTER OF A CENTURY THE OFFICIAL ORGAN OF TH E GEORGIA FEDERATION

GEORGIA STATE FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

ORGANIZED IN 1896—MEMBERSHIP 50,000—JOINED GENERAL FEDERATION IN 1896—MOTTO: "WISDOM, JUSTICE, MODERATION"—CLUB FLOWER: CHEROKEE ROSE

President, Mrs. A. P. Brantley, of Blackshear, Ga.; vice president at large, Mrs. A. H. Brenner, of Augusta; second vice president, Mrs. S. V. Sanford, of Athens, Ga.; recording secretary, Mrs. Oscar McKenzie, of Montezuma, Ga.; corresponding secretary, Mrs. G. P. Folks, Waycross, Ga.; treasurer, Mrs. Albert Hill, of Greenville, Ga.; parliamentarian, Miss Rosa Woodberry, of Atlanta, Ga.; editor, Mrs. Bessie Shaw Stafford; general federation director in Georgia, Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, of Atlanta, Ga.; Georgia Federation headquarters, Chamber of Commerce Bldg., Atlanta; national headquarters, 1734 N street, N. W., Washington, D C.

DISTRICT PRESIDENTS—First, Mrs. Charles Pigue, of Statesboro; second, Mrs. I. A. Heard, of Moultrie, Ga.; third, Mrs. D. C. Ketchum, of Vienna, Ga.; fourth, Mrs. Henry M. Bird, Bowdon, Ga.; fifth, Mrs. H. G. Hastings, Decatur, Ga.; sixth, Mrs. L. C. Warren, of Griffin, Ga.; seventh, Mrs. Oscar Peeples, of Cartersville; eighth, Mrs. Walter L. Hodges, of Hartwell, Ga.; ninth, Mrs. Hubert Yow, of Martin, Ga.; tenth, Mrs. W. B. Smith, of Tennille; eleventh, Mrs. E. Downer Dimmock, of Waycross, Ga.; twelfth, Mrs. C. H. Kittrell, of Dublin, Ga.

7th District Executive Board Convened in Rome Last Week

BY BELL BAYLESS

Of more than usual interest and import was the meeting of the executive board of the seventh district, Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, which convened in the parlors of the Hotel Forrest, Rome, Wednesday, November 18, Mrs. Oscar T. Peeples, district president, presided with her usual ease and efficiency, calling the assembly to order at 10:30 a. m. After an invocation by Rev. John Wood, pastor of the Christian church, and singing of "America, the Beautiful," by Miss Miriam Reynolds, chairman of music, Mrs. J. Lindsay Johnson, president of the Rome Woman's club, read the beautiful club collect, also extending a welcome to the visiting club women.

Assuring her hearers that a board meeting was not a convention, therefore less formal, and that this was distinctly a business gathering, Mrs. Peeples called Mrs. C. B. McGarity, the vice president, to the chair and gave her report of district activities since the convention in May, also presenting the word expected of clubs of the seventh by state and general federations. This district was well represented at the state convention at Tallulah Falls in June; the president has attended board meetings and visited several clubs in the district. As to finances, she recommended an increase in quota for maintenance for Tallulah Falls schools, completion of Ella F. White memorial fund, and Georgia's $800 contribution to general federation headquarters in Washington city. Citizenship should be taken more seriously; laws should be studied; music should have its place at every club meeting—the general federation urges memorizing the old hymns (Miss Reynolds called attention to the song booklet issued by G. F. W. C.), and the necessity of getting out some form of club directory which would contain names of all clubs in the district and their members. Closer cooperation between clubs and district treasurer is necessary, especially giving and preserving receipts for many paid-for dues, etc. Help for rural schools is a vital need, visiting sponsors, gifts of Bibles, dictionaries, books. The benefit of health clinics cannot be overestimated, and calling on state welfare and health boards for literature, speakers and other assistance should become a habit. Good roads, of course, with a uniform style of culverts and small bridges. Patriotic observances, better homes with all it implies. Attention was called to the handsome silver loving cup donated by Mrs. H. J. Smith, of Dalton Woman's club, for junior organization, with the hope that the seventh might win the cup; also a prize of $5 offered by Mrs. Hollingsworth, Dalton Woman's club for a literary contest, the subject to be announced later. Two new chairmen were named, Mrs. G. C. Greene, of Smyrna, patriotic observances, and Mrs. Ralph W. Northcutt, of Marietta, library extension.

Introduces Members.

The president requested the assembly to rise for a moment of silent prayer, in memory of Miss Mabel Cortelyou, whose splendid earthly life had been ended since the last meeting. She introduced several whom the clubs delight to honor—Mrs. J. Lindsay Johnson, ex-state president and director for life, Georgia F. W. C., and president Rome Woman's club; Mrs. C. B. McGarity, vice president, and president Dallas Woman's club; Miss Emma Crabb, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. F. Collar, recording secretary; Mrs. Claude Irby, ex-district president, and president Kingston History club; Mrs. Irby Sheats, president Bartow County federation—and announced the following committees: Credentials, Mrs. J. W. Jones, Mrs. Awtry; resolutions, Mrs. B. T. Morgan, Mrs. Peter Burke, Mrs. S. H. Sibly; lunch, Mrs. Head; health, Mrs. Trumbo; parliamentary practice, Mrs. Collar, Mrs. Garrett. The corresponding secretary was requested to send a note of sympathy to Mrs. J. G. B. Irwin, president of the Calhoun club, who is very sick in a hospital; also to acknowledge regrets from Mrs. M. E. Judd, Mrs. Trumbo and Miss Carrie Greene.

The club women were favored with a delightful vocal solo, "Hark, Hark, the Lark," by Miss Frances Randall, accompanied by Miss Reynolds, after which Mrs. McGarity, who is active in her department of club extension, gave her report. Three new clubs have entered the state and general federations through the seventh district this year—Feltonia club, Taylorsville, Mrs. Davis president; Eton Civic league, Mrs. Loughridge president, and Kennesaw Woman's club, Mrs. Roland Russon president. Some rearrangements are being made in Smyrna, the Social, Shakespeare and Woman's clubs combining in one larger organization. She stressed the value of rural clubs, mentioned one in Polk county; spoke of Sugar Valley and other as yet unfederated clubs, and used the slogan "Each club organize one new club." Mrs. McGarity called special attention to the junior work, giving the four divisions, but suggesting the first two as more practical for small towns. Though they pay no dues, nor do they vote, junior divisions are credited to the older clubs in the cup competition, which is based on a ratio of clubs in each district, not total membership.

Miss Crabb urged that at the next election the corresponding secretary be chosen from the same town as the president. This would facilitate business and curtail expenses. Miss Crabb, the president stated, had been invaluable to her in the district work, writing, telephoning and otherwise filling her office.

Mrs. H. J. Smith, chairman community service, told of taking active part in the bond election the previous day, when by a vote of 2,400 to 40 Whitfield county voted $400,000 for highway construction. Mrs. Smith also gave practical suggestions as to time devoted to reading club reports at district conventions. Three minutes is not enough to tell all the achievements of an active club.

Speaking from experience as presiding officer, Mrs. Irby said that when time had been carefully apportioned, allowing every moment possible for chairmen and clubs, as well as regular business and information brought by state officers, for one delegate to overstep her time on the floor was not only discourteous to the presiding officer but to all others who were deprived of their privilege to speak.

The press chairman suggested that if all club reports were sent to her at least 10 days before a district meeting they might perhaps all be printed on one sheet and distributed to all delegates for careful study and comparison at home, then a brief outline and greeting could be expressed to the assembly within the allotted time.

Mrs. Bailey, chairman of forestry, urged every club to put on at least one forestry program during the year, materials for which may be obtained from Lillian T. Rabler, U. S. government department forestry, Washington, D. C. Calling attention to the desert and barren wastes of China, she prophesied equal distress for the United States unless a halt is called on the present timber destruction, as we are using it at a rate four times as fast as nature can regrow the forests. Public sentiment must be roused to this threatened lumber famine.

Miss Reynolds gave interesting and valuable suggestions as to the place of music in club life.

Mrs. L. M. Awtry, whose admirable display of arts and crafts was so much admired at Calhoun, requested clubs to plan for an enlarged display for her department at the spring convention. She told of the Acworth guild, whose only dues were two garments given to the poor.

Mrs. B. T. Morgan's report on illiteracy received sympathetic attention. She has visited several clubs, speaking on her topic, and has plans to cover the district during the winter. This is a work that practically every club is giving thought and assistance to, and by 1930 it is hoped the stigma of illiteracy may be removed from Georgia.

Mrs. J. K. Ottley, president of the board of trustees, Tallulah Falls school, and Mrs. Howard McCall, life director, arrived just as the session adjourned for luncheon and were presented to the members. At least 50 women were seated at the long table spread in the hotel dining room. Formal toasts and introductions were omitted in favor of general conversation during the meal, at the close of which Mrs. Peeples, in introducing Mrs. Farrar, chairman of Tallulah, voiced her enthusiastic support of the institution, and satisfaction at the appearance of the institution, the Georgia Federation being the only one in the world to own such a property.

Mrs. Farrar pleaded for support and increased maintenance fund, ere she presented Mrs. Ottley, who, with the enthusiasm which has never slackened since her initial participation at the beginning and close association with those unselfish women who evolved the idea of a school along suitable lines for the boys and girls of the mountains. She presented the school in three phases, as a business proposition, an inspirational institution, with a personal appeal, and as a property of value to the federation and its individual members.

Briefly did she describe her impressions of the first school, the ugliest building she ever saw, perched on the hillside, and contrasted the even beautiful and artistic buildings which were dedicated during the state convention, the Hallelujah day, when the special train bearing the governor and his wife, the vice president of the Southern Railway, officers and executive board of the federation and at least 500 delegates and visitors took part in the ceremony.

Coming to finances, Mrs. Ottley stated that the $30,000 endowment fund was completed; the $100,000 improvement had been taken care of; therefore, there remained for the clubs only the annual maintenance, $3,500, to be raised.

The seventh district might almost be termed the starting point of club life in Georgia, with its Lesche, of Dalton, organized in 1890; Cherokee, Cartersville, 1895, the same year as the state federation; History club, Kingston, 1900; Calhoun Woman's club, 1902, while the Rome club was organized before the state federation. It is one of the strong districts of the state.

While all clubs are constantly pressed to take part in various enterprises, Mrs. Ottley quoted this maxim: "Hoe your own row first. Take care of your own school before you add new work for your club."

Tallulah School.

Of course the war interrupted the Tallulah enlargement, still the record of the seventh is as follows:

	1922-23	'23-'24	6 mos. '24-'25
Improvement	...$187.25	$188.50	$136.50
Endowment	.... 124.71	34.00	12.00
Maintenance	.... 125.00	130.00	125.00
Scholarship	....	100.00	.....
Total	.....$436.06	$457.52	$283.50

Total for three years, $1,277.96 (about $1 per capita).

The $1,100 bonds promised by Mr. Flournoy will be added to this later.

Now, as Greater Tallulah is finished, as there remains but the maintenance fund to be raised, the trustees are asking the clubs to double their annual contribution for this purpose, which will still be less than half what has been raised for the three funds. This will pay the expenses of the federation's own school without calling for outside help.

Being distant from all club centers, Tallulah carries the opportunity of unselfish endeavor for every club in Georgia to keep alive this Light in the Mountain, where under its incomparable principal, Miss Nannie Davis, these children are reared in an atmosphere of harmony, as well as scholarship, and industry inculcated from the beginning. Leaving with her audience the Biblical text, "Working together with God for good," for this concrete idea, the speaker concluded by inviting the clubwomen to visit their school, stop in the cottage built by the trustees and see for themselves the workings of the heart of the federation.

Mrs. Howard McCall, as trustee, gave a few human interest touches to the school motif. At first the federation settled on education for its main line of endeavor, from the kindergarten to the university, but later concluded to concentrate on community service, hence the school. She mentioned several children who were scholarship girls, told of one girl graduate who went on to the University at Athens, and finished at the head of her class. She told of the devotion and self-sacrifice of Mrs. Lipscomb and Mrs. Willett, the latter often bringing children to Atlanta for treatment, using her own home for a hospital. As an American patriot, entrusted with the upbringing of these future citizens, Mrs. McCall warned all clubwomen against certain persons who, posing as lecturers, are really circulating seditious propaganda, ridiculing the American flag and uniform under the guise of "freedom," and seeking to undermine the very foundations of our country.

As one who early entered club work, Mrs. McCall said she wished she might be several women, to include such splendid character as Mrs. McCabe, Mrs. Nellie Peters Black and others who have passed on, and be like our beloved Mrs. J. Lindsay Johnson, who has "taught and trained us all."

Mrs. J. A. Rounsaville, who also was associated with the club pioneers, in a very graceful speech, assured the club women that, as a fact, they were all these great and good women, and many others, for the spirit of their work had entered into and remained with every club woman in Georgia.

Mrs. Peeples made the out-of-town club women acquainted with their Rome coworkers, Mrs. Shaw, president woman's auxiliary of the chamber of commerce; Mrs. Lanier, president P.-T. A., and L. W. V.; Mrs. Rounsaville, regent, D. A. R.; Mrs. Alex Harris, juvenile court.

The afternoon session was necessarily brief, consisting of club reports. Acworth, Mrs. McLain reported remodelling the clubhouse, purchasing new piano and furniture, sponsoring five schools, planting three memorial trees on club grounds; Austell, Mrs. Collar, public library of 300 volumes, clubhouse loaned for night school for factory employees, also parties, quilting bees and other community interests; Adairsville Woman's club gave more than $500 to purchase opera seats for the new school auditorium, a bronze tablet being placed beside the stage acknowledging the gift; Marietta has $1,600 toward a clubhouse, held a cooking school, dressmaking classes, with other Cobb county clubs assisted in work of county fair; Smyrna has been given three acres on which to erect a clubhouse, observed Armistice day and other patriotic celebrations; Dalton Woman's Club put on a cooking school, conducted by Mrs. Dull, which was highly successful and profitable, observed Armistice day, with Robert Troutman for chief speaker, maintains a library in the Robert Loveman home, its clubhouse, which has been remodeled; Rockmart, Mrs. Jones has reduced debt on clubhouse, paid for paving, put on a play, held chrysanthemum show, served dinners to men's organizations every month; Cherokee, Cartersville, Mrs. J. W. Jones, amid other activities, social teas, school sponsoring, etc., assisted the Rotarians and others in conducting the free clinic for school children in August; Dallas, Mrs. Bird specializes in patriotic observances, held Armistice day program, Hon. Dean Owens, of Rome, chief speaker, holds social teas in club room, had charge of woman's department of county fair; History club, Kingston, Mrs. Irby entertained Bartow county federation, 87 women seated at luncheon, inaugurated movement to have highway bridge across Etowah river made a memorial to world war soldiers, suitably marked with bronze tablets; Bartow county federation, Mrs. Sheats roused public interest in pauper farm, resulting in many improvements.

Mrs. Morgan, chairman, presented a number of resolutions, among them the following: Resolved, That the executive board of the seventh district, Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, protests against the exportation of the marvelous relics being excavated from the Tumlin mounds and other places in Georgia, and urges the governor to take speedy action to stop such exportation.

Georgia's Director Issues Open Letter

Georgia finds herself in rather an unhappy position regarding her debt of something over $800. Perhaps some of the clubs do not understand, and as the director is now asking for help, an explanation follows. At chautauqua the delegation subscribed $3,000 to the buying and furnishing general federation headquarters. This seemer posible, for our state to do, many states did more than this, and the delegation felt that this sum could be raised. Two thousand dollars was raised and sent on. The council was coming to Atlanta and Georgia didn't want the council to come with a thousand dollars still due on Georgia's pledge, so the money was borrowed from the bank on the indorsement of individuals. Georgia's pledge paid, and the visitors welcomed, with the knowledge that our pledge had been met.

The money to meet this note has not been forthcoming as we had wished it might, and we now owe $800 (in round numbers) on this note, beside keeping up the interest. Our president is extremely anxious that we meet this indebtedness at once, clear the slate, and be ready to go on with our further club work, without this debt hanging over us. We have finished our greater Tallulah now, lets make the heart of the president glad by including in our budget for this year a sum sufficient to wipe out this indebtedness at once. A small sum from each club in the state will do the work. Your director earnestly requests that such sum be set aside for the payment of this note and that when we go to Augusta in May we will not have this indebtedness because every club in the state has had some part in wiping it out.

MRS. ALONZO RICHARDSON,
Director.

Tallulah School Is Subject of District Meeting

Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick is telling the story of the greater Tallulah to many clubs and club women through the second and third districts.

The federation's mountain school was the subject of discussion at the luncheon hour at the second district convention in Cairo, on November 4, and as many outside guests were present on that occasion, Mrs. Fitzpatrick's story of Georgia clubdom's great achievement reached a large audience. As usual, the story of their school, as brought by Mrs. Fitzpatrick, was received with great enthusiasm.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick is spending a few days in Quitman as the guest of Mrs. T. W. Hunter. She will address the Quitman Woman's club at one of its early meetings under its new president, Mrs. Albert Sheffield.

On November 18, Mrs. Fitzpatrick told the club women of the third district about their school at their convention at Montezuma and will visit a number of clubs in that district. On these visits Mrs. Fitzpatrick brings an official message direct to the club women of Georgia from the trustees of their school who are doing the detail and executive work of the school in club women's behalf and feel that the story of what is really being accomplished by Georgia club women should reach the ears of the individual women in the individual club. So far as possible Mrs. Fitzpatrick will bring this fascinating story to clubs without any cost to them. She can be reached, care of Mrs. J. K. Ottley, Atlanta.

A recent visit to Toccoa as the guest of Stephens County Federation, was an occasion of great interest and Brunswick will soon hold a special meeting in her honor.

Prominent Clubwoman

Mrs. J. A. Dyar, ex-president of Royston Woman's club, who during her three years of service as president made Royston one among the best clubs in the Georgia federation. At present she is serving as legislative chairman for her home club, first vice president of Franklin County federation and eighth district chairman of friendly relations with ex-service men. She is also a member of the Georgia Press association, being local editor of The Royston Record, who took the Georgia editors through the Tallulah Falls school on their recent press trip. Photograph by Stephenson studio.

Grace Sees the Great World In Company With Miss LaVerne

Clubwomen are always interested in the success of their great friend, Lucile LaVerne, the star of the mountain play, "Sun-Up," which has made her famous as well as its author, Lula Vollmer. An added interest in Sun-Up and Miss LaVerne comes to us through little Grace Taylor, who went after four years at Tallulah Falls school, to be Miss LaVerne's little girl. She is now with her in London, where the play has made a very great success, as may be judged from the graphic little letter which has just reached her sister, Annie, who by the way, holds the Donna Cappie Lewis Stone scholarship, presented to the school, by Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Stone, in honor of their daughter, now Mrs. Thomas Rippey.

Helen and Gertrude to whom Grace alludes in the letter to Annie, are also students at the school. Helen is now doing collegiate work at Berea college and will return to teach crafts at Tallulah school. Roberta and Reed are a younger brother and sister, who will doubtless come on to Tallulah Falls later, and Felton is an older brother.

London, England

Dear Annie:

Received your letter and was so glad to hear from you. I have written to Helen and told her most of the news. How are Roberta and Reed? When did you hear from Felton and where is he? Tell Gertrude I would like to hear from her. The crown prince of Greece had a box at the theater the other night and came back to mother's dressing room and told her she was the greatest living artist on the stage. Said he had seen all the great actresses of the time, and none surpassed her. Lord Astor is bringing the ex-queen and king of Greece to see mother's play tonight. Annie you know they were dethroned and the king's nephew who married the daughter of the queen of Rumania, ascended the throne. The queen of Rumania also came to see mother's play with Lady Astor. I was where I could see her, but of course, could not take me into the royal box when she was presented to the queen. Mother presented her with a large bunch of orchid lilies. She thanked mother graciously for the flowers, and mother said: "I am honored, your majesty, that you accept them." The queen lifted her hand and said, "The honor is mine." She told mother that no actress had ever thrilled her as mother's performance of "Mrs. Cagle" did. The king and queen of Belgium came to Lady Curzon's wedding and go to see "Sun-Up" tonight.

Your loving sister,
GRACE TAYLOR LAVERNE.

It is very evident that with all Grace's interest in royalty in her mind always "the play's the thing." So much for being the companion of an artist.

Fitzgerald Club Stages Flower Show and Awards Prizes

Fitzgerald, Ga., November 21—. In what is perhaps the most successful attempt the Fitzgerald Woman's club is this afternoon holding their annual chrysanthemum show, at 111 South Grant street. While the many beautiful chrysanthemums hold the center of attraction, one's attention is drawn to the lovely paintings, by local talent, and the wonderful displays of decorated china.

This year has been one of the hardest in which to grow any flowers, much harder, however, to grow those which take many months to perfect. The chrysanthemum must be planted not later than February, and then nursed through the long summer months, but despite the severe drouth of this summer today's show reveals the fact that persistent endeavor will ultimately succeed.

While primarily a Ben Hill county show, the Woman's club, as has heretofore been the custom, invited other counties to exhibit with them, with the result that today Ben Hill, Wilcox and Irwin counties are vieing one with the other for the honors with Mrs. G. W. Harrington, of this city, leading, with four blue ribbons and three red ribbons. Mrs. P. H. Paulk came second with two blue ribbons and two red ribbons, and Mrs. C. S. Clements won third honors with one blue ribbon and one red ribbon.

The two large display windows of the building were used as display windows for the decorated china, the one on the left (entering), was decorated by Mrs. Frank G. Clark, and the other by Mrs. W. A. Newsome.

In the background of the room was a display featuring children's books and "National Children's Book week," placed there by Miss Louise Smith and her assistant on behalf of the local liberary.

The walls of the building were literally covered with many works of art, all from the brushes of local talent. These were drawing much attention from the visitors and they were excellent additions to the beautiful flowers forming a wonderful background and setting for the show.

While there were many entries the judges were instructed to select only those qualified for blue and red ribbons. Their report to the club is as follows: White, first, Mrs. D. H. Paulk, Ocilla; second, Mrs. G. W. Harrington, Fitzgerald; yellow, first, Mrs. W. M. Rawlins, Fitzgerald; second, Mrs. G. W. Harrington, Fitzgerald; bronze, first, Mrs. S. C. Clements, Rochelle; second, Mrs. J. A. Evans, Fitzgerald; red, first, Mrs. J. A. Jones, Fitzgerald; second, Mrs. C. S. Clements, Rochelle; pink, first, Mrs. G. W. Harrington, Fitzgerald; second, Mrs. D. E. Paulk, Ocilla; cream, first, Mrs. G. W. Harrington, Fitzgerald; second, Mrs. G. W. Harrington, Fitzgerald; most attractive basket, first, Mrs. D. H. Paulk, Ocilla; second, Mrs. J. B. Seanor, Fitzgerald; most perfect bloom, first, Mrs. G. W. Harrington, Fitzgerald; second, Mrs. D. H. Paulk, Ocilla; dahlias, first, Mrs. G. W. Harrington, Fitzgerald; second, Mrs. J. B. Seanor, Fitzgerald; roses, first, Mrs. R. A. Majors, Fitzgerald; second, Mrs. R. J. Spell, Fitzgerald.

Those displaying works of art were Mesdames F. G. Clark, Modina Rogers, Jesse Powell, W. A. Newsome, Viola Palmer, D. W. Paulk, G. E. Ricker, C. M. Wise and Sidney Clare.

Baconton Woman's Club Appoints Tallulah Committee

The Baconton Woman's club had its first meeting for the new year, October 21.

An interesting program on Edgar Guest was given. Quite a number of his poems were given and two of his articles from American Magazine were discussed. After this pencils and paper were passed to each guest and they were asked to write an original poem. The one writing the best poem was presented with a copy of Edgar Guest poems.

Miss Patti Jackson and Mrs. W. B. Cochran rendered several musical selections.

At this meeting each lady brought magazines and books for a shower for the school. The ladies were enthusiastic for getting more work done so agreed to double their dues. It was decided to have a definite committee for the Tallulah Falls school. Mrs. R. M. Tiller was made chairman of this committee. After this we had an enjoyable social hour, the hostess serving pecan rolls and coffee.

Manchester Woman's Club Holds Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's club was held on Friday, November 6, at the home of Mrs. H. R. McLarty with a splendid attendance, about 50 ladies being present.

Mrs. Fowler Allen, Mrs. M. L. Gibson and Mrs. A. B. Smith were joint hostesses. The rooms were very attractive with bowls and vases of lovely flowers. The secretary being detained no minutes were read.

The clubhouse committee reported through their chairman, Mrs. J. B. Winslow, that a committee from Kiwanis and "Entre Nous" had met with them to formulate plans looking toward the building of a community house. No definite plans have been made as yet.

The penny-a-day chairman asked all who wished to be members to let her know. Mrs. Byrd had written to the club and the letter was read; it asked for a district better homes committee. The civic committee was asked to make a report to the district forestry committee about the planting of flowers and shrubbery. Mrs. J. S. Peters, Mrs. Walter Roberts, Mrs. R. A. Chastain and Mrs. J. L. Jackson were a committee appointed to plan for a way to make Tallulah Falls funds. This finished the business meeting and the program leader took charge. Mrs. Winslow's subject was our beloved southern poet, Frank L. Stanton. A sketch of his life was given by Mrs. Chastain; a poem by Mrs. Winslow and Barbara Davis gave an excellent reading, "Sweethearts."

Mrs. Kellogg Issues Official Letter to District President

Mrs. W. C. Kellogg, department chairman for applied education for the state federation, wrote the following letter to the district presidents:

"Will you please send me the names and addresses of the chairmen of the department and division of applied education in your district? Will you ask each one to communicate with the general federation chairman of the division she is connected with for programs and bulletins, also Gneeral Federation headquarters, 1734 North street, Washington, D. C.

"Will you ask each one to communicate with each club in the district? Ask the clubs to cooperate with the schools and communities in celebrating American education week, November 16-20.

"Have all the clubs in your district hold meetings and make special plans to bring forward all phases of our educational work: Tallulah Falls, students' aid, gift and business scholarships, rural schools, consolidated schools, placing special emphasis on the eradication of illiteracy. I am suggesting the use of posters, special programs, inspiration talks by local speakers, stereopticons and movies wherever such are available, or any method that will arouse and promote the interest of education. We plan to make the observance of this week annual.

"Wonderful programs and bulletins may be obtained from the department of the interior, bureau of education, Washington, D. C.

"Mrs. Plummer in her message at the biennial council asks that we concentrate on the following: (1) Elimination of illiteracy; (2) Creation of a department of education with a secretary of education in the president's cabinet; (3) Conservation of our natural resources; (4) Education in rural districts; (5) Natural science and nature education; (6) State federation scholarship loans.

"So much for general work. But each community has its special needs, and such branches of the department must be chosen by each as appeal specially to the community.

"The better home campaign is going on with greater enthusiasm than ever. Much interesting literature and programs on this subject may be secured from headquarters at Washington.

"Hoping great things for your district this season, I am,

"LOUBELLE K. KELLOGG,
"Chairman Applied Education, G. F. W. C."

Third District's Important Meeting

The third district meeting at Montezuma November 16 and 17 was marked by outstanding features, reported by the several clubs. A detailed report will be forwarded by the press representative, but a few outstanding achievements so impressed your director that she cannot refrain from calling attention to them. The election of Mrs. R. E. Lee, of Fitzgerald, as president was a wise move for the district, as was the election of other officers who will support Mrs. Lee. She has served as vice president, taking the reins when Mrs. Ketchum resigned to live in Florida.

The meeting not only was a most pleasant one, but was far reaching in its inspiration to the clubs of the district. That the clubs had received from general headquarters all help asked for, and this sent as promptly as mail could come, was of course most grateful to the director. Dawson reports the development of a real reporter, a most efficient press and publicity chairman, due to the help given from the instruction sent out by Mrs. Lessie Stringfellow Reid, national chairman of press and publicity.

A most forward step in club information was reported by the Dawson club in the finding and subscribing to the magazine best suited to each department, this magazine sent to the chairman of that department, used by her in connection with her work, and at the end of the year these magazines becoming a part of the club reference library.

That club grounds and school grounds could be improved with practically no expense was brought out by the Marshallville club when the report was made that in our woods could be found the most beautiful evergreens and shrubs, which transplanted and cultivated made the trip to the florist's entirely unnecessary.

The meeting in the evening was held in the beautiful little club house, those in the day held at the Methodist church. The address by Senator George on "State Consciousness" was the feature of the evening meeting. The senator outlined such an educational policy as to cause those present to realize that Georgia had still some problems which she must think clear through, and set about solving.

The music furnished by the hostess club was unusual in its beauty. Mrs. Fitzpatrick was present and presented Tallulah Falls school. The director made a plea for the general federation. The fact that Mrs. J. E. Hays and Mrs. Oscar McKenzie, both Montezuma women who hold national and state honors, were among the hostesses of the occasion is proof positive of the success of the third district meeting. The reports from all clubs showed progress. The next meeting will be in Ashburn.

Delightful social features characterized the sincere hospitality of the little city.

MRS. ALONZO RICHARDSON,
Director.

A Thanksgiving Message From Tallulah Falls School

All federated clubwomen have great cause for thankfulness for the great blessings which have come to their school during the year, and for the gratification of knowing that through the enlarged school, so much more help will be given to so many more helpless ones. "The light in the mountains" is casting its rays three times as far this Thanksgiving day as it ever was able to do before. For the expanded plant of the Greater Tallulah has 100 persons living comfortably in the home where 30 were crowded in before. Seven splendid, substantial buildings of unusual beauty, with electric lights, good heat and water supply and adequate, though not complete equipment, make a plant of which federated clubwomen have every right to be proud. Our faculty in school and various shops and work rooms number 10 persons. There are about 200 pupils, of whom about 100 live in the home. The health of the school is our greatest cause for thankfulness. In the 10 years of Miss Davis' principalship, the school has not needed a doctor more than two or three times. When necessary, we are ably served by the resident physician of our good neighbor, the Georgia Railway and Power company, to whom we are indebted to the gift of all our lights and many other substantial benefits.

We are thankful for many other good neighbors. Mayor J. E. Harvey not only helps the school materially, but adds much to its pleasures by sending his trucks to take the children on various excursions. Other kind friends are too numerous to mention.

Clubwomen have cause to be thankful that they need make no more gifts for expansion under Greater Tallulah, nor for endowment, as the first $30,000 of the Mary Ann Lipscomb fund has been completed. Therefore, all their school gifts are to be directed to maintaining the enlarged school plant, which they have worked so hard in the past three years to create.

Single-shot on maintenance is good news, indeed, and clubs are responding gladly with doubled and trebled gifts, which, even so, are not more than they have been giving to the three school causes. A part of this maintenance is scholarships, and a number of clubs are asking community help and raising $100 or $135 or $150, for each of these sums will maintain a child according to different children's power to help themselves. It feels fine to know a child is getting a chance in life because you have cared enough to ask some friends to help!

Another cause for club thankfulness is that the trustees of the school have secured the consent of Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick to visit as many individual clubs as she can during this club year and tell the full membership of these clubs the real story of their own school. The leaders in clubwork know something about their school, but the beauty of the enterprise consists in the fact of its ownership by every one of the "least of these" in federated club life. Mrs. Fitzpatrick's message will bring the story which is a fascinating one, to the individual clubwomen in the individual club. Clubs wanting a wonderful inspirational program should write Mrs. Fitzpatrick promptly, as she is making many engagements. She may be safely addressed, care of Mrs. John K. Ottley, Peachthree road, Atlanta.

The children's greatest thanksgiving this half-year will be the completion of a well-equipped laundry. A bright, sunny, warm room on the ground floor, with good equipment, is a vast improvement over washing in an iron pot out-of-doors these nipping days.

For the trustees, the greatest single joy lies in the completion of their gift of the charming guest house, which they have built for the proper entertainment of the guests of our school. Mrs. Bolling Jones, as chairman of this enterprise, has secured a real asset for the school.

As chairman of the Greater Tallulah, I am thankful for many things, but most of all, that pure water is running in every part of the plant.

MRS. JOHN K. OTTLEY,
President, Board of Trustees, Tallulah Falls Ind. School, Inc.

Tallulah Crafts Suggested For 1925 Christmas Presents

Fans, coverlets, handbags, all make beautiful Christmas gifts and this season our mountain weavers have made some charming small laprobes, suitable for use in a closed car or for one person in any car. They are in beautiful colors and designs, each one being an original and as they are all wool they are delightfully warm and light. Price, $8.00. These may be obtained from school and seen by phoning Mrs. Ottley. For one's own use or as gifts these laprobes are unequalled. Pretty enough and light enough to carry on your arm into the movies and warm enough to keep the wearer of short dresses warm on that cold ride home after the show is over.

Mountain pottery, colored by school artists are wired for electric lamps and will make another attractive gift. Some beautiful jars of same pottery are obtainable.

Albany Woman's Club Plays Part in City's Advancement

Much has been said of the men's civic bodies of Albany with regards to their deeds of charity and upbuilding, and movements they have sponsored for the development of the community in material, physical and moral ways, but there has been more or less silence concerning the many acts attributable to the women's organizations.

Giving all these things in detail is not the purpose of this story, but it is intended to give credit where credit is due and too much cannot be said of the splendid results obtained by the women of Albany, and the marvelous results they have achieved in a hundred movements and works in which the only return to themselves was the consciousness of work well done and the satisfaction resultant upon the knowledge of having accomplished something toward the upbuilding of a community.

Women's Activities.

The activities of the various women's organizations have been many and the list is growing constantly. One of the latest in which they all engaged was the sponsoring of the Fire Prevention week program, and another occasion on which they rendered yeoman service was the entertainment of the United Confederate veterans upon the holding of their annual reunion here during this month. Study for self improvement is constant, and is supplemented with study of civic problems, both local, state and national, questions of ethics and morals, questions concerning one of the things nearest the woman's heart, children and their education, questions of all kinds that are to be found in the life and progress of a great community, a great state, and a great nation. These are found in the daily lives and the regular meetings, programs and works of the various women's organizations, but only a small portion of them have been named.

The women of Albany have been weighed in the balance times innumerable, but not once have they been found lacking. Their dainty footfalls echo with the men's as one in the march of progress, and in many cases they lead the way for the men, the bonsted leaders, to follow. A short sketch of the clubs in the Albany Federation of Women's Clubs follow, with the names of the present officeholders in the various organizations comprising that body.

The Albany Woman's Club was organized April 26, 1911, during the annual session of the Georgia Chautauqua. By courtesy of the chautauqua managers an afternoon was given to the clubs of the second Georgia district, and the district vice president, Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, arranged an instructive program in which visiting club women and state officers participated. Immediately after these exercises a call for organization was made and 50 names were given in as desiring membership in the Albany Woman's Club.

The club began its work with the following officers: Mrs. B. M. Wilson, president; Mrs. W. L. Davis, vice president; Mrs. David Brown, second vice president; Mrs. W. E. Rowsey, recording secretary; Mrs. A. W. Muse, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. T. M. Nelson, treasurer. Mrs. Wilson resigned four days after her election owing to illness in her family. The presidents who have succeeded in regular order are: Mrs. W. L. Davis, Mrs. David Brown, Mrs. W. C. Holt, Mrs. I. J. Hofmayer, Mrs. W. E. Rowsey, Mrs. William E. Smith, Mrs. J. W. Elder, Mrs. S. H. Jones, Mrs. T. B. Graves, Mrs. D. H. Redfearn, Mrs. George A. McArthur, and Mrs. H. H. Perry.

The club joined the national federation in 1915. The membership at present is close to 150 and it is organized into the following departments and committees: Study circle, music, education, child welfare, health, domestic science, library extension, citizenship and civics, hospitality, house, year book, scrap book and membership. Three volumes of scrap books contain records with dates of every club meeting and event in which the club has been active since its organization.

It is impossible to estimate the splendid work accomplished through these departments for the uplift of humanity at home and abroad. Appreciating the power for good which the Woman's club has exercised in the community, the City of Albany provided a spacious and beautiful club room for the exclusive use of its members in the Municipal Auditorium when it was constructed in 1916. This room served for all club meetings until the Federation of Women's Clubs of Albany when the clubhouse now in use was obtained. It has been the scene of many charming social affairs given in honor of prominent visitors to Albany.

On the evening of January 18, 1917, Madame Sarah Bernhardt, who was on a triumphant tour of the United States for the relief of her native France, received the members of the clubs and presented them with her autographed greeting, written on the club's stationery. This has been framed and is a highly prized memento of one of the world's greatest women.

Wednesday, October 28, 1914, was the day of days in the early history of the organization, according to a history of the club, for on that evening the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs was welcomed by the city of Albany and its various organizations as their honored guests.

To mention all of the great causes sponsored by this organization under the wise leadership of the officers who have served it so faithfully is impossible, but as a result of their labors and the splendid women who compose the membership the Albany Woman's club occupies a high place in the affairs of Albany and is known throughout the state as an organization that has achieved in abundant measure a farreaching influence for good.

The names of the present officers of the Albany Woman's club are: Mrs. H. H. Perry, president; Mrs. J. M. Patterson, first vice president; Mrs. G. W. Urbanneck, second vice president; Mrs. I. A. Rosenberg, treasurer; Mrs. Elliott Muse, recording secretary, and Mrs. B. L. Jenkins, corresponding secretary.—Albany Herald.

Fine Arts Club Meets In Tennille.

The Fine Arts club of Tennille met November 11, 1925, at the home of the president, Mrs. W. B. Smith. Meeting opened with silent prayer for the boys who fought in the world war, and for the welfare of our country. Mrs. Owen Adams reported that it was "Book week," and urged all mothers and teachers to help children form the habit of reading good books. She is heartily in favor of the custom of the family reading circle being revived. Virginia Stephens was appointed chairman of publicity. Mrs. Roy Smith was appointed chairman of

LAST LEGAL FIGHT FOR BOYS BEGINS

First move in the eleventh-hour fight to be waged to save the lives of Ted Coggeshall and Floyd McClelland, sentenced to death for the murder of Professor W. C. Wright, aged Putnam county school superintendent, was seen Saturday when William Schley Howard, attorney for the youths, secured a permit from the Georgia prison commission to interview J. W. Scarborough in the Cherokee county convict camp.

Scarborough was the third of the trio of young men accused of the attack on Professor Wright which resulted in his death. Scarborough turned state's evidence and accused his two companions of planning and carrying out the actual murder. Scarborough was sentenced to life imprisonment and is now an inmate of the Cherokee county gang.

The state supreme court recently refused a plea for a new trial of Coggeshall and McClelland and they are now in Putnam county jail awaiting resentence to death. Attorney Howard was in conference Saturday with the father of Coggeshall and his sister, who are here to aid in the fight for his life.

Three Possible Moves.

There are now only three possible avenues through which the two youths may be saved from the death chair at Milledgeville. There is, of course, the chance that an appeal to the prison commission and the governor may result in an executive mercy order commuting the sentence of either or both of the men to life imprisonment.

Attorney Howard, however, may either appeal to the United States supreme court—provided he can discover grounds for such an appeal which would be approved by the state supreme court, which would have to sign the certiorari; or may make an extraordinary motion for a new trial in the Georgia supreme court on the ground of newly-discovered evidence.

At the time he secured the order to see Scarborough, Attorney Howard stated that the youth had been asking an opportunity to confer with him for several days, and he believed that the man who was the principal witness for the state at the trial may be able to throw fresh light on the actual slaying which may give grounds for retrial for one or both of the condemned men.

Attorney Howard did not state when he expected to make the trip to Cherokee county to see Scarborough.

Postmaster Given Liberty Saturday Under $3,000 Bond

E. C. Smith, postmaster at Bainbridge, Ga., who was taken into custody Thursday by United States Postoffice Inspectors R. E. Barry and Frank C. Ellis, on a charge of embezzlement of approximately $1,000, was released under a bond of $3,000 at Macon Friday to await action of the federal grand jury in his case, according to a report received here Saturday by Joe P. Johnston, inspector in charge of the southeastern division.

According to the report alleged embezzlement was in connection with the return of C. O. D. deliveries.

"DIAMOND DYES"

COLOR THINGS NEW

Just Dip to Tint or Boil to Dye

Each 15-cent package contains directions so simple any woman can tint soft, delicate shades or dye rich, permanent colors in lingerie, silks, ribbons, skirts, waists, dresses, coats, stockings, sweaters, draperies, coverings, hangings, —everything!

Buy Diamond Dyes — no other kind—and tell your druggist whether the material you wish to color is wool or silk, or whether it is linen, cotton or mixed goods.—(adv.)

No Gray Hair

No falling hair, no dandruff

By Edna Wallace Hopper

Mine is a grandmother's age, but my hair is a glory. I have never had falling hair or dandruff, and never a touch of gray. My hair is thick and luxuriant, finer far than 40 years ago. Yet as a girl it was scant.

That is because I searched the world for the best hair helps men know. And I have kept up to date. Every new hair help has been brought to me. No woman in the world has spent what I have to attain luxuriant hair.

Now I have combined those helps in a product called Hair Youth. It contains many ingredients, concentrated. I apply it with an eyedropper, directly to the scalp.

There it combats the hardened oil and dandruff which stifle hair roots. It tones and stimulates the scalp. It keeps the scalp healthy and clean.

That is all you can do. The scalp is like a garden. It must be cleaned, it must be cultivated. Then hair will thrive as flowers thrive in a well-kept garden.

Here is the best men know, all combined in a single tonic. You apply it in a minute. And you know you are doing all that science can do for the hair.

My hair shows one result. So I know that every woman, every man, can obtain from Hair Youth benefits nothing else can bring.

Edna Wallace Hopper's Hair Youth is now supplied by all toilet counters at 50c and $1, with eyedropper. But I will gladly send you a sample if you will mail this coupon. Do that to learn the greatest treatment in existence can benefit your hair. Adv.

For Trial Bottle

Mail this today to Edna Wallace Hopper, 536 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago. Enclose 10c for postage and packing.

I want to try Hair Youth. 14

Name.....

Address.....

German Leider Star To Appear In Concert Here

Fresh from triumphs in New York and Boston where she opened her season last month, Elena Gerhardt, famous mezzo soprano and one of the best of all singers of the difficult German "lied," will be presented in concert here Saturday afternoon, December 5, by the Atlanta Music club at the Woman's club auditorium.

Miss Gerhardt, whose concert is the second of the Music club's "series intime," will be the first German lieder singer presented in Atlanta since the war, although she has been singing to packed auditoriums in England and in the larger cities of the United States for several years, it is said.

Fraulien Gerhardt was selected by the club as the first to reintroduce the German "lied" to southern music audiences because of her pre-eminence over most other singers who have entered that difficult field of expression.

English and American, as well as German critics, have accorded her first rank, the London Daily Sketch commenting on her concert there last season that she is the "greatest lieder singer in the world and displays no signs of abandoning that position" and the Glasgow Herald remarking on her concert there that "she combines in a degree unparalleled among living artists the qualities of technique, of intelligence and of a compelling personality."

Her opening concert of the season in Boston last month elicited the assertion in the Boston Transcript that "Miss Gerhardt's concert was the concert of a renowned singer unsurpassed in her own field. Her popularity in New York, where she sang October 18, is indicated by the comment of the Herald-Tribune the following day that "at Acolian Hall late comers found no more seats available and the contingent of standees grew to unusual size."

TWO FLYING SQUADRON SPEAKERS HERE TODAY

Constitutional government, particularly as it applies to the enforcement of prohibition, is to be the theme of two nationally known lecturer of the Flying Squadron foundation at a law enforcement mass meeting to be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Wesley Memorial M. E. church.

MISS NORMA C. BROWN.

O. W. STEWART.

Speakers announced are Oliver Wayne Stewart, of Chicago, president of the Flying Squadron foundation, and Miss Norma C. Brown, of Bloomington, Ill., vice president of the foundation, an ordained minister and known as a gifted writer and speaker.

Mr. Stewart is editor of the National Enquirer and was an associate of the late Frank Hanly, governor of Illinois, in organizing the Flying Squadron. He is a former member of the Illinois legislature and was chairman of the prohibition national committee, 1900-1904. His life has been devoted to prohibition reform moves.

Miss Brown has the distinction of being the youngest chaplain in the Illinois senate, having filled that office at the age of 21 years. She is associate editor of the National Enquirer.

CHINAMAN FREED BY HABEAS CORPUS AFTER PRISON TERM

Harry Chinn, a Chinese prisoner who recently completed a term in the federal prison here, was released under habeas corpus proceedings Saturday by Federal Judge Samuel H. Sibley, after he had been held at the request of immigration officials who sought his deportation.

Attorney Frank A. Doughman, representing Chinn, contended that the offense for which the prisoner was convicted was not a deportable offense. After he had made this contention immigration officials withdrew the proceedings and Chinn was allowed his freedom.

It was shown that he had made a splended record as a prisoner during the service of his term.

School Offices Move Into New Quarters On Walker Street

All departments of the administrative forces of the Atlanta public schools, with exception of the census and attendance department, were installed in new quarters Saturday at the Walker street school, 41 Walker street. The one department remaining on the fourth floor at city hall will transfer to the Walker street location Monday. The transfer was ordered by the board because city hall quarters were not adequate to house all departments.

Other city departments which are cramped for space are to be given larger quarters vacated by the school department. The city planning commissioner's offices which have been in the building inspector's office will occupy the space used as Superintendent Sutton's private office.

Public welfare nurses are to move to quarters vacated by the business offices of the schools department.

ART LEADERS SPONSOR GIEBRICH EXHIBITION

The Atlanta Art association will sponsor an exhibition of the canvases, water colors and etchings of Oscar H. Gieberich, internationally famous painter, to be held on the mezzanine floor of the Atlanta Biltmore hotel during the week of November 30.

Mr. Geiberich is the husband of the former Miss Mabel Drake, of Atlanta, and the couple, who reside in Paris, are guests of Major and Mrs. John S. Cohen, at their home at 777 Peachtree street.

Mr. Gieberich's work is hung in galleries in New York, Chicago and Paris, and is identified with the finest productions of contemporary American pictures. He was born in New York, N. Y., where he worked as a commercial artist on the New York World for a time. Later he studied at the Art Students' league there. He has also studied and taught with Charles W. Hawthorne, whose work has been shown in the Atlanta exhibits of the Grand Central Art galleries.

After teaching for a time at the college of Notre Dame, in Indiana, Mr. Gieberich went to Paris, where he worked with some of the greatest painters of the time, and where he married Miss Drake. During his frequent trips to America Mr. Gieberich has painted portraits of many prominent persons, among them those of Judge Goodwin and his wife, of Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Jordan Stabler, of Baltimore—both of which have attracted wide comment.

When Wilbur Steele, the famous author, was assigned to make a trip for Harper's magazine to north Africa, Mr. Gieberich accompanied him to make illustrations for the articles. During this journey he also produced some striking landscapes of a more durable kind.

EAST POINT CHAMBER MEETS TUESDAY NIGHT

East Point, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—It is expected that a large crowd will be present at the next meeting of the East Point Chamber of Commerce next Tuesday night, November 24, at the city hall as some important matters will be brought before the body, and different reports will be made by the respective committees, members say.

The membership committee has been making a special drive and has already pushed the enrollment to high mark nothwithstanding the fact that they have been in the field but one month.

The other committees, including the building committee, have been making plans for several new stores and other buildings to be erected soon. They will be able to report a number of large realty deals put over recently which will mean much development to the town.

This will be an open meeting and all persons interested in the upbuilding of East Point and the south side of Fulton county and the community are urged to be present at the city hall at 8 o'clock.

Kane Assumes Duties As Southern Manager Of Magazine Offices

W. J. Kane, of Cleveland, Ohio, has arrived in Atlanta and has assumed his duties as manager of the new southern headquarters of Good Housekeeping, and the Cosmopolitan Magazines which have been established in the Palmer building. The work of the company in Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Louisiana and Florida will be directed from the Atlanta headquarters. Mr. Kane will move to Atlanta and make his future home in this city.

J. W. OGLESBY HEADS QUITMAN RAILROAD

Quitman, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the South Georgia & West Coast railroad, after transacting routine business, elected the following directors:

J. W. Oglesby, R. C. McIntosh, S. S. Rountree, C. T. Tillman, J. W. Oglesby, Jr., and C. F. Carter.

The officers elected for the ensuing year are: President, J. W. Oglesby; vice president, R. C. McIntosh; secretary and treasurer, C. T. Tillman.

The South Georgia & West Coast, which is owned in Quitman, runs from Adel, Ga., to Hampton Springs, Fla., a distance of 88 miles, and has always been a paying investment.

CHAMBER DIRECTORS WILL BE SELECTED

Eight directors of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce for 1926 and 1927 are to be selected at an early date by the membership from a list of sixteen members who received the highest number of ballots in a nominating primary which closed Saturday afternoon.

The sixteen candidates for directorship are Ivan E. Allen, J. R. Bachman, E. R. Black, J. V. Boehm, W. H. Brittain, William Candler, H. E. Choate, B. M. Hood, J. M. B. Hoxsey, Mrs. S. M. Inman, J. S. Kennedy, Roy LeCraw, W. R. C. Smith, George W. West, Cater Woolford and M. W. Bell.

Election tellers committee is composed of William Bradford, J. P. McGrath, R. V. Bergen and George Deibert.

FINAL RITES TODAY FOR CHARLES BENDER

Funeral services for Charles Bender, 88, of 261 South Humphries street, who died Friday at the home, will be held at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon from the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son. The Rev. W. E. Hauff will officiate and interment will be in Oakland cemetery.

Mr. Bender was a pioneer resident of Atlanta, moving here from Tennessee during the Civil war. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. J. H. Robertson, of Dalton.

REID TO ADDRESS JUNIOR CHAMBER MEETING THURSDAY

The principal speaker at this week's meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce will be H. Jefferson Reid, a native of Holland, who has made his residence in the United States since 1916. He is an author and poet of considerable prominence and is making a lecture tour of the United States, traveling by automobile and defraying expenses by selling autographed volumes of his books. The meeting will be held at the Chamber of Commerce Thursday.

APPLICATIONS FOR MARRIAGE LICENSES

The following applications for marriage licenses were filed Saturday in the office of Fulton county ordinary:

Treman Kincaid, 24, and Miss Idelle Duncan, 22.

Fred G. Robinson, 21, and Miss Mary Wilmer Sims, 18.

Siegmond Fatchel, 29, and Miss Pearl Rehfroe, 22.

Theron Patrick, 20, and Miss Sallie Maude Sullivan, 19.

MODIFIED VIADUCTS PLANS CONSIDERED

Modified plans for construction of the $2,000,000 twin viaducts over the railroad tracks at Central avenue and at Pryor streets, as agreed upon at a conference of the viaducts commission and railway officials last week, were expected to be completed this week, according to Mayor Walter A. Sims.

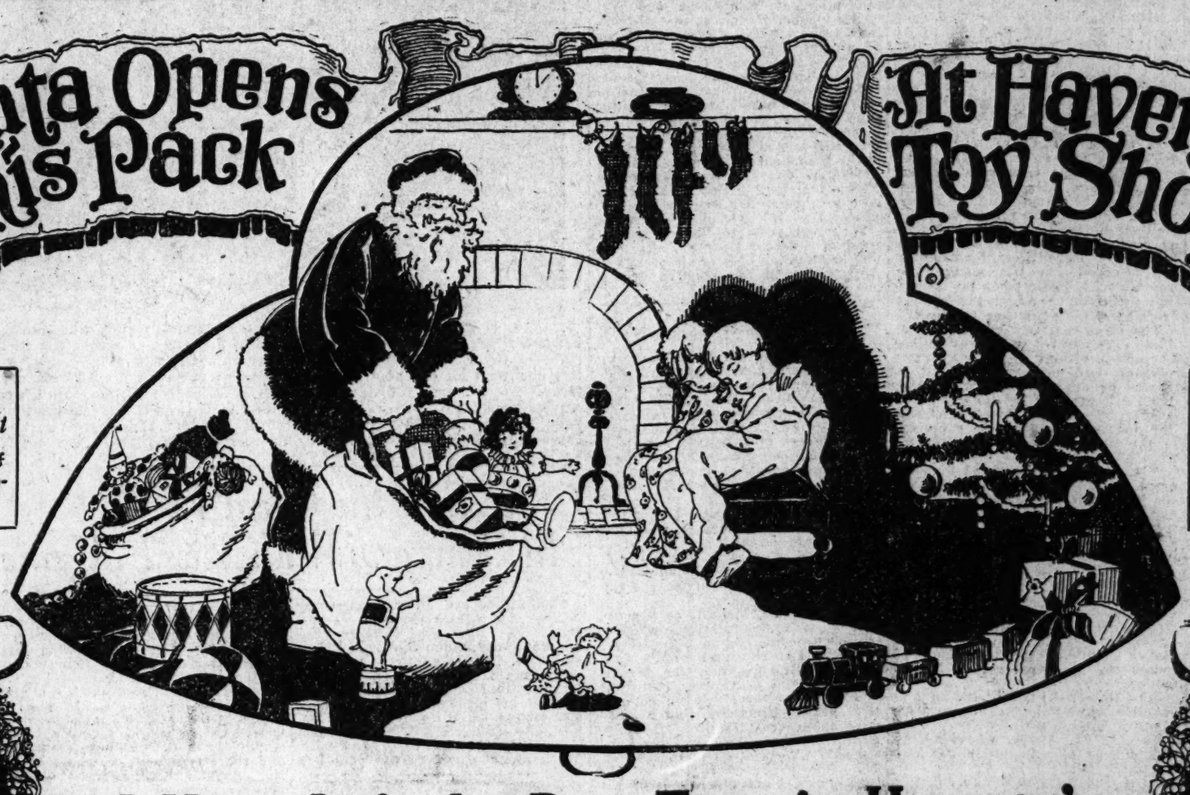
The plans which, the mayor said, involve only minor adjustments, chiefly engineering problems as compared to the original plan adopted, are being worked out by Engineer W. R. Schulz, of Memphis, in collaboration with Engineer Young, representing the Atlanta Joint Terminals and Engineer Kaufman, of the city construction department.

As soon as plans reach here another conference will be called for final ratification, the mayor said.

The modified plan calls for elimination of the so-called Hunter street "dip" and provides for the southern terminus of the viaducts at Hunter street, with only slight grade.

Double-decker streets for Wall street and Alabama street, connecting Whitehall and Central avenue, also have been agreed upon. These streets will be perfectly level and will be for vehicular and pedestrian traffic. The plan will necessitate the rerouting of street cars on Alabama street, as the new street will block any entrance from the present Alabama street into Whitehall.

Santa Opens His Pack At Haverty's Toy Shop



Watch Announcement

—For the date of Santa's personal appearance here.

Terms Arranged

Convenient terms arranged on Toy purchases.

Buy Now and Pay Later

Delivery Guaranteed for Christmas

"I Have Left the Best Toys in Haverty's Toy Shop---Get Yours Monday"

Solid Oak Desk
Complete, with chair, as shown $11.50

Ivory Enameled Desk
and chair. Bottom drawer in desk..... $11.95

Santa Claus Letter Contest

Children up to 8 years, write Santa Claus a letter of not more than 50 words. Address your letter to "Santa Claus," care of Haverty's. The best two letters—the one from a girl and the other from a boy—will win handsome prizes, the girl a Large All-Steel Doll Bed and Mattress, the boy an Automobile. Contest to be decided by two judges to be announced later. See these prizes in our windows.

Write Your Letter Now

Coaster Wagon
All sizes. Disc wheels. Priced as low as..... $4.95

3-Piece Outfit
Set as shown, decorated in ivory and blue $6.95

Children's Chairs
Bow back, as illustrated; decorated in red. $1.50

Kitchen Cabinet
31 in. high, 18 in. wide. Decorated in ivory and blue.. $13.50

Train on Track
Complete, Engine Coach and Cars... $2.00

Symphony Piano
11 Keys, red mahogany finish. Spl. $1.75

Doll Trunks
A big variety to select from, priced as low as $1.85

Tool Chests
From the smallest to the most complete. Oak finish box, as low as..... $1.75

Scooters
With disc wheels, for boys and girls. Special $3.95

Velocipedes
Small size, finished in red, for only.... $4.25

Buddy Bike
Wire wheels, rubber tires, priced as low as..... $4.95

Badger Hand Car
Just the thing for small children. Red finish..... $7.85

Pool Tables
We have them in all sizes. Priced as low as..... $8.95

Table and 2 Chairs
Finished in red. Your little girl wan's one of these..... $5.95

Writing Desk
Child's size, with stool, in natural finish. This week only $4.95

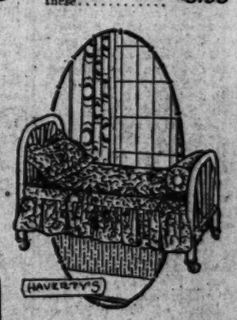
Automobiles
We have them in all sizes, makes and colors, as low as..... $8.95

Wheelbarrow
Finished in oak. All sizes, as low as..... $1.25

Doll Buggy
In reed, all finishes; as low as.... $5.50

Bassinettes
27 inches long. Complete with mattress, to fit $5.75

Shoo Fly
Ivory and red decorated All sizes, as low as..... $2.50



Doll Beds
All-steel 32-in. long with mattress and pillows covered in cretonne, at $14.95

Established 1885

SEWING MACHINES
Imported toy sewing machines, just the thing for little girls.
$2.25

HAVERTY FURNITURE CO.
Corner Edgewood Ave. and Pryor St.

MAIL ORDERS
Promptly filled, when accompanied by check in full.

SPORTS

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

Edited by George Congdon

VOL. LVIII., No. 162. ATLANTA, GA., SUNDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 22, 1925.

MERCER WRECKS PETRELS' CHAMPIONSHIP HOPES

Grange Quits School To Organize Pro Grid Team

Noted Red-Head's Eleven Will Play Its First Game Thanksgiving, He Asserts

Ohio Stadium, Columbus, November 21.—(By the Associated Press.) Harold "Red" Grange, America's football star, announced today after the Illinois-Ohio State game that he will play professional football, organizing and managing his own team.

Grange did not return to the University of Illinois tonight but left for his Wheaton home, a suburb of Chicago. He decided to quit the university without graduating.

The team which the 22-year-old football hero proposes to organize will include certain members of the Four Horsemen that made football history at Notre Dame last year. It also will include Early Britton, co-star with Grange on the Illinois team.

Grange made known his decision five minutes after today's game, as quickly as he reached the Illinois dressing room.

Grange's Statement.

"I am not going back to college tonight. I am leaving for my home in Wheaton, and I am quitting college. I plan to organize a professional football team of my own, of which I will be the manager. I probably will take my teammate, Earl Britton, with me, and some of the Notre Dame four horsemen of last year. We will sign no players who have not completed their college career.

"We will play our first game on Thanksgiving day. It may be at Chicago. We are not certain yet. We will play games in Florida during the Christmas holidays."

Britton indicated that he would accept Grange's offer, leaving school immediately, although he has not graduated.

The story was told here tonight that Grange's father, a deputy sheriff at Wheaton, Ill., saved and scraped every penny he possibly could to keep his sons in school. While attending Illinois Grange lived on $55 a month, refusing all offers to capitalize his fame. Grange obtained this amount from his dad and by working as an iceman in Wheaton during the summer months. Now Grange, finding himself sitting in the lap of fortune, has his heart set on earning enough to make his father glad that Red Grange is his son.

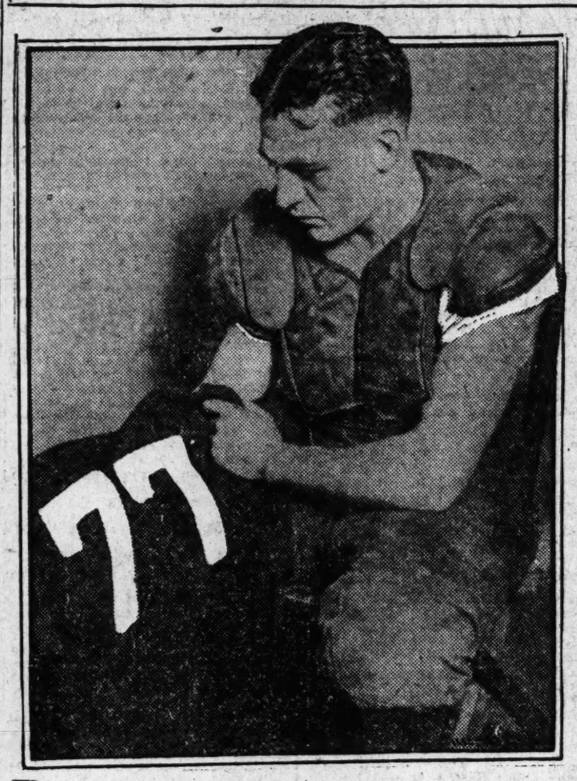
Sensational in Last Game Today.

Grange, although scoring no touchdowns, played a sensational game, figuring in 23 plays for a total gain of 187 yards. He also heaved five forward passes for 42 yards. He threw one of his passes to Kassel for a touchdown, Kassel catching it behind his own goal line.

Grange was taken out of the game at the end of the first half, but came back after Ohio State crashed over with a touchdown in the third period.

Grange brought the huge crowd the thrill of excitement by getting away on two sensational runs, one for 25 yards and another for 36 yards. Grange figured in the final play of the game that ended his amazing career. He bagged a forward pass, intended for an Ohio receiver, just as the pistol barked ending the game and Grange's intercollegiate career.

Removed for the Last Time



When "Red" Grange discarded his famous jersey with the prominent "77" for the last time at the end of the Illinois-Ohio State game Saturday, it was the final appearance of the celebrated jersey and player in behalf of the Illini. The University of Illinois doesn't propose that any other Illini player shall ever use "77" and is providing a permanent place among the trophies of the institution for his shirt.

BY NORMAN E. BROWN.

That little old blue shirt;
That little old blue shirt;
That little old blue shirt the iceman wore.
It was tattered, it was torn,
Made two hundred tacklers mourn,
That little old blue shirt that Red Grange wore.

Which same being the new version of that touching old ballad which long ago placed Maggie's old red shawl in the realm of song. The short version is born with the plan of the officials of Illinois university to place in moth balls and a glass case the blue jersey, with its "77" number, that "Red Grange, superman of the gridiron, has worn through his career."

This is a splendid idea. But the consensus of opinion among Grange's opponents probably would be that it would be more fitting to encase Red's shoes. Most of the men who have tried to stop the Wheaton, Ill., iceman retain a more vivid impression of Red's heels or the palm of his hands (shoved adroitly into their faces at the psychological time) than they do of Red's shirt.

Said opponents, gazing on Red's shirt in its new resting place, might appreciate the view more were it to be bordered with a nice bunting-trimmed goal post and bar. About the only time the opposition has had to study Grange in repose has been while he was standing serenely between the posts, waiting for the referee to relieve him of the ball after a touchdown.

And they are going to have the shirt dry-cleaned before laying it away? What a swell chance for a dry cleaning concern.

Imagine the selling value of the slogan:

"We cleaned Red Grange's shirt. Let us clean yours."

MONROE HIGH DEFEATS ATHENS

Monroe, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Touchdowns in the first and third quarters helped Monroe High school to wreck Athens' hopes for the state championship, 13 to 9, this afternoon. The improvement in the Purple Hurricane reached its height in this the last home game of the 1925 season.

Each man on the Monroe team deserves commendation for the showing against a faster and heavier team. Spivey was the outstanding star on Monroe's team. Mell played a brilliant game for the visitors.

Coach Baker's men made 18 first downs to six for the Athens team. The game this afternoon made a success of a season played under many handicaps and with several backsets. Coach E. M. Baker deserves much credit for the development of this winning team.

RITOLA WINS SENIOR TITLE

New York, November 21.—(AP)—Willie Ritola, of the Finnish-American A. C., today won the senior national cross-country championship in the record time of 29 minutes, 27 seconds for the six-mile Van Cortlandt course. The former record of 30:05 also was held by Ritola.

Ritola led Fred Wachmuth, of the Milrose A. A., champion of 1924 over the finish line by 200 yards after having showed his heels to a field of 39 runners all the way.

Jimmy Hennigan, veteran Dorchester runner, finished third.

The Finnish-American A. C. retained their team championship with a score of 37 points.

Macon Youngsters Surprise Experienced Opponents; Get Jump and Win, 21 to 6

BY GEORGE CONGDON.

Four youngsters, barely showing their first fuzzy whiskers, raced the gridiron of Spiller field Saturday afternoon, and in the process not only brought Mercer out victorious over Oglethorpe's Petrels, by a score of 21 to 6, but emblazoned their names on the pages of that particular book that holds the Bear story of football. It might be opportune to recall that wheeze about "youth will be served," for these Mercer kids, sophomores to be exact, dashed into headlines because they out-Maurered the older but still agile Adrian Maurer, star of the Petrel stronghold, and one of the greatest halfbacks in the south.

The names of these kids, who gave Mercer its third victory over Oglethorpe in seven years, are Ralph Skelton and Phoney Smith, brother of the well-known Crook Smith; Butts and Parks. The first two are halfbacks, and what halfbacks they are in spite of their inexperience, which failed to show in Saturday's game. The other two are ends. The other seven men of the Bear team were there with plenty of football, but their feats paled into insignificance beside the brilliance of Skelton's and Smith's offensive drive and Butts' and Parks' defensive play.

In beating Oglethorpe, the Bears smashed the perfect S. I. A. A. record of the Petrels. The Bears also thoroughly spilled the dope that said Oglethorpe would have something of a walkaway. Oglethorpe, undefeated by an S. I. A. A. team until Saturday, fell before the team that had won only two games this season.

Mercer Stars To Return.

The people who saw the game Saturday will say right away that Mercer outplayed Oglethorpe all around. But first downs for the game tell a different story. In the first half the Bears made seven first downs while the Petrels made six, but in the last half, while Oglethorpe failed to score, there were five first downs registered for the Petrels against a lone one for the visitors. In short, Oglethorpe made three more first downs than the Bears, and these may be consolation in the figures for the Petrels, but little in the thought that next year Mercer returns practically the entire team it played yesterday while the Petrels lose two of their greatest threats, Maurer and Kilgore.

The very first play of the game showed the do or die attitude that the Bears brought to Atlanta with them. Glover kicked off 50 yards to Nutty Campbell, Petrel quarterback. Campbell began his race toward the Mercer goal. Thirty yards from his own goal line, Oglethorpe's featherweight field general collided with three Mercer linemen charging down upon him. The impact sent the ball looping out of his hands. Parks, Mercer end, came to note quickly when he scooped up the fumble and raced the distance to the Petrel goal. Mercer had scored a touchdown on the first play of the game.

Phoney Smith, who might have been phoney for all the crowd knew of him at that time, hoisted the oval over the bars from placement for the extra point. And Skelton was entirely unknown to Oglethorpe supporters at this stage of the conflict.

Mercer Watched Maurer.

The next few plays showed that Coach Stanley Robinson had sent his men on the field to lay for Adrian Maurer. The very strength of the Mercer line was ample defense against Bob Kilgore, although he broke through for three and four-yard gains later in the session.

Glover kicked off again, but Campbell was downed before he had a chance to return a yard. Maurer got through a hole at center for five yards, where ordinarly he would have been good for 10 or 15, and then on the next play the Mercer ends broke through the Oglethorpe line and got Maurer just as he was even with the line of scrimmage. Kilgore tried to loop a pass, but Parks, who had already done a day's work for an end,

Continued on Page 4, Column 2.

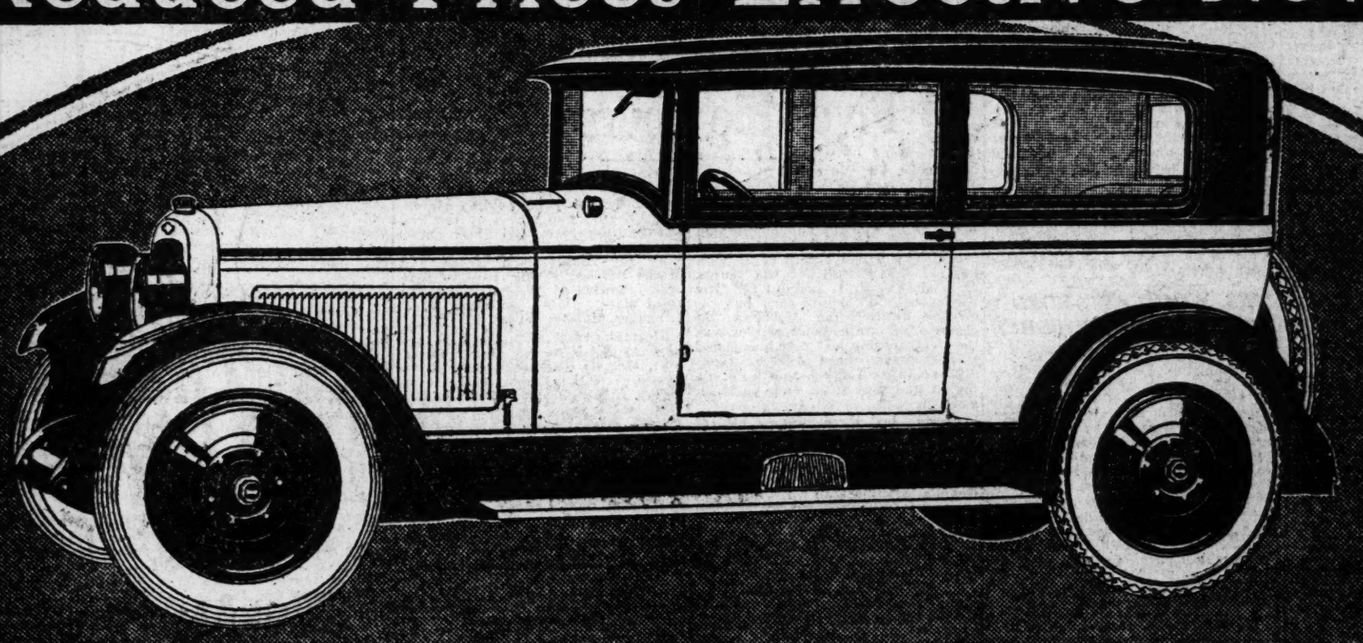
NASH

Leads the World in Motor Car Value

Special Six Sedan
New Low Price $1215
f. o. b. factory

Advanced Six Sedan
New Low Price $1425
f. o. b. factory

Reduced Prices Effective Now



Reductions up to $300

A Greater Value Made STILL GREATER

Before Nash inaugurated these sweeping price reductions this Sedan stood far away from its field in quality and value.

Now—at its NEW LOW PRICE it is more than ever the market leader.

In beauty of body design it simply cannot be matched with its exclusive new French-type roof and low-swung smartness.

And in finer, more careful workmanship the evidence is again in its favor.

Doors are big of breadth, making entrance and exit agreeably convenient.

The hardware is wrought in the true Colonial pattern and the upholstery is genuine mohair cloth.

Furthermore, four-wheel brakes of special Nash design, full balloon tires and five disc wheels are included at no extra cost.

A great "buy" before its price was reduced, this car today represents extreme VALUE.

Martin Nash Motor Co.
R. H. MARTIN, Pres.
Atlanta Jacksonville
Open Evenings Until 9 O'clock

Decatur Nash Co.
A. R. ALMON, Pres.
Decatur, Ga.

Hapeville Motor Co.
E. S. OLIVER, Prop.
Hapeville, Ga.

HARVARD HOLDS YALE BULLDOGS TO SCORELESS TIE

* * * * * * *

Mississippi Aggies Bow To Alligators, 12 to 0

Edgar Jones Scores Two Field Goals, Touchdowns; 20,000 Fans Witness Game

Tampa, Fla., November 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—Edgar Jones, captain of the University of Florida football team, this afternoon, with the aid of his teammates, defeated the team representing the Mississippi A. and M. college, 12 to 0. Approximately 20,000 persons witnessed the classic.

Jones kicked two field goals and bucked across Mississippi's goal line for the only touchdwon of the game. It was his uncanny broken field running for short gains that kept the ball constantly in Mississippi's territory. Without Jones the games would have been listless.

Jones' toe kicked two beautiful field goals, but it was Jones' toe that placed the 'Gators in a tight place during the early stages of the game. The 'Gator captain employed the spiral punt. The ball shot straight in the air where the sharp wind grabbed it and carried it for 15 yards back of the punter. It rolled almost to the Florida goal line. Mississippi fought desperately to carry the ball over but the Florida line held.

Mississippi was decidedly stronger on the defensive than on the offense. In the latter stage of the game it opened up with an aerial attack which netted nothing. Meeks and Clark, in the backfield, with Jones in the line, were the stars for the Aggies.

Lineup and Summary.

FLA. (12)	Pos.	(0) A. & M.
Green	l.e.	Harkness
Williams	l.t.	Fulton
Norton	l.g.	Hopper
Sarra	c.	Jones
Stewart	r.g.	Thompson
Goldstein	r.t.	Brunson
Whitaker	r.e.	C. Hopper
Jones	q.b.	Meeks
Brown	l.h.	Patty
Bishop	r.h.	Stephens
Chaplin	f.b.	Clark

Score by periods:

Florida	3	3	6	0	—12
Miss. A. & M.	0	0	0	0	— 0

Touchdown, Jones; field goal, Jones (2). Referee, Powell (Wisconesin); umpire, Hutchinson (Perdue); headlinesman, Severance (Oberlin).

Petrel Star Is Lauded By Davis

BY PARKE H. DAVIS.

The rarest run to occur in all football and the run most difficult to achieve is the full-field run from kick-off to touchdown, that is, the run-back of a kick-off through all opponents for a score. So rare is this type of run that although approximately 2,000 kick-offs have been sent down the field on the gridiron of the country during the present season only ten runs of this type have occurred. Their data is as follows:

David A. Reese, Vanderbilt vs. Tennessee, 95 yards; Raymond J. Barbuti, Syracuse vs. Providence, 95 yards; James E. Foley, Syracuse vs. Hobart, 90 yards; James O'Connor, New Hampshire State vs. Tufts, 90 yards; George Pease, Columbia vs. Wesleyan, 85 yards; Harold Grange, Illinois vs. Iowa, 85 yards; Benjamin Friedman, Michigan vs. Wisconsin, 85 yards; Hall Trapnell, Army vs. St. Louis, 85 yards; Charles Drew, Amherst vs. Wesleyan, 80 yards; Adrian H. Maurer, Oglethorpe vs. Loyola, 75 yards.

A mere glance at the above glorious roster will reveal the great skill necessary to pilot flying feet on a successful run-back of the kick-off, for the above list presents ten of the most brilliant backs in the United States.

Should Never Occur.

Theoretically, a run of this class should never occur. The defense, that is the kicking team, knows that the run-back will be forthcoming. It has the time leisurely to deploy its team to prevent it and according to a plan of disposition based upon the experience of 50 years. In its execution the defense is enabled to interpose every one of its eleven players between the carrier and the goal. Nevertheless, the run-back occasionally succeeds.

Curiously, these runs succeed in the very manner which would appear most difficult of accomplishment, straight up the center of the field, into the pack of oncoming players and straight through them. Charles Daly, of the Army, in 1901, executed one of these runs against the Navy by racing around Navy's left wing but in nine times out of ten such runs fail. The reason a run straight up the center of the field succeeds is because the defensive players entangle one another in the close pack at center thus preventing any defender from making a clean tackle of the carrier who is forced through the pack which bursts like a great folding door, throwing the carrier into an open field where fleet feet and nimble action takes him past the backfield defenders.

Few of Men Making Runs.

If you would know how select is the rare band of players who in the past have reeled off runs of this character you are referred to the following data of a few of these runs:

One hundred and six yards, Walter H. Eckersall, Chicago, vs. Wisconsin, 1904; 105 yards, Charles Dillon, Carlisle vs. Harvard, 1903; 105 yards, W. E. Sprackling, Brown vs. Carlisle, 1909; 105 yards, W. O. Ainslee, Williams vs. Cornell, 1911; 105 yards, John De Hart, Pittsburgh vs. Navy; 101 yards, R. W. Richardson, Pittsburgh vs. Bucknell, 1908; 100 yards, Robert W. Watson, Yale vs. Harvard, 1881; 100 yards, Ernest A. Hamer, Pennsylvania vs. Columbia, 1924; 100 yards, Edward G. Bray, Lafayette vs. Pennsylvania, 1899; 100 E. B. Cochems, Wisconsin vs. Chicago, 1901; 100 yards, Charles D. Daly, Army vs. Navy, 1901; 100 yards, W. P. Steffen, Chicago vs. Wisconsin, 1908; 98 yards, A. F. Williams, Cornell vs. Holy Cross, 1914; 95 yards, T. L. Shevlin, Yale vs. Columbia, 1903; 95 yards, John C. Garrels, Michigan vs. Illinois, 1906; 95 yards, A. E. Capron, Minnesota vs. Wisconsin, 1911; 95 yards, George B. Walbridge, Lafayette vs. Wesleyan, 1897; 90 yards, C. A. Way, Dartmouth vs. Pen State, 1919; 90 yards, Ellery C. Huntington, Colgate vs. Syracuse, 1913; 90 yards, H. L. Haines, Penn State vs. Pennsylvania, 1920; 90 yards, Glenn Killinger, Penn State vs. Georgia Tech, 1921; 85 yards, Joseph H. Sears, Harvard vs. Pennsylvania, 1880; 75 yards, R. M. Marshall, Pennsylvania vs. Carlisle, 1913.

SOPHS, SENIORS CAGE WINNERS

The third series of games in the interclass tournament of North Avenue Presbyterian school was held Thursday afternoon in the school gymnasium. The Seniors, who have not been defeated, beat the Freshmen, 36 to 10, and the Sophomores beat the Juniors, 42 to 4. The teams have been coached by Miss Elizabeth Clanton and promise much good material for the varsity, which will be elected after Christmas. The final round will be played Tuesday, when the Sophomores meet the Seniors in the championship game.

MICHIGAN WINS FROM MINNESOTA

Chicago, November 21.—(AP)—Michigan's defeat of Minnesota today gave Michigan a tie for the football championship of the western conference with Northwestern. Michigan has won five conference games and lost one, and Northwestern has won three games and lost one, but the Michigan defeat was at the hands of Northwestern.

ELON DEFEATS EMORY HENRY

Elon College, N. C., November 21. (AP)—Elon this afternoon broke its losing streak by winning from Emory and Henry, 14 to 0. Raub's broken field running and sweeping end runs paved the way for the Christians' victory. Lawrence, Emory and Henry quarterback, made a 40-yard run from his own one-yard line.

S. CALIFORNIA BEATS IOWA

Los Angeles, November 21.—(AP)—The University of Southern California with a preponderance of straight football and with few passes, most of them incomplete, defeated Iowa, 18 to 0, today. "Cowboy" Kutsch and "Plowboy" Fry, of Iowa, carried the brunt of the battle for Old Gold.

TULANE GUARD ALWAYS ROLLS UP HIS SLEEVES

Irish Levy, Tulane guard, playing his fourth season with the Louisiana team, is famous in southern gridiron annals as the man who cannot play until he has rolled the sleeves of his jersey above his elbows. Another star on the team is Shorty Norman, five feet tall and weighing 128 pounds, who is the smallest halfback in major football.

RIVER TRAFFIC RESUMED HUNTSVILLE TO GADSDEN

Huntsville, Ala., November 21.—(Special.)—The Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railway has announced the restoration of all freight, passenger and mail service via the Tennessee river between Huntsville and Gadsden.

The transfer boats that were laid up because of low water in July, have been restored and navigation is normal after the long drouth.

IOWA DEFEATS DRAKE, 7 TO 6

Des Moines, Iowa, November 21.—(AP)—Iowa State college defeated Drake university here today 7 to 6 in an important Missouri Valley conference game. A series of line smashes by Corey, Ames sophomore fullback, gave the visitors the touchdown. Captain Johnny Behm deliberately gave Drake three safeties, preferring to use the "safety first" method in the closing minutes of play. It was Drake's homecoming. About 20,000 persons saw the game.

Thanksgiving Day
Attend the TECH-AUBURN Football Game at Grant Field
Plenty of tickets available at Athletic Association office and at Jacobs' Pharmacy at Five Points
$2.50 Each
Please Don't Buy From Speculators

WOLVERINES WINNERS, 35 TO 0

Ann Arbor, November 21.—(AP)—Michigan crushed Minnesota on Ferry field today, 35 to 0, and gave the Wolverines an equal claim with Northwestern to premier honors in the western conference football race.

It was a driving line attack and a bewildering aerial game that brought victory to the veteran coach, Fielding H. Yost, who saw his team emerge triumphant in the final game of his 25th year as gridiron mentor at Michigan.

The much-talked-of Spears shift failed to puzzle Michigan's vaunted line, and rarely did a Minnesota back get away for any considerable gain.

From the outset, Michigan fans saw victory when Minnesota, after making a first down, was forced into defensive play and found the Yost machine a thing they could not stop. Once in each of the first three periods and twice in the final quarter a Michigan man swept over a Gopher goal line and five times the accurate boots of Benny Friedman sent the ball between the goal posts for points after touchdown.

It was home-coming day for Michigan and the 48,000 rooters banked all sides of the concrete and wooden bowl.

Arendsee and Asher carried the burden of Minnesota's interference with Almquist and Murrell trying the ends and Joesting used for line attacks.

It was the first time this season that Joesting fell down in his line plunges, the Michigan forward wall stopping him repeatedly.

Lineup and Summary.

MICH. (35)	Pos.	(0) MINN.
Oosterbaan	l.e.	Tuttle
Edwards	l.t.	Dril
Baer	l.g.	Hanson
Brown	c.	MacKinnon
Lovette	r.g.	Walsh
Hawkins	r.t.	Meili
Flora	r.e.	Wheeler
Friedman	q.b.	Arendsee
Gilbert	l.h.	Almquist
W. Webber	r.h.	Murrell
Molenda	f.b.	Joesting

Score by periods:

Michigan	7	7	7	14	—35
Minnesota	0	0	0	0	— 0

Touchdowns: Molenda 2, Oosterbaan, Gilbert. Points from try after touchdown: Friedman 5. Officials: Referee, Nichols (Oberlin); umpire, Young (Illinois Wesleyan); field judge, Keithley (Illinois); headlinesman, Gardiner (Illinois). Time of periods, 15 minutes.

A. U. DEFEATS CLARK, 21 TO 7

Atlanta university defeated Clark university yesterday afternoon in a hard game, by the score of 21 to 7. Both teams were evenly matched and the colored boys played a brilliant game. A large number of fans were on hand for the game.

BRUNSWICK PLANS ADVERTISING FUND

Brunswick, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Tuesday, December 1, has been set as the date upon which the city of Brunswick is expected to raise $25,000 as an advertising fund for the purpose of telling the world of her wonderful advantages along agricultural lines, of her manufacturing sites, historical points, splendid beaches both winter and summer, wonderful port and of her fine climate for tourists.

Nationally-known speakers will address the meeting held on that day.

The advertising plan is being sponsored by the Brunswick board of trade, of which Fred G. Wade is managing secretary.

MRS. WOOD AWARDED CUSTODY OF CHILDREN

Wilmington, Del., November 21.—(AP)—The custody of the two children of former Lieutenant and Mrs. Osborne C. Wood, divorced here yesterday, will be retained by Mrs. Wood under the provisions of an agreement approved today by Judge E. L. Rice in superior court. The agreement was submitted by counsel for each side.

Wood at various times may be permitted to see the children at Mrs. Wood's home, but at no time will he be permitted to take them out of Newcastle county, of which Wilmington is a part. No definite time for Wood's visits was incorporated in the agreement.

OIL MEN TRY IN VAIN TO BUY DALLAS CLUB

A group of oil men headed by G. F. Rozier, of Breckenridge, Texas, conferred with officials of the Dallas club with a view to buying it. These people were willing to pay real money for the club and made an offer of $285,000. When the officials turned it down they asked the owners to set a price. "But we won't sell," Walter Morris stated.

HUNTSVILLE TO HEAR SENATOR TOM HEFLIN

Huntsville, Ala., November 21.—(Special.)—Senator J. Thomas Heflin has accepted the invitation of the Huntsville Kiwanis club to deliver an address to farmers on the night of November 27.

The Kiwanis have arranged a program of special interest to farmers and will invite many of them to be their guests on this occasion.

ANCIENT LIGHTSHIP RETIRED FROM SERVICE

Washington, November 21.—(AP)—Lightship No. 11, the oldest veteran among vessels of its class in government service, has been retired from its station off Sandy Hook at the entrance to New York bay, and will be broken up.

The boat went into service 72 years ago at Nantucket Shoals and has since been on several stations along the north Atlantic coast. It will be replaced by a lightship of

Sportively Speaking~

By H. C. HAMILTON

Red Grange's Decision.
The Lure of Lucre.
Mercer Upsets Dope.

RED GRANGE has played his last football game and now he is going to make some money out of the reputation his press agents have given him. He is going to play professional football in Miami and he is going to make a movie.

Mr. Grange doesn't know all about the details of his appearance in Miami, and he hasn't the slightest idea of the nature of the picture he is going to grace by his presence. He says rather flatly for a national hero, that he is going to do that which will make the most money for him.

THAT is fine! Mr. Grange begins to bear all the earmarks of a normal young man. He appears to be mortal after all. He wants and needs money in order to properly propel himself through this world. He is going to take his little reputation and hock it for all it is worth.

But isn't it sort of a shock to you to read that flat-sounding commercial statement, "I'm going where I can make the most money?"

THERE will be no objection on the part of anyone to Grange's growing rich with the profits of his service on the gridiron. It is to be hoped that he will play professional football, make lots of money at it, and give many, many persons a chance to look him over. That he is going to play football in Miami is good because there undoubtedly are many persons in that state who never would have had a chance to see him.

The movies appear to offer little for Red Grange. He is a greater figure than Jack Dempsey in his own little world, but the movie fan is a queer bird, that knows what it wants, and it doesn't care to trade its screen heroes for those of other pursuits.

GRANGE faded from the amateur field in some glory, although he was not so much of a wild man against the Ohio State team as he has been against others. The Illini won, but not by a large score. Grange got away for two long runs which thrilled the crowd, and he played a fine game of football. Neither touchdown, however, was scored by him. He contributed to one by tossing a pass.

And now that all the hullabaloo about Grange is over let us turn to some of the other football players and see if there are not some more good ones in the country. There are, after all, a few of them.

THE football schedule was whittled some Saturday while teams awaited Thanksgiving day or next Saturday, when the season will come to a close in virtually all parts of the country, but it contained one line which will be noticed with great pleasure around Tulane. Missouri, which tied Tulane early in the season and whipped everything else on her schedule, ran into the Kansas eleven and lost the decision.

This needs a little explanation. For many hard-fighting years there has been intense rivalry between Kansas and Missouri. The entire season at the two universities is devoted to preparation for this annual conflict. Kansas undoubtedly went into that game to play her heart out and she won. The game formerly was played on Thanksgiving day each year and so intense was the feeling that for years it was played in Kansas City.

IN OUR own backyard we perceive much grief. There is tearing of hair and gnashing of teeth, for Oglethorpe lost. Oglethorpe, which was romping home with the S. I. A. A. championship, apparently, was crushed by Mercer, which had been crushed by practically everything else this year.

The sudden fumble of a kickoff and the galloping dash of a Mercer man to a touchdown in the first play of the game evidently unnerved the Petrels. They couldn't get going and Mercer could. The score was entirely too much. Folks who figured the Petrels would win are still gasping over it. However, that is only one of the ever-increasing crop of upsets. Harvard held Yale to a scoreless tie when everybody, including Harvard freshmen, thought the Crimson would be lucky to escape a horrible beating.

Roberts, Tech Runner, Sets Five-Mile Course Record

Roanoke, Va., November 21.—(Special.)—Lindsey Roberts, Tech's fleet-footed captain, was proclaimed the south's greatest distance runner Saturday as he won the annual southern conference five-mile cross-country race, establishing a new record of 29 minutes 11 3-4 seconds for the course. Tech and V. P. I. tied up for first honors with 53 points each but the officials awarded the Gobblers the championship, in as much as they won the championship last year and placed a sixth runner ahead of Tech. Georgia won third, Virginia fourth, Washington and Lee fifth, and V. M. I. sixth.

Florida had three runners entered while the Maryland runners, although entered, failed to show up. The Georgia Crackers took away six of the ten individual medals, Tech and Georgia splitting with three each. The course, a hard one over hill and dale, was a real test for the harriers and proved the real running ability of Captain Roberts, who picked up the lead shortly before the last half mile. Tommy Mark, of Georgia, set pace after the runners had strung out. Marks finished a close race to Roberts, following by Wild Bill Tate for third place. Dance, the crack V. P. I. runner, finished fourth.

Roberts (Tech), first, time 29 minutes 11 3-4 seconds; Marks (Georgia), second; Tate (Georgia), third; Dance (V. P. I.), fourth; Risher (Virginia), fifth; Bacot (V. P. I.), sixth; Orr (Georgia), seventh; Wright (Tech), eighth; Gordon (W. and L.), ninth; Fickett (Tech), tenth.

V. P. I., first, 53; Tech, second, 53; Georgia, third, 73; Virginia, fourth, 75; Washington and Lee, fifth, 84; V. M. I., sixth, and Florida, seventh.

'Stumpy' Thomason Stars As Milligan Crew Wins

Johnson City, Tenn., November 21. (Special.)—Stumpy Thomason led Milligan college to another spectacular victory here today over Guilford college by the score of 39 to 0, with long runs from kickoffs, returned punts and from scrimmage. One time he was on the receiving end of a pass that traveled in the air 40 yards. Chief Surface heaved it with the accuracy of an outfielder. Barron was another star. He received one of Surface's cross-country passes for a 50-yard gain.

Dennis played a great game with deadly precision in his backing up the line. Pop Blissett played the entire game with his shoulder in a plaster cast. Captain McCormick, of the Buffaloes, and Coot Watkins, former Tech High star, were invincible with their tackle play. Watkins is hailed as the greatest tackle in the Appalachian conference.

Waddell and Smallwood were great on defense.

This was the final game for Milligan, making the season's record stand six wins out of nine games.

NEW STEAMLESS VESSEL OFF TO U. S. ON MAIDEN VOYAGE

Gothenburg, Sweden, November 21. (AP)—The Swedish-American line's new steamless vessel, the motor ship, Gripsholm, sailed for New York on her maiden voyage today carrying 650 passengers.

The Gripsholm is the first large passenger ship fitted with new double-working Diesel motors, and her tests showed her capable of averaging 17 3-4 knots. This means that the New York-Gothenburg trip will be cut to less than eight days, as compared with the customary nine or ten.

The Gripsholm's engine room is only one-sixth the size of that of an ordinary steamer of her displacement.

ELK HILLS OIL LEASE DECISION EXPECTED MONDAY

Washington, November 21.—(AP)—Chief Justice McCoy of the District of Columbia supreme court is expected to hand down on Monday his opinion in the injunction proceedings brought by the Standard Oil Company of California, to prevent the government from interfering with its operations in the Elk Hills naval oil reserve in California.

In advance of this decision counsel for the government are preparing to bring action for the recovery of section 36 in this reserve now operated by that company. The government takes the position that at the time this land was ceded to the state of California it was known to be min-

TITLE HONORS ARE DIVIDED IN WEST

Chicago, November 21.—(AP)—Western conference football championship honors for 1925 tonight are divided between Michigan and Northwestern.

Michigan has won five conference victories to three for Northwestern. Each has one defeat, but the Michigan defeat was at the hands of Northwestern, while Northwestern was defeated by Chicago which finished in seventh place.

Wisconsin also won three games and lost one, but was held to a tie by Minnesota.

The five Michigan victories were over Indiana, Wisconsin, Illinois, Ohio State, and Minnesota.

The three Northwestern victories were over Indiana, Michigan and Purdue.

CENTRE STAR IS ENGAGED

Tampa, Fla., November 21.—(AP)—Herbert (Flash) Covington, famous Centre college football player, is to be married to Miss Eleanor Blanch McCormick, of Senatobia, Miss., according to an announcement made here today. The wedding will take place on December 16 at the bride's home.

SARAZEN WINS BRYAN FEATURE

Bowie, Md., November 21.—(AP)—Sarazen won the Gadsden D. Bryan memorial handicap mile for all ages, $15,000 added, today. Joy Smoke was second and Princess Doreen third. The time was 1:40 2-5. A $2 pari-mutuel ticket on the winner paid $8.70 straight, $0.30 place and $6 to show.

Crimson, Halting Offensive Of Eli, Rated Moral Victor In Last of Big Three Games

BY FRANK GETTY.

Cambridge, Mass., November 21.—One crowded hour of mediocre, disappointing football marked the climax of Yale's discontent and Harvard's vindication this afternoon, as a fighting Crimson team won one of those "moral victories" by holding the Bulldog to a scoreless tie.

Yale entirely failed to live up to the promise of its power and prestige, while Harvard fought with unlimited courage and unexpected dash until the final whistle sounded.

Harvard Holds at Goal Line.

At the very end, when the shadow of the towering stands, packed with 54,000 Harvard and Yale grads and undergrads, fell across the gridiron, the Bulldog was hammering at the Crimson goal, close, so close to a touchdown. But the little more proved very far away, for the welcome sound of the field judge's horn touched off a roaring Harvard cheer, and the game ended with the score: Harvard, 0; Yale, 0.

Thrice the Bulldog showed its fangs and threatened to score, and as often fate and the fighting Crimson line hurled back the threat into the invader's teeth.

Harvard, on the other hand, had the ball in Yale territory in but one period, and then never closer to the Eli goal than the 35-yard line. The Crimson's glory and vindication came in the manner in which the vaunted Blue attack was smothered. Time after time, Turner and Kilgour and C. Bradford, a little pyramid of power at the Harvard pivot positions, stemmed and smashed back the Eli rushes.

Allen Smashes Through Line.

Yale, recovering a fumble early in the first period, took the ball on Harvard's 25-yard line. Fishwick, upon whose generalship at quarter Tad Jones had pinned his hopes of a victory over Harvard, called for a series of line plunges, on which Noble and Allen plowed through for a first down.

This having proved good football tactics, and the Harvard line appearing demoralized for the mement as it was against Princeton, Fishwick ordered more of the same, and Larry Noble ripped through on two rushes to the five-yard line. Kline was called on for the two yards needed for another first down, and got them, and it looked as though Harvard was doomed to defeat.

Right at this juncture, kneeling on its goal line, the Crimson team gave a hint of what was to come. Noble was stopped in a bull-like rush at center. The same player was hurled back for a two-yard loss.

Yale, its morale as well as its attack stunted by this stubborn resistance, tried the air. Noble then threw a short pass to Fishwick, but the Eli quarterback was hurled to the ground a few feet short of the goal line.

Pass Ordered on Last Down.

On the fourth down, instead of calling for a line plunge, Yale's field general elected to try another forward pass, and Noble flipped the ball across the goal line, where Captain Dolph Cheek, of Harvard, who covered himself with glory in many ways during the afternoon, caught the ball and downed it.

Thus ended the first of Yale's three opportunities. From this point until the end of the half, Harvard held Yale on even terms, punts booming over midfield and both teams showing a woeful lack of anything resembling a real offensive.

Twice alert Yale backs intercepted Crimson passes, but the big Blue team was ignorant of the art of interference—one of the A. B. C.'s of football—and even when an Eli player got loose with the ball he was quickly smothered beneath a heap of squirming red jerseys.

Going into the second half, the Bulldog opened up with a whirlwind attack, but Harvard was not long in taking the wind out of the whirlwind. Dan Allen caught the kickoff on his own 20-yard line, and raced—unaided, be it noted—to midfield. After Noble and Kline had added five yards in two rushes, Dan again got loose through a big hole in the

Continued on page 5, column 1.

A Thanksgiving Message of Importance

DANIEL'S PROSPERITY SPECIALS

Suits and Overcoats

One Group at $29.50

Another at $39.50

It's great to buy such clothes as these right at Thanksgiving time. New styles and fabrics tailored for you by Hart Schaffner & Marx

There are other specials, too, for Thanksgiving only---get yours tomorrow

Daniel Bros. Company
45-49 Peachtree, at Walton

HARVARD HOLDS YALE BULLDOGS TO SCORELESS TIE

Mississippi Aggies Bow To Alligators, 12 to 0

Edgar Jones Scores Two Field Goals, Touchdowns; 20,000 Fans Witness Game

Tampa, Fla., November 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—Edgar Jones, captain of the University of Florida football team, this afternoon, with the aid of his teammates, defeated the team representing the Mississippi A. and M. college, 12 to 0. Approximately 20,000 persons witnessed the classic.

Jones kicked two field goals and bucked across Mississippi's goal line for the only touchdwon of the game. It was his uncanny broken field running for short gains that kept the ball constantly in Mississippi's territory. Without Jones the games would have been listless.

Jones' toe kicked two beautiful field goals, but it was Jones' toe that placed the 'Gators in a tight place during the early stages of the game. The 'Gator captain employed the spiral punt. The ball shot straight in the air where the sharp wind grabbed it and carried it for 15 yards back of the punter. It rolled almost to the Florida goal line. Mississippi fought desperately to carry the ball over but the Florida line held.

Mississippi was decidedly stronger on the defensive than on the offense. In the latter stage of the game it opened up with an aerial attack which netted nothing. Meeks and Clark, in the backfield, with Jones in the line, were the stars for the Aggies.

Lineup and Summary.

FLA. (12)	Pos.	(0) A. & M.
Green	l.e.	Harkness
Williams	l.t.	Fulton
Norton	l.g.	Hopper
Sarra	c.	Jones
Stewart	r.g.	Thompson
Goldstein	r.t.	Brunson
Whitaker	r.e.	C. Hopper
Jones	q.b.	Meeks
Brown	l.h.	Patty
Bishop	r.h.	Stephens
Chaplin	f.b.	Clark

Score by periods:

Florida	3	3	6	0	—12
Miss. A. & M.	0	0	0	0	— 0

Touchdown, Jones; field goal, Jones (2). Referee, Powell (Wisconsin); umpire, Hutchinson (Perdue); headlinesman, Severance (Oberlin).

SOPHS, SENIORS CAGE WINNERS

The third series of games in the interclass tournament of North Avenue Presbyterian school was held Thursday afternoon in the school gymnasium. The Seniors, who have not been defeated, beat the Freshmen, 36 to 10, and the Sophomores beat the Juniors, 42 to 4. The teams have been coached by Miss Elizabeth Clanton and promise much good material for the varsity, which will be elected after Christmas. The final round will be played Tuesday, when the Sophomores meet the Seniors in the championship game.

MICHIGAN WINS FROM MINNESOTA

Chicago, November 21.—(AP)—Michigan's defeat of Minnesota today gave Michigan a tie for the football championship of the western conference with Northwestern. Michigan has won five conference games and lost one, and Northwestern has won three games and lost one, but the Michigan defeat was at the hands of Northwestern.

ELON DEFEATS EMORY HENRY

Elon College, N. C., November 21. (AP)—Elon this afternoon broke its losing streak by winning from Emory and Henry, 14 to 0. Raub's broken field running and sweeping end runs paved the way for the Christians' victory. Lawrence, Emory and Henry quarterback, made a 40-yard run from his own one-yard line.

S. CALIFORNIA BEATS IOWA

Los Angeles, November 21.—(AP)—The University of Southern California with a preponderance of straight football and with few passes, most of them incomplete, defeated Iowa, 18 to 0, today. "Cowboy" Kutsch and "Plowboy" Fry, of Iowa, carried the brunt of the battle for Old Gold.

TULANE GUARD ALWAYS ROLLS UP HIS SLEEVES

Irish Levy, Tulane guard, playing his fourth season with the Louisiana team, is famous in southern gridiron annals as the man who cannot play until he has rolled the sleeves of his jersey above his elbows. Another star on the team is Shorty Norman, five feet tall and weighing 128 pounds, who is the smallest halfback in major football.

RIVER TRAFFIC RESUMED HUNTSVILLE TO GADSDEN

Huntsville, Ala., November 21.—(Special.)—The Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railway has announced the restoration of all freight, passenger and mail service via the Tennessee river between Huntsville and Gadsden.

The transfer boats that were laid up because of low water in July, have been restored and navigation is normal after the long drouth.

Petrel Star Is Lauded By Davis

BY PARKE H. DAVIS.

The rarest run to occur in all football and the run most difficult to achieve is the full-field run from kick-off to touchdown, that is, the run-back of a kick-off through all opponents for a score. So rare is this type of run that although approximately 2,000 kick-offs have been sent down the field on the gridiron of the country during the present season only ten runs of this type have occurred. Their data is as follows:

David A. Reese, Vanderbilt vs. Tennessee, 95 yards; Raymond J. Barbuti, Syracuse vs. Providence, 95 yards; James E. Foley, Syracuse vs. Hobart, 90 yards; James O'Connor, New Hampshire State vs. Tufts, 90 yards; George Pease, Columbia vs. Wesleyan, 85 yards; Harold Grange, Illinois vs. Iowa, 85 yards; Benjamin Friedman, Michigan vs. Wisconsin, 85 yards; Hall Trapnell, Army vs. St. Louis, 85 yards; Charles Drew, Amherst vs. Wesleyan, 80 yards; Adrian H. Maurer, Oglethorpe vs. Loyola, 75 yards.

A mere glance at the above glorious roster will reveal the great skill necessary to pilot flying feet on a successful run-back of the kick-off, for the above list presents ten of the most brilliant backs in the United States.

Should Never Occur.

Theoretically, a run of this class should never occur. The defense, that is the kicking team, knows that the run-back will be forthcoming. It has the time leisurely to deploy its team to prevent it and according to a plan of disposition based upon the experience of 50 years. In its execution the defense is enabled to interpose every one of its eleven players between the carrier and the goal. Nevertheless, the run-back occasionally succeeds.

Curiously, these runs succeed in the very manner which would appear most difficult of accomplishment, straight up the center of the field, into the pack of oncoming players and straight through them. Charles Daly, of the Army, in 1901, executed one of these runs against the Navy by racing around Navy's left wing but in nine times out of ten such runs fail. The reason a run straight up the center of the field succeeds is because the defensive players entangle one another in the close pack at center thus preventing any defender from making a clean tackle of the carrier who is forced through the pack which bursts like a great folding door, throwing the carrier into an open field where fleet feet and nimble action takes him past the backfield defenders.

Few of Men Making Runs.

If you would know how select is the rare band of players who in the past have reeled off runs of this character you are referred to the following data of a few of these runs:

One hundred and six yards, Walter H. Eckersall, Chicago, vs. Wisconsin, 1904; 105 yards, Charles Dillon, Carlisle vs. Harvard, 1903; 105 yards, W. E. Sprackling, Brown vs. Carlisle, 1909; 105 yards, W. O. Ainslee, Williams vs. Cornell, 1911; 105 yards, John De Hart, Pittsburgh vs. Navy; 101 yards, R. W. Richardson, Pittsburgh vs. Bucknell, 1908; 100 yards, Robert W. Watson, Yale vs. Harvard, 1881; 100 yards, Ernest A. Hamer, Pennsylvania vs. Columbia, 1924; 100 yards, Edward G. Bray, Lafayette vs. Pennsylvania, 1899; 100 E. B. Cochems, Wisconsin vs. Chicago, 1901; 100 yards, Charles D. Daly, Army vs. Navy, 1901; 100 yards, W. P. Steffen, Chicago vs. Wisconsin, 1908; 98 yards, A. F. Williams, Cornell vs. Holy Cross, 1914; 95 yards, T. L. Shevlin, Yale vs. Columbia, 1903; 95 yards, John C. Garrels, Michigan vs. Illinois, 1906; 95 yards, A. E. Capron, Minnesota vs. Wisconsin, 1911; 95 yards, George B. Walbridge, Lafayette vs. Wesleyan, 1897; 90 yards, C. A. Way, Dartmouth vs. Pen State, 1919; 90 yards, Ellery C. Huntington, Colgate vs. Syracuse, 1913; 90 yards, H. L. Haines, Penn State vs. Pennsylvania, 1920; 90 yards, Glenn Killinger, Penn State vs. Georgia Tech, 1921; 85 yards, Joseph H. Sears, Harvard vs. Pennsylvania, 1886; 75 yards, R. M. Marshall, Pennsylvania vs. Carlisle, 1913.

IOWA DEFEATS DRAKE, 7 TO 6

Des Moines, Iowa, November 21.—(AP)—Iowa State college defeated Drake university here today 7 to 6 in an important Missouri Valley conference game. A series of line smashes by Corey, Ames sophomore fullback, gave the visitors the touchdown. Captain Johnny Behm deliberately gave Drake three safeties, preferring to use the "safety first" method in the closing minutes of play. It was Drake's homecoming. About 20,000 persons saw the game.

Thanksgiving Day
Attend the TECH-AUBURN Football Game at Grant Field
Plenty of tickets available at Athletic Association office and at Jacobs' Pharmacy at Five Points
$2.50 Each
Please Don't Buy From Speculators

WOLVERINES WINNERS, 35 TO 0

Ann Arbor, November 21.—(AP)—Michigan crushed Minnesota on Ferry field today, 35 to 0, and gave the Wolverines an equal claim with Northwestern to premier honors in the western conference football race.

It was a driving line attack and a bewildering aerial game that brought victory to the veteran coach, Fielding H. Yost, who saw his team emerge triumphant in the final game of his 25th year as gridiron mentor at Michigan.

The much-talked-of Spears shift failed to puzzle Michigan's vaunted line, and rarely did a Minnesota back get away for any considerable gain.

From the outset, Michigan fans saw victory when Minnesota, after making a first down, was forced into defensive play and found the Yost machine a thing they could not stop. Once in each of the first three periods and twice in the final quarter a Michigan man swept over a Gopher goal line and five times the accurate boots of Benny Friedman sent the ball between the goal posts for points after touchdown.

It was home-coming day for Michigan and the 48,000 rooters banked all sides of the concrete and wooden bowl.

Arendsee and Asher carried the burden of Minnesota's interference with Almquist and Murrell trying the ends and Joesting used for line attacks.

It was the first time this season that Joesting fell down in his line plunges, the Michigan forward wall stopping him repeatedly.

Lineup and Summary.

MICH. (35)	Pos.	(0) MINN.
Oosterbaan	l.e.	Tuttle
Edwards	l.t.	Dril
Baer	l.g.	Hanson
Brown	c.	MacKinnon
Lovette	r.g.	Walsh
Hawkins	r.t.	Meili
Flora	r.e.	Wheeler
Friedman	q.b.	Arendsee
Gilbert	l.h.	Almquist
W. Webber	r.h.	Murrell
Molenda	f.b.	Joesting

Score by periods:

Michigan	7	7	7	14	—35
Minnesota	0	0	0	0	— 0

Touchdowns: Molenda 2, Oosterbaan, Gilbert. Points from try after touchdown: Friedman 5. Officials: Referee, Nichols (Oberlin); umpire, Young (Illinois Wesleyan); field judge, Keithley (Illinois); headlinesman, Gardiner (Illinois). Time of periods, 15 minutes.

A. U. DEFEATS CLARK, 21 TO 7

Atlanta university defeated Clark university yesterday afternoon in a hard game, by the score of 21 to 7. Both teams were evenly matched and the colored boys played a brilliant game. A large number of fans were on hand for the game.

BRUNSWICK PLANS ADVERTISING FUND

Brunswick, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Tuesday, December 1, has been set as the date upon which the city of Brunswick is expected to raise $25,000 as an advertising fund for the purpose of telling the world of her wonderful advantages along agricultural lines, of her manufacturing sites, historical points, splendid beaches both winter and summer, wonderful port and of her fine climate for tourists.

Nationally-known speakers will address the meeting held on that day.

The advertising plan is being sponsored by the Brunswick board of trade, of which Fred G. Wade is managing secretary.

MRS. WOOD AWARDED CUSTODY OF CHILDREN

Wilmington, Del., November 21.—(AP)—The custody of the two children of former Lieutenant and Mrs. Osborne C. Wood, divorced here yesterday, will be retained by Mrs. Wood under the provisions of an agreement approved today by Judge E. L. Rice in superior court. The agreement was submitted by counsel for each side.

Wood at various times may be permitted to see the children at Mrs. Wood's home, but at no time will he be permitted to take them out of Newcastle county, of which Wilmington is a part. No definite time for Wood's visits was incorporated in the agreement.

OIL MEN TRY IN VAIN TO BUY DALLAS CLUB

A group of oil men headed by G. F. Rozier, of Breckenridge, Texas, conferred with officials of the Dallas club with a view to buying it. These people were willing to pay real money for the club and made an offer of $285,000. When the officials turned it down they asked the owners to set a price. "But we won't sell," Walter Morris stated.

HUNTSVILLE TO HEAR SENATOR TOM HEFLIN

Huntsville, Ala., November 21.—(Special.)—Senator J. Thomas Heflin has accepted the invitation of the Huntsville Kiwanis club to deliver an address to farmers on the night of November 27.

The Kiwanis have arranged a program of special interest to farmers and will invite many of them to be their guests on this occasion.

ANCIENT LIGHTSHIP RETIRED FROM SERVICE

Washington, November 21.—(AP)—Lightship No. 11, the oldest veteran among vessels of its class in government service, has been retired from its station off Sandy Hook at the entrance to New York bay, and will be broken up.

The boat went into service 72 years ago at Nantucket Shoals and has since been on several stations along the north Atlantic coast. It will be replaced by a lightship of

Sportively Speaking~

By H. C. HAMILTON

Red Grange's Decision. The Lure of Lucre. Mercer Upsets Dope.

RED GRANGE has played his last football game and now he is going to make some money out of the reputation his press agents have given him. He is going to play professional football in Miami and he is going to make a movie.

Mr. Grange doesn't know all about the details of his appearance in Miami, and he hasn't the slightest idea of the nature of the picture he is going to grace by his presence. He says rather flatly for a national hero, that he is going to do that which will make the most money for him.

THAT is fine! Mr. Grange begins to bear all the earmarks of a normal young man. He appears to be mortal after all. He wants and needs money in order to properly propel himself through this world. He is going to take his little reputation and hock it for all it is worth.

But isn't it sort of a shock to you to read that flat-sounding commercial statement, "I'm going where I can make the most money?"

THERE will be no objection on the part of anyone to Grange's growing rich with the profits of his service on the gridiron. It is to be hoped that he will play professional football, make lots of money at it, and give many, many persons a chance to look him over. That he is going to play football in Miami is good because there undoubtedly are many persons in that state who never would have had a chance to see him.

The movies appear to offer little for Red Grange. He is a greater figure than Jack Dempsey in his own little world, but the movie fan is a queer bird, that knows what it wants, and it doesn't care to trade its screen heroes for those of other pursuits.

GRANGE faded from the amateur field in some glory, although he was not so much of a wild man against the Ohio State team as he has been against others. The Illini won, but not by a large score. Grange got away for two long runs which thrilled the crowd, and he played a fine game of football. Neither touchdown, however, was scored by him. He contributed to one by tossing a pass.

And now that all the hullabaloo about Grange is over let us turn to some of the other football players and see if there are not some more good ones in the country. There are, after all, a few of them.

THE football schedule was whittled some Saturday while teams awaited Thanksgiving day or next Saturday, when the season will come to a close in virtually all parts of the country, but it contained one line which will be noticed with great pleasure around Tulane. Missouri, which tied Tulane early in the season and whipped everything else on her schedule, ran into the Kansas eleven and lost the decision.

This needs a little explanation. For many hard-fighting years there has been intense rivalry between Kansas and Missouri. The entire season at the two universities is devoted to preparation for this annual conflict. Kansas undoubtedly went into that game to play her heart out and she won. The game formerly was played on Thanksgiving day each year and so intense was the feeling that for years it was played in Kansas City.

IN OUR own backyard we perceive much grief. There is tearing of hair and gnashing of teeth, for Oglethorpe lost. Oglethorpe, which was romping home with the S. I. A. A. championship, apparently, was crushed by Mercer, which had been crushed by practically everything else this year.

The sudden fumble of a kickoff and the galloping dash of a Mercer man to a touchdown in the first play of the game evidently unnerved the Petrels. They couldn't get going and Mercer could. The score was entirely too much. Folks who figured the Petrels would win are still gasping over it. However, that is only one of the ever-increasing crop of upsets. Harvard held Yale to a scoreless tie when everybody, including Harvard freshmen, thought the Crimson would be lucky to escape a horrible beating.

Roberts, Tech Runner, Sets Five-Mile Course Record

Roanoke, Va., November 21.—(Special.)—Lindsey Roberts, Tech's fleet-footed captain, was proclaimed the south's greatest distance runner Saturday as he won the annual southern conference five-mile cross-country race, establishing a new record of 29 minutes 11 3-4 seconds for the course. Tech and V. P. I. tied up for first honors with 53 points each but the officials awarded the Gobblers the championship, in as much as they won the championship last year and placed a sixth runner ahead of Tech. Georgia won third, Virginia fourth, Washington and Lee fifth, and V. M. I. sixth.

Florida had three runners entered while the Maryland runners, although entered, failed to show up. The Georgia Crackers took away six of the ten individual medals, Tech and Georgia splitting with three each. The course, a hard one over hill and dale, was a real test for the harriers and proved the real running ability of Captain Roberts, who picked up the lead shortly before the last half mile. Tommy Mark, of Georgia, set pace after the runners had strung out. Marks finished a close race to Roberts, following by Wild Bill Tate for third place. Dance, the crack V. P. I. runner, finished fourth.

Roberts (Tech), first, time 29 minutes 11 3-4 seconds; Marks (Georgia), second; Tate (Georgia), third; Dance (V. P. I.), fourth; Risher (Virginia), fifth; Bacot (V. P. I.), sixth; Orr (Georgia), seventh; Wright (Tech), eighth; Gordon (W. and L.), ninth; Fickett (Tech), tenth.

V. P. I., first, 53; Tech, second, 53; Georgia, third, 73; Virginia, fourth, 75; Washington and Lee, fifth, 84; V. M. I., sixth, and Florida, seventh.

'Stumpy' Thomason Stars As Milligan Crew Wins

Johnson City, Tenn., November 21. (Special.)—Stumpy Thomason led Milligan college to another spectacular victory here today over Guilford college by the score of 39 to 0, with long runs from kickoffs, returned punts and from scrimmage. One time he was on the receiving end of a pass that traveled in the air 40 yards. Chief Surface heaved it with the accuracy of an outfielder. Barron was another star. He received one of Surface's cross-country passes for a 50-yard gain.

Dennis played a great game with deadly precision in his backing up the line. Pop Blissett played the entire game with his shoulder in a plaster cast. Captain McCormick, of the Buffaloes, and Coot Watkins, former Tech High star, were invincible with their tackle play. Watkins is hailed as the greatest tackle in the Appalachian conference.

Waddell and Smallwood were great on defense.

This was the final game for Milligan, making the season's record stand six wins out of nine games.

NEW STEAMLESS VESSEL OFF TO U. S. ON MAIDEN VOYAGE

Gothenburg, Sweden, November 21. (AP)—The Swedish-American line's new steamless vessel, the motor ship, Gripsholm, sailed for New York on her maiden voyage today carrying 650 passengers.

The Gripsholm is the first large passenger ship fitted with new double-working Diesel motors, and her tests showed her capable of averaging 17 3-4 knots. This means that the New York-Gothenburg trip will be cut to less than eight days, as compared with the customary nine or ten.

The Gripsholm's engine room is only one-sixth the size of that of an ordinary steamer of her displacement.

ELK HILLS OIL LEASE DECISION EXPECTED MONDAY

Washington, November 21.—(AP)—Chief Justice McCoy of the District of Columbia supreme court is expected to hand down on Monday his opinion in the injunction proceedings brought by the Standard Oil Company of California, to prevent the government from interfering with its operations in the Elk Hills naval oil reserve in California.

In advance of this decision counsel for the government are preparing to bring action for the recovery of section 36 in this reserve now operated by that company. The government takes the position that at the time this land was ceded to the state of California it was known to be min-

TITLE HONORS ARE DIVIDED IN WEST

Chicago, November 21.—(AP)—Western conference football championship honors for 1925 tonight are divided between Michigan and Northwestern.

Michigan has won five conference victories to three for Northwestern. Each has one defeat, but the Michigan defeat was at the hands of Northwestern, while Northwestern was defeated by Chicago which finished in seventh place.

Wisconsin also won three games and lost one, but was held to a tie by Minnesota.

The five Michigan victories were over Indiana, Wisconsin, Illinois, Ohio State, and Minnesota.

The three Northwestern victories were over Indiana, Michigan and Purdue.

CENTRE STAR IS ENGAGED

Tampa, Fla., November 21.—(AP)—Herbert (Flash) Covington, famous Centre college football player, is to be married to Miss Eleanor Blanch McCormick, of Senatobia, Miss., according to an announcement made here today. The wedding will take place on December 16 at the bride's home.

SARAZEN WINS BRYAN FEATURE

Bowie, Md., November 21.—(AP)—Sarazen won the Gadsden D. Bryan memorial handicap mile for all ages, $15,000 added, today. Joy Smoke was second and Princess Doreen third. The time was 1:40 2-5. A $2 pari-mutuel ticket on the winner paid $8.70 straight, $9.30 place and $6 to show.

Crimson, Halting Offensive Of Eli, Rated Moral Victor In Last of Big Three Games

BY FRANK GETTY.

Cambridge, Mass., November 21.—One crowded hour of mediocre, disappointing football marked the climax of Yale's discontent and Harvard's vindication this afternoon, as a fighting Crimson team won one of those "moral victories" by holding the Bulldog to a scoreless tie.

Yale entirely failed to live up to the promise of its power and prestige, while Harvard fought with unlimited courage and unexpected dash until the final whistle sounded.

Harvard Holds at Goal Line.

At the very end, when the shadow of the towering stands, packed with 54,000 Harvard and Yale grads and undergrads, fell across the gridiron, the Bulldog was hammering at the Crimson goal, close, so close to a touchdown. But the little more proved very far away, for the welcome sound of the field judge's horn touched off a roaring Harvard cheer, and the game ended with the score: Harvard, 0; Yale, 0.

Thrice the Bulldog showed its fangs and threatened to score, and as often fate and the fighting Crimson line hurled back the threat into the invader's teeth.

Harvard, on the other hand, had the ball in Yale territory in but one period, and then never closer to the Eli goal than the 35-yard line. The Crimson's glory and vindication came in the manner in which the vaunted Blue attack was smothered. Time after time, Turner and Kilgour and C. Bradford, a little pyramid of power at the Harvard pivot positions, stemmed and smashed back the Eli rushes.

Allen Smashes Through Line.

Yale, recovering a fumble early in the first period, took the ball on Harvard's 25-yard line. Fishwick, upon whose generalship at quarter Tad Jones had pinned his hopes of a victory over Harvard, called for a series of line plunges, on which Noble and Allen plowed through for a first down.

This having proved good football tactics, and the Harvard line appearing demoralized for the mement as it was against Princeton, Fishwick ordered more of the same, and Larry Noble ripped through on two rushes to the five-yard line. Kline was called on for the two yards needed for another first down, and got them, and it looked as though Harvard was doomed to defeat.

Right at this juncture, kneeling on its goal line, the Crimson team gave a hint of what was to come. Noble was stopped in a bull-like rush at center. The same player was hurled back for a two-yard loss.

Yale, its morale as well as its attack stunted by this stubborn resistance, tried the air. Noble then threw a short pass to Fishwick, but the Eli quarterback was hurled to the ground a few feet short of the goal line.

Pass Ordered on Last Down.

On the fourth down, instead of calling for a line plunge, Yale's field general elected to try another forward pass, and Noble flipped the ball across the goal line, where Captain Dolph Cheek, of Harvard, who covered himself with glory in many ways during the afternoon, caught the ball and downed it.

Thus ended the first of Yale's three opportunities. From this point until the end of the half, Harvard held Yale on even terms, punts booming over midfield and both teams showing a woeful lack of anything resembling a real offensive.

Twice alert Yale backs intercepted Crimson passes, but the big Blue team was ignorant of the art of interference—one of the A. B. C.'s of football—and even when an Eli player got loose with the ball he was quickly smothered beneath a heap of squirming red jerseys.

Going into the second half, the Bulldog opened up with a whirlwind attack, but Harvard was not long in taking the wind out of the whirlwind. Dan Allen caught the kickoff on his own 20-yard line, and raced—unaided, be it noted—to midfield. After Noble and Kline had added five yards in two rushes, Dan again got loose through a big hole in the

Continued on page 5, column 1.

A Thanksgiving Message of Importance

DANIEL'S PROSPERITY SPECIALS

Suits and Overcoats

One Group at $29.50

Another at $39.50

It's great to buy such clothes as these right at Thanksgiving time. New styles and fabrics tailored for you by Hart Schaffner & Marx

There are other specials, too, for Thanksgiving only---get yours tomorrow

Daniel Bros. Company
45-49 Peachtree, at Walton

TULANE REPLACES PENN STATE ON TECH SCHEDULE

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Tigers Drilling Hard for Tech Game Thanksgiving

Improvement Is Seen In Kicking

BY EMMETT SIZEMORE.

Auburn, Ala., November 21.—(Special.) — Darkness Saturday night found Coach Morey and his 30-odd Auburn Plainsmen hammering hard in preparation for the Thanksgiving day battle with Georgia Tech. As the practice session that had lasted continuously from 2 o'clock came to a close the hardest week seen on Drake field this season was ended. During the week just closed the Tiger gridmen have been subjected to all the forms of training. Plenty of scrimmage has been sandwiched into the week's program. It has been both defensive and offensive scrimmaging.

Not a stone will be left unturned in preparation for the mammoth task that looms so large as the final week's work drew to a close. A full inventory has been made of the job. Much concern is being exhibited by the Auburn following of the great offensive that has featured Georgia Tech phuy this season.

Due credit is being given the ability of Captain Wycoff and Carter Barron in leading the Jacket offense to victory as they have done on many occasions this season against hefty foes. Due credit is also being handed to Ivan Williams, Tech quarterback, whose toe becomes dangerous after midfield has been passed.

Line Called Strongest.

The Tech line has been heralded throughout the south as one of the best, if not the strongest line in the conference. These are the threats that have been foremost in the minds of the Tigers and their coaches as the week's work has come to a close, and to overcome the mighty attack that is possessed in the Alexander stronghold every factor in the mind and muscle of the Tiger eleven has been put into action.

It's Auburn's last stand of the season. For eight men on the Tiger varsity it's their last game. At end, Spinks and Ollinger will enter their last battle in the southern conference On the line, Captain Red Harkins, Bozo Self and "Bull" McFadden will discard the footall toggery Thursday night. In the backfield three losses will fall heavy to the Plainsmen lot. These are Crane, Green and Williams, all of whom will graduate next spring and who have played their allotted conference time.

Kicking Improves.

This week's workouts have developed improvement in the kicking department that has figured conspicuously in Auburn-Tech games in the past. The kicking division has caused some worry to the coaches this season. Green and Crane have been drilled extensively along this line this week and as the week is brought to a close much more distance has been in evidence from the toe offerings of these two lads.

Some changes may be seen in the lineup that starts against Tech from what was thought to be the starting lineup earlier in the week. There is a probability that Shotts will start at fullback instead of Turner, who sustained an arm injury that has kept him out of the rough work recently. Carter may be seen at tackle. This LaGrange lad has been showing wonderful stuff in the recent practices. Coach Morey has spent no little effort to train and have available for the Thanksgiving game a tackle reserve that is sure to be needed against the strong Jacket tackles.

With one or two exceptions, the Auburn squad is in fair condition and, barring injuries before the game starts, the Auburnites should encounter the Alexander men in fair condition.

When Mercer Bears Handed Petrels First Defeat of Season

Photos by Kenneth Rogers, Constitution Staff Photographer.

Two action shots from the Mercer-Oglethorpe game at Spiller field Saturday which the Bears won, 21 to 6, handing Oglethorpe its first S. I. A. A. defeat of the season. At the top, Adrian Maurer, flashy Petrel halfback and one of the south's greatest broken-field runners, starting one of his short dashes around end, as Kilgore, at extreme right, runs out to take out the Bear side back. Below, Nutty Campbell, 130-pound Petrel quarterback, is caught as he began one of his short smashes through the line. The two stars of the Mercer team are at the ieft, Phoney Smith being the man at the extreme left, and Ralph Skelton being the one with his back to the camera in the foreground.

Plenty of Seats Available For Tech-Auburn Struggle

There is one satisfactory feature about the approaching Tech-Auburn game that should bring no mean amount of joy throughout the south. There will be ample seating capacity to accommodate the crowd. For the last few years, the seating problem at the Thanksgiving game has been particularly acute.

Tech now has provided over 30,000 seats for the convenience of those who would like to witness the Turkey day contest.

Regarding the game itself, no accurate prediction can be made. Auburn has flashed only once this year, and that was against Vanderbilt. But, all due respect to Auburn, Vanderbilt was badly drained by the game with Tech on the previous Saturday.

Ostensibly, Tech should win the game. But, as in the Georgia game, dope does not count a nickel's worth in this grand battle. According to the dope does not count a nickel's worth touchdowns superior to Auburn. Yet, if Tech wins at all, the margin of score probably will not exceed a touchdown.

Auburn is this kind of a team: Just when you think it is down and out, just when you begin to underrate the fighting powers of the Plainsmen; just at that time, Auburn will come out and maul the stuffing out of you.

Remember 1919? Tech defeated Georgetown in a spectacular game, scoring almost at will. Then came Auburn. Everyone said Tech could beat Auburn two touchdowns with the second team. Tech did not beat Auburn, and played the first team all the game.

The Plainsmen outfought and outplayed the Yellow Jackets, and richly deserved a 14 to 7 victory.

People who are prone to look upon the game lightly, should see the seriousness with which it is viewed by coaches and players alike. Coach Alexander is keeping his men in top shape. He has scrimmaged them repeatedly against the Auburn formations.

Tech will be ready and tuned on that day. It will be the last appearance of six of the boys. Naturally they will attempt to end the season with a beautiful game. The same applies to Auburn.

With Auburn primed and Tech primed, it will be a glorious fight between friendly rivals on Thanksgiving day.

NORTHDAKOTA BEATEN, 13 - 0

Milwaukee, Wis., November 21.—(Special.)—Spurred on by the sparkling offensive work of Don Curtin, quarter just switched to half, and the brilliant play of Lavern Dilweg at end, the Marquette university Golden Avalanche swept to a 13-to-0 victory over the University of North Dakota before 8,000 people in the Marquette stadium this afternoon.

Two passes, both Demoling to Dilweg, the last two plays of the first half, carried the ball 40 yards for Marquette's first touchdown. Dilweg leaping into the air to spear the final throw and run ten yards over the goal line. Kub, inserted to make the kick, added the extra point. In the fourth quarter, Marquette recovered a North Dakota fumble on the Flick's 12-yard line. Two hard plunges by Leary through center, six yards by Heimsch and a final plunge over the line by Curtin giving Marquette its last six points.

Dilweg and Curtin were the outstanding luminaries on an all-star Marquette team, while Boe featured for North Dakota. Marquette meets Mercer here Thursday.

Line Plunges Indicated As Wade Polishes Offense

BY BOB MATHERNE.

University, Ala., November 21.—(Special.)—The attendance at the Tech-Georgia game in Atlanta last week-end smashed all attendance records for Dixieland, but the way the ducats for the Georgia-Alabama game in Birmingham on Thanksgiving day are going, it looks like Rickwood field is to be packed with fans like sardines in a can.

You just can't get any tickets here at Tuscaloosa and there are few remaining at other places in Birmingham, where the seats are on sale. The entire student body will be present from the Alabama institution and it is understood that some several hundreds will be there from the Cracker state. All in all it looks like close to 20,000 at Rickwood next Thursday.

Southern California and Pittsburg have offered the Crimsons a game next season, but a contract with Vanderbilt called for the second engagement of the season, leaving only an opponent in the first game to be scheduled for the Tide. As it is, Alabama will repeat next year with Vanderbilt.

Alabama will take the field Thanksgiving Day with its regular lineup if "Pete" Camp is able to take care of a tackle berth. If Camp is unable to participate, then his job will fall upon the husky shoulders of either Leslie Payne or Freddie Pickhard, with the dope favoring Pickhard. All the rest of the varsity squad will be ready. Little Rosenfeld also is in good condition after being crippled most of the season and the spectators at Rickwood are apt to see little Rosie perform some.

With Coach Wade rebuilding his line this week so as to have them charge on the offense, it seems that Georgia's line can look forward to some great pummeling from the ponderous Hubert, the smashing Caldwell, and the wiry Barnes with Mack around the ends. The aerial attack of the Crimsons also will be a menace always. In other words, any phase of attack one could want is apt to be displayed by the Crimsons next Thursday.

With all due credit to Brown, Hubert and the rest of the Alabama backs, this boy Caldwell can carry that spheriod. If you were in Montgomery last Saturday and saw him stiff-arming the 'Gators out of his way, you will agree. Caldwell weighs hardly more than 155 pounds and is stockily built. He runs beautiful interference and ranks along a defensive player. Perhaps Thursday will be his chance to gather off yardage for the Crimsons.

It's going to be a great conflict coming out of the Crimsons with seven stellar performers doing their stuff for the last time. You can count on those seven fighting hard. Remember the great exhibition Big Ben Compton gave last year in his final game. Some of these others are due for their best game and if it does not come out Thursday, there won't be any other chance.

Alabama and Alligators Exchange Dates; All Games Here Except Notre Dame

BY JOHN STATON
Former All-Southern End

Only one new team will be found on the 1926 Georgia Tech football schedule, released Saturday. Tulane will replace Penn State. Alabama and Florida have swapped dates. With these two exceptions, the schedule is exactly similar to the one now facing its last lap.

The complete schedule for next year follows:

September 25, Oglethorpe, Atlanta
October 2, V. M. I., Atlanta
October 9, Tulane, Atlanta
October 16, Alabama, Atlanta
October 23, Florida, Atlanta
October 30, Notre Dame, South Bend, Ind.
November 6, Vanderbilt, Atlanta
November 13, Georgia, Atlanta
November 25, Auburn, Atlanta

The termination of relations with Penn State comes at a very propitious time. For, in four meetings, each team has won and lost two. In 1921 Penn State defeated Tech handily on the Polo grounds in New York. Then, in 1923, Penn State defeated Tech by a lone touchdown. This game was played at State College, Pa.

The following year Tech and Penn State played in Atlanta. Tech, aided by the work of Baker, of Penn State, won that game by the lone margin of a safety. Then this season, at the Yankee stadium, Tech again defeated Penn State, the final score being 16 to 7.

The Tech football schedule of 1917 assumed a national character by the inclusion of Pennsylvania. Ever since that year some eastern tea mhas been on the playing list of the Yellow Jackets. In 1918-19-20 Tech played Pittsburgh. In 1921 Penn State, 1922 Navy, 1923-24-25 Penn State. Next year Tech will not go east. A small matter, for many years remain in which Tech can resume its annual pilgrimage above the Mason-Dixon line.

Greenies Not Strangers.

Tulane is not an absolutely new team, in the literal sense of the word. For, in the dark ages, when Tech was first emerging into national prominence, Tulane had a place on the schedule. Unless memory is deceitful, the last game between these two teams was in 1917 at New Orleans. Tech won the game handily, but players recall, not so much the victory, as the intense heat.

Suffice it to say that Tulane is coming back on the schedule. After the record that football team has made this year, the game should draw a monster crowd. Tulane is theoretically, the championship eleven of the world.

The Florida-Alabama swap should permit Tech to meet the Crimson Tide at top speed. With the count standing two down against Tech in three starts, one can well imagine how much Tech wishes to be in form for Alabama next year.

The Vandy, Georgia and Auburn dates have become standardized by common consent of all teams concerned. Tech, Georgia, Vandy and Auburn have a very definite compact regarding dates.

Four Hard Schedules.

Vanderbilt plays Georgia, Tech and Auburn in succession. Tech plays Vandy, Georgia and Auburn in succession. Georgia plays Vandy, Auburn and Tech in succession. Auburn plays Georgia, Vandy and Tech in succession. Under this agreement, no team of the four can accuse the other of carrying a lighter schedule than the other.

On the whole, the schedule is admirable. It is well balanced, broad in its scope and offers Tech the opportunity of winning, beyond question, the championship of the southern conference. The framers of this list are to be congratulated.

From present indications Tech will unquestionably be weaker next year. This result is expected naturally to follow the exodus of so many of the stars. In the usual run of seasons it happens that a star is not sorely missed, for some other's light begins to shine just as his goes out. Remember the phrase, "The king is dead—long live the king." It applies with equal vigor to football stars.

But one cannot recklessly state that the places of Wycoff, Williams, Godwin and cohorts can be immediately filled. True, there is good material coming on. But the problem is getting that material in finished form by the beginning of next season. Such is the task that confronts Coach Alexander.

No attempt has been made to alibi in advance—not that; what has been said is merely an honest effort to present the facts. Tech will be weaker, and the schedule not quite so arduous. So, two should fit nicely. In 1927 when some of the present material should be fully experienced, Tech may have a team that will rival those of 1917, '20 and '21.

FOOTBALL RESULTS

At Atlanta: Mercer, 21; Oglethorpe, 6.
At Lexington, Va.: Washington and Lee, 14; North Carolina State, 0.
At Baton Rouge, La.: Tulane, 16; L. S. U., 0.
At Tampa, Fla.: Florida, 12; Mississippi Aggies, 0.
At New York: Columbia, 46; Alfred, 0.
At Bethlehem: Lafayette 14; Lehigh, 0.
At Richmond: Hampden Sidney, 20; Randolph-Macon, 0.
At Washington: Marines, 20; Fort Benning infantry, 0.
At New York: Georgetown, 27; Fordham, 0.
At Cambridge: Yale, 0; Harvard, 0.
At Syracuse: Syracuse, 17; Niagara, 0.
At Washington: George Washington university, 59; Buffalo university, 0.
At Lewisburg, Pa.: Bucknell, 7; Dickinson, 0.
At Swarthmore, Pa.: Swarthmore, 70; Haverford, 13.
At New Wilmington, Pa.: Westminster, 0; Allegheny, 43.
At Annville, Pa.: Lebanon Valley, 41; Albright, 0.
At Selins Grove, Pa.: Temple university, 26; Susquehanna university, 10.
Reading, Pa.: George Washington, 20; Schuylkill college, 12.
Annapolis: Navy Plebs, 40; New York Military academy, 18.
Bloomington, Ind.: Indiana, 0; Purdue, 0.
At West Point, N. Y.: Army, 44; Ursinius, 0.
New Brunswick, N. J.: Rutgers, 7; New York university, 6.
At Springfield, Mass.: Springfield college, 17; Providence college, 13.
At Worcester, Mass.: Holy Cross, 48; Boston university, 7.
At Providence: Brown, 38; New Hampshire, 14.
St Joseph's college, 13; Drexel, 3.
At Ann Arbor: Michigan, 35; Minnesota, 0.
At Troy, N. Y.: Renssalaer, '13; Connecticut Aggies, 7.
At Amherst, Mass.: Massachusetts Aggies, 6; Tufts, 4.
At Philadelphia: St. Joseph's college, 13; Drexel, 3.
Notre Dame, 13; Northwestern, 10.
At Crawfordsville, Ind.: Wabash, 22; Depauw, 0.
Carnegie Tech, 18; St. Louis university, 2.
Loyola (Chicago), 13; John Carroll, 7.
Iowa State, 7; Drake, 6.
Baltimore: St. Mary's, 20; Loyola, 0.
Lawrence, Kas.: Missouri, 7; Kansas, 10.
Beaver Falls, Pa.: Geneva, 10; Waynesburg, 0.
Chicago, 7; Wisconsin, 20.
Howard, 20; Birmingham-Southern, 16.
Upsala, 28; Cooper Union, 6.
Case, 6; Western Reserve, 0.
Kenyon, 30; Akron university, 0.
Dayton, 48; Otterbein, 0.
Ohio Wesleyan, 41; St. Xavier, 0.
At Boise: Oregon Aggies, 16; University of Idaho, 7.
At Milwaukee: Marquette, 13; North Dakota, 0.
At Northfield, Minn.: Carleton, 12; Knox, 8.
At Cedar Rapids: Coe, 0; Cornell college, 16.
At Greeley, Colo.: Colorado college, 10; Colorado Teachers, 6.
At Winona, Minn.: St. Mary's college, 20; Ripon, 3.
At Peoria: Bradley, 46; Eureka, 0.
Illinois Wesleyan, 6; Illinois college, 6.
LaCrosse Normal, 13; DePauw, 13.
Columbus, 6; Augustana, 0.
At Boulder: University of Colorado, 34; Western State college, 0.
Mt. Union, 31; Hiram, 0.
Capital, 6; Cedarsville, 0.
At Washington: Catholic university, 60; Gallaudette, 6.
At Louisville: University of Louisville, 34; Toledo university, 0.
At Orange, N. J.: Upsala, 28; Cooper Union, 6.
At Roanoke, Pa.: William and Mary, 23; Roanoke, 0.
At Shreveport: Butler, 9; Centenary, 0.
At Norman: Oklahoma, 28; Washington, 0.
At Fayetterville: Arkansas, 9; Oklahoma Aggies, 7.
At Little Rock: Little Rock college, 30; Bryson college (Tenn.), 13.
At New York: Canisius, 9; St. John's, 6.
At Omaha: Haskell Indians, 16; Creighton university, 7.
At Northfield, Minn.: MacAlester, 46; St. Olaf, 6.
At Denver: Colorado Aggies, 41; Colorado Mines, 10.
At Provo, Utah: Montana State, 18; Brigham Young, 17.
At Louisville: University of Louisville, 24; Toledo university, 0.
At Annapolis, Md.: Navy Plebes, 40; New York Military Academy, 18.
At Selins Grove, Pa.: Temple university, 26; Susquehanna university, 10.
At Reading, Pa.: George Washington, 20; Schuylkill college, 12.

Generals Defeat N. C. State, 14 to 0, To Keep Clean Slate

Lexington, Va., November 21.—(AP) Washington and Lee's Generals, undefeated in the southern conference, wound up its home gridiron season today with a 14 to 0 victory over North Carolina State. It was the fifth time this year that the locals have downed a conference member.

The only other remaining game on the Generals' schedule is the contest with Florida at Jacksonville on Thanksgiving day.

North Carolina State's downfall today was due principally to inability of the ends to forestall the charges of Mike Palmer, Rauber and Wilson. Several times during the contest Palmer circled the ends for runs of 10 to 20 yards and Wilson on one occasion went around end for 15 yards. Rauber went through the line on several plays for 10 to 15-yard gains.

The Generals' first score came near the close of the initial period after they had gained possession of the ball on downs on State's 20-yard line and a pass, Wilson to Rauber, advanced it to the five-yard mark, from where a 4 1-2-yard gain through the line by Rauber enabled Wilson to carry the ball over. Rauber then kicked goal.

In the next period, the Generals got the ball on their own 20-yard line and several successive end runs of from 10 to 17 yards by Palmer put it on State's two-yard mark. Here Rauber hit Tate for one yard and then went over for the second touchdown. Again he kicked goal.

The third and fourth periods were principally punting duels, although in the third quarter Palmer got off a 20-yard run off left tackle that brought spectators to their feet. He was downed, however, on State's 20-yard line and the Generals lost the ball when McDowell intercepted Wilson's pass.

Lineup and Summary.

W. & L.	Pos.	N. C. ST.
Daves	le	Beatty
Tilson	lt	Evans
Stemmons	lg	Black
Hawkins	c	Logan
Vanhorn	rg	Bynum
Holt	rt	Nicholson
Thomas (C)	re	Austell
Tipps	pb	Johnston
Wilson	lh	Hunsucker
Palmer	rh	McDowell
Rauber	fb	W. Shuford

Scoring by periods:

W. and L.	7	7	0	0	—14
N. C. State	0	0	0	0	— 0

Washington and Lee scoring: Touchdown, Wilson, Rauber; points after touchdown, Rauber (2) (placement).

Officials: Referee, McGoffin (Michigan); umpire, Gass (Lehigh); head linesman, Gooch (Virginia).

FIGHT CARD ON IN MARIETTA TUESDAY

The next fistic program in this neighborhood will be staged at Marietta Tuesday evening when Hollis Sullivan, Riverside student and flashy junior lightweight, battles Eddie Leonard, of New York, in the 10-round feature bout. The show will be put on by the Marietta Athletic club, of which W. H. Evans is director.

Sullivan has not shown in Atlanta in two years, but when he was fighting here he always made a splendid impression. Recently he has come out unusually fast and has a tough opponent in Leonard, who is planning to make his home in Atlanta. Leonard has boxed such boys as Joe White, Benny Ray, Charlie Parker and Sammie Drake.

The show is the fourth one to be given by the Marietta Athletic club.

In the semi-windup Bennie Regan, fast-moving bantamweight, will box Joy Joyner six rounds. Regan is rated as a comer in his division.

In addition to these bouts there will be two preliminaries and a battle royal as a curtain raiser.

FAY PLANNING FLORIDA BOUTS

Harry Fay, light-heavyweight, who has boxed Young Stribling and Jack Reddick here, is planning a campaign this winter under the management of Albert Gossett, the latter announced last night. Fay has been sailing out of Louisville.

Fay is rated as one of the best men in the light-heavyweight division in the south and has been promised two matches in Miami during December and January. It is understood he may be matched with Stribling in the second bout.

Gossett is here planning to get several bouts for Fay in this section before taking him to Florida.

Minneapolis Pays $200,000 For Famous Art Treasure

:: SENATOR CLARK ART COLLECTION TO BE SOLD ::

New York, November 21.—(AP)—Two important events in the world of art came to light here today.

One was the announcement by the Reinhardt galleries that the Minneapolis Society of Fine Arts had purchased at a price exceeding $200,000 Titian's "Temptation of Christ," most highly prized work of the famous sixteenth century Venetian master.

The other was that the bulk of the celebrated art collection of the late Senator William A. Clark of Montana would be offered at public sale early in January.

The Titian is to go on exhibition Monday for two weeks at the Reinhardt galleries, prior to its removal to Minneapolis, and the public will be given its first opportunity to view much of Senator Clark's collection when his paintings and other works of art are placed on sale.

It had been generally supposed that Senator Clark's will provided for disposal of the entire collection to the Metropolitan Museum of Art in this city or to the Corcoran Art Gallery in Washington. Attorneys for the estate explained, however, that only certain portions of the collection were bequeathed to these institutions and that some of the finest pieces still remained in possession of the family.

Purchase by the Minneapolis institution of the Titian masterpiece is regarded by art lovers as a distinct departure of a mid-western institution, for art experts here said that, with the exception of the Chicago Museum of Fine Arts, no institution in that section has paralleled the policy of the Minneapolis society in basing its collection definitely on a nucleus of works of old masters.

Soon after the policy was inaugurated a few years ago, the Minneapolis society acquired one of its first old masters in El Greco's "Christ Purging the Temple." Others followed quickly, with the Titian as the climax.

Quite by accident the "Temptation of Christ" was discovered within recent years. Despite its prominence in art collections of Europe during the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

In 1800, after six months' exhibition in a London gallery, the picture was purchased at auction by Thomas Hope, an English art connoisseur and collector of Italian masterpieces. It was placed in a castle in northern England, where, handed down from generation to generation, it soon passed from the memories of art lovers, though its fame as a part of the Palais royal collection never died.

Its disappearance came not long ago when a European representative of the Reinhardt galleries, seeking out works of art in northern England, found the masterpiece in the old castle, had it shipped to the continent and there placed it on the market.

The sale of the Clark collection will be under the auspices of the American Art association, with the pictures being sold at the American art galleries in West 57th street, and the other treasures from Senator Clark's residence at Fifth avenue and 77th street.

Remnants of London's first water mains, which were of hollowed oak, were unearthed in Red Lion square recently. Experts estimated the wood was laid approximately 300 years ago by one of the first utility companies in that country.

ACADEMY PLANS ANNUAL HUNT

Preparations for the annual Thanksgiving day fox hunt, sponsored by the Ponce de Leon Riding academy, are rapidly nearing completion, according to an announcement by the committee in charge.

The hunt, which will take place at 9 o'clock Thanksgiving morning, will be run on the Carl W. Lancaster plantation on the Jonesboro road, about five miles from Atlanta. The Lancaster plantation consists of over 1,000 acres of rolling land and is considered an ideal place for the hunt. Live foxes have been obtained, and a pack of good hounds is being assembled.

Appropriate prizes, including two beautiful loving cups donated by W. R. Sheppard, general manager of Smith & Rankin company, and Henry Simmons of the Simmons Plating works, will be awarded. All lovers of mounted sports are invited to participate in the hunt. Reservations may be made by calling the Ponce de Leon Riding academy.

KANSAS WINS FROM TIGERS

Lawrence, Kas., November 21.—(AP)—The University of Kansas Jayhawkers arose from obscure depths far down in the Missouri Valley conference lists here today to defeat the conference's leading Missouri valley Tigers 10 to 7. The Tigers, who scored their only touchdown only a few minutes after the kick-off, struggled vainly against the spirited passing and kicking game, loosened as a dazzling surprise by the Jayhawkers. The Jayhawkers twice held and turned back the Missourians within a few feet of their goal line in the third period.

COTHRAN WINS FROSH TROPHY

The 1925 Willis-Brooks cup, offered to the freshman at Georgia Tech who scores the largest number of points in a series of cross-country races, will go to Ben Cothran, who won three out of the five races and placed in one other. The fifth and final race was held Saturday at 12 o'clock, and was won by Hubert Wright. The cup will be awarded to Cothran at a later date.

Saturday's race was a three and one-half mile affair, Wright running it in 20 minutes and 40 seconds. Lee Womelsdorf placed second, and Solomon, who won last Saturday's race, placed third. The first race was held over a course one and one-half miles in length and the races were lengthened a half mile every Saturday.

Cothran piled up an early lead by winning the first three races. In the fourth race he placed third and did not place in yesterday's race. The points were distributed as follows: Cothran, first, 16 points; Solomon, second, 12 points; Womelsdorf, third, 10 points. In each race first place counted five points, second three points, and third one point.

COACHES WANT ACCURATE KICKERS

BY FRANK GETTY.

New York, November 21.—Now that half a dozen important college football games have been decided by the margin of a single point, representing the difference between success and failure in the try for a goal after a touchdown, many coaches, even this late in the season, are turning their attention to developing a sure-fire, one-point man.

One of these is a young cadet by the name of Roeder, who put in a momentary appearance in the recent Yale-Army encounter at New Haven. This Reeder neither owns a headguard nor knows the signals of the Army team. His uniform is not padded, and he knows nothing of the thumping, scrimmage side of the game.

But how that youngster can kick. He is an Army mule and a master marksman rolled into one. Dropkicks from any angle and up to a distance of 40 yards are his meat. Every afternoon, on the playing field of West Point, Reeder can be seen booting field goals.

In the Yale game, after Wilson had snatched a pass and run 80 yards for a touchdown, the Army needed one point to tie the Blue. In went Reeder, boom went his accurate drop-kick fairly between the posts and over the cross-bar, and out again came the young future general, his work done for the day.

Sad experience in many instances this fall has taught coaches the vital necessity of having a man around to produce the necessary point after touchdown. Lafayette lost to Washington and Jefferson 7 to 6 just by failing to convert a touchdown as the Presidents had done. Washington State went down before Idaho by the same score for the same reason. St. Stephens might have tied Bowdoin and Bowdoin might have held Bates but for similar failures. Harvard went down before Holy Cross by this fatal 7-to-6 score.

Perhaps the greatest kicker of all time was Pat O'Dea, of Wisconsin. Now Pat was fragile, and his teammates had to treat him like an egg in an eg-and-spoon race, but how he could boot the ball, shotting goals from all angles. Harvard had a dropkicker a couple of years ago named Pfaffman, who did nothing else. Ewing, of Princeton, was not a great back, although there were few who equalled his prowess as a dropkicker.

FLIERS MEET P. I. MARINES

With the arrival in Thomasville, Ga., of Lieutenant Charles D. Baylis, athletic officer of the Parris Island Marines, extensive plans for the Parris Island Marines-Pensacola Aviator football game in the Thomasville stadium on Thanksgiving day have begun.

The game, which will be the last of the season for both teams, will be a service classic, and, according to American Legion plans, under whose auspices the game is being staged, the clash is to be an annual event. The teams are reported to be two of the best in the military service of the United States, and not only will the service men be playing to win a football game, but for the honor of their respective branch of the service.

The Aviators have played some highly rated teams in the south, as have the Marines. The former's goal line has been crossed only once this season, and the flyers feel confident that they shall keep it so. The Marines came through the season the same as their Thanksgiving day opponents, until they were beaten by the famous President's cup team of Fort Benning, in Savannah on Armistice day.

$8.88 Round Trip
BIRMINGHAM
Georgia vs. Alabama
THANKSGIVING DAY
5----Daily Trains----5
$8.88 Round Trip
Make reservations and arrangements now
Southern Railway System
City Ticket Office No. 48 N. Broad St.
Phone WAlnut 1961—1962

FLOURNOY LEADS TULANE TO VICTORY OVER L. S. U.

85,000 See Grange Lead Illini To Win Over O. S. U.

Red Gets Off On 2 Long Dashes

Columbus, Ohio, November 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—Harold "Red" Grange, that flaming ghost of the gridiron, dropped behind the intercollegiate football horizon today, leading his "Fighting Illini" to a 14-to-9 victory over Ohio State before 85,000 spectators, the greatest throng, with one exception, that ever witnessed a football game in America.

Within five minutes after he had galloped off the gridiron, his face still streaming with the heat of battle, the famous 22-year-old hero of football heroes, told the world what it could expect of him in the near future. He made the definite announcement that he would enter the ranks of professional football; that he would immediately leave the University of Illinois, and that he would organize and manage his own team.

The red-headed youngster, winding up the most amazing football career the game has ever known, finds himself in a position to earn a fortune playing professional football, appearing in moving pictures, and engaging in other business enterprises. The contracts under which Grange will appear in professional games make it possible for him to earn from $10,000 to $20,000 for every appearance.

Crowd Presents Picture.

The stage setting for Grange's last appearance as a college player was a picture for a master artist to conceive. Eighty-five thousand and five hundred persons encompassed the green, chalk-lined gridiron of the Ohio stadium, a living wall of thunderous humanity, vocally and mentally urging the famous red-head to get away on his thrilling runs. The Ohio stadium, a huge, double-decked horseshoe affair, was packed from top to bottom and thousands were turned away.

It was the second largest crowd ever to witness a football game in America, and perhaps the largest in point of paid admissions.

The largest was at Berkeley, Cal., a year ago, when it was claimed that 90,000 persons saw the battle between Stanford and the University of California. Not all of these, however, were within the stadium, as several thousand were perched on the hill on the outside.

Figures in 21 Plays.

Grange in today's game figured in 21 plays from scrimmage, gaining 143 yards, twice getting away for spectacular runs that brought the crowd cheering to its feet in a frenzy of excitement. Once he got away on a run of 36 yards before he was chased out of bounds. His other outstanding effort was a darting dash of 25 yards that started out with the possibility of a long run for a touchdown. Grange started toward the side lines, then cut back and attempted to pick his way through the Ohio defense, but after shaking off a half dozen tacklers, he was brought to earth while the crowd settled back in breathless excitement.

Grange, by his performance today, brought his total record in yards gained in his three years of competition to 3,545, more than two miles of territory, and enabled him to finish his career with 31 touchdowns to his credit, scored in 20 games. His greatest single game achievement, scored in the Illinois-Michigan game a year ago, was when he vanquished the Wolverines almost single-handed, racing back with the opening kick-off running 95 yards for a touchdown. Within 12 minutes he had scored four touchdowns and finished the game after scoring a fifth, having gained a total of 402 yards, one of the greatest performances of modern football.

Runs True to Form.

Today's game revealed Grange as a player running true to his form. With Ohio State dangerous and threatening when he left the contest at the end of the first half, suffering injuries to his back and in severe pain, he scampered back into the contest. Grange was injured in the fierce tackling of the Ohioans and went to the side lines with Illinois leading 14 to 2. Soon after the start of the third period, however, Ohio State scored its only touchdown when Marek raced 15 yards across the Illinois goal line. Then Grange came tearing onto the field, replacing Galligan.

The red-head, evidently determined to make today's contest one of his outstanding games, roused the fighting spirit of the players with the result that they scored before the game was under way 10 minutes.

Grange himself participated in the six plays preceding the touchdown, starting it with a 25-yard pass to Britton, who downed it on Ohio's 14-yard line. Grange then took the ball, ripping through left tackle for seven yards, and after Daugherty had ploughed through for a yard, taking the ball on Ohio's five-yard line, directly in front of the goal post, Grange cut through left tackle for three yards and a first down, taking the ball to Ohio's two-yard line.

Instead of carrying the ball over himself, Grange handed it to Britton on the next play, Britton crashing over for a touchdown, and with Grange holding the ball, booted the extra point form placement.

Ohio State, in addition to scoring its touchdown, added to its scoring by adding a safety late in the second period.

Lineup and Summary.

ILL. (14)	Pos.	(9) OHIO S.
Kassel	le.	Cunningham
Marriner	lt.	Nichols
Shiveley	lg.	Reed
Reitch	c.	Klein
Millenwalner	rg.	Hess
Brown	rt.	Uridil
D'Ambrosio	re.	Merrill
Grange	qb.	Grim
Green	lh.	Clark
Britton	rh.	Marek
Daugherty	fb.	Karow

Score by periods:

Illinois	7	7	0	0	—14
Ohio State	0	2	7	0	— 9

Illinois, scoring, touchdown: Britton and Kassel. Extra points, (2).

Ohio State, scoring, touchdown, Marek, extra point, Uridil; safety, Daugherty.

Referee, James C. Masker (Northwestern); umpire, John J. Schommer (Chicago); field judge, Nick Kearns (Depauw); headlinesman, J. J. Lipski (Chicago). Time of periods, 15 minutes.

How Jacket Freshmen Tamed Tiger Kittens

Photos by Tracy Mathewson, Constitution Staff Photographer.

The top picture shows Schulman, of the Junior Jackets, going through the Auburn line Saturday afternoon in the game which the Jackets won, 9 to 0. The bottom picture shows Horn receiving a pass from Smith, which he carried over for the sole touchdown of the game.

MERCER BEATS PETRELS, 21 TO 6

Continued From First Page.

was on him and had thrown him for a 10-yard loss before he could shoot the oval.

Campbell's punt was the signal for the steady, menacing march of the Bears down the field, with Skelton carrying the ball on seven of the 10 plays that were run before Oglethorpe's 47-yard line, where Mercer got the ball, and the Petrel goal line.

Skelton tried a dive over center, but Hardin and Corless wouldn't be shoved aside and he failed to gain. The next play, Skelton's smash through right guard, brought five yards to the Bears and Oglethorpe was penalized five yards for offside on the next play, giving the Bears their initial first down.

Skelton Active.

The name of Skelton thoroughly clutters up the remainder of the detail to the second touchdown. He smashed through tackle for five yards, was held once and then got the other five yards for second first down. Smith made his first appearance in the yard-gaining role with his dash around right end for seven yards. Skelton came back with the other three necessary for first down. Fourteen yards from the Oglethorpe goal, Skelton piled through a hole at guard for four yards and Smith carried the ball seven more on a fake pass play. Again Smith carried the ball and eased it over the last white line. He ran the score up to 14 to 0, with his placement kick.

The veteran Petrels seemed to take on new determination after seeing these youngsters, with their interference, mow down the Oglethorpe forward wall for consistent gains half the length of the field.

Again Glover kicked off and when Nutty Campbell returned the boot 14 yards, gving Oglethorpe the ball on its own 39-yard line, Oglethorpe held on to the ball until the Petrels had pushed it over the Mercer goal line 61 yards away. The march down the field by the Petrels was as sustained and steady as that of the Bears had been. There was much hope that Oglethorpe would win. Kilgore and Maurer carted the oval most of the way, Campbell taking it only twice on forward passes and Garlington whacking out two scant yards in one plunge over center.

Maurer broke away for five yards around end on a double pass. The next play, a forward pass, was called complete for nine yards when it was ruled a Mercer man had interfered with the intended receiver. That made Oglethorpe's initial first down. Four smashes by Kilgore and Maurer, in which Kilgore gained six yards and Maurer four, carried the ball fairly deep in Mercer territory. Kilgore failed on the next play, so Mercer flipped a pass to Campbell for a six-yard gain. Kilgore made the four yards necessary for first down on two bucks over center.

Petrels Threaten.

On Mercer's 25-yard line, the drive of the Petrels gathered more power. Maurer got by Parks for seven yards around right end, before Phoney Smith hauled him down. Kilgore was held to one yard at center, so Garlington took the ball and made two yards and first down. The sledding got harder then. Campbell got through left tackle for just one yard and a forward pass from Maurer to Campbell added just one more yard. Then Murer got away for 12 yards that carried him just over the goal line.

Campbell failed to dropkick goal and the first and last Petrel scoring was shown to the fans.

The quarter ended a minute later, with Oglethorpe holding the ball on its own 45-yard line.

In the second quarter the game settled down to the speed of the average football affair. The Bears had the edge on ground gaining by three first downs to Oglethorpe's one span of ten yards in four whacks. This quarter saw Phoney Smith trying placement kick time after time from midfield, instead of punting. The plan worked well, for in each case the ball was dead inside of the Petrels' five-yard line.

Glover broke into the select company of Skelton and Smith during the quarter, but Skelton did the pretty trick when on the second play of the period, he intercepted a pass from Kilgore and ran it back 25 yards. The ball was in Oglethorpe territory nearly all of the quarter and near the end of the half Mercer worked it to the Petrels' 20-yard line. A 15-yard penalty for holding pulled the Mercer men out of the shadow of Oglethorpe's goal posts and after Smith was held without gain and two passes were incomplete Smith tried another of his placement kicks.

Three Passes Fail.

Campbell was thrown for a 2-yard loss and three passes fell incomplete before Mercer got the ball on downs. Smith broke loose around right end, behind perfect intereference for 13 yards, but after getting the ball to the Petrels' 19-yard line, the Oglethorpe line held and the ball went over. The Petrels ran just two plays before the end of the half.

Just one man kept Oglethorpe from scoring in the third quarter. He was this tow-head Butts boy, who dived into every one of the Petrels' plays. The Petrels gained in spite of him as they marched 32 yards down the field in a series of line smashes by Kilgore, Campbell and Walsh, who had been sent in as a substitute for Maurer. Then Butts got in his best work as he got Walsh for a five-yard loss and rushed Kilgore so that pass was incomplete.

Mercer couldn't gain after it gained possession of the ball, but Oglethorpe did start another dash for a touchdown when Maurer, sent back to the field, got away from 18 yards by cutting through guard. A forward pass, Maurer to Campbell, took the Petrels' to Mercer's 26-yard line, but a 10-yard penalty followed and cut short the Petrels' advance.

Skelton and Smith sprang their final surprise in their regular surprise party to the Petrels a few moments later when Skelton pitched the ball to Smith and Phoney made the throw good for 35 yards and a neat position just seven yard from the Oglethorpe goal line.

Play moved to the other end of the field as the fourth quarter began, but Skelton kept right on and in two bucks through the line made the seven yards and Mercer's third touchdown. And, as usual, Smith booted the ball over for a total of 21 points.

The rest of the fourth quarter, outside of one show of strength in which the Petrels made first down on an 11-yard pass from Maurer to Campbell, was a game by Mercer to hold what it had. That Mercer did perfectly with the result that Oglethorpe came out of the game with just the six points that it had at the end of the first period.

Lineup and Summary.

MER. (21)	pos.	OGLE. (6)
Hancock	le.	Parks
Goldsmith	lt.	Pierce
Corless	lg.	Neal
Cousins	c.	Carson (C)
Hardin	rg.	Lancaster
Justus	rt.	McDonald
Nix	re.	Tipton
Campbell	qb.	Glover
Maurer	lh.	Smith
Garlington	rh.	Skelton
Kilgore (C)	fb.	Roberts

Scoring by periods:

Mercer	14	0	0	7	—21
Oglethorpe	6	0	0	0	— 6

Scoring: Touchdowns, Parks, Smith, Skelton, Maurer; goals after touchdown, Smith (3) from placement. Substitutions: Mercer, Dunn for Neal, Teasley for Roberts, Butts for Tipton, Roberts for Teasley, Fleming for Dunn, Forrester for Carson, Bate for Skelton, Cliatt for Roberts, Rogers for McDonald; for Oglethorpe, Carroll for Hancock, Walsh for Maurer, Maurer for Walsh, Shepard for Garlington, M. Smith for Shepard. Hancock for Carrell, Grimes for Corless, White for Kilgore, Redfearn for Maurer.

Officials: Referee, Springer (Penn); umpire, Tichenor (Auburn); head linesman, Stegeman (Chicago).

RINKY DINKS BEAT BULLDOGS

The Rinky Dinks staged a great comeback to trim the North Side Bulldogs, 18 to 6, at Piedmont park Saturday morning, in the feature game in the Sandlot league. The Bulldogs led, 6 to 0, at the half but several long runs by Howard, Rinky Dinks' halfback, turned the tide against the north siders. The Briarcliff Tigers by beating the Kirkwood Cabin Owls, 19 to 0, kept their place at the head of the league. Saturday's results put the Rinky Dinks in second place while the Pacemakers and the North Side Bulldogs took a drop.

LEHIGH LOSES TO LAFAYETTE

Bethlehem, Pa., November 21.—(AP) LaFayette conquered her traditional football foe, Lehigh, here today by a score of 14 to 0. It was the seventh successive year in which the Maroon has triumphed in the annual battle.

LaFayette had been expected to win by a large score, owing to its season's record of only one defeat.

Star of Greenies Scores One Touchdown, Paves Way For Other; Score 16-0

Baton Rouge, La., November 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—Tulane outclassed Louisiana State here today to win, 16 to 0, in a game in which a fighting, biting Tiger kept the Greenbacks at bay throughout a scoreless first half. The visitors, playing carefully and taking no chances with a desperate team that won respect early in the contest, had more in reserve and scored in the third and fourth periods—a touchdown in the third, a safety and touchdown at the close.

A stadium seating 22,000 persons was filled for the game, a state classic that has become a football institution in the south.

The kicking of "Peggy" Flournoy paved the way for the first touchdown and the safety scored by his team, and he scored the second touchdown and kicked both goals after touchdown. Flournoy, the nation's leading scorer, added eight points to his total as a result of his afternoon's efforts.

Louisiana State fought a defensive game throughout the first two periods, but it was an impressive performance. The Greenbacks fumbled twice before the game was many minutes old, but the Tigers lacked the punch to make the threats good. At the same time Tulane was able to make only one drive that was more than a gesture in the first half, and a fumble then made it wasted effort.

Early in the third period Flournoy's 50-yard punt was grounded on the State's one-yard line and Stevens' kick carried out of bounds on the 20-yard line. Tulane drew a 15-yard penalty for holding and Lautenschlaeger passed to Flournoy for a gain of 10 yards. Flournoy lost two yards on an attempted end run, but a pass from Lautenschlaeger to Menville was good for a gain of 27 yards and a touchdown. Flournoy made the point after touchdown with a placement.

In the same period Flournoy kicked 52 yards out of bonds on the one-yard line and Godfrey was caught behind the goal line for a safety on the next play. The final score followed an intercepted pass by Lautenschlaeger on Louisiana State's 35-yard line. Morgan took five yards in two tries and Flournoy broke through for a dash of 17 yards.

Morgan added three and Lautenschlaeger six and Flournoy went over for the touchdown.

Lineup and Summary.

TULANE (16)	Pos.	(0) L. S. U.
Gamble	le.	Durrett
Browne	lt.	Steele
Blackledge	lg.	Connell
H. Wilson	c.	Clay
Levy	rg.	Fay
Talbot	rt.	Swanson
D. Wilson	re.	Miller
Lautenschlaeger	qb.	Godfrey
Morgan	lh.	Stevens
Flournoy	rh.	Haynes
Lamprecht	fb.	Dimmick

Score by periods:

Tulane	0	0	7	9	—16
L. S. U.	0	0	0	0	— 0

Tulane scoring, touchdown, Menville (sub for Morgan), Flournoy; safety (against Godfrey). Points from tries after touchdown, Flournoy (2) (placement).

Referee, Finlay (Virginia); umpire, Knight (Michigan); linesman, Houston (Parsons); field judge, Haggerty (Chicago). Time of periods, 15 minutes.

FORDHAM LOSES TO GEORGETOWN

New York, November 21.—(AP)—Georgetown smothered the previously undefeated Fordham eleven, 27 to 0, at the Polo Grounds today, and earned a strong claim to the Catholic college championship of the east, as Fordham had defeated Holy Cross.

The Washington collegians scored four touchdowns on long runs by Tony Pansky, Captain Jack Hagerty and Metzer. The Fordham line was weak against the terrific pounding of the Georgetown backs and many long gains were made through the center of the forward wall.

Twice Fordham tightened and took the ball on downs within its own five-yard line. But on one occasion the punt that followed was blocked and converted into a Georgetown touchdown.

Both teams resorted, for the most part, to straight football, only five passes being attempted and only one completed.

SALMON HORSE WINS FEATURE

Lexington, Ky., November 21.—(AP) Walter J. Salmon's Flight of Time won the breeders' futurity today over a fast track by two lengths. Bubbling Over was second and Helen's Babe third. The time for the futurity, 70 yards under six furlongs, was 1:08 4-5. This lowered the track record for the distance by two-fifths of a second. The winner's share was $16,527, the second share $4,812 and the third $2,406.

Merchants! Grasp This Opportunity and Profit!

OUR LEASE EXPIRES

December 31st

And not being able to secure sufficient space to take care of the growth of our business, we are forced to vacate on December 31st. We must Get Out—We must find larger quarters, and rather than go to the expense of moving our huge stocks, we are putting on sale our entire $150,000 Clean, New Stock of Men's, Women's and Children's High-Grade Shoes, All of the Newest Styles---Nothing But the Best.

All of the season's approved styles. New designs that have just been received. Shoes that now enjoy a most popular demand throughout the entire Southeast, by merchants who for years have depended upon Premium Brand Shoes as trade builders. Every shoe in our great stock included, as this is not a "sale" to clean up odds and ends, and they all go at a special

10 PER CENT CASH DISCOUNT

This discount applies to every shoe in our stock, with the exception of contract lines, but on these we are able to offer a 5 Per Cent Cash Discount on "Trade Builders" and "Osteopathics"—two brands that are known throughout the entire nation.

We Advise

That you get here as quickly as possible, in order that you may be assured of getting just what you want. We are in a position NOW to fulfill the needs of any merchant, large or small. As this is a removal sale, we will not restock, except in our new building.

Oldest Shoe House in Georgia

No doubt you have received similar offers from shoe houses, but never before have you had such an offer backed by the reputation of THE OLDEST SHOE HOUSE IN GEORGIA. Gramling, Spalding & Collinsworth have been supplying Merchants of the South with Premium Brand Shoes for more than 50 years. The reputation we have built by these years of honest endeavor, strict fulfillment of all claims, is one of which we are very proud, and we unhesitatingly say that this is without a doubt the greatest opportunity we have yet been able to offer, and but for the fact that we would entail quite a loss in moving this huge stock, we would not be willing to make this sacrifice even at this time. Every sale made during this great offer will be made with the idea of making new friends.

All Goods

sold during this sale, which will last from November 23d through December 31st, are strictly cash, payable within five days from date of invoice. No discounts will be given on orders for less than one dozen pairs. Don't wait until the last days of sale—write, wire or phone your order NOW.

Start the New Year With Premium Brand Shoes

If you are not now handling "Premium Brand Shoes" this is YOUR opportunity to start NOW with the line that has built an enviable reputation on QUALITY. It is THE line with thousands of prosperous merchants through the South, who are enjoying a LARGER business each year through the satisfactory service Premium Brand Shoes give to their customers. Avail yourself of this great offer NOW—Come in, inspect our line.

Gramling, Spalding & Collinsworth

20 Central Ave. (Opposite Union Station) Atlanta, Ga.

JUNIOR JACKETS DEFEAT AUBURN KITTENS, 9 TO 0

Marines Defeat Benning for President's Cup

Mrs. Coolidge Presents Trophy

Washington, November 21.—(By the Associated Press.)—The president's cup for the champion service team was recovered for the navy today by the Quantico Marines, who smashed and forward-passed their way to a 20-to-0 victory over the Fort Benning army team before a colorful crowd, including Mrs. Coolidge, Secretary Wilbur and high ranking army and navy officers.

Immediately after the game ended Mrs. Coolidge presented the cup to Captain McQuade, who, as a substitute quarterback, proved one of the shining stars for the victors.

"I congratulate you on your fine victory," Mrs. Coolidge told the marines' leader. "I feel that you won a great victory over the Army's football team and I enjoyed the game very much. I present this cup to you as winner of the service championship."

"On behalf of the marine corps and the rest of my team I thank you very much," Captain McQuade replied as the crowd applauded and the regiment of marines sent up a final cheer.

Although the Army, which won the cup last year from a navy team in the first year of competition, failed to cross the leathernecks' goal line, they had an ever present threat in Lieutenant Smythe, former West Point star, and the game was full of thrills. Smythe was the only Army man who could gain with consistency, but he lacked the final punch to put over a score.

Good Aerial Attack.

The marines flashed a fast, hard-running backfield and with Goettge at quarterback they uncovered a beautiful forward-passing game which the Army was unable to break up. Most of the marines' yardage came that way, although fullback Henry frequently ploughed through the Army line for good gains.

The players from the Georgia fort made their only serious bid for a score in the second period when Smythe finally worked the ball to the one-yard line. There the powerful Marine line refused to yield and the ball went over on dowas when it was but a foot from the Marine goal line.

While the Army made frequent substitutions only once was a player badly hurt. Smythe was knocked unconscious near the end of the game when he stopped McQuade after the Marine quarterback had run 20 yards to the 10-yard line. The Army star was carried to the sidelines and when he recovered a few minutes later and was helped from the field the crowd broke into applause in which Mrs. Coolidge joined.

Line-up and Summary.

MARINES (20)	Pos.	ARMY (0)
Crowe	l.e.	Keglstrom
Wigmore	l.t.	Bertleman
Levinsky	l.g.	Lapine
Spauling	c.	Lindsey
Hill	r.g.	Maguire
Brouglier	r.t.	Hesse
Stock	r.e.	Sweeney
Goettge	q.b.	McQuarrie
Brunelle	l.h.	Swantic
Duncan	r.h.	Bennett
Henry	f.b.	Buck

Score by periods:

Marines	7	0	7	6	—20
Army	0	0	0	0	— 0

Marines — Scoring: Touchdowns, Goettge; Crowe, McQuade (sub for Goettge); points after touchdown, Henry (2), drop-kicks. Referee, Towers, (George Washington); umpire, Land (Navy); field judge, Daniels, (Georgetown); head linesman, O'Meara, (Columbia).

HARVARD, YALE PLAY TO TIE

Continued from Page 2.

center of the line and dashed to the Harvard 32-yard line.

Knock Down Yale Passes.

It was of no avail, for the Crimson held stubbornly, batted down a series of Yale passes and took the ball on downs. When the Harvard attack proved ineffectual, Coady, who distinguished himself by his kicking throughout the game, got off a punt to Fishwick, who was downed on his 23-yard line. From this point, Yale carried the ball in a series of rushes to Harvard's 22-yard line, only to again surrender the ball on downs.

Again Harvard kicked and again the Blue attack was launched. The offensive ended when a poor pass from Burt, the Eli center, to Cutler, resulted in Yale losing the ball on downs, once more on Harvard's 22-yard line.

After a few tries at the line, Crosby flipped a forward pass to Coady who ran to his 43-yard line, the longest Harvard gain of the game. But the Crimson couldn't continue to gain, and was glad to kick, since Dolph Cheek's men were fighting for a scoreless tie rather than the off-chance of victory.

Fishwick Runs 40 Yards.

Another exchange of punts resulted in one of Coady's long spirals descending into the arms of Fishwick, who started from his own 33-yard line and ran 40 yards through the entire Harvard team, being down by Cheek from behind.

A youngster named Stone, who threatened to prove the Joe Pendleton of the game, slashed through the stubbornly yielding Crimson line to the seven-yard mark. Here fate favored Harvard. With four rushes in which to make the necessary seven yards, Yale saw its hope dashed when Cottle fell back and failed to get his hands on a pass from the Blue center. This resulted in a loss of 20 yards, and necessitated calling upon Wadsworth for a placement goal. Wadsworth's failure was typical.

Lineup and Summary.

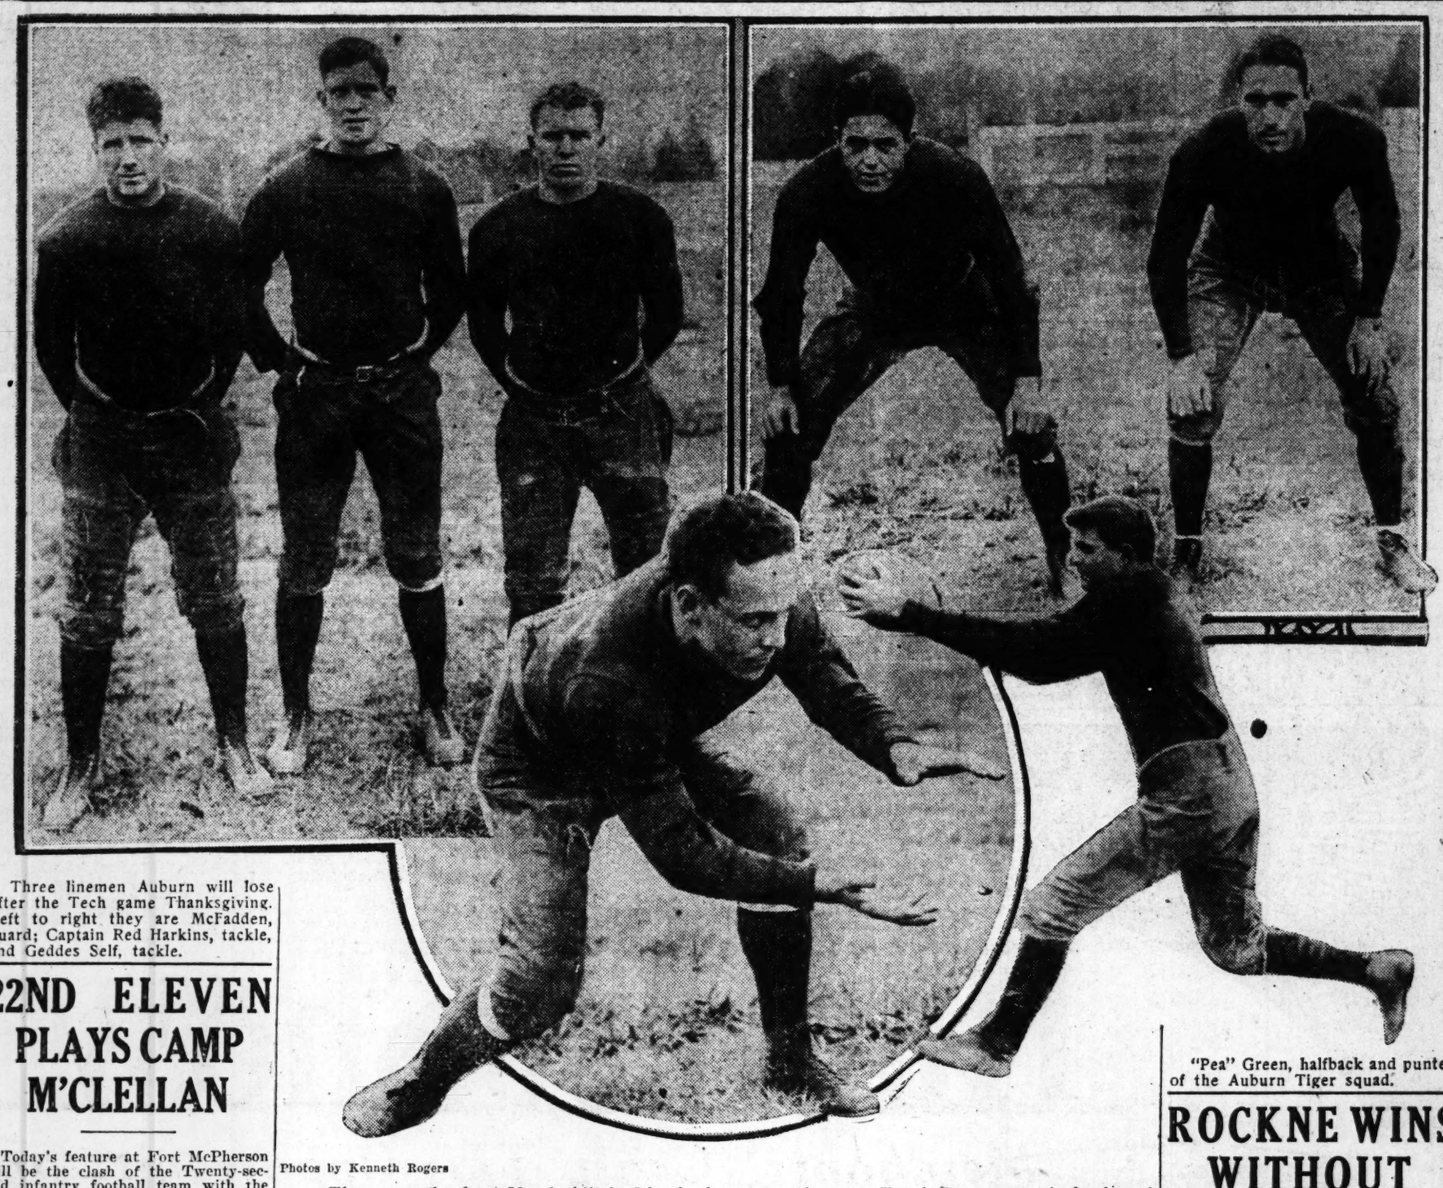
YALE (0)	Pos.	(0) HAR.
Gill	l.e.	Sayles
Joss (c)	l.t.	Lindner
Sturhahn	l.g.	C.Bradford
Burt	c.	Turner
Webster	r.g.	Kilgour
Butterworth	r.t.	Coady
Potts	r.e.	E.Bradford
Fishwick	q.b.	Cheek (c)
Noble	l.h.b.	Crosby
Kline	r.h.b.	Zarakov
Allen	f.b.	Miller

Score by periods:

Yale	0	0	0	0	— 0
Harvard	0	0	0	0	— 0

Officials: Referee, E. C. Quigley (St. Mary's, Kansas); umpire, T. J. Thorp (Columbia); field judge, J. E. Ingersoll (Dartmouth); headlinesman, F. W. Murphy (Brown). Time of periods, 15 minutes each.

Towers of Strength in Squad Auburn Sends Against Tech



Three linemen Auburn will lose after the Tech game Thanksgiving. Left to right they are McFadden, guard; Captain Red Harkins, tackle, and Geddes Self, tackle.

"Pea" Green, halfback and punter of the Auburn Tiger squad.

Photos by Kenneth Rogers

The man who beat Vanderbilt in Birmingham a week ago. Frank Bogue, quarterback and first-year man on the Auburn varsity squad, whose generalship is said to have been the winning factor for Auburn in the Vanderbilt game. At the top, right, are the two ends Auburn loses by graduation after the Tech game here Thanksgiving day. They are Spinks, left, and Ollinger, right.

22ND ELEVEN PLAYS CAMP M'CLELLAN

Today's feature at Fort McPherson will be the clash of the Twenty-second infantry football team with the eleven from Camp McClellan, Ala. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock and is expected to draw several thousand people to Fort McPherson.

There will be ample seating space in the stands on both sides of the field and parking space for those who go to the fort in their cars will be available at both ends of the field.

The Twenty-second team has been working hard all week for this game, under direction of Lieutenant Bill Saffarrans, fullback and punter and former Georgetown University star back. Captain Alex Cunningham, former Georgia coach who has charge of the Twenty-second team, has been on leave for several days.

Camp McClellan is bringing a strong team to Atlanta for the game this afternoon, but it is nearer the strength of the Twenty-second team that the elevens that the Twenty-second has played so far this season.

The game at the fort this afternoon is the only sport event scheduled for Atlanta today.

WICKERSHAM JOINS O'RYAN IN URGING U. S. TO JOIN COURT

New York, November 21.—(AP)—George W. Wickersham, former attorney general of the United States, today joined with Major General John F. O'Ryan of the New York national guard at a luncheon of the Lawyers' Club of New York, in advocating approval by the United States senate of the proposal that this country adhere to the permanent court of international justice.

Arguments emphasized by Mr. Wickersham were based chiefly on legal grounds, while General O'Ryan viewed from a military standpoint the necessity for entry of the United States into the world court.

What danger there is in action by the senate on the proposal, the former attorney general declared, lay in the possible adoption of some additional reservations or conditions which might be offered by some senators.

General O'Ryan said the present aloofness of the United States must arouse the suspicion of Europe.

"The adherence proposal should be adopted," Mr. Wickersham said, "because the court is the practical fulfillment of a quarter of a century of American advocacy; because it will put the United States in its proper place as taking practical, affirmative part in the maintenance of the most advanced institution of international justice; because the establishment of such a court marks a great advance over the ordinary processes of arbitration, and because, unless our government is willing to make this slight advance in international cooperation for the maintenance of peace, we must abandon all thought of moral leadership and moral influence in the family of nations."

BARTOW CLUB GIRLS TO GET CERTIFICATES

Cartersville, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—About 40 canning club girls of Bartow county will gather in Cartersville next Tuesday for the purpose of receiving diplomas which will signify they have completed the full four-year course in home economics, as provided for them by the state and federal extension services.

The girls will be entertained at lunch by the chamber of commerce, and in the afternoon will be guests at a reception given for them by the Cherokee club.

Mrs. Lois P. Dowdle, girls' club specialist from the state college of agriculture, will make the principal address and deliver the certificates to the young ladies, who are now working under the leadership of Miss Willie Vie Dowdy, home demonstration agent for Bartow county.

Coolidge Seeks To Have Father Come to Capital

Plymouth, Vt., November 21.—(AP) Major James F. Coupal, who is here at the direction of President Coolidge to persuade his father, Colonel John C. Coolidge, to spend the winter in Washington, broached the subject of his mission today, but it was learned that no decision was reached.

Colonel Coolidge received the representations of his son's physician with an open mind, it was understood, and probably will continue tomorrow to weigh the factors involved.

The 80-year-old patient, who has been suffering from heart block, had the best day in two weeks, Mrs. May Johnson, his nurse, reported. There were several recurrences of the intermittent pulse which has been noted throughout the course of the case, but at no time were they serious.

Finds Patient Better.

Dr. Coupal found the patient better than yesterday when he arrived here. The colonel was able to sit up for meals and converse at length with the president's medical adviser.

Later Major Coupal talked with Washington over the special long distance line, which is reserved in the general store for communication with the white house.

Whatever the outcome of Dr. Coupal's negotiations may be, there is at least one resident of Plymouth who will remain skeptical until the last. He is John Wilder, whose property adjoins that of Colonel Coolidge and whose wife is an aunt of the president.

Villager Is Skeptical.

Discussing the possibility that his neighbor may be prevailed upon to winter in Washington with a group of newspaper men and villagers gathered around the general store stove he said:

"I won't believe it until he gets on the train."

His attitude is that of most of the others here who insist that a break in the associations of a life time might well outweigh any gain from a more equitable climate.

Plans on To Develop Manganese Deposits In Lincoln County

Washington, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—From Lincoln county comes the story of an old mine rich in manganese deposits and efforts that are being made to rehabilitate the property by the introduction of modern machinery for its profitable development.

During the last years of the world war 18 carloads of ore were taken from the mine, all of which, according to an analysis made by Professor Eberhart, state chemist, was of unusually high grade. The mine was discontinued by reason of the financial difficulties which came soon after the war's close.

This mine is said to be one of two mines in Georgia yielding such manganese ore and is located three miles from Lincolnton, the county seat, and is on the property jointly owned by J. H. Boykin, former representative from Lincoln county in the state legislature, and John D. Colley, of Washington county.

Efforts are being made to develop this splendid property at once.

FORD MAKES BID TO OPERATE U. S. AIR MAIL ROUTE

Washington, November 21.—A bid for operation of a new air mail service from Detroit to Chicago and Detroit to Cleveland was submitted to the postoffice department today by Henry Ford.

The Ford Motor company proposed to the department that it would operate a service between the points specified at 6.75 cents an ounce. Ford was the only bidder on the routes.

The Federal Aircraft company, Newark, N. J., made the only bid on the other route advertised, from Chicago to New Orleans via St. Louis, Jackson and Memphis. The company agreed to carry the mails for 75 per cent of the airmail revenue.

The lines will be "feeders" for the New York-San Francisco service.

Huntsville Gas Plant Sold To Michigan Firm; Georgian Is President

Huntsville, Ala., November 21.—(Special.)—Announcement has been made from the office of the Huntsville Gas company that all of the properties, bonds and capital stock of that corporation have been acquired by the Federated Utilities Company, Inc., of Battle Creek, Mich., and that the transfer had been made effective as of November 1.

It is announced that great improvement will be installed in the local plant and that extension of service will be provided as soon as possible in order to serve the suburbs of this city and all outlying districts between.

Claude J. DeMers, who has been general manager of the Huntsville Gas company since 1920, will remain in the same capacity with H. Grady Crunk remaining as superintendent and there will be no change of name.

The Federated Utilities company is said to have investments in the southeast and east of upward $25,000,000. P. L. Seymour, of Georgia, is head of the corporation and he has been in Huntsville conducting negotiations.

BARTOW SLATE MINES MAY BE DEVELOPED

Cartersville, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—J. N. Houser, of Knoxville, Tenn.; A. E. Riley, of Copperhill, Tenn., and C. M. Bernard, of New York city, spent several days in this section recently making plans for carrying out an intensive survey of slate properties which recently changed hands near Rydal, in the Oak Hill district of Bartow county.

The present plans contemplate a thorough prospecting of the property, and if the preliminary work is successful, it is to be followed by further experiments for the treatment of slates.

The party was reluctant to give any detailed information regarding the future plans, until the proposition is further along. It has been learned, however, that the present efforts are looking toward the end of eventually making of the slate holdings a large industry for Bartow county.

Mr. Riley will remain in this section indefinitely, and carry out the preliminary experiments.

ITALIAN ROYALTY DONATES $1 EACH TO U. S. DEBT FUND

Rome, November 21.—Setting an example for the nation in its drive for contributions of dollars to aid the debt payments to the United States, King Victor Emanuel, the queen and Princesses Yolanda and Giovanni have sent a dollar each to the fund.

This was followed today by a contribution of $10 from the famous poet, Gabriele Dannunzio, and an additional $10 in the name of his servants.

POSTMASTER TIRED OF BEING ROBBED DECIDES TO QUIT

Port Morris, N. J., November 21.—(AP)—Declaring himself "sick and tired of being robbed," E. S. Thompson, local postmaster and kepeer of a general store, today said he would retire. During the past 25 years he has been robbed 54 times. He estimates his losses at $21,000.

Florida Is Made Separate Internal Revenue Division

Washington, November 21.—Florida will become on December 1, a separate internal revenue division. Headquarters will be at Jacksonville.

Chauncey W. Herrick will be head of the new division, it was announced Saturday.

"Marked increase in land values and business activities rendered necessary this action which is to the interest of both government and the taxpayers," Commissioner of Internal Revenue Blair said.

COOLIDGE DISCUSSES MESSAGE WITH BORAH

Washington, November 21.—(AP)—Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, conferred for two hours last night with President Coolidge at the white house, it became known today, discussing the major questions which the chief executive will touch upon in his annual message to congress next month.

Mr. Coolidge had asked the chairman of the foreign relations committee to give him the benefit of his views on a number of foreign and domestic problems, but no statement regarding the conference was issued by the white house, and Senator Borah declined today to discuss his visit.

CARTERSVILLE CARRIER RETIRED ON PENSION

Cartersville, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—After serving as carrier on the same route out of Cartersville for 22 years, J. P. Rogan has retired on a pension, Postmaster Harry P. Womelsdorf announced Thursday.

As a token of the high esteem in which he is held by his fellow workers in the postoffice, Mr. Rogan was presented with a handsome walking cane and a gold-handled umbrella. He will continue to make his home here.

The bureau of standards in Washington has constructed a machine to test the wear of different washing materials on marble floors. From tests made with this machine it will be possible to determine just what damage a marble floor receives from the scrubwoman and her mop.

Horn, Randolph Leaders Of Local Attack; Miller's Rats End Successful Grind

BY BEN COTHRAN.

Led by the steady gaining of Horn and Randolph, the Tech freshmen marched to a 9-to-0 victory over the Auburn Kittens Saturday afternoon at Grant field, while the senior Jackets and Tigers were resting for next Thursday's fray. Horn was a consistent gainer on his end runs, usually making five yards every time he took the ball, while Randolph, stocky little fullback, was bucking the line for two and three-yard gains.

Both teams were about evenly matched, using straight football, with few fancy plays. The Junior Jackets had possession of the ball most of the time, and most of the ground gained came from the end runs of Horn and the bucking of Randolph, with a few passes thrown in.

The Jackets drew first blood when they scored a safety in the first quarter. A steady march down the field, in which they scored three consecutive first downs, brought the Jackets near the Kittens' goal. On a long end run, Horn fumbled and an Auburn man recovered the ball. He also fumbled, and another Auburn man fell on the ball behind his own goal line giving Tech two points.

Auburn threatened to score in this quarter. Near the end of the quarter, Wattwood, Kitten right end, broke through and blocked Parham's punt, giving Auburn the ball on Tech's 30-yard line. On the next play a pass, Howard to Wattwood, netted 13 yards and Auburn's only first down in the first half. Mosely got three yards at center. Fisher made it two more at left tackle. James gained two yards at right end. Auburn fumbled on the next play with three yards for first down. The ball then went over to Tech on its own 12-yard line. Randolph hit the line for one yard, and the quarter ended.

Jackets Start Drive.

During the early part of the second quarter, the ball see-sawed back and forth, and the teams were battling on even terms. However, as the end of the half drew near, Tech started a drive for its own 40-yard line that ended in a touchdown for the Junior Jackets. Two consecutive first downs, one resulting from a five-yard Auburn penalty, put the ball on Auburn's 18-yard line. Smith, at quarter, tried a pass and it failed.

On the next play Smith chunked the ball 10 yards to Horn who ran eight yards across the goal line for a touchdown. Smith drop-kicked. The half ended a few moments later, just as Auburn received the kick-off.

The third quarter was featured by some of the hardest fighting of the game, with both teams fighting on equal terms, but neither was able to advance the ball very far.

Tech opened up with another drive in the last quarter, resorting again to the aerial route, and completing two 20-yard passes. To start it, Schulman, stocky half, who had not done much gaining, was given perfect interference and got away for 22 yards. Randolph got two yards at center. Parham then passed 19 yards to Horn, who, surrounded by several Auburn players, made a beautiful running catch, and was downed in his tracks. Randolph failed to gain at the center of the line. Smith then passed 20 yards to Parham, who also made a beautiful catch. Horn bucked out of bounds and then got four yards on an end run which took him across the field. A pass was incomplete. Smith then attempted a field goal from the 15-yard line, but it fell far to the right of the goal posts.

Parham Punts Well.

Bob Parham, at left end, continued his splendid punting, averaging between 45 and 50 yards on each one. He also was on the throwing end of several completed Tech passes. Outside of this he played a good defensive game, throwing Auburn backs for losses several times. Glenn Holland, who played the other flank during the second half, gave Auburn a good deal of trouble on their end runs. Pond, at center, also played a great defensive game, at one time breaking through and throwing Auburn for losses twice in succession.

For Auburn, the work of Fisher and Howard was outstanding. Fisher made most of Auburn's gains, while Howard handled his team well besides getting off some good punts.

This was the final game for Don Miller's rats, and they broke training last night, after ending a successful season with a victory.

Lineup and Summary:

TECH (9)	Pos.	(0) AUb.
Parham	l.e.	Ingram
Westbrook	l.t.	Carter
Drennan	l.g.	Densmore
Pond	c.	Logan
Kent	r.g.	Cunningham
Cummings	r.t.	Turner
Weiman	r.e.	Wattwood
Smith	q.b.	McCrory
Schulman	l.h.	E. James
Horn	r.h.	Fisher
Randolph	f.b.	Mosely

Score by periods:

Tech	2	7	0	0	—9
Auburn	0	0	0	0	—0

Officials—Buck Cheeves (Ga.), referee; Buck Flowers (Ga. Tech), umpire; Kraft (Penn.), head linesman; Fred Moore (Ga. Tech), timekeeper.

Scoring: Tech—Touchdown, Horn; point after touchdown, Smith (drop-kick), safety, Tech (1).

Substitutions: Tech—Duran for Horn, Holland for Weiman, Caesar for Cummings. Auburn—Howard for McCrory, Spann for Mosely, James for Fisher, Fisher for F. James.

Time of periods, 15 minutes.

ROCKNE WINS WITHOUT PASSES

South Bend, Ind., November 21.—(AP)—Overcoming in 10 minutes a lead of 10 points amassed against it in the first half, Notre Dame today defeated Northwestern, 13 to 10. Two downfield marches at the start of the third quarter netted the pair of touchdowns which erased the visitors' margin and brought victory.

Both touchdowns were the result of straight football, without a single forward pass to interrupt the steady punch of smashes and the sweep of wide end runs with which the Rockne men earned their conquest.

Lineup and Summary.

N. D. (13)	Pos.	N. W. (10)
Walsh	l.e.	Seidel
McMullen	l.t.	Bruce
Marelli	l.g.	Zeibenmann
Fredericks	c.	Lowry
Mayer	r.g.	Schuler
Roland	r.t.	Johnson
Rigali	r.e.	Matthews
Parisien	q.b.	Christman
Roach	l.h.	Baker
Cody	r.h.	White
Wynne	f.b.	Lewis

Score by periods:

Notre Dame	0	0	13	0	—13
Northwestern	3	7	0	0	—10

Notre Dame scoring: Touchdowns, Enright (sub for Wynne); Flanagan (sub for Roach). Points after touchdown, Enright.

Northwestern scoring: Touchdown, Lowry. Point after touchdwon, Lewis. Goal from placement, Lewis.

Officials: Referee, Joe Magidsohn (Michigan); umpire, W. D. Knight (Dartmouth); field judge, J. K. Keithley (Illinois); head linesman, Jay Watt (Missouri). Time of periods, 15 minutes each.

FUGITIVE BANK BANDIT CAPTURED IN GOTHAM

New York, November 21.—Gordon Simpson, described by the police as a "roving desperado" and charged with being one of four men who robbed the Bank of Nova Scotia two years ago, after they had broken out of a penitentiary at Toronto, was arrested today in the Hudson Terminal building. He was held as a fugitive from justice pending extradition proceedings.

Police at headquarters said Simpson had freely confessed his acts as a robber and boasted of his criminal prowess. He was regarded as the most dangerous of the robber quartet.

Arthur Brown, one of the four Nova Scotia bank robbers, was shot and killed later in attempting to hold up the postoffice at Minneapolis. Thomas Bryan shot his way out of the postoffice and still is at large. Lyman Ryan was arrested last January in Canada and returned to prison.

BORED SOCIETY WOMEN FORM SEWING CLUB

London, November 21.—(AP)—Several women of social prominence have organized a dressmakers' club, where they may spend part of their spare time in the useful task of making their own garments. Although quite able to make needed purchases from leading modistes, the women say they have become bored with continual bridge parties and desire to try their hands at making garments.

The new club is at Kensington. Instead of the usual card and gossip room there is a sewing room which is fitted with a cutting-out table, sewing machines and other necessities. A practical dressmaker, a member of the club, is the manager.

MUSE

The NEW SPORT-TONE SUITS

with extra golf knickers to match the suit—

MUSE'S

"The Style Center of the South"

Peachtree :: Walton :: Broad

NEW HUPPS REPRESENT GENUINE ACHIEVEMENT

Rockwell R. Stephens, motor car critic, writing in the Chicago Daily News, declares that "two genuine achievements in automotive progress must be scored after the Hupmobile name this year—the first as a result of the introduction of the Hupmobile eight last January, the second through the development of the six, recently announced.

"Both cars," he points out, "represent ventures into new fields for Hupp, but predictions of success made months ago for the eight, and since triply justified by amazing sales figures, can now be made just as confidently for the new six—the result of 17 years of experience, and the direct result of 11 years experimental work on sixs.

"In building the eight, Hupp engineers set something of a new standard for smoothness in motor operation. That same standard is demonstrated in the new six and it is the first impression the driver receives as he makes tentative spurts through a 10 to 30-mile speed range. The pick-up in second gear is quick and smooth. In high gear, spark and throttle can be advanced to wide open position and the six will pick up without "pinging" or vibration through a speed ranging from rolling start to 50 miles an hour, which evidently is not maximum speed.

"Although its engine delivers maximum horsepower at between 2,800 and 3,300 revolutions per minute, there is no sound or vibration to indicate that the motor labors even at maximum speed.

"Smoothness of operation has been secured by careful design that has produced a short four-bearing crankshaft weighing 64 1-2 pounds, and 19-ounce pistons, balanced to one-hundredth pound variation per set, ground to two-thousandths of an inch limits and handfitted to five-ten-thousandths of an inch limits. Similar care is used in matching up other reciprocating parts. The total weight of these parts is only 18 pounds. Vibration is further eliminated by a damper on the front end of the crankshaft.

"The motor of the six develops more than 60 horsepower, with bore and stroke of 3 1-8 by 4 1-4 inches, giving a piston displacement of 195.6 cubic inches. Piston displacement of each cylinder is 32 1-2 cubic inches, yet in that tiny space, little larger than a pint measure, maximum combustion pressure is calculated to give a thrust of 3,068 pounds on the piston.

"The six has a wheelbase of 114 inches, and holds the road well for its weight, which, in the case of the sedan, is approximately 2,800 pounds. Balloon tires, 30x5.25, and the latest type Bendix self-energizing front wheel brakes, are standard equipment. Body types, four-door sedan and touring, resemble the eight in general appearance and are comfortably designed."

PAIGE-DETROIT DEAL IS DENIED BY JEWETT

Local representatives of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car company, makers of Paige and Jewett six-cylinder cars, have received from H. M. Jewett, president, a flat denial of rumors that there is a deal pending looking toward a change of ownership or of management of the Detroit company.

"The Paige-Detroit company," Mr. Jewett writes, "not only has not changed hands, but there have been, and there will be, no negotiations to that end.

"The company has been operating most successfully under the present management for many years, and is planning to press its advantage in the six-cylinder field by aggressive policies of manufacturing and merchandising."

WHEN BACK HURTS FLUSH OUT KIDNEYS

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Flush the kidneys occasionally to relieve them like you relieve the bowels, removing acids, waste and poison, else you may feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, the stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste, begin drinking water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine and bladder disorders disappear.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help prevent serious kidney and bladder disorders.

By all means, drink lots of good water every day.—(adv.)

YOU MAY HAVE

PELLAGRA

AND NOT KNOW IT

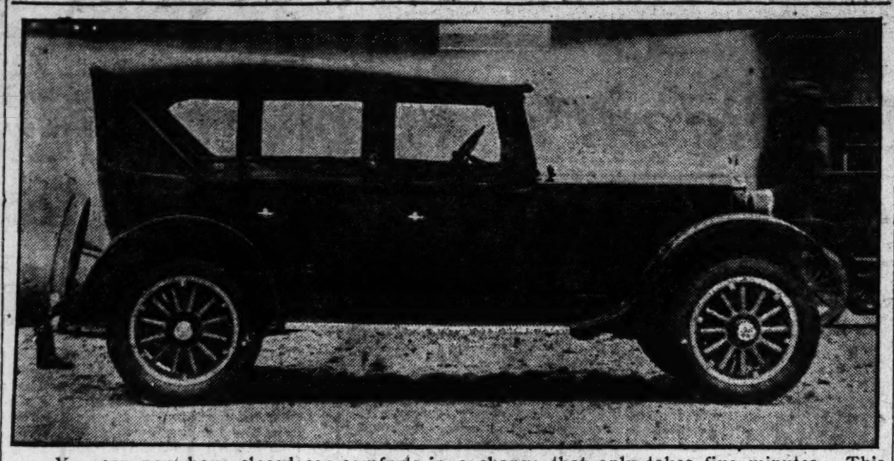
EARLY SYMPTOMS—Nervousness, stomach trouble, despondency, shortness of breath, burning feet, constipation, brown or rough skin, tingling sensations, smothering spells, diarrhoea, loss of sleep, loss of weight, dizziness or swimming in head, general weakness with loss of energy.

You do not have all these symptoms in the beginning, but if you have any of them YOU MAY HAVE PELLAGRA. My FREE BOOKLET, "THE STORY OF PELLAGRA," will explain. My treatment differs from all others, and is indorsed by a State Health Department, physicians and hundreds who have taken the treatment. Write for Questionnaire and FREE Diagnosis.

W. C. ROUNTREE, M. D.

TEXARKANA, TEXAS

Hupp Equipped With Glassmobile Enclosure



You can now have closed car comforts in a change that only takes five minutes. This Hupmobile touring car is being displayed this week in the showrooms of the Thompson-Cauthorn Motor Company, local Hupmobile distributors. This car is equipped with a very late wrinkle, "Glassmobile enclosure," that is distributed through the Southern Motor Equipment Company, 214 Spring street.

EVERETTE STRUPPER IN BUSINESS HERE

Everette Strupper, football star of Georgia Tech in days gone by, is back in Atlanta again in another capacity. This time he heads a tire organizntion, Everette Strupper, Inc., of Atlanta, at 428 Spring street. And they have the local distribution of Dunlop tires.

This brief story in itself recalls the athletic glory of another day and the dynamic personality which called for plaudits from one end of the country finds utterance now in a business where personality counts. Associated with Mr. Strupper in the Atlanta concern is William M. Todd, formerly identified with the Dunlop branch here and a tire man of experience and ability.

Mr. Strupper has an established reputation in Columbus, Ga., where he has represented Dunlop tires for a number of years and the success of the representation there is indicative of what is in store for the motoring fraternity of Atlanta.

"We plan no ordinary tire shop," said Mr. Todd, "for we know the appreciation which Atlanta folks hold for a merchant who sells representative merchandise and backs it with competent service. There is none to gainsay the quality in Dunlop tires, with their world-wide reputation for inherent excellence and popularity. And we are endeavoring in every way to make our representation match the calibre of the tire which we sell.

"Particular stress is being laid on the service which we offer motorists. Limited or hampered service is an abomination and our aim is to provide a type of service, in the store and on the road, which you will be pleased to recommend to your friends. Hence, it is on the quality of the tire and the capacity of the service that we base our hopes for success. And Mr. Strupper's establishment in Columbus is evidence of his ability. And Atlanta affords a far greater opportunity for expansion and enlargement."

In addition to Dunlop tires and tubes, a complete stock of automotive accessories will be carried and a complete vulcanizing and repair shop maintained.

TWELVE CUSTOM BUILT BODIES FOR CADILLAC

The Cadillac exhibit at the Automobile Salon, Hotel Commodore, New York city, includes twelve custom-built bodies by Judkins, Fleetwood, LeBaron, Holbrook, Brunn and Fisher.

The display of four Fisher bodies has been termed a "jewel tone exhibit," the basis of the color scheme in each of the four cars being a semi-precious jewel. An acquaintance, a topaz, a cornelian opal and a garnet were selected as motifs and the colors of the body and upholstery have been made to correspond exactly with the color of the jewel. The jewels are on exhibition with the cars.

The aquamarine is the color motif of the Imperial, the paint being a two-tone aquamarine green, light and dark, with a stripe of caprice rose. The upholstery is a Wiese Wolvertyne aquamarine green, the wool carpet, with a soft, luxurious pile fully half an inch deep, specially woven for the purpose in a color to match. The leather of the front compartment is a glove-finish cowhide morocco and in the tonneau the brocaded silk of the upholstery panels is of geometrical patterns in fleur-de-lis design woven on Jacquard looms.

The cornelian opal is the color motif of the five-passenger sedan; the garnet of the four-passenger phaeton, and the topaz of the five-passenger coupe. In the last, the upholstery is a Wiese luster weave broadcloth in topaz tan, a color derived from the dark facets in the topaz. The luster of the material gives it the effect of burnished old gold.

The interior hardware of the Fisher custom bodies is sterling silver, gold-plated in the five-passenger coupe and treated with a transparent enamel in the other cars, with inlaid walnut paneling on the doors.

SENATOR W. F. GEORGE SPEAKS AT PLAINS

Americus, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Five hundred persons gathered at Plains near here to hear United States Senator Walter F. George in an address upon "The American Constitution." Senator George declared the protection of human liberty to be the one conception of this nation's constitution, saying that freedom is not privilege, but is the inherent right of every individual given by his Creator, and that the function of the constitution is the protection of such rights.

Referring to Georgia's existing educational system, Senator George said that "the Georgia educational system is a misnomer. We really have no system of education." Selfishness, he said, is responsible for existing conditions in Georgia educational circles, and he concluded with the assertion that rural schools everywhere should enjoy the same rights and privileges as the schools located in Americus, Atlanta and other centers of population.

The address was delivered in connection with the observance of "Education week" in Plains schools, one of the leading units in Sumpter county's rural school system.

PIERCE-ARROW VAN MAKES RECORD RUN

One of the longest distance hauls on record with a moving van was recently made by the Pierce-Arrow van owned by John B. Igoe, of Amsterdam, N. Y., when this vehicle covered 1,621 miles in five days. This splendid time was made despite the fact that the men in charge of the van did not drive continuously, but took time out for sleeping as well as loading and unloading the van in two different cities.

On October 17, the van left Amsterdam, N. Y., for Philadelphia. After unloading it resumed its journey as far westward as Jackson, Mich. After picking up another load the men in charge returned home to Amsterdam, arriving there on Thursday afternoon, October 22.

The entire trip was made without any kind of mechanical trouble. West of Buffalo over the lake road the van encountered snow for about eight miles, but plowed through without difficulty. A moderate rate of speed was maintained throughout the whole journey. The crew in charge of the van during the trip drove until midnight, then slept until the early hours of the morning when they resumed their journey.

The Pierce-Arrow chassis on which the van is mounted now has a total mileage over 10,000 miles, being placed in operation in May of this year. Mr. Igoe, the owner of the van, employs Pierce-Arrow trucks in his business.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR BIG ANNUAL MEETING

During the past week, at a meeting of the board of directors of the Atlanta Automobile association, plans were practically completed for the big annual meeting and celebration of the association at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel, Monday evening, December 7, at 6:30 o'clock. The special committee, handling the annual meeting, attended the board meeting last Thursday, and laid before the board their plans to make this the greatest annual celebration in the history of the association.

A short business session will be held at the annual meeting at 6:30, immediately preceding the banquet, at which time the nominating committee will submit their recommendations for officers for the ensuing year, these recommendations to be passed upon by the general membership. R. N. Reed is chairman of the nominating committee, and he announced at the board meeting Thursday that his committee had practically decided upon the nominations to be submitted at the annual meeting.

As the annual meeting is largely in the nature of a frolic and celebration, special attention is given to the entertainment part of the program; in fact, this has always been, and will be this year, the big feature of the meeting. During the service of the elaborate banquet which will be spread, and following the banquet, an entertainment program will be offered, which the committee says will eclipse anything ever before presented at an annual meeting of the association.

The retiring officers of the association are: T. K. Johnson, president; C. M. LeRoux, first vice president; R. N. Reed, second vice president; C. W. Dobbs, third vice president; F. L. Brandes, fourth vice president; J. B. Moore, fifth vice president; J. M. Becker, secretary, and E. G. Beaudry, treasurer.

State high school athletic organizations have been formed in 39 states, and in four states a commissioner is at the head of the organization. The commissioner in Ohio receives a salary of $5,000.

Where Maytag Washing Machines Are Made

Aboye is the extensive plant of the Maytag corporation located at Newton, Iowa This plant has a daily output of 869 washing machines which, with the addition of a six-story building to be completed late in December, will bring the daily output to 1,500 machines.

This, according to J. J. Albright, Atlanta district manager, "became necessary in order to fill the constantly increasing demand for Maytag machines."

This new building in keeping with the rest of the factory is equipped with the most modern of labor-saving machinery, being also of fireproof construction throughout.

The Maytag corporation maintains a branch office in Atlanta at 822 Forsyth building, which office covers the entire southeastern states. The Motor Parts corporation, at 253 Ivy street, is the local dealer.

STAR SIX HAS LIGHT HIGH SPEED MOTOR

The demand for power without excessive weight has led to the development of the high speed light weight motor.

It is obvious that a motor traveling at 2,400 revolutions per minute will develop, because of added momentum, more power than the same motor making 1,600 revolutions per minute.

Instead of increasing the size of the motor, additional power has been created through the simple expedient of increasing motor speed. Hence, the development of the light weight high speed motor, the most efficient type of automotive power.

With the advent of the high-speed motor came the necessity for improved design and better construction.

A motor that revolves 2,400 times a minute, 40 times a second, must be of better quality in order to function efficiently and to stand the grueling test of high speed operation. Hence, we find the reciprocating parts of high speed motors lighter and in better balance; bearings and bearing surfaces larger and heavier, and highly developed lubricating systems.

Star four and six motors are the modern type of high speed motor. They embody important structural features peculiar to a high speed operation, such as light and correctly balanced reciprocating parts, large bearings and ample bearing surfaces, a cooling system that insures a uniformly correct motor temperature, and a forced-feed oiling system that provides a generous supply of lubricating oil for all moving parts under every driving condition.

OAKLAND PRODUCING NEW LANDAU SEDAN

The Oakland Motor Car company now has in production a new style Landau sedan with larger body, wider rear seat, larger rear quarter windows, new colors and many other refinements. Price remains unchanged—$1,295 f. o. b. Pontiac, Mich.

The lengthening of the body affords added space in the tonneau of the car and easier entrance, while the widening of the rear seat provides big car roominess so desirable for the complete relaxation of occupants.

The rear quarter windows have been enlarged from the oval to a square finish, with upper rear corners rounded to conform to the shapeliness of the rear line of the body. The graceful bows upon the leather rear quarters still remain one of the distinctive features of this body style.

The change in Duco finish to a pyramid gray lower body, with black upper structure and red striping on body, hood louvres and wheels adds to the attractiveness of this most distinctive car of the Oakland line.

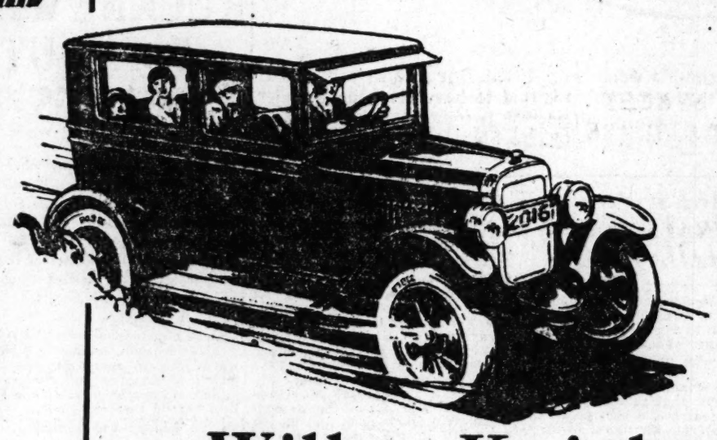
Automatic windshield cleaner, visor, front snubbers, natural wood wheels, front bumper, rear fender guards, gasoline gauge on instrument board, heater, moto-meter, Fisher VV one-piece windshield, roller shades and other appointments associated with this type of car are standard equipment, besides the many advanced mechanical Oakland features such as Harmonic balancer, air cleaner, oil filter and mechanical four-wheel brakes.

Current sales of the Landau sedan, the highest-priced Oakland type, are greater than those of any other car in the line, with the exception of the coach.

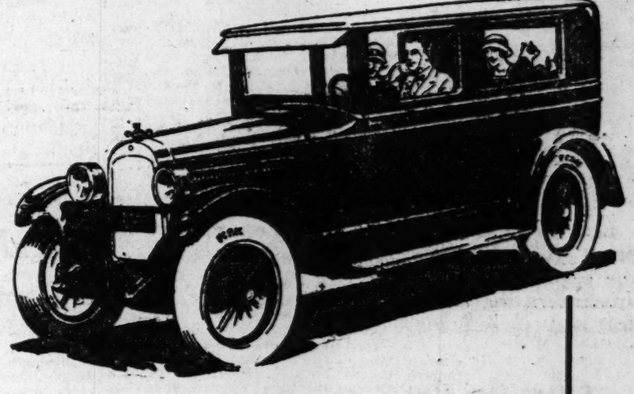
Rheumatism Recipe Free.

Ex-Sergeant Paul Case, Room 371, Grace Bldg., Brockton, Mass., states that while serving with the American army in France he was given a prescription for Rheumatism and Neuritis that has produced most gratifying results in thousands of cases. He says the prescription cost him nothing, so he asks nothing for it, but will send it free to anyone who writes him.—(adv.)

Harvest Show



All Week



Willys-Knight and Overland Models

Featuring the Beautiful Willys-Knight Brougham

Atlanta's Largest and Finest Showing of Closed Cars

Opens

Monday Night

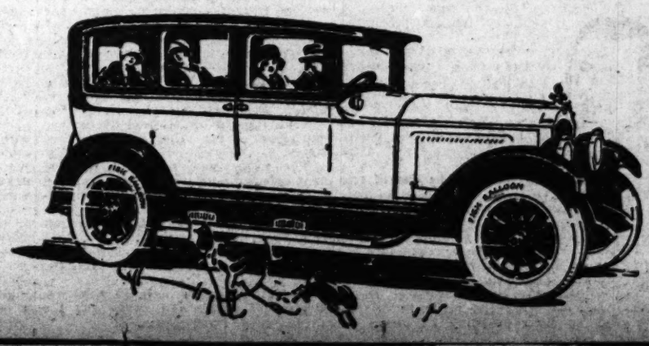
7:30 O'Clock

Oglethorpe's Famous Jazz Orchestra

Public Cordially Invited

WILLYS-OVERLAND, Inc.

414 Peachtree Street



TRAINLOAD SHIPMENT OF TRUCKS TO FLORIDA

Every truck in a solid trainload shipment which recently left Graham Brothers factory bound for Florida was delivered at retail within 10 days of the time the train reached Jacksonville, official records show.

This train consisted of 34 railroad cars containing 91 trucks consigned to seven dealers. The allotment to the Miami dealer alone was 31 trucks of 1-ton and 1 1-2-ton capacity.

"These and hundreds of other Graham Brothers trucks," according to F. E. Maffett of the F. E. Maffett, Inc., local Dodge Brothers dealer, "are playing an important part in relieving the transportation situation which has resulted from inadequate capacity of Florida's railroads to supply the needs of her unprecedented numbers of winter tourists and homeseekers.

"Vast amounts of merchandise, subject to the freight embargoes recently placed on certain classes of goods in order to reduce delay in moving necessities, have been moved south from Jacksonville and inland from Atlantic and gulf ports by Graham Brothers trucks.

"Further evidence of the growth in demand for Graham Brothers trucks is found in reports of retail sales. Total deliveries in the state of Florida for the month of September, 1925, equalled those for the entire year of 1923.

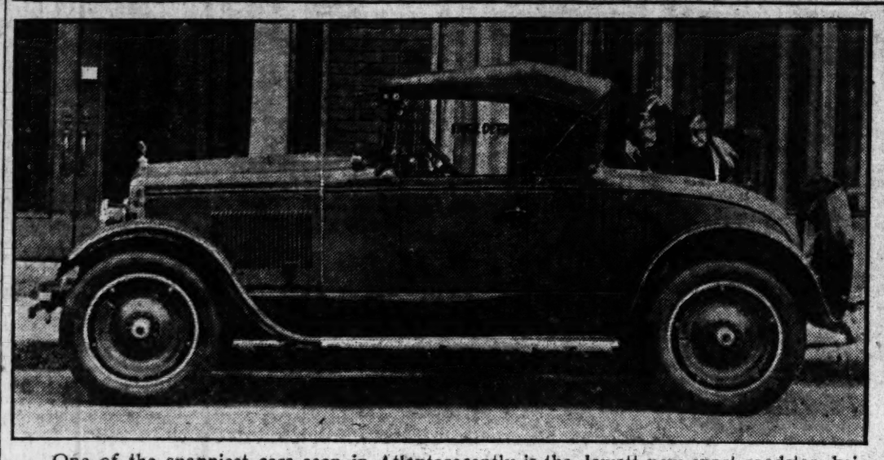
"October deliveries were 70 per cent ahead of the total for 1923 and equal to the total for 1924.

"Deliveries in Florida for the three months of August, September and October, 1925 exceeded the combined totals for 1923 and 1924 by over 15 per cent.

"The rapidly increasing sale of these sturdy 1-ton and 1 1-2-ton trucks everywhere is the natural consequence of their power, dependability and low operating cost."

Usually the first thing a young man thinks about after becoming the father of a first class mortgage, is a note in bank to buy an automobile.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

Jewett Sport Roadster Being Shown



One of the snappiest cars seen in Atlantarecently is the Jewett new sport roadster, being displayed by the Paige-Jewett Sales company, local dealers. This car comes in two-tone sport colors, finished in Duco. Has collapsible top and rumbler seat.

Industrial Development Wave Has Lifted Savannah To High Place Commercially

Savannah-Carolina Bridge and Coastal Highway Give Impetus To Port City.

Savannah, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—In its sweep over the state, the wave of industrial development so clearly foreseen by Georgia business leaders in interviews in "The Week," has lifted Savannah to a new high place in its commercial history.

In a material way Savannah has gained much this year, but her greater gains are in the spirit of her people and in the realization of the possibilities of her future greatness.

Last April the people of Georgia's coastal highway counties voted an issue of bonds, the money from which added to that appropriated by the state and federal government is to build a paved highway from the Savannah river to the Florida state line.

In July Savannah and South Carolina were linked together for the first time when the new Savannah-Carolina highway bridge over the Savannah river was opened.

After months of increasing travel over this most important connecting link, Savannahians are today beginning to realize the great importance of this structure and what it means to the growth of the city.

Bridge Increases Business.

The new bridge has increased Savannah's trading radius nearly 50 per cent and has brought approximately 100,000 more persons within her buyers' zone. Almost immediately after the opening of the bridge, Savannah's business interests trebled due to the daily influx of Carolinians over the new bridge. Thousands of north and south bound cars every week are passing over this bridge. This new structure, which cost $600,000 and took three years to build, spans the river and marsh lands for four and a half miles, and is one of the most important connecting links on the south Atlantic coastal highway, which is the newest trunk line route from Washington to Florida.

Savannah has already experienced as a result of this bridge the heaviest tourist travel in her history. For weeks her hotels have been filled by auto, rail and steamship tourists north and south bound. Two tourist hotels and a new commercial hotel are being proposed and the prospects are that hundreds of travelers will have to be turned away from Savannah during the coming season.

Last April Henry Ford, Detroit manufacturer, purchased 1,600 acres of land on the Ogeechee river near the line of Chatham county, of which Savannah is the seat. Ford's property lies 14 miles in an air line from Savannah's city hall. This vast purchase by the Detroit manufacturer and the passage of the bond issue for the new road put life into the people of Savannah and her remarkable progress could be dated to April 26 when the bond issue was adopted almost unanimously by the six counties.

Because of favorable freight rates and a good crop Savannah's cotton receipts and shipments are nearly doubled those of last year and are fast approaching the total that the city enjoyed years ago when she was principal cotton port on the Atlantic coast.

Increase in Business.

To the lesser degree her other principal industry—the marketing of rosin and turpentine—has increased this year over the totals of the last few years and likewise her lumber shipments. Her total exports and imports, of which fertilizer is probably the largest item, have increased almost 50 per cent.

Almost immediately after Savannah launched its national advertising campaign this fall, the real estate market became very much more active than it had been at any other time in Savannah's history. Within 30 days more real estate had been sold than in the previous ten years and today the real estate boom is gaining momentum rapidly and Savannahians are looking forward to the time when it will assume Florida proportions.

Savannah advertising, made possible by a progressive municipal administration, has gone into 65 newspapers throughout the north and 20 national magazines this fall and winter. Already the results of this advertising campaign are being felt and it is the purpose of the municipality to continue advertising each year in an increasing amount.

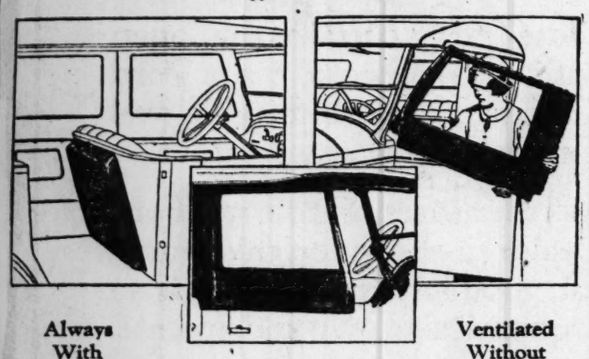
Savannah's climate, her strategic geographical position as a world's port and her rail terminus and proximity of the city to a vast hinterland, requiring the facilities of a great port for world's market, combine to make her possibilities as to the metropolis of the south almost certain.

What is a GLASS CURTAIN For Open Cars?

There Is Only One—
GLASSMOBILE

This new invention, which has taken the motoring world by storm and which already has the approval of twelve of the leading car manufacturers, marks a new era in open car comfort and convenience.

Can Be Put On Or Taken Off In 4 Minutes



Always With The Car

Ventilated Without Sliding Glass

Available For All Makes of Cars

Every sedan comfort and convenience, plus all open car advantages and economy, is made available by this new invention.

Weighs only 40 lbs. Costs less, lasts longer and looks better than "enclosures" and winter tops.

You owe it to yourself to see this wonderful replacement for celluloid side curtains before buying a new car or fixing your old curtains.

We Are Glad to Demonstrate

Southern Motor Equipment Co.
214 Spring St. WAlnut 9186
Atlanta, Ga.

DETROIT, MICHIGAN
GLASSMOBILE
THIS AS A SHEET OF GLASS BOUND IN A BAND OF STEEL

FORMER ATLANTAN SUCCEEDS IN FILMS

The story of the remarkable success won in the field of motion picture production by an Atlanta boy was revealed Saturday when news was received that Jack Chertok, Atlanta boy, is in charge of a part of the script writing in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios in California and is now at work on the colossal production of "Ben Hur," which is to be presented soon.

Young Chertok is a nephew of Dr. Louis C. Rouglin, prominent Atlanta physician, and he recently sent Dr. Rouglin a photograph which is published in the rotogravure section of this issue of The Constitution. It shows Chertok explaining a bit of detail of a script of "Ben Hur" to Ramon Navarro and Francis X. Bushman, who will take leading roles.

In a letter to Dr. Rouglin sent by one of the officers of the company it was stated that the Atlanta boy is showing remarkable ability as a script writer and has been placed in charge of some of the most important details of the "Ben Hur" production. The work of producing this picture has been under way for four years and it will be several months before it is finished.

Mr. Chertok was reared in Atlanta and educated in Atlanta schools. He has been holding his present position for about six months and, according to officers of the company, is doing excellent work.

CLYBURN DROPS DEAD ON STREET OF HEART DISEASE

William Clyburn, 50, of 67 East Boulevard, Kirkwood, collapsed while walking on East Mitchell street near Pryor street late Saturday afternoon and died just as he reached the Grady hospital. Physicians said that his sudden death was due to heart disease.

He is survived by his widow, two daughters, Miss Theodosia Clyburn and Miss Virginia Clyburn; a brother, James R. Clyburn, and two sisters, Miss Bessie Clyburn and Miss Mary Clyburn.

Funeral services will be held from the home at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon. The Rev. H. T. Brookshire will officiate, assisted by the Rev. J. F. Eden, Jr., and the Rev. J. L. Jackson. Interment will be in East View cemetery with Harry G. Poole in charge.

MRS. J. E. TRAVIS DIES AT FAYETTEVILLE HOME

Fayetteville, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Mrs. J. E. Travis, 73, died at the home here Friday afternoon.

She is survived by her husband; two sons, O. E. and C. C. Travis, of Fayetteville; three daughters, Mrs. W. P. Beadles of Grantville, Mrs. J. K. Peeples of Hampton and Mrs. J. E. Phillips, of Albany; two brothers, T. B. Alford of Columbus and J. C. Alford of Union City; two sisters, Mrs. J. B. Alford of Brooks, Ga., and Mrs. Birdie Johnson of Atlanta.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence, Rev. H. L. Bird, of the Fayetteville Methodist church, officiating. Interment will be in the city cemetery. Redwine Brothers, undertakers in charge.

COMPANY "K" PLANS FOR ANNUAL REUNION

The annual reunion of Company K, 122nd infantry, formerly Company "K," fifth Georgia regiment, national guard and historically known as the "Atlanta Grays," will be held Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, at the Kiwanis hall at Dallas, Ga., it was announced Saturday.

Turkey dinner will be served at this, the sixth annual mess call, and many Atlantans are expected to meet at 5:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Kimball house to make the trip by automobile to Dallas. A committee has requested that members who have cars bring them along in order that all those who wish to go can be accommodated.

ASK STATE TO SEND ROAD DELEGATION

Governor Clifford Walker Saturday received a request from the American Road Builders' association that he appoint delegates from Georgia to the 22d annual convention of the association, to be held in Chicago January 11 to 15, 1926.

The convention this year will be the largest in the history of the association. More than 30,000 persons are expected to attend, while more than 300 carloads of road machinery will be on exhibition, it was explained in the letter to the governor from President W. H. Connell, engineering executive of the Pennsylvania department of public highways.

An educational tour of France, under auspices of the French government, was made last summer by 130 boys and 20 teachers from the New York city schools. The party was in charge of the director of foreign languages of the New York schools.

Straighten Up! Nicest Laxative, "Cascarets" 10c

Don't stay headachy, dizzy, sick. Nothing else relieves that bilious, constipated feeling so nicely as candy-like "Cascarets." Take one or two of these pleasant laxative tablets any time, to gently stimulate your liver and start your bowels. Then you will feel fine, your head becomes clear, stomach sweet, tongue pink, skin rosy.

"Cascaret" gently cleanse, sweeten and refresh the entire system. They never gripe, overact or sicken. Directions for men, women and children on each box, any drug store.—(adv.)

ORDER OF RED MEN NAMES NEW OFFICERS

District officers of the Order of Red Men and the Degree of Pocahontas were elected Saturday afternoon at the annual convention at the Red Men's wigwam, 86 Central avenue.

New officers of the Red Men are: Ben L. Askew, district sachem; Baxley P. Coker, district prophet; Walter W. Hollis, senior sagamore; James B. Davenport, junior sagamore; Fletcher W. Laird, chief of records; W. R. Vell, captain of degree team.

The new Pocahontas officers are: Mrs. Mary Matheny, of Augusta, Pocahontas or president; Mrs. L. A. Davis, of Ateo, Winona or vice president; Mrs. Julia Tucker, of Lindale, Minnehaha; Mrs. Lizzie Coggins, of Millstead, prophetess; and Miss Lucy Cagle, of Atlanta, keeper of records.

More than 500 delegates from the northern section of Georgia were in attendance at the convention. The next district meeting of the Red Men will be held in Atlanta on the third Wednesday of May, while the degree of Pocahontas will meet in Summerville on the last Saturday in April.

Delegates were welcomed to Atlanta by Mayor Walter A. Sims, while Charles C. Gilbert, great chief of records, responded. James L. Mayson, Atlanta's city attorney, and past great sachem of the Georgia Red Men, and Great Sachem Jesse B. Lee were principal speakers of the afternoon. A banquet followed the business session.

The degree of Pocahontas organized a district school of instruction, under the officers named above.

Winder Organizations Hold Meeting To Plan Programs for Year

Winder, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—At its regular weekly meeting on Thursday night the Winder Kiwanis club had one of the most interesting programs that it has had since its organization last spring. Instead of a noon luncheon, a dinner was served at night to which each member invited his wife or a lady friend, making a regular "ladies' night" for the club. Representatives of the several women's clubs of the city were also invited.

The program was in the nature of a get-together meeting of the various organizations of Winder to map out a clear-cut program for each of them so as to prevent any overlapping of programs, and to let each one develop its own project without any conflict with other clubs. This will give each club a clear field in its own development and will put all the clubs behind any major project.

Mayor George Thompson presided with E. T. Fincher as secretary. Mrs. G. H. Fortson spoke for the P.-T. A.; Mrs. W. C. Horton for the W. C. T. U.; Mrs. G. A. Johns for the Young Matrons' club; Mrs. A. D. McCurry for the Woman's club; Mrs. J. H. Pledger for the D. A. R.'s; Mrs. O. E. Summerour for the Legion auxiliary; Dr. W. L. Mathews for the American Legion; Colonel R. B. Russell for the Red Cross.

Miss Minnie Harmon, of Washington, D. C., came over from Athens and spoke in behalf of the National Red Cross, and the roll call that is now in progress all over the country and H. J. Mathews, of Atlanta, representative of the state department of public welfare spoke in the interest of that organization and told how it worked in conjunction with local organizations in helping the underprivileged in various parts of the state.

As a result of this meeting a committe was appointed to correlate all all the club activities for the entire county.

Sometimes People Forget Franklin Is Air Cooled

Possibly no group in the automobile trade run into more incidents of a mirthful character than those who use, sell, or service Franklin cars. The fact that no water is used for cooling has led to many an amusing occurrence.

Since the introduction of the present design, which has a dummy radiator shell owners report the only difficulty at filling stations is to keep attendants from breaking the ornamental lion mounted on the radiator in their efforts to get water into the motor.

Sometimes the joke is not always on the filling station attendants; other cases have been reported where batteries were not supplied with water because battery station apprentices said the car was aircooled and didn't need any water.

The last, if not the crowning incident happened at the Franklin factory when an ambitious salesman of radiator drain cocks, also cylinder head gaskets, called to give the Franklin purchasing department "the inside rock bottom quotation" on these water-cooling accounterments.

Memorial Scholarship To State University Announced at Macon

Macon, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Announcement was made here today that a "Charles H. Williamson" memorial scholarship fund has been created to enable graduates of Lanier High school, of this city, to attend the University of Georgia.

Mr. Williamson was one time treasurer of the Bibb Manufacturing company and died suddenly two years ago. His mother, Mrs. W. W. Williamson, and his sister, Mrs. Walter A. Harris, have established the scholarship, the funds for which are to come from 100 shares of 6 per cent preferred stock of the Bibb Manufacturing company.

W. D. Anderson, president of the Bibb Manufacturing company; J. Ellisworth Hall and Morris Michael have been named trustees of the scholarship fund and the transfer of stock is to be effective on January 2.

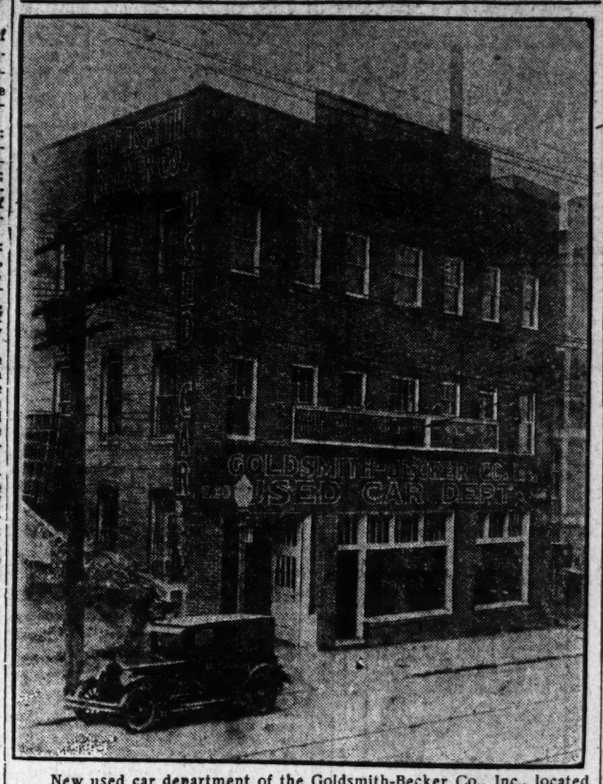
EDUCATIONAL WEEK OBSERVED AT DUBLIN

Dublin, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—National education week was observed by the city and county schools here this week. Superintendent R. L. Sumner, of the county system, has conducted speaking tours through the county and prominent men and women of Dublin went with him to carry messages on various phases of education to the students of the county.

In the city schools special programs have been held, with students and citizens taking part. Local shops have displayed posters and handicraft from each school and the parents have been invited into the schools to observe the work of teachers and students.

All work done by the students this fall was destroyed in the fire that swept the local fair grounds last month, but by hard work the students managed to replace all this loss in time for the education week display.

New Showrooms of Goldsmith-Becker Co., Inc.



New used car department of the Goldsmith-Becker Co., Inc., located at 200 Ivy street.

The Goldsmith-Becker company, Inc., 229 Peachtree street, local distributors for Hudson Essex Motor cars, announce the opening of their new used car show room at 200 Ivy street. This new show room is one of the largest and most accessible in the city. This company will continue to maintain its used-car branch at 255 Peachtree street. Both used-car departments are under the personal direction of Lewis M. Vaughan, used-car manager. Much credit is due Mr. Vaughan, who has been identified with the company for a number of years for the volume of business the company enjoys, and for the policy of reconditioning used cars and guaranteeing them to the purchaser. This policy, said to have been originated by Mr. Vaughan recently has been adopted by a number of other local dealers.

It is the policy of the Goldsmith-Becker company to recondition and guarantee practically every used car taken in on the sale of a new one. This reconditioning not only includes mechanical work, but top, body, upholstering, and painting are also included where necessary. The guarantee covers defective material and workmanship for a period of 30 days. A complete mechanical and service department is maintained for the convenience of customer.

Due to the volume of new car business done by this company, a choice selection of high-grade used cars is available for inspection and demonstration by prospective purchasers. This stock includes practically every make of car and is one of the largest selections in the city.

The sale staff at 200 Ivy street includes E. R. Segars, A. C. Crich and T. H. Brannen, Jr. The staff at 255 Peachtree includes J. E. Callaway, D. W. Mayo, J. D. Douglas and E. H. Matthews.

WILSON ROAD MEET HELD AT DUBLIN

Dublin, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Over 100 delegates from the counties traversed by the proposed Wilson Memorial highway assembled here Wednesday and made plans to begin work upon the project.

Formal adoption of the charter and acceptance of the gold star upon a blue field as a highway marker were the main accomplishments of the body.

It is proposed to bring this highway into the state at Hartwell and to continue south to the Florida line. It was decided that detours would be placed on the roadway during its construction to direct tourists through Wrightsville and Waynesboro.

Delegates from Jesup made an appeal to be taken into the route. This matter was placed in the hands of a committee after lengthy discussion.

Congressman W. W. Larsen attended the meeting and urged the people to go after this highway in earnest. He declared that highways were what Georgia needed and that a highway to Florida would be the most important thing the people of this section could work for at the present time.

VINEVILLE METHODISTS TO BUILD NEW CHURCH

Macon, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Contract was awarded today to the Batson-Cook company, of West Point, Ga., for the building of a new Vineville Methodist church, to cost $110,000. Subcontractors also were selected for plumbing, heating and electrical work.

The building will be of limestone, Greek Doric style. Dunwody & Oliphant, of this city, are architects. J. J. Stewart is chairman of the building committee.

DR. F. G. HARTMAN OF WASHINGTON RESIGNS CHARGE

Washington, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Dr. F. G. Hartman, who for 10 years has served as pastor of the Washington Presbyterian church, has tendered his resignation which was reluctantly accepted and he will leave with his wife at an early date for his old home in Staunton, Va.

Dr. Hartman came to the local church from South Carolina and during his ministry here endeared himself to members of all denominations by his splendid Christian character and tireless efforts towards the moral and spiritual development of the community.

TELEPHONE RATES CUT WHEN USERS PURCHASE DRINKS

Paris, November 21.—(AP)—A cafe owner on the Boulevard Barbes has discovered a plan for persuading telephone users to combine pleasure with business.

"Telephone calls, 30 centimes if you take a drink," says a sign outside the cafe, "50 centimes if you don't."

Above this is the further inscription: "It's all to your interest to take a drink. It will put you in a good humor; you will wait more patiently and you will be more amiable with the telephone operator."

ARMY POST PLANS PLAY TO PURCHASE NEW PIPE ORGAN

In order to raise sufficient funds for purchase and installation of a new pipe organ and for interior decorating of the post chapel prior to the advent of the Christmas holidays, Chaplain J. A. Hockman and a committee of the garrison are sponsoring a musical comedy and minstrel show to be staged at the post theater at Fort McPherson Tuesday night.

Chaplain Hockman stated a high-class theatrical performance would be given under personal direction of Signor Emilio Volpi.

Many talented Atlantans have volunteered their services, among those in the cast being Nora Allen, lyric soprano, Maude Waller, leader of the chorus, Miss Wilhelmina Colley, Miss Alice Sue Dodson, Miss Anna Mae Cole, Miss Katherine McElroy, Miss Catherine Cole, and others. Miss Betty Addicks, accompanied by her own orchestra, will appear in a Hawaiian dance.

In the minstrel number will appear George Bush, interlocutor; Odin Thomas, Rufus Monk, Roy Callaway, Billy Stocks, Hubert Anderson and Grady Cook, principal comedians; John Clotworthy and Sergeant John F. Ryan, balladists.

NATIONAL HEADS OF ACCOUNTANTS GUESTS OF CITY

W. H. West, president, and J. P. Richardson, secretary of the American Institute of Accountants, will be guests of Atlanta accountants today and Monday, and will be tendered a banquet Monday night at the Biltmore hotel.

Speakers at the banquet will include F. J. Paxon, president of the Atlanta Convention and Tourist bureau; T. R. Bennett, state superintendent of banks; William H. James and James L. Respass, vice presidents of the Georgia Society of Public Accountants, and representatives of the schools of business administration of Georgia School of Technology, Emory university and Oglethorpe university.

Joel Hunter will act as toastmaster. Immediately preceding the banquet, there will be a reception at the Biltmore, and local accountants will be presented to the visitors. The American institute has a membership of 2,000.

The NEW MARMON

"Well, how do you like it by now?"
"It's a Great Automobile"

When you see it—it looks like a great Automobile
When you drive it—it feels like a great Automobile
When you own it—you know it's a great Automobile —and you don't hesitate to tell your friends so.

We shall be pleased to place at your disposal a New Marmon demonstrating car embodying Double-Fire Ignition and other important new improvements

MARMON ATLANTA COMPANY
444 PEACHTREE STREET
ATLANTA

SAFETY PLAN STARTED BY MACK TRUCKS, INC.

There is an old saying that "Charity starts at home," and in this sense it is learned that the International Motor company, manufacturers of Mack buses has taken the first steps towards inaugurating an extensive safety campaign among its own drivers in the hope that the idea will spread to drivers and operators of thousands of buses on our city streets and national highways.

This plan follows closely on another idea put in operation by this company some weeks ago when it was announced that the 25-passenger Mack parlor cars would have the following sign painted on the rear end of the bus: "Blow your horn. This Mack bus will gladly move over."

The present plan is one in which the bus driver, upon taking employment with the International Motor company, signs an agreement attested to by a notary public. This agreement will be incorporated verbatim in a code of rules for all bus drivers throughout the country. Its operation in the present company, officials believe, is one step nearer the goal for which they are striving: A nationally understood and accepted code of conduct for bus drivers.

The agreement, which Mack bus drivers in the Long Island plant of the company are signing, is as follows:

"In accepting this assignment, I am determined that my first consideration will be the safety of my passengers and other occupants of the highways.

"I will not operate this vehicle unless the brakes are in first class condition and I will test personally the brakes to make sure they will act properly in the case of emergency.

"I will take every precaution against the hazard of fire and will stop my engine before replenishing my gasoline supply.

"I have authority from the state to operate a motor vehicle of the above class and know motor vehicle laws and ordinances of the states in which it is to be operated, and will obey them.

"I am familiar with the rules of the road and my constant endeavor will be to make my passengers comfortable and to show courtesy to other occupants of the highways.

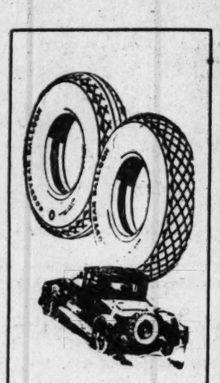
"I will always sacrifice speed for safety. I will always drive, first, with care, comfort and courtesy, last with speed."

Taking
The Guess-Work Out

Right Foot, Left Foot, then on both feet, or up in the air all together.

That's the feeling and the actions of that unfortunate individual who has blown his tire or picked up a roofing nail and waits for the tire-service man.

All a useless waste of energy and wear on the nervous system.



A call to DOBBS
IVy 5646 or WAlnut 6188

is an assurance that help is on the way, and that You will be ON YOUR WAY in the shortest possible time.

"Telephone Dobbs and Count the Minutes"

THERE IS NO GUESS-WORK

When you buy a Goodyear, you get, known tire quality at a rock-bottom price. For long wear, strength, good looks and all round high quality at a low price, you not only can't beat a Goodyear—you can't equal it.

Dobbs
Tire Company

Established 1911

90-92 W. Peachtree IVy 5646 | 291 Whitehall WAlnut 6188

HUPP EIGHT SALES CONTINUE HIGH PACE

Sales of Hupmobile eights for its first 11 months will be 13,500 cars, according to O. C. Hutchinson, general sales manager of the Hupp Motor Car corporation. The car has been the largest selling straight eight in the world almost since the day last January when it was announced.

"The sale of this record number of cars is a tribute never before paid any fine motor car," says Mr. Hutchinson. "It means that never before has a car of comparable price been bought in such large volume during its first year. Since our substantial reduction in its price, sales have continued at an even higher rate.

"The performance it has given, coupled with the reputation which has constantly attached to the name Hupmobile for more than 15 years, are two strong factors in the car's success. In recent weeks its performance has been strikingly emphasized by three new and brilliant endurance and speed records which three different models have established in the hands of three different drivers, two of them using their own personal cars.

QUITMAN INSTALLS WHITEWAY SYSTEM ON PAVED STREETS

Quitman, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—The entire equipment for the new white way lighting system for Quitman has arrived and is being unloaded. The white way will be installed on each side of every paved street in the city and will be of the single standard one-light model.

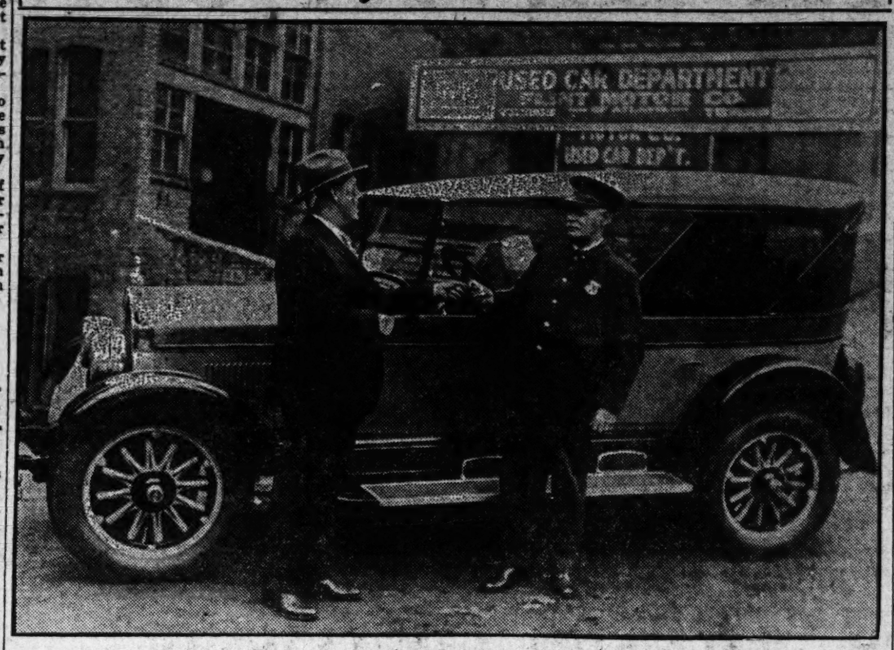
The current will be furnished free by the city and the installation of the system will be borne by the property owners and the city, the latter paying one-fourth of the cost.

QUITMAN PLACES MANY HIGHWAY SIGNBOARDS

Quitman, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Quitman business men and local corporations have lately evidenced an abounding faith in the potentiality of highway signs, and sign painters have been kept busy recently in painting boards which are being installed throughout the county and on some highways into adjoining counties.

The Rotary club of Quitman has ordered installed five very beautiful signs along the five principal highways of the county, notifying all Rotarians they are welcome and stating the hour and date of the weekly luncheon. These signs are painted in Rotary colors and carry a large Rotary wheel.

Fulton County Gets Its Tenth Flint



R. J. Donaldson, retail salesman for the Flint Motor company's Atlanta branch, is shown above delivering to County Officer Peacock the tenth Flint touring car now being operated by Fulton county.

DISTRICT HEADS NAMED FOR WATSON MEMORIAL

With the announcement of names of chairmen of the campaign committees in 138 counties and with tentative organizations at work in 23 counties the campaign to raise $104,000 for a memorial to the late United States Senator Thomas E. Watson to be erected on the state capitol grounds will be waged actively in the hope that it can be completed by December 10, according to James H. Boykin, of Lincolnton, president of the Thomas E. Watson Memorial association.

In making public the list of names of those who have accepted the chairmanship in the respective counties Mr. Boykin expressed gratification over the ability and standing of the men and women who will head the county campaign committees. The organization thus far is complete in 138 counties, while tentative organizations are at work in the remaining 23 counties.

"While no definite date has been fixed for closing the campaign I am urging all chairmen and vice chairmen to put forth their best efforts between now and December 10 in order that sufficient funds for the memorial might be obtained and the campaign closed as soon thereafter as possible," Mr. Boykin said. "If we can get the funds in hand by January 15 next year it will require at least seven months to get the monument ready for unveiling. We want to unveil the monument with appropriate ceremonies in Atlanta, September 5, 1926, Mr. Watson's birthday anniversary."

The campaign will be carried into every militia district between now and December 10, according to plans adopted. The city of Augusta has appropriated $250 to the memorial and an ordinance is now before the council of the city of Atlanta for a $500 appropriation.

Chairmen Selected.

Chairmen of the campaign committees which have been organized in 138 counties are as follows:

First District—Burke, W. L. McElmurray, Waynesboro; Jenkins, C. C. Dekle, Millen; Candler, George M. Bird, Metter; Tatnall, Dr. W. R. Pearson, Reidsville; Liberty, W. I. Dawson, Hinesville; McIntosh, R. J. Anderson, Darien; Effingham, W. F. S. Griffin, Guyton; Screven (temporary organization); Bulloch (temporary organization); Chatham (temporary organization).

Second District—Decatur, S. W. Freeman, Faceville Grady, F. J. Miller, Cairo; Thomas, H. R. Bannister, Coolidge; Miller, Mrs. Dola Bush, Colquitt; Early, J. C. Camp, Blakely; Mitchell, O. P. Sapp, Camilla; Baker, A. N. McLeod, Newton; Calhoun, J. W. Rogers, Edison; Colquitt, L. L. Moore, Moultrie; Worth (temporary organization); Tift, T. A. Hardy, Omega; Seminole, W. H. Drake, Iron City.

Third District—Clay, At. King, Ft. Gaines; Randolph, Hull Andrews, Carnegie; Terrell, J. D. Weaver, Dawson; Quitman, J. B. Oliver, Morris Station; Stewart, J. B. Brazier, Lumpkin; Webster, Judge J. R. Freeman, Preston; Sumter, Sam Rogers, Sumter; Schley, Judge J. C. Rainey, Ellaville; Macon, B. F. Neal, Montezuma; Taylor, Judge L. T. Peed, Butler; Turner, C. W. Watson, Ashburn; Ben Hill, Isidor Gelders, Fitzgerald; Crisp, W. B. Matthews, Cordele.

Fourth District—Carroll, George W. Burnett, Carrollton; Heard, E. S. Dennis, Franklin; Troup, J. H. Hendon, LaGrange; Harris, A. F. Hardy, Hamilton; Marion, Charlie Clements, Buena Vista; Talbot, N. G. Culpepper, Talbotton; Meriwether, C. H. Hudson, Raleigh; Coweta, Turner Upshaw, Newnan.

Fifth Distric—Fulton, J. V. Poole, Atlanta; DeKalb, Judge B. H. Davis, Stone Mountain; Campbell, Rev. M. D. Collins, Fairburn; Douglas, W. L. Morris, Douglasville; Rockdale, W. B. Parker, Conyers.

Sixth District—Bibb, A. M. Petty, Macon; Crawford, E. L. McGee, Roberta, Monroe, S. H. Zellner, Forsyth; Upson, J. W. Warren, Thomaston; Pike, T. Carter, J. W. Zebulon; Butts, O. E. Smith, Jackson; Spalding, L. W. McElroy, Griffin; Henry, S. C. McWilliams, Stockbridge, Fayette, Dr. A. S. Chambers, Inman; Clayton, Fred Cox, Jonesboro; Jasper, J. L. G. Woods, Monticello.

Seventh District—Cobb, C. M. Head, Marietta; Paulding, J. M. McCarty, Drakestown; Haralson, Rev. Sidney M. Golden, Buchanan; Polk, Mrs. S. A. Nelson, Aragon; Floyd, C. W. Smith, Rome; Bartow, W. R. Milner, Cartersville; Chattooga, Judge C. D. Rivers, Summerville; Gordon, Cobb McIntyre, Calhoun; Walker, C. W. Hazelrig, LaFayette; Whitfield, Dr. Edgar Jackson, Dalton; Murray, J. Roy McGinty, Chatsworth.

Eighth District—Clarke, A. V. Burton, Athens; Franklin, S. S. Bowers, Royston; Hart, T. M. Myers, Hartwell; Elbert, W. T. Kelley, Elberton; Wilkes, Dr. George S. Sherrer, Rayle; Oglethorpe, Mrs. George W. Crawford, Lexington; Madison, J. N. B. Thompson, Comer; Oconee, M. I. Bond, Bogart; Morgan, W. A. Hester, Madison; Walton, Alec Smith, Monroe; Newton, Dr. A. S. Hopkins, Covington; Putnam, Mansfield, Maddox, Note.

Ninth District—Hall, W. B. Nance, Gainesville; Jackson, T. S. Johnson, Jefferson; Barrow, J. L. Moore, Bethlehem; Gwinnett, A. L. Simonton, Lawrenceville; Forsyth, M. S. Brooks, Cumming; Banks, S. H. Jolley, Homer; Habersham, J. L. Parkins, Cornelia; White, John B. King, Leaf; Rabun, T. E. Roan, Clayton; Milton, Jeff Brooks, Alpharetta; Cherokee, Lemuel Doss, Canton; Towns, Ben Tengue, Culberson, N. C., R. F. D.; Fannin, T. A. Brown, Blue Ridge; Union, Ben Teague, Culberson, N. C.

Tenth District—Richmond, J. L. Cartledge, Augusta; McDuffie, John C. Wall, Thomson; Lincoln, R. F. Guillebeau, Lincolnton; Columbia, H. P. Blount, Grovetown; Warren, Dr. E. B. Ricketson, Warrenton; Taliaferro, L. A. Brake, Crawfordville; Hancock, S. M. Barksdale, Mayfield; Glascock, T. A. Waldon, Gibson; Washington, H. F. Bateman, Sandersville; Baldwin, Bart Wilson, Milledgeville; Wilkinson, J. Fleming Bloodworth, Irwinton; Jefferson, temporary organization.

Eleventh District—Appling, C. C. Padgett, Paxley; Wayne, Dr. D. R. Pearce, Jesup; Glynn, W. L. Harwell, Brunswick, Camden, Charles S. Arnow, St. Marys; Jeff Davis, W. L. Reagin, Hazelhurst; Pierce, R. L. Dixon, Patterson; Ware, W. D. Youmans, Waycross; Echols, T. Y. Touchton, Howell; Lowndes, Hobart B. Edwards, Valdosta; Brooks, G. C. Hopper, Quitman; Berrien, Perry T. Knight, Ray City; Coffee, Henry C. Ellis, West Green; Irwin, D. J. Henderson, Sr., Ocilla.

Twelfth District—Emmanuel, I. L. Price, Swainsboro; Johnson, W. C. Brinson, Wrightsville; Laurens, Dr. C. H. Kittrell, Dublin; Pulaski, W. S. Lancaster, Hawkinsville; Dodge, J. C. Williamson, Eastman; Telfair, J. T. Davenport, Helena; Wilcox, Charlie Gregory, Pitts; Wheeler, H. W. Nalley, Alamo, Pitts; Wheeler, Hugh Peterson, Jr., Mt. Vernon; Toombs, Julian Peacock, Vidalia.

Newspaper Advertising Is Responsible for Buick Success

A. BROWN BATTERSON,
Director of Advertising Buick Motor Company.

The success which the Buick Motor company has enjoyed in recent years with the assistance of newspaper advertising columns throughout the country is best evidenced by the fact that this company will use more space in 1926 than in any previous year.

Since the inauguration of a national newspaper advertising campaign several years ago, the Buick Motor company has achieved a volume of business which has steadily become greater, until this year it will be necessary to run the factory at capacity through the winter months.

This activity through what is usually considered a slack season, is due largely to the campaign announcing the 1926 Buicks, which was carried on in 7,000 American newspapers in August. The public response was remarkable. In two days 1,018,000 interested people visited Buick show rooms everywhere, and at the end of the campaign six days later, thousands of cars had been sold. Many dealers sold more Buicks than they usually sold in a year, in the first month after the new models were introduced.

This public interest is attributed to the effect which years of consistent newspaper advertising has had. The Buick Motor company has always built a quality product, and with the assistance of the newspapers it has succeeded in persuading people to find out for themselves if the many claims of excellence are really true. Buick's sales record of being first in volume of sales among all the automobiles of America for eight consecutive years is a good indication of how well this end has been accomplished.

The Buick newspaper campaign is based on a budget system of advertising used by the dealer. The sales advertising department analyzes each dealer's territory and direct the advertising so that it will be most effective. The department cooperates with the dealer in making space contracts with the newspapers, and in addition furnishes all advertising copy and mats. The result is a saving both by the dealer and by the newspaper, which does not have to solicit the account or help prepare copy.

About 4,400 dailies and weeklies are used in the normal advertising of the year, each being used weekly, semi-monthly or monthly, according to circumstances. In addition there are 335 metropolitan dailies which carry factory branch and distributor advertising. The total circulation of all these papers is close to 40,000,000. The advertising used last year amounted to 4,000,000 inches, which was apportioned between the dealer and the branches and distributors. All this space cost over two million dollars. This sum was spent by the dealers, distributors and sales advertising department, which in addition furnished all copy and plates for the ads. The newspaper campaign was supported consistently by a national magazine campaign toalling 7,000,000 in circulation.

The results have been amazing. The many features of Buick automobiles are almost bywords in most American homes. The valve-in-head engine, for instance, is instantly associated with the name Buick by everyone. The same is true of other famous features such as 4-wheel brakes, the triple sealed engine, the sealed chassis, automatic heat control, and many others. Buick advertising which reaches practically every home in the country through the newspapers must be given credit for this knowledge, which, when coupled with inherent Buick quality, has made the remarkable eight-year sales record possible.

GENERAL MOTORS NEW SIX A LOW-PRICED CAR

Some indication of the price trend of automobiles during 1926 will be given early in January when the new six-cylinder automobile to be introduced by the General Motors corporation, as a comparison to the Oakland six will be formally announced.

It is rumored that this will be the lowest price six-cylinder car in the General Motors line. This is especially significant as it is to be built of the usual high-quality standards of all General Motors cars and offer a new value in the six-cylinder field. Besides being something distinctly new in performance and appearance, it will be a good-sized automobile.

This new car will be manufactured in the factory of the Oakland Motor Car company at Pontiac, Mich., in addition to and as a companion to the Oakland six.

Officials of that company who are responsible for the production of the new General Motors automobile decline to say what the price range will be. They do say, however, that it will be such as to have a nation-wide appeal, indicating that the new car will be noteworthy for its quality, its size and its price.

Mrs. Stoiher Lectures.

Mrs. Stoiher, formerly teacher of the New Thought temple in Cincinnati, will give a lecture on "New Thought" in the mahogany room of the Ansley hotel this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

HARRISON PROMOTED TO CAPTAIN IN 122D

Frank Woodson Harrison, prominent in social and business circles of the city, has been promoted from a first lieutenant to be captain in the 122d infantry, "Atlanta's Own" national guard regiment. The promotion, recommended by Colonel Charles H. Cox, regimental commander, was announced Saturday by Lieutenant Colonel Eugene Oberdorfer, executive officer of the regiment.

Captain Harrison will command the Howitzer company, succeeding Captain Elbert G. Tuttle, who has been transferred to command service company.

Captain Harrison is prominently identified with the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance company, is a director in the junior chamber of commerce, a graduate of Marist college and active in civic club circles of the city. He is a veteran of the world war and saw many months strenuous service in the first line in France during the late war.

Aspirin Gargle in Sore Throat or Tonsilitis

Prepare a harmless and effective gargle by dissolving two "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" in four tablespoonfuls of water. Gargle throat thoroughly. Repent in two hours if necessary.

Be sure you use only the genuine Bayer Aspirin, marked with the Bayer Cross, which can be had in tin boxes of twelve tablets for few cents.—(adv.)

Cross, Irritable Husbands Often Victims of Chronic Fatigue

Many a wife is made unhappy because her husband is cross and irritable all the while, always losing his temper, cranky with the children and finicky about his meals. Often she thinks that he does not love her any longer or that he is working too hard—when as a matter of fact the real cause of all their troubles is that he is suffering from nerve exhaustion—due to chronic fatigue.

Chronic fatigue is entirely different from the ordinary, "healthy" fatigue you feel after hard work. Chronic fatigue—the serious kind—comes from within. Your organs and muscles have become debilitated and cannot function properly.

To conquer chronic fatigue you must get at its cause—in the blood. For it is from the blood that all your nerves, muscles and tissues get their nourishment. And it is almost invariably when your blood is thin and pale, lacking in sufficient organic iron, that you become all run-down and chronic fatigue takes hold.

In this condition what you need is to strengthen your entire system—especially your nervous system—by getting more organic iron into your blood. But don't take the old-fashioned mineral iron medicines which many doctors now say do little good. Take organic iron—Nuxated Iron—which is like the organic iron in your blood and like that in spinach and lentils. Unlike ordinary mineral iron, it will not injure the teeth or disturb the stomach, but is promptly assimilated. Furthermore, it is so concentrated that one dose contains practically as much organic iron as one pint of spinach or one quart of green vegetables.

Take Nuxated Iron for just two weeks and you'll be astonished how that weak, tired-out, irritable feeling simply vanishes and you feel stronger and better in every way. Money back if not improved. At all good druggists.—(adv)

Growth

A typical example of Graham Brothers remarkable progress in the truck industry was the month of September.

Production for this single month was 171 per cent of production for the entire year of 1921.

Astonishing growth, yet readily understood by owners, to whom Graham Brothers Trucks have brought vastly improved service simultaneously with a sharp reduction of costs.

1-Ton Chassis, $1,100.00; 1½-Ton Chassis, $1,385.00; Delivered

F. E. MAFFETT, Inc.
DEALER
169 West Peachtree St. HEm. 1165

GRAHAM BROTHERS TRUCKS SOLD BY DODGE BROTHERS DEALERS EVERYWHERE

Ford

TOURING CAR
$290

Touring	$290
Runabout	260
Coupe	520
Tudor Sedan	580
Fordor Sedan	660

Closed cars in color. Demountable rims and starter extra on open cars.
All prices f. o. b. Detroit

Close-fitting curtains that open with the doors make the Ford Touring Car comfortable and convenient for any weather.

Ask the nearest Authorized Ford Dealer to show you this practical, good-looking car that is so economical to own and operate.

Convenient terms of payment can readily be arranged.

Ford Motor Company
Detroit, Mich.

Classified Ads THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION Real Estate

VOL. LVIII., No. 162. ATLANTA, GA., SUNDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 22, 1925.

The J. M. High Co., Established 1882---On the Landmark at Whitehall and Hunter

Thanksgiving Selling

2,000 Pieces: Crystal Glassware

29c, 39c, 49c, 98c and $1.98

Goblets, Sherbets, Iced Tea Glasses, Table Tumblers, Water Jugs and Salad Bowls—cut, etched, clear crystal, colored stems or banded in gold.

Bargains gravitate here. High's is their logical channel from maker to consumer. When, for reasons best known to himself, this manufacturer determined to close out his crystal glassware, he turned to us and sold at a pronounced, emphatic and, relatively speaking, enormous loss.

If the thing had been planned, timed, it could not have happened at a happier moment. Thanksgiving is next Thursday and Christmas comes apace. Here is the glassware you will need, not only for your own festival purposes, but for giving.

Speaking of Christmas, the time is none too long, and opportunities like this are all too brief and fleeting.

Two thousand pieces. In five great groups. In many instances the prices are less than cost to make. Certainly we have no intention of being precipitate, none-the-less it is important to mention that you should be here early Monday.

29c Each
Iced Tea Glasses
Salad Plates
Table Tumblers

39c Each
Goblets
Sherbets
Iced Tea Glasses

49c Each
Salad Plates
Candy Jars
Vases

98c Each
Candle Sticks
Salad Plates
Cheese and Cracker Sets

$1.98 Each
Water Pitchers
Salad Sets
and other pieces

Bargains Today; Gifts Tomorrow—

$6.50 Madeira Napkins, Doz. $4.45

Hand embroidered in delicately-lovely designs and the embroidery is of a fine quality. Hand-scalloped all around. Fine linen napkins. If you're familiar with the type of hand-embroidered napkins that sells for $6.50, you know what these are. Neatly boxed.

—Madeira embroidered towels....$1.39
—Porto Rican embroidered towels.$1.00
—Porto Rican baby pillow cases....79c
—Madeira 3-piece buffet sets.....$1.98
—Madeira 72-in. round cloths...$11.98
—Madeira 13-piece luncheon sets..$3.98

Any Woman Would Appreciate This Gift!

$10.98 Silk Spread Sets, $6.98

Something you can give to mother, to your sister or to your dearest friend for her home or for her room. A lovely gift. And one that isn't expensive! These are of fine silk in beautiful novelty Jacquard patterns. 80x108 inches. Scalloped.

—72x105-in. Jacquard striped silk spreads $5.50
—80x108-in. Jacquard silk spreads $9.98
—72x108-in. Scranton silk spreads $10.95
—80x108-in. Scranton silk spreads $12.98
—72x108-in. wide striped silk spreads $6.98
—80x108-in. novelty plaid silk spreads $16.50

Napkins for Thanksgiving? Save on These!

$5.95 Linen Napkins, Doz. $3.98

Pure linen, every thread of them. And they're all hemmed and ready for use. In a large enough size to use for your Thanksgiving dinner — 21x21 inches. And the saving is something to be thankful for!

Extra Width Woolens, $1.98

New Weaves, Values to $2.95 Yard

Fashionable woolens with the extra advantage of width, and every woman knows the economy of 54-inch materials. The wanted colors, many of them patterned or bordered which makes the trimming as well. It will take but a yard and a half of these woolens to make a dress.

54-in. Poiret Twills
54-in. French Serges
54-in. Broadcloths
54-in. French Flannels
54-in. Novelty Woolens
Other 54-in. Fabrics

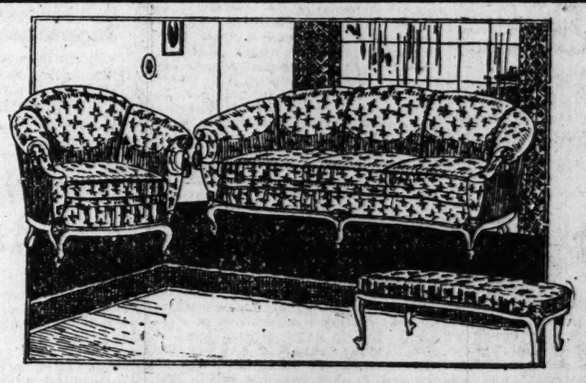
Heavy Crepe Satins, $3.45

Black Only; $5.50-Yard Quality

You can tell by the "feel" of it that it is of a superb quality, rich and lustrous in finish. And please note that it is 54 inches wide, another point in its favor. If you want a piece of silk that will wear like a piece of leather, it is this crepe-back satin.

$2.25 Charmeuse, $1.65 Yd.

Soft, supple charmeuse in black only for dresses, combinations and costume slips. A good quality, the same for which you usually pay $2.25. 40 inches wide.



Thanksgiving Offering—These Two-Piece $225.00

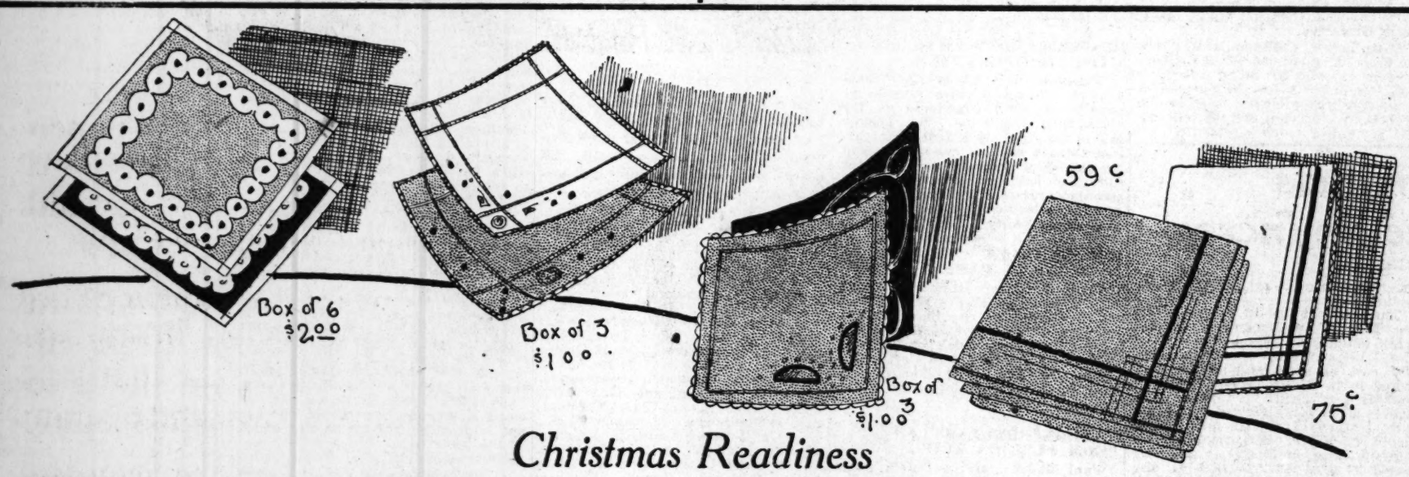
Living Room Suites, $179.50

Sink down into the luxurious depths of one of these suites, you won't have to be told that their worth is far in excess of $179.50. In fact, they are $225 suites, repriced as a special Thanksgiving offer.
The much in demand two-piece semi-kidney design, massive in appearance, covered in allover mohair, or with outside backs of rich velour and moss edge trimmings. Graceful carved frame. Reverse cushions of silk damask or silk shot tapestry.

Sewing Cabinet, $16.95
Give Her a charming Martha Washington Sewing cabinet. This one is of solid mahogany, with lustrous mirror-like finished top and plenty of drawer space for sewing accessories.

Cedar Chest, $7.95
This is one of the famous Lane Chests—we've just received a carload for holiday gifts. Strongly constructed of fragrant red cedar. A popular hope chest size, 36 inches long, 15 high and 18 wide. Other Lane cedar chests in various sizes and styles, priced to $125.

Royal Easy Chairs, $39.50 up
A lifetime gift and a luxurious one. Well built with spring-filled cushions, beautifully covered in tapestry, jacquard velours and mohairs. Many styles to choose from priced from $39.50 to $125.



Christmas Readiness

A Million Handkerchiefs, More or Less

You will pardon us if our heading smacks of hyperbole. Actually, we do not know how many handkerchiefs we have ready for Christmas. Judging from the great stock, the mass, bulk and variety, there must be a million at least!

Such are our preparations, and that is our position for supplying you with the dainty and practical little emissaries of love or affection.

They come from everywhere on the handkerchief map—England, Ireland, France, Switzerland and Japan. They were bought by experts at bed-rock prices. They are marked at the slenderest of profit margins, making values of purest ray serene.

50c Each
Women's fine hand-embroidered initial handkerchiefs, spoke stitched hems. Exquisitely dainty and fresh.

75c Each
Men's imported handkerchiefs, the kind for which you usually pay $1.50. Hand-drawn, hand-whipped hems, colored effects on very fine white linen.

59c Each
Men's hand-drawn handkerchiefs, novelty colored handkerchiefs, initialed, plain border, also Longfellow initial handkerchiefs, all full size, pure linen.

25c to 59c
Women's lovely imported handkerchiefs, pure linen in white and colors, hand-embroidered, 25c, 35c, 59c each.

$1 Box
Men's 39c pure linen handkerchiefs, regulation size, with pretty initial, packed 3 in a box, for $1. Full assortment of initials.

79c Box
Boys' fancy cambric handkerchiefs with neat initial, packed 3 in a box, special 79c.

25c Each
Men's plain linen handkerchiefs, full size, with neat hemstitched hem. They'll go in a hurry at 25c.

59c to $1
Bouquet and other dainty novelty handkerchiefs of various kinds, each one boxed, 59c to $1 each.

1,000 Samples 1-3 to 1-2 Off
Hand-embroidered voile, linen and novelties at prices averaging 1-3 to 1-2 off:
35c Handkerchiefs, 19c
39c Handkerchiefs, 25c
59c Handkerchiefs, 39c
79c Handkerchiefs, 59c
$1 Handkerchiefs, 69c
$1.50 Handkerchiefs, $1

75c to $3
Venice lace effects and others, including hand-embroidered linen in white and colors, 75c to $3 each.

12c to 15c Handkerchiefs, 10c
Odd lot men's, women's and children's pretty handkerchiefs, plain cambric, linens and novelties, 12c to 15c kinds, while they last, 10c each.

10c to 25c
An elaborate assortment of men's and boys' good cotton handkerchiefs, white and colors, 10c, 15c and 25c each.

59c Each
Hand-embroidered voile handkerchiefs, usual 75c kinds, at 59c each. Others in white and colors, 35c, 39c to $1

89c to $1.50
Men's full-size silk pongee handkerchiefs, neatly hand-drawn, variously priced, 89c to $1.50 each.

Something Else That Can Be Termed as Gifts—

Linen Bridge Sets---Lunch Sets

A housewife always takes pride in her linens. She takes especial pride in the linens she uses for entertaining. So what more acceptable gift could one give than dainty embroidered linen bridge sets—or luncheon sets?

Bridge Sets
Cloth and 4 Napkins

—Novelty embroidered sets.....$2.98
—Lace-trimmed cream linen sets..$3.98
—Italian cream linen sets.....$2.98
—Porto Rican embroidered sets...$3.39
—Porto Rican embroidered sets...$4.98
—Tan linen embroidered sets....$4.98

Lunch Sets
Cloth and 6 Napkins

—Colored border linen sets.....$3.98
—Silver bleached linen sets.....$4.98
—Colored border linen sets.....$4.98
—Bleached linen damask sets....$4.98
—Solid colored linen sets.....$4.50
—Colored border linen sets.....$9.98

Wool for Warmth; Cotton for Wear

Wool Mixed Blankets, $3.98

Blankets for $3.98 the pair. Yes, and they're good blankets, too! Wool mixed. Warm. Five-inch block plaids in blue, rose, pink, tan, green and lavender. Bound with sateen to match. Mighty fine blankets for $3.98!

The New High's

THE CONSTITUTION'S REAL ESTATE REVIEW

:: :: :: :: CONDUCTED IN THE INTEREST OF DEVELOPMENT OF ATLANTA AND THE SOUTH :: :: :: ::

'Ready-Made Neighborhood' In Cooperative Apartment

BY PAUL JONES.

As a solution of the dilemma created by shortage of houses in many of the large cities of America the cooperative apartment is said by members of the real estate fraternity to be proving a splendid success. This idea, which has spread with great rapidity from coast to coast and which seems to increase also in popularity wherever it has been introduced, had its beginning in New York where many millions of dollars already have been invested in this new type of multiple-unit dwelling and where many dwellings of this type are said now to be under construction.

Cooperative apartments, according to Albert W. Swayne, chairman of the cooperative apartment section of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, are sweeping the entire country, and it is also observed by Mr. Swayne that the movement seems to have had practically a simultaneous beginning in various parts of the United States. The methods adopted by those who originated the cooperative apartment idea in various sections of the country seem to have been well-nigh identical, and the regulations surrounding their operation and sale differ but slightly, according to authorities upon the subject.

While New York seems to have been the scene of the beginning of cooperative apartments in America and while it has reached its greatest development in the metropolis, the idea does not seem to be confined to large cities by any means. A city in Illinois with less than 20,000 inhabitants is said to be housing a large number of its people in cooperative apartments.

Chicago is said to have more than 200 cooperative apartments with the idea gaining daily in popularity and with many new structures of this type projected for immediate erection. Several California towns and cities have built cooperative apartments and millions of dollars are being invested in such dwellings in St. Paul, Atlantic City, St. Louis, Flint, Mich.; Cleveland, Yonkers, Louisville, San Francisco, Philadelphia and other cities of the country.

"Ready-Made Neighborhood."

A curious feature of the cooperative apartment, according to Frank Parker Stockbridge, who wrote an interesting article on the new type dwelling for a leading weekly magazine, is that a purchaser of such a home buys, in its last analysis, only a "slice of air," situated a given number of feet above the street level and a specific distance from the building line, enclosed and equipped for habitation." He owns this "slice of air" absolutely, said Mr. Stockbridge, and he can partition it off and arrange it to suit his individual taste and desires.

The owner can finish it and furnish it to please himself and can tear down and rebuild his partitions according to his desire or the requirements of his family. Another feature of the cooperative apartment, and one that is peculiar to this type of dwelling, is that owners of apartments have to a large degree the power to exclude from the building or the "neighborhood under the roof" of the structure, would-be owners who might for any reason be undesirable to himself or other tenant-owners. In other words, owners of cooperative apartments can "hand pick" their neighbors.

Because of this unique power to control to a large extent the personnel of one's neighborhood, the cooperative apartment idea has been instrumental in development of many highly exclusive communities under the same roof. Advertisements in some of the New York newspapers offer to provide lists of the owners in cooperative apartments in order that prospective purchasers may see just whom they will be associated with should they buy into certain cooperative dwellings. Prospective purchasers are also subjected to scrutiny by owners of the apartment and instances have been related in which fabulously wealthy men have found it impossible to obtain homes in certain cooperative apartment buildings because of objections registered against them by resident owners.

Rich Man Not Accepted.

The writer mentioned an instance in which one unsold apartment in a cooperative building in the metropolis was sought by a wealthy man who offered nearly $100,000 for it. He was refused, it was stated, whereupon he raised his offer to almost double his former figure. He was refused again, and finally told that he could not procure the dwelling at any price. Several of this rich man's business associates were renting owners in the building in question, which served as one of the reasons for his anxiety to secure the unsold apartment, but despite the fact that a half dozen of his business associates were in the building, and that he appealed to them to aid him in securing the coveted apartment, they are said to have left the matter to the agent.

The social value of the cooperative apartment are said to be definite and distinct, and these values can be readily transmuted into cash, according to a well-known authority.

The favorite method of founding cooperative apartments is said to be through the formation of a corporation in which stock is sold to those who will own the "air slices," and the tangible evidence of this ownership is a stock certificate with a definite transferable value and a lease contract under which the owner holds possession of the dwelling and pays his share of the operation of the building. The corporation formed to build and operate a cooperative apartment devotes its entire resources to that building, and the charters granted for the establishment of the new type of dwelling usually limits the company to the operation of this single property. The purpose in limiting the charters, it is pointed out, is that it will prevent the employment of a possible surplus for speculation or other use by those who might have the property in charge.

Laws governing establishment and operation of cooperative apartments have been adopted by various states and the National Association of Real Estate Boards has created a commission to study the new type of dwelling and to work out plans for its building and its operation that will be free from mistakes that were made in the formation of the pioneer cooperative apartments.

The process of organization of the cooperative apartment corporation and the laws governing the multiple unit residence will be explained in a future article upon the new community dwellings.

Dwellings Adding to Atlanta's Fame as City of Beautiful Homes

Types of modern homes that have been erected in various parts of Atlanta during the past few months. The rapidly increasing population of Atlanta has forced a mammoth building wave, and millions of dollars have been invested in dwellings in the city proper as well as in the metropolitan district. Atlanta has more handsome homes, perhaps, than any city in the south.

Georgia Realtors To Meet In Atlanta December 9, 10

Josiah Flournoy, president of the Georgia Real Estate association, announces that member boards, including Atlanta, Augusta, Columbus, Macon and Savannah, report that each is carrying on an active program among its membership urging that each attend the fifth annual convention of the George Real Estate association in Atlanta Wednesday and Thursday, December 9-10.

Real estate business is becoming quite active in the southern part of the state and recently boards have been organized in Americus, Moultrie, Albany, Thomasville and Bainbridge. Officers of these boards have been communicated with by the convention committees and representative delegations from each city is already promised.

Convention headquarters will be at the Ansley hotel and all reservations should be sent by the secretaries of the local boards to the office of the Atlanta board, it was stated by the secretary of the local realty board.

Adams Lauds Session.

A. S. Adams, president of the Atlanta board, in discussing the coming convention, states that in his opinion this meeting of the real estate men of the state will be the most important real estate gathering ever held in Georgia. President Flournoy and his committee have arranged a program of prominent speakers, who will deal with several phases of the real estate business. Speakers on the program include: W. T. Anderson, of Macon, who will speak on "Farm Condition;" Clyde Nelson, of Birmingham, on "Subdivisions;" Robert B. Troutman, of Atlanta, who will explain the recently adopted license law, and Meyer Eiseman, of New Orleans, who speaks on "Selling Methods."

Attendance at all sessions will be by registration card, and, as a large attendance is desired, letters and registration blanks have been sent to members of the Atlanta board urging that they send in their registrations now, so as to simplify registration work on the opening morning of the convention.

Committees Named.

Committees appointed are as follows: General chairman: Dana Belser. Banquet committee: Jesse Draper, chairman; A. B. Cates, Charles T. Hopkins, Edwin M. Chapman. Registration committee: John J. Thompson, chairman; J. C. Baldwin, Jr., George L. Harrison, J. S. Laramore, Charles E. DuPree, Frank C. Owens, Oliver Dolvin, Cone Maddox. Reception committee: J. R. Smith, chairman; M. C. Kiser, Henry H. Robinson, George M. Brown, Jr., Morgan T. Wynne, Fitzhugh Knox, John C. Lusk, Andrew Calhoun, R. F. West, T. H. Simmons.

Dana Belser, chairman, states that meetings of each one of the above committees will be called not later than December 1 for the purpose of organizing and allowing members an opportunity to begin carrying out duties pertaining to each committee.

Seen From the Auction Block

BY THE AUCTIONEER

CIVIC BODIES TO DISTRIBUTE OVERFLOW.

Arrangements are said to be on foot by real estate organizations and civic bodies to care for many of the people who are rushing into Florida "with no definite purpose in view," and who find upon reaching that state that there is a congestion that renders it exceedingly difficult for anything to function from the railroads to the telegraph companies.

Representatives of chambers of commerce, civic bodies and real estate men, it is understood, will endeavor to steer these people into sections where they can find something in the way of an occupation that will suit them and where they can make their homes. Florida cities, especially those in the extreme southern part of the state long since have given out warnings to people not to come unless they have arrangements for homes and occupations.

BUSINESS INCREASING WITH THOMPSON FIRM.

"Business with us is fine," said John J. Thompson, with promise of greatly improved conditions as the spring months come on." Mr. Thompson is the head of a firm that carries a large staff of salesmen and a big listing of splendid dwellings for sale. His salesmen have made many records during the past year and his concern is looked upon as one of the most active realty houses in the city.

SYLVAN HILLS LOTS GOING FAST.

"Lots in Sylvan Hills are going with a most pleasing activity," said O. L. Taylor, of the Smith-Rankin company. "We have something, of course, to offer, which has created the demand for lots in this attractive subdivision, and we are looking forward to a record business during the coming spring."

MADDOX RETURNS FROM FLORIDA TRIP.

Paul Maddox, of the Dolvin Realty company, returned during the past week from Florida and has again taken up his duties with the firm. Mr. Maddox is one of the best known salesmen in the local real estate field, having made a number of sales records that brought him prominently before the members of the fraternity.

RENTALS CONTINUE ACTIVE AND STRONG.

"Apartment rentals," said John O. Childs, manager of the rental department of Weyman & Connors, "are very active and we are much gratified because of the percentage of rentals we have in the building on our list."

Mr. Childs is highly optimistic over the apartment house situation in Atlanta, expressing the opinion that within a short time there will be a demand for apartments that will force the erection of several new structures.

GROUND BROKEN FOR AUTO HOTELS.

Ground is being broken for the big auto hotel that is to be erected at the corner of Houston and Ivy street, where the big multiple unit garage is to be built by Walter T. Candler, Atlanta capitalist. This will be one of the finest buildings of its kind in the entire country, it is stated, and will have every late feature known to garage building practice. The auto hotel will have the unique advantage of having entrances from three floor levels. It will also have approaches from three streets—Ivy, Houston and from Peachtree street, via the alley running between the Grand and Howard theaters. The rolling surface of the ground at this street corner, makes it possible to have three entrance levels.

TWENTY FAMILIES FROM ONE STATE.

"Because of the overflow from Florida," said Howard Watkins, of the M. C. Kiser company, many families from the mid west, the east and the western states, are returning from Florida and locating upon Georgia farms. This is true all over the state and there are a number of instances near the Florida line where agricultural lands have taken on a great new activity and where demands for farms either to buy or rent is increasing every day.

"A remarkable fact," continued Mr. Watkins, "is that 20 families from Indiana have come back from Florida into north Georgia, locating in Carroll county." Mr. Watkins declared that people from Indiana and Illinois are particularly attracted by Georgia farms, and that they like the climate here.

Realty Bodies Fight Unsightly Bill Board Ads

A resolution recommending the problem of unsightly billboard and other outdoor advertising to the control of local zoning and city planning commission and other city and state executives has just been passed by the Wisconsin Association of Real Etate Brokers at the annual convention held in Green Bay.

The Wisconsin goup has patterned its resolution after a similar one passed by the National Association of Real Estate boards at its convention this summer.

"We hold that the indiscriminate use of signboards today retards the development of desirable districts, and tends to destroy values in districts already built up," the resolution states in part. "We hold further that the time has come when we should determine whether or not the character, location, extent and maintenance of signboards cannot be so regulated and controlled as to give legitimate opportunity for necessary advertising without the continuance of the present harmful conditions; therefore, be it,

"Resolved, that the Wisconsin Association of Real Estate Brokers recommends to the various executives, city and municipal, and to the various planning and zoning commissions that immediate study be made of this problem, which shall prevent the destroying of the beauty spots of the open country and discontinuance of any unsightly conditions in any of our cities and be it resolved further, that the state association instructs its board of directors to commence investigation as to the necessary legislation."

The resolution as passed by the national association and the Wisconsin association is the expression of a general movement.

Real estate boards have been active in an effort to reduce the number of signs on vacant property with the idea of preserving the appearance of their cities.

The San Jose, Calif., realty board has adopted a regulation prohibiting the use of "For Sale" signs on all property except that of a subdivision of more than four lots.

The Detroit real estate board inserted a clause regulating the display of more than one sign on vacant property into the code of ethics of the brokers division which has been in force for a year.

A resolution opposing the use of billboards and advertising signs along the public highways has been passed by the Portland, Oregon realty board.

The president's council of the California Real Estate association unanimously adopted a resolution urging realty brokers and subdividers to remove price signs from subdivisions which has been allowed to remain long after the lots quoted were sold. The council held that these "ancient advertisements" are detrimental to the good appearance of the community.

Secret Rebates by Apartment Owners Scored as Fraud

Alleged padding of values by rebating a portion of rentals collected which is said to be practiced by owners of apartment houses has been given the official notice of the Atlanta Real Estate board and efforts will be made by that body to break up the custom.

Rebating of rents, which is done in the following way, is what the realtors complain of: An owner of a large apartment advertises rentals on his apartment units, say for $100 per month. When the rent is paid a secret rebate of $20 is allowed the tenant. This materially reduces the rental value of the apartment, but that fact is known only to the landlord and tenant, who is well enough satisfied to keep quiet for so liberal a rebate. However, the "paper" rental value of the apartment remains the same, as the leases all show the original figure, and a prospective purchaser of the apartment, being shown these lease contracts, each one calling for $100 a month, knows nothing of the fact that they bring in only $80 a month each because of the secret return made by the owner.

"The practice of rebating rents," said a well-known local realtor, "is for the sole purpose of deceiving and the organized real estate men are determined to break it up if humanly possible. The secret rebate obviously is for fraud because no sane man would return one-fifth of the earning power of his building to his tenants just for the fun of it. Purchasers of apartments who have been shown a number of contracts calling for $100 a month rental on each unit would naturally be surprised and outraged when he learns that he is expected to return 20 per cent of his earnings to his tenants."

The organized real estate men of America have adopted a code of ethics and they are insisting upon their members living up to this splendid rule of action, according to local members of the realty board.

"We are not waiting for outside influence and forces, legislatures, municipalities and the national government, to clean house for the real estate fraternity.

"We are taking the initiative in this matter and are having our own independent house cleaning. We are going to see to it that those who are not willing to live up to the ethics of the profession are eliminated from the real estate business. The laws we have in Georgia have plenty of teeth and we do not purpose allowing any unworthy or unscruplous man to hold membership in the organization."

Southeast Leads Again In Building Activity

BY S. W. STRAUSS CO.

The end of October found building activities throughout the country on the upgrade, notwithstanding the vast amount of construction already in progress.

Reports from 395 cities and towns showed $411,145,164 in new permits compared with $321,479,978 in October, 1924, an increase of 28 per cent, and of 11 per cent over September of this year.

Every section of the United States displayed substantial building progress. The south again led with an increase of 82 per cent of total permits issued over last October in the 72 leading centers. In the eastern states, 120 cities reported 42 per cent more permits and new plans filed than in October, 1924. In the far west, 84 centers revealed gains of 3 per cent, and in the central states, where 119 cities reported, the increase was 2 per cent.

Twenty-Five Leading Cities.

Reports from the 25 leading cities (in point of building operations) brought out many interesting situations. In New York city plans for $110,575,094 of new construction were filed, an increase of 84 per cent over October, 1924, when plans were filed calling for an outlay of $59,974,557. In October, 1923, the five boroughs reported plans for $63,575,797 and in October, 1922, the figures were $48,955,851. Chicago, with $30,822,500 in permits issued, had an increase of 29 per cent over October, 1924.

In Detroit, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Los Angeles activities in immediate prospect are about on a par with those of the same period a year ago. Substantial increases were revealed in Boston, Baltimore, Oakland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Hartford.

St. Louis was the only city in this group of 25 where there was a sharp drop in comparison with October, 1924. Permits for $3,408,184 of new construction were issued by the building department of the Missouri metropolis, as compared with $9,032,225 in October last year. However, St. Louis figures this year were well ahead of both October, 1923 and 1922. St. Louis' building program so far this year is about $12,000,000 in excess of the same period in 1924.

Total permits filed by the cities in the group of 25 leaders were 43 per cent ahead of October, 1924.

Activities in the South.

Miami, Fla., reported $10,183,419 in permits in October, which gave it the rank of sixth place among the cities of the nation. A year ago, Miami's permits were $1,009,351. The increase was 909 per cent. West Palm Beach and St. Petersburg were included in the list of 25 leading cities of the country. In the 15 leading Florida cities, building activities were 439 per cent ahead of October, 1924.

An impressive amount of new construction has been planned in Houston, Texas, where $8,572,730 in permits were issued in October, giving it seventh place in the country. The increase was 416 per cent over last October. In Dallas, San Antonio, Austin and Wichita Falls considerable new work was reported.

Among the many southern cities, outside of Florida and Texas, where construction operations of considerable magnitude were reported, were Louisville, Memphis, Chattanooga, Birmingham, Charlotte, N. C., and Greensboro, N. C.

Building materials exhibited tendencies to work toward higher levels during the month. With steel mills booking the largest orders they have had for many weeks, structural steel prices began to show increased strength. Southern pine was somewhat stronger as was most of the other woods, with the exception of Douglas fir. Domestic orders for Douglas fir continued to show constant decline, and, notwithstanding increased foreign buying, prices worked lower.

The outstanding decline was in Portland cement, which broke for the first time in many months. Linseed oil was off from September quotations. Brick was higher in New York, but declined in some of the south central centers. Other starting materials were unchanged.

Plans Worked Out For Special Study By U. S. Realtors

That real estate is becoming more and more a field of specialized study is indicated by the attention that is being given to the separate branches of the profession at the coming mid-winter meeting of the National Association of Real Estate Boards in New Orleans, January 19-23, 1926.

The schedule of meetings which has just been announced shows a greater proportion of time given over to the separate study of each of the eight divisions of the national association than is allowed the general sessions which include all the groups.

The activities of the divisions which include the fields of the home-builders and subdividers, farm lands, property management, industrial property, brokers, mortgage and finance, and cooperative apartments will be reviewed in the divisional conferences indicated in the following schedule.

Schedule of Meetings.

Tuesday, January 19: 9 a. m., board of directors meeting; 2 to 5 p. m., general session for discussion of association business; 9 p. m., assembly and dance.

Wednesday, January 20: 10 to 12 a. m., eight divisional conferences; 2 to 5 p. m., eight divisional conferences; 8:30 p. m., vaudeville show consisting of realtor talent.

Thursday, January 21: 10 to 12 a. m., eight divisional conferences; 12 to 2 p. m., meeting of board of directors; 2 to 5 p. m., general session; 7 p. m., inaugural banquet and adjournment.

Friday, January 22: 10 a. m., sightseeing in and about New Orleans.

Saturday, January 23: Boat leaves for West Indies trip; golf tournament; special tour to Gulfport and Biloxi, Miss.

Executive commitees of the various divisions are meeting during the next few weeks to consider programs for those conferences. Subjects for discussion will be chosen after careful consideration of various problems that have come before members of the divisions.

ELECT CAROLINA MAN HEAD OF ROAD GROUP

Detroit, November 21.—(AP)—Frank Page, of Raleigh, N. C., today was elected president of the American Association of State Highway Officials at the closing session of the annual convention here.

Resolutions favoring a continuance of federal aid for road building and a uniform system of road marking were adopted.

Building Age Predicts Constructive Increase

Predicting a total building program involving $5,611,827,000 for 1926, Building Age, one of the leading construction publications of America, shows that building for this year in the United States will show large increases over the preceeding year. The estimate made by this magazine for 1925 was $5,000,000,000, which was reached by September, it was stated, and the estimate for 1924 of $4,500,000,000, by this same authority was vindicated by construction figures for that year, which showed a building total of $5,000,000,000.

The estimates made by Building Age for construction in the United States, according to a bulletin just issued, are based upon detailed study of reports isued by commercial organizations, building departments and United States census records. The normal annual building requirements for the United States, it was stated, are estimated at $3,000,000,000, and it was explained that "normal" means the new construction required to take care of increase in population.

"It is obvious, however," said the bulletin, "that this fixed figure cannot be used, as population increases have been greater each year. Therefore, we found in our calculations that it was necessary to discard the generally accepted figure for normal requirement and establish a new figure based upon present-day conditions."

The estimates for 1926, said the bulletin, are based upon the new normal requirements for increasing population, plus alterations and repairs due to decay, plus as much of the existing shortage as might reasonably be expected to be overcome, as indicated by research through the chambers of commerce.

374,615 New Families.

The estimated increase in population for the United States is placed by the Building Age for 1926 at 1,873,076, or 374,615 families, based upon the present day average of five to a family. Each family must have a home, which may be a single house or a multiple-unit dwelling, and in addition to the dwelling that must be provided for each of the families, there must be schools, churches, theaters, hospitals, and various business structures.

For the 374,615 families that will make up the 1926 increase in America's population, there is found a need the new "normal" arrived at by the Building Age.

There is to be added to this $396,- for 296,916 dwellings, and 144,154 other buildings. This makes a total of 441,154 structures of various kinds. The cost of these buildings is estimated to be $3,966,855,000, which is 685,000 for repairs and remodeling, figures above being arrived at through careful study of reports and records mentioned above. A normal need of 907,500 farm buildings at an estimated cost of $272,250,000, is also to be added, as is $182,666,000 for replacement of buildings destroyed by fire annually in the United States, and $976,037,000, which is the estimated building shortage that is expected to be taken up during the year. This makes a grand total of $5,611,827,000, the amount estimated by the Building Age as the figure for new construction in the United States during the coming year.

Appraisal Lectures Proved Educational To Atlanta Realtors

The series of nine lectures, dealing with modern and efficient methods of appraising real estate, conducted by the Atlanta real estate board, was concluded Thursday, November 19. Ward Wright was speaker. His subject was the appraising of "long term leases." The lectures were held at the office of the real etate board, 17 Poplar street, and the total attendance was 210, with an evarage attendance at each lecture of 23. The members of the board attending these lectures manifested a great deal of interest in the efficient way in which each speaker discussed his subject and expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the many constructive ideas they receive that can be applied in conducting their business.

A. B. Cates, chairman of the appraisal course committee, said that in his opinion, the course was one of the most constructive and helpful activities initiated by the board this year. The appreciation of the members attending the lectures is expressed in resolutions which were unanimously adopted.

Twenty-Nine New Boards Admitted By U. S. Realtors

At a meeting of the board of directors of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, held at the Drake hotel, Chicago, October 30-31, 29 boards were admitted into membership in the national association.

They are: Albany real estate board, Albany, Ga.; Bureau county real estate board, Princeton, Ill.; LaGrange real estate board, LaGrange, Ill.; Sheboygan real estate board, Sheboygan, Wis.; Ashland real estate board, Ashland, Ky.; Auburndale real estate board, Auburndale, Fla.; Fort Meade realty board, Fort Meade, Fla.; Center Hill realty board, Center Hill, Fla.; Starke real estate board, Starke, Fla.; Wauchula realty board, Wauchula, Fla.; Mount Dora realty board, Mount Dora, Fla.; Marianna real estate board, Marianna, Fla.; Eau Gallie realty board, Eau Gallie, Fla.; St. Cloud realty board, St. Cloud, Fla.; Corsicana real estate board, Corsicana, Texas; Washington real estate board, Washington, Pa.; Plymouth real estate board, Plymouth, Mich.; Blue Grass real estate board, district L, Danville, Ky.; Greenville real estate board, Greenville, S. C.; Avon Park realty board, Avon Park, Fla.; Bushnell realty board, Bushnell, Fla.; Panama City realty board, Panama City, Fla.; Suwanee county real estate board, Live Oak, Fla.; Wildwood realty board, Wildwood, Fla.; New Smyrna real estate board, New Smyrna, Fla.; Ventura realty board, Ventura, Cal.; Tavares realty board, Tavares, Fla.; Clermont realty board, Clermont, Fla.; Hastings real estate board, Hastings, Neb.

Eight boards were dropped from membership.

Real Estate Board Elects Directors At Friday Election

The nomination for directors of the Atlanta real estate board was held at the office of the board at 2 o'clock Friday, November 20. The eight nominees receiving the highest number of votes are as follows and will be placed on the official election ballots: Dana Belser, A. B. Cates, Andrew Calhoun, M. H. Liebman, Robert R. Otis, Frank C. Owens, John J. Thompson, W. P. Walthall. In the nomination 35 members were named and, as provided in the by-laws, the eight receiving the highest number of votes will be submitted to the membership, four of whom will be elected.

The final election of the four directors for the Atlanta real estate board will be held Friday. Polls will close at 1:30 p. m. Final ballots will be mailed Monday.

Better Buildings Object of Realty Men of America

A standard of building arrived at from a new approach, which is neither solely a minimum standard of safety nor entirely an architectural standard, but which shall be a combination of standards looking towards the protection of the home buyer and the investor equally, is the purpose of the national conference committee on better building, recently authorized by the board of directors of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, at the meeting held in Chicago, October 30-31.

One representative of the national real estate body is to be appointed on this committee and the secretary of the association is to be the secretary-treasurer of the committee. Several interested organizations are to be invited to appoint one representative each upon the committee.

The purposes of the committee are to prepare construction and housing standards by means of which structures may be classified, to formulate these standards, when prepared, into a report to be submitted to the organizations and institutions represented; to suggest to organizations and institutions represented the practical means by which the standards can be made applicable in the financing, buying, selling and construction of real estate improvements and to suggest other ways and means by which better building may be encouraged.

WILL ROGERS APPEARS HERE DECEMBER 4

Will Rogers, great American humorist, has been booked by Russell Bridges for an appearance in Atlanta on Friday night, December 4, at Wesley Memorial hall. This will be Rogers' first appearance in Atlanta and he will be assisted by the De Reszke singers—a male quartet. This combination has proven to be a novel as well as a most successful attraction, it is said. Rogers, with his distinctly American comments on everything under the sun, and the De Riszke singers, with their almost completely classic repertoire, are a great contrast.

When this tour of Rogers and the De Reszke singers first was started the singers worried Rogers, he said. He inquired whether any of them could speak English and was told a "little." It was not until several days later that Rogers was informed that all members of the quartet were Americans. The fact that they have taken the name of the great Polish singer, Jean De Reszke, who was their coach, made many people think they were foreigners. Hardesty Johnson is from Minnesota; Floyd Townsley, Kansas; Harold Kellogg, Detroit, and Erwyn Mutch is from New York city.

Will Rogers is regarded by many as the most brilliant humorist since Mark Twain. "The funniest man in the world" he has been called, but like all great comedians, he has his serious side. He is, for instance, very serious about being humorous. His words which seem to leap with spontaneous wit, are founded on the complete study of present-day conditions.

Tickets for the performance will go on sale at Phillips and Crew Monday morning, November 30, and continue until the evening of the lecture, December 4, at prices ranging from $1 to $2.50. Out-of-town orders may be addressed to Russell Bridges, 1221 Wynne-Claughton building, and will be filled in the order received.

COOLER WEATHER SEEN AFTER RISE OF MERCURY TODAY

Temperatures will rise slightly today, only to start down to the cool weather mark again with the advent of cloudy weather Monday, C. F. von Herrmann, United States meteorologist, said Saturday. Fair weather will last through tonight, he said.

There is a possibility that rain may develop Monday or Tuesday, Mr. von Herrmann said. He expects a temperature this morning of about 45 degrees, as compared with a minimum Saturday morning of 36 degrees.

EDUCATIONAL WEEK OBSERVED IN ELBERT

Elberton, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—National Educational week was observed in Elbert county. The superintendent of schools, Miss Mary Hansard, arranged for some speaker to visit every school in the county, and in addition, the Elberton Kiwanis club put on entertainments at three of the consolidated schools, First, Fortsonia and Centerville, the result of which already is a happier feeling in the communities.

The program consisted of one main address, music and singing of Kiwanian songs, and a minstrel stunt.

W. P. Huie, Professor M. L. Duggan and J. T. Dennis, Jr., were the speakers.

URBAN LEAGUE WEEKLY BULLETIN

The big gifts committee of the community chest campaign completes its activities as the bulletin goes to press. The neighborhood organization for the house-to-house and office-to-office campaign will take the field Monday morning. The program for this phase of the campaign promises to reach every colored person in Atlanta between this and December 3. Regional meetings are being called daily by the regional directors of the various wards and the morale generals are being called in for a closeup, intensive conference, covering every detail of the contemplated experience of the solicitors and giving final instructions.

Field Secretary Jesse O. Thomas has returned from Norfolk, Va., where he has successfully put over a community drive for colored people. He immediately jumped into the breach of the Atlanta campaign.

The following letter was sent to Eugene Kinckle Jones, executive secretary of the National Urban league, by John F. Hall, director of the Norfolk community fund, Norfolk, Va., respecting the result of the activities of Jesse O. Thomas in that city. A colored committee adopted resolutions commending services rendered their community. It is hoped that the Atlanta negroes will equal or even surpass the Norfolk negroes in registering their approval and support for the community chest campaign.

Eugene Knickle Jones, Executive Secretary,
National Urban League,
127 East 23d St., New York city.

Dear Sir: I am writing to express our appreciation of the services of Jesse O. Thomas, your field secretary from Atlanta, who conducted the colored section of our recent community fund campaign.

The goal of the campaign of the colored group was $8,500, which sum in connection with a similar sum to be supplied by our fund was to help finance eight organizations. The goal was over-subscribed by nearly $2,000.

The situation here was especially difficult as there has been a serious division among the colored agencies for the past two years which had recently been partially healed through the forming of a council of social agencies, colored. The problem required the greatest tact, perseverance and energy on the part of the campaign executive. Your representative measured up to these requirements and not only secured an over-subscription in the campaign but helped cement the diverse elements in a way that ought to make a more constructive program in the future.

Thanking you for your kindness in making available the services of Mr. Thomas, I am,

Sincerely yours,
JOHN T. HALL, Director.

The domestic science department of the Urban League Extension school opens Monday, November 23. All persons interested in any phase of the preparation and serving of food, or who wants to know the relation of food to the human system, or who wants to know about the food and its occupational significance, will have a chance to be taught at this school, 193 Auburn Ave. E. B. Parks, a graduate of the home economic course at Spelman college, will have charge of this department. She had charge of the domestic science department of Morehouse college during the summer session of 1925.

The Great African Cruise

Sailing from New York January 19, 1926
On the palatial cruising steamer ORCA

FROM THE CAPE TO CAIRO

Yours will be the thrill of tourist-explorer on this first Great Cruise to South and East Africa — fascinating new features combined with West Indies, South America, enchanting Egypt, Mediterranean, Europe — 100 glorious days. Rates, including delightful shore excursions in all countries visited, from $1250.

Write for illustrated cruise booklet

THE ROYAL MAIL STEAM PACKET CO.
68 No. Broad St., Atlanta

Or any office of the
AMERICAN EXPRESS COMPANY
In cooperation with whom this cruise will be operated

SOUTH AMERICA "The better way"

A delightful voyage to a wonderland that is "different". New scenes and a bracing climate.

BARBADOS, RIO DE JANEIRO, MONTEVIDEO, BUENOS AIRES
Calling northbound at Santos and Trinidad

FORTNIGHTLY SERVICE BY
S. S. Voltaire — S. S. Vauban
S. S. Vandyck — S. S. Vestris

Apply J. T. NORTH, 68 N. Broad St., or your local agent.

LAMPORT & HOLT LINE
Established 80 years

THE LUXURY CRUISE
Mediterranean
PALESTINE - EGYPT

By the famous S.S. "ROTTERDAM"
Leaving New York, Feb. 2nd, 1926
under the Holland America Line's own management
67 Days of Delightful Diversion

Itinerary includes: Madeira, Lisbon, Cadiz, Seville, Gibraltar, Algiers, Tunis, Athens, Constantinople, The Holy Land, Egypt, Italy and the Riviera.

American Express Co. Agents in charge of shore excursions. Number of guests limited. Cost of cruise $980 up. Send for illustrated folder.

Holland America Line
68 N. Broad St
Atlanta
or Local Agents

CRUISE SUPREME

Around the World on the CUNARDER FRANCONIA

The World's Pre-eminent Cruising Ship
Again Sailing Eastward
Jan. 14, 1926

WITHIN the compass of 133 days you will follow a masterhand itinerary visiting each country at a time of the year when climatic and other conditions are at their best.

Supreme in the unrivaled experience and resources of the world's foremost travel organization and the renowned Cunard service.

Fares cover all shore excursions

Complete guide-book and other literature on request.

THOS. COOK & SON
585 Fifth Avenue NEW YORK
or Cunard Steamship Co., 30 Walton St., or J. T. North, 68 N. Broad St., Atlanta, Ga.

AROUND the WORLD
a de Luxe Cruise on the RESOLUTE

From
New York . . Jan. 21, 1926
Los Angeles . Feb. 6, 1926
San Francisco Feb. 9, 1926

Duration 4 Months.
Rates $1500 up including shore excursions.

UNITED AMERICAN LINES
35-39 Broadway, New York
Or local steamship and tourist agents

MEDITERRANEAN

White Star Liner ADRIATIC
Jan. 7—Feb. 25
Red Star Liner LAPLAND
Jan. 16—Mar. 6
$690 and up, including shore trips.
Returning 46 days later. Liberal stop-over privileges from one ship to another or with return via North European port, permitting visits to Paris or London.

WEST INDIES

Jan. 23—Feb. 27
Rates $250 and up
30-31 days
White Star Liner
MEGANTIC
Specially constructed for tropical cruising
The White Star Line has had over 25 years' actual cruising experience in West Indies.

RED STAR LINE ~ WHITE STAR LINE
Mr. J. T. Martin, Mgr., Forsyth and Poplar Streets, Atlanta, or any authorized steamship agent.

Clark's 6th Cruise from N. Y., Jan. 20, from Los Angeles Feb. 5.

ROUND THE WORLD

OVER FOUR MONTHS, $1250 to $3000 Except with Private Bath

By specially chartered sumptuous new Cunard oil-burner "LACONIA," 20,000 tons; already a popular cruise favorite; personal management of Mr. Clark.

A floating palace for the trip; 26 days in Japan and China, Peking included; Havana, Panama Canal, Los Angeles, Hilo, Honolulu, Manila, Java, option of 17 days in India; Ceylon, 3 days in Cairo, Jerusalem, Athens, Naples, Monte Carlo, Cherbourg. Europe is reached in the best spring season and stopovers are permitted.

Exceptional management, reasonable first class inclusive rates, a party of distinction and an itinerary of unusual charm, combine to make this THE IDEAL VOYAGE THIS WINTER.

CLARK'S 22nd CRUISE, JAN. 30—62 Days, $600 to $1700

TO THE MEDITERRANEAN

By specially chartered brand-new Cunard oil-burner "TRANSYLVANIA," 17,000 tons; 15 days in Egypt and Palestine; Lisbon (Madrid) Tunis, Spain, Italy, Greece, Constantinople, etc. Stop-over in Europe.

2nd ANNUAL SUMMER CRUISE, NORWAY & WESTERN MEDITERRANEAN June 30, by specially chartered new 17,000 ton Cunarder, "LANCASTRIA." Our rates always include hotels, drives, guides, fees, etc.

JOHN T. NORTH, 68 No. Broad Atlanta, Ga.
CUNARD LINE, 30 Walton St. Atlanta, Ga.
Frank C. Clark Times Building New York
Originator of Round the World Cruises. Established Over 30 Years.

Fractured Skull May Cause Death Of Motorcyclist

C. T. Hazelrig, 26, of 26 Capitol avenue, is in a serious condition at Grady hospital and may die of a fractured skull. Saturday afternoon he walked into the hospital and told physicians that he was slightly injured and wanted treatment.

An examination was given and it was found that he had suffered a fractured skull. Soon after being X-rayed he lapsed into unconsciousness.

He later regained consciousness and said that his injury was received in a motorcycle wreck near Stone Mountain. He was unable to tell how the accident occurred but stated that he was brought to town in a private automobile. Police had no report of the accident.

CARROLLTON TO HEAR SOULE AND GEORGE

Carrollton, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—The Carroll county farm bureau will hold its annual meeting on the campus of the A. & M. school Thanksgiving day. The program begins at 10:30 o'clock and Dr. Andrew M. Soule, of Athens, will speak.

At noon barbecue will be served. Immediately following will be an address by Senator Walter F. George. The public is invited to hear these addresses.

NEW ORLEANS'
New St. Charles

To better serve our many friends and patrons over $300,000.00 has been expended in reconstruction and rehabilitation to maintain this famous hostelry as

One of America's Leading Hotels

The large well ventilated high ceiling rooms have been retained and modernized

ACCOMMODATING OVER 1000 GUESTS
Send for Descriptive Hotel Folder. Illustrated Mardi-Gras Program for the asking

ALFRED S. AMER AND CO., Ltd.
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Ticket Offices of all Transportation lines in lobby

NEW INDIAN RIVER HOTEL
ROCKLEDGE, FLORIDA

The last word in Modern Hotel Construction. Golf—Tennis—Ocean Bathing—Exceptionally Good Fishing—Swimming-Pool. Dancing.

Moderate Rates. Booklet

WALTER P. HILL, Manager

EUROPEAN TOUR GIVEN to you for pleasant, easy organization work among your friends. For details write to EDUCATIONAL TOURS, Inc.

59 Prospect Street E. Orange, N. J.

On the way to EUROPE

GOING over and coming back by famous Cabin Liners of Royal Mail are delightful features of your European trip—spacious comforts, excellent cuisine, satisfying service. Sailings from New York to Cherbourg and Southampton

ORDUNA.....Dec. 30

"The Comfort Route"
ROYAL MAIL
The Royal Mail Steam Packet Co.
Sanderson & Son, Inc., Agents
25 Broadway, N.Y. Or Local Agents

Sail under the Stars and Stripes by United States Lines to Europe

Six of the world's finest ships—the LEVIATHAN, GEORGE WASHINGTON, PRESIDENT HARDING, PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, REPUBLIC and AMERICA—offer you unexcelled service to Europe. See your local steamship agent for information about sailings, rates and accommodations, or write

United States Lines
218 Healey Building
Atlanta

BOOK REVIEWS IN TABLOID

Barren Ground, by Ellen Glasgow, is called "A Woman's Pilgrimage from Romance to Reality." A notice of this most interesting novel was given last April when the book was first received by this department, but a summary by Edmund Fitzgerald in the International Book Review, is worthy of reproduction.

Among other things the writer says with reference to the characters in "Barren Ground: "Human nature is the most interesting thing in the world. If we tire sometimes of observing it we never tire of talking of it. . . . In literature behaviorism is called realism. Hence we find realistic novels, especially those in which the characters are somewhat idealized. We can reflect upon the conduct of a person in fiction as much as we like, and still not infract the divine command 'Judge not that ye be not judged.'

"Miss Ellen Glasgow has brought forth the first realistic novel that has ever been written of Old Virginia, or for that matter of the south. She has drawn on life for her material. She has written of Virginia as impersonally as Thomas Hardy has of Wessex. She has found a fertile soil, and from her first planting she has reaped a rich harvest.

"The story is the growth of a woman's soul. Dorinda's life was fairly uneventful until her twentieth year, when she went out into the world to help Nathan Pedlar at his little store. Nathan was a real man. There is no record that he had read Kipling's 'If,' but he fulfilled its requirements."

Dorinda's life was in full bloom when she met young Dr. Greylock. Shortly after his marriage to another girl Dorinda went to New York. After a few months full of many experiences Dorinda returned to the home farm which she redeemed for her parents, and also became the proud possessor of the ancestral acres of Greylocks, the home of the young doctor who had been her lover.

Mr. Fitzgerald writes most interestingly on how she accomplished it, her spiritual growth and physical effort, of the way she acquired emotional poise and mental maturity. It is an unusually well-written story and it will hold the reader's attention even to Dorinda's last remark to her stepson, John Abner, the heir to the two farms, "Oh, I've finished with all that,"—and Dorinda smiled and again said, "I am thankful to have finished with all that!" (Doubleday, Page & Co., New York.)

ELLEN GLASGOW.

NEW FICTION.

Sam In the Suburbs, by P. G. Wodehouse, who wrote "Mostly Sally," "Golf Without Tears," etc. To the lovers of humorous stories the story of Sam and Kay will prove quite enjoyable. The characters, Sam and Kay and Hash, and the uncles, and the heroes, the Suburbanites who live and love and suffer, are among the most realistic characters ever created by Wodehouse.

It is an amazing plot, a humorous story and a jolly good crowd. You will feel better after having read it. Try and see if it is not the best story for the blues, or the trials of a blue Monday, you have ever read. (George H. Doran Co., New York.)

The Girl Who Cast Out Fear, by Dorothy Speare, author "Dancers in the Dark," who knows how to write of the questions of 1923, of this century of modern things because she is a regular modern girl herself, and in this book she tells the story of her own experiences, also of the observations that have added so much interest to this story.

Claire King, the heroine, went to New York to win a career worth while. Before she had succeeded in reaching a successful role in her chosen art, she fell in love and got married. And here's where the real story comes in. It was not a case of "two hearts with a single thought," for the newly-wedded husband couldn't see through her clear blue eyes, neither could he think along the line she had accepted. And this is the story which is up-to-date and is presented in clever style by the young author. (Doran.)

The Cellini Plague by Harold McGrath, author of "The Man on the Box," etc. When Robert Ellison, who had a hobby for collecting pieces of art, received a cable from his Italian agent that he had discovered a genuine Cellini Plaque it caused him to make his arrangements to cross the "Atlantic" at once.

While chasing the Plaque his whole mind being filled with the idea of becoming its owner,' he saw a beautiful girl simply dressed, walking along the Lungarno, who attracted his attention from his new role of collector. Later he met the girl of whom he had seen and dreamed and whose father proved to be the owner of the Plaque on which he had set his heart at first, but later he was selfish enough to want both the Plaque and the girl.

Harold McGrath has always been a popular writer, his books are good sellers, and while this is simply a clever story, it is worth reading. (Doubleday Page & Co., New York.)

The World's Best Short Stories of 1925. Short story anthology. Edited by William Johnston. This collection of stories are by many of the most popular writers of the country among them being our much admired Kentucky friend, Irvin Cobb, Ellen Glasgow, of Virginia, who always knows of what she writes, Zona Gale, and a number of others whose books have been best sellers for years.

This anthology is not the product of the judgment of one man but of a dozen or so of the highest paid magazine editors. Each man has selected one story. And the consensus is that the sixteen stories so selected will be best liked to the majority of readers. The editors who made the selection are all well-known and exceedingly popular.

William Johnston is one of the editors of the New York World and has been since 1900, and is well known in the data to his frinds, Lieutenant John Harvey and the late Lieutenant Philip Jordan, whose assistance was valuable in checking the accuracy of certain seafaring tales. (International Publishing Co., New York city.)

The Eternal Lover is an interesting story by Edgar Rice Burroughs, the creator of Tarzan and other notable New York, where he is quite popular with the members of the literary clientele. He has written several books which proved to be good sellers, among them being "The Fun of Being a Fat Man," "The Tragedy of the Beach Club," etc. (George H. Doran Co., New York.)

The Ultimate Island. A strange adventure. By L. De Giberne Sieveking, who gives credit for a great deal of fiction characters. He has created another unusual character Nu, the hero, of the story, which was laid in part in the Stone Age.

Even in this age there seems to have been romances, for Nat-ul who was the belle of the tribe of hunters loved only Nu, and it is around these two lovers that the author has woven an unusual, thrilling and mysterious story with its fleeting glimpses of prehistoric life. (A. C. McClurg & Co., Chicago.)

Volonor. By George B. Winship, which either the author or the publishers state that it makes a direct appeal to socialists and individualists, mothers and old maids, woman-haters and flirts, and scientists and hod carriers. It is the story of a young multimillionaire who forms a new republic to save his sister from fortune-hunters. (Thomas Seltzer, publisher, New York.)

The 4th NORWOOD

By Robert E. Pinkerton

Author of "The Test of Donald Norton"

New York Evening Post—

"The characters are well drawn and true to life. Especially good is the Spider—cold, cunning and cruel—a legless fiend who overcomes his physical defect in a marvelous yet believable way. Good, too, is the actor masquerading as a missionary. There is never a dull moment in the story."

Publishers—REILLY & LEE—Chicago

The Devil's Saint. By Dulcie Dreamer. This is a colorful romantic story of the dark middle ages. (International Publishers, New York.)

The Black Joker. By Isabel Ostrander, is woven around the following: The location was on board a ship. A pack of cards. The conflict between two groups for an unknown stake, etc. It is a mystery story in which Julia Deane finds herself the central figure of many exciting incidents. (Robert M. McBride & Co., New York.)

Danae. The love story of a business woman. Danae was one of the little Moxey girls who grew up to be a fine woman, "standing firmly on her own feet, honest with herself and with the world, a woman of today."

Danae Moxey became a business woman and the incidents of her life in the business world, her associates, and the romance that came to her, especially one, is the basis on which the author weaves a most unusual story. (Harper and Brothers, New York city.)

Friends of Mr. Sweeney. By Elmer Davis, who wrote the interesting story, "The Keys of the City." The book is dedicated "To All Hay Chasers."

Asaph Holliday was sub-editor of one of the standard weeklies. He has a friend who believes he knows how to have a good time, so he decides the good time shall take place at the Superior club.

He does have a good time and the story of his adventures are like a moving picture—fast and furious. (McBride, New York.)

The Elder Sister. By Frank Swinnerton, who as usual writes something that catches the eye. It is the story of a triangular friendship in which two sisters find themselves becoming interested in the same man.

H. G. Wells says that "Mr. Swinnerton sees life and renders it with a steadiness and detachment and patience quite foreign to my disposition." (Doran.)

The Lord of Terror. Fantomas detective novel. "Fantomas! . . . . Ten years ago.—15 years ago, soon—it was in 1914—that brigand's name, that name so mysterious, was on every lip, haunted every man's thoughts. . . . .

A thrilling story about a man who was known all over the world, and who had the power of entering any place he wished. He became the noted robber, mysterious and unknown, and yet every evidence of his nightly visits would throw his victims into terror. This is the story. (Publishers, David McKay company, Philadelphia; price $2.)

The Trouble-Maker. E. R. Eastman, author of American Agriculturist. While trouble-makers are usually found in every line of business, this story is woven around the mill strike in New York state in 1916, which resulted in the organization of the Dairymen's league.

The story is full of life and action and there is plenty of wholesome fun and entertainment for the reader, which includes the circus and the county fair. (The MacMillan company, New York.)

Balcony Stories. By Grace King, author of "New Orleans: The Place and the People." This is really a selection as well as a collection of charming stories to which two new stories have been added in the latest edition.

"Grandmama" tells of a bride who came from Savannah to New Orleans in 1820, "Joe" is the story of a faithful servant of the old, old days in the south. (The MacMillan company, New York.)

JUNIOR BOOKS.

Rain on the Roof. By Cornelia Meigs. The illustrations are by Edith Ballinger Price. This story is woven around a big old house on the shore of a seaport town, the big loft being the central location for this interesting story—it is half carpenter shop and half library and through its gable windows you have a wonder glimpse of the green sea and of the ships coming to anchor and even the sailors can be seen. To this picture is added a most attractive view of the clouds as they float above the many little islands.

This room was not known to everyone but one day a boy found this room by mistake and what he saw made his heart thrill with excitement.

Among the things which are covered in the plot are stories of a Scotch sailor boy and Queen Mary, of Brother Nicholas and his monastery, of the Pilgrims in the east, and the Indians on the western plains. This is a most entertaining story. (The MacMillan Co., New York city.)

Romee Ann, Sophomore. By Isabel Hornibrook, author of "A Scout of Today," "Girls of the Morning Glory Camp," etc.

"Call me early Mother dear.
For I am to sing at the High School
On Arm'stice Day in the morn-ing!"

It was the sweetest sound that rang out one morning down the staircase of an old house. It was the merry voice of a young girl "dropped as softly as a flower upon Armistice day."

This is a delightful story of high school life. The small heroine, Romee Ann, the fifteen-year-old sophomore, furnishes the most interesting and exciting plot, for she was rescued at the time of the Halifax disaster and brought to the United States by her adopted father. The story is one of absorbing interest. (David McKay Co., Philadelphia).

BOOKS FOR BOYS.

The Miracle Mine. By W. A. Rogers. This story contains several of the characters in Danny's Partner. The illustrations are also by the author. Boys who have been following Danny, the young owner of the Blue Jeans mine, and his partner, Uncle Barney, will enjoy a continuation of their adventures.

This book tells the story of how Danny and Uncle Barney fight to keep the mine and the many experiences they have during this time makes an exciting story. And then there comes another thrill when they enjoy a trip to Honduras during a revolution which threatens the safety of the mine owned by Danny's friend. (Harper & Brothers, New York.)

Ocean Gold. By Edith Marshall, whose adventure story for boys is so full of excitement and thrills that another notice is made of it. It is the story of a buried treasure—a search for it through storms and blizzards and a treacherous crew when they found the object of the search. It is a fine story for boys. (Harper & Brothers, New York.)

Stranded On Long Bar. By H. S. Spalding, S. J. What could make a more interesting story for boys than to weave it around a small town on the Mississippi shore, a deserted island, two boys and a stranded launch. It is needless to tell boys to use their imagination for what boy could not write an exciting story himself with such a plot.

Before their adventures were over they were joined by a most likeable old negro who was able to tell them all about the birds, fishes, animals and plants that are to be found in the streams, woods and the air in, around and over this wonderful woods. This is not only an entertaining story for boys, but there are also many lessons of nature which will be of information to the boys. (Benziger Brothers, New York.)

BOOKS FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

Rip Van Winkle and The Legend of Sleepy Hollow. By Washington Irving, who says, "If I can rub one wrinkle from the brow of care, I have not written entirely in vain."

These two stories have been one of the most attractive contributions to the little boys and girls, whose pleasure over reading them has never waned—besides, "they have kept alive rare pictures of the American countryside."

The illustrations are by Eric Pope, who has been closely identified with American life—both as a patriot and as an artist. His sense of humor will not only attract the young to these tales of Irving's, but the older readers will enjoy them. (The MacMillan company, New York. $1.75.)

Granny's Wonderful Chair, and Its Tales of Fairy Times. By Frances Browne, with introduction and illustrations by Katharine Pyle. The preface should by all means be read in connection with this new edition of a story that is very popular with the little girls especially.

Among the interesting stories in this collection, the leading story being "Granny's Wonderful Chair," is "The Christmas Cuckoo," but the little folks will be delighted with the whole eight stories.

Among the Farmyard People. By Clara Dillingham Pierson, with illustrations by F. C. Gordon. Every child loves a charming story and the child who does not like animals is almost unknown. A story about a dog, a bear, a horse, or even the little kitten will bring pleasure to a child, and no pet appeals to a child more than the little lamb, so this story of the farmyard will be thoroughly enjoyed and would make an acceptable gift for any little child. (E. P Dutton & Co., New York.)

NEW BOOKS FOR NOVEMBER.

Biography.

The Life of Judge Gary. The Story of Steel, by Ida M. Tarbell, author of "The Standard Oil Company," the story of Judge Gary which has been running in one of the popular magazines is being widely read. First, because of the prominence of this great steel magnate, and second whatever Miss Tarbell writes is usually read.

Judge Elbert H. Gary, president of the United States Steel corporation, is easily the leader of the great American business. He is one of a group of men who are the originators of "big business" in America.

Miss Tarbell describes the man not only as a great American in birth, training, activities, success, etc., but also the great industry or industries in which he is a great leader. Illustrated. Price $3.00. (D. Appleton and Co., New York.)

Henry Ford. America's Don Quixote. By Louis P. Lochner, with preface by Maxim Gorky. The author has written a most interesting story on Henry Ford, who was called the "Apostle of Peace" a few years ago, and since that time he has had quite a number of titles thrust upon him. But, after all, he is just an uncommon man. For the author has told in a clear and concise way the story of the man, of Henry Ford as he was and as he is today.

The preface is by Maxim Gorky in which he makes a strong appeal especially to women, in which he says "you are the power that ceaselessly fights and conquers it."

The foreword by the writer of this volume is simply setting forth in a commonplace statement the facts about Mr. Ford's ideas yesterday, today, and a prediction as to tomorrow.

The introduction is simply an analysis of the man, the dreamer, the auto king, the business man, and to a great American. In part one, the author discusses: "Henry Ford Takes a Hand in the War;" part two: "Out of the Trenches by Christmas;" part three: "The Neutral Conference."

The aftermath. And the story of this man of many millions is filled with interesting revelations of the character of a man which has many sides, of a man who can well be called a great humanitarian. (International Publishers, New York.)

TENNESSEE POWER COMPANY PLANNING BIG DEVELOPMENT

Chattanooga, Tenn., November 21. (AP)—The budget of the Tennessee Electric Power company, as approved by the executive committee, in session here yesterday, calling for an expenditure during the coming year, besides providing for the building of a dam on the upper Oconee river near Blue Ridge, Ga., and an additional unit at Hales bar plant on the Tennessee river, provides for the expenditure of $2,000,000 in developments in the Chattanooga district, including among other items $750,000 for the light and power departments; $550,661 for development work at Hales bar and $292,000 for the completion of the Cleveland-Chattanooga 120,000 volt line. The remainder of the $7,000,000 total appropriation will be distributed over middle and east Tennessee plants owned by the company.

The budget includes a large sum for the extension of lines in middle Tennessee and $120,000 for the completion of lines from Cleveland and Knoxville into the coal districts.

PROTEST IS FILED AGAINST DISCHARGE OF DRY SLEUTHS

New York, November 21.—Moe Smith and Izzy Einstein, the Mutt and Jeff of the prohibition forces, may yet return to their theatrical sleuthing of liquor purveyors, from which position they recently were ejected without ceremony.

It was admitted at prohibition headquarters here today that numbers of influential men had writeen letters protesting the discharge of the two men, whose antics and masquerades in the course of their duty frequently caused the bootleggers to submit to arrest, not only willingly but gleefully.

ARMISTICE DAY FIREWORKS CLAIMS LOCKJAW VICTIMS

Huntsville, Ala., November 21.—(Special.)—A second victim seems certain to be claimed by the toy pistol that shoots blank cartridges, according to physicians. One boy died of lockjaw and another seems certain to die following the Armistice day use of fireworks.

A small son of John Couch, who was wounded last Saturday it believed to be dying today, lockjaw having developed.

SECOND BOY DIES IN SUICIDE PACT

Cincinnati, November 21.—(AP)—The suicide pact entered between James Albert Rosenberg, 15, and William Strauss, 17, high school students and close friends, was fulfilled today with the death of Rosenberg.

The boys had signed a "death agreement," in which they said life was not worth living. Strauss was found dead and Rosenberg unconscious on a lonely country road Thursday evening. They had shot themselves through the head.

American Express
WINTER AND SPRING TOURS

Vacation Tours To West Indies
Special 9 day all expense tour to Havana, ($180 and up). Regular tours to West Indies with each sailing. Full information and reservations for all cruises.

Europe Mediterranean, Egypt
Ten separate, perfectly planned tours with escort, departing January, February, March. Prices range from $1,320 to $1,895. No more delightful European winter tours have ever been offered. Send for booklet "Tours to Europe".

South America West Indies Cruise
The seventh annual cruise-tour over this route—visiting Cuba, Panama Canal, Peru, Chile, Argentina, Uruguay, Brazil, British West Indies and Porto Rico. The specially designed cruising ship, Essequibo, sails from New York January 28. Rates from $1,850.

Mediterranean Cruise S.S. Rotterdam
Two wonder months—visiting Madeira, Portugal, Spain, Algeria, Tunis, Italy, Greece, Turkey, Palestine, Egypt, The Riviera, France, England and Netherlands. Most popular ship for shorter cruises, the S.S. Rotterdam, sails from New York February 2, Rates from $900.

Bermuda
Special Christmas Holiday Tour 11 days, ($123 and up from New York). Advance reservations for any sailing, any length trip, steamship tickets, hotels, sight-seeing, return passage. Send for Bermuda Booklet.

California Mexico and Hawaii
Small parties with escort. Departures weekly, starting Dec. 27th. Every arrangement made for your comfort and enjoyment. Write for booklet "Escorted Tours to California."

South Africa S.S. Orca Cruise
The most unusual cruise ever offered—visiting British West Indies, Brazil, Uruguay, Argentina, South Africa, East Africa, Egypt, Italy, The Riviera, Spain and England. One of the trimmest ships on high seas, the S.S. Orca, sails from New York January 19. Rates from $1,250.

Steamship Tickets Independent Tours
Bookings for all steamship lines at lowest rates. Independent Tours to Europe, South America, The Far East, Pacific Coast, etc. Send for Booklet "The American Traveler in Europe." For Independent Tours in the United States, Mexico, West Indies, etc., send for Booklet "Winter Vacations."

AMERICAN EXPRESS TRAVEL DEPT.
29 LUCKIE STREET ATLANTA, GA.
Ala. 3471
Always Carry American Express Travelers Cheques

THE CONSTITUTION
Classified Advertising

CLASSIFIED RATES.

Daily and Sunday rates per line for consecutive insertions:

One time	20 cents
Three times	17 cents
Seven times	15 cents

Special rate for yearly advertising upon request.

Charged ads will be received by telephone. Discontinuance of advertising must be in writing. It will not be accepted by phone. This protects your interests as well as ours. Count six average words to the line.

All ads are restricted to their proper classification and to the regular Constitution style of type. Publishers reserve the Errors in advertisements should be reported immediately. The Constitution will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion.

Ads ordered for three or seven days and stopped before expiration will only be charged for the number of times the ad appears and adjustments made at the rate earned.

PHONE YOUR CLASSIFIED AD and ask for ad taker.

Phone for our messenger.

CALL MAIN 5000

INTER-CITY COACHES

DIXIE COACHES OF GEORGIA
37 North Forsyth Street—Leave For

Macon	9 am., 3:30 pm.
Rome	8 am., 10 am., 12 noon, 4 pm.
Athens	8 am., 11 am., 1 pm., 4 pm.
Hartwell via Athens, Monroe	1 pm.

RAILROAD SCHEDULES

Schedules Published as Information.
(Central Standard Time.)

ATLANTA TERMINAL STATION

Arrives—	A., B. & A. RAILWAY	—Leaves
7:00 pm	Cordele-Waycross	7:50 am
5:50 am	Brunswick-Waycross	9:40 pm
5:50 am	Tifton-Thomasville	9:40 pm

Arrives—	A. & W. P. R. R.	—Leaves
11:25 pm	New Orleans-Montgomery	6:00 am
7:35 pm	Newnan-Columbus	7:40 am
6:55 pm	Montgomery Local	8:25 am
2:10 pm	New Orleans-Montgomery	1:25 pm
7:40 am	New Orleans-Montgomery	4:20 pm
10:55 am	Newnan-Columbus	4:45 pm
8:10 am	West Point Local	5:55 pm
12:30 pm	New Orleans-Montgomery	5:40 pm

Arrives—	C. OF GA. RY.	—Leaves
6:05 am	Macon-Savh-Albany	7:45 am
7:00 pm	Macon-Alb-Jax-Miami	8:20 am
8:35 pm	Macon-Savh-Alb-Jax	8:45 am
10:45 am	Macon-Albany-Millen	1:00 pm
1:35 pm	Macon	4:00 pm
8:35 am	Macon-Jax-Miami	6:50 pm
8:00 am	Macon-Albany-Jax	7:45 pm
7:00 am	Tifton-Waycross-Jax	9:20 pm
8:35 pm	Macon-Savannah	9:40 pm
7:45 pm	Mac-Alb-Tallah-Thom	11:30 pm

Arrives—	SEABOARD AIR LINE	—Leaves
8:00 pm	Hamlet-Monroe	6:10 am
7:45 pm	Birmingham-Atlanta	8:00 am
4:10 pm	N. Y.-Wash.-Rich.-No'k	11:30 am
6:10 am	Birmingham	11:40 pm
8:45 am	Athens-Abbeville	4:15 pm
6:70 am	N.Y.-Richmond-Norfolk	8:00 pm
11:15 am	Birmingham-Memphis	4:40 pm

Arrives—	SOUTHERN RAILWAY	—Leaves
8:20 pm	Birmingham	5:45 am
7:10 pm	Charlotte	6:15 am
11:40 pm	Cincinnati	6:30 am
7:30 pm	Rome-Chatta. Local	7:10 am
8:40 pm	Denver-St.L.-K.C.-B'ham	7:00 am
8:15 pm	Chicago-Detroit-Cleveland	7:05 am
7:05 pm	Macon-Jax.-Brunswick	7:45 am
8:55 pm	Piedmont Limited	8:00 am
8:00 pm	Columbus	8:00 am
6:15 pm	Jax-Miami	8:25 am
5:30 pm	Richmond-Wash.-N.Y.	11:55 am
8:30 pm	Tampa-Sarasota-St. Pburg	12:15 pm
5:20 pm	Crescent Limited	12:50 pm
10:30 am	Rome-Chatta. Local	2:30 pm
11:40 am	Macon	4:00 pm
12:05 pm	Cincl.-Chicago-Detroit	4:10 pm
11:25 am	Fort Valley	4:15 pm
11:90 am	Columbus	4:20 pm
11:45 am	Birm'ham-Memp.-K. City	44:0 pm
8:10 am	Air Line Belle	8:00 pm
7:45 am	Heflin Local	8:25 pm
8:15 am	Cincl.-L'ville-Detroit-Chic.	6:25 pm
5:25 am	Washington	7:40 pm
7:45 am	Valdosta-Jaxville-Miami	7:50 pm
6:55 am	Jacksonville	8:25 pm
6:15 am	Brunswick-Jacksonville	8:50 pm
6:15 pm	Birmingham-Shreve.	11:00 am
8:10 am	Macon-Jacksonville	11:50 pm
5:40 am	Asheville-Wash.-N.Y.	12:10 am

Following trains arrive and depart from PEACHTREE STATION ONLY

4:40 pm	Birmingham	10:20 am
10:10 am	Washington-N.Y.	4:40 am

UNION PASSENGER STATION

Arrives—	GEORGIA RAILROAD	—Leaves
12:30 pm	Augusta	6:10 am
3:30 pm	Augusta Columbia	12:15 pm
8:10 pm	Augusta	3:00 pm
*7:35 am	Social Circle	6:10 am
x8:30 am	Social Circle	6:10 pm
6:50 am	Charleston-Wilmington	8:00 pm
6:50 am	Augusta-Columbia	8:00 pm

*Daily except Sunday xSunday only.

Arrives—	L. & N. R. R.	—Leaves
4:45 pm	Knoxville via Blue Ridge	6:50 am
2:55 pm	Cin-Chicago-L'ville	7:25 am
10:50 am	Copperhill Local	4:05 pm
11:25 am	Knoxville-Cin-L'ville	4:25 pm
8:20 am	Cin-Detroit-Cleveland	9:00 pm

Arrives—	N., C. & ST. L. RY.	—Leaves
7:35 pm	Nashville-Chattanooga	7:40 am
6:29 pm	Chicago-St. Louis	9:00 am
6:29 pm	Nashville-Chattanooga	9:00 am
11:20 am	Chattanooga Local	5:00 pm
9:00 am	Chatt.-St.L.-Chicago	7:20 pm
7:10 am	Nashville-St. Louis	8:30 pm

TAXICABS

BLACK AND

The Classified Columns Are Full of Ever-Changing, Never-Ending Opportunities

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Announcements 7

MR. JERRY, formerly with Muse's, now in charge of hair bobbing and cutting at Piedmont Marinello Shop, Piedmont hotel.

NELLIE EDWARDS BEAUTY SHOP, 218 Grand Theater building. Scientific facial and scalp treatments. WAlnut 2814.

PERMANENT WAVES—$10, one week only. Rogers Beauty Shoppe, 1Vy 2345.

PRACTICAL NURSE with hospital training; all kind cases; prices reasonable. WEST 3608-W.

REMODEL your furs. Tailored apparels to order. Arnone, ladies' tailor, 345½ Peachtree.

SPECIAL OFFER—For a limited time we will give a permanent wave for only $8; a free marcel with each 35c shampoo or hair cut. Moler's, phone 1Vy 8844.

THOMPSON BONDED WAREHOUSE—We store everything, bonded for your protection. 441-443 Peachtree street. Phone WAlnut 7541-2. Security, service, satisfaction.

TRAVELLERS TO EUROPE take a course of French; start now. HEmlock 1544-J.

TURKISH BATHS—Massage, Battle Creek methods. 238 West Peachtree. HEmlock 1186.

TWO YOUNG MEN want to motor to Florida immediately. Experienced drivers. Absolutely reliable. Will share expenses. I. E. Lucas, 1Vy 1553-J.

WHERE TO CARS
TO MIAMI, Jacksonville and Tampa. Call WAlnut 5302, 1002 Candler Bldg.

WILL BOARD invalid or elderly person needing nurse's care. DEarborn 1989-J.

XMAS CARDS ENGRAVED—Beautiful selection is our motto. J. F. Thompson Engraving Co., 32 Arcade.

Strayed, Lost, Stolen 10

COLLIE DOG—Male, tan and white, strayed or stolen; reward. 908 W. Peachtree. GEneva 8124-M.

FORD ROADSTER LOST—Saturday night; Georgia No. 97,288; motor No. 7,844,881. Reward. WAlnut 5576. 314 Peters Bldg.

HANDBAG containing bunch of keys, with tag, Mrs. Maseter, Forsyth, Ga. Reward. Return to W-535, Constitution.

WRIST WATCH LOST—White gold with white gold band, between Winecoff hotel and Five Points. Call 1Vy 6890-W.

BLACK HANDBAG—Lost from car in neighborhood of Ford Motor company, Ponce de Leon avenue, about 11 o'clock Thursday. Reward. Call 1Vy 5514-J.

LOST—Jade green earring on Peachtree. Finder please call HEmlock 4785; reward.

LOST—From Magnolia and Chestnut St., light jersey cow; if found please notify Janie Rush at 81 Griffin St.; reward.

LOST—German police dog, male, colored dark gray, black nose, seven months. Reward. 314 Atlanta avenue. MAin 1757-W.

LOST—Two red speckled hounds, male and female, between Atlanta and Stone Mt.; collars with name, G. M. Byrd on one and E. H. Edwards on other. Call DEarborn 2612-J.

LOST THURSDAY night at Metropolitan theater or Nunnally's or downtown section, gold link bracelet; reward. HEmlock 5348-W.

LOST—On Armistice day in business section, D. A. R. pin; Cornelia S. C. Reid on back. Return to this office for reward. Address W-533, Constitution.

SMALL PLATINUM

Wrist watch lost; case No. 88,777; initials S. B. B.; liberal reward for return. Phone HEmlock 7271.

AUTOMOTIVE

Automobile Agencies A

ATLANTA STEARNS CO.—Dealers for Stearns-Knight. Also good used cars. 46 East North avenue. HEmlock 6510.

BUICK—D. C. Black, 812 Peachtree street. 1Vy 1860.

DODGE BROTHERS' cars. F. E. Maffett, Inc., dealer, 147-167 West Peachtree St.

FORDS—Belle Isle-Street Company, 380 Peachtree. 1Vy 0507. Cash or terms.

HUDSON-ESSEX touring car. J. W. Goldsmith, Jr.-Grant Co., 229 Peachtree.

OAKLAND—We sell and buy on merits. 285 Spring street.

OVERLAND, WILLYS-KNIGHT—414 Peachtree street. Willys-Overland, Inc.

USED CARS—See Atlanta Cadillac Company, 152 West Peachtree.

Automobiles For Sale 11

CHALMERS 6 touring; will trade for 4 cylinder touring or truck. 668 Glenn St., corner Hill, Sunday; 25 W. Alabama St., week.

DODGE SEDAN, in first-class condition. Will sell cheap or trade for an open car of less value. WAlnut 4225.

FORD, 1923 coupe, cord tires, $195. Hall-Davis Motor Co. WEst 2100.

FORDS—All models and types. Liberal terms. Beggs-Langford Motor Co. MAin 0640.

FORDS, slightly used, guaranteed. See Brooks, Beaudry Motor company, 169 Marietta street. 1Vy 0446.

OLDS MOTOR WORKS—Used cars. 268 Peachtree street.

REO—Passenger cars and speed wagons. John Smith Company, 190 West Peachtree street.

STUDEBAKERS—100 per cent values. Yarbrough Motor Company, Used Car Department, 385 Peachtree. HEmlock 6810.

FOR SALE—1924 Ford roadster, perfect condition, repainted, lock wheel, bargain. Call HEmlock 5824.

GOOD USED CARS. Flint Motor company, 252 Peachtree street.

GOOD G. M. C. TRUCK cheap. You will buy if you need one. Cheap for cash. A. B. Thomas, 89 Lindsey street.

IF YOU want a high-grade car at bargain see my Studebaker special six; leaving city and must sell at sacrifice for cash. Home phone HEmlock 7131-J; office WAlnut 5674.

SAY, LOOK! !

A SPORT Lexington Lark. A-1 fix. She'll fly; can't catch it; see it and buy it; $325. You'll like this one.

FLINT MOTOR CO.,
238-240 Peachtree St.

TEN 1924-25 tourings and roadsters, reconditioned and repainted, guaranteed, $125 to $250. Terms. Open till 7 p. m.

BELLE ISLE-STREET CO.,
380 Peachtree. 1Vy 0507.

TEN 1924-25 Ford coupes, all in A-1 condition and guaranteed; $275 to $425. Liberal terms. Open till 7 p. m.

BELLE ISLE-STREET CO.,
380 Peachtree. 1Vy 0507.

TRUCKS—Used truck and car bargains. The White company, 134 N. Boulevard.

WE will sell your automobile. Thompson Bonded Warehouse, 441-443 Peachtree.

1923 MODEL Hupp touring car; excellent condition; run 12,000 miles; must sell; $400 will buy. A real bargain. HEmlock 2225-J.

6-55 SPORT FLINT, less than 45 days old. A saving of $900. We give terms that will enable you to buy this car or will take car in trade.

FLINT MOTOR CO.,
238-240 Peachtree St.

6-40 FLINT TOURING

THIS car has been driven only 4,300 miles; newly painted, new car guarantee. Come in and talk over terms. We'll fix you up.

FLINT MOTOR CO.,
238-240 Peachtree St.

1924 FORD COUPE

In excellent condition.

FLINT MOTOR CO.,
238-240 Peachtree St.

Auto Trucks for Sale 12

1925 MODEL FORD light delivery truck. Phone WAlnut 7795.

Auto Accessories 13

FORD size Firestone, pair almost new, $11; one 32x4½, $5; Goodyear 32x4½, $5; 34x4½, $7. Lot of odd sizes and Ford sizes, cheap. MAin 5080-W.

TIRES ON CREDIT
BRUNSWICK tires and tubes on easy payment play; small down payment, balance convenient.
COTTONGIM'S TIRE & SUPPLY CO.
225 Spring Street 1Vy 3931

TIRES—30x3 $7.15, 31-inch $8.40. Tubes, 3-inch $1.80, 31-inch $1.90. C. X. sparkplugs 43c; top recover $4.95; set fenders, $9.80; rubber case battery $10.75. Catalog free. Golden Eagle company, 741-43 Marietta street and 207 Peters street. Atlanta, Ga.

FORD COUPE

1925 MODEL, used three months; balloon tires, lock wheel, other extras; guaranteed; $112.50 cash, balance monthly.

BELLE ISLE-STREET CO.,
380 Peachtree. 1Vy 0507.

FORD TOURING, 1925—

FIVE MONTHS OLD, GOOD CORD TIRES, NEVER BEEN ABUSED, BARGAIN FOR QUICK SALE. WEST 1782-W.

FORD COUPE, 1925—

FOUR MONTHS OLD, BALLOON TIRES, OAK WHEELS. RUNS AND LOOKS LIKE NEW. SACRIFICE FOR QUICK SALE. CALL MAIN 1666-J.

FORD TOURING, 1925—

FIVE MONTHS OLD. THIS CAR HAS HAD THE BEST OF CARE. RUNS AND LOOKS LIKE NEW. BARGAIN FOR QUICK SALE. CAN ARRANGE SOME TERMS. MR. MORRIS, WALNUT 7017.

FORD, TUDOR SEDAN—

USED BY LADY FOR PLEASURE. A WINTER CAR FOR THE FAMILY AT A PRICE YOU CAN AFFORD TO PAY. TERMS TO RESPONSIBLE PARTY. MR. NASH, DEARBORN 2167-W.

HUPP—New and used. Thompson-Canthorn Motor Company, 471 Peachtree. WAlnut 9232.

NASH used cars. Martin-Nash Motor Co., 541 Peachtree street.

NASH TOURING

LATE model, new hood, cord tires, new paint. This car should easily run 2 or 3 years and give good service.

FLINT MOTOR CO.,
238-240 Peachtree St.

DO YOU look forward to the future with doubt, or do you read the classified columns daily

FORDS—

HIGHEST CASH PRICES for 25 late model Fords.

84-88 WEST CAIN STREET
WAlnut 6938

BUSINESS SERVICE

Business Services Offered 18

BRAXTON, JOE—General house cleaning. Windows cleaned, 10c each; floors waxed, $1; white woodwork cleaned, $1. 46½ Hilliard street. Phone HUntley 7931-J.

CARPENTER—A. I. Hamilton, general repairing; also roof repairing. HEmlock 6542-W.

LIBERTY ELECTRIC SIGN CO.
WAlnut 1664—25 Cone street.
Electric signs $30 up.

NIAGARA metal weather strip, metal and wood frame screens, Venetian blinds, screens repaired. Universal Screen and Supply Co. Phone 1Vy 3048. 816 DeKalb Ave.

SIGNS—Attractive line of stock signs, art lettering. Davis Sign Works, 100 Spring street.

WE COLLECT your accounts. Try us. Gibbs, 606 Gould building. WAlnut 2342.

Building and Contracting 19

NEW ROOFS put on; general carpenter work; painting; tinting. 1Vy 2259-J.

Cleaning, Dyeing, Renovating 20

HATTERS—Satisfaction guaranteed. Mail orders given prompt attention. Acme Hatters, 21 South Forsyth street. WAlnut 7302.

RENOVATORS—Call Shirley Mattress Company for high-grade mattress renovating. HEmlock 6967.

Heating, Plumbing, Roofing 22

ROOFING—Painting and repairing. W. S. Stroud. WEst 1849-J. Twenty-two years' experience. Call on me and save money.

BETTY & GLENN—Insurance, all kinds. 1117 Citizens & Southern Bank Bldg. WAlnut 3637.

LEAKY ROOFS made water-proof; roofing every description. Acree Roofing company, WEst 2712.

BUSINESS SERVICE

Moving, Trucking, Storage 25

J. L. HAMMOND TRANSFER—Long and short trips. 142 S. Forsyth. WAlnut 7919.

FULTON TRANSFER & STORAGE. WAlnut 9258.

WE move, pack and store pianos. Ludden & Bates, 80 North Pryor street.

Painting, Papering, Decorating 26

CHIMNEY and furnace repairing. For quick service call WAlnut 9693.

INTERIOR AND EXTERIOR painting, tinting and papering neatly done. Call MAin 2212-W.

PAINTING, plastering, tinting; rooms, $2 up; leaks stopped in roof. MAdison 6018-R.

PAPER HANGING guaranteed, $5 per room and up. DEarborn 2216.

WALL PAPER—"The Very Best." Call for Lumpkin and Owen, headquarters. 1Vy 1738, 36 West Peachtree street.

Printing, Engraving, Binding 27

MULTIGRAPHING, filling in, addressing. Complete mailing service. Thomas F. Rybert & Co., Printers. Call multigraphing department, 1Vy 3317.

Repairing and Refinishing 29

CHRIS WOODS MUSIC SHOP, 244 Auburn. Phonographs; repairs. 1Vy 9010.

EXPERT DOLL repairing; parts furnished; special rates. Southern Doll Hospital, 150 Whitehall street.

PHONOGRAPHS REPAIRED—All makes. WAlnut 3380. 18 North Pryor. Atlanta Phono company.

WELDING—You can't break it where we weld it. Lamar Welding company.

Tailoring and Pressing 30

SUITS AND OVERCOATS altered. Pleasant the Tailor, 1Vy 8588, opposite Gas Bldg.

EMPLOYMENT

Help Wanted—Female 32

MAID wanted for department store. Apply Monday morning, 200 Austell Bldg.

MILLINERY DESIGNER WANTED—

HIGH-CLASS MILLINERY DESIGNER AND TRIMMER TO MAKE HATS AND TRIM SHAPES. STEADY POSITION FOR HIGH-CLASS PERSON. WHOLESALE WORK. W-537, CONSTITUTION.

SALES REPRESENTATIVES
REFINED WOMEN represent made-to-measure radium crepe knitted underwear; special gift models; excellent incomes. Write details. Audiana Silks, 20 East 12th, New York City.

SECRETARY WANTED for good position open December 1. Company just opening southern office and good future assured. 1019 Wynne-Claughton building.

STENOGRAPHERS ATTENTION—

WE ARE in need of many capable young lady stenographers who are interested in good January openings. See us now. No application fee charged.

PERSONNEL SERVICE, INC.
1019 Wynne-Claughton Building

A PAYING POSITION open to representative of character. Take orders shoes-hosiery direct to wearer. Good income. Permanent. Write now. Tanners Shoe Mfg. Co., 331-11, C St., Boston, Mass.

A BIG OPPORTUNITY—Sell Christmas cards. Earn $50-$75 weekly. Full or spare time. $10 sample book free. Weekly payment. Experience unnecessary. Our co-operation assures success. Dept. 112, John Hertel Co., 318 Washington, Chicago.

ATLANTA COMPANY has position open for lady of character, ability and personality to represent us with the best business concerns (no canvassing); position will pay $250 per month and expenses and will appeal to any business woman looking for dignified and permanent position. Give full information, P. O. Box 1395, Atlanta.

ASSISTANT BOOKKEEPER—Splendid opening for young lady. Also experienced typist. 318 Gould building.

ATTRACTIVE traveling position. Established organization has opening for ambitious, educated woman to travel; must be between 24-40, with at least high-school education; railroad fare paid and definite position to merit; permanent position and opportunity to earn $300 a month for qualified woman. Weedon Company, Desk 12, 7016 Euclid, Cleveland.

BE A MILLINER—Refined, fascinating, good pay, steady employment; four to six weeks' course, $45; diplomas given. Sparks Millinery School, 44½ Whitehall, Atlanta, Georgia.

COLORED cooks, maids, nurses, laundresses, waitresses, pressers. 160½ Auburn avenue.

DRUG STORE—Immediate opening for young lady. 318 Gould building.

EARN $20.00 weekly mailing circulars; instruction 20c; 11 money-making formulas free. Progressive Sales Co., Box 1957, Atlanta, Ga.

EARN GOOD MONEY at home, clipping newspapers—addressing postal cards. No experience or canvassing. Particulars free. Zeno Service, 60 W. Washington, Desk K-146, Chicago.

ENERGETIC WORKERS WANTED for special sales work. Opportunity to earn $100 or more between now and Christmas. Write full details concerning education and experience to Curtis Publishing Company, 952 Independence square, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

EXPERIENCED COOK AT ONCE—346 Ponce de Leon avenue.

GIRLS TO LEARN Elliott-Fisher billing and bookkeeping machines. Excellent opportunity for girls wanting to enter the business world and looking for a future. If interested, call at 319 Wynne-Claughton building for full information.

LADIES—Make $25 weekly addressing postal cards and clipping newspapers at home. Particulars free. Enclose stamp. B. Robinson, 729 Rose street, Jackson, Miss.

LADIES who can embroider, write us for easy, pleasant, profitable work. Pay guaranteed. Everything furnished. No canvassing. Royal Art Co., Dept. 2, Leipsic, Ohio.

LADIES—Embroider for us at home. Pleasant, interesting work; particulars free; send stamped enveloped. Premier Art Co., 521 Metropolitan Life Bldg., Dept. B-23, Minneapolis.

OFFICE GIRL, some experience, $15 week. Room 507, Silvey building.

OUR publicity department requires the services of three ladies to solicit advertisements in city of Atlanta. Light, pleasant and steady employment, with excellent remuneration. Address Newspaper, P. O. Box 544, Atlanta, Ga.

QUALIFY for $150-$300 railroad jobs. Fireman, brakeman, baggageman, sleeping car or train porter. 940 Railway Bureau, East St. Louis, Ill.

REFINED WORK for ladies; spare hours. Call early Monday, 418 Rhodes building.

U. S. GOVERNMENT JOBS—$95-$150 month. Girls-women, 18 up. Steady work. Paid vacation. Common education sufficient with our coaching. List positions Free. Write immediately. Franklin Institute, Dept. 602-P, Rochester, N. Y.

WANTED—Two elevator girls. Apply soon Monday morning, 200 Austell Bldg.

WANTED—Six hotel maids. Apply soon Monday morning, 200 Austell Bldg.

WANTED—Young lady for general office work. Apply Monday, 200 Austell Bldg.

WANTED—Girls-women. Learn gown designing-making. $25 week up. Learn while earning. Experience unnecessary. Sample lessons free. Write immediately. Franklin Institute, Dept. 509-P, Rochester, N. Y.

WANTED—Women to make money in spare or full time. Write immediately for full particulars. Romance Perfumers, General P. O. Box 368, Brooklyn, N. Y.

WHITE WOMAN to keep house and care for children; two or three weeks. HUntley 8089-M.

$6-$18 A DOZEN decorating pillow tops at home. Experience unnecessary. Particulars for stamp. Tapestry Paint Co., 218 La-Grange, Ind.

Help Wanted—Male 33

ACCOUNTANT WANTED by local retail concern with established reputation. Must be experienced and capable. Man familiar with Atlanta retail credits preferred. Good salary with opportunity. 1019 Wynne-Claughton building.

PERHAPS the very worker you want has an ad under today's "Situations Wanted" classification.

They Fit Like A Glove

The little profit-laden offers of the A-B-C Classified Section are of sufficient volume and variety to fit your needs like a glove fits your fingers.

A mitten, you know, doesn't amount to much as far as fit is concerned. Almost any average hand can be pushed into an average mitten—but there isn't the skin-smooth fit for all fingers that there is in a good glove.

The classified offers are not like a mitten. They are more like a glove—because they are cut and fashioned to encase all your needs rather than to enclose them loosely.

You will find that these offers will protect you even more than a glove!

And the classified section will never do what in the vernacular is known as "give you the mitten"!

The A-B-C Classified Ads Always the Same—In Service Always Different--In Opportunity

EMPLOYMENT

Help Wanted—Male 33

AUTO MECHANIC HELPER WANTED—Apply 428 Austell building.

BOOKKEEPER — Attractive opening for young man. Large concern. 318 Gould building.

BOOKKEEPER—Competent, high-type man for opening local manufacturing company. Good salary and positive advancement.

STENO-BOOKKEEPER — Clean-cut young man of good character and habits for attractive opening.

HIGH SCHOOL INSTRUCTOR for sales position with prominent local corporation.

TWO YOUNG MEN as material checkers for manufacuring firm.

1019 WYNNE—CLAUGHTON BUILDING

CHAUFFEUR wanted for salesman. Apply soon Monday morning, 200 Austell building.

COLLECTOR WANTED—Salary. Apply 428 Austell building.

COLLECTOR—Large city debit. Steady position and rapid advancement to hustler. See F. Goltra, Austell building.

PERSONNEL SERVICE, INC.
1019 Wynne-Claughton Building

A PAYING POSITION open to representative of character. Take orders shoes-hosiery direct to wearer. Good income. Permanent. Write now. Tanners Shoe Mfg. Co., 331-11, C St., Boston, Mass.

A BIG OPPORTUNITY—Sell Christmas cards. Earn $50-$75 weekly. Full or spare time. $10 sample book free. Weekly payment. Experience unnecessary. Our co-operation assures success. Dept. 112, John Hertel Co., 318 Washington, Chicago.

ATLANTA COMPANY has position open for lady of character, ability and personality to represent us with the best business concerns (no canvassing); position will pay $250 per month and expenses and will appeal to any business woman looking for dignified and permanent position. Give full information, P. O. Box 1395, Atlanta.

ASSISTANT BOOKKEEPER—Splendid opening for young lady. Also experienced typist. 318 Gould building.

ATTRACTIVE traveling position. Established organization has opening for ambitious, educated woman to travel; must be between 24-40, with at least high-school education; railroad fare paid and definite position to merit; permanent position and opportunity to earn $300 a month for qualified woman. Weedon Company, Desk 12, 7016 Euclid, Cleveland.

BE A MILLINER—Refined, fascinating, good pay, steady employment; four to six weeks' course, $45; diplomas given. Sparks Millinery School, 44½ Whitehall, Atlanta, Georgia.

COLORED cooks, maids, nurses, laundresses, waitresses, pressers. 160½ Auburn avenue.

DRUG STORE—Immediate opening for young lady. 318 Gould building.

EARN $20.00 weekly mailing circulars; instruction 20c; 11 money-making formulas free. Progressive Sales Co., Box 1957, Atlanta, Ga.

EARN GOOD MONEY at home, clipping newspapers—addressing postal cards. No experience or canvassing. Particulars free. Zeno Service, 60 W. Washington, Desk K-146, Chicago.

ENERGETIC WORKERS WANTED for special sales work. Opportunity to earn $100 or more between now and Christmas. Write full details concerning education and experience to Curtis Publishing Company, 952 Independence square, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

EXPERIENCED COOK AT ONCE—346 Ponce de Leon avenue.

GIRLS TO LEARN Elliott-Fisher billing and bookkeeping machines. Excellent opportunity for girls wanting to enter the business world and looking for a future. If interested, call at 319 Wynne-Claughton building for full information.

LADIES—Make $25 weekly addressing postal cards and clipping newspapers at home. Particulars free. Enclose stamp. B. Robinson, 729 Rose street, Jackson, Miss.

LADIES who can embroider, write us for easy, pleasant, profitable work. Pay guaranteed. Everything furnished. No canvassing. Royal Art Co., Dept. 2, Leipsic, Ohio.

LADIES—Embroider for us at home. Pleasant, interesting work; particulars free; send stamped enveloped. Premier Art Co., 521 Metropolitan Life Bldg., Dept. B-23, Minneapolis.

OFFICE GIRL, some experience, $15 week. Room 507, Silvey building.

OUR publicity department requires the services of three ladies to solicit advertisements in city of Atlanta. Light, pleasant and steady employment, with excellent remuneration. Address Newspaper, P. O. Box 544, Atlanta, Ga.

QUALIFY for $150-$300 railroad jobs. Fireman, brakeman, baggageman, sleeping car or train porter. 940 Railway Bureau, East St. Louis, Ill.

REFINED WORK for ladies; spare hours. Call early Monday, 418 Rhodes building.

U. S. GOVERNMENT JOBS—$95-$150 month. Girls-women, 18 up. Steady work. Paid vacation. Common education sufficient with our coaching. List positions Free. Write immediately. Franklin Institute, Dept. 602-P, Rochester, N. Y.

WANTED—Two elevator girls. Apply soon Monday morning, 200 Austell Bldg.

WANTED—Six hotel maids. Apply soon Monday morning, 200 Austell Bldg.

WANTED—Young lady for general office work. Apply Monday, 200 Austell Bldg.

WANTED—Girls-women. Learn gown designing-making. $25 week up. Learn while earning. Experience unnecessary. Sample lessons free. Write immediately. Franklin Institute, Dept. 509-P, Rochester, N. Y.

WANTED—Women to make money in spare or full time. Write immediately for full particulars. Romance Perfumers, General P. O. Box 368, Brooklyn, N. Y.

WHITE WOMAN to keep house and care for children; two or three weeks. HUntley 8089-M.

$6-$18 A DOZEN decorating pillow tops at home. Experience unnecessary. Particulars for stamp. Tapestry Paint Co., 218 La-Grange, Ind.

Help Wanted—Male 33

SALESMEN—Sell new big ball blow gum machine to merchants from full-sized color picture. Big demand everywhere. Good sideline. Salary and commission to men who prove ability. Blackburn, New York Life building, Kansas City, Mo.

SALESMAN FOR 1926—Experienced in our line to call on dry goods and variety stores in Georgia, Alabama and Florida, with jewelry novelties, leather goods, etc. Trade is established. Rudolf Jacobs & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

SALESMEN—Sideline or full time, selling dealers all classes high-grade, popular-priced trade marked line pure aluminum; liberal commissions; $100 weekly easy. Write quick. American Aluminum Mfg. Co., Lamont, Ill.

SALESMEN—To place products with industrial plants on approval. Commission paid on receipt of trial orders which salesman retains whether or not products prove satisfactory. Radiumole Refining Co., 1 Madison Ave., New York city.

SALESMAN—Lace house requires salesman for line of laces, etc., for department stores. Compact, live line; commission basis; liberal rate; good earnings; opportunity for right man. State your territory and experience. Address 111 Fifth avenue, New York City, Office 820.

SALESMEN WANTED—Heap makes $500 monthly selling our new gum and peanut machines to merchants. Big commissions. No experience necessary. Salary and commission for men who prove ability. Hurd Wholesale, New York Life building, Kansas City, Mo.

SALESMEN—The American Automobile association and the Georgia Motor club require the services of a number of salesmen to represent them in Atlanta and Georgia. Special opportunity of the inside later for those who make good now. Commission. Apply 40 West Peachtree.

SALESMEN—We are appointing exclusive 1926 agents for the Famous Lightning Calculator; retails $15; adds, subtracts, multiplies, divides; work equals $300 machines; five-year guarantee. Write for liberal trial offer and new selling plans. Lightning Calculator Co., Dept. 65, Grand Rapids, Mich.

SALESMEN—You make $130 monthly selling only one $10 accident-sickness policy a day! Policy pays $5,000 death, $25 weekly benefit. Full or spare time. Tremendous demand; $100,000 guarantee with state. Easy to sell with our direct-by-mail plan. Write quick for territory and special contract. Underwriters, 30 Bonnell building, Newark, N. J.

SALESMAN—Man or school boy wanted in every town in Alamaba, Georgia, Mississippi to solicit orders for tires, batteries and accessories from garages, auto dealers, gasoline stations and merchants. Few hours weekly earns good salary. No money or experience necessary. Excellent sideline catalogue. Write for particulars. Address Box F-683, Atlanta Constitution.

SALESMEN—We furnish you a new Ford car immediately and set you up in business. You own both car and business. No capital required. Profits $50 to $150 per week easy. Exclusive territory, city or country. Biggest opportunity ever offered hustlers. Territory going fast. Write quick for details. W. T. H. Walker, Inc., Dept. N, Herr's Island, Pittsburgh, Pa.

SOLICITORS—

WE HAVE AN OPENING FOR THREE GOOD HOUSE-TO-HOUSE SOLICITORS WHO CAN MAKE MORE WORKING ON COMMISSION THAN ON SALARY. WE HAVE SOMETHING NEW TO OFFER THE PUBLIC AND A REAL SALESMAN CAN MAKE BIG MONEY. APPLY IN PERSON, BETWEEN 8 AND 8:30 TO H. S. TANNER, CONSTITUTION BUILDING.

Help Wanted—Male 33

SALESMEN—Sell new big ball blow gum machine to merchants from full-sized color picture. Big demand everywhere. Good sideline. Salary and commission to men who prove ability. Blackburn, New York Life building, Kansas City, Mo.

SALESMAN FOR 1926—Experienced in our line to call on dry goods and variety stores in Georgia, Alabama and Florida, with jewelry novelties, leather goods, etc. Trade is established. Rudolf Jacobs & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

SALESMEN—Sideline or full time, selling dealers all classes high-grade, popular-priced trade marked line pure aluminum; liberal commissions; $100 weekly easy. Write quick. American Aluminum Mfg. Co., Lamont, Ill.

SALESMEN—To place products with industrial plants on approval. Commission paid on receipt of trial orders which salesman retains whether or not products prove satisfactory. Radiumole Refining Co., 1 Madison Ave., New York city.

SALESMAN—Lace house requires salesman for line of laces, etc., for department stores. Compact, live line; commission basis; liberal rate; good earnings; opportunity for right man. State your territory and experience. Address 111 Fifth avenue, New York City, Office 820.

SALESMEN WANTED—Heap makes $500 monthly selling our new gum and peanut machines to merchants. Big commissions. No experience necessary. Salary and commission for men who prove ability. Hurd Wholesale, New York Life building, Kansas City, Mo.

SALESMEN—The American Automobile association and the Georgia Motor club require the services of a number of salesmen to represent them in Atlanta and Georgia. Special opportunity of the inside later for those who make good now. Commission. Apply 40 West Peachtree.

SALESMEN—We are appointing exclusive 1926 agents for the Famous Lightning Calculator; retails $15; adds, subtracts, multiplies, divides; work equals $300 machines; five-year guarantee. Write for liberal trial offer and new selling plans. Lightning Calculator Co., Dept. 65, Grand Rapids, Mich.

SALESMEN—You make $130 monthly selling only one $10 accident-sickness policy a day! Policy pays $5,000 death, $25 weekly benefit. Full or spare time. Tremendous demand; $100,000 guarantee with state. Easy to sell with our direct-by-mail plan. Write quick for territory and special contract. Underwriters, 30 Bonnell building, Newark, N. J.

SALESMAN—Man or school boy wanted in every town in Alamaba, Georgia, Mississippi to solicit orders for tires, batteries and accessories from garages, auto dealers, gasoline stations and merchants. Few hours weekly earns good salary. No money or experience necessary. Excellent sideline catalogue. Write for particulars. Address Box F-683, Atlanta Constitution.

SALESMEN—We furnish you a new Ford car immediately and set you up in business. You own both car and business. No capital required. Profits $50 to $150 per week easy. Exclusive territory, city or country. Biggest opportunity ever offered hustlers. Territory going fast. Write quick for details. W. T. H. Walker, Inc., Dept. N, Herr's Island, Pittsburgh, Pa.

KNIT GOODS

PROMINENT manufacturer of high-grade knitted outerwear for women and children, catering to finest retail trade, has opening for southern representative. Only men with successful selling records, acquaintance and following with the best retails will be considered. Give references and full information regarding present and past employment and lines carried in first letter. Box F-685, Constitution.

LAUNDRY ROUTE MAN WANTED—Apply 428 Austell building.

MEAT CUTTER; grocery clerk. Apply 507 Silvey building.

NEWS AGENTS—Railroad train service. Crescent News company, 34 East Hunter street.

PRINTER WANTED—Good all-round man with linotype experience preferred; good pay; good future; steady work. The Times, Apalachicola, Florida.

RAILWAY POSTAL CLERKS—Commence $158 month. Men 18-35. Steady. Sample coaching free. Apply today. Box F-682, Constitution.

REPRESENTATIVES wanted to sell O. Henry Shirts direct to wearer. Free outfit and complete details of how to make big income sent immediately. Write O. Henry Shirt Company, Greensboro, N. C.

SALESBOARD MEN—Write for free illustration describing our Xmas assortment No. 26. The biggest value ever offered. Address Sanders Mfg. Co., Inc., Nashville, Tenn.

SALESMAN—We have room for two more high-class real estate salesmen on our regular 75% basis. Freeman Realty Company, WAlnut 0859.

SALESMEN—Inexperienced and experienced. Big demand both city and traveling. Write for full details. Address National Salesmen's Training Association, Dept. 327, Chicago, Illinois.

SALESMEN—Experienced book salesmen; fastest selling combination offer; 2 orders daily net $100 weekly. Write J. A. Richards, Inc., 151 Fifth Ave., N. Y.

SALESMEN—Fast-selling Tampa cigars; $40 weekly salary and expenses; experience unnecessar; send stamped, addressed envelope for particulars. Gulf Coast Cigar Co., Tampa, Fla.

SALESMAN WANTED—Permanent, well-paying position, offering advancement for salesman of ability. Staple, well-known line. Sold direct from factory to merchant. Write Box 375, Iowa City, Iowa.

SALESMAN WITH CAR—Our wonderful self-vulcanizing tire boot and tube patch, handled as sideline, will pay all traveling expenses. Sales guaranteed. Profits 100%. American-Dixie Products Co., Memphis, Tenn.

SALESMAN-DISTRIBUTOR WANTED in this district by leading manufacturer. Unusual opportunity with fine income for young man. Practically a business of your own. For particulars, address W-839, Constitution.

SALESMAN—Live wire to cover state thoroughly, with an extensive line of boys' wash suits. Must have experience with the retail dry goods trade. Commission basis. Box 735, 2501 World Tower building, New York city.

CLASSIFIED ADS increase your purchasing power.

Help Wanted—Male 33

ACTIVE, energetic workers wanted for special sales work. Opportunity to earn $100 or more between now and Christmas. Write full details concerning education and experience to Curtis Publishing company, 952 Independence Square, Philadelphia, Pa.

A BIG OPPORTUNITY
$75-$100 WEEKLY

SELLING PERSONAL CHRISTMAS CARDS. Full or spare time. $10 sample book free. Weekly payment. Experience unnecessary. Our cooperation assures success. Dept. 612, John Hertel Co., 318 Washington, Chicago.

ADVERTISING SPECIALTY SALESMAN GOOD producing territory for salesman in southern Georgia. Exclusive territory with company rated AA-1. Comission advances made weekly. The most complete line of copyright advertising calendars, signs and specialties in the country. All-year-round work, hight rate of commission, splendid earning possibilities. In first letter give full information and references. Write or wire at once.
THE KEMPER THOMAS COMPANY,
Cincinnati, Ohio.

ALL-ROUND printer at once. Wire Okeechobee (Fla.) News. Pay $45; 44-hour week.

AN IMPORTANT position as southeastern district manager is open for salesman of recognized ability, acquainted with automotive and industrial mill supply jobbers. The man we want has a fundamental knowledge of electricity and is acquainted with portable electric drills, grinders and polishers. He is about 30 to 35 years of age, of southern extraction and can come well recommended. In reply state education, business connections and experience. Address, The United States Electrical Tool company, Cincinnati, Ohio.

BRIGHT OFFICE BOY with wheel. Apply immediately, 418 Rhodes building, Marietta street.

COLORED BOY to drive gear car and work in office. HEmlock 5796-J.

COLORED COOKS, one first-class short-order cook, one dinner cook, $30 per week each. Apply Biser's Restaurant, Jacksonville, Fla.

EXPERIENCED collector and salesman with car. Call early Monday, 418 Rhodes building.

FLORIDA SALESMEN

EIGHT GOOD salesmen or saleswomen who are willing to work. Only those who can stay with an established, nationally-known realty concern on a five-year selling program will be considered. Apply 915 Hurt building, at 9 o'clock Friday and Saturday, November 27 and 28.

HIGH-TYPE SALESMAN—Attractive salary. Apply at once, 418 Rhodes building, Marietta street.

IF YOU THINK in terms of $6,000 the first year, write us now. Strong line for retail stores. Nationally advertised. Established concern. Best season now starting. Liberal weekly advance to producer. The Continental Company, 1922 Euclid, Cleveland, Ohio. Dept. 671.

IN OUR publicity department we need the services of three newspaper advertising solicitors for Atlanta. Steady employment and excellent remuneration. Address P. O. Box 544, Atlanta, Ga.

I WANT TO TALK WITH TEN MEN

WITH REAL SALES ABILITY. MUST BE MARRIED, UNDER 30, OWN AUTOMOBILE AND GIVE BEST REFERENCES. TO THESE MEN I WILL GIVE A CHANCE AT A REAL FUTURE. THIS IS NOT A STOCK OR REAL ESTATE PROPOSITION. CALL AT ROOM 1306, CANDLER BUILDING, BETWEEN 10 AND 2.

LARGE CONCERN has opening in their sales department for two young men who wish to learn salesmanship and can earn $25 per week while learning. Steady positions for men who qualify. Must be of neat appearance and able to furnish references. Room 800, Austell building.

MAKING small towns in Georgia and southern states can make excellent connection with largest manufacturer of bulk vinegars in the south. Highest commissions paid. Can be handled exclusively to a good advantage. Restricted territory allotted. Proposition is good for $500 per month and up. For further particulars, write the Lyons Bros. Company, Atlanta, Georgia.

MAN—White, to call on merchants; must be of high caliber and worth $100 weekly. Manager 1424 South St., Philadelphia, Pa.

MAN COOK; COLORED—Experienced in luncheonette or cafeteria. Must give A-1 local reference or don't apply. See manager of Luncheonette between 7 and 10 a. m. or 3 and 5 p. m. F. & W. Grand, 65 Whitehall.

MANAGER WANTED to take charge of Atlanta territory of monthly business publication. Must be young man of pleasing personality, sales ability and who has some knowledge of advertising. This position pays good salary and offers real opportunity. Given full information about your experience in first letter. Apply Publisher, Box No. 9, Constitution.

MARRIED MEN, 25-35, to deliver our coffee direct to housewives. Routes all over the south, $40 to $50 a week can be earned 52 weeks a year by real worker. We furnish everything necessary to put you in business and pay a good salary to right man to start. Apply Standard Coffee Company, New Orleans, La.

MEN—Learn the barber trade. Course and tools $50. Position waiting. Atlanta Barber college, 14 East Mitchell street.

MEN, 18 up. Railway mail clerks Travel—see your country. Commence $158 month. Steady work. Sample coaching free. Write immediately. Franklin Institute, Dept. 45-P, Rochester, N. Y.

MEN wanting to prepare for positions as firemen, brakemen, colored train or sleeping car porters. Write for application blank; experience unnecessary. First-class roads, no strike. Name position wanted. Railway Institute, Dept. 8,

If You Find It Hard to Find It, Look Through the Classified Section For It

EMPLOYMENT

Situations Wanted—Male 37

WELL-EXPERIENCED restaurant cook desires position at once. Address W-973, Constitution.

YOUNG MAN with three years' sales experience; also knowledge of steno-bookkeeping, desires position immediately. Best references. Madison 5926-R.

FINANCIAL

Business Opportunities 38

BOARDING HOUSE—

THE BEST PART OF CITY, FULL OF BOADERRS, PAYING WELL. OWNER WILL SELL CHEAP. ADDRESS W-834, CONSTITUTION.

CAFE AND SODA FOUNT—

ALL EQUIPMENT FOR SHORT-ORDER AND REGULAR COOKING. ONE OF THE BEST ATLANTA CORNERS. SMALL CASH PAYMENT, BALANCE EASY. ADDRESS W-833, CONSTITUTION.

DRUG STORE
CIGAR, lunchette and fountain fixtures complete in detail for sales; reasonable; terms if necessary. Will sell fixtures separately if wanted. This store in good location. Phone or call Georgia Store Fixture company, 41 East Alabama street, WAlnut 4160.

HOTEL FOR SALE—In one of the best towns in southwest Georgia and in one of the best farming counties in the south. Hotel fully equipped, consisting of 10 double-bed rooms, 16 single rooms with double beds; large, airy dining room, capacity 60 people; commodious front room, large office and parlor; hotel on paved street; corner lot, dimensions lot 175x175, which is Florida short route from Chicago and West to Tampa. If interested, write for further particulars and price. Address Lock Box 270, Dawson, Ga.

HOTEL—Real estate, building, furnishings and equipment; in a good Tennessee town; 22 rooms; steam heated. $8,000; $3,000 cash and the balance like rent.

BOARDING HOUSE—Well-located, north side; full of boarders; very attractive proposition. $1,000 cash will handle.

RESTAURANT—One block Five Points; has been established 22 years; stand investigation. At $5,000; one half cash.

WE MAKE no charges for listing a business for sale.
GEORGE W. WARE & CO.
In Business Since 1888
725 Atlanta National Bank Building

RESTAURANT AND CAFE FOR SALE—Reasonable. Call WEst 3344.

A FAST-GROWING manufacturing concern, in orders to take care of increasing business, needs $25,000 additional working capital. A position carrying good salary is open to party in position to make this investment. Proposition will bear careful investigation. Address W-972, Constitution.

AM FORCED TO SELL—

25 $100 SHARES OF DIVIDEND-PAYING COMMON STOCK OF BRANNAN-BECKHAM & CO. $1,900 GETS IT. TELEPHONE HEMLOCK 3216-J.

BARGAIN—$300 buys lunch stand at 15 South Humphries street. Come and see.

COMPLETE RESTAURANT, in good condition and fine location, will sell fixtures, separately if wanted; terms if necessary. Georgia Store Fixture company, 41 East Alabama street, WAlnut 4160.

COURTEOUS, CAPABLE, RELIABLE: BUSINESS BROKERAGE—

YOU CAN NET $1,000 CHRISTMAS WEEK—Two of best 5 and 10-cent stores, in five suburbs. One thousand dollars cash payment, balance terms, gets either place. Two best bargains ever listed.

FILLING STATION AND LUNCH STAND—Handling Sinclair products, vicinity federal prison; six-year lease, income about $50 per day. Priced to sell at $600, $300 cash, balance monthly. Big snap.

PEACHTREE STREET—400 block, one of highest-class in town; 17 sleeping rooms, averaging about $300 net profit each month.

MITCHELL STREET—Two houses, full all the time. Money-maker at a bargain price. Terms to responsible party.

INMAN PARK DISTRICT — High-class boarders, beautiful home, ideal surroundings; $650 will handle, balance terms.

BOARDING AND ROOMING—North avenue, full of Tech students. Two houses, rent reasonable, satisfactory lease, ill health of owner forces her to sacrifice, $1,000 cash, balance terms.

JUNIPER STREET—High-class place, in excellent location, rent $85 per month. Can be had for $2,000, $500 cash, balance monthly terms. Reason for selling owner leaving the city.

PRINTING ESTABLISHMENT — A good shop, everything complete for $1,750, terms to suit.

HOTEL—Atlanta; downtown location. A real bargain.

DRUG STORE—The cream in Atlanta. Small cash payment, balance monthly.

GROCERIES AND MEAT MARKETS—All in good locations, doing good business and priced to sell.

RESTAURANTS — Two exceptionally good ones.

EMPIRE REALTY COMPANY,
421 Atlanta Trust building.

FIRST-CLASS grocery store. Will sell at a sacrifice. Well established. Address W-818, Constitution.

FOR SALE—Lunch, drink and candy stand. Good business; good location; not able to look after it. 320 Main street, East Point.

FOR SALE—FURNITURE AND FIXTURES OF 25-ROOM HOTEL DOING SPLENDID BUSINESS, INCLUDING 5-YEAR LEASE ON BUILDING. APPLY TO MRS. J. D. FOSHEE, GREENVILLE, ALA., CARE GRENALA HOTEL.

NOW is the time to get a business of your own. We have them. Empire Realty company, business brokers. 421 Atlanta Trust building.

RESPONSIBLE manufacturer wants competent men to manage office and salesmen; $300 to $1,500 necessary; will allow expenses to Trenton if you qualify. Address Manager, 536 Forst Richey Bldg., Trenton, N. J.

WE WILL SELL you a business—or we will sell your business for you. Opportunity Business Broker, 401 Grant building.

Money to Loan—Mortgages 40

LOANS—Monthly straight or reducible loans made on Atlanta and suburban real estate; low rates and liberal repayment features. Mortgage Bond & Trust Co., 16 Walton street.

QUICK LOANS ON REAL ESTATE—

WE ARE PREPARED TO GIVE UNUSUAL PROMPT SERVICE ON REAL ESTATE LOANS IN SUMS OF $1,000 TO $12,000 AT CURRENT RATES. T. B. GAY CO., 1012 GRANT BLDG., WAL. 5678.

SALARIES BOUGHT—Quick money, no indorsements. 805 Forsyth building.

Personal Property Loans 40A

DIAMONDS and valuables. 3 Peachtree street.

DIAMONDS at 3 per cent. Jefferson Loan Society, 8 Auburn avenue.

FINANCIAL

Personal Property Loans 40A

FURNITURE AND PIANO LOANS—

THE CITIZENS LOAN COMPANY carries license number 1 and is the oldest and largest institution of its kind in Dixie; we have helped thousands of people in Atlanta to solve their financial problems and we can help you; our plan is not expensive—costs less than you would imagine.

LOANS MADE from $24 to $300 on furniture, pianos, etc., which are left in your possession; repayable in small monthly payments; we are licensed by and bonded to the state and under supervision of state banking department.

CITIZENS LOAN COMPANY
Edward M. Steimle, Mgr., 7 Peachtree St.
801 Peters Building. WAlnut 5295-6.

LOANS—

AT LAWFUL RATES

ON household furniture without removal, by licensed and bonded firm.

LOANS $10 TO $300

$ 2	per month for 20 months repays	$ 40
$ 5	per month for 20 months repays	$100
$10	per month for 20 months repays	$200
$15	per month for 20 months repays	$300

Plus interest provided by law.
AMERICAN LOAN COMPANY
PHONE WALNUT 0215
406 PETERS BLDG. 7 PEACHTREE ST.

LOANS TO HOUSEKEEPERS
Up to $300
Quick and private
15 months to repay
Only lawful interest
BENEFICIAL LOAN SOCIETY
Room 228, Candler Bldg. WAlnut 5-5-5-0
Cor. Peachtree & Houston Sts.

MONEY TO LOAN
on Household Furniture
and Endorsed Notes
at Legal Rate
See us for prompt service
SEABOARD SECURITY CO., INC.
250 Arcade Bldg.
C. Y. McCollum, Mgr.
WAlnut 1810

QUICK LOANS on automobiles. Thompson Bonded Warehouse, 441-443 Peachtree street.

QUICK LOANS
Made on Home Furniture, Pianos, Victrolas, etc.,
Up to $300 Without Removal
At Legal Rates.
Our Easy Monthly Repayment Plan
Will Meet Your Approval.
We invite your inquiry, which will receive prompt, courteous and confidential attention. We are bonded to the state for your protection.
UNITED SMALL LOAN CORPORATION,
WAlnut 5-4-1-3. 30 Peachtree Arcade.

QUICK MONEY—

AT legal rate interest on your furniture and all personal property without removal; a loan can be secured on indorsed note if preferred; all loans repayable from 1 to 20 months; consult us before going elsewhere and save time.

SOUTHERN SECURITY COMPANY,
204-7 Atlanta National Bank Bldg.
(Second Floor)
B. L. Lassiter, Mgr.
PHONE WALNUT 0624.

TAXES, winter clothing, coal bills and the like call for ready cash. You can borrow from us on your furniture, piano or indorsed note and repay monthly. Security Investment Co., 201 Peters building.

WHEN YOU NEED MONEY

To buy a home, to purchase coal, to pay rent, insurance premiums, tuition of children, house repairs, or and other necessary purpose
ASK
THE MASTER LOAN SERVICE
212 Healey Building
Talk to Mr. Madison, Our Manager.
Use Our Reliable Legal Loan Service for Early Christmas Shopping

Real Estate Loans 40B

ALWAYS have money for quick loans; special funds for loans; $500 to $1,500; attractive terms; no delay. H. F. West, 318 Atlanta National.

FIVE to eight per cent real estate loans Yearly reduction if desired. W. A. Foster, 605 Candler building, WAlnut 5986.

FUNDS—on hand for loan and purchase money notes. A. F. Liebman, 53 North Forsyth street. Real estate and renting.

LOANS—Central property, 6 per cent; residential and business property, 6 per cent. W. B. Smith, WAlnut 8381, 19 Walton.

LOANS on real estate. Funds to loan on improved city and suburban property. Current rates. We also specialize in sale of city and farm property. WAlnut 2623. S. W. Carson, 414 Atlanta Trust Company building.

MONEY on hand for first mortgages and real estate purchase money notes on Atlanta or suburban property. W. O. Alston, 1217 Citizens and Southern Bank building.

REAL ESTATE LOANS—

ON Atlanta and suburban property promptly handled; dwellings, stores, apartments, industrial plants, business buildings.

SECURITY MORTGAGE COMPANY,
1415 CANDLER BUILDING,
WALNUT 4776. ATLANTA, GA.

MONTHLY—Six per cent real estate loans. Pay $2.16 per month, including interest on $100. W. A. Foster, 605 Candler building. WAlnut 5986.

REAL ESTATE—We have money on hand to make loans at curent rates. Adair Realty & Trust Co., Healey building, Atlanta, Ga.

Salaries Bought 40C

SALARIES BOUGHT — No indorsements. Federal Investment company, 204 Peters building.

SALARIES BOUGHT—Quick, ready money. 204 McKenzie building.

WE BUY SALARIES—300 Central building.

LIVE STOCK

Dogs, Cats, Other Pets 47

AMERICAN BULL TERRIER PUP—White, aged 14 months; very gentle and affectionate; very fond of children. Call HEmlock 4478-W.

BOSTON TERRIERS—For sale, five pups, six weeks old. Male, $35; females, $25. DEarborn 1213.

CANARIES, parrots, lovebirds, finches, cats, monkeys, squirrels, police, collie and chow puppies. Chas. J. Yancey, 197 Peachtree St.

CANARIES, parrots, pups, fancy pigeons, bird cages, seeds and supplies of every description. Wholesale and retail. We ship everywhere. Free catalog. Write us. National Pet Shops, St. Louis, Missouri.

BEAUTIFUL black male Pomeranian, pedigreed. WAlnut 6402.

CURES RUNNING FITS IN DOGS or money back. Our Carbon Tetrachloride treatment has saved thousands of good dogs—why not yours? Easy to give, one or two doses usually sufficient. $1 pospaid. O'Neall-Williams company, Dept. Ac, Greenville, S. C.

FINE COLLIE PUPS—Very reasonable. 120 Virginia avenue. HEmlock 6791-W.

FITS! FITS—If your dog suffers with running and barking fits or frightening disease, Dr. Lowe's Fit Remedy will cure it. This remedy is a U. S. P. government test and a positively cure and prevents running fits. A trial will convince you. Price $2. Order today. Dr. K. L. Lowe (chemist), care Worthy's Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga. WAlnut 9941.

FOR SALE—Registered water spaniel puppy, cheap. 730 DeKalb avenue.

FOR SALE—Dogs: collie puppies, tan or black, $5 and $10 each; $15 pair. J. T. Means, Barnesville, Ga.

OPPORTUNITIES for everybody—a sweeping statement which cleans up the case for the classified section.

LIVE STOCK

Dogs, Cats, Other Pets 47

FOR SALE—Quitting business trained deer, wolf, coonhounds, foxhounds, bloodhounds; half price; big catalogue 10c. Rookwood Kennels, Lexington, Ky.

LARGEST PET SHOP in the country. References Dun's and Bradstreet's. Large selection of German police pups, great Danes, Russian wolf hounds, Pomeranians, Pekes, Chows, St. Bernards, Newfoundlands, Eskimos, airedales, Irish terriers, fox terriers, collies, rat terriers, toy poodles, talking parrots, singing canaries, parokeets, fancy birds, cages, trained monkeys. Write for free "Holidy Circular." We ship everywhere. Satisfaction assured. Modern Pet Shop, 25-H 9, Philadelphia, Pa.

"MOLEMON'S GLORIA DRU"—Registered setter bitch, two years, well started on quail; medium size, almost white, $50 or trade for bird guns. E. H. Bullock, Dallas, Ga.

PEDIGREED POINTERS—Trained and untrained. Priced to sell. C. S. Cocroft, Apalachee, Ga.

REGISTERED JERSEY HEIFER—Extra fine, eight months old. Call FAirfax 1500.

TWO beautiful police dogs, 14 months old, for sale. Will sacrifice for $100 apiece. Write or wire R. E. Cobb, in care of E. E. Limbaugh, Healey building. IVy 9216.

Horses, Cattle, Vehicles 48

BEAUTIFUL SADDLE HORSE CHEAP—Can see horse at Avondale Estates stables.

Poultry and Supplies 49

BABY CHICKS—High-grade chicks, standard egg bred, postpaid. Leghorns, Rocks, Reds, Anconas, Orpingtons, Wyandottes, moderate prices. 64-page catalogue free. Dixie Poultry Farms, Brenham, Texas.

DOG AND CAT HOSPITAL—Dr. John I. Handley, M. D., V. M. Sc., veterinarian. 47 West Cain street. Veterinary service. WAlnut 7490.

POULTRY
PAN-A-CE-A
Puts hens in laying trim
You can feed as you will, care for as you may, but until your flock is in trim to lay, eggs will be scarce.
Just add Poultry Pan-a-ce-a to the mash; mix one pound of Pan-a-ce-a with every 50 pounds of mash or one tablespoonful to every 20 hens once a day.
Then watch the change come over your flock, see the combs and wattles begin to turn red. Listen to the song, scratch and cackle.
That's a sign of getting ready for business.
Remember, you buy Pan-a-ce-a like this: for 100 hens, the 12-pound package; 60 hens, the 5-pound package; 200 hens, the 25-pound pail; 500 hens, the 100-pound drum.
You feed that package, all of it, on the more-eggs-or-no-pay way.
For Lice—Use Dr. Hess Louse Killer.
For Roup—Use Dr. Hess Roup Tablets.
At these dealers: W. H. Letton, Seedsman, 41 So. Broad; Cottongim's Seed Store, 75 So. Broad and 328-334 Marietta; B. L. Almand, 233 Peters; H. G. Hastings Co., 16 W. Mitchell; Campbell Hdwe. Co., 203 Peters; A. F. Almand, 273 Peters; J. J. Peterson, 193 Peters; J. N. Willingham, 228 Peters; Warnock Feed Co., 205 Peters; Georgia Feed & Gro. Co., 189-191 Peters; Smith Bros. Co., DeKalb Ave., Decatur, College Park, East Atlanta; Everitt Hdwe. Co., 103 Sycamore and 325 E. College Ave., Decatur; Stephenson Hdwe. Co., College Park.

Wanted—Live Stock 50

ANIMALS WANTED—PAIR OF GENTLE GOATS, BROKE TO HARNESS. GENTLE SADDLE HORSES. GUS C. EDWARDS, 151 NORTH DECATUR ROAD. TELEPHONE DEARBORN 1762-J.

TWO LIVE GREY FOXES at once. Wire or write prices. E. F. Hicks, 7 Whitehall street, Atlanta, Ga.

15 RHODE ISLAND RED hens and one rooster, $1.50 each. Call DEarborn 2055.

MERCHANDISE

Articles For Sale 51

ANTIQUES—Several pieces in good repair; very reasonable. Call HEmlock 4478-W.

ANYONE WISHING to buy a copy of the second volume of Mrs. Bryan Collier's Representative Women of the South, in perfect condition, address "Elsie," Constitution office, Atlanta, Ga.

BUSINESS SCHOLARSHIP, continuous course, Atlanta College, for sale cheap. HEmlock 1257-J.

CARDBOARD DOLLS—Fancy costumes, 7 to 10 inches tall, 5 and 10 cents each. The Doll Woman, 334 E. Main St., Spartanburg, S. C.

"GLENBURNIE," the colored-striped bedspread de luxe, made of art silk and cotton, a suitable gift for any occasion; stock sizes 81x90 and 72x90, bolster throw to match, corners cut and set fully scalloped. Special sizes made to order. Each set packed in plain or holiday box. Colors, rose, blue and gold, guaranteed fast. Price per set, either size, $6.50 delivered. Guaranteed to please. Free sample swatches sent on request. Monaghan Mill Store, Greenville, S. C.

NEWS PRINT—

Flat newsprint paper, suitable for small publishers and job printers. The price is right. P. O. Box 1731, Atlanta, Ga.

VICTROLA, electric heater, $55; gas range, wash stand, $20. WAlnut 2870-W.

ONE NICE roller-top desk; one Todd check protector. Call IVy 5315, between 4 and 6 p. m.

ONE LOT ART SQUARES
AND DE LUXE CARPETS
AT A BARGAIN
JACOBS' SALES COMPANY,
45-47 Decatur Street—WAlnut 2876

PAWN SHOP BARGAINS
BLUMBERG'S
TERMINAL LOAN OFFICE
59 WEST MITCHELL STREET

Unredeemed men's watches	$ 4.95 up
Good assortment emblem rings	1.95 up
Ukuleles	1.95 up
Accordions, imported	5.95 up
Wardrobe trunks	15.95 up
Rifles and shotguns	5.95 up
Wardrobe trunk and royal robe, $75 value	49.50
Phonographs, unredeemed	10.00 up
Overcoats, unredeemed	5.95 up
Men's suits, unredeemed	5.95 up
Ammunition for all firearms.
Diamond rings	15.00 up
Sewing machines, fine condition	10.00 up

Mail orders requested. Prompt service.
BLUMBERG'S
NEAR TERMINAL STATION

SINGER, WHITE—Sewing machines, practically new, $10 to $50. 142 South Forsyth. WAlnut 7918.

TILT TOP TABLES, fire screens, book shelves, finished or unfinished. Place Christmas orders early. Hughes Wood Turning company, 224 Lake avenue.

COMPLETE Globe-Wernicke bookcase, half price. Telephone HEmlock 1698-W.

$390—SAGINAW auto trailer camping outfit cheap. 11 Lillian street, phone WEst 1564.

Building Materials 53

BATHTUBS, $30; closets, $18; sinks, $3; lumber, sash, doors, brick, real cheap. Salvage Co., 90 Courtland, WAlnut 0880.

FLOORING, $27.50; ceiling $28.00; framing, $20.00 and up; 8x7x1⅛, two-panel doors, $4.00; smaller sizes for less money; 28x28x1⅛ CR 12-lt. windows, $2.65; smaller sizes for less money. Massell Lumber Company, 26 Jones avenue. IVy 4276.

THE PROFIT you win from the classified section today urges you to read the classified offers every day.

LUMBER—Williams-Flynt Lumber company. Lumber and building materials. 236-250 Elliot St., IVy 1093.

Business & Office Equipment 54

SHIPMAN-WARD Underwoods, $3 down, $5 per month. Quick Service Typewriter Co., phone WAlnut 1618, 16 Peachtree Arcade.

TYPEWRITERS rented, lowest rates, best machines, initial rental applied if purchased; write for special list "A." American Writing Machine company. Established 1850, 22 stores. 135 Peachtree Arcade. WAlnut 2860.

TYPEWRITERS SOLD, rented, repaired, inspected, exchanged. Competent stenographers furnished. Complete service for every kind of typewriter used. Remington Typewriter Company, 38 Luckie street. Phone WAlnut 0815-0816.

STORE, drug and restaurant fixtures, also butcher supplies and equipment. Georgia Store Fixtures company, 41 East Alabama. WAlnut 4160.

PLAYER PIANO—Behning mahogany; cost $800; will sacrifice for $275. Storage. Carder Piano Co., 61 North Pryor.

RADIOS—Brunswick and Victrolas. Phillips & Crew, 181 Peachtree.

VICTROLA—Slightly used; excellent condition. Cable's bargain department, 84 N. Broad St.

ONE old antique piano for sale for best price. Apply to Mrs. Mary C. Dozier, Clinton, S. C., Drawer D.

Seeds, Plants, Flowers 63

EMPEROR BULBS for sale. Extra large bulbs. Phone FAirfax 1254-W.

CALL an ad-taker for classified advertising service.

MERCHANDISE

Business & Office Equipment 54

SAVE $33.50
By Buying This Famous
REGAL REBUILT
ROYAL

This genuine late-model ROYAL typewriter, rebuilt like new, can now be had at a big saving in PRICE to you. Not a second-hand, repainted and repaired machine, but a fully guaranteed REBUILT ROYAL, with new enamel, new nickel and every worn part replaced by a new one.

FOR DEMONSTRATION
CALL, PHONE OR WRITE
QUICK SERVICE TYPEWRITER CO.
16 Arcade Building WAlnut 1618

Good Things to Eat 57

LET me bake your angel food and pound cakes. WAlnut 6476.

Household Goods 59

FURNITURE BARGAINS—Easy terms. Comfort Furniture Company, 150 Whitehall street. WAlnut 7789.

FURNITURE—Simmons beds, wardrobe and dresser for sale cheap. WAlnut 9305.

FURNITURE—All kinds stoves bought and sold. 215 Peters street. MAin 4208.

FURNITURE—Lowest prices; terms. The Favorite Store, 32 Decatur. WAlnut 1339.

GAS heaters, $4.95, tubing free. Frank Hafley, 40 East Hunter. IVy 1978.

THOMPSON BONDED WAREHOUSE—We store everything. Bonded for your protection. Security, service, satisfaction. 441-443 Peachtree street. Phone WAlnut 7541-2.

FOR SALE AT A BARGAIN—Three bedroom suites, living room and dining room suites, porch swing and other pieces of furniture. Leaving town. Must sell at once. HEmlock 4537.

FOR SALE—Dining room furniture, English design, large square table, glass cabinet, buffet chairs; also beautiful new Steinert baby grand piano at sacrifice. HEmlock 1275.

NICE GOLDEN OAK DESK, roller top; kitchen cabinet; gas range; kitchen table, for sale very reasonable. 60 East Fair street.

WE BUY good used household and office furniture. Wonder Furniture Co., WAlnut 7378.

WE BUY AND SELL new and used furniture, etc. Wright Furniture company, 59 East Hunter St., WAlnut 3190.

Jewelry, Watches, Diamonds 60

DIAMOND—Perfect ¼-carat platinum orange-blossom engagement ring, $385.

Machinery and Tools 61

FOR SALE—Almost new complete sawmill outfit, plenty timber for long-time sawing. Call HEmlock 5824.

Musical Merchandise 62

BABY GRAND, new; sacrifice. Walter Hughes Piano Co., 86 North Pryor street.

BAND AND ORCHESTRA INSTRUMENTS Everything Musical—Mail Orders Solicited RITTER MUSIC CO., 54 Auburn Avenue

PIANO—Steinway upright; price $200, cost $500. DEarborn 1760-J, 123 College place.

PIANO—Slightly used. Visit Cable's bargain department. 84 North Broad street.

PIANO TUNING—By experts. WAlnut 9056. Edico Piano Co., 241 Peachtree St.

PIANO—Mahogany, upright grand; fine for school or church; deep full tone; splendid condition; $175. HEmlock 5731-W.

PIANO BARGAINS
SELECT your piano or player piano. Do it now. Make a small deposit and have it delivered for Xmas. Come in and let us demonstrate our wonderful players. Howard Bros. & Co., 45 Houston street.

PIANOS—

THIS WEEK'S BARGAINS AT CABLE'S

Knabe Upright	$275.00
Everett Upright	50.00
Fischer Upright	75.00
Kimball Upright	125.00
Poole Upright	195.00
Apt. Grand	395.00
Apt. Grand (like new)	475.00
Knabe Grand	500.00
Chickering Upright (Like new)	425.00
Electric Reproducer (Like new)	650.00

Terms as low as $1.50 a week.
CABLE PIANO COMPPANY
84 N. Broad Street WAlnut 1041

Seeds, Plants, Flowers 63

FRUIT, shade and ornamental trees, rose bushes, berry plants and grass seed. Lawn work our specialty. Capital City Nursery, 33 South Pryor. WAlnut 7474.

LOMBARDY poplars, maples, evergreens, roses, peonies, fruit trees, grape vines, strawberry plants; prices right. The Cureton Nurseries, Austell, Ga.

PAPER-SHELL PECAN TREES for sale; early-bearing trees; world's largest pecan nursery. Quality and satisfaction guaranteed. Write for catalogue. Bass Pecan company, Lumberton, Miss.

Roses, two-year-old, field grown
Twelve varieties, $5.50.
Fruit trees, ornamental trees and shrubs
EMPIRE NURSERY AND SEED CO.
32 East Hunter street. WAlnut 6344.

STEEL'S GIANT PANSIES, finest grown, 100 for $1.25. Jefferson Park Greenhouse, East Point, Ga., FAirfax 1501-J.

Wearing Apparel 65

HEAVY OVERCOAT for sale, practically new, for $30. HEmlock 2211.

Wanted—To Buy 66

BOOKS WANTED—Entire private libraries; desirable books in any quantities; modern popular novels always needed. Treat's Book Shop, 92 North Forsyth street. IVy 0452.

FURNITURE—We pay cash for used furniture. C. J. Collins Furniture Company, 196 Marietta Street. Cal. IVy 7164.

POP CORN POPPER wanted: Possession model. Write D. W. Taft, 760 Marietta street.

I DESIRE to purchase old publications issued and badges made before 1885 of the Kappa Alpha fraternity. Address Leroy S. Boyd, Arlington P. O., Virginia.

Rooms With Board 67

11TH, W., 52—Two lovely rooms, private and connecting bath, excellent meals in congenial home. HEmlock 1975-J.

BILTMORE SECTION—Very desirable room with furnace heat, garage; reasonable. HEmlock 4255.

BILTMORE VICINITY—501 West Peachtree, large front room, adjoining bath, steam heat, private family, garage. HEmlock 6316-J.

HIGHLAND, 574—Steam-heated room adjoining bath; business woman or couple; one meal. WAlnut 6827-J.

NORTH AVE., E.—Front room, twin beds, heat, reasonable. Meals. GEneva 8360-J.

NORTH SIDE—Private home, room and board for couple or gentlemen. WAlnut 2592.

NORTH SIDE—Atkins Park, attractive room, board, private home; business couple preferred. HEmlock 0923-W.

NORTH SIDE HOME—Business couple or gentlemen; large front room, private bath, steam heat; morning and evening meal. Phone WAlnut 0122.

NORTH SIDE—Lovely home, splendid location, large, beautiful sunny rooms, private bath. Also few table boarders; rates reasonable. HEmlock 3600.

NORTH SIDE—Room and board for young men, ladies, couples; refined, pleasant surroundings, home-like; good meals. GEneva 8136-J.

PEACHTREE ST., 755—Heat and all conveniences, $8 up. Front rooms.

PEACHTREE, 598—Bright room shared; bath, excellent meals, heat. HEmlock 5262.

PEACHTREE, 911—Nice room, excellent meals, also table boarders. HEmlock 5876.

PEACHTREE ST., 733—Lovely front room, excellent meals; private bath; references required.

PEACHTREE, 869—Large, steam-heated, front room, private bath, refined people. Garage. HEmlock 5153.

PEACHTREE, W., 520—Single and double rooms; home-like; warm, clean; excellent meals. HEmlock 1498-W.

PEACHTREE ROAD, 1423—Front room, nicely furnished; couple or business people. Also room for two gentlemen. Refined surroundings; steam heat. HEmlock 4426.

PEACHTREE ROAD, 1339—Room for two young men, ladies or couple; steam heat, refined and pleasant surroundings. GEneva 8230-J. Mrs. Jennie W. Hill.

Rooms With Board 67

PEACHTREE ST., 762—Large front room, connecting bath. Also roommate for quiet business girl. Excellent meals; steam heat. HEmlock 2280.

PIEDMONT, 704—Nice large room, heat, excellent meals, adjoining bath. HEmlock 4158.

PIEDMONT, 595—Room adjoining bath; heat; conveniences; excellent meals; garage. WAlnut 6935.

PONCE DE LEON AVE.—A delightful home for discriminating people. WAlnut 9305.

PONCE DE LEON, 36—Large, comfortable room, private bath, every convenience; excellent table service. HEmlock 6567-W.

WALTON, 80—Two blocks of P. O.; home-like; $8 and $10 per week.

WEST END—83 Park street, rooms, steam heat; private bath; excellent meals.

WEST END—Gentlemen, couple, business girls; good meals; pleasant surroundings. WEst 3406-J.

WEST END PARK—Room and board for two young men; all conveniences; furnace heat. WEst 0013-J.

WHITEHALL, 323—Attractive, comfortable rooms with board, $7.00 week. WAlnut 9631.

W. PEACHTREE, 312—Single room, double, congenial surroundings; business people, students, transient; best meals; heat, conveniences. Garage.

A COMFORTABLE ROOM, furnace heat, in a nice home and good location. DEarborn 3348-J or DEarborn 0131-J.

ATTRACTIVE, steam-heated room for one gentleman or business girl; private home; excellent meals. HEmlock 0103.

CONGENIAL ROOMMATE for refined business girl; private home; furnace heat. HEmlock 4857.

DESIRABLE ROOM AND BOARD for business couple; also for young lady or gentleman, on car line. HUntley 7659-J.

FURNACE HEAT, home cooking, walking distance, $7 per week. MAin 4475-W. 314 South Pryor street.

LARGE, warm room, with private bath for couple. Adults or family, excellent meals, rates reasonable. 64 Ponce de Leon.

ROOM for two gentlemen, $2.50 and $3 per week; meals if desired. MAin 2738-W.

STEAM-HEATED, attractive, modern, furnished room; splendid meals; hot water and heat constantly; private home. HEmlock 0103. 129 East Sixth, between Juniper and Piedmont.

Rooms Without Board 68

12TH, WEST—Desirable room, private north side home; gentleman; $15. GEneva 8292-J.

ADAIR HOTEL—205 Peachtree street, $1 day up; weekly rates. IVy 8968.

ANSLEY PARK—Steam-heated room, adjoining bath, private family; garage. HEmlock 0088-J.

BAKER, E., 54—Clean steam-heated rooms; refined surroundings; walking distance.

BOULEVARD, N.—Large front room, private home, all conveniences. HEmlock 2092-J.

FIFTH ST., E., 80—Near Peachtree, front room, private home; steam heat. HEmlock 2288-W.

GATE CITY HOTEL—Splendid outside rooms with hot and cold running water, $1 per day; $5 per week. Some outside rooms at $3.50 per week. 108½ South Forsyth street.

HOLDERNESS ST., 288—Room in modern brick bungalow, all conveniences, adjoining bath, heat. Phone WEst 2537-W or WAlnut 6059.

IVY INN—195 Ivy. Very home-like hotel; steam heated, hot water; $1 per day, $5 per week; double rooms, $5 up.

JUNIPER-SEVENTH, 182—Furnished rooms, kitchenette, steam heat, private entrance. HEmlock 2404-J.

NORTH SIDE—New brick bungalow, heated bedroom, furnished; gentleman; private family. HEmlock 2687.

NORTH SIDE—Private home, lovely front room, heat and hot water, $20; Ponce de Leon car. HEmlock 7349-J.

NORTH SIDE—Nicely furnished room, steam heat, all conveniences, garage. 31 East Third street. HEmlock 1622.

CLASSIFIED ADS untie buying and selling knots.

Rooms Without Board 68

PEACHTREE, W., 200—Large front room, bath, heat. HEmlock 5650-J.

PEACHTREE, W., 771—2 nice connecting rooms, private bath, kitchenette, heat.

PEACHTREE, 625—Large rooms, running water, steam heat, garage; gentlemen. HEmlock 7300.

PEACHTREE PLACE, 45—Lovely home, double and single room; references. HEmlock 4792.

PEACHTREE, 1392 — Newly furnished, steam-heated rooms; all conveniences. HEmlock 4402.

PONCE DE LEON, 251—Room in private home; garage, reasonable, conveniences. HEmlock 4142-J.

PONCE DE LEON, 380—Private home, furnished room, heat, plenty of hot water, private bath. Garage. HEmlock 7560-J.

BYRON APT., A-4—Desirable, furnished, steam-heated room. HEmlock 2182-W.

SHELTON HOTEL—Homey home for business and professional men; rates reasonable; grill attached. 14 West Peachtree.

WASHINGTON ST., 589—Five rooms and kitchenette, bath, water heater; screened front and rear porches. Call WAlnut 3585 or IVy 1198.

WEST END—Beautiful, furnished room, connecting bath; meals if desired. WEst 3881-W.

W. PEACHTREE—Large front room, bath; business man; private home; references. HEmlock 2211.

COMFORTABLE ROOM—Connecting bath, close in; gentlemen only. IVy 0836-W.

FURNISHED ROOMS—Single or double; private and connecting baths; hotel service, $30, $35, $40. IVy 9524.

FURNISHED ROOM for gentleman in private family; all conveniences; references. MAin 3907.

LARGE BEDROOM—Hot water at all times. WEst 2248-J.

NEAR Gordon and Peeples, nice front room in private home to man. Convenient to car and meals. WEst 1133.

NICE sanitary, steam-heated bedroom, private apartment. Roosevelt Bldg., Juanita Newsom, HEmlock 4793-J.

Rooms for Housekeeping 69

CAPITOL AVE., 396—Three very attractive housekeeping rooms; garage; all modern conveniences.

CAPITOL VIEW—Two large rooms, kitchenette, water, lights, phone; no children; with owner. 106 De Soto Ave., WEst 3537-J.

COLUMBIA AVE., 46—Two furnished connecting rooms; kitchenette, bath. HEmlock 7460-J.

COURTLAND, 321—Two furnished housekeeping rooms; sink; near Forrest. Owner, WAlnut 1631.

CREW ST., 266—Attractive rooms for light housekeeping; all conveniences. MAdison 5785-J.

DECATUR—3 unfurnished rooms, sleeping porch, front porch, private entrance, modern conveniences; attractive location; couple only. DEarborn 3022.

FORMWALT, 38—One large room, walking distance, $5 week. Two rooms, sink, $5 week. HEmlock 4384.

GRANT PARK SECTION—Two rooms, sleeping porch, private entrance, lights, phone, $18. By owner, 103 Broyles street. MAin 5403-J.

GRANT ST., 317—First and second floor, four unfurnished rooms, all conveniences, private entrance, good location, near E. Georgia Ave.

INMAN PARK—Two connecting rooms, lights, water, telephone, $16.50. IVy 0965-W.

NORTH SIDE—Three unfurnished rooms in home with couple. Conveniences. WAlnut 9801.

NORTH SIDE—Two rooms and kitchenette, furnished, private home. Garage. HEmlock 2853.

PEACHTREE, W., 267—Two unfurnished rooms; lights, water, phone, $15 month; also garage.

PEACHTREE, W., 267—Three connecting rooms adjoining bath; lights, water, phone, $18; garage.

ROSSER ST., 11—Three connecting rooms, sink; to couple. WEst 2646-J.

Rooms for Housekeeping 69

SOUTH PRYOR, 442—Comfortable rooms for housekeeping; all conveniences. Call Madison 5782-J.

ST. CHARLES AVE., 229—3, 4 or 5 rooms, furnished or unfurnished. Hot water, lights, phone, garage. GEneva 8233-J.

SPRING, 570—Fronting Biltmore; large clean room with kitchenette; running water; adults.

WASHINGTON ST., 201—Nicely furnished room and kitchenette for light housekeeping. Sink.

FOUR rooms and bath, hot anad cold water, furnace heat, desirable location, $25 per month. WEst 0099-W.

FURNISHED ROOM and kitchenette; adults only. 292 Rawson street. MAin 1142-W.

FURNISHED rooms for light housekeeping. 306 South Pryor. MAin 2063-J.

NEAR TECH SCHOOL—Large front room, kitchenette, garage, $12.50. HEmlock 4088-J.

QUIET HOME, close in, unfurnished, 3 rooms, private bath. 66 East Ellis street.

TWO rooms, and kitchen. Owner, phone, bright and clean, $25. WAlnut 6685.

Where To Dine 71

CAPITOL AVE., 366—Men boarders wanted. Private home.

DELICIOUS PIES, home-made, Ruse & Cason's famous. Served now at Chamber of Commerce cafe and Kimball House.

GOOD FOOD, correct service. To please you is our aim. Forsyth Cafe, Forsyth and Alabama streets.

THE CRICKET—At 100 Tenth street, serves delicious, home-cooked meals.

Wanted—Rooms or Board 73

ONE unfurnished room wanted. Must be close in. Address W-532, Constitution.

WANTED—Three unfurnished rooms within block of St. Charles, beyond ball park. HEmlock 6130-J.

YOUNG MAN desires room and breakfast with private family. Must have every modern convenience. State particulars. Address W-835, Constitution.

Apartments—Furnished 74

BILTMORE SECTION—Four rooms, bath, shower, oriental rugs,

Economy Keeps Close to the Classified Section---and to Those Who Read It

REAL ESTATE FOR RENT

Apartments—Furnished 74

130 MYRTLE ST, cor. E Third (2nd floor), an exceptionally attractive 4-room apartment, furnished; also included, electric lights, heat, gas, water and garage. See Mrs. Austin, Apt. 128, or H. L. Fincher, Agt., 610-11, Peters building.

Apartments—Unfurnished 74A

ANSLER PARK—Five rooms, first floor, $65. 185 Westminster drive, apartment 2. HEmlock 0858-W.

CHATHAM COURT—Piedmont and Third; 4-5 rooms; prices right. HEmlock 8152.

DECATUR—Beautiful four and five-room apartments, in Columbus court, with heat, water and janitor service. New. On East Ponce de Leon avenue on North Decatur car line, close to everything in Decatur. Sutton & Roberts, DEarborn 0425.

EAST ATLANTA—Upstairs apartment for rent; all conveniences, private bath. 500 South Moreland avenue.

ELLIS, 88—Entire third floor, six spacious rooms, rate half. WAlnut 1447.

GLENWOOD, 331—Four rooms. E. Rivers Realty Co., WAlnut 3064.

HIGHLAND AVE., 593-95—Apartments, $35 and $45. Call Huiet, WAlnut 2534.

HIGHLAND AVE., 1344—Attractive new first floor 4-room duplex, front and rear porches, heat furnished, garage. HEmlock 1059-J.

NORTH SIDE—Duplex; seven large, light rooms, lower floor, steam heat, all modern conveniences, corner Highth and Myrtle streets. Apply owner, 298 Myrtle street.

PEACHTREE, 2525—Eight rooms, two baths, heat, servant's room, garage. HEmlock 4244-J.

PEACHTREE, 1841—New, steam-heated, 3, 4 and 5-room apartments; porch, garage, Murphy beds, breakfast suite, refrigerator, electric range, table. Apt. B-4, GEneva 8093-R.

PIEDMONT AVE., 928—Will sublet seven-room apartment at a sacrifice; facing Piedmont park. HEmlock 0859-J.

PONCE DE LEON—Modern, five-room, front, back porches; reduced. HEmlock 2996.

THE ST. CHARLES—Druid Hills section, beautiful five and six-room front apartments; porches, every modern convenience; No. 359 St. Charles avenue. Phone HEmlock 0846.

WEST END—Three rooms, bath. 119 Oglethorpe, near Peeples. WEst 1284-J.

WEST END PARK—Newly decorated, two rooms, kitchenette, private bath, front, back porch, private entrance, no children. WEst 0175.

APARTMENTS

IN OUR personally owned apartment buildings we have one or two vacancies in each of our 10 buildings which are located in the most choice north side residential sections, consisting from two-room kitchenette apartments to six rooms, large and handsome apartments. All are beautifully finished inside and are kept up to the highest degree of efficiency and neatness and tenants are most carefully selected, and then their wants are looked after as only an owner can give. The locations are: 1010, 1108, 1291 Peachtree street; 883 West Peachtree and Third street, between Juniper and Piedmont avenue, and 601, 607 and 775 Piedmont avenue. All rentals are conservative.
FITZHUGH KNOX & SONS,
Realtors, 215 Peachtree street.

BEAUTIFUL upper, in owner's home; five rooms, sun parlor, steam heat, references. HEmlock 2333-W after 4:30 week days.

CAN RENT YOU 3, 4 or 5 rooms and bath. WEst 1405-J.

COLONIAL — Delightful and comfortable apartment with six large rooms, porch and garage, $100 per month. Confidential inducements will be offered extra desirable lessee. References required. Call owner, HEmlock 0362-W.

DESIRABLE second-floor, north side duplex, five rooms and inclosed porch, $65. With all conveniences. HEmlock 0961, or WAlnut 4308.

FIVE rooms, private entrances, verandas, furnace heated, $45 heat, $35 without grate stoves, water. 126 Peeples. WEst 8436-W.

FOR RENT—6 tinted room apartment, $25. Dr. E. L. Connally. WEst 0055.

LIVINGSTON APT.—95 East North avenue, three and four rooms, all modern, steam heat, janitor service; no lease; references required. Apply owner, apartment 9-2.

MODERN APT.—Steam heat, hot water, janitor service; very reasonable. MAin 4754.

NEW UPPER DUPLEX—Boulevard Park. Very pretty place. No children. WAlnut 3551.

RENT FREE December 1. 227 North Jackson, four rooms, bath, $35 month.

SPECIAL PRICE—

TWO five-room apartments, Nos. 371-373 Spring street, for immediate acceptance, $25 each. Call at our office before 10 o'clock Monday.

W. L. AND JOHN O. DUPREE
107 Marietta Street

SUBLEASE first-floor apartment, seven rooms, two baths, three verandas, heat, hot water, garage; beautiful property, best neighborhood; 2 car lines. Phone HEmlock 3275.

THREE ROOMS and kitchenette, unfurnished, first floor private home. Telephone, light and water, and furnace heat. Call WEst 1505.

UPPER apartment in duplex, lower occupied by owner; first-class condition, heat furnished. HEmlock 3038.

3, 4 and 5 ROOMS—Private bath, all modern conveniences, close in, priced right. W. S. McNeal, 49 Windsor street, WAlnut 6427.

449 Jonesboro Road, 3-room apt.... $16
426 N. Jackson St., 3-room apt.....$40-$50
100 Hunt St., 4-room apt. $45
491 N. Jackson St., 4-room apt..... $50
426 N. Jackson St., 4-room apt.....$50-$55
331 Glenwood Ave., 4-room apt. ....$35-$40
343 S. Pryor St., 4-room apt..... $25
247-A E. Fifth St., 5-room apt..... $30
491 N. Jackson St., 5-room apt..... $60

E. RIVERS REALTY CO.
209 Palmer Building WAlnut 3064

Business Places for Rent 75

WAREHOUSES

ON W. & A. RAILROAD at the Bellwood avenue bridge and close to Marietta street, known as 166 Means street, have just finished a warehouse or factory, fireproof, consisting of about 10,000 square feet, that is suitable for storage, manufacturing or any purposes. The rental is very conservative.
FITZHUGH KNOX & SONS,
Realtors, 215 Peachtree street.

Farms and Land for Rent 76

DAIRY AND TRUCK FARM—Close in, west side; 12 acres in cultivation, 20 in pasture. Call MAin 0326, MAin 4560-W; write 127 Cherokee Ave.

FOR RENT— Nice dairy farm; 40-cow barn; all conveniences. Gordon anad Hightower road. See W. B. Cox, WEst 3282-M.

REAL ESTATE FOR RENT

Farms and Land for Rent 76

THE LAND in front of the carving on the steep side of Stone Mountain, also tea house. Address Venable Brothers, 1219 Atlanta Trust Company building.

Houses for Rent, Furnished 77

DRUID HILLS—Lovely home on Oakdale road, 4 bedrooms, 2 baths; to responsible party. DEarborn 2806-J.

DRUID HILLS—Spanish home, built of tile and cement, four bedrooms, two baths, large, elevated lot; the prettiest and best-built house in the north side of its size. A real bargain at $25,000. HEmlock 2792.

INMAN PARK—Neatly furnished home-like steam heated rooms, excellentt meals. IVy 0825-J.

LAWTON, 142—Modern, eight-room bungalow, furnace heat, garage. Call WEst 0718.

A NEW seven-room brick, side drive, Arcola heat, good section. WEst 1405-J.

A NEW HOME, nicely furnished, Arcola heat, garage; all conveniences. WEst 1405-J.

ATTRACTIVE HOME—9 rooms, two baths, garage, West Peachtree; reduced. HEmlock 1289-J.

EIGHT rooms, private home, 114 East Seventeenth street; best section of Atlanta. Owner, HEmlock 1419-J.

Houses for Rent, Unfurnished 77A

AUGUSTA AVE., 91—Six rooms, bath, $35. 61 Dodd, T. rooms, bath, $20. IVy 4613.

CHEROKEE AVE., 140—Nice, modern, two-story house, reasonable, vacant December 10. DEarborn 2841.

DECATUR, GA.—Upper and lower duplex, six rooms, $50. 524 West College avenue. DEarborn 0515-W.

DRUID HILLS DUPLEX, $60; SIX ROOMS, 65 ROSEDALE ROAD. CALL WALNUT 4071.

HARRIS ST., E., 91—Five rooms, bath, garage, electricity, $27.50. HEmlock 4088-J.

REAL ESTATE FOR RENT

Houses for Rent, Unfurnished 77A

HIGHLAND AVE., 1102—Look at it, lower duplex, separate, new finish, special price. Call owner, WAlnut 1437.

HOPE ST., 37—Upper duplex, four rooms, front and back porches, water and lights furnished, $25. WEst 1223-J.

NORTH SIDE—Six-room brick, Arcola, $55. Five-room duplex, $37.50. WAlnut 3984.

ORMOND ST., 156—$28 per month. Five-room house, bath, gas, electric lights and car line. H. J. Cranshaw, WAlnut 1551.

PARK ST., 84—Six rooms, $45. L. F. Chapman Realty Co., WEst 0036.

PEACHTREE, 2757—Elegant corner brick, ten rooms, three baths, shower, steam heat, hardwood floors, double garage, $150 month. 768 N. Boulevard, corner, 10 rooms, $75, garage: Peachtree, 1918, 10 rooms, 2 baths, triple garage, perfect condition, $110; Juniper, between Eighth and Tenth streets, 10 rooms, 3 baths, double garage, freshly tinted, painted, reduced rent, $85; also 243 Juniper street, $75. Look them over. Call HEmlock 0989-J.

PENN AVE.—Attractive 7-room brick home; very desirable. Call HEmlock 5709-J.

PLUM ST., 203—Five rooms and bath, near Luckie St. car line, Tech and O'Keefe schools. Peters Land Co., 610-11 Peters Bldg.

WOODWARD AVE., 392—Five rooms, every convenience, near car line, $26. Apply 73 Hill.

W. PEACHTREE, 309—8 rooms, 2 baths, excellent condition. Call WAlnut 2723.

WEST END HOME—Good condition; all conveniences; reasonable. Near car. HEmlock 2921-W.

SOUTH GORDON, 148—Five-room house; all conveniences. WEst 2966-R.

BEAUTIFUL, modern, 7-room bungalow on East Merritts avenue, for $35 per month. E. L. Harling, WAlnut 5620.

BRICK COTTAGE—Very desirable, convenient to car line, schools and churches. WEst 1049.

MY HOME—68 Windsor street, three bedrooms, living room, dining room, kitchen, large hall, rear porch, glassed in; furnace heat. A real home, priced right. W. S. McNeal, WAlnut 6427.

NEAR PIEDMONT PARK — Seven-room house; rent, $35, by owner. GEneva 8250-J.

ONE FIVE-ROOM house with all modern conveniences within two blocks of three car lines on paved street; rent cheap; phone MAin 1537 or apply to Foster D. Smith, 82 Ridge Ave.

ROOMING HOUSE—

EIGHTEEN rooms, four bath rooms, excellent location on north side. Immediate possession at only $100.

W. L. & JOHN O. DuPREE,
107 Marietta street.

SEVEN-ROOM brick, on car line, with all conveniences, $65. WEst 1405-J.

16 ACRES, two houses, for rent, in city limits. L. C. Greene, 101 Marietta street, WAlnut 1147.

Office Space for Rent 78

CANDLER BUILDING, Forsyth building, Candler annex, desirable offices, single and en suite. Service and location the best. Excellent values. Asa G. Candler, Jr., agent, 1710 Candler building, phone WAlnut 3970. Mr. Wilkinson, Mr. Clegg.

PEACHTREE ARCADE—Offices, display rooms and shops, $30 and up. Garage, postoffice, information desk and every service under one roof.

OFFICE FOR RENT at reduced rental. 805 Forsyth building.

OFFICES—Peters building, 7 Peachtree street, center of city; midway between federal and state courts. Peters Land Co., suite 610-11.

OFFICES for rent, 100 feet Peachtree. Holleman Realty Company, 10 Auburn avenue, WAlnut 5514.

Suburban for Rent 80

DECATUR property for rent or sale. O'Neal & McLain, Inc. DEarborn 0148.

WEYMAN & CONNORS—Jno. O. Childs, manager rent department. 624 Grant building. WAlnut 2162-6.

Wanted—To Rent 81

WANTED—To rent from owner, 4 to 10 acres, with good house; cash rent. Evart Chersher, Villa Rica, Ga., R. No. 3.

YOUNG COUPLE, permanently located in Atlanta and with best of references, wish to care for home during owner's absence for rent. Address W-836, Constitution.

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE

Brokers in Real Estate R

ADAMS-CATES CO.—204 Grant building. WAlnut 5477.

ATLANTA Trust Company, real estate department. Atlanta Trust Company Bldg.

BURDETT REALTY CO.—We negotiate any kind of real estate problems.

BERRY COLLINS & CO.—63 North Broad street. WAlnut 2200.

COLUMBIA Trust & Realty Company, 401 Metropolitan building. WAlnut 2550.

GRANT-JETER CO.—Ground floor. Grant building. Forsyth street entrance. WAlnut 1000.

GRAVES, A.—Sells homes, lots, rents property and farms. 124 Wall street.

HARRIS, FLORENCE M.—Real Estate, 420 Atlanta Trust Company building. WAlnut 7517. "Prompt Personal Service Assured."

MERCHANTS & MECHANICS BANK—33 North Forsyth street. WAlnut 1600.

NUTTING, J. R., & CO.—1001 Georgia Savings Bank building. WAlnut 0136.

PONDER REALTY COMPANY, 807 Grant building, agents for "Cascade Heights."

ROGERS, L. W., REALTY & TRUST CO.—219-23 Atlanta Trust building. WAlnut 4100.

SHARP & BOYLSTON—36 Luckie street. WAlnut 2930.

SALES, LEASES, LOANS—Haas & Howell, Real Estate Department. Haas-Howell building. WAlnut 3111.

SMITH, J. R. & M. S. RANKIN, real estate and rents. 66½ N. Forsyth street.

THROWER, M. L. — 24 Walton street. WAlnut 0163.

TRUST COMPNAY OF GEORGIA.—Real estate and renting. WAlnut 1671.

TURMAN-BROWN CO.—210 Georgia Savings Bank building. WAlnut 4274.

WAGAR & CO., INC.—"Home Builders," 208-10 Wynne-Claughton Bldg., WAlnut 7913.

WYNNE REALTY CO.—202 Wynne-Claughton building. WAlnut 0996.

Farms and Lands For Sale 83

BUY AND SELL your farms through Sutton & Robarts. Call DEarborn 0425, ask for Mr. Flake, Farm Department.

DAIRY AND TRUCK FARM—130 acres; good improvements; fertile land; 30 minutes' drive from Atlanta. Owner will sacrifice. J. R. Allen, Gainesville, Ga., 15 Candler street.

FOR SALE OR RENT—Farm 1,176 acres, near Blythe, Burke county, 18 miles from Augusta. Has 18 tenant houses. Write P. O. Box 437, Atlanta, Ga.

FOR SALE OR TRADE—400 acres, with ideal home, outbuilding, level land; fine for cotton, tobacco or stock farm; close to good town. Artesian Realty Co., Richland, Georgia.

FOR SALE—7,560 ACRES GOOD FARM LAND, LOCATED IN CALHOUN COUNTY, FLORIDA. RIGHT TO REMOVE TIMBER RESERVED FOR FOUR YEARS. LAND LOCATED ON SPLENDID ROADS IN RAPIDLY DEVELOPING SECTION OF FLORIDA. PRICE $25. WILL ACCEPT UNENCUMBERED ATLANTA PROPERTY AS PART PAYMENT. ADDRESS HAM LUMBER COMPANY, CHIPLEY, FLA.

GOOD six-room plastered house on 2 acres in lots, orchard, well, etc., in good railroad town with high school; also 65 acres good land ¼ mile out, all for $1,100, $500 cash. No trades; 70 miles Atlanta. D. E. Chenvront, Heflin, Ala.

GRAVEL LAND—21 acres near C. & W. C. railway with right-of-way to railroad ½ road gravel, ½ sand gravel; very little overburden. Otis Brabham, Allendale, S. C.

L. H. WARLICK, College Park, Ga., buys and sell farm lands and city property. FAirfax 1825.

OPPORTUNITY!—Grab this 77½ acres N. C. mountain plateau, ideal home, scenery unequal, productive soil, fruit belt, close to 3 mountain developments destined to become world renown. Must sell. Gatewood, 2330 Queen St., Winston-Salem, N. C.

TRUTH ABOUT FLORIDA—Florida Realty Digest, Florida's big development journal gives reliable state-wide Florida facts, agriculture, climatic, real estate, business opportunities, colonization projects, etc. Sample copy free. Florida Realty Digest, 1424 Franklin St., Tampa, Fla.

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE

Farms and Lands For Sale 83

WE SPECIALIZE IN FARMS—Ben Roan, 609 Flatiron building. IVy 5862.

180 ACRES land in dairy section of DeKalb county, 10 miles Atlanta, $9,000. Fletcher Pearson, Decatur, Ga.

20,000 ACRES virgin timber in fee in Tennessee. Logging facilities good. Will average 8,000 feet per acre. 60% oak, 30% poplar, 10% cherry and other woods. Property 12 miles from railroad with good grade. Price $20 per acre in fee. J. M. Presgraves, owner, 204 Richmond street, Baltimore, Md.

Florida Property For Sale 83A

BARGAIN IN FLORIDA LOTS

FOR best of reasons must sacrifice six fine Florida lots at a price that will net buyer a big profit. Cash required only $300, balance small monthly payments. Address W-825, Constitution.

FLORIDA WATERFRONT, 78 acres, 3,500 feet on Gulf of Mexico, in the same district as the enormous 27,000-acre development Brotherhood Locomotive Engineers. Terms ¼ cash, balance 4 years. Write or wire for information. Keith-Hayward-Caven Agency, Hotel Watrous Bldg., Sarasota, Fla.

FLORIDA—A complete handbook. Reliable information on crops, soils, climate, schools, churches, population, roads, railroads, bank deposits and real estate. Every county treated. Later statistics. Size 8x11; 69 maps; 420 pages. Full of lovely views of Florida scenery. Price $2 a copy, including cost of mailing. To the right man exclusive sales agency for the Atlanta district will be given under most attractive conditions. Rufus R. Wilson, Publisher, Orlando, Fla.

REAL ESTATE AGENCY

CALAVISTA SUBDIVISION

Ocala, Marion County, Florida.

LOCATED on both sides of the Dixie highway, one mile north of city limits. All high and dry, beautifully wooded. Owned by Detroit realtors and associates. Planned by Detroit's city planner. A 2,500-lot development. Prices extremely reasonable. Here is a real development that can be quickly sold. We need Atlanta representation. Liberal commissions in cash to right party.

Address

LEINBACH-HUMPHREY COMPANY

REALTORS

1139 Griswold St., Detroit, Mich.

Houses for Sale 84

COPENHILL AVE., 138—Six-room house, $500 cash, $40 monthly. WAlnut 2411.

DECATUR—Beautiful new brick bungalow. This little home has never been occupied; has living room, dining room, 2 bedrooms, sleeping porch, breakfast room, tile bath, furnace. This is a rare bargain, $6,750. DEarborn 2457-M.

DRUID HILLS—Spanish home, built of tile and cement, 4 bedrooms, 2 baths, large, elevated lot; the prettiest and best-built house in the north side of its size. A real bargain at $25,000. HEmlock 2792.

HENDRIX AVE., 68—Seven-room house, $100 cash, $35 monthly. WAlnut 2411.

HURT ST., 116—Two-story duplex, $500 cash, $50 monthly. WAlnut 2411.

INMAN PARK—Seven-room brick house, $500 cash, $50 monthly. WAlnut 2411.

NORTH SIDE—Semi-central investment. 30x100, five room, bargain, $2,750, terms. Gibbs, 606 Gould building. WAlnut 2342.

NORTH SIDE—Beautiful brick bungalow, with all conveniences, in best section of Boulevard Park, owner leaving the city, says submit offer. If you want a good home at a bargain, investigate this one. H. J. Cranshaw, 601 Rhodes building. WAlnut 1551.

PEACHTREE ST., 29—Way for sale at a sacrifice. 441 Peachtree street. WAlnut 7541.

PEACHTREE HEIGHTS SECTION—10-room duplex, reduced $11,500 to $9,000. HEmlock 4088-J.

PETERS PARK—"Atlanta's near-in home section;" west of Atlanta's new Biltmore hotel. Peters Land Co., 610 Peters Bldg.

SYLVAN HILLS

YOUR LAST CHANCE to buy a Hopkins bungalow in Sylvan Hills this year. No. 99 Katherwood drive, all improvements down and paid for. Thoroughly modern. One thousand dollars reward if you will find another bungalow like this one in Georgia. It's different—cozy, neat, attractive, conveniently arranged, homelike. You'll be crazy about it as soon as you see it. We build them; I sell them; I give you the benefit of the difference, $40 to $50 month; reasonable cash payment. Will take your vacant lot as part pay. P. B. Hopkins, IVy 8481.

VIRGINIA HIGHLAND SECTION—6-room brick, elevated lot, $5,950, has furnace, and all conveniences.

PEACHTREE HEIGHTS—Attractive new 6-room board bungalow, $4,750. Mr. Rambo. WAlnut 2260.

WHITEFOORD, S., 191—Large five-room bungalow, terms. Owner, HEmlock 7602-J.

A REAL HOME
FOR YOU

IN AVONDALE ESTATES—surrounded by facilities for every enjoyable outdoor recreation—ornamented with care by landscape experts; made safe for all the future by careful restrictions; we offer a beautiful home-place of our own distinctive type at the surprisingly low price of $10,850—really worth $12,500.

THIS home, No. 10 Kensington Road, has so many unusual features that it must be seen to be appreciated. The lot is 70 by 225—terraced—beautiful view. Let us show you its spacious living room and dining room; three large sleeping rooms with ample closet space; airy kitchen, with tile drainboards and built-in cabinet; tiled bath with ornamented waterproof walls, and many other special features. Good terms can be made. Call Mr. Owen for appointment. DEarborn 3231.

CHARMING new 6-room home; very easy. 106 Beecher. Owner, WAlnut 5922.

EQUITY in six-room bungalow, occupied 10 months, hardwood floors throughout, all modern conveniences, concrete street, good home neighborhood, half block North Decatur car; considerable sacrifice. Owner, W-977, Constitution.

FOR SALE—Six-room bungalow, one block Ponce de Leon. HEmlock 6433-W.

FOR SALE CHEAP—Kirkwood; new frame bungalow; all conveniences; block cars; owner. DEarborn 1818-J. E. A. Gilliam.

FOUR-ROOM HOUSE AND 17 ACRES for sale, fine land, half in cultivation, on highway, 2½ miles College Park; just the place you've been looking for, $2,000. Act quick. This is worth more money. L. H. Warlick, College Park, Fairfax 1825; 6 to 9, 1154-W.

HOUSES built or bought, first month's pay like rent; white or colored; mail card with address for information. E. A. Henderson, P. O. Box 1062, Atlanta, Ga.

HOMES without loans. W. D. Beatie, 221 Trust Company of Georgia building. WAlnut 2811.

LOOK AT THESE—

530 Ponce de Leon Place, Decatur, 6 rooms and breakfast room, hardwood floors, tile bath, Arcola heat, 60-foot lot with two garages, back lot fenced. Price $6,500, with cash payment of $500. Small monthly notes.

397 East Georgia avenue, duplex sure for future enhancement, will sell for $250 cash and $40 per month. Price $6,750.

MORRIS CONSTRUCTION CO.,
815 Forsyth Bldg. WAlnut 2740.

LOT, 100x300, just off Peachtree, $5,500. Smith Bennett, WAlnut 1511.

MUST SELL at once equity modern bungalow; might consider car or lot as part. Best part Decatur. DEarborn 1989-J.

NEW five-room bungalow, hardwood floors, concrete street, near Ashby street; $200 cash, balance easy. HEmlock 2600-W. Owner.

SEE A HOPKINS bungalow, Sylvan Hills. They are different. IVy 8481.

WANTED—Six-room brick in West End. Give full particulars. Address F-102, Constitution.

WE will sell you a home like rent. Box Z. care Constitution.

WILL DEVELOP your vacant lot on easy payment plan. L. C. Smith, Phone WAlnut 1643.

$2,500 FOR $4,000 EQUITY in six-room duplex, in East Point, Ga., on Pine street; leaving for Florida. Owner, 41 Coolidge avenue, Boulevard Park.

Property for Colored. 84A

LINCOLN HILLS.
Visit the Home Beautiful.
Sold on Easy Terms.
711 West Hunter Street.
Southeastern Trust Co., WAl. 1106.

Property for Colored. 84A

W. NORTH AVENUE, 434—Six rooms, two baths, paved street. Price $2,100; some terms. W. O. May, 401 Austell building.

HIGH-CLASS six-room dwelling on Clark street near Martin street. All conveniences and garage. Phone WAlnut 1450.

HOMES for sale on Summit and Johnson avenues. John S. Allen, WAlnut 5129, 200 Auburn.

$3,850—$200 cash; 5-room house. See Mr. Smith at 484 W. Hunter St.

$50 CASH, $25 monthly, no loan, nearly new bungalow, west side, price $2,000. W. O. May, 401 Austell building.

$4,000—$500 cash; 5 rms., all conveniences.
$3,750—$300 cash; 5 rms., all conveniences.
$3,950—$200 cash, 5 rms., all conveniences.
$2,900—$200 cash; 6 rms., all conveniences.
$1,750—$150 cash, 4 rms., all conveniences.
SEE MR SMITH.
484 West Hunter St. Ph. Madison 5742-R.

Lots For Sale 85

AVONDALE ESTATES.

BETTER homes at less cost. WAlnut 7595; DEarborn 0176.

CHATTAHOOCHEE RIVER—45 acres for $4,500. C. L. Greene, WAlnut 4308.

BEAUTIFUL LOT near Emory university, on which will build and finance a home for you. Easy terms. HEmlock 3845-W.

CLEAR city lots for equity in improved city property. Call Mr. Linton, WAlnut 3637. WEst 2373-J.

VACANT LOT OWNERS—

LET US BUILD YOUR HOME. NO CASH PAYMENT REQUIRED. THE SOUTHERN STATES CONSTRUCTION CO., 210, 101 MARIETTA BLDG. WAlnut 8961.

Suburban—For Sale 87

SACRIFICE—LEFT CITY.

BEAUTIFUL country home near city, 10 acres, modern including electricity and sewerage, four-room servants' quarters, barns, springs, swimming pool, etc., cost $13,000. Make me an offer. Terms. Address W-837, Constitution.

To Exchange—Real Estate 88

PEACHTREE ROAD HOME—Most attractive, small 2-story brick home on road, near Andrews drive. Has 8 rooms, sun parlor and breakfast room; beautiful corner lot. Price $25,000. Will take small farm, $5,000 or $6,000, free of debt, as part payment with little cash. Terms.

BROOKHAVEN CLUB SECTION—Right at club, a wonderful bungalow; 6 rooms and sleeping porch; lot 147x300, beautifully shaded. Price $12,000. Will take small piece of renting property as part payment.

DRUID HILLS HOME—One of the best built homes to be found; 2-story brick with tile roof; 8 rooms and sun parlor, breakfast room; a beauty. Price $20,000. Will take as part payment a little bungalow, brick preferred. See us if you mean business.
RALPH B. MARTIN CO.
Atlanta Trust Building WAlnut 0627

SUMMER COTTAGE—Trade for farm. Owner, 1003 Fourth National Bank building.

GET ACTION on your property for sale. List with us. Hood Realty Company, 229-1 Candler building. WAlnut 5256.

Wanted—Real Estate 89

FLORIDA real estate, any location. Selwyn, Inc., 1115 Healey Bldg., Atlanta, Georgia.

FLORIDA PROPERTY WANTED—Give legal description and price. 910 Hurt building, Atlanta, Ga.

FAILURE does not make any desperate attempts to connect with the man who safeguards his future by reading the classified columns.

IF YOU want to sell or rent your property, call H. J. Cranshaw, WAlnut 1551.

NEGRO PROPERTY—Will pay cash for all; yields big income. WAlnut 2803.

WANTED—Six or seven-room home, West End or north side. Cash for equity. J. H. McNesser, 516 Atl. Tr. Bldg. WAl. 5529.

WANTED—Brick or frame bungalow, all conveniences, for client. Freeman Realty Company, WAlnut 0859.

WANTED—Long Island acreage. Cleared or wooded. Send diagrams. Marquand, 1562 Fulton street, Brooklyn, New York.

Auction Sales 90

OGLESBY REALTY AUCTION COMPANY. Ansley hotel. John P. Oglesby, manager.

PIERCE-CLARK AUCTION COMPANY, 227 Candler building. WAlnut 1000.

MAKE it a daily habit to read all the classified ads.

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Announcements

CUSTIS N. ANDERSON
Lawyer
Practice in All Courts
Specialties—Corporation, Commercial, Real Estate and Bankruptcy Law
713-14-15-16-17 Citizens & Southern Bank Building
Atlanta, Georgia

Rentals

Pallas Apartments
1295 Peachtree Street

FOR RENT AT REDUCED RATES—Apartments from 4 to 9 rooms, including garage space. The finest location in the city. This building is located 150 feet from the street. All the apartments have two or three exposures and run from the front to the rear of the building, which gives perfect ventilation. All rooms are very large and have two or three windows. The apartments range from four rooms and bath to nine rooms and three baths. The apartments will be shown by the janitor or call WAlnut 3015.

FOR RENT
WAREHOUSE SPACE

24 STEWART AVENUE—Two floors, Southern railroad tracks; 12,000 square feet. Will rent separate. Low price, good lease.

552 MARIETTA STREET—Two-story brick, 90x30. Railroad front. We offer a most attractive proposition here.

J. R. Smith & M. S. Rankin
66½ N. FORSYTH ST.

Reduced Apartment Rates

WE HAVE A NUMBER OF HIGH-CLASS APARTMENTS on which we have substantial reduction.

CALL US UP TOMORROW and let us send our representative out with you.

RENT DEPARTMENT

Columbia Trust & Realty Co.
WALNUT 2550

STEAM HEATED APARTMENTS

86 N. Moreland Ave., 3 rooms.
792 W. Peachtree St., 1, 3, 4 and 5 rooms. Call Supt., HEm. 4570.
821 W. Peachtree St., 3 and 4 rooms.
233 E. Teath St., 4 rooms.
695 N. Boulevard, 3 rooms.
571 Virginia Ave., 4 rooms.
17 W. Alexander St., 4 rooms.
523 N. Boulevard, 4 rooms.
149 Lee St., 5 rooms.
124 E. 12th St., 4 and 5 rooms.
76 E. 12th St., 3 rooms.
1016 Piedmont Ave., 4 rooms.
567 N. Boulevard, 3 rooms.
238 E. North Ave., 3 and 4 rooms.
636 N. Boulevard, 3 rooms.
866 N. Moreland Ave., 5 rooms.
50 W. Baker St., 2 and 3 rooms.
745 Piedmont Ave., 5 rooms.
433 N. Boulevard, 3 and 4 rooms.

THE rates on the above apartments are right. They are in good condition. Don't fail to see these before leasing.

WEYMAN & CONNORS
621 GRANT BUILDING WAlnut 2162

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Business Service

Vick's Shoe Repairing & Dry Cleaning Co.

Half-Soles . . 95c

117 N. Pryor St.
IVy 8903

ALL WORK GUARANTEED

Men's Suits Dry Cleaned and Pressed $1.00
Men's Suits Pressed. .25

Rentals

PONTCHARTRAIN APARTMENTS

561-563 PONCE DE LEON AVE.—Three, four and 5-room apartments. Rent reasonable. Call Mr. Johnson, at apartment. He will show you through.

1839 Peachtree Road

THESE beautiful Apartments de Luxe consist of large living room, bedroom, dining room and kitchen. Nice front porches.
SPECIAL PRICES
Grant-Jeter Company
Grant Bldg. WAlnut 1600

HOUSES

175 Page Ave.—7 R.....$75.00
46 Bixby Ave.—6 R..... 35.00
81 Boulevard Terrace—5 R.. 40.00
136 Melrose Ave.—6 R..... 52.50
710 Highland Ave.—6 R..... 60.00
4 Hammond St.—8 R..... 70.00
39 Druid Place—9 R..... 70.00
329 Juniper St.—6 R..... 55.00
97 Clifton Ave.—6 R..... 37.50
44 Mansfield Ave.—7 R..... 60.00
84 Cresthill—7 R. 75.00
89 Lake Ave.—5 R..... 35.00
BURDETT REALTY CO.
Candler Bldg. WAl. 1011

GARAGES FOR RENT

Trust Company of Georgia Management
35 Gilmer Street.
211 Marietta Street.
27 West Harris Street.
33 Gilmer Street.

Real Estate Department
Trust Company of Georgia
WAl. 1671 WAl. 1671

McGOWAN APT.
Corner Juniper and Third Streets

DELIGHTFUL apartments of TWO, FOUR and FIVE ROOMS; high-class, up-to-date, PRICES in keeping with present conditions. CHOICE LOCATIONS. PERSONAL SUPERVISION. Concession. See janitor or phone King Stillman, resident manager, WAlnut 0156, After 6 p. m. call HEmlock 1696-J.

Real Estate

LOTS
PEACHTREE HEIGHTS PARK
BEAUTIFUL wooded east front lot 100x350 ft., one block from Peachtree. $8,500.
GORGEOUS corner lot, 200x400, covered with large trees; finest lot in this subdivision. $18,000. WAlnut 0156. Flatiron Bldg.
J. R. NUTTING & CO.

Rentals

HAVE a choice home between Peachtrees, 11 rooms, 3 baths, corner lot, worth $16,000; will trade down, taking nice bungalow on North Side or West End as part; a wonderful proposition for one interested. Call Mr. Conyers. WAl. 4071.

ANY REASONABLE OFFER CONSIDERED
MODERN six-room bungalow; large, level east front lot.
REAL value, completely furnished at around $4,600, or unfurnished at $4,100.
119 MADISON AVE., Oakhurst, two blocks east North Decatur car; one block off East Lake Drive.
SOMEBODY'S going to get a bargain.

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Auctions

AT AUCTION

THE furnishings of an apartment, 590 Piedmont avenue, also lot of sample furniture, including walnut and mahogany dining room and bedroom suites, also odd pieces, including vanities, dressers, twin beds, chiffoniers, metal beds, chifforobes, day bed, overstuffed living room suite, mahogany and fiber rockers, mattresses, pillows, davenport, console and end tables, floor lamp, gas range, refrigerator, axminster and velvet art squares, congoleum squares, all to the highest bidders, Tuesday, 10:30 a. m.

CENTRAL AUCTION COMPANY

10-12 East Mitchell St.

Real Estate

SEE
CASCADE HEIGHTS
LOTS
$750—20% Cash—$20 Month

INVESTMENT EXCHANGE
RIGHT at corner Spring and Baker, excellent piece of investment property; lot large, improvements fine; income around $4,000 a year. Lot alone very nearly worth price. Will take in trade vacant lot or other property up to $15,000. $37,500. See Mr. Beckham, WAlnut 0156, Flatiron building.
J. R. NUTTING & CO.

SEE
CASCADE HEIGHTS
LOTS
$750—20% Cash—$20 Month

NEAR PIEDMONT PARK

AND the Boys' High school. A new brick bungalow with six rooms and breakfast room; tile bath with shower, concrete basement, steam heat, side drive and garage. The lot has 75-foot frontage with ample depth. Price $8,750. Very attractive terms.

ADAIR REALTY & TRUST CO.
REALTORS
Healey Bldg. WAl. 0100

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Real Estate

ANSLEY PARK
PEACHTREE SIDE
VERY lovely two-story slate roofed homeson large, shaded, east front lot; four bedrooms, two baths, hot water heat; attic, laundry, living room 35 ft. long. $20,000. WAlnut 0156, Flatiron Bldg.
J. R. NUTTING & CO.

SEE
CASCADE HEIGHTS
LOTS
$750—20% Cash—$20 Month

ANSLEY PARK HOME
(17th Street)

MODERN two-story stone constructed home, on lot 110x200 feet, located near Peachtree Circle; beautiful yards with abundance of shrubbery and unusually good neighborhood; nine rooms, two baths, steam heat and slate roof. Price reduced from $30,000 to $25,000. Investigate this bargain at once. Mr. McDowell.

BURDETT REALTY CO.
WAlnut 1011.

WALNUT 0859

$5,750 — Six-room bungalow, every convenience, level lot, side drive, garage; just off North Boulevard, convenient to car and Boys' High school.
$8,500—Brick bungalow, eight rooms; hardwood floors, tile bath, furnace, side drive, garage, paved street; near car. New.
$8,500 — Morningside section, new brick bungalow, six rooms, breakfast room and bath, furnace; every convenience. Garage for two cars.

FREEMAN REALTY CO.
17 Poplar St. WAl. 0859

DRUID HILLS

$14,000—Beautiful new brick two-story, best location in this section, on large elevated lot, plenty shade; interior consists of nine rooms and two tile baths, living, dining room, breakfast room, kitchen, one bedroom and bath on first floor; clear oak floors throughout, papered walls, furnace heat, concrete drive and double garage. A real value. Terms easy. J. C. Gross, HEmlock 4291-J, or

DOLVIN REALTY CO.
REALTORS
WAl. 3585 Candler Bldg.

SEE
CASCADE HEIGHTS
LOTS
$750—20% Cash—$20 Month

ANSLEY PARK

WE are offering for sale today a home built for and occupied by owner for her home. Decorations and lighting effects very artistic; splendid arrangement of three bedrooms, two baths, large well spaced closets with mirror doors. The elevated terraced lot is beautifully landscaped. The whole place, from front to rear, is in beautiful order. Shown by appointment only. Under $20,000.

FREEMAN REALTY CO.
17 Poplar St. WAl. 0859

EXCHANGE FOR GEORGIA FARM

FIREPROOF APARTMENT — 12 units—$17,000 annual rent; choice location; one of the newest, best built houses in Atlanta. Every modern convenience. Call or write Mr. Wills.

Turman-Br

Classified Ads Will Guide You to Economy Without Trouble, Bother or Delay

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY
Real Estate

HOME BARGAIN
That is Just that

OWNER — Non-residential—wires us to sell—price cut from $7,500 to $—— well, see this home. If you like it, tell us your proposition as to price and terms. We will submit any reasonable offer. Brick, 6 rooms—lot 51x218. In Cascade Heights.

Ponder Realty Co.
807 Grant Bldg. WAlnut 5637

$11,500 Buys a beautiful new eight-room brick bungalow; has four bedrooms, tile bath walls with shower. This is a well-built, artistic, large bungalow; located near Druid Hills. Terms on $1,250 cash.
$15,500 Gets a new, two-story brick, eight rooms and breakfast room; all cabinet work built in; located on the prettiest elevated lot in Morningside Park. Let us show you and you will fall in love with it.
$25,000—Peachtree Road; the most attractive small, two-story, brick home on the road. It has eight rooms, sun parlor and breakfast room; beautiful corner lot. It must sell at once. Terms. Let us show you and submit your offer. Terms on little cash. Might take a little farm free of incumbrance as part payment.
RALPH B. MARTIN CO.
Atlanta Trust Bldg. WAl. 6627

PEACHTREE ROAD SECTION
AN IDEAL HOME

BEAUTIFUL SPANISH type bungalow—well constructed, elaborately decorated. Six rooms and breakfast room; hardwood floors, tile bath, furnace heat, cement basement and driveway, garage. This is a very beautiful home located in an exclusive section. Lot 55x160.

Call Mr. Kellam—WAl. 2550
COLUMBIA TRUST & REALTY CO.
Metropolitan Bldg.

A DRUID HILLS VALUE

THIS new bungalow represents the best value to be found in Druid Hills. We invite you to compare the construction and arrangement with other homes you have seen for $12,500. Contains six rooms and breakfast room, a nice bath room, plenty of closet space. The best to be found in Druid Hills for $11,900. Let us show it to you.

ADAIR REALTY & TRUST CO.
REALTORS
Healey Bldg. WAl. 0100

Real Home Values

PEACHTREE HILLS — Practically new six-room and breakfast-room bungalow, on large lot. A dandy buy at $6,500, on easy terms.

B. H. S. SECTION—Six-room, brick bungalow. Out-of-town owner is anxious to sell and has reduced his price from $7,500 to $6,500 for quick sale, on easy terms. Ask for Mr. Lassetter.

MORNINGSIDE PARK — Six rooms and breakfast-room, brick bungalow, just completed. Price $8,500, easy terms.

CRAIN REALTY CO.
718 Healey Bldg. WAlnut 1891

ROGERS' Specials FOR TODAY

VIRGINIA-HIGHLAND section, just a short block of car service, we have just listed a very attractive little brick bungalow having three large bedrooms, breakfast room, large living room and dining room, built-in bath fixtures, beautifully papered walls, hardwood floors, Monarch furnace, cement basement, side drive, garage and is on a lot which lies perfectly and has an east front 50x200 feet. This is a very choice location and the price is a sacrifice at $8,000, on easy terms. Call Mr. Watson.

Rogers Realty & Trust Co.
223 Atlanta Trust Co. Bldg.
WAlnut 4100
Realtors

CHEAP PROPERTY

A LOT on West Cain street, 25x150 ft., within two blocks of all the big improvements. Price $12,500, $3,000 cash, balance easy.

PHONE WAl. 2723
W. L. & JOHN O. DUPREE

A Real Bargain for Sale

WE have what we consider the best possible apartment house site in absolutely the best section of Peachtree, and the man who is looking for a building site will find this the most profitable one that can be had. The price that we have on this property is about two hundred dollars per front foot under present market value, and in order to appreciate this splendid bargain one would have to see it and be thoroughly convinced of the truth of the above statement. FOR further information see Jos. Kopp, salesman.

Columbia Trust & Realty Co.
400 METROPOLITAN BUILDING
OFFICE, WAlnut 2550 RESIDENCE, WAlnut 5979

GROUND VALUE

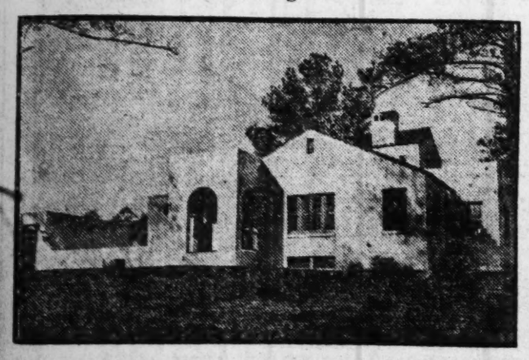
HERE are some big lots on good streets suitable for purposes requiring large ground area. Notice the square foot prices.

SOUTH SIDE — A prominent thoroughfare, 75x200; contains 15,000 square feet. Price $5,000; per square foot, 33 cents.
SOUTH SIDE — A corner with three small dwellings, industrial community; lot 80x180; contains 14,400 square feet. Price $4,000; per square foot, 28 cents.
NORTH SIDE — Frontage on a prominent street, 50x138; contains 6,900 square feet. Price $4,200; per square foot, 60 cents.
NORTH SIDE CORNER — A good industrial section, well located, vicinity of North avenue and Luckie street; corner lot 100x220; contains 23,000 square feet. Price $13,500; per square foot, 58 cents.
NORTH SIDE CORNER — An extra large, well-located lot on prominent street; size 285x288; contains 82,000 square feet. Price $30,000; per square foot, 37 cents.

ADAIR REALTY & TRUST CO.
HEALEY BLDG. REALTORS WAlnut 0100

Real Spanish Architecture

In a Small House, Conveniently and Artistically Arranged



NO. 46 GOLF CIRCLE, overlooking Ansley Park Golf Course, has to be seen to be appreciated.
OPEN for inspection this afternoon.

Charles L. Greene
WAl. 4308-9 140 Peachtree St.

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY
Automotive

Ford
50 GUARANTEED Used Ford Cars. Best selection of used cars we have had in some time. All types. All models. Prices to sell. Ask for Mr. Brooks.

BEAUDRY MOTOR CO.
169-171 Marietta St. IVy 0446

"The Old Reliable"

REO Touring . . . $200
REO Touring, 7-pass. $750
BUICK Coupe . . $250

John Smith Co.
Reo and Chevrolet Dealers
190-196 W. Peachtree

USED TRUCKS ALL BARGAINS

2½-TON INDIANA, with solid tires; cab and flat body.
1-TON SUPERIOR, with pneumatic tires, cab and express body.
2-TON AUTO CAR, with solid tires, open cab and plain body.
3-TON INTERNATIONAL, with 2-yard dump body; solid tires.
1-TON INTERNATIONAL; cab, pneumatic tires, windshield and express body.
1½-TON INTERNATIONAL, with pneumatic tires, cab and express body.
1-TON SPEED TRUCK, International; pneumatic tires, cab and express body.
NASH TOURING CAR, 4-cylinder.
FORD TOURING CAR.
FORD WORM-DRIVE TRUCK.

BIGGEST KIND OF BARGAINS at prices set. If not satisfied, you are at liberty to make your own price on any of them.

CALL AND SEE THEM
International Harvester Co. of America
510 WHITEHALL ST.
MAin 4442

BARGAINS

1923 Apperson 7-pass. phaeton $500
1923 Lexington touring... 350
1923 Chevrolet touring .. 125
1925 Ford coupe 425
1920 Hudson coupe 350

THESE CARS are all in first-class running condition, good tires and paint.

EASY TERMS
Thompson Bonded Warehouse
"Bonded for your protection"
441-443 Peachtree St. WA. 7541

YARBROUGH'S
Good Used Cars
REPAINTED REPAIRED
OVERHAULED
READY TO GO

'22 Wills-St. Claire sedan	$ 800
'25 Hudson coach	900
'24 Hudson sedan	1,175
'24 Buick "6" touring	750
'22 Franklin sedan	750
'22 Ford coupe	125
'23 Chalmers sport	485
'23 Apperson touring	475
'23 Velie "6" touring	825
'24 Nash "6" touring	775
'25 Essex "6" coach	750
'25 Essex "4" touring	575
'20 Studebaker special sedan	250
'21 Lexington "6" touring	175
19 Dodge touring	100
'24 Ford touring	200
'20 Cole "8" touring	145
'21 Ford sedan	95
Hupmobile sedan	90
Willys-Knight touring	75
Buick roadster	75
Chalmers touring	100
'23 Studebaker Big "6" sedan	1,000
'20 Studebaker Big "6" touring	150

These STUDEBAKER CARS Guaranteed

'25 Studebaker roadster	900
'25 Studebaker special "6" sedan	1,450
'24 Studebaker Special "6" touring	850
Two '24 Studebaker Special "6" tourings, each	825
'23 Studebaker roadster	675
'24 Studebaker coupe	690
'24 Studebaker light "6" touring	650
'24 Studebaker light "6" touring	625

OTHERS NOT LISTED
Yarbrough Motor Company
385 Peachtree St.
HEmlock 6810
Evenings—HEmlock 2107

Use Constitution Classified Columns

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY
Automotive

CADILLAC "61"
SEVEN-PASS. touring, A-1 mechanical, new paint and tires, runs and looks like a new car $1,000.00. Easy terms.

Thompson Bonded Warehouse
441-443 Peachtree St.
WAlnut 7541

GUARANTEED
HUPMOBILES
And Other Used Cars

1923 Hupmobile coupe	$ 850
1923 Hupmobile sedan; fully equipped	750
1922 Hupmobile coupe	550
1923 Hupmobile touring	550
1923 Hupmobile touring	500
1922 Hupmobile touring	375
1922 Hupmobile touring	450
1921 Hupmobile touring	250
1923 Dodge coupe	575
Brand-new Ford sedan	600
1925 Buick "6" 4-door sedan; like new	1,050
1923 Hupmobile coupe	850
1921 Franklin touring	350
1924 Ford touring	275
1923 Ford coupe	200
1923 Ford roadster	135
1921 Oakland touring	100
1921 Oakland roadster	75
1920 Buick touring	75
1921 Davis touring	100
1922 Reo "6" touring	100

EASY TERMS.
Thompson-Cauthorn Motor Co.
We Will Trade Your Old Car
WAlnut 1232-9253
471-473 Peachtree Street

"The Old Reliable"
ESTABLISHED 1869
for Economical Transportation
CHEVROLET
USED CAR STORE
267-269 MARIETTA ST.
FORDS
CHEVROLETS
BUICKS

VARIOUS types. Prices from $50 up to $400.

Terms as low as $25 cash. See these cars before buying

Remember — every used car we sell MUST BE as represnted.

EASY TERMS
We Pay Cash for Used Cars
REO
The Gold Standard of Values
John Smith Co.
Reo and Chevrolet Dealers
Used Car Store
267-269 Marietta St.

D. C. BLACK
WE GUARANTEE USED CARS

Nash "6" sedan	$ 75
Lexington "6" touring ('22)	150
Dodge touring ('23)	375
Buick "6" touring ('18)	75
Nash "6" touring ('22)	175
Hupmobile coach ('24)	775
Buick "6" touring ('22)	350
Ford 2-door sedan ('24); have 4 of these; your choice	375
Oldsmobile touring ('21)	100
Buick "6" touring ('20)	150
Ford touring ('23)	150
Essex "6" coach ('24)	575
Nash "4" touring ('23)	350
King "8" touring ('22)	175
Buick "6" touring ('24)	775
Willys-Knight ('22)	575
Hudson coach ('24)	775
Buick "6" roadster (18)	50
Hudson speedster ('23)	375
Ford 4-door sedan ('25)	475
Buick 7-pass. ('23)	575
Essex "6" coach ('24)	450
Hudson coach ('23)	650
Buick "6" coupe ('24)	1,175
Ford truck ('23)	100
Chevrolet sedan ('24)	350
Jordan touring ('23)	350
Stutz "4" touring ('20)	200
Franklin sedan ('20)	200
Buick "6" sedan ('22)	575
Dodge touring ('21)	175
Buick "6" ('23); we have 4 of these; your choice	575
Nash "6" touring ('23)	550
Dodge sedan ('24)	775
Buick "6" touring ('25)	875
Dodge sedan ('23)	650
Reo "6" touring ('20)	150
Overland "4" touring ('23)	150
Hanson "6" touring ('22)	200
Auburn "6" touring ('22)	150
Cadillac touring (57)	450
Franklin touring ('21)	275

WE WILL TRADE YOUR CAR
WE PAY CASH FOR USED CARS
D. C. BLACK
Buick Dealer
312 Peachtree Street
Phone IVy 1860

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY
Automotive

FORDS
HIGHEST CASH PRICES FOR 25 LATE MODEL FORDS
84-86 West Cain Street
WAlnut 6938

CADILLAC
THE BEST USED CARS
"61" Cadillac phaeton, 4-pass.
"57" Cadillac touring. Good buy.
1924 Master "6" Buick, 5-pass. sedan; new tires and paint.
1922 Marmon touring; a nice car at a low price.
1922 Essex sedan, 5-pass.
1923 Hupmobile sport touring.
TERMS ARRANGED.
THE CADILLAC CO. OF ATLANTA
152 W. Peachtree St. IVy 0900

Special Values

OUR stock is complete, with the best possible USED CAR VALUES. Careful buying and many years' experience in reconditioning Used Cars enable us to offer

REAL BARGAINS

1925 Studebaker Standard "6" duplex touring; fully equipped	$ 950
1923 Cadillac "61" touring, 7-pass.; perfect condition	1,200
1921 Cadillac "59" touring, 7-pass.; good condition	650
1923 Packard Single "6" sedan; balloon tires; being refinished	1,450
1921 Packard Single "6" sedan; completely reconditioned	850
1922 Packard Single "6" touring; new paint; jam-up condition	650
1922 Packard Twin "6" touring; 7-pass.; good condition	675
1924 Buick Master "6" 4-pass. coupe; refinished; brand-new tires	1,150
1924 Buick Master "6" 7-pass. sedan; original paint and tires	1,160
1923 Buick "6" sedan; new paint; good tires	750
1922 Buick "6" sedan; refinished; good condition	600
1923 Buick "6" touring; used very little; original paint	600
1922 Buick "6" touring; good condition	350
1925 Dodge touring; five balloon tires; practically new	850
1925 Dodge roadster; balloon tires; driven 1,900 miles.	850
1924 Dodge touring; extra good condition	575
1923 Dodge sedan; good tires; original paint	550
1923 Dodge touring; refinished; five new cord tires	450
1923 Dodge touring; good condition	400
1921 Dodge touring	200
1921 Dodge roadster	175
1923 Hupmobile touring; Duco paint; disc wheels	550
1923 Hupmobile roadster; refinished	500
1923 Hudson sedan; good condition; good tires	650
1923 Hudson coach; good condition	550
1925 Overland "6" sedan; fully equipped; slightly used	850
1924 Nash "6" sedan; 7-pass.; fully equipped	950
1923 Nash "6" sedan; 4 doors; perfect condition	800
1923 Nash "6" roadster; new cord tires; new paint; extras	600
1922 Nash "6" touring; good condition	350
1922 Peerless touring; refinished; glass inclosure	450
1921 Peerless roadster	200
1923 Oakland sport touring; refinished	350
1924 Rickenbacker touring; fully equipped; good condition	675
1924 Chevrolet coach; extra good condition	400
1923 Chevrolet roadster	125
1923 Maxwell sedan; refinished; new tires	450
1923 Maxwell touring; good condition; disc wheels	250
1922 Reo touring; good condition	175
1921 Reo sedan; 5 near new cord tires	175
1922 Roamer sport touring	250
1925 Ford coupe; balloon tires; good condition	450
1925 Ford coupe; good condition	400
1924 Ford coupe	325
1924 Ford 4-door sedan; 5 balloon tires; Bosch horn; other extras	475
1924 Ford 4-door sedan	400
1924 Ford tudor sedan	375
1924 Ford touring; extra good	250
1925 Ford roadster; practically brand new	350

Many More to Select From.
We Pay Cash for Used Cars or Will Trade.
EASY TERMS
J. M. Harrison & Co.
South's Largest Used Car Dealers
125-131 Ivy St. WAl. 2966

STOP! LOOK! LISTEN!

Clearance Sale of Dodge Brothers and Other Good Used Standard Make Cars.

$50.00 Up

This May be Your Last Opportunity to Obtain a Really Good Used Car at the Low Prices We Now Have in Effect. They Will Go Fast.

147 and 149
WEST PEACHTREE STREET IS THE PLACE

LOW PRICES CHOICE SELECTIONS
EASY TERMS

F. E. MAFFETT, INC.
Dealers in Dodge Brothers Motor Vehicles
167-169 W. Peachtree St. HEmlock 1165
Dodge Brothers Dealers Sell Good Used Cars

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY
Automotive

Ford
All Late Models

1 Tudor sedan, unusual value	$400
1 Fordor sedan; bargain; good tires	350
1 Fordor sedan, five cord tires, bumpers, license tag; will please any one	400
1 Coupe, late model, five cord tires	375
1 Coupe, late model, new paint	325
1 Touring, '25 model, cord tires	295
1 '25 model ton truck; stake body	310
1 '24 model roadster, new paint	210

WE are fortunate to be able to offer above bargains. Phone us for salesman. Our guarantee protects you.

BAGGS-LANGFORD MOTOR CO.
"The House Service Built"
135-7 So. Pryor WAl. 7512

Paige-Jewett Sales Co.
Used Car Bargains

1924 Studebaker Standard coach, nearly new ... $ 950
1925 Ford coupe, a bargain at 350
1923 6-70 Paige sport touring .. 1,125
1923 Essex 4 coupe, run 7,000 miles 550
1922 Hupp touring . 225

Terms—Will Trade Your Car
Paige-Jewett Sales Co.
469 Peachtree St. HE. 6324

Guaranteed Used Cars

FULL stock of closed cars, thoroughly reconditioned in our own shop, on display at 200 IVYST.

SAME location, with entrance at 200 Ivy street. Larger quarters, better facilities to serve you. Note the following:

1925 Nash touring; California top.
1925 Flint "6" sedan; practically new.
1923 Buick touring; 5 new tires.
1923 Buick roadster.
1923 Buick coupe.
1922 Dodge touring.
1925 Essex coach.
1924 Hudson coach.
1925 Hudson sedan.
1923 Hudson coach.
1924 Hudson speedster.
1924 Ford sedan.
1925 Ford coupe.
1924 Ford touring.
1925 Ford roadster.
1923 Hupmobile touring.
1922 Jordan touring.
1923 Moon sedan.
1923 Moon touring.
1922 Maxwell coupe.
1923 Oakland touring.
1924 Overland touring.
1922 Reo touring.
1923 Studebaker touring.
1920 Templar sport.
1921 Willys-Knight touring.

Main Showroom
200 IVY STREET
Branch
255 PEACHTREE
Goldsmith-Becker Co., Inc.
229 PEACHTREE ST.
WAlnut 8718

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY
Automotive

Today's Values---Like New

1923 Ford touring, new top, new paint	$150	1924 Oakland 6-54 touring	$650
1923 Ford sedan, fully equipped	375	1920 Oakland touring	150
1923 Ford touring	200	1923 Oakland sport touring, fully equipped	525
6-44 Oakland sedan	675	1922 Buick "6" sedan, new tires	650
1923 Buick 7-pass. touring	550	1924 Oakland 6-54 touring	375
1922 Jewett touring	400	1922 Buick "6" touring, new paint, new tires	375
1923 Oakland touring	425
1923 Chevrolet roadster	250
1922 Maxwell touring	250	H-45 Buick touring	250
1923 Oakland sedan	700	Overland Champion coupe, nice shape	225
1923 Buick "6" sedan	775	1925 Ford touring	250
1920 Franklin touring	250	1925 Ford roadster.
Two 1923 Ford roadsters, each	225	1923 Chevrolet touring, new paint	250

OUR TERMS ARE EASY
WE WILL TRADE YOUR CAR
OPEN EVENINGS TILL 9 O'CLOCK

OAKLAND MOTOR CO.
285 SPRING ST. ATLANTA, GA.
IVy 1921. IVy 1922.

Certified Used Cars

1923 Nash 4 Touring.	1925 Buick Country Club Cabrolet.
1922 Nash 6 Touring.	1923 Ford Touring.
1924 Overland Touring.	1924 Dodge Touring $525
1922 Buick 6 5-pass. Sedan.	1925 Nash 133 Special Sedan.
"57" Cadillac $200	1926 Nash 233 Special Sedan.
1926 Nash Advanced 6 Touring, demonstrator.	1924 Essex "6" Coach; balloon equipment.
1925 Studebaker Standard 6 Touring, driven 2,600 miles.	1922 Nash 4-pass. Coupe.
	1924 Jewett Coach.
	1921 LaFayette 4-door Coupe.

Satisfactory Terms Can Be Arranged

Martin-Nash Motor Co.
PEACHTREE AT NORTH AVE.
WAl. 6634 WAl. 6634

OFFER HOLDS GOOD FOR 5 DAYS ONLY

HAVE you been longing for an automobile and felt that you couldn't afford one?

Here Is Your Opportunity
To Own One of These Greatest of All Luxuries

THE prices and terms we offer on first-class used cars are astonishing, making it easy to own one.

NOTHING is so restful and helpful after a hard day's work as an auto ride. Nothing so enjoyable on Sundays and holidays. THEY are going fast. Come in and look them over.

Flint Used Car Dep't
Open Evenings Till 9 O'clock.
238-240 PEACHTREE STREET WAlnut 7383

---

at
Willys-Overland, Inc.
414 Peachtree St.
November 23 to 30
SPECIAL ATTRACTIONS, MUSIC, BEAUTIFUL CARS

EXTRAORDINARY bargains in slightly used Willys-Knights and Overlands, open and closed models.

Every Car Guaranteed

1924 Willys-Knight touring, refinished. 5 good tires, bumpers. Guaranteed, $195 cash, balance monthly.

Willys-Knight coupe sedan, 5-passenger, fully equipped, guaranteed. A beautiful closed car. $295 cash, balance monthly.

Willys-Knight 6-cylinder demonstrators. Fully equipped. A new car at a substantial saving. Guaranteed.

Overland 6-cylinder sedan de Luxe, fully equipped. This car used very little and the price is right.

Overland standard sedan, one of our demonstrators. A real bargain, guaranteed.

CONVENIENT terms; your old car taken as part payment.

Willys-Overland, Inc.
414 Peachtree St. IVy 2640

THE FEDERATED CHURCH WOMEN OF GEORGIA

OFFICERS—Mrs. T. L. Lewis, president, 162 Ponce de Leon Ave., Atlanta, Ga.; Dr. Elizabeth Broach, first vice president, 640 Highland avenue, Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. William L. Percy, second vice president, 112 Waverly Way, Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. Ernest F. Brown, recording secretary, 172 Waverly Way, Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. C. A. Mauck, corresponding secretary, 127 Washington street, Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. J. D. Cromer, treasurer, 16 Springdale road, Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. W. U. C. Stanly, auditor, P. O. Drawer 1734, Atlanta, Ga.; Miss Rosa Woodberry, state editor, 149 Peachtree circle, Atlanta, Ga.

EDITORS—Mrs. W. Harvey Clarke, Baptist editor, 96 Gordon street; Mrs. Wallace Rogers, Methodist, 65 Hurt street, Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. Frank Woodruff, Episcopal, 37 Peachtree place, Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. John Kerksis, Disciples of Christ, 310 North Jackson, Apt. 2, Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. D. I. Carson, Congregational, 548 North Boulevard, Atlanta, Ga.

Federation founded by the late Mrs. Albert Braswell.

"We are co-laborers together with God."—I. Cor. 3.9.

Why?

With Armistice day celebrations so recently held in many places and in various ways, our minds have been full of war times and war terms. We have been reminded of those terrible days when the first call to service came. We can't forget how honorable we deemed it to be among the first to volunteer. Later came the conscription, and then later still, that other list—our slackers.

At this season of the year the women's missionary societies of the many churches making up the different denominations are calling the women of the church to enlist for the work of 1926. Elections are being held everywhere. Nominating committees have been at work for weeks in an effort to find just the right leaders for the new year in order that the missionary program of the churches may go forward as never before. Yet, of the great number of women in our churches, so few are willing to make the sacrifice that is necessary to become a leader. The church is engaged in a battle against wrong and sin. The enemy is threatening our homes and our civilization as truly as in the war times. And in the church we find those same three groups of people—the volunteers, those who have been conscripted and, yes, the slackers, too.

Should we not be as eager to win the world for Jesus Christ as our boys were to win for the allies? With the Great Head of the church as the General of our army, why should we be afraid to enlist? "Where God calls, His Spirit breathes." Why should so many hesitate to hear and heed His call?

MRS. WALLACE ROGERS.

Thanksgiving Sale

Home-Coming Week—the aroma of roasting turkeys and happy family groups waiting for the call to dinner. The range in your kitchen will play an important part in the success or failure of that dinner. A good range will insure you against failure.

Special prices now on all stoves and ranges. We need space—lots of space for displaying our toys which are arriving daily (they will be on show next week). And so the ranges and stoves must go—for example, we are selling—

No. 8—16 High-Mark Cast Iron Ranges at $69.00

No. 8—17 High-Mark Cast Iron Ranges at $79.00

With proportionate reductions on all other ranges and stoves.

$5 DOWN Delivers your choice of any stove or range. Our usual credit terms on the balance.

From Monday, November 23, to January 1, we will allow you

$10.00 For Your Old Stove

on the purchase of any new High-Mark, Radiant Home or Majestic Range.

Hightower Hardware Co
100 Whitehall

Pain and Worry

MANY WOMEN put up with distressing, painful suffering and worry, brought on by certain common female ailments, because they have lost hope to ever obtain relief. Do not make this mistake. Thousands have obtained relief by taking Cardui. Why not you? Read the account, by Mrs. Abe Canary, Route 6, Owensboro, Ky., of how she obtained relief from just such troubles.

"I got down in health," says Mrs. Canary, whose picture is printed above. "I was suffering from womanly troubles, which caused me much pain and worry. I remembered that, when I was a girl, my stepmother had taken Cardui when she was in my same condition, so I inquired around among my friends about it and found several women who were taking it at that time. They all told me how good it was, so I told my husband to get me a bottle to try. That night he came home with a bottle of Cardui.

"I was in a very serious condition. I had been in bed eight weeks and was unable to move in bed without help. By the time I had taken half a bottle of Cardui, I was able to sit up in bed. I finished that bottle and by that time I was able to walk across the floor.

"I continued taking Cardui several months and I got well. Since that time I have taken Cardui to build me up. It is a wonderful tonic.

"I am glad to tell about the wonderful way Cardui helped me so that it may help other women."

Ask your druggist about Cardui; he knows.

CARDUI
The Woman's Tonic for Women's Ills
GL-89

Prayer Dominant Note at Recent Baptist Meeting

The dominant note at the recent Baptist Woman's Missionary Union convention held in Macon was prayer. Not only was prayer as a spiritual exercise stressed and emphasis laid on prayer for peace, prayer for missions and prayer for the upbuilding of our churches, but a special call was made for prayer for the raising of the heavy debt under which our boards are staggering.

Again and again in almost every address a plea was made for a worthy Christmas gift to our Lord and the suggestion made that we make no Christmas gift to friend or loved one which we do not match with one to Christ.

The star of Bethlehem will shine brightly on our Christmas day if we "come up to the help of the Lord against the mighty" by giving liberally and sacrificially toward raising the debt of our boards.

The plan suggested is that every man, woman and child bring gifts of money worthy of the King's birthday into the churches on December 27, so that the great financial strain may be lifted from our boards before the New Year. This is to be an "over and above" gift, a love offering to our King. May we prove our love by our gifts.

MRS W. HARVEY CLARKE.

Work To Begin On Baptist Hospital.

Friends from all over the state will be pleased to know, for a certainty, that dirt will be broken for the Georgia Baptist hospital within a short time. Dr. Cree, with his far-sighted business acumen; Mrs. James L. Key, with her unusual power of persuasion, backed by the loyal Baptists over the state, feel safe in undertaking this most needed work, notwithstanding the many adverse vicissitudes.

Dr. Elder reports he has to turn many away for lack of room. There is a loud call from the sick and suffering for this house of mercy. A cup of cold water given in His name still retains the freshness of His grace.

Mrs. Key, in her untiring zeal, has gathered a committee from the missionary societies of the Atlanta association, which last Friday numbered 70, giving reports and manifesting a willingness to do their part.

The night of the graduation of the nurses was most impressive. The exercises were held in the First Baptist church. Some of the suburban societies kindly assisted in the decoration with the bright autumnal foliage, while the stately palms lent dignity to the setting, as Dr. Cree gave out to these young women their diplomas that will warrant them to go forth as ministering angels into the homes of the sick and sorrowing.

The First Baptist ladies dispensed gracious hospitality on this occasion, as has always been their custom.

The reindeers of Santa Claus have been seen peeping round the corners of the hospital. That Christmas tree that means so much to the inmates and the nurses, has been assured. God gives money and influence to good people, but does not always bless them with children. Is it not because He wants them to be father and mother to more children than they could be naturally? He confers this privilege and this responsibility on them and trusts them as His agents. It moves the soul to witness the stirring of the paternal and maternal instinct and it is pleasing to God.

MRS. T. L. LEWIS.

Meeting Held At Mt. Gilead.

One of the last of a series of meetings being held in the Methodist churches of this city and throughout the M. E. church, south, during the week of prayer, was one held at the historical old Mt. Gilead church near Atlanta on Saturday, November 14. The women of the four churches composing the Ben Hill circuit were invited to be the guests of the auxiliary at Mt. Gilead and about 50 were there for the entire day.

The program as laid down by the Woman's council for the 1925 week of prayer was followed and the day was divided into two parts. The study of the foreign work was presided over by Mrs. Simonton, of Wesley chapel, and that of the home field was conducted by Mrs. Baker, of Mt. Gilead. Mrs. J. C. White, district secretary of the South Atlanta district, was one of the visiting speakers.

Mt. Gilead church celebrated its 100th anniversary in September, 1924, and has a splendid record of service.

Pollard Mission Study Class.

"Literature as Mission Foundations" was the very interesting subject brought before the study class Wednesday morning when the Pollard Mission Study class of the Ponce de Leon Avenue Baptist church met with Miss Mary Wood for the last meeting before the holidays.

Mrs. J. W. Wills, the efficient leader, who has just returned from the state convention held in Macon, brought a most interesting account of the meeting.

The study of the "Manual of W. M. U. Methods" will be completed at the meeting Wednesday at 10 o'clock at the residence of Miss Mary Wood, and the class will take a vacation until January. Miss Wills will be the guest of friends and relatives in Florida.

Sure Way To Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy never fails.—Adv.

Mrs. Clarke, Baptist Editor, Is Returned Missionary

Photograph by McCrary Studio.

Mrs. W. H. Clarke, Baptist editor of Federated Church Women.

The above picture of our new Baptist editor with a face of calm dignity and poise suggests a well-spent life.

Mrs. Clarke left Atlanta as the bride of Dr. W. H. Clarke, for far away Japan, and there for over 20 years they gave faithful service as missionaries to the Japanese. She now becomes a co-laborer with the Federated Church Women to disseminate the teachings of Christ through her versatile pen to every city and hamlet in Georgia. We welcome Mrs. Clarke.

MRS. LEWIS.

Calendar of Meetings

BAPTIST

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Kirkwood Baptist Church will meet Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the church.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Gordon Street Church will meet Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the church.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Gordon Street Church will entertain at a reception to the membership of the church and their friends in the church auditorium Tuesday evening, November 24. Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Phillips and Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Landers will be guests of honor. The hour is 7:30.

Mrs. James D. Rhodes, mission study chairman of the Atlanta association, will hold a conference for mission study workers on Friday, November 27, in the conference room of Rich's store from 10 a. m. until noon.

The Fannie E. Heck mission study class of the Ponce de Leon Avenue Baptist church will meet Tuesday at 10 o'clock with Mrs. W. T. Martin in the St. Andrews apartment.

The Pollard mission study class of the Ponce de Leon Avenue church will meet Wednesday at 10 o'clock with Miss Mary Wood, 21 East Eighth street.

METHODIST

The St. Paul Woman's Missionary society will have charge of the evening service tonight in the absence of the pastor who is attending conference in Griffin. Every department of the work will be emphasized in an interesting way during the hour.

The Woman's Missionary Society of St. Paul Church will meet at the church Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The mission study will be in charge of Mrs. W. O. Gifford.

Pastor and Wife Presented Silver Service.

Not only the First Methodist church but the entire city of Atlanta will feel the loss of Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Harrell, who have labored so faithfully and beautifully among us for five years and who are now transferred to Norfolk, Va.

The unusual strength of their combined efforts (he as pastor and she as president of the Woman's Missionary society), has enriched every avenue they have touched and made better the numberless lives into which sincere regret is brought at their leaving.

In consideration of this change, Mrs. Clayton, vice president of the Missionary society, called a mass meeting of the circles in order that a complete report of the year's work might be given so that Mrs. Harrell might know the full extent of the work accomplished during her presidency. The total report surpassed any former undertaking of the society. It was most gratifying to all and the singular success achieved is largely due to Mrs. Harrell's efforts and ability.

At this meeting Mrs. Harrell was presented with eight silver goblets as a gift from the auxiliary. Mrs. Osborn presented her a large silver tray, an heirloom in the Osborn family. The stewards of the church were present and gave a silver pitcher to Dr. Harrell, thus completing the silver service.

MRS. A. H. GREENE.

NEW FIRMS FORMED TO BOOST CLOUDLAND

Summerville, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—As an evidence of the growing popularity of Cloudland, Chattooga county's famous summer resort on top of Lookout mountain, where many thousands of dollars' worth of real estate have changed hands during the past two or three months, two new development companies this week applied to the superior court of this county for charters.

Allison Ledbetter, Jr., and O. C. Green, both of Cloudland, are seeking to be incorporated under the firm name of Laurel Park Improvement company, the capital stock to be $25,000. John W. Ledbetter and W. T. Ledbetter, both of Georgia, and D. E. Austin, of Florida, are asking the court to grant them a charter for the "Sequoyah Heights company" of Cloudland, the capital stock to be $75,000.

Splendid Work Among Negroes.

The South Georgia Conference Woman's Missionary society is doing some splendid things in social service this year under the leadership of Mrs. J. A. Thomas, of Savannah, conference superintendent.

In the inter-racial branch of this department, a mass meeting was held for negroes to hear the mayor of the city speak on citizenship. A government worker was engaged to speak to the negro mothers on "Motherhood and the Home." Teachers have been supplied for mission and Bible classes in negro churches. Books and flower seeds have been given to the negro children to improve their homes.

Under the head of legislation the leaders of these committees have worked for passage of a bill pertaining to child welfare, to prohibit dancing in public places on Sunday and other important measures.

In many cities where other workers are not available, the state welfare board uses the social service superintendents of the Methodist churches of the conference to do investigation work in connection with unfortunate children and women.

One auxiliary attended the juvenile court trials and when one very young girl was sentenced to the detention home, this group of Methodist women appealed to the judge to let them adopt her. This was allowed and now the girl is attending one of our best church schools instead of serving in the detention home.

RACE HORSES HURT AS CAR OVERTURNS

Thomasville, Ga., November 21.—(AP)—Two cars of race horses, en route from New Orleans to Miami and Havana, were endangered early today when train No. 158 of the Atlantic Coast Line was ditched near Bainbridge. Two of the steeds were injured when one of the cars overturned.

Three coaches, baggage, express and a second-class passenger coach overturned. Only minor hurts were sustained by passengers.

The sulphur consumed in the United States every year would form a pile as big as the capitol building at Washington.

Women Stewards Are Elected At Inman Park

For the first time in the history of the Inman Park Methodist church women have been elected to the office of steward. It is only in the last four years that this office has been open to women, this being the action of the last general conference of the M. E. church, south.

Those elected were Miss Evelyn Nixon, Mrs. J. B. Smith, Mrs. C. A. Rauschenburg, Sr., Mrs. L. M. Park, Mrs. R. E. Williams, Mrs. J. T. Dennis and Mrs. L. F. LeMay.

Briefly Told

Mrs. J. D. Hatchett, of Trinity Methodist church, has been appointed key woman for the South Atlanta district of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Wesley Memorial hospital.

Miss Hazel Cooper, deaconess for the Atlanta Methodist city mission board, has been appointed on the program committee for the deaconess' and home mission workers' council for the year 1925-1926.

Mrs. Willis Dobbs, who has just retired from the office of first vice president of the Susannah Wesley class of the Druid Hills Methodist Sunday school, was presented with a beautiful Bible, a gift of love and appreciation from the class she has served so faithfully for a number of years.

Mrs. T. A. Jackson has served the Douglasville Methodist Missionary society as treasurer for 33 years. She is retiring this year from the office and was the guest of honor a few days ago at a surprise party given by the society. A purse containing $25 was presented her in an effort to express the appreciation felt for her long service.

Word comes from Japan announcing the birth of a son to Rev. and Mrs. Arva Floyd, Methodist missionaries on duty there. Mr. Floyd is from Chipley, and Mrs. Floyd, before her marriage, was Miss Ida Mallory Cobb, of Macon, Ga.

The conference and district leaders of the South Georgia Conference Woman's Missionary society are holding a series of missionary educational meetings in the large churches of the Valdosta district. Miss Bessie Oliver, missionary to Korea, who is at home on furlough, is assisting in this work.

The Druid Hills Missionary society held two all-day sewing parties last week at which time 150 garments were made for the orphans in the Methodist orphanage at Decatur. The social service department contributed 30 books for the library in addition to the gift of clothing.

Deaconess Emma Burton, secretary of the Sue Bennett School of London, Ky., passed through Atlanta Monday spending a few hours in the city. Miss Burton did city mission work in Atlanta about 10 years ago.

Mrs. T. J. Darling, district secretary of the Woman's Missionary society of the Waycross district, South Georgia conference, is very ill. During her illness, Mrs. L. E. Heath, of Douglas is acting secretary.

Mrs. Virlyn Moore is the first woman ever to serve the Bolton, Ga., Methodist church as lay leader. Under her leadership the church has overpaid its conference collections and pledges to the superannuate endowment fund.

A splendid Sunday school training school was held last week at the Druid Hills Methodist church, meeting each evening from 7 o'clock to 9:30 o'clock. Ninety persons were enrolled representing 11 churches of the city. Seventy-nine certificates and one gold seal diploma were awarded.

Mrs. Virlyn Moore, Mrs. Summerlin, Mrs. Charles Rice, Mrs. M. E. Tilly and Mrs. Wallace Rogers motored to Norcross Sunday for an all-day missionary meeting at the Methodist church.

Miss Daisy Davies has returned from Elizabeth City, N. C., where she has been doing evangelistic work and is in Nashville, Tenn., this week.

Several cities sent invitations to the B. W. M. U. assembled in Macon for the meeting next year and Gainesville, Ga., was selected as the next convention city.

Among the delightful automobile parties going to Macon to the B. W. M. U. convention last week was that of Mrs. J. Clinton Reese, of Fairburn, Ga., taking as her guests, Mrs. F. B. Wooddall, Mrs. H. H. Cook, of Palmetto, Mrs. J. W. Wills and Mrs. W. Harvey Clarke, of Atlanta.

Miss Annie Sandlin, of Cuthbert, Ga., who has been on furlough for the past year, was among the forceful speakers at the Macon convention of B. W. M. U. In three weeks she is to sail from San Francisco for Shinchow, China, where she is doing missionary work under the S. B. C.

The hearts of the women of the Atlanta Association of B. W. M. U. were made to rejoice when they carried off the banner for the best W. M. S. scrap book in the state at the Macon convention. Mrs. J. W. Awtry, of Atlanta, is being congratulated as she is the chairman of the scrap book committee.

The Atlanta Association of B. W. M. U. which has been in the west central division with Mrs. Idus Robertson, vice president, has been transferred to the north central division of which Mrs. Paul Jones, of Canton, is vice president. Members of this association please note this change in making reports.

Among the most interesting features of the Macon convention was the exhibit of mission study posters arranged by Mrs. Paul White, of Rome, state mission study chairman, and her assistant, Mrs. Swain.

The minutes of the Atlanta Association B. W. M. U. have come from the press and may be had at Baptist headquarters, 317 Palmer building.

An all-day mission study class will be held at Kirkwood Baptist church, Tuesday, November 24. The book "Along the Highway of Service," by Miss Buhlmaier, will be taught by Mrs. J. W. Wills. The class will begin promptly at 10:30 o'clock. Lunch will be served at 1 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to all who would be interested in taking this book.

MRS. J. L. JACKSON.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS INDORSE COIN SALE

Barnesville, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—The third district convention of the Knights of Pythias, meeting in Barnesville, indorsed the coin campaign of the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial association and thanked Will G. Moore, grand chancellor of the domain of Georgia, for bringing officially the matter before the body.

Coming Passion Play Film Held as Visible Sermon

It is generally conceded that the most impressive channel to the mind, or soul, is the eye. Nothing so fixes itself in the memory for either weal or woe as that which has been seen.

There has never been a time when thoughtful people were more keenly alive to the importance of visualization with its resultant effect upon character and in the ratio that they recognize this potent influence, does their new feeling of responsibility increase.

Motion pictures have long since ceased to be a negligible factor. On the contrary, they are proving a rather fair gauge of a city's morale and a visit to the various theaters might well provide an acid test of civic standards. For it is not so much when under the restraint of routine affairs as in their reactions to diversion, that people show themselves for what they really are.

An attention too seldom accorded them in the past is now being given to that which exictes laughter and applause or stirs the more profound emotions. These are recognized as sympathetic, hence the mind is great for an increased vigilance in presenting such means of diversion or educational advancement as may redound to the credit of a city as well as to individual character.

And it is at this point that an ever-enlarging group of those who feel a real concern for their fellow citizens and the best of the motion picture producers are drawing closer together with a common task before them.

With such an end in view the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, by special arrangement with the Passion Play committee, will present for one week at the city auditorium the greatest of film dramas, the Passion Play.

All down the centuries since the Savior of mankind went to His sacrificial death, men have sought truth by tongue and pen to convey to others some semblance of what those last days meant. But no spoken words, it matters not how beautiful the imagery, no written sermon whatever of graphic description it might contain, could compare in its impressiveness with that living spectacle as enacted through the centuries by those simple Freiburg peasants for whom the Passion Play has been a deeply pious rite.

May all who come to view this visible sermon, and it is hoped there will thousands, purge their hearts of worldliness or any contaminating thoughts, that the full spirit of this most marvelous teaching as taken through the eye may sink deep into their souls.

By those who stand as sponsors for this production in Atlanta, it is prayerfully believed that the viewing of the Passion Play will carry our city forward to spiritual heights, inasmuch as it cannot but mean a transformation in many lives.

Executive Board Atlanta Diocese.

The executive board of the Woman's auxiliary of the Atlanta diocese of the Episcopal church held an important meeting Wednesday at the residence of the president, Miss Lucinda Snook.

The principal subjects acted upon were the new program of the auxiliary adopted at the New Orleans convention, and the preparation for the nation-wide campaign the coming week in all the parishes of the church.

The auxiliary urged that special prayer services be held by its members during the campaign, and that the branches actively participate in the canvass. Resolutions were passed expressing the deep concern of the auxiliary in the campaign, and pledging hearty support to the bishop and executive board.

Following the session, Miss Snook entertained the board at luncheon. Those present were Mrs. H. N. Hurt, Mrs. R. P. Shapard, Mrs. R. J. Sauls, Mrs. W. W. Hume, Jr., Mrs. Pettigrew, Mrs. Robin Graham, Mrs. Henry W. Davis, Miss Rosa Woodberry and Miss Snook.

Young Matrons' Class Honored At Party.

Mrs. O. G. Buffington and Mrs. T. M. Freeman were joint hostesses to the young matrons' class of Martha Brown Memorial church last Friday evening at the home of their mother, Mrs. Netherland. The home was attractively decorated with cut flowers and potted plants.

The annual election of officers was conducted at this meeting. Mrs. C. B. Everett reelected president; Mrs. C. E. Clarke elected first vice president; Mrs. G. S. Adams, second vice president; Mrs. Bernice Bowman, recording secretary; Mrs. W. F. Jones, treasurer, and Mrs. Byron Minor, corresponding secretary.

Several interesting games were enjoyed. Mrs. Z. V. Peterson and Mrs. Netherland assisted in the entertaining. The program was arranged for home-coming day which will be the last Sunday in this month.

Mrs. Leo Sudderth and Mrs. R. C. Harmon were in charge of this program.

Ponce de Leon Baptist Mission Study Class.

The thrilling stories of the lives of women who have gone into the foreign fields as missionaries was the delightful subject before the Fannie E. Heck Mission study class of the Ponce de Leon Avenue Baptist church on Tuesday morning.

Begining with Henrietta Hall Shuck, first Baptist woman missionary to China in 1835-45; Eliza Moring Yates, 46 years a missionary to Shanghai, 1846-94; Martha Foster Crawford, 58 years a missionary to China, 1851-1909; Lula F. Whilden, the friend of Chinese women, whose work began in 1872 and still is going on; Lottie Moon, 40 years a missionary to north China, 1873-1912.

From the ranks of Southern Baptist women many of the noblest home and foreign missionaries have gone on missionary service.

The study class meets Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock with Mrs. W. Martin.

ORDINATION SERVICE TODAY AT SUMMERVILLE

Summerville, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—Dr. D. W. Furry, president of Shorter college, Rome, will preach the ordination sermon at the First Baptist church here next Sunday, when six new deacons of that church will be ordained: They are B. E. Neal, W. P. Selman, A. J. Ellenburg, Duke M. Espy, Robert A. Harlow and R. N. Trimble.

Three deacons for the Berryman Baptist church will also be ordained at the same time and place, and by request of the Berryton church, by the same presbytery.

The Rev. J. G. Black, of Trion Baptist church, and the Rev. D. B. Maffett, of the Berryton church, and the deacons of the churches at Trion, Berryton and Pleasant Grove will be in the presbytery to assist in the ordination service.

EDUCATION WEEK HELD AT CARROLLTON

Carrollton, Ga., November 21.—(Special.)—From November 16 to 20 American Education week was observed throughout the Carrollton public schools. Tuesday afternoon in the high-school auditorium Miss Campbell, state supervisor of home economics, gave a most interesting talk to the mothers.

L. C. Mandeville offered as a prize to the school registering the largest number of visitors during the week a picture, "Landing of the Pilgrims." This goes to the College Street school, as they registered 543. High School registered 426; Maple Street school 200 and the negro school 130.

The decorations in each building were of work done by pupils and reflect much credit on teachers and pupils.

Missionary Program at Grant Park Baptist

Two interesting missionary programs were presented last week, one at the Woman's Missionary society and one at the Business Women's league and Young Women's auxiliary of the Grant Park Baptist church.

Sixteen members of the Woman's Missionary society represented 16 different departments and phases of woman's missionary union work and made the subject, "Ways of Winning," one of vital interest and of real profit.

A man doesn't mind being abused because of his great wealth.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any drug or department store and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove your freckles.—(adv.)

A Majestic BEAUTY

So enchanting, so fascinating, it compels the admiration and homage of all. A skin and complexion of unsurpassed beauty you will be proud to possess.

Made in White - Flesh - Rachel

GOURAUD'S ORIENTAL CREAM

Send 10c. for Trial Size

Ford. T. Hopkins & Son, New York City

Hair Beauty

Thick, Gleamy Hair —Full of Life

The constant curling and waving demanded by modern style in hair dress, slowly burns the color, lustre and very life from the hair, leaving it dry, faded, brittle, streaked with gray; then the hair roots shrink and the hair falls out fast.

A 35-cent bottle of refreshing, fragrant "Danderine" will do wonders for any girl's hair. This vitalizing beauty-tonic acts on the hair like fresh showers of rain and sunshine act on vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates, nourishes and strengthens them, helping the hair to grow thick, healthy and luxuriant.

Try this for one week! While combing and dressing your hair, moisten your hair brush with a little "Danderine" and brush it through your hair—the effect is startling! Your hair immediately takes on new life and that healthy, youthful lustre, becomes incomparably soft, wavy and appears twice as thick and abundant. —(adv.)

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

VOL. LVIII., No. 162. ATLANTA, GA., SUNDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 22, 1925.

RICH'S

—Don't fail to see the "Passion Play"—the famous picture to be shown in the Auditorium-Armory the week of November 30. Sponsored by Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs.

Boudoir Sets $1

—Gifts that carry a "Merry Christmas" in every carefully-worked stitch! Make it a gift of your own hands! Daintily embroidered boudoir set—consisting of pillow, scarf and vanity—stamped on striped lawn in blue, pink, lavender and beige.

Stamped Aprons, $1

—Lucky day aprons stamped on fine linen in smart designs. Flame, orange.

Vanity Scarf, 59c

—Three-piece vanity and 18x45 scarf — stamped on rose linen finished material. Effective designs for colored embroidery.

Powder Jars, 98c

— Imported China Powder Jars—fashioned in the form of colonial dames. Rose, blue and yellow. Unusual accessories for the dresser or vanity.

Baskets, $1

—Imported Italian baskets, hand-woven in solid or variegated colors. Ideal work baskets or shopping bags.

—RICH'S, SECOND FLOOR

Yo Ho! Toyland!

—More fun 'n' a barrel o' monkeys! See Fuzzy an' Wuzzy, the two funny live bear cubs. Your old friend Lim-po-po, the life-size elephant, in the window. Come! Bring everybody! Be happy in Toyland —where Christmas Dreams come true!

—RICH'S, FOURTH FLOOR

Men's Belt Sets, $4.95

—Sterling Silver Belt Buckle sets—engraved buckle with beltogram, chain and cuff links to match. All Sterling and engraved to match! Fitted in a lovely gift box with satin and velvet lining! $4.95

Gift Novelties—35c to $2.50

Boy's Pocket Knife Sets—98c

—RICH'S, STREET FLOOR

Boudoir Clocks, $1.95

—Imported Boudoir Clocks of different colored enamel and Goliath cases—in unique shapes. They make useful gifts that will endure—and at the same time express the inherent good taste and individuality of the donor! $1.95 to $3.95.

Imported Pullman Clocks—$8.50

—RICH'S, STREET FLOOR

All Hair Goods ¼ Less

$20 Grey Transformations—$14.50
$15 Transformations—$10.50.
Orders taken to match samples of hair at reduced prices this week.
Special this week—$1 Komplex with Jar of cold cream, $1.15.

—RICH'S, FOURTH FLOOR

Shawls

From Spain, France and Italy—

Luxurious silken squares with swirling fringe, dancing color and golden tracery will rule gay Atlanta's evenings throughout the holiday social season. Hand painted, hand embroidered and solid colors. The perfect Christmas gift! Priced from $15 to $34.95.

Wool Scarfs—$1.95 to $20

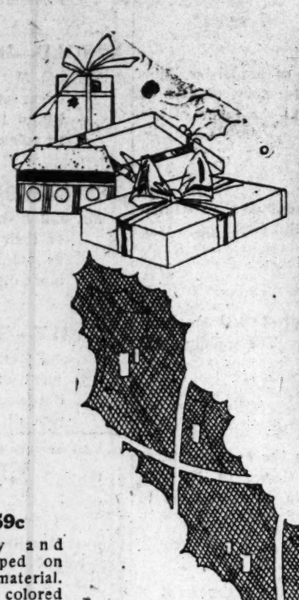
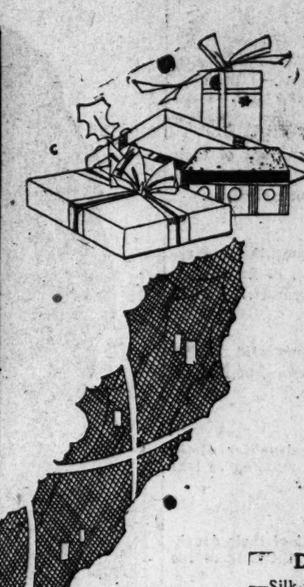
—RICH'S, STREET FLOOR





Timely Purchase and Sale—to Start Gift Lists!

Silk Lingerie

—Refreshingly new gowns and pajamas. Charming new bed sacques. The daintiest of teddies and step-ins. Of crepe de Chine and radium. Flower-like bits of pure silken loveliness to make Her Christmas happiness complete. Special Purchase! Contracted for months ago, when the price of silk was at its lowest ebb.—Hence the savings. Please read!

New Silk Pajamas

—Slipover crepe de chine pajamas, cut full and well made. Wide Val or Venice lace trims them. Here and there, embroidered net medallions. Coral, orchid, Nile, flesh. Givable! $5.94. $5.94

Silken Bed Sacques.

—Ecru laces, ribbon rosettes, Lady Fair ribbon, and French flowers make these pastel-tinted pure silk crepe de chine Bed Sacques poems of loveliness. With short kimono sleeves. $3.94. $3.94

Crepe de Chine Gowns

—Instead of $5. Hemstitching and dainty ribbon flowers add a feminine touch to tailored gowns. Irish and Venise laces or narrow Val insertions on others. Peach, flesh, orchid, Nile. Cut full. $3.94

Crepe de Chine Teddies

—All-silk. Cut full. Will not pull apart in laundering. Tailored, with hemstitching and embroidered motifs. Or else with embroidered net, narrow Venise laces, and ribbon flowers. 36 to 44. $2.94

Crepe de Chine Gowns

—Square neck with shoulder straps. Round neck—sleeveless. Insertion and groups of narrow tucks for fullness form the entire fronts. Some with net medallions. Good colors. Wonderful gifts. 36 to 40. $2.94

Two-Piece Pajamas

—Usual $12.50 quality.—Imagine! Of bright-colored Jap silks. Solid-hued trousers, bordered with figured silks to match. Jap silk tops in brilliant Oriental patterns. Neck piped. Sizes 34 to 40. Well made. For Holiday giving. $9.95

Crepe de Chine Gowns

—PURE 4-THREAD Crepe de Chine. V and round neck. With Val, net, filet medallions, French flowers, and contrasting piping. Six pastel tints. $5.94

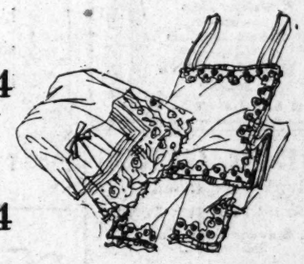
Silk Step-Ins

—Silk Crepe de Chine, many with deep Val lace-trimmed scalloped bottoms. Some with Val lace insertion and edge. Flesh, peach, Nile, coral. $2.94

Crepe de Chine Teddies

—Teddies whose fronts are combined with narrow Val insertions, embroidered net, and fine tucks. Others tailored, with hemstitching and hand-work. Six shades. $3.94

—RICH'S, THIRD FLOOR



RICH'S

NEWS of great interest to women will be found in today's "Journal"—News of a Sale of the famous Amsterdam Coats — wonderful showroom models. Don't miss a word!

54-in. Woolens $1.69

—Instead of $2.50 to $4.50. For fashionable winter frocks with "lines that move." 1½ to 2 yds. for a dress. Tan, navy, black, grey, green, red, and rosewood.

54-in. Tweeds
54-in. Cheviots
54-in. Check
Flannel, $1.69

54-in. French Serge
54-in. Jersey
54-in. Velour,
All $1.69

Duvetyn, $1.47

—Silk-faced. Navy, black, tan, powder blue, French blue, henna, lipstick red, grey, wallflower red, and green. 40-in.

Flannel, $2.95

—Usually $4.50 to $5.50. Plaid and stripe cashmere flannels. Imported. Lightweight. Finest woolens. $2.95. Think of the savings!

—RICH'S, SECOND FLOOR

Silk Teddies, $2.49

—Glove silk teddies is the gift of gifts for the woman who is ever immaculately groomed. Heavy, firmly-woven glove silk, expertly tailored. Pink, peach, orchid, nile and corn. Lace-trimmed styles at $2.98.

—RICH'S, STREET FLOOR

Silk Hose Gifts, $1.95

—Sheer all-silk hose—silk from top to toe! 'Twill make a welcome and useful gift! Street and evening shades.

Silk chiffon—pointed heel hosiery, $2.50.

—RICH'S, STREET FLOOR

Men's Pen Sets, $3.95

—New Point Pencil and Pen Sets—smartly fitted in boxes with velvet and satin linings! Pen with medium point of 14 karat gold. Of black, brown or combination of colors. Gold filled pencil. An ideal and useful gift for men!

—RICH'S, STREET FLOOR

Florentine Frames, $1

—Florentine mosaic picture frames—imported from far-away Italy! Variety of sizes from very tiny ones to the large cabinet size! What individual gifts expressing the perfect taste and individuality of the donor! $1 to $7.50.

—RICH'S, STREET FLOOR

Special Purchase! Just 20

Beaded Tunics $25

Intended to Sell at $39.50 to $49.50.

—Right in time for Holiday Festivities! Gorgeously beaded colored Tunics, all a-sparkle with crystal designs. Special Purchase! At a price that represents wholesale cost today! Showroom samples. And they're BEAUTIFUL! One would make a most prized gift.—20 won't tarry long! Be early!

White Copen
'American Beauty
Jade
Coral
Silver
Grey

TRIMMING DEPT., —RICH'S, SECOND FLOOR

54-in. Gift Silks $2.95

—Usually $4.50 to $6.50. Pebble Crepes. Satin Crepes—plain and bordered. A Monday November Silk Sale feature. A dress length for a gift! What delight to the recipient! What economy for YOU! Takes only 1½ to 2 yards—at $2.95. Buy now for Christmas gifts.

Flat Crepe, $1.74

—Heavy quality! In wanted street, evening and lingerie shades. 40-in. wide. For wear now. And for Christmas giving! Usually $2.50. Washable.

Chiffon Velvets, $3.95

—You KNOW she'd like a dress length! Loveliest street and evening shades. 40-in. Ranging in price from $3.95 to $8.

Costume Velvets, $2.39

— Evening and street shades. Remarkable quality for the money. American Beauty, lipstick red, blue, rose and black. 36-in.

Tub Radium, $1.19

—To make up into gift lingerie! To buy in givable lengths. Dainty pastel tints. 36-in. Modestly priced, at $1.19.

$2.95 Mingtoy Crepes, 40-in., $2.49

—RICH'S, SECOND FLOOR

Luncheon Sets, $4.95

From Czecho-Slovakia to YOU!
Special Purchase! Usually $7.50

—Thanksgiving Hostesses!—A rare treat! Mercerized Damask Dinner Sets from abroad at a saving of $2.55.

—Rich's, through its purchasing influence, secured 114—all an importer had.—At price concessions that bring the Sets to YOU —at IMPORTER'S COST TO LAND.

60x80 Cloths and TWELVE Napkins $4.95

—At $4.95! Napkins, size 14-in. Hemstitched. Blue-and-gold, blue-and-white, yellow-and-white. Every one guaranteed to stand up after many a tubbing—to be absolutely FAST COLOR.

Luncheon Sets, $7.95

—Instead of $10. PURE LINEN! Fifty. Hemstitched. 58x78-in. Cloths, ONE DOZEN 15-in. Napkins. White, with yellow and lavender borders. Or blue or gold backgrounds.

Madeira Cloths, $21.95

—Instead of $30. Special Purchase! Oblong Madeira Luncheon Cloths, embroidered in elaborate baskets, wreaths, etc. Rose point scallops. Hand-made. Size 62x80.

—$50 Madeira Cloths, 72x108, at $35.

—RICH'S, SECOND FLOOR

Fur Bandings Half!

Remarkable Purchase and Sale, Monday!

—A very fortunate purchase gives you these rich fur bandings—the season's smartest of trimmings—at half price! Your new frocks for Thanksgiving and Christmas festivities will demand quantities of fur.

$1.50 Coney, 75c

—Reversible black and brown Coney bandings, for which you ordinarily pay $1.50. One-inch wide. Remarkable at just 75c.

$3.50 Coney, $1.49

—Full 2-inch Black and Brown Coney bandings—reversible. Usual $3.50 quality. To lend distinctive accents to the smart frock!

$3.50 Coney, $1.39

—Black and Brown straight and cross-cut Coney—2 inches wide. Usual $3.50. All brand new—and decidedly smart!

$5.95 Coney, $2.95

—Two-inch wide — rich plucked Coney bands—reversible. It would be $5.95 at other times. In beaver, platinum, steel and wood shades.

$12 Thibetines, $5.95

—Flattering Thibetines — 4 inches wide. It ordinarily sells for $12. In shades of platinum, sable, cocoa and blue fox.

$15 Thibetines, $7.50

—Six-inch luxurious Thibetines. For this quality you'd usually pay $15! In platinum and sable.

$2.50 White Moufflon—2-in., 98c

TRIMMING DEPT., —RICH'S, SECOND FLOOR

M. RICH & BROS. CO.

BROAD-ALABAMA & FORSYTH STS.—PHONE WALNUT 4636

ENGAGEMENTS

GOTTSCHALDT—M'CLINTOCK.

Dr. M. Charles Gottschaldt, of Heempstead, Long Island and New York City, announces the engagement of his daughter, Helen Marie Gottschaldt, to James Douglas McClintock, formerly of Beacon, N. Y., and now of Atlanta.

BANKHEAD—DAVIS.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bankhead, of Jasper, Ala., announce the engagement of their daughter, Louise, to H. Melville Davis, of Birmingham, Ala., the date of the marriage to be announced later.

VOLBERG—KLING.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Volberg, Jr., announce the engagement of their daughter, Gertrude Elizabeth, to William Leslie Kling, of Bristol, Tenn., the wedding to take place the latter part of December.

BERRY—BYRD.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Berry, of Norcross, Ga., announce the engagement of their daughter, Bessie, to John M. Byrd, of East Point, the marriage to take place the latter part of December.

MIDDLEBROOK—MOORE.

Thomas Jefferson Middlebrook announces the engagement of his daughter, Alice Eugenia, to Goodman Hughes Moore, of Dahlonega, the marriage to be solemnized in December.

SHINN—BECK.

Mrs. C. J. Shinn announces the engagement of her daughter, Helen Pearl, to Hoyt Merrill Beck, of Bowdon, Ga., the wedding to take place during the Christmas holidays. No cards.

ASHLEY—LORD.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Ashley announce the engagement of their daughter, Eunice Mildred, to Willburn Franklin Lord, the date of the marriage to be announced later.

SCHELL—ALLEN.

Mr. and Mrs. Algernon Sidney Schell, of East Point, announce the engagement of their daughter, Effie Grace, to James Lovic Allen, the marriage to be solemnized in December. No cards.

DRANE—TATUM.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Drane, of Columbus, announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Ernestine, to Robert Reid Tatum, of Winter Park, Fla., the wedding to be solemnized December 23.

STEPHENS—ELLINGTON.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Stephens, of Fairburn, announce the engagement of their daughter, Annie Kate, to E. Ralph Ellington, of College Park, the wedding to be solemnized in December. No cards.

HUFF—STANDARD.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Huff, of Hollonville, Ga., announce the engagement of their daughter, Daisy Belle, to Bernard Standard, of Hampton, Ga., the wedding to take place in December.

WALL—SOLOMONS.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Layfete Wall, of Milledgeville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen, to Elliott Tyler Solomons, of Estill, S. C., the wedding to be solemnized December 30 at the home of the bride's parents.

ROBISON—WATSON.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Robison, of Lumpkin, announce the engagement of their daughter, Alice Elizabeth, to Buron A. Watson, of Wadley, the marriage to be solemnized at an early date.

DARSEY—CHESTER.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Darsey, of Whigham, Ga., announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary, to Oliver Leland Chester, of Whigham, the marriage to be solemnized in December.

ROBERTS—HERNDON.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Roberts, of Pendergrass, announce the engagement of their daughter, Willo-Nelle, to Franz Herndon, of Madison, the wedding to be solemnized in December.

Engagement Announced Today

Photo by Lewis studio.

Miss Alice Eugenia Middlebrook, whose engagement is announced today to Goodman Hughes Moore, of Dahlonega. Miss Middlebrook is the attractive daughter of Thomas Jefferson Middlebrook.

AYERS—EDISON.

J. W. Ayers, of Marietta, announces the engagement of his daughter, Floy Irene, to Thelon Carl Edison, the marriage to be solemnized November 25. No cards.

DARLING—MYERS.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Darling, of Waycross, announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothea, to Elbert Magruder Myers, of Atlanta, the wedding to take place in December.

FULTON—GAINES.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller Lee Fulton, of Elberton, announce the engagement of their daughter, Nannie Lee, to Frank C. Gaines, of Fitzgerald, the marriage to be solemnized the latter part of December. No cards.

Miss Gafford Weds John W. Perrin.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gafford, of Columbus, Ga., announce the marriage of their daughter, Mamie Bessie, to John W. Perrin, of Columbus, formerly of Atlanta, Ga. The marriage took place Sunday, November 15, at 8:30 a. m., at the St. Luke Methodist church, Columbus, Ga. Rev. C. R. Jenkins officiated. Only the immediate family and a few friends were present. Mr. and Mrs. Perrin left immediately after the ceremony for Atlanta to spend several days, after which they will be at home in Columbus.

Mrs. Cullers Weds James K. Chapman.

Dr. and Mrs. B. J. DuBose, announce the marriage of their daughter, Mrs. Cordelia Dubose Cullars, to James Kilpatrick Chapman, formerly of Athens, now of Avon Park, Fla., the marriage having occurred in Anderson, S. C., April 1.

CRUMBLEY—TINGLE.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Crumbley announce the engagement of their daughter, Nellie Lou, to Archie Daniel Tingle, Jr., the marriage to be solemnized at an early date.

HARPER—MONTGOMERY.

Mrs. Evelyn Richards announces the engagement of her sister, Miss Patty Milanda Harper, to James Andrew Montgomery, of Atlanta, the wedding to be solemnized in December at the home of the bride-elect's sister on Greenwood avenue.

HAMBY—JOHNSON.

Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Hamby announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Lucile, to Clifford Ernest Johnson, the marriage to take place December 23.

BURDSAL—CHAPMAN.

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Burdsal announce the engagement of their daughter, Sylvia Narcend Burdsal, to Herbert Chapman. The wedding will take place December 25.

HUGHES—CAMP.
HUGHES—GANN.

Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Hughes, of Smyrna, announce the engagement of their daughters, Ethel to Charles Edward Camp, of Marietta, and Irene to Edwin Hamby Gann, of Marietta, the marriages to be solemnized in December.

JARRELL—LEDBETTER.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Jarrell, of Greenville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Alice Elizabeth, to George Henry Ledbetter, of New Orleans, La., formerly of Austin, Texas, the wedding to be solemnized the early part of January. No cards.

CARDELLE—TINGLE.

Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Cardelle announce the engagement of their daughter, Flora Mae, to James Sylvanus Tingle, the marriage to be solemnized at an early date.

ARNOLD—BURGHARD.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Park Arnold, of Palmetto, Ga., announce the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth Christine, to Frederick Hilton Burghard, of Quincy, Fla., and Atlanta, the marriage to be solemnized the early part of December.

TEEM—WORLEY.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin I. Teem, of Marietta, announce the engagement of their daughter, Gladys, to Clarence Worley, the marriage to be solemnized on Sunday, November 22, at 8 o'clock in the morning at the home of the bride's parents.

TUGGLE—BURGESS.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Tuggle, of Stone Mountain, announce the engagement of their daughter, Martha Brantley, to Benjamin Bartow Burgess, of Decatur, the marriage to be solemnized the latter part of December. No cards.

FOR HER XMAS

Gowns, $4.50 up — Silk Hosiery, $1.00 up
Teddies, $3.00 up — Fancy Garters, 50c up
Kayser Knickers, $3.75 up — Kayser Vests, $2.50
Girdles, Corselettes, Etc.

EAGER & SIMPSON
8 N. FORSYTH ST., WALNUT 4972

Mrs. Pierce Honors Bride-Elect At Shower.

A lovely affair of Saturday afternoon was a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Barney Pierce at her home in Atkins park, complimenting Miss Hazel Bennett, a bride-elect.

The rooms were beautifully decorated in pink and white chrysanthemums. The color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the heart-shaped mints and favors.

Mrs. Pierce was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. A. C. Clements and Miss Ruby White.

Among the invited guests were Misses Eva Ivey, Lucile Settle, Ethel Taylor, Winnie Bell Meredith, Eloise Bramlitt, Ellen Bennett, VaLera Bennett, Mildred Burpitt, Mrs. Frank Garrison, Mrs. Stokely Northcutt, Mrs. Alverson, Mrs. James Burpitt and Mrs. L. P. Cox.

Miss West Weds Lewis C. Cox.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Green announce the marriage of their niece, Lillian Mathilde West, to Lewis Chable Cox, of East Point, on November 11.

The Store of Dependability

Something of Value
For Nothing

WE add nothing to the selling price because of the fact that every article in our stock is of dependable quality. We add nothing to the price of the article you purchase to make up for having taken something off of the price of an article sold to someone else. We have but one price and that price is as low as jewelry of like quality can be sold. The satisfaction of knowing that your purchase is exactly as represented and is of known quality, costs you nothing.

Latham & Atkinson
Jewelers
Successors to DAVIS & FREEMAN
47 WHITEHALL

The only change is in the name

Genuine Orange Blossom Wedding Rings —and— Diamond Mountings —at— E. A. MORGAN'S Jeweler
10 & 12 East Hunter St.

BRIDGE CARDS
With Your Initials
Samples and Prices Upon Request
J. P. Stevens Engraving Co.
Atlanta, Ga.

Christmas Card Talk

Never in the history of the use of greeting cards has there been such a demand for something different from the stereotyped—as there is this season.

Those who are particular want something that is distinctive and free from "bargain counter characteristics;" in other words, they want originality and elegance combined with high-grade material, with greeting that represents an individual expression.

In the specimens which the Stevens Engraving Company exhibit this season the capable designers and the experienced workmen have coordinated the highest interpretation of their arts—and the result shows a wondrful selection of new designs and striking ideas.

Order now from J. P. Stevens Engraving Company, 103 Peachtree Street, Atlanta, Ga.

C. & C. Rosenbaum
Successors To
Kutz
MILLINER
11 W. Alabama St.
ATLANTA

The Fur Neckpiece

As a gift there is nothing more desirable. You may select now for Christmas from our collection of dependable furs.

Lovely Artificial Flowers

Judge a millinery shoppe by the flowers it keeps. Here you always see a delightful selection of flowers for hats and dresses, including many hand-made creations from France.

Fur Coats at Half Price

Only four coats left in stock. A wonderful buy for anyone needing a coat. Fine quality fur. Because of the small number, we have determined to clear them out at half price.

New Hats That Will Be Admired Thanksgiving Day Displayed at Rosenbaum's

The Right Hat Adds Charm

Exclusive Modes from foremost designers are here in time for Thanksgiving. You will see these predominating modes at the game, and every place where fashionable women gather. Your hat should be from this selection.

Fine Hosiery

The season's new colors in hosiery of dependable quality. As-You-Like-It and Corticelli. All sizes.

ATLANTA'S EXCLUSIVE MILLINERY SHOPPE

SOLID SILVER

Gifts that Last

VIRGINIA CARVEL

Our Virginia Carvel table service, fashioned from solid silver, will richly adorn your dining room. Its classic Colonial lines sparkle with dainty decorative chains of flowers. It is permanent—a full set of flat ware and dinner ware from which new pieces may be selected at any time.

All Solid Silver is marked "STERLING"! The word "STERLING" stamped on Virginia Carvel silverware is the mark which may be used only on solid silver—pure, enduring silver of the U. S. Govt. standard of quality.
Look for the "STERLING" Imprint.

Our Stock of Silverware Is Distinctive for Being All Sterling

Myron E. Freeman & Bro.
JEWELERS
103 PEACHTREE STREET, ATLANTA

Frohsin's
Correct Dress for Women
50 WHITEHALL

Sale! Monday at 9!

Every Wool Dress
In Our Entire Stock
Drastically Reduced!

WOOL and Sport Dresses made of Charmeen, Mirroleen, Tweeds, Balbriggans, Scotch Weaves and Jersey—including one and two-piece Combinations of Velvet and Plaids and Velvet and Tweeds.

A group of Jersey and Balbriggan Dresses in one and two-piece effects that were up to 14.75—NOW 6.75

Dresses that were up to 16.75 are 10.75
Dresses that were 24.75 and 29.75 are 19.75
Dresses that were 34.75 and 39.75 are 27.50
Dresses that were 44.75 and 49.75 are 34.50
Dresses that were 59.75 and 69.75 are 43.50

Every Ensemble Suit
Drastically Reduced!

NO SMART WOMAN can afford to be without a costume suit this winter. This occasion offers an exceptional purchasing opportunity. Many of the coats alone would ordinarily cost as much as the complete costume! Tailored and fur-trimmed models.

Ensembles that were 59.75 and 69.75 now 47.50
Ensembles that were 79.75 and 89.75 now 64.50
Ensembles that were 114.75 and 129.75 are 89.75
Ensembles that were 139.75 and 149.75 are 98.75
Ensembles that were 159.75 and 169.75 are reduced to 129.75

Every Sale Final! No Exchanges!

Box-Holders for Opening Night Of "Passion Play" Announced

The vested choir of All Saints church will sing on the opening night of the Passion Play, Monday evening November 30, at the city auditorium. An organ program of numbers incident to the picture will be given during the showing and the choir, under the direction of Mr. Arno, will sing several selections during the evening.

All boxes have been sold for Monday evening. There will be only one showing Monday, at 8:15 o'clock, and already a brilliant assemblage is assured for this performance. Mrs. Blair Foster is chairman of boxes for Tuesday evening and reservations may be made by telephoning her. Mrs. F. J. Paxon is chairman of boxes for Wednesday matinee, when a number of box parties will be given for children. The price for box seats for children's parties are 50 cents and may be reserved by telephoning Mrs. Paxon.

Those occupying boxes Monday evening will be: Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Rambo, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Percy, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Ottley, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Stone, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Haden, Mr. and Mrs. George Walker, Thomas K. Glenn, J. J. Haverty, Dr. and Mrs. Thornwell Jacobs, former Governor and Mrs. John M. Slaton, Mr. ad Mrs. E. M. Helbig, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hazzard, Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Sterling, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Spiker, Mr. and Mrs. William Akers, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Hentz, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Paxon, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Harper, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Quinn, Mayor and Mrs. Walter Sims, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Robinson, Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Hastings, Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, W. R. C. Smith, president; Junior Chamber of Commerce, John M. Slaton, Jr., president; Atlanta Woman's club, Mrs. Norman Sharp, president; Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Nichols, Atlanta Art association, J. Carroll Payne, president; Drama league, Mrs. Edgar Neely, president; Atlanta chapter, D. A. R., Mrs. Lucius McConnell, regent; Atlanta chapter, U. D. C., two boxes; Woman's division, Chamber of Commerce, Miss Susie Wailes, president, three boxes; Better Films committee, Mrs. R. F. McCormack, president League of Women Voters, Kirkwood Civic league, Boulevard Par club, Mrs. R. H. Wolfe, president; Griffith School of Music, Mrs. Mary Butt Griffith Dobbs; P.-T. A. council, Mrs. George Howsmon, president; College Park Woman's club, Mrs. W. E. Lotspeich, president; West End Civic club, Mrs. Taylor Connally, president; LaGrange College Alumnae association, Mrs. A. G. Maxwell, president, two boxes.

Insist on "PHILLIPS" MILK OF MAGNESIA

Unless you ask for "Phillips," you may not get the original Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years as an antacid, laxative, corrective.

25-cent bottles, also 50-cent bottles, contain directions—any drug store.

Kentucky Club Plans Benefit Bridge For Memorial Fund

A benefit bridge-tea will be given Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Murray Hubbard, 968 Peachtree street.

The proceeds from this party will go toward the fund being raised by the club for the purpose of erecting a suitable memorial to Albert Sydney Johnson at his birth-place in Maysville, Ky. All Kentuckians and their friends who are interested in having a part in this patriotic endeavor are urged to be present.

For those who do not care to play bridge a musical program will be given, and a social hour will follow. All those desiring to do so will have the opportunity of making a silver offering to the fund.

The idea of restoring the birthplace of this famous general originated with Mrs. Abner Hard, honorary president of the club, who is a student of Kentucky history, especially of the civil war period. The United Daughters of Confederacy of Kentucky have acted upon her suggestion and plan to take up the task this coming year.

The following committee is in charge of the bridge-tea: Mrs. Guy Woolford, chairman; Mrs. Henry Phipps, Mrs. W. F. Minnich and Mrs. C. L. Williams.

Missionary To Speak Monday Afternoon.

Miss Rheba C. Stewart, a missionary from China, will speak Monday afternoon, November 23, at 3 o'clock at the Woodward Avenue Baptist church. All circles of the W. M. S. will meet together for this occasion as it is the regular missionary day. The public also is invited to attend.

A mission study class was held at the church on Wednesday morning, November 18, at 10 o'clock. Mrs. Carl Babb, of Jackson Hill Baptist church, taught "The Decade of the W. M. U."

Mrs. Julia T. Jackson Honored At Brilliant Reception

A brilliant social event of statewide interest was the dinner given on Wednesday at the Henry Grady hotel by the Worthy Matrons' Club of Atlanta in honor of Mrs. Julia Jackson Turner, worthy grand matron of Georgia, Order of the Eastern Star. After the singing in unison of the "Star Spangled Banner," the invocation was offered by Mrs. H. E. Sisson, grand chaplain.

The welcome address was given by the club president, Mrs. Walker O. Browne, who presented the toastmaster of the evening, W. H. McLaren, worthy grand patron of Georgia. W. S. Richardson; most worshipful grand master of the Masons of Georgia, in a Masonic message gave his earnest assurance of the esteem and good will of the Masons for the Eastern Star. Mrs. Rose M. Ashby, worthy grand marshal of the general grand chapter, addressed the audience on "The Light of the Star," and presented the guest of honor, Mrs. Julia Jackson Turner, with a handsome silver console set, a gift from the Eastern Star chapters of Atlanta. Mrs. Turner responded in a very gracious manner, expressing her love and grateful appreciation to the Eastern Star.

In behalf of the Worthy Matrons' club, a beautiful basket of flowers was presented Mrs. Ashby by Mrs. J. E. McElroy, associate grand matron. W. H. McLaren, worthy grand patron, who presided as toastmaster during the evening, was tendered a silver beltogram set by the Worthy Matrons' club. The presentation of this gift was made by W. B. Savell, worthy patron of Martha chapter.

Mrs. W. H. Pools, accompanied by Mrs. Walter Tripp, rendered several attractive vocal numbers during the evening.

Baskets of chrysanthemums and autumn foliage, American flags and colors of the order were used in the decorations. The place cards bore emblematic flowers of the order. A large electric star illumined the table where the guests of honor were seated. At this table covers were laid for Mrs. Julia Jackson Turner, W. H. McLaren, W. S. Richardson, Mesdames Rose M. Ashby, J. E. McElroy, H. E. Sisson, Walker O. Browne, W. H. Poole, L. L. Boyer, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Savell, Mrs. J. H. Hardwick, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Delaney, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Cook, Mrs. J. A. McAllison, Mrs. W. C. Morris, Mrs. H. S. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Hall, Mrs. J. W. Queen, Mrs. A. J. Jordan, Mrs. Berta Chatham, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Griffin, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Cape, Mrs. W. M. Rapp, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Chambers, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Sharp, Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Pattillo, A. C. Minhinnett and Mrs. Walter Tripp.

Others present were Mrs. Luella Simpson, Mrs. Wilmoth Stallings, Mrs. J. L. Turner, Mrs. Ethel Carter, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Hilt, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Waldrip, Mrs. Estie Hansen, Mrs. A. K. Cavaliera, Mrs. Kate Kanade, Mrs. Margaret Huff, H. E. Sisson, Mr. and Mrs. O. D. White, Mrs. Arnold Richards, Mrs. H. M. Rantin, Mrs. Cora Ozmer, Mrs. J. S. Lanier, Mrs. A. E. Foley, Mr. and Mrs. Hope Hollingsworth, Mrs. Ed Gifford, Mrs. Ed Cameron, Mrs. Mamie Schelpert, Mrs. Sarah Sullivan, Mrs. C. D. Lawhorn, Mrs. Janie Baker, Mrs. Paul White, Miss Kate Shnford, Mrs. Lena Beddingfield, Mrs. Joe E. Haley, Mrs. William Carnes, Mrs. A. G. Helmer, Mrs. Arabelle James, Lawrence Holtzman, Mr. and Mrs. Dean, Miss Lora Belle Allen, Mrs. Inez Moody, Mrs. Nelson Brandt, Mrs. Carlton Brooks, Mrs. William Faulks, Mrs. E. W. Davis, Mrs. E. W. Trippe, Mrs. A. Gresham, Miss Theo Quarles, Miss Maude Quarles, Mrs. Harold Couch, Mrs. F. F. Edwards, Miss Carolyn Edwards, Miss Vivian Sheridan, Miss Myrtice Waddell, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Braswell, Mrs. May Brooks, Mrs. C. E. Sams, Mrs. Othella B. Poole, Miss Yates Poole, Miss Thelma Poole, Mrs. F. R. Munn, Miss Priscilla Munn, Miss Mildred Randall, Mrs. R. H. Crockett, Mrs. H. C. Buchanan, Mrs. Harold Newcomer, Mrs. Aline Jackson, Mrs. Eugene Randall, Mrs. G. L. Amos, Mrs. Effie Short, Miss Amanda Rusk, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Savell, Miss Bessie Savell, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Blair, Mrs. D. E. Boswell, Miss Mary Boswell, Miss Carrie Boswell, Mrs. Jennie Martin, Mrs. Justis Killian, Miss Margaret Killian, Mrs. Mark Lankford, Mrs. E. H. Smith, Mrs. Pearl Brooks, Miss Lucile Moon, Miss Myrtice Fowler, F. N. Morris, Mr. McMurray, Mrs. W. H. Chambers, Mrs. E. D. Thomas, Mrs. Aline Bishop, Mrs. J. E. Crockett, Mrs. V. Akers, Mrs. Riggle, Mrs. J. Garman, Mrs. Ozella Waller, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. O'Neal, Mrs. N. A. Lanford, Mrs. R. B. Deavours, Mrs. Eva Maxwell, Mrs. Louise Bailford, Mrs. Nannie Stockton, Mrs. Lydia McElhinney, Miss Grace Lanford, Mrs. Bessie Barr, Mrs. Fannie Ott, Mrs. J. Austin Dillon, Mrs. Satterwhite, L. B. Stephens, Mrs. L. P. Stevens, Mrs. Sophie Maby, Mrs. E. S. Thomas, Mrs. Cornett, Miss Esma Hines, William Walker, Miss Sallie Hancock, Mrs. J. L. Hudson, Mrs. Maisie O'Neal, Mrs. C. E. Marsh, Mrs. C. D. Young, Mrs. E. D. Powell, Mrs. C. A. Minhinnett, Miss Alma Owens, Clyde Adams, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Blake, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Dodd, Mrs. G. B. McElhaney, Mrs. S. T. Smith, Otis Smith, Mrs. Silvey, Mrs. Clay Covington, Mrs. Kate Ottwell, Mrs. H. T. Cox, Mrs. S. L. Davis, Miss Mary Davis, Mrs. G. E. Harriman, Mrs. T. E. Harper, Mrs. W. E. Carnes, Mrs. Ida Jenkins, Mrs. J. R. Carson, Mrs. Lucile Braswell, Gordon Hardwick, Miss Kittie Blum, Mrs. A. L. Clarke, Mrs. C. E. Clark, Mrs. I. F. Bowden, Mrs. J. S. McWilliams, Mrs. Grace McWilliams, Mrs. H. Henson and Mrs. Burton.

Social News Of Hapeville.

Miss Helen Aaron, of Lyons, was the recent guest of Miss Louise Carter.

Miss Merle Perdue spent the past week-end with her parents on Stewart avenue.

Miss Louise Brown was the recent guest of Miss Margaret Allen and Miss Edna Burke.

Miss Mamie Lark Brown, of Birmingham, is visiting Miss Josephine Humphries.

Rev. and Mrs. John F. Jones will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary at their home on Fulton avenue, December 1.

The engagement is announced of Miss Gladys Kirkland to Thomas Perry, of Tampa, Fla., the ceremony to take place in December.

L. T. Carter has returned from a short business trip to Florida.

Mrs. Forrest Girrard entertained the Book club Thursday afternoon at her home on Atlanta avenue.

The Hapeville Woman's club held a meeting at the home of Mrs. D. B. Evans on Atlanta avenue Thursday, November 19. An address by Colonel Boifeuillet and original readings by Colonel Joseph Humphries were enjoyed.

Misses Edna, Helen and Edith Bobo spent the past week-end with their aunt, Mrs. J. P. Heeden, in Atlanta.

Mrs. James I. Cowan, of Decatur, visited friends in Hapeville this past week.

Mrs. Cicero Waits is ill at her home on Lake drive.

R. L. Hope School To Be Dedicated.

Formal dedication of the new R. L. Hope school at Peachtree and Piedmont roads will be held at a meeting at 7:30 o'clock on the night of November 30, it was decided at a session of the school's Parent-Teacher association held last Tuesday.

At that time plans for the dedication were made, and it was announced that Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta schools, will be the principal speaker. Mrs. Jackson, of the Ponce de Leon Baptist church, will appear in several musical numbers.

The dedication services will be conducted by Girl Scouts, and Boy Scouts will act as ushers.

The library chairman reported at Tuesday's meeting that 50 books have been donated.

The second grade of the school, having the largest number of mothers present at the meeting, was awarded the banner and tickets to the Howard theater matinee.

Y. W. C. A. To Sponsor Doll Festival.

Many extensive preparations are being made to insure the success of the doll festival, sponsored by the Girl Reserve division of the Y. W. C. A., to be held at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel on Saturday, December 5. Matinee at 3:30 and an evening performance at 8 o'clock.

Very interesting dolls have been secured for this exhibit, one doll, especially interesting, having a history dating from the revolution. Other French, Japanese and many other beautiful dolls are being dressed. Several dances will be given by girls costumed as dolls. A table of gingerbread dolls, corn cob dolls, and other unusual ones made by the Girl Reserves of different schools will be shown.

An invitation is extended to anyone owning a doll to enter the festival by calling the Y. W. C. A. at 21 West Baker street.

Miss Rowan Gives Dinner Party.

Among the social events of the past week was a dinner party given by Miss Louise Rowan at her home in West End. Autumn decorations were used throughout the house. The hostess was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. H. S. Rowan, and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Nash. Among those honored were Misses Rose Campbell, Margaret Campbell and Louise Rowan; Jack Ward, Miles Bradley and Alvin Alley.

Mrs. McMichael Will Present Piano Pupils.

Mrs. Lessie McMichael will present a number of her pupils in recital Monday evening, November 23, at her studio in the McKenzie building. Those taking part will be Miss Kate Ruth Johnson, dramatic soprano; James Hollingsworth, baritone; Miss Rena Bredosky, soprano, and Ralph Howell, tenor.

Mrs. Elmer T. Austin, pianist, pupil of Mrs. Elizabeth T. Gregory will assist Mrs. Merritt Duncan as accompanist.

Charity fund.

Lovely Bride-Elect Is Given Shower.

Mrs. H. G. Brown entertained at a miscellaneous shower at her home on Hartford avenue Saturday afternoon in honor of her sister, Miss Mary Lou Burks, bride-elect of December.

A contest and program was enjoyed during the afternoon. The house was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and ferns, the color scheme being pink and white.

The guest list included Misses Benton Sims, Evelyn Boyd, Grace, Thelma and Jessie Burks, Marie Hitt, Julia, Nora and Mary Waldrop, Odie Burks, Louise Barton, Mildred Moore, Hazel Lane, Lorene Phillips, Lillie Mae Bartlett, Lebron Pair, Allene Mann, Ernestine Henderson, Eva Mooney, Mrs. J. S. Burks, Mrs. Wayne Callaway, Mrs. J. T. Bartlett, Mrs. Pearce Tinsley, Mrs. L. P. Swinney, Mrs. J. L. Bartlett, Mrs. Fred Allen, Sr., Mrs. B. H. Karswisch and Mrs. Jessie Wilbanks.

Assisting Mrs. Brown in entertaining were Mrs. J. M. Callahan and Mrs. W. R. Sims.

Miss Mary White Weds Mr. Slade at Lovely Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Mary White, of Villa Rica, and Albert F. Slade, formerly of Pervis, Miss., but now making his home in Villa Rica, was quietly solemnized on November 21, at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. William Dobbs, on St. Charles avenue. Dr. Fletcher Walton officiating.

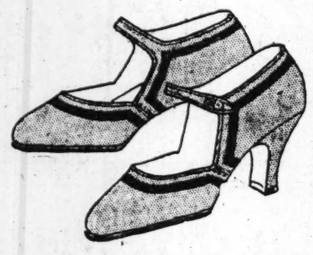
The house was decorated with ferns and white chrysanthemums.

Miss Edna Humphries played Mendelssohn's wedding march, and softly played "Traumerei" during the ceremony.

Miss White's only attendant was little Miss Sarah Dobbs, who was flower girl.

The bride was lovely in a costume of brown Romaine satin, and wore a corsage of sweetheart roses and valley lilies.

Try to match these for style and Value



As a matter of satisfaction on our part, we would just like for you to see these new Straps and Pumps and compare the values with any shoes sold in Atlanta up to $10.

—It might amaze you. We think it will!

$7.50

Satins, Patents, Tans
High and Low Heels

Carlton's
36 Whitehall St.

J. P. ALLEN & CO.

The Time is Short in which to Select Christmas Handkerchiefs in Comfort

We Have Ready to Show You
All the Latest Novelties in

Men's, Women's and Children's Handkerchiefs

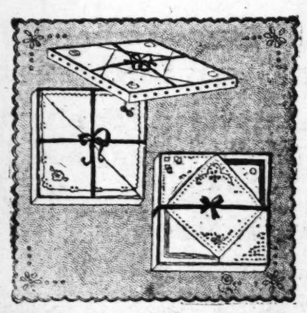
Men's Handkerchiefs

H. S. Linen Initials in boxes—25c, 35c, 50c and $1.00 each.
H. S. Irish Linen with fancy colored borders, 50c.
H. S. Hand-Made Pongee Silks at $1.00.
H. S. Pongee with colored embroidery initials and border, $1.
H. S. French Linen (our own importation), white and colored, $1.25 to $2.50.
H. S. Hand-made, hand-drawn threads on 1600 linen, white and colored, $1.25 to $2.00.
White H. S. corded borders, pure linen, 35c, 50c, 65c and to $2.00.
H. S. Radione Silk, white and colored, at 50c.
H. S. Novelty Silk, all white and white with colors, $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 and $2.00.
H. S. Extra Sheer Linen, full dress, $1.25 to $2.50.
H. S. White and colored bordered at 12½c to 50c.

Women's Handkerchiefs



—Linen initials—at 25, 35 and 50 cents each
—Hand-rolled linen with 3 and 4 rows hand-hemstitching, 85c
—Novelty voile in many pretty designs at 35c
—Novelty linen, voiles, silk, georgette and lace edges at 50c.
—Appenzel hand-embroidered (direct importation), $2.50 to $13.50
—Real lace edged novelties, $2.50 and up
—Lace-trimmed novelties at 59c, 75c, $1.00, $1.25 up
—French novelties (direct importations), many smart, exclusive designs, 50c and up!
—Silk, crepe, georgette, hand-painted and embroidered, 75c and up —Beautiful boxed novelties, $1.25 and up
—Hand-made of extra fine linen, made by our own corps expert needleworkers, $1.50 to $2.50

—Main Floor.

Hundreds of Styles Other Than Above

J. P. Allen & Co.

J. P. Allen & Co.

49-53 Whitehall
The Store All Women Know

Monday---

240 Dresses Reduced

One-fourth Off
One-third Off
Some Half Price

This is one of our famous Allen Sales without a quoted price---the early-season sale which all Allen patrons value---the new styles at reduced prices while the winter is before us---we assure you you will find splendid values.

Every one a New Fall Dress --- mostly conservative street dresses--Cloth, Satin, Crepe---Some Dinner and Evening Dreses---These dresses have new sales tickets because it is the season for readjustments of stocks ---finding one or two of a kind we have reduced something over two hundred for quick selling Monday.

—Former tickets remain—
—New tickets tell sale price

100 More of Those Popular Two-Piece Balbriggan Frocks $6.75

Many have velvet skirts and velvet trimming—Every lovely color in smart heather mixtures.

75 Exceptionally Good Satin and Crepe Dresses Reduced to $15

Many of these lovely models are smart two-piece styles—Silver Cloth and Satin combinations.

Our Entire Stock of Tailored and Costume Suits
Half Price

Made of Imported English tweeds—English and Scotch mixtures—some are fur trimmed.
—Silk crepe dresses—tweed coats—the dress alone is an opportunity at the price.

$45.00 Suits . . . $22.50
$55.00 Suits . . . $27.50
$75.00 Suits . . . $37.50
$95.00 Suits . . . $47.50
$110.00 Suits . . $55.00
$145.00 Suits . . $72.50
$195.00 Suits . . $97.50
$225.00 Suits . . $112.50

Miss Vanstory Weds Mr. Duncan At Lovely Church Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Jennie Vanstory and George W. Duncan, formerly of Macon and a graduate of the Georgia School of Technology, was a brilliant social event of Saturday evening, and took place at 8:30 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church in Greensboro, N. C.

The church was decorated with quantities of palms and smilax and tall floor vases with white chrysanthemums and cathedral candlesticks with white candles placed on the altar. Before the arrival of the wedding party, a musical program, organ and violin numbers, were rendered and vocal solos given by Norman Cordon, of New York city.

Bridal Party.

To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, the bridal party entered. First the ushers came down each side aisle, Rodney Cohen, of Augusta, Ga.; Edward Wadley, of Boston, Mass.; William H. Felton, Jr., of Macon, Ga., and Dr. John B. Duncan, of Atlanta. Two groomsmen followed down each aisle with the bridesmaids, Mrs. Thomas C. Hunt and Mrs. Lowry Stafford, following, alternating with two more groomsmen, and Miss Jessie Myers and Mrs. E. C. Elzemyer as matron of honor.

The three bridesmaids were gowned in gold moire trimmed with a darker shade of velvet, and carried bouquets of large shaggy golden colored chrysanthemums. The matron of honor was gowned in green moire and carried a bouquet of large golden colored chrysanthemums like the bridesmaids.

Nancy Witcher King and Katherine Murchinson Vanstory, small nieces of the bride, were the beautiful little flower girls, wearing pale yellow chiffon frocks and carrying old-fashioned bouquets of black-eyed susans and pompons.

Lovely Bride.

The bride, very lovely in her wedding dress of white shimmering satin and rose point lace and carrying an exquisite bouquet of orchids showered with valley lilies, entered with her brother, Robert M. Vanstory, of Fayetteville, N. C. They were met at the altar by the groom, George W. Duncan, and his best man, Jack Alley, of New York city. While the organ played an exquisite number, Dr. C. F. Myers, pastor of the church, performed the wedding ceremony.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception for the relatives, bridal party, most intimate friends and out-of-town guests was held at the home of the bride.

Mrs. Duncan is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Vanstory, old and prominent residents of Greensboro, N. C.; has lived there all her life and has been an admired and loved figure.

Mr. Duncan, formerly of Macon, Ga., is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George W. Duncan. On his mother's side he comes from a long line of distinguished ancestors, his great-grandfather, Judge Edward D. Tracy, being one of the youngest and earliest judges of the superior court of Macon, Ga. His grandfather on his father's side, Colonel Perry E. Duncan, of Greenville, S. C., was one of the original signers of the ordinance of secession.

Wedding Journey.

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan left at midnight, followed by the congratulations and best wishes of hosts of friends.

After their wedding trip they will reside in Lynchburg, Va., where Mr. Duncan is connected with the Consolidated Textile corporation.

Prize Winners at College Park 15th Chrysanthemum Show

The floral committee of the College Park Woman's club held the fifteenth annual chrysanthemum show at the city auditorium last Wednesday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock. A number of new varieties were exhibited for the first time in this locality, especially admired was the "Majestic," grown by Mrs. T. O. Plunkett; the "Vermont," grown by Mrs. Howard Stakely; the "Cheyenne," grown by Mrs. E. P. Crenshaw, and the "My Michigan," grown by Mrs. Oscar Palmour. The entire display was unusually handsome.

Mrs. W. E. Lotspeich, president of the club, in introducing Mrs. Oscar Palmour, chairman of the afternoon, spoke of her splendid achievements in producing such wonderful results in spite of the very unseasonable weather conditions of the past summer.

Mrs. Phinzy Calhoun, president of the Peachtree Garden club, was the speaker of the afternoon and gave a charming talk on "Roses and Their Culture." Miss Minna Hecker delighted the audience with two groups of songs, one especially appropriate, "The Rose Is Softly Blooming." Mrs. Clarence Wall accompanied her.

Mrs. Palmour presented the president with a basket of blooms, one from each grower's garden. Tea was served by Mrs. Hoyt Trimble, Mrs. C. M. Mount, Mrs. Lillie Love and Miss Thelma Holt. A beautiful silver vase, the trophy given each year for the best collection of 12 chrysanthemums, was won by Mrs. T. O. Plunkett.

The following prizes were awarded: Collection of 12 blooms, four varieties: First prize, silver vase, Mrs. T. O. Plunkett; second prize, Mrs. Oscar Palmour; third prize, Mrs. Henry Godby. Best seven yellow blooms: first prize, Mrs. C. L. Trimble; second prize, Mrs. Oscar Palmour; third prize, Mrs. Henry Godby.

Best seven pink blooms: First prize, Mrs. Howard Stakely; second prize, Mrs. T. O. Plunkett; third prize, Mrs. Henry Godby.

Best white blooms: First prize, Mrs. Henry Godby; second prize, Mrs. C. I. Trimble.

Best seven bronze blooms: First prize, Mrs. E. P. Crenshaw; second prize, Mrs. Henry Godby; third prize, Mrs. Oscar Palmour.

Miss Bessie Dawkins Weds Mr. Wright.

Rising Fawn, Ga., November 21.—Miss Bessie Dawkins and Randolph Wright, of Birmingham, Ala., were married Thursday, November 18, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dawkins. The officiating minister was the Rev. Thomas J. Smith, pastor of the Baptist church of Alton Park, Tenn.

The bride was gowned in a dress of white crepe de chine. Her matron-of-honor, Mrs. J. W. Richey, of Birmingham, Ala., wore a black satin back crepe with accessories of tan. Miss Lucile Middleton, the maid-of-honor, wore a full model of brown velvet. The groomsmen were J. W. Richey, of Birmingham, Ala., and W. H. Kenimer of this place. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served to the close friends and relatives who were the only guests.

Miss Elmore Weds Irwin T. Ragsdale At Home Ceremony

A marriage of interest to friends throughout Georgia and South Carolina was that of Miss Anne Katherine Elmore and Irwin Thomas Ragsdale at the home of the bride's parents on Wednesday, November 11.

The wedding was quietly solemnized, only immediate relatives of the families being present. Rev. Henry B. Mays, pastor of Inman Park Methodist church, performed the ceremony.

In the reception room a beautiful arrangement of ferns, palms, chrysanthemums and autumn leaves formed a lovely background for the wedding party.

The table in the dining room was covered with a silver basket filled with bride's roses.

The wedding music was furnished by Mrs. George Hanlin. Mendelssohn's Wedding March was used and "Traumerei" played softly during the ceremony.

The bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. She is of the vivid brunette type, and was radiantly lovely in a gown of blue romaine crepe with squirrel and silver trimmings. Her flowers were Ophelia roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Ragsdale is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Elmore and the sister of Lieutenant Elmore, U. S. navy.

Mr. Ragsdale holds a responsible position with the J. H. Hillsman Stock & Bond Co.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Ragsdale left for New Orleans. Upon their return they will be at home at 110 McLendon avenue, Inman Park.

College Park Social News.

Miss Lucy Talton, of Kathleene, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Gaurell Webb.

Miss Ruth Strozier, of Brenau college, has returned after a visit to Mrs. Brad Timms.

Members of the Methodist Baraca class entertained their wives at a banquet on Thursday evening in the church parlors.

Mr. and Mrs. George Longino entertained the "FFF" club last Friday evening.

Mrs. W. W. Taylor has returned to Moultrie after a visit to relatives in College Park.

Miss Virginia Hill, of Atlanta, was the guest last week of Misses Zeddie Lee and Frances Harrison.

Miss Pauline Trimble has returned to Brenau after a visit to her parents.

Mrs. E. S. Center, Sr., has as her guest this week Mrs. J. W. Richert, of Macon.

O. C. Dark and Miss Elizabeth Dark, of Alexander City, Ala., were the guests of Mrs. C. W. Best last week.

The ladies auxiliary of the Presbyterian church had a Thanksgiving program on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Micholson, on Washington street, in College Park. The devotional was led by Mrs. McClary and a group of songs were rendered by Misses Kitty Vance and Marion Nicholson.

Mrs. Bama Gohlson has returned after a visit to relatives in Wetumpka, Alabama.

E. W. Oliver, of Savannah, spent last week-end here.

Miss Callaway Weds Albert V. Dodd.

Judge and Mrs. A. W. Callaway announce the marriage of their daughter, Mary Ruby, to Albert Valton Dodd, of Bartow, Fla., the marriage taking place in Jacksonville, Fla., November 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Dodd will make their home in Bartow, Fla.

Attractive Bride-Elect

Photograph by McCrary Studio.

Miss Mary Perdue, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Perdue, whose engagement was announced recently to J. Hudson Almand, of Conyers.

Miss McGowen Weds R. M. Stiles.

Cartersville, Ga., November 21.—The wedding on Thursday afternoon of Miss Susan Elizabeth McGowan and Robert Maciey Stiles, at 4:30 o'clock, was a lovely event, the Rev. Richard C. Wilson Jr., officiating.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Rembert Sims, of Atlanta, sang "At Dawning," and Mrs. Tom Champion sang "For You Alone," accompanied by Mrs. Will Young, who also played the wedding music.

The ushers were Earl Scheuer, Joe Nelson, Rob Smith and Tom Roberts. The flower girl was little Yvonne Williams.

The bride, entering with her brother, Sam McGowan, was met at the altar by the groom with his best man, his brother, John Stiles, of Birmingham.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Stiles left by auto for a short wedding trip, and upon their return will be at home at Malbone, the ante-bellum country home of the groom.

Among the out-of-town guessts at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. George Stiles, Miss Penelope Stiles and Miss Annie Jolly, of Rome.

Miss Derwent Weds Mr. James McDonald.

Miss Evangeline Derwent, of 318 South Pryor street and James McDonald, of 144 Luckie street, were married late Saturday afternoon in the presence of a few intimate friends at the Baptist pastorium at Jonesboro. The Rev. J. Henry Bush, pastor of Jonesboro First Baptist church performed the ceremony.

Miss Lucile Anderson Is Tea Hostess.

Miss Lucile Anderson entertained at a tea Sunday afternoon at her home on North Moreland avenue, honoring Miss Helen Thompson, of Tampa, Fla., formerly of this city.

The spacious rooms where the guests were received were decorated in gold and white, carrying out in detail a Georgia Tech color motif.

Assisting Miss Anderson were Mrs. James C. Calhoun, Miss Virginia Whitemoore and Miss Grace Greenmore. Miss Eleanor Wellborn poured tea.

Over 100 guests called during the afternoon. Receiving with Miss Anderson was her mother, Mrs. George W. Anderson.

Several affairs have been planned for Miss Thompson during her visit. Saturday night, Charles Belleau was host at East Lake for a congenial party composed of Miss Anderson, Mr. Belleau, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Calhoun, Miss Thompson and Duke Espedohl, of Daytona, Fla.

Monday night, Thomas Matson entertained for Miss Anderson's visitor at a delightful dinner and theater party. Those enjoying the occasion were Miss Grace Freeman, Miss Anderson, Miss Thompson, Duke Espedohl, Charles Belleau and Mr. Matson. Other parties are being planned for Miss Thompson.

Decatur Social Notes of Interest.

Boyd Sutton is in Florida on a business trip.

Mrs. T. L. Cooper is visiting Mrs. Charles Harman in Druid Hills, while Mr. Cooper is in Clearwater, Florida.

Mrs. Allie McDaniel, of Chamblee, and Mrs. Charles Flake, of Terminal Hill, are the guests of Mrs. Carl Hudgins.

Miss Andrina McDaniel, of Augusta, was the guest of Mrs. Stanley Hastings at her home on Clairemont avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Sutton will entertain the "Mr. and Mrs." Bridge club next Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Roy Jones will entertain the Thirteen Bridge club next Friday at her home in the Columbus Court apartments.

Miss Elizabeth Summers, of Conyers, is the guest of Miss Sarah Flake.

Miss Mary Michaux has returned to Wesleyan college after spending several days with Miss Eleanor Hopkins.

Miss Catherine West has returned to G. S. C. W. after a short visit to Decatur friends last week.

Dr. and Mrs. Sam Bradshaw are spending the winter in Florida.

Mrs. George R. Jones and children left Saturday to join Mr. Jones in Florida.

Mrs. Tom Galloway left last Thursday to spend the winter in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Stewart and children and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Henderson and children will spend Thanksgiving at Tallulah Falls with Mrs. Charles Edward Dorley.

Mrs. E. P. Colemerry, of Edwards, Miss., is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Bayne Gibson, at her home on Sycamore street.

Miss Susan Scudder Weds Lewis Hadden.

Athns, Ga., November 21.—The marriage of Miss Susan Scudder and George Lewis Hadden, of Macon, took place on Tuesday evening, November 17 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Scudder, on Milledge avenue. Dr. Eugene L. Hill, pastor of the First Presbyterian church officiated.

The bride entertained with her father, who gave her in mafriage, and was attended by her sisters, Mrs. Warren Weston, as matron of honor, and Miss Nina Scudder, as maid of honor, and Warren Weston, Jr., her nephew, carried the prayer book.

Mr. Hadden had J. E. Christian, of Macon, as best man, the ushers including A. M. Scudder and H. A. Pendergraph, of Athens; A. W. Neely and Mrs. R. C. Neely, Jr., of Waynesboro.

The bride's gown was fashioned on simple lines and made of lustrous white satin, its soft folds enriched with rare old lace. Her misty tulle veil hung gracefully from orange blossoms and covered the long court train.

After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Hadden left for a wedding trip to be away until the first of December, when they will be established at the Massee apartments in Macon.

Mr. Hadden is connected with Henry Doherty company of New York. He is a native of Missouri and a member of a prominent family.

HOTEL GEORGIAN TERRACE

Atlanta's Hotel of Distinction

Announces the

OPENING OF ITS GRILL ROOM

on

Wednesday Evening November 25th

EXCELLENT CUISINE — Service a la Carte
DANCING 6:30 TO 8:30

The Grill Room will be open daily for Luncheon, Dinner and Supper.

TONIGHT November 22, Special Dinner. Concert from 7 to 9.

Hotel Georgian Terrace

ONE PRICE — NISLEY'S — ONE PRICE

Beautiful Shoes

38 WHITEHALL STREET

"Let's go Shopping with Jane"

SAID one woman to me the other day—"I have such a hard foot to fit and require such an unusual size that I rarely ever have been able to get my size in a fashionable shoe unless I paid $10 or $15 a pair. It's different now since the advent of Nisley's Beautiful Shoes. They always have my size at Nisley's in a number of delightfully new patterns at $5 a pair. You can't imagine what a burden this has lifted from my mind and my pocketbook."

Jane

Matinee

An afternoon shoe of rare beauty. Cleverly combines service with smart appearance. Patent or Tan Calf. Cuban heels.

Seventy Styles $5

ALL Nisley shoes are one price—($5)—and the seventy ever-changing styles may be had in all sizes and widths from 2½ to 9—AAA to D.

GORDON HOSIERY $1.50

DAINTY BUCKLES 50c to $2.50

$5 $5

IN THE PRINCIPAL CITIES OF AMERICA

H. G. LEWIS & CO.

For One Day Only---

Special Purchase Sale

125 COATS

Specially Priced For Monday Only

$49

Newest Styles of the Season
Splendid Materials
Excellent Furs---New Colors
Priced Regularly up to $69.50

The new gracklehead blues---the popular lipstick red with deep collar and cuffs of black Manchu Wolf---most effective---look like $69.50 coats---which they are---You buy them Monday only at $49---save $20.

It is better to own a handsome coat for all-winter use---don't wait for February Sales.

The greatest need for a winter coat is the Thanksgiving and Christmas holiday season.

Materials Are
Needlepoint, Vivette, Lustrosa, Montebella, Roulustra

Furs Are
Mendoza Beaver Wolf, Squirrel, Sislika, Manchu Wolf

Remember the Thanksgiving Game---Tech and Auburn

One Price H. G. Lewis & Co. One Day

Representative Audience Hears Illustrated Lecture on 'Art Song'

The illustrated lecture on "The Art Song" given at the Atlanta Music club in the auditorium of the Woman's club on Wednesday morning assembled a representative and appreciative audience to hear a program admirably arranged and excellently rendered. Miss Madeline Keipp, lecturer, gave a charming exposition of the nature of the art-song as opposed to the folk-song or popular ballad, and cited the marks of difference, also, between the song-form and the opera aria. To illustrate her subject Miss Keipp was most happy in being able to present for the first time to Music club audiences Mme. Louisa Varkonyi, dramatic soprano, late of Budapest, and Dr. Bela Varkonyi, composer-pianist and organist, also of Budapest, who was the accompanist for the morning.

The art-songs of different nations as presented by these two distinguished artists were duets between vocalist and instrumentalist rather than songs with mere accompaniment. Such especially were the two Schubert songs, "The Dream of Spring" and "The Erlking;" Schumann's "Nussbaum," and the "Night of Stars," by Debussy; also the two Hungarian songs by Dr. Varkonyi, which Mme. Varkonyi sang in their native tongue. The American song, "The Moon Swings Low," by Cadman, was sung with fine feeling, evidencing the love and interest Mme. Varkonyi has for American music.

The program also included a Russian, a Norwegian and a Spanish song. That of the Italian was noticeably missing, since, as the lecturer pointed out, the Italian mind has lent itself more to the opera aria than to the art-song.

Dr. Varkonyi and Mme. Varkonyi have but recently come to make their home in Atlanta and the ovation accorded them on Wednesday evidenced the warmth of the welcome they are receiving.

The next morning musicale of the club will be given on December 2, when Mr. Lionel Livingston-Sinclair, of the Atlanta Conservatory of Music, will be presented in piano recital.

Mrs. B. T Beasley Gives Lovely Party

Mrs. Benjamin Taylor Beasley entertained a number of her friends at a bridge-tea Friday afternoon at her home on Virginia aveaue.

The pretty lavender and white color scheme was attractively carried out in the living room and sun parlor by vases of chrysanthemums, while in the dining room the tea-table was overlaid with a madeira cloth, held a central decoration of lavender chrysanthemums in a silver basket tied with pink tulle. On either side of this were burning tapers in crystal candlesticks.

The prizes for top score were won by Mrs. F. L. Belyeu and Mrs. O. H. Herndon, while the consolation was cut by Mrs. Bivins. Pretty favors consisting of dainty-colored handkerchiefs tied as novelty parasols were presented as the refreshments were served.

Mrs. Beasley was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. Matthew K. Jenkins, and her sisters, Mrs. Conway Hunter and Miss Ruth Jenkins.

The invited guests were Mrs. Garrett Ware, Mrs. Sidney Daniel, Mrs. William Buck, Mrs. McIntosh, Mrs. W. W. Anderson, Mrs. Johnnie Anderson, Mrs. F. L. Belyeu, Mrs. Schick, Mrs. S. A. Webster, Mrs. Spiers, Mrs. C. B. Babb, Mrs. B. L. Shackelford, Mrs. Edwin Joiner, Mrs. W. H. Smith, Mrs. W. T. Airheart, Mrs. Hill, Mrs. E. E. Bragg, Miss Harrett Gilmore, Miss Wyon, Miss Hicks, Miss Margaret Demedici, Miss Nolan, Mrs. Hixon, Mrs. W. B. Swint, Miss Elsie Jett, Mrs. Bill Stoddard, Mrs. C. S. Cofer, Mrs. T. C. Davison, Mrs. O. E. Herndon, Mrs. L. H. Muse, Mrs. Robert Childs, Mrs. Bivins, Mrs. Avon, Mrs. Leland Baggett, Mrs. J. T. Calloway, Mrs. George Fuller, Mrs. Tom Cook, Mrs. Matthew Jenkins, Miss Ruth Jenkins and Mrs. Conway Hunter.

Miss Wood Weds Robert Neal.

Cordele, Ga., November 21.—Of interest will be the announcement of the marriage of Miss Brewster Wood, of Columbus, and Robert Neal, of Cordele, which took place Monday, November 16, at 1 o'clock, Judge H. R. Dudley, of Seale, Ala., performing the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of H. M. Wood, of Los Angeles, Cal., and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wood of Washington, Ga., and Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Sherrill of Asheville, N. C. She is also a niece of Miss Bertha Wood of Columbus, with whom she has made her home for the past two years.

The groom, whose family is prominent in Georgia and Florida, is the youngest son of the late Dr. Stephens Neal and Mrs. Neal. For the past several years he has held a responsible position with the Southern railway.

The young couple are at home with the groom's mother, Mrs. Stephens Neal, at 416 Thirteenth avenue.

Junior Red Cross Chapter Does Active Relief Work

The National American Red Cross, following its policy of offering relief wherever needed has recently completed a survey of the farmers in the south who suffered greatly from the drouth last summer. Hundreds of these were found in Georgia and in many homes children were being kept from school because of the lack of clothing. The Atlanta chapter of the Red Cross has undertaken to help supply this urgent need and has asked the help of the members of the Junior Red Cross. Every junior in the Atlanta city schools is asked to contirbute one or more garments suitable for the use of children. These need not be new but it is hoped that they will be whole and, of course, they will be clean. Possibly some fortunate children may be able to contribute some garment which has been specially liked, such as a sweater, a favorite suit or even a hat or cap. When these are being used and are voluntarily given up it means sacrifice as well as service, but when this is not possible real help will be given by each child collecting as many articles of wearing apparel as can be procured and bringing them in to his teacher at the school. The welfare chairman of the various Parent-Teacher associations under the direction of Mrs. E. K. Large, welfare chairman of the P.-T. A council, will collect these garments from the schools and deliver them to the Red Cross.

Sacrifice and service spells "Red Cross principles" and juniors should welcome this opportunity to practice them now.

Decatur Woman's Club Holds Meeting.

The Decatur Woman's club met in the ladies' parlor of the First Presbyterian church Friday afternoon, November 20, at 3 o'clock.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Mrs. Roy Jones, president, after which the minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. A. D. Bush, secretary. Mrs. Roy Jones expressed in a very appreciative manner thanks to the executive board for the efficient service rendered both the president and the club during the past year. She stated that every member was present at every meeting and were always enthused over each activity and action of the club.

Reports were given by the various chairmen of the club. Mrs. D. C. Lawhon, chairman of public welfare, reported that her committee assisted her in preparing and presenting sweets and other foods to the DeKalb county alms house. Mrs. W. S. Nelms, chairman of the hospital committee, reported that her committee had given a shower to the Scottish Rite hospital and that other things had been done for the same institution. Mrs. B. B. Cheek, chairman of the relief fund, gave a report. Mrs. E. B. Branch, chairman of the childs' clinic committee, reported many operations performed and many treatments given to the children of DeKalb county. Mrs. W. S. Young, civics chairman, reported that plans had been made for the planting of flowering shrubs in Decatur.

Mrs. Wiley Jones, chairman of the junior department, reported that the organization of the girls between the ages of 16 and 20 had been perfected, and that plans for a play had been made and would be presented very soon. Many other activities also have been planned. The group of small girls between the ages of six to ten with Miss Mary Leffingwell as chairman organized on the afternoon of November 18. The girls between the ages of 10 and 16 are to be organized very soon. The chairmen of program for the afternoon, Mrs. G. Scott Candler and Mrs. Charles B. McKinney, took charge of the meeting. A reading was given in an attractive manner by Miss Mary Sayward, who was in costume. A solo was beautifully rendered by Mrs. S. G. Stukes, of Agnes Scott college.

It was announced that no executive board or no regular club meeting will be held in December. The chairman and co-chairman of the Decatur Woman's Club store which will be opened December 11 and 12, met immediately after the club meeting to perfect arrangements. Refreshments of tea and wafers were served.

Contest Judges Are Announced.

Thanksgiving evening, at the Merrimakers' dance, a handsome silver loving cup and 10-pound box of candy will be given to the best couples doing the Howard waltz, known as the merry widow waltz.

The judges will be Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Street, Mrs. Florence Eckford, Mrs. Wilbur Hunt and Professor L. J. Morton.

There will be an exhibition at 12:30 o'clock of the "old-fashioned waltz."

MOTHER!

Watch Child's Bowels

"California Fig Syrup" is Children's Harmless Laxative

When your child is constipated, bilious, has colic, feverish-breath, coated-tongue, or diarrhea, a teaspoonful of genuine "California Fig Syrup" sweetens the stomach and promptly cleans the bowels of poisons, gases, bile, souring food and waste. Never cramps or overacts. Contains no narcotics or soothing drugs. Children love its delicious taste.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has full directions for babies and children of all ages, plainly printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—(adv.)

Miss Gleason and Mr. Flack Wed At Lovely Home Ceremony

Photograph by Francis Price.

Mrs. G. W. Flack, of Birmingham, Ala. Mrs. Flack is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Gleason, of this city, and was before her recent marriage Miss Hazel Gleason.

An event of much interest to their wide circle of friends was the marriage of Miss Hazel G. Gleason to G. W. Flack, of Albany, Alabama, which was solemnized Monday evening, November 16, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Gleason. Dr. Lacy of the Central Presbyterian church, was the officiating minister.

The house was decorated with white Eaton chrysanthemums and foliage plants. The altar, banked with ferns, was unusually lovely with its arch of entwined miniature chrysanthemums and green foliage. The wedding march from Lohengrin was rendered by Miss Oasalee Hot.

Bridal Party.

Mrs. R. I. Wright, of Columbus, Ga., sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. She was becomingly gowned in a handsome model of beaded blue crepe.

The maid of honor, Miss Edith Magruder, entered with George Todd, of Tampa, Fla., who was the best man. Her gown was a new fall model of dark brown satin.

Next to enter was the bridesmaid, Miss Betty Gober, with F. E. Gleason, brother of the bride. She wore a becoming gown of black and blue satin. The bride's attendants wore corsages of pink Ophelia roses.

Lovely Bride.

The bride was lovely in a model of light brown satin made circular style, with sleeves and collar of cream net embroidered with flowers in the pastel shades. Her hat was of gold lace trimmed with French flowers. She wore a large corsage of the pink Ophelia roses and swainsona.

Mrs. Gleason, mother of the bride, wore ecru lace with a corsage bouquet of pink roses.

Following the ceremony, a wedding supper was served at the Henry Grady hotel. After a brief stay at the Atlanta Biltmore, Mr. and Mrs. Flack will make their home in Birmingham, Ala., where Mr. Flack is associated with the Western Electric company.

MEETINGS

Capital City chapter, No. 111, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold its regular meeting Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock in Fraternity hall, 423 1-2 Marietta street. Sister Rose M. Ashby, worthy grand marshal of the general grand chapter O. E. S. of the World, will honor us with her presence. There will be work in the degrees. All members are urged to be present. Visitors are always welcome.

Oglethorpe chapter, No. 122, Order of the Eastern Star will have their regular meeting Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Masonic temple on Peachtree road at Buckhead. Members are urged to be present. Visiting members will be given a cordial welcome.

Atlanta chapter, No. 57, O. E. S., will hold its regular meeting Friday, November 27, 7:30 o'clock, at Jos. C. Greenfield lodge on Moreland avenue. Take Iuman park car. Visitors are welcome.

The Emory Woman's club will meet Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, in the right wing of the theology building. Mrs. C. F. Hamff and her assistant hostess have in store a lovely entertainment for the club members. The business session begins promptly at 3 o'clock.

Rich's Social club will hold their Thanksgiving dance at the Parody club on Wednesday evening, November 25. Frank Boozer and Joe Asher will have charge of the entertainment and special features have been planned. Every member of the club is urged to attend.

The regular meeting of the East Atlanta chapter, No. 108, O. E. S., will be held Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the East Atlanta Masonic temple. The chapter will entertain Mrs. Rose M. Ashby and the past matrons will put on the work. Members of the order are invited.

There will be a called meeting of the LaGrange College club at the Piedmont hotel Tuesday afternoon, November 24, at 3 o'clock.

Georgia chapter, No. 127, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold its regular meeting Thursday evening, November 26, at 7:30 o'clock in Oglethorpe Masonic temple, 44 East Georgia avenue, corner South Pryor street. Members are urged to be present, and all visitors will receive a warm welcome.

All Star members and their friends are cordially invited to a Thanksgiving reception, 5 p. m., November 22, 1925, at the residence of Mrs. Marie Louise Hancock, 1800 Peachtree road. Morgan Trio will furnish music.

The regular meeting of Martha chapter, No. 128, O. E. S., will be held in the chapter hall at Lucile avenue and Gordon street Tuesday evening, November 24, at 7:30. The worthy grand matron will be present on her official visit, and work in the degrees is expected. All qualified members of the order are cordially invited. Take Walker-West View car and get off at Inman street.

Cherokee Rose lodge No. 606, Ladies' auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, will hold its regular meeting Thursday, November 26, at 86 Central avenue, at 2:30 o'clock.

The Woman's Missionary Society of Capitol View Baptist church will hold its regular monthly meeting Monday, November 23, at 3 o'clock. All members and visitors are cordially invited. Mrs. L. D. Layton, president, in charge.

The Associate Matrons club of 1925 O. E. S. will meet at the home of Mrs. A. G. Helmar, 11 Arthur Place on Wednesday, November 25.

At the December meeting the conductresses will be special honor guests of the occasion.

The East Point Woman's club will hold its regular meeting Friday, November 27, at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Frank Upchurch on Church street. The citizenship committee will be in charge of the program and Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, of Atlanta, will be the principal speaker at this meeting. Miss Osee Mathews will present a musical program.

Annual Inspection Electa O. E. S. By Mrs. Julia Turner

The annual inspection of Electa chapter, No. 6, O. E. S., by the worthy grand matron, Mrs. Julia Jackson Turner, was held at their hall, 86 Central avenue, at 8 o'clock Tuesday, November 17.

The hall was artistically decorated with autumn flowers and foliage.

Work in the degrees as carried out by the officers of the chapter was done in a thorough and impressive manner, Mrs. Jessie Allison, worthy matron; R. S. Moran, worthy patron pro tem.

Mrs. Julia Jackson Turner, worthy grand matron of the state of Georgia, instructed the chapter on the work.

Worthy Grand Patron W. H. McLauren praised the chapter on its accomplishments of the year, referring especially to the presentation of the flag in which the U. S. army was represented by Captains William T. Fry and Barrington L. Flannagan, who administered the oath of allegiance.

The officers having retired from the hall, returned and, under the direction of the secretary, Mrs. S. L. Davis, formed a star, the only illumination being the emblematic and bright star, while Miss Mary Davis sang "Star of the East," followed by Mrs. Annie Silvey, Mrs. Kathleen McElhaney, Miss Kate Otwell, Mrs. Annie Smith and Mrs. Harper bearing letters in emblamatic colors "J-U-L-I-A," singing the song of devotion.

A basket of William Turners from the chrysanthemums field of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Smith and grown especially for this occasion, was presented on behalf of the chapter to the worthy grand matron.

Responding to flowers and the sentiments of the evening the associate worthy grand matron, Mrs. McLeroy, made a touching and inspiring talk on "Beauty and Love."

The chapter, through Mrs. Covington, conductress, presented the worthy grand matron with a fan.

Numerous gifts were presented by unknown "stars" as tokens of love and affection.

The brightly illuminated star designed especially for this occasion by Mrs. Carolyn Dodd was graciously accepted by the chapter by a rising vote of thanks.

Rhododendron Club Honors Husbands.

A delightful affair of Tuesday evening was the dinner given by the Rhododendron club in honor of the club husbands and a large number of other friends interested in the work of the club. Dinner was served in the recreation hall of the Druid Hills Methodist church, which was beautifully decorated with gorgeous autumn leaves and flowers. After dinner the president, Miss Annie Mae Broach, presented a very enjoyable program, including a group of vocal duets by Miss Marion Smith and Miss Lucia Smith, accompanied by their sister, Mrs. Barrett; two readings by Miss Sara Bowden, head of the department of expression of the Atlanta Conservatory of Music, and piano solos by Miss Venie Belle Grant and Miss Zelda Webb.

Oglethorpe Woman's Board Honors Freshman Class and Mercer Team

One of the largest social affairs of the season was the dance at the Capital City club given by the Oglethorpe Woman's board in honor of the freshman class of Oglethorpe university and the Mercer football team.

Mrs. W. A. Speer was official hostess of the evening and was assisted in receiving by Mrs. C. A. Whittle, chairman of the athletic committee of the woman's board, Dr. and Mrs. Thornwell Jacobs, Mrs. H. G. Carnes, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Anderson and Horner Chestnut.

On the entertainment committee were the following Oglethorpe students: Harry Myers chairman, Clay Carroll, Charles Buchler, Luke Tettit, Shaffer Wimbish, Pat Hansard, Cooney Young, James Watkins and Duke Terrell.

The ball room was decorated in Oglethorpe and Mercer colors, and quantities of chrysanthemums and ferns. Decorations were in charge of Mrs. G. H. Brandon.

Beside the Mercer team, the special honor guests included Coach W. A. Alexander, of Tech, the football teams from Tech High, Boys' High, Marist college, University School for Boys and the Georgia Military Academy.

Music was furnished by the Oglethorpe orchestra, with John T. Lee, directing.

Several hundred members of the younger social set were present.

Faculty Recital At the Seminary.

One of the most pleasurably anticipated fall occasions at the Washington seminary is the annual recital by the faculty of the fine arts department. The one this year was given Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Dignity and naturalness characterized the work of each performance.

The work of the piano instructors was peculiarly from manerisms. Ease, strength combined with delicacy of touch, and at times a singing quality, seemed characteristic of the work of each performer. Chopin was a popular composer and also compositions in a minor key.

Miss Cooper's first number was Chopin's prelude in C minor, followed by a Gavotte in B minor by Bach-Saint Saens. Miss Edsford played first the waltz in E minor by Chopin, then "If I Were a Bird" and the rhapsodie in C major by Dohnanyi, a most modern composition. Mrs. Dobbs brought out the great beauty of the harp in her one number "The Storm." Mr. Griffith's "Capriccio Spagnuolo" was a most pleasing number, bringing out as it did new beauties in the ever popular mandolin. Mr. Lindner in his group of violin selections was accompanied on the piano by Miss Cooper. His interpretations of Dvorak Kreisler's "Indian Lament" emprasized what everyone knows that music interprets in a language common to all.

A charming bit of violin work was a "Swing Song." A Scherzo by Van Goens showed Mr. Lindner's fine technique.

A familiar reading gives one much the same pleasure as the meeting of an old friend. Never did the work of Mrs. Hutchinson prove more compensating from every viewpoint than her reading of "Aus Italiens" by Meredith for the older members of her audience and Browning's "The Pied Piper of Hamlin" for the little folks. The pleasure of listening to Miss Battle sing is enhanced by her perfect enunciation. On Friday she was heard in "Care Selve" by Handel. Her tones were full and beautifully sustained, while Krusteiner's "Invocation to Eros" was sung with great dramatic power. Included in her group was a ballad, "Yesterday and Today."

This group of songs brought to a close a program that was artistic and thoroughly enjoyed and of which the seminary was justly proud.

Mrs. McHann Weds Thomas Gogarthy.

Albany, Ga., November 21.—The wedding of Mrs. Kate McHann and Thomas Gogarthy was quietly solemnized Saturday evening, November 14, at 8 o'clock at the rectory of the Catholic church. A few close friends and relatives were present. Rev. Father Keenan officiated, using the ring ceremony.

The bride was attired in a becoming dress of tan georgette with hat, slippers and hose to match. Mr. and Mrs. Luther McCrary were the only attendants.

Mrs. Gogarthy is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Coffey. Mr. Gogarthy is connected with the A. C. L. railroad. Mr. and Mrs. Gogarthy are at home to their friends at 507 North Washington street.

What Is More Beautiful?

Than a real good Marcel Wave? Looks like naturally wavy hair, and lasts a week or more in moderate weather.

$1.00 Is Our Regular Price

Will keep your hair looking neat and well dressed. Twenty expert operators to serve you. Appointments, call WAlnut 7289-7290.

The S. A. Clayton Company

The Largest Beauty Shoppe In Dixie

16-18 East Hunter Street

MUSE

for the dazzling SOCIAL SEASON that starts this week

Thanksgiving week, with its great Tech-Auburn game, is the signal for the brilliant social season; all is glory, evening, dinner and dance from this week forward—

$12.50

This is the pump of the moment, for evening and the afternoon occasions—of black velvet, with black satin bands and a satin bow, $12.50. (Also in silver kid, without the bow, at $15.)

MUSE'S

"The Style Center of the South"

Peachtree :: Walton :: Broad

Christmas shopping is in full swing at Muse's—everbody's shopping early. Muse Gifts (the beautifully appropriate) are in gorgeous array now. Come in—shop early. "Give Muse Gifts"—here's "where Christmas begins".

The Atlanta Conservatory of Music

Announces the engagement of the celebrated pianist

LIONEL LEVINSON-SINCLAIR

as director of the piano department.

Students may enter at any time. Catalogue on request.

THE SOUTHERN ROUTE TO PARIS—THE MUSE FIFTH FLOOR

Entire Stock

MUSE'S feminine COATS reduced tomorrow:

MATERIALS—Needlepoint; Roulustra; Kashmana; Carmina; New Velva; Lustrosa.

NEW SHADES—Piranga; Kingfisher; Gracklehead; Lipstick; Cuckoo; Black; Brown; Green; Cotinga; Seaswallow; Falcon.

FURRED IN—Silver Fitch; Natural Fox; Brown Fox; Natural Squirrel; Mink Squirrel; Lynx; Kit Fox; Beaver; Krimmer; Mink.

$ 99.50 COATS	$ 78.00
119.50 COATS	98.00
149.50 COATS	119.50
169.50 to 199.50 COATS .	148.00
219.50 COATS	169.50
249.50 COATS	199.50

$79.50 and $89.50 SPORTS COATS $68

Imported Scotch Fabrics, and Natural Camel's Hair; blue plaids; tan plaids; black and white sports effects; the new checks. Collars; collars and cuffs furred in Natural Badger; Kit Fox; Beaver. Also self.

Muse's Coat Special! Every Muse feminine coat included---the regular fifth floor stocks! The flare; the wrap-around; the right furring Note the variety of fabrics, fur, and new shades.

the MUSE Fifth floor tomorrow!

MUSE'S

"The Style Center of the South"

Peachtree :: Walton :: Broad

GORGEOUS TROUSSEAU PURCHASED BY MRS. STEPHEN LYNCH

Selects Wonderful Gowns For European Honeymoon

By Bessie S. Stafford

FASHIONABLE Atlantans returning from European ports brought Parisian-made wardrobes bearing the hallmarks of those famous French emporiums lining the Rue de la Paix. Consequently, the clothes question de luxe is definitely settled as far as they are concerned. They can turn smiling faces to the winter's gaieties, meeting the demands of an invitation with more or less indifference, for, unlike Flora McFlimsey, "they have everything to wear," and the jaunty length of their skirts denote that Paris has measured her stamp of approval in approximately seventeen inches from the floor.

Paris has been brought to Atlanta! And the reflected glory of the fortunate few enables those of us less fortunate to "see others as we would like to see ourselves," with most humble apology to Robert Burns and his time-honored, slightly twisted epigram.

The Beauteous Mrs. Lynch.

The beautous Mrs. Stephen A. Lynch, whose wedding took place at the Ritz in Paris last Friday, and was certainly the most interesting news of the hour to Atlantans, has always been identified with le dernier cri in modish attire wears an ensemble costume of striking style and contrast. It is a daytime gown from Molyneux, the white emroidered waist topping a black Kasha skirt, and the coat is lined with Russian ermine, with which she wears a close-fitting velour hat, trimmed at the side with white pompoms. Her ermine evening coat vies in favor with a bright gold metal cloth one embroidered in seed pearls lined with seafoam green chiffon velvet, its rolling fur collar graying her blonde bobbed hair. So becoming to the fairness of Mrs. Lynch's was the peach velvet evening gown, embroidered in self-tone beads and gold.

Today Monte Carlo, where they are honeymooning at the Hotel de Paris, she can wear the orchid Kasha coat, with its marvelous trimming of orchid fox, a wrap suitable for protection from cool weather, while for evening she can choose her cream chiffon velvet coat, elaborately embroidered in poppies, and introducing white fox collars and cuffs. Before entraining in December for Switzerland to feast upon the winter carnival at St. Moritz, Mrs. Lynch will add magnificent chinchilla and mink coats to her trousseau.

Returning early in January to the United States, included in her wardrobe will be gowns and wraps, hats and shoes appropriate for a season at America's Reviera and the brilliant opening of Mr. Lynch's new hotel, the Columbus, in Miami.

Mrs. English's Smart Apparel.

To quote one of our allies, the French, Mrs. Harry English, with the acumen of a genius for selecting smart apparel, recently inspired the compliment extraordinaire," when she appeared at a ball costumed like an American princess, and regally wrapped in a superb ermine coat of hand-picked pelts lined with petals of chiffon velvet, the color the French call praline, but usually designated as flesh. It concealed a Callot evening gown of white chiffon, the moyen age waist cut V-shape back and front, met by a three-tiered scalloped skirt literally ablaze with sparkling, glittering fridescent embroidery veiling down-pink satin foundation. Vionnet designed another evening costume for her to wear during the world's playtime hours in the flesh-tinted chiffon with its deep circular black chiffon flounce flashing with rhinestones. A narrow strip of black studded with brilliants follow the V-shaped neck outline, offsetting Mrs. English's slender figure, the dictate of fashion and the goal of all femininity in the year 1925, A. D.

For luncheon she wears a glorified two-piece model of black chiffon velvet, a duplicate of the Chanel gown worn by Katharine Cornell, the artist to whom was entrusted the creation of Iris Marsh, leading role in Michael Arlen's "Green Hat," being so successfully presented nowadays in New York. Her closely bobbed blonde head was crowned with a black velour hat, with a silver calla lily at one side. Street and morning models of bois de rose and tan kasha cloth, and one from the maison of Lucien Le Long, exponent of the kinetic silhouette which he terms the "spirit of movement." It was in biege kasha, plaided and striped in gray, blue and black, smartly belted in bright blue kid, worn underneath a marvelous coat of eastern mink.

Wasn't it Michael Arlen who said "a woman's nose never needs powdering to the man who loves her?"

Millions of women are disproving this theory!

The selection of a suitable bag in whose silken confines nestle vanity and lip-stick are of paramount importance, almost every woman of every age and size. Mrs. English has an assortment of exquisite beaded ones. More durable bags are made from black and brown suede which come from Chanel's, while others of needlepoint embroidery rich in landscape and flower design, mounted in antique gold and silver frames.

That Sixth Sense.

PERHAPS that sixth sense, woman's perfect understanding of beauty in dress as well as soul must have directed Mrs. John M. Slaton to choose a stunning Worth evening gown of black chiffon velvet, so elegant in its simplicity. Narrow jet shoulder straps are the only adornment and at the waist-line a chic knot of velvet conceals the beginning of a graceful train.

Nothing could have set it off more beautifully than the priceless strand of opera length pearls.

A subtle charm lies in the shutter green satin ordered at Cheruits, the coutuerier of the Palace de la Vendome. It apparently started out to be a cape and fit the shoulders closely, but thinking best to mend its ways before continuing further, develops by a most original cut into a semi-coat. Soft chiffon velvet, a darker cousin to the satin, laid in deep, natural folds around the neck and shoulders, forms a collar which adds to the statelyness of her appearance.

In a group teaing at the Driving club one day last week, Mrs. Slaton's frock of tan flat crepe gown boasted of no trimming, but the long top-coat of tan suede chose its collars and cuffs of baby leopard skin. A tan hat banded in gold echoed the tones of the gown. The popular vogue of the ensemble was revealed in the afternoon costume of electric blue wedding ring velvet, unbroken in line save for the artful bit of Venetian lace trimming, and the short coat is luxuriously collared and cuffed in castor fur.

Who's the G-n-a-t.

SHE swims like Annette Killerman in the sapphire blue Atlantic at Palm Beach in January.

She dances like Irene Castle at Greenbriar White Sulphur in August.

Mingling with international celebrities is of small consequence to this pretty Atlanta matron, so that it's no wonder the introduction of a certain well-known gentleman carried no special weight or significance.

It was a ball room scene!

This starry-eyed, laughing-lipped creature, whose cheeks are like a rose, was at her loveliest in a heavenly blue gown exactly matching her expressive blue eyes.

He was introduced!

She failed to catch the importance of his name known to two continents.

"Who's the g-n-a-t?" said she in a sub-rosa voice to a nearby friend in that drawling southern intonation so characteristic of Mrs. C.

Susan's Answer.

LITTLE five-year-old Susan came from Florida, the state specializing in tourists.

Her childish ears evidently tuned in on the conversation of her elders regarding the wonderful realty values existing in the Land of Flowers to the astonishment of her mother who with her pretty little daughter is stopping at a family hotel in Atlanta.

Susan naturally became a great favorite with an admiring circle of grown-ups. One day a stranger joined the group, attracted by the childish charm and beauty.

"What state are you from, little girl?" said the newcomer.

"I'm from the real estate," artlessly replied Susan, perfectly unconscious of the cause of the spontaneous laughter she provoked.

All Honor To the Hagoods.

THE Service club in the Fort McPherson sector took on a gay and festive spirit Wednesday evening.

Military and civilian dignitaries occupying an important position in the social spotlight foregathered to greet the new commander of the fourth corps area, Major General Johnson Hagood, and the charming Mrs. Hagood.

Many dinner parties preceded the reception. The proverbial hospitality of army people was dispensed with delightful flavor, and everything pertaining to the reception was like Goldilocks' chair of fairy tale lore, "just right."

The club's inviting interior, with its fireplace at one side glowing with dancing fire-lights, was decorated in chrysanthemums and autumn leaves.

National flags waved a royal welcome on all sides.

The 22nd infantry band music made everybody want to dance.

General Eltinge and his many decorations from the U. S. A. and foreign countries were high lights of the reception.

The honor guests, descendants of prominent South Carolina families, were surrounded throughout the evening with old and new friends. Mrs. Samuel W. Evins and the general talked over the childish pranks when they played games together in the Palmetto state. The general and Mr. Davis recalled their collegiate days at the University of South Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Davis traced their friendship back to the "courtin' days" of the illustrious honor guests, when the young and beautiful Miss Jean Small, of Charleston, became the wife of the commanding general who bears the name of his forbear Johnson Hagood, that Confederate general who was afterward governor of South Carolina.

Former Governor John M. Slaton and Mrs. Slaton, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Grant, Mrs. Norwood Mitchell and Mrs. George Howard were friends of General and Mrs. Hagood when they were detailed at Fort McPherson during the world war, and were present to pay tribute to their return.

Conspicuous among the socially elect in the army were Colonel and Mrs. W. J. Kendrick, the latter formerly Miss Mary Neel, daughter of a noted educator of the eighties, C. M. Neel, who headed a famous school for boys in Kirkwood. Major and Mrs. Charles M. Roberts (before her marriage Miss Louise Carey, of Atlanta) came back from abroad in time for the welcoming party, and making the rounds of the reception festivities were General and Mrs. Leroy Eltinge, Colonel and Mrs. William L. Dashiell, Colonel and Mrs. Darrah, Colonel and Mrs. Hugh Parker, Colonel and Mrs. H. L. Wagganer, Colonel and Mrs. E. L. Couley, Colonel and Mrs. W. C. Humphrey, Colonel and Mrs. Troup Miller, Major and Mrs. Magee, with apologies offered the officers if the names aren't written according to the order of their rank, as the rosfer is not handy.

Lovely to look upon was Mrs. Bolling, wife of Captain A. R. Bolling, who broke all records in calling the guests by their right names in presenting them to General Hagood. The blue-eyed beauty from France, Mrs. Luekens, whose broken English was fascinatingly spoken, the blonde Mrs. Ennis, titian-haired Miss Elizabeth Humphreys, attractive Miss Jean Kendrick, winsome Miss Marion Darrah, the willowy Miss Foote, Mrs. DeSaussure and Mrs. Otto, two pretty brunettes, vivacious Mrs. Hones, charming Mrs. Fortier and Miss Casaday were only a few of the younger set of the army society whose presence contributed greatly to the brilliance of the gathering.

Fort McPherson's social pendulum swings back to pre-war days!

Dante Circle Honored By Mrs. Mitchell.

The Dante circle, Mrs. D. F. Stevenson, president, Miss Carolyn Cobb, founder, was entertained Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. C. R. Mitchell, in her home at 169 Peachtree circle. The program opened with piano solos by Miss Esther Platkin, "Rondo Capricioso" (Mendelssohn), "Hungarian" (MacDowell), and as an encore a favorite from Grieg. Sonnets from the Vito Nuovo were read, with explanations, by Mrs. W. A. Robertson, Miss Josephine Turner, Mrs. Catherine Euey, Mrs. George L. Brower. The report of the Dante circle given in the city federation year book was read by a member, and the poster exhibited by the fifth district chairman, Mrs. H. G. Hastings, at Athens, which with nine others gave the first prize to the district, a silver vase, was shown the members. Clayton Berry, with the Italian harp, and Brandon Berry, with the ukulele gave several selections.

Nora Allen, formerly with the Chicago Grand Opera company, accompanied on the piano by Signor Volpi, sang "Vissi d'Arte" (La Tosca) and "O Sole Mio."

The December meeting will be with Mrs. William Fisch, 30 Inman circle; the January meeting will be with Mrs. George L. Brower, 63 Peachtree circle.

Guests of the circle and hostess were Mrs. G. H. Brandon, Mrs. H. B. Smith, Miss Martha Washington Morel, Mrs. Ben Perryman, Mrs. George Meyers, Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, Miss Catherine Stockton, Mrs. W. F. Melton.

:-: Figures in City's Social Life :-:

Photographs by Francis E. Price, Staff Photographer.

Upper row, left to right, Mrs. Harry L. English and Mrs. John M. Slaton, two lovely Atlanta matrons who spent the summer and fall in Europe. In the lower group are from left to right, Mrs. H. F. Lueking, Miss Elizabeth Humphrey, Miss Gertrude Mercer, and Mrs. C. E. Henry, four of the prettiest and most admired young women at the reception honoring General and Mrs. Johnson Hagood in the Service club at Fort McPherson on Wednesday evening.

Miss Nelson Weds Leavy E. Ross.

Of wide social interest was the marriage of Miss Fannie Maude Nelson and Leavy Edward Ross which was solemnized Tuesday afternoon November 17, at the home of the bride's parents at Meansville, Ga.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Allin Storey sang "The End of a Perfect Day." The bride entered with the groom to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Mrs. W. C. Gordy, who also played softly, "Hearts and Flowers" during the ceremony. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. S. Thrailkill, pastor of the Zebulon Methodist church.

The bride was lovely in her wedding gown of grey duvetyn, embroidered in blue and trimmed in gold lace with hat and accessories to match. Her bouquet was of brides roses.

Receiving the guests were Miss Mary Franklin, a cousin of the bride, and a bride-elect of December and Mrs. John M. Morris, of Atlanta, a sister of the bride.

Mrs. Ross is the third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Nelson, of Meansville, Ga., and a young lady of charming personality.

Mr. Ross is a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ross, of Zebulon, Ga., a successful farmer. The couple left immediately after the ceremony for the home of the groom's parents where a lovely supper was served. Later they left for a short wedding trip and upon their return they will be at home to their friends near Zebulon, Ga.

The out-of-town guests were: Miss Daisy Ross, Misses Mays, Mrs. John M. Morris and Master Milam Morris, of Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Williams and children, of Williamson; Rev. W. A. Warwick, of White Springs, Ga.

Social Notes From Marietta.

A series of parties is being given by Mrs. Horace A. Field at her home on Church street. On Friday afternoon Mrs. Field entertained about 60 guests at a bridge-tea complimenting Mrs. William L. Vance, a recent bride.

Another attractive affair of the week was the joint bridge party given on Wednesday afternoon at the Marietta Golf club by Mrs. Grady Conway and Mrs. William McEachern, about 100 guests were entertained.

Mrs. George Welsh was hostess at a bridge party on Saturday afternoon at her home on Whitlock avenue in honor of her daughter, Miss Frances Welsh, Miss Penette Adams and Miss Mary Prim, all of Agnes Scott college and her guests for the week-end.

A marriage of interest to a wide circle of friends is that of Miss Gladys Teem to Clarence Grady Worley, which will be solemnized Sunday morning, November 22, at 8 o'clock, at "Brookside," the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin I. Teem. The ceremony will be performed by Dr. G. J. Davis. Immediately after a wedding breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Worley will leave for a motor trip through Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Cohen returned Wednesday from an extended visit to Mr. and Mrs. Willis Milner in Asheville, N. C.

James Howell and Miss Kate Howell, of Chattanooga, Tenn., were the week-end guests of Misses Mary and Julia Howell.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Vansant and young son, Nelson, have returned from Thomaston, Ga., where they have been visiting.

Mr. and Mrs. George Henry Keeler, Jr., of Atlanta, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. George Keeler.

Mrs. S. H. Sibley is spending several days in Rome.

James Petty, Jr., of Montgomery, Ala., spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Petty.

Dr. M. D. Hodges is in Fort Meade, Fla., for a stay of a couple of weeks.

Mrs. Agnes Charmichael, of Birmingham, Ala., is the guest of Mrs. Martin Amorous.

Mrs. Charles Park and daughter, Ophelia, of Savannah, Ga., are the guests of Miss Addie Setze.

Mrs. I. A. White has returned to her home in Cartersville after a visit to friends here.

Mrs. Odom Hostess To Kill Kare Club.

The Kill Kare club was very pleasantly entertained Thursday morning by Mrs. R. L. Odom, 44 Clifton road.

After an hour of social enjoyment and a short business meeting, delightful refreshments were served. The favors carried out the Thanksgiving idea.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. L. H. Spratling, 38 Brooks avenue.

Those present were Mrs. W. C. Chambers, Mrs. J. W. Farley, Mrs. S. J. Rayfield, Mrs. L. M. Gosss, Mrs. J. G. Carroll, Mrs. G. E. Giles, Mrs. L. H. Spratling and Mrs. R. L. Odom. Mrs. T. H. Miller and Mrs. W. H. Dickinson were present as guests of the club.

Kle Club Announces Christmas Ball.

The Kle club announces plans for a mammoth dance, sponsored by the club, to be called "The Christmas Stocking Friend Ball," with dancing from 8:30 to 12 o'clock. Tickets $1 per couple.

This dance will be run on the same high-class basis as those sponsored by this club in the Elks' home. For further announcements watch the papers, store windows and the leading theater screens.

All money raised by the Kle club unit of B. P. O. E., Elks No. 78, help to swell the Elks' Christmas

Miss Volberg To Wed Mr. Kling In December

Much interest centers in the announcement of the engagement of Miss Gertrude Elizabeth Volberg to William Leslie Kling, of Bristol, Tenn., which is made today by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Volberg, Jr. The wedding will take place the latter part of December.

Miss Volberg is descended from an old and aristocratic family, pioneers of Georgia. Her grandfather, F. L. Volberg, Sr., settled in Atlanta many years ago, but now lives in Blackshear, Georgia. Miss Volberg is a native of Atlanta and the daughter of F. L. Volberg, Jr., who has always made his home in Atlanta and is prominently connected with the business and civic affairs of the city. Mrs. Volberg, was formerly Miss Edna Marshall, of Atlanta.

Miss Volberg is a graduate of Commercial High school and an active worker with the Y. W. C. A. in the business woman's department. She is president of the St. Philip's choir and very talented musically. She is a sister of Miss Edna Volberg, F. L. Volberg, third, and Frank Marshall Volberg.

Mr. Kling is a graduate of the Georgia School of Technology. He is originally from New Hampshire, but is now making his home in Bristol, Tenn., where he is interested in steel construction work.

Miss Gottschaldt, of New York, To Wed Mr. McClintock, of This City

A large number of Atlantans will be interested in the announcement made today by Dr. Charles Gottschaldt, of New York, of the engagement of his daughter, Helen Marie, to James Douglas McClintock, of this city, formerly of Beacon, N. Y.

Miss Gottschaldt is the sister of Mr. and Mrs. Allan C. Gottschaldt of this city and has won a wide circle of friends through her visits here by her gracious personality and charming personal manner.

She is a graduate of Smith college at Northampton, Mass., where she took a prominent part in college activities, especially in athletics.

Mr. McClintock is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Leonard McClintock, of Beacon, N. Y., and graduated from Amherst college in 1924. He is a member of the Alpha Delta P.. fraternity and is at present holding a position of responsibility with the Atlanta district office of Procter and Gamble.

The date for the wedding will be announced later.

Many Georgians Among Tourists Spending Winter in Europe

BY H. W. DUNNING.

Paris, France, November 21.—(Special to The Constitution.)—Seven hundred winter tourists to Italy arrived on the liner Martha Washington of the Cosulich company, which called at Naples and Trieste last week. Among the passengers were Howard A. Bowman, American vice consul at Trieste; Mrs. Bowman, and their son; and Byron H. Warner, of Atlanta, who will tour Italy.

Miss Tallulah Bankhead, popular American actress, whose success in "The Green Hat" in London has been so much talked of recently, passed the last week-end in Paris to say good-bye to her sister, Mrs. Morton Hoyet, who sailed on November 10 for America to return to her home in Washington, D. C. Miss Bankhead and her sister, Mrs. Hoyet, are daughters of Senator Bankhead, of Alabama, and are well known in Atlanta.

Mrs. George F. Armstrong, of Savannah, Ga., has arrived in the French capital during a visit to the continent and is passing some time at the Royal Monceau hotel. Mrs. Armstrong was a recent visitor to the American Women's Club of Paris.

Arthur Davis, of Atlanta, who has been spending some time in Spain and the south of France, visiting Seville, Cadiz, Madrid and San Sebastian, has arrived in Paris from Biarritz and also is stopping at the Hotel Royal Monceau.

Noted in the lounge of the Hotel Bristol in Vienna recently were Mr. and Mrs. John William Frick, of Atlanta, who have been traveling in central Europe; Mr. and Mrs. Mell Wilkinson, of Atlanta, arriving from Berlin and a tour of Germany; Miss Catherine Walker, of Atlanta; and Miss Monica Lehmann, also of Atlanta.

E. A. Wilkinson and family, of Atlanta, were recent visitors to Munich, Germany, spending several days at the Hotel Vier Jahreszeiten.

Hugh Angier, of Atlanta, recently arrived in Paris during a tour of the continent and passed several days at the Hotel Concordia.

Honoring Dr. J. D. M. Ford, new director of the American University Union in Paris, and Mrs. Ford, the American University Women's Club held a reception at its clubhouse, 4 Rue de Chevreuse, last week. Among those present from Georgia was Miss Louise Glanton, of Americus, who is spending some time at 60 Boulevard Montparnasse in Paris.

Henry Silwartigil, of Atlanta, has been stopping at the Hotel Concordia in the French capital during the past two weeks.

Ambrose J. Faby, of Rome, Ga., has arrived in Paris for an extended stay and study and is stopping with Professor J. Vanjany at 3 Rue de la Grande Chaumiere.

Mrs. Luther Still Is 7th Ward Chairman.

Mrs. Luther Still was unanimously elected chairman and Mrs. A. L. Sloan was elected vice chairman at the seventh ward League of Women Voters meeting which was held with Miss Leila Culberson, on Gordon street, Thursday afternoon.

Nominations at large were made for the league board which were as follows: Mrs. R. L. Turman, Miss Eleanor Raoul, Mrs. B. M. Smith, Mrs. Paul LaBlant, Mrs. Chester Johnson, Mrs. George L. Turner, Mrs. Albert Howell, Sr., Miss Leila Culberson, Mrs. Fred C. Rice, Mrs. J. S. Boardman, Mrs. A. L. Sloan, Mrs. Fred W. Hadley.

WOMAN PARTNER WANTED

In large local Beauty Parlors. Old established clientele. One of the finest appointed shops in the South. Prefer experienced party, but if otherwise desirable will teach you the business. Good character and wide acquaintance necessary requirements. This is a high-class business and requires woman of that type. Wonderful opportunity to gain a permanent independence. In your reply give full information about yourself. No attention given curiosity seekers. Address W 828, Constitution.

Our New York Buyer Has Sent Us a Special Collection of

COATS

An unusual purchase of stunning Coats. Coats for social and business wear. Intriguing models for Debutante and Matron. A collection of Coats which are unsurpassed at their price.

$23.75, $33.75 to $117.50

Savings of from $5.00 to $20.00

EVENING DRESSES

At the very height of the social season you may have your choice at splendid savings.

REDUCED 20%

"Where Styles Cost Less"

Erlich's

LADIES' READY-TO-WEAR

4 PEACHTREE (ARCADE BLDG)

"Atlanta's Leading Ladies' Shoppe"

Hapeville Woman's Club Holds Program Meeting

Mrs. Fred Hunnicutt, who had charge of the program meeting of the Hapeville Woman's club, which was held Thursday at the home of Mrs. D. B. Evans, Atlanta avenue, arranged a most worthy program. Mrs. Evans gives her home for all the meetings of the club until a permanent clubhouse can be obtained.

Mrs. Hunnicutt presided at the meeting and Mrs. Evans opened the program with a piano solo.

The speaker of the afternoon was Colonel John T. Boifeuillet, who talked on "The Poets of Georgia." He paid special tribute to Sidney Lanier, Richard Henry Wilde, Frank L. Stanton, Paul Hamilton Hayne, Harry Flash, J. R. Barrick, Charles B. Hubner, Charles J. Bayne, Father Ryan and James K. Randal.

Colonel Joseph W. Humphries read several poems of his own composition, among which were "At Terrell's Mill," "The Men Who Handle the Mail," "Watching and Waiting," "Just for You" and "A Dear Little Woman." Colonel Humphries is a resident of Hapeville and his achievement along this line is especially interesting.

Mrs. E. P. McElroy sang two songs by the Atlanta poet, Frank L. Stanton, "Just a-Wearyin' for You" and "Mighty Lak a Rose."

Social News From Emory.

The many friends of Mrs. N. B. Forrest are glad to learn that she is convalescing at her home on North Decatur road after a recent operation at Wesley hospital.

Grady Mobley was called to his home in Ardmore, Okla., on account of the illness of his father.

Mrs. A. M. Sanders, of Chicago, Ill., is visiting her mother, Mrs. S. E. Cooper, on Clifton road.

Dr. Aiken W. Smart has returned from Valdosta, Ga., where he conducted a Biblical course of study at Valdosta college.

The many friends of Mrs. Clifford Henderson are pleased to learn of her continued improvement at Wesley hospital.

Joseph A. Smith has returned from Hattiesburg, Miss., where he attended the Methodist conference.

Mrs. G. T. Jackson, of Augusta, returned to her home Saturday after a pleasant visit to Mrs. T. M. Campbell, on North Decatur road.

Rev. John Logan, of Gainesville, made a recent visit to his son, Allen Logan.

The fashion show which was given Saturday evening by Emory P. A.'s was an unqualified success. There were about 40 children taking part.

Floyd Sayers, of Columbus, made a recent visit to Frank Gilmore on the Emory campus.

Jack Lee visited friends in Covington, Ga., Saturday.

Ed. Emyar was the guest of relatives and friends in Oxford Saturday.

Hilton Hightower, of Bradenton, Fla., made a recent visit to friends at Emory.

Augustin Samms is at Cumberland Island for a 10 days' hunting trip.

Miss Gussie Smith has returned to her home in Birmingham, Ala., after a visit to Mrs. Harry Howard, on Clifton road.

Dr. W. G. Henry is conducting a Bible study school in Charlotte, N. C.

East Point Social News.

Mr. and Mrs. John Simmons and little son, John, Jr., have returned to West Point, after visiting with the Rev. and Mrs. O. C. Simmons and family.

Mrs. Carl Bennett, of Miami, Fla., is visiting with friends and relatives.

Mrs. W. C. Carroll, who has been quite ill for several days, is improving.

Dr. and Mrs. T. F. Mixon, Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Weathers and Miss Mildred Mixon are attending the North Georgia conference in Griffin.

Mrs. A. R. Hemperley, who has been ill at the home of her son, J. J. Hemperley, of West End, is convalescing.

Mrs. H. F. Smith is visiting with her mother, Mrs. Atkin, in Griffin.

H. B. Shannon, of Miami, Fla., spent the past week with home folks.

The Rev. E. W. Jones is attending the North Georgia conference, in Griffin.

Mrs. Nell Reeves has returned to Jonesboro after a visit with Mrs. L. V. Donehoo.

Mrs. Edgar Buffington, of Gainesville, is visiting with Mrs. D. W. Allen and other relatives before joining Mr. Buffington in Orlando, Fla.

Mrs. Ola Lowe, of Duluth, was the guest of Mrs. J. E. Goode during the past week.

Mrs. D. A. McDuffie has returned from Lithia, where she visited her father and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Lowenthal and little son, Marcus, after spending a few days with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Burdette, have returned to Macon.

Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Henley, of Douglasville, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Harper during the past week.

Leon and Morell Koener and J. H. Hutchinson, of Attalla, Ala., spent the past week with Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Willis.

Miss Everton, of Florida, is the guest of her sisters, Misses Aloe and Sue Everton.

Mrs. L. A. Parnell has joined Mr. Parnell in Ashburn, Ga.

Witches Club Is Entertained.

The members of the Witches club were entertained on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. James A. Watson, Jr., on Seminole avenue.

Mrs. S. E. Ward, president, presided. It was voted to give a large benefit bridge early in December, the proceeds to go towards the donations which the witches make during Christmas time.

A bronze tablet, commemorating the services of the Witches club to the Eliza Nisbet home, has been generously tendered the organization by a well-known Atlanta philanthropist and dedication services will be held the coming year. At the conclusion of business a social hour was devoted to bridge. Top score was made by Mrs. S. E. Ward and consolation was cut by Mrs. J. M. White.

The members present were Mrs. W. A. Crossland, Mrs. A. W. Eyes, Miss Jimmie Lou Cruse, Mrs. Marguerite Murphy, Mrs. J. A. Erwin, Mrs. W. E. Carnes, Mrs. S. E. Ward, Mrs. J. M. White, Mrs. H. Douglas, Mrs. O. N. Lacky and Mrs. J. A. Watson, Jr.

Dance To Swell Christmas Tree Fund.

The city union of Young People's Service Leagues of Atlanta will sponsor a dance to be given Friday evening, November 27, at Eggleston hall, this being the initial affair in a series of entertainments planned to raise funds for a Christmas tree which the city union will give for 1,000 needy children of the city at Taft hall shortly before Christmas day.

Music for the occasion will be furnished by the Ritz Harmony Boys, and all members of the Young People's Service League and their friends are urged to be present.

MATHER'S RESERVE SALE

Ready to Serve You—The Store of A Thousand Gifts

$1 Cash Reserves Purchase

Select any complete Suite or Odd Piece in the store (everything is reduced in price) and pay only ONE DOLLAR deposit if you want it held for Christmas delivery. No storage charge of any kind. Let your gift selection join hundreds of others that are put away waiting for Christmas Eve delivery.

Give a Beautiful Lamp

Some of the prettiest Lamps ever shown in Atlanta—and they are attractively sale priced. Odd shades are here, too. Such beautiful gifts!

Junior Lamps
$18.75

Graceful Junior Lamps with filigree wrought-iron stands and the new French shades or silk shades. Hundreds of others to select from also.

Bridge Lamps
$9.95

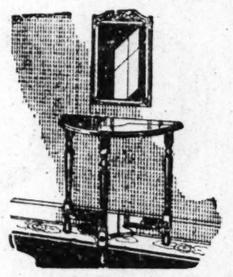
Artistically designed Bridge Lamps with polychromed wrought-iron stands and French glazed or silk shades. Others with polychrome wood stands.

Table Lamps

Beautiful Table Lamps with parchment or chintz shades. Weighted bases, two sockets.... $8.95

Table and Mirror

$16.75



The first impression your guests get of your home is of the hallway as they enter. Think how charming a console set will look! The table is gracefully designed and finished in mahogany and the French plate mirror has a beautifully-designed polychrome finish frame. Both pieces at this reduced price!

Davenport Table for Christmas!

$29.75

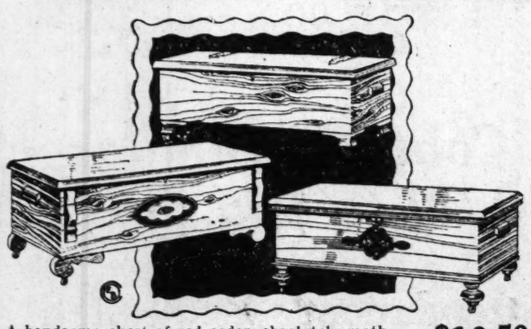
One of these charming davenport tables will make a most acceptable and useful Christmas gift! It will add a touch of charm and distinction to the living room. They are 18x60 inches, designed in the Renaissance period style and beautifully finished in mahogany. This price is extremely low!

Select a Royal Easy Chair

$24.50 to $95.50

Surely, no gift will be more pleasing to the entire family than one of "the world's easiest easy chairs!"—the ROYAL. We have a very extensive display, including the rich upholstered overstuffed wing chairs, and every chair is specially low priced during this sale. Select NOW while the display is complete.

Cedar Chests Are Welcome Gifts!



A handsome chest of red cedar, absolutely moth proof—with plenty of room for your furs and clothing. A rare Christmas value at..... $10.50

A beautifully designed chest, of genuine red cedar, absolutely moth proof, attractively decorated and large in size, at..... $21.00

Another wonderful cedar chest, attractive in appearance, with an unusual decorative effect—absolutely moth proof—only..... $27.50

Open an Account

WE ARE ready to make Christmas shopping easy—to help you in every way to select the gifts you want to carry your Christmas message! "The Store of a Thousand Gifts!" This great institution well lives up to the title, for every floor is crowded with wonderful gifts of Furniture—lasting, enduring gifts that you will be proud to give! And everything, it happens, is sale priced—very low prices maintaining throughout the store. The time is growing short—Christmas is only FIVE WEEKS OFF! Come tomorrow and dispose of all your Christmas shopping—and save!

Visit Our Gift Shop

To make it easy for you to select your gifts, we have arranged a wonderful Gift Shop you will want to visit! It is filled with the smaller gifts of furniture and appointments that are always appreciated—lamps, book ends, candlesticks and hundreds of other things from which to select.

SelectNow!

Let us caution you to visit our Gift Shop as soon as possible! Already people are pouring in to do their Christmas buying and if you select now, you have the benefit of complete stocks from which to make your selection.

Spinet Desks
$19.95

They are distinctive in design and beautifully finished in mahogany.

End Tables
$5.75

Graceful Renaissance end tables, each with a roomy book trough—in mahogany.

A Few Gift Suggestions

Humidor Cabinets
Bridge Lamps
End Tables
Foot Stools
Tilt-Top Tables
Boudoir Lamps
Console Mirrors
Candlesticks
Torchieres
Telephone Stands
Table Lamps

Secretary
$52.50

As decorative as they are useful, these desks are especially appropriate for Christmas giving. A small deposit delivers it—balance easy.

More Gift Suggestions

Reading Lamps
Ash Trays
Tea Sets
Book Troughs
Bed Lamps
Tea Wagons
Piano Benches
Nests of Tables
Comport Sets
Spinet Desks
Tea Wagons

Mather Bros.

Cor. Forsyth and Hunter WAlnut 7811

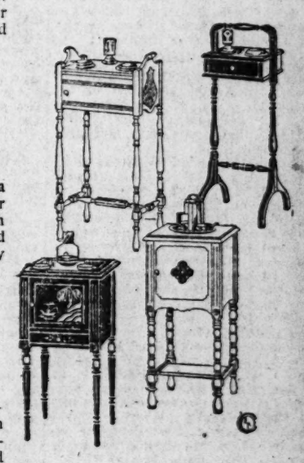
$1 Week Holds for Delivery

The payments of ONE DOLLAR a week, together with your $1 deposit, will be credited as your first payment when delivery is made. Balance, if any, is payable after Christmas on easy terms—weekly or monthly as you prefer. But select NOW! The sale is in full blast, and savings are truly worthwhile.

Gifts for the Man Who Smokes

A handsome Smoking Cabinet will please the man more than anything else! A wonderful display for you to choose from—and all sale priced!

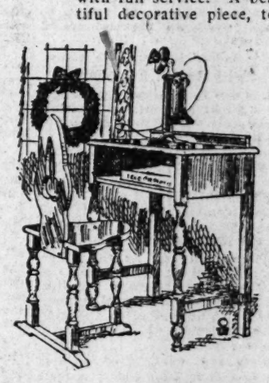


Stand with Drawer
$7.50

A Smoking Stand with a convenient drawer for cigars. Fitted with an ash tray, cigar holders and match-holder. Mahogany finished.

Handsome Cabinet
$32.25

A beautiful Humidor Cabinet in black lacquer finish with delicate Japanese decorations. It is equipped with full service. A beautiful decorative piece, too.



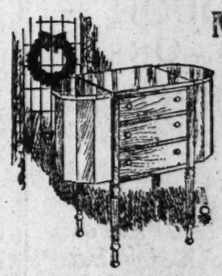
Telephone Sets
$6.25 Up

The telephone set at $6.25 is a sturdy table with stool to match, both mahogany finished. There are numbers of styles to select your gift from, and you know that a telephone set is a gift that will be thoroughly appreciated, for it is both ornamental and practical. Remember, you can buy on the easiest terms.

A Gift That Will Be Appreciated!

$25.00

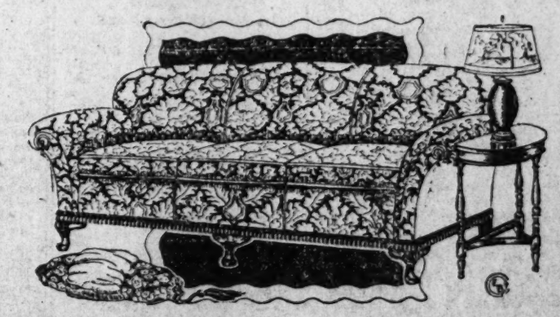
Nothing could please a woman more than one of these charming gate leg tables for Christmas! They are well made and gracefully designed, and finished in rich walnut color—a finish that is sure to harmonize with your other furnishings. Note the surprisingly low price—they are wonder-values indeed!



Martha Washington
$9.50

One of these handsome Martha Washington Sewing Cabinets will bring joy to the woman who receives it this Christmas! As pictured, the cabinets are mahogany finished and made for real service and convenience, with spacious compartments. There are others to choose from, including the dainty Priscilla.

Giving Beauty and Luxury!



This beautiful davenport will be the finest Christmas gift you ever gave! Why not buy it for the family? It will mean lasting comfort and luxury throughout the years—and it will beautify your home! This davenport, it is deep and inviting, with luxurious loose spring cushions and roll arms. The upholstery material is beautifully figured velour, in harmonious colors. Buy it on convenient terms at $79.00

Open an Account

YOUNGER SET AFLUTTER OVER CHARLESTON LESSONS

Mary Rose Herself Will Set Pace in Giddy Whirl

BY BEVERLY BURGESS.

Such exciting news concerning the two Thanksgiving dances at Garber's has reached my ears!

I must pass it on to you!

On Wednesday night all of you Charleston-ers—not for the world would I make the mistake and write Charlestonians—are going to have the thrill of your lives!

A mammoth, free lesson by no less a person than Mary Rose herself!

Of course, I don't have to tell you that Mary Rose is the leading lady of the "Our Gang" comedies in the movies.

Can she Charleston?

Mat Farnum, of the Ziegfeld "Follies," knows absolutely nothing about Charlestoning compared to Mary Rose. However, she is going to show you exactly how he does it for Mr. Ziegfeld.

I hope Henry Lyon sees that the floor is safely braced before Wednesday night. I can see now what will take place immediately after Miss Rose's appearance! "We will catch that step before we lose the vision!"

I can feel the vibrations surging into the floor!

But wait—that is only Wednesday night! Thursday—Turkey day, followed by the big Tech-Auburn game and Garber's football dance at night!

Listen to what is going to happen at Garber's that night!

The Howard theater, out of compliment to Merry Widow week at their house, is going to give a $50 prize, to be decided on later, to the couple adjudged, by three of the chaperons and two of the Merry Widow cast, to be the most graceful dancers of the Merry Widow waltz! This will be danced at 12:30 with especial music furnished by a very, very foreign orchestra, which, at present, is a profound secret. Another prize of a TEN POUND box of candy will be added by the management of Garber's.

Won't Thanksgiving week be wonderful!

The Tech-Auburn game alone would be quite sufficient to fill the day. My, I am sorry for the Auburn team with these Tech gourmants' appetites as whetted for victory by the game of last week as they are!

Football in Retrospect.

After a whole week's time, amply sufficient to bring thousands of incidents—trivial and otherwise—between, the delirium of the Tech-Georgia football week-end activities has subsided little.

How could a period so drenched in the intriguing joys of pleasure and excitement, wooing, as it did, men from turbulent business and acrimony of spirit, pass from mind so quickly!

Such clean sport—and such colorful—keeps the joy of life stirring in the masses. The "asceticism of frivolity," though often more difficult than the "asceticism of gloom," proves the wisdom of living in the moment.

And the Tech victory!

In the give and take of life, both of the contending teams could not be victors. We would have fixed it so they could, if it had been at all possible! Could there possibly be, in any other field of sport, such tremendous exhilaration, or a more complete reaction of exhaustion than comes from witnessing a gridiron battle?

The players, no doubt, experience the same exhilaration and the same exhaustion intensified a thousand fold, if possible, plus the terrible fear of permanent bodily injury.

No—football isn't merely an exhibition of brute force!

Nothing short of labelling it scientific art would satisfy us!

The keenest alertness of mind as well as body, a thorough knowledge of the rules of the game, a firm intellectual grasp of its tactics and principles, an ability to space physics and mental contacts and a perfect physical fitness, are a few of the requirements of the football player.

I have often wondered to what extent these giants, while bending every energy in concentration on the fight in which they are engaged, are susceptible to the terrific urge of the enthusiastic rooters, not alone in the student body, but of the thousands of fans present. The atmosphere is surcharged with such high explosives as "Attaboy Red!" "Put your big foot to it, Doug!" "Not marshmallows, boys,—nails!" "Put the dirt on him, Gus!" "Are you a crowd of manicurists?" "Kick it to 'em, Ike!" and Ike did, thereby winning the score for Tech!

What could more thoroughly run the whole gamut of one's emotions than living through such a gridiron struggle as the Tech-Georgia game? Hope, fear, anxiety, pride, delight, disappointment, joy, loyalty chase each other up and down one's spine at a terrific rate of speed.

When, during intermission, the band boys of the Red and Black persuasion formed in line, marched over, took position in front of the Yellow and White student body and blew "Ramblin' Reck from Georgia Tech" right through their horns into the atmosphere, everyone was consumed with pride of Georgia. And when the Yellow and White brigade extended the same courtesy and played before the Red and Black stand "Glory, Glory to Old Georgia!" Tech was immediately embraced!

Twice—once even after the two opposing teams had taken position on the field—the whole 40,000 enthusiastic, noisy fans came to perfect quietude, stood at attention, with bared heads, while the two alma maters were played.

And thus—loyalty, school spirit, amity were engendered!

Long live Tech!

Long live Georgia!

May we never again be deprived of the joy of watching their teams come together on the football field once a year!

A Strenuous Test.

Speaking of loyalty and the whole gamut of emotions being run, I wonder how Mrs. Strickler stood up under such conflicting emotions as must have torn her breast during the Tech-Georgia game!

On one side sat her son, G. B., the staunchest Tech man who ever wore the Yellow and White; on the other side was her equally as beloved son, Cy, Jr., as loyal a Georgia man as ever lived.

What a position for a mother!

Think of the heated arguments she had to listen to, of the mooted questions constantly coming up for discussion, of the intercollegiate issues placed before her—the highest of all tribunals, in the eyes of these devoted sons—of her anxiety for fear, in an unguarded moment of extreme enthusiasm and riot of feeling, by some slight expression of favoritism, she would offend one of these loyal color-bearers sitting on either side—was ever a mother so put to!

On the lapel of her coat on one side she wore the Yellow and White, on the other the Red and Black!

Mary Bayley's Trip.

Did you ever hear of anything so wonderful as the glorious trip it has been Mary Bayley's good fortune to fall heir to?

With her parents, the C. A. D. Bayleys, Mary left last Sunday for an extended visit to Argentina.

For 18 days the party will be on the high seas. Upon landing many delightful points of interest will be seen. There will be charming motor trips to out-of-the-way places, glimpses of the lofty Andes, where little villages cling to the roof of the world and the chimes of the monasteries resound down the slopes, falling on peasant children's ears while at play; historic old churches and enough of delight to fill Mary's time so completely that she will be more than repaid for leaving senior honors for the purpose of making the trip.

Home will Mary come trekking in February in the finest fettle ever, so rested and ready for the resumption of school duties.

Mary is indeed lucky above many!

Masculinity Versus Femininity.

What is one to do these days when, looking straight at youthful progeny, it is absolutely out of the question to know whether to say, "Yes, sir," or "Yes, mam." Neither, I am perfectly aware, would be etiquetically (?) correct.

With both the boy and the girl, the hair is cut identically the same! With both the boy and the girl, the knickers are cut identically the same!

As likely with one as the other, there is a lighted cigarette in the tips of the fingers or between the lips. Often the boy has a refined, effeminate look and all too often the girls have the coarseness of appearance of the opposite sex.

Through the window of a bank cage, a few days ago, I saw a form approaching to serve me. The hair, the knickers and features were of the non-determinable cut. I felt very much inclined to say, "Be ye man or woman?" However, the thing which I did was to leave the bank without coming to any definite conclusions on the matter.

Arthur Brisbane suggests, through the mouth of some bishop, that men wear mustaches as a "badge of masculinity." This indeterminate sex problem has also several very tantalizing phases connected with it.

Companionship between two girls of these opposite types often gives the girl with the long bob credit for dates when no credit is due. She is seen riding around with a "perfectly lovely looking fellow," when as a matter of fact it isn't a fellow at all!

Compromising situations also sometime arise by this masculinity of appearance in the gentle sex.

Last Sunday we were going out Peachtree when about in front of Coursey's—that fashionable rendezvous for the young—directly ahead of me was a car with the shade to the rear window not down. In full view were two figures who certainly needed a good reprimanding, to say the least of it!

"Nothing too bold these days!" thought I, stepping on the gas, determined to hurl a few darts of disapproval into the car in passing.

As I drew abreast of the side window and looked in, there sat two of my very best girl friends—one ponselled and the other wearing only a shingle.

Undoubtedly, to be able to distinguish masculinity and femininity today is a perplexing problem!

Decollete Gowns.

While we are on the subject of women's clothes, I want to ask, aren't you glad to see the girls—also their very young mothers—donning evening dresses which have more of a full-dress look to them?

Don't mistake me. I don't mean a more fully dressed look—the opposite exactly! Less dress but more dressed up! Not up—the opposite exactly! Decollete!

Commend me to a decollete gown, showing dimpled shoulders and a stretch of soft, white neck for full evening dress! Personally, I should welcome a return of the long, white evening gloves, which seem relegated so far into pre-historic days, that they seem very remote indeed. For a formal toilet can anything add a more finished touch than beautiful, long white kid evening gloves!

Surely, batteau necks were never intended for evening wear!

This style of dress, which has been in vogue far too long, with a slit at the top to put one's head through, the back and front being identical as to dimensions and design—notwithstanding nature's loud protest—is a snare and a delusion! The only known method of identifying the front from the back of the modern dress is by some deep, dark mystery connected with the cut of the neck.

I heard Mrs. Ashby Jones at a luncheon table, recently, recount her horror once, in the not dim-distant past, of making the harrowing discovery, while attending a very fashionable social function, that she was arrayed in her dress exactly backwards, the front part being as far removed from the modiste's original plan of location as it was possible for it to be!

How perfectly charming the girls from the Chi Phi banquet looked the Friday night, when after this full-dress affair at the Piedmont Driving club, they came by the Tech-Georgia dance at Garber's! There were Nell Clayton, Kitty Parks, Boyce Lokey, Bootsie Perkins and Julianne Hogan, who came in, in gloriously be-crystalled decollete gowns. How wonderfully dressed up they looked!

This is femininity in its most superlative expression!

:-: Four Charming Young Atlanta Girls :-:

From left to right, Miss Boyce Lokey, Miss Julianne Hagan, and Miss Bootsie Perkins, while Miss Mary Bayley's photograph is in the center of the group. Photographs of Misses Lokey, Hagan and Perkins by Winn studio, and Miss Bayley's is the work of Thurston Hatcher.

Savannah Visitor Feted at Parties.

Mrs. Lula Louis Desbouillons, of Savannah, the guest of Mrs. Frank Markel has been honored at several pretty affairs during the past week.

Miss Lillian Williamson entertained at bridge at the Woman's club, Mrs. Frank Massenburg's bridge on Tuesday was a delightful affair. Mrs. William B. Spann gave a bridge-luncheon at her home in Druid Hills. Mrs. Markel entertained on Wednesday for her guest.

Church Choir To Be Entertained.

Miss Vesta Ashmore will entertain the members of the choir of the Morningside Presbyterian church Monday evening, November 23, at her home, 32 South View avenue.

Music and games will be enjoyed, a song contest and "The Human Organ" being the special attractions.

Shriners Will Dance At Biltmore Friday.

The dance committee of Yaarab temple announces a formal dance for the evening of Friday, November 27 to be held in the ballroom at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel. Being the initial social event of the season, and immediately following the temple's success in raising $1,000,000 to build Yaarab temple's new mosque, the committee has arranged to make it a gala event.

Tickets will be $2 per couple, with $1 for each extra lady accompanying a noble, and these may be procured at the door. All members of Yaarab temple are invited, as are sojourning nobles and their ladies. The 1925 Shrine card must be shown at the door.

Square Dance For Camp Walker.

An old-fashined square dance will be given for the benefit of Camp Walker, United Confederate Veterans, at the Red Men's wigwam, 86 Central avenue, the evening of November 25, the grand march beginning at 8 o'clock, led by Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Wood. Mrs. J. M. Wiggins and Mrs. J. B. Wilson are in charge of the entertainment. Admission 50 cents.

Church Members Plan Homecoming.

Cooper Street Baptist church members will celebrate home-coming on Thanksgiving night at 7:30 o'clock.

A special program has been arranged including readings and musical numbers on piano and steel guitar. Rev. W. M. Albert will speak at this service. All present and former members are invited to be there. After the program tea will be served.

Agnes Scott Alumnae FeatureHome-Coming Tea on Wednesday

The house and tea room committee of the general Alumnae association of Agnes Scott college is entertaining at tea on Wednesday afternoon, November 25, at the Anna Young, Alumnae house on the college campus. All the young women in Atlanta, Decatur, Marietta, or in other towns near Atlanta, who have ever been students at Agnes Scott are invited to call at the alumnae house between the hours of three and five. The faculty of Agnes Scott and 40 of the girls who now hold office in the student body, as well as the alumnae, will be present.

November 25 is the birthday of the late Miss Anna Irwin Young, for many years head of the mathematics department at Agnes Scott; it is as a memorial to her that the alumnae call their beautiful home at 133 South Candler street in Decatur the Anna Young Alumnae house. They plan to celebrate her birthday every year as alumnae home-coming day, when all the alumnae within reach of the college may visit together their home on the campus and meet again the faculty and representative girls from the student body.

The house and tea room committee will serve as hostess on Wednesday, assisted by little Miss Eagan, the neice of Miss Young, and by little Miss Anne Scott, daughter of Mrs. Milton Scott, chairman of the committee.

Mr. Howell Addresses Council of Jewish Women

The meeting of the Council of Jewish Women last Monday afternoon was dedicated to universal peace and the world court. Clark Howell was the speaker of the day. Mr. Howell, through his long experience as a newspaper editor, and the prominent part he has played in affairs civic and political, was especially well chosen to speak on this theme. Mr. Howell explained all the logical and imperative reasons why the United States ought to belong to the world court, and showed clearly that there were no valid reasons for opposition to this plan. He pointed out that the recommendations and resolutions of ex-President Harding and ex-Secretary Hughes and the wishes of President Coolidge all indorse joining the court. General discussion of the question followed Mr. Howell's talk after which all joined in singing the national anthem and "America."

Aid Society Plans Dinner.

A Thanksgiving dinner will be sponsored by the ladies' aid society of the North Atlanta Baptist church in the basement of the church, corner of Hemphill avenue and West Tenth street.

Meals will be 50 cents.

J. P. Allen & Co.

Madame and Mademoiselle—
Here is the New Way to dress

WEAR "JUST ENOUGH"--
THE NEW FOUR-IN-ONE
UNDERGARMENT

It gives that coveted slim, soft look—that smooth, youthful, unbroken line—and it is slipped on or off in one second.

Sizes 32 to 40

SCANTIES $6.50 to $15

Combining all in one silken lacy garment—a vest, a brassiere, a girdle with attached garters and panties.

Fourth Floor

At THE MIRROR

Beginning Promptly Monday at 9:00 A. M.

328 COATS

Drastically Reduced

For a Quick Disposal

Bear in mind, these coats are no job lots, but are coats that have been taken from our regular stock. Every garment was bought in the most careful manner, assuring you of finest quality materials, select quality furs and workmanship of the highest order.

Just a Word About the Styles:

The styles are those that have enjoyed so much popularity this season. Waistline-hip and knee flares, straight line wrappy effects, fur bordered models.

Plenty of New Blues, Reds and Browns. Junior sizes, misses' sizes, women's sizes.

$25 and $29.75 Values	$35 and $39.75 Values	$49.50 and $55.00 Values
$19.75	$25.00	$39.50

All of Our Finer Coats at Similar Reductions
Savings from $10.00 to $25.00 on Each Coat

$19.75 and $25.00 Satin, Chenille, Georgette and Crepe Silk Dresses. Marvelous values in a clearaway sale. $14.95

Early Attendance Is Requested for Best Selection.

46-48 Whitehall St. THE MIRROR Reflects Greater Values 46-48 Whitehall St.

One lot of Crepe Satin Dresses, few sleeveless models; also Woolen Dresses included. Values to $19.75. Monday, while they last, for $10.00

League of Women Voters Elects Officers and Chairmen

During the week of November 15, the League of Women Voters held meetings in the different wards to elect ward chairmen and officers and nominate directors. Meetings were held in the second, third, fourth, sixth, eleventh and twelfth wards, but several wards have not yet sent in their reports as to the outcome of the election. The reports received are as follows: The second ward, chairman, Mrs. L. G. Wentworth; vice chairman, Mrs. Earnest Williams; second vice chairman, Mrs. Susie Griffin, and secretary, Mrs. J. Cumbea.

In the third ward the officers are: Mrs. J. B. Morgan, chairman; Mrs. Laura O'Rourke, first vice chairman; Mrs. M. S. Moser, second vice chairman; Mrs. George Holder, secretary.

In the eighth ward: Mrs. L. D. T. Quinby, chairman; Mrs. W. A. Waldman, first vice chairman; Mrs. C. C. Clower, second vice chairman, and Mrs. Lucy Nagle, secretary.

In the twelfth ward: Mrs. Wilbur Runnicutt, chairman; Mrs. F. A. Aldman, first vice chairman; Mrs. R. F. Goulden, second vice chairman, and Mrs. J. L. Murphy, secretary. The directors which were nominated will be announced later.

League Election.

The regular league election takes place the first week in January, at which time a regular election with clerks and managers, governed by Australian ballot rules, takes place at the league headquarters. The count is by the most modern method of counting, namely the Hare system of proportional representation. The committee in charge of the elections is composed of Miss Eleonore Raoul, chairman; Mrs. L. C. Wentworth, Mrs. Lois Manning; Mrs. E. C. Kent, Mrs. M. D. Farnham, Miss Leila Culberson, Miss Lucy Nagle, Mrs. George Price, Mrs. Emmitt Quinn, Mrs. N. V. Perry and Mrs. F. A. Almand. This committee will meet at 4 o'clock on Monday, November 23, at headquarters, 356 Candler annex. Tea will be served.

Citizenship School.

The citizenship school, sponsored by the league, will take place on Tuesday, November 24, at the Ansley roof. Details are given elsewhere in the paper.

The league will hold its annual meeting in January, at which time the program for the year is adopted. Mrs. R. L. Turman, president, urges all wards to consider the program and offer suggestions.

The College Park league met on Thursday, November 19, for the purpose of giving information as to voting and registration. The policies of the league were outlined by Mrs. L. C. Algee. The next meeting will be on December 1 and will be most interesting as it is at that time that the answers to the questionnaires will be read.

The state board held its monthly meeting at league headquarters on Friday, November 20.

Buckeye Woman's Club To Meet.

The Buckeye Woman's club will hold its November meeting on Tuesday afternoon, November 24, promptly at 3 p. m. Mrs. Edwin M. Helbig and her mother, Mrs. W. A. Shoemaker, will be the hostesses at their home, 157 The Prado, in Ansley Park.

Mrs. H. G. Hastings, president of the Fifth District Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, will be a special guest and will address the club. An unusually fine program will be given.

Mrs. W. R. Wilson will talke on "Forestry." "The Little Church Around the Corner" will be the subject of a talk by Mrs. W. H. Preston, founder of this club. A reading will be given by Mrs. J. R. Weithington, one of the newer members. This is the last call for articles for the Needlework guild, as the annual collection of garments is to be held the week of November 30.

Anyone desiring tickets for the "Passion Play" can procure them on Tuesday and a thank offering will be taken at the meeting for a special student aid girl.

As the Buckeye Woman's club does not meet during the month of December, a full attendance is especially desired at the meeting on Tuesday.

Mrs. Walters Hostess To Church Circle.

Mrs. C. T. Walters entertained Circle No. 4, Woman's Missionary society of the Third Baptist church, Wednesday afternoon at her home on Plum street.

The house was attractively decorated with California poppies and autumn leaves.

Those present were Mrs. Claude Ogle, Mrs. M. M. Ballard, Mrs. C. S. Morris, Mrs. H. H. Quattlebaum, Mrs. C. L. Peacock, Mrs. J. C. A. Green, Mrs. Boling, Mrs. Guise Peeples, Mrs. Will Chambers, Mrs. H. C. Newton, Miss Butterworth, Mrs. F. K. Frye, Mrs. T. H. Taylor, Mrs. Freeland, Mrs. E. B. Barrett and Mrs. Walters.

Georgia Division U. D. C. Is Entertained.

The members of Georgia Division 337 U. D. C. were entertained Friday afternoon by joint hostesses, Mrs. Rupert Waller and Mrs. Virgil Adams at the latter's home on Page avenue. The house was beautifully decorated with autumn flowers, brilliant autumn leaves and potted plants.

During the afternoon two very unique contests were held, Mrs. Grover Gill winning the prize in the first contest, and Mrs. D. E. Boswell in the second. About 30 guests were present.

Mrs. Ottley Speaks To Tech Woman's Club.

The Georgia Tech Woman's Club had its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. J. Bonar White, 85 Drewry street, on Tuesday, November 17.

Mrs. J. Herbert Gailey, the president, presided over a short business meeting and then presented Mrs. J. H. Ottley, who spoke on the Tallulah Falls Industrial school. Mrs. Ottley held the rapt attention of the club as she described the motives behind the founding of the school, and then told with interest and sympathy of the work being accomplished there.

After this address, Mrs. White, assisted by Mrs. J. R. Jenness, Mrs. F. C. Snow and Mrs. Ronald Reamer, served tea.

Notice of L'Alliance Francaise Meeting.

On account of November 26 being a holiday and Thanksgiving, the regular Thursday meeting of L'Alliance Francaise will not take place until the following Monday, December 3.

At the last meeting on Thursday at Hotel Ansley the French pupils of Mademoiselle Mattie Seaton, instructor of French in the Girls' High school, rendered a group of French songs in a most creditable manner.

The program of the next regular meeting will appear in the daily papers.

"Y" Educational Committee Classes.

The winter activities of the Y. W. C. A. educational committee are in full swing and present some unprecedented opportunities for lessons in various arts at a ridiculously low price when there is any charge at all.

The teachers are all experts in their various professions and are giving their services for love of their art and their desire to have others enjoy and excel in what has meant so much to them.

Mrs. W. W. Moore, a distinguished teacher of expression has offered to coach a play to be put on as soon as practicable.

Mrs. W. W. Alexander and Mrs. Springer will conduct a novelty art class in dimension work—vases, paper flowers, lamp shades, book ends, candle sticks, etc.

Miss Adele Jacob, of Rich's art department, will give lessons in Italian hemstitching and rug-making at the same hour, Thursdays at 8 o'clock.

No charge for these lessons.

There are two mandolin clubs. One for advanced players, conducted by Mrs. Clark, and meeting on Mondays from 7:30 to 9 o'clock, and one for beginners, in charge of Mr. Griffith, of the Griffith School of Music, meeting on Wednesdays from 7:30 to 9 o'clock. There is a nominal charge for these classes.

The glee club, conducted by Miss Mary Anderson, will give an entertainment at the Palace theater on December 5. Membership in this club is open to any one who can sing and wishes to join.

A new club will be formed on January 1, 1926.

Ga. State College Alumnae Club.

The Georgia State College for Women Alumnae club had another very interesting meeting Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Robert L. Russell, 35 Glen Arden way. There were about 20 members present. The house was beautifully decorated with gold and white chrysanthemums. The social committee assisted Mrs. Russell in entertaining.

The president, Mrs. James H. Bowden, presided until the usual order of business was carried out, and then she turned the meeting over to the press committee, which had charge of the program, assisted by the program committee.

Miss Mary Brooks, president of the state alumnae, was the honor guest. She gave a very interesting talk about "The Opportunities of the State Alumnae." She also told about the wonderful improvements that have been made at the Georgia State College for Women in Milledgeville, Ga.

The study of parliamentary law was continued at this meeting, led by Miss Julia Mae Fillingim. The by-laws were discussed. A further discussion will be had at the December meeting, at which time Miss Helen Douglas will give a lecture on the by-laws.

Miss Ruth O'Steen gave two readings.

After the program was finished there was bridge. The honor guest, Miss Mary Brooks, was presented with a beautiful hand-made handkerchief. Mrs. O. E. Herndon won top score, and she was presented with a hand-painted basket. Miss Mary Brooks won consolation prize, which was a bottle of perfume.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and social committee.

Women's Pioneer Society Gives Tea.

An outstanding features of the past few weeks was the delightful tea given by the Women's Pioneer society after their regular business meeting. An exceptionally fine program was presented by Mrs. Robert Blackburn, consisting of a reading by Miss Ada Lee Lewis and several attractive musical numbers and songs by Mrs. Arthur Coddington, Miss Ethel DeLiesseline and Miss Coddington.

Attractive Fall Bride

Photograph by McCrary Studio.

Mrs. John Lawrance Conyers, of Miami, Fla., who before her marriage last week was Miss Inez Lane Eubank, of this city, the wedding ceremony being a beautiful event at the Druid Hills Baptist church.

Pantry Shower At Wesley Hospital.

The pantry shower of Wesley Memorial hospital, which event is of state-wide interest, takes place on Tuesday, November 24, at the hospital.

A cordial invitation is extended to anyone interested in this shower to bring a box lunch and spend the day. A luncheon committee will serve tea and coffee.

Mrs. Florence C. Harris, chairman, and Mrs. J. L. Dennis, co-chairman, have associated with them Mrs. Henry Ittner, Mrs. E. T. Storrs and Mrs. L. M. Park, and every Atlanta Methodist church is urged to send a representative from each auxiliary.

La Grange College News Of Interest.

The students of the college joined with the people of LaGrange in the beautiful Armistice day program at the First Baptist church Wednesday. Wednesday evening the second student recital of the year was given.

Saturday night the Ireniane Literary society gave their annual entertainment in honor of the new students. This year it took the form of a kitchen cabinet band, presenting the romance of "Pretty Little Blue-Eyed Sally" and "Charley My Boy" under the direction of Miss Sara Swanson of Fairburn. Miss Mildred Pendergrass, of Jefferson, was the star of the concert.

Mrs. Cox's Sunday school class, to which the Baptist girls of the college belong, entertained Monday night at the First Baptist church.

On Wednesday and Thursday nights, Miss Evelyn Newton of Atlanta and Miss Gertrude Strain of Hill City, gave reports on the world court conference they had attended in Atlanta.

Friday night Miss Maude Helen Duncan, of Horse Shoe, N. C., discussed the responsibilities of the modern woman and presented to the students of the college the plan of a forum of democracy to take the place of the usual international relations and campus clubs. The following officers were elected: Miss Mary Frances Wiggins, of Atlanta, president; Miss Clara Arwood, of Stuart, Va., and Miss Lucille Cassels, of Atlanta, vice presidents; Miss Eugenia Embry, of Villa Rica, secretary. The group leaders: Misses Lucrete Adams, of Lumpkin; Rachel Beard, of LaGrange; Myrtle Cannon, of Fitzgerald; Hettie Dunn, of Tunnel Hill; Mary Floyd, of LaGrange; Claire Hill, of LaGrange; Frances Matthews, of Decatur; Sara Swanson, of Fairburn; Katherine Wheeler, of Chickamauga. Under each group are from 10 to 15 girls.

Monday evening delegates to the Baptist Student Volunteer conference at Shorter (Miss Lucille Cassells, of Atlanta, and Miss Hattie McDougall, of Gaddistown) made interesting talks of the conference and of their visit to the Mount Berry school.

Those spending the week-end out of town were: Miss Louise Harrington at West Point, Misses Zada and Katherine Taylor at Waresville, Miss Rosalie Kamper at Decatur, Miss Lurline Hargette at West Point, Misses Elizabeth Hodges, Sara Knott, Dorothy Hamilton, Elizabeth Berry in Atlanta, Miss Margaret Hamrick at Buchanan.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morrison, Miss Marjorie Morris and Miss Virginia Baggett were the guests of Miss Julia Baggett.

Boulevard Park Auxiliary Plans Interesting Activities

An interesting meeting of the Boulevard Park auxiliary was held at the residence of Mrs. J. A. Walker, 28 Crest Hill avenue. At this meeting, the president, Mrs. R. H. Wolfe, nominated the committee to nominate officers for the coming year.

The matter of a "clean-up" campaign for Boulevard Park was brought up, and it was agreed that a man be paid regularly to keep the walks and vacant lots in good condition, he to be under the direction of the committee on sanitation. A prize was offered to the store that kept its place of business most attractive and clean.

The president urged that the Boulevard Park auxiliary be represented at the Passion Play which is being sponsored by the city federation for the benefit of the Tallulah Falls school, and requested as many members to be present as possible.

Discussion of Christmas packages for the poor and worthy will be taken up at the next meeting.

Members were requested to plant trees in Boulevard Park on Arbor day, December 4, the president stating that at least 100 trees were needed.

Mrs. Albright made a motion that the supplement to the world book given the Samuel Inman school last year be presented to them by the auxiliary for their library, this to be given them for "Book week."

Miss Woodberry who has given a series of lectures to the club on parliamentary law gave a summary of her work at this meeting.

Mr. Botts of the Ansley Park Nurseries addressed the club on the planting of shrubs and trees at this time of the year. A rising vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Botts for the instruction given. The next feature of the program was a reading by Miss Rettie Weithington.

The next social meeting of the Boulevard Park auxiliary will be held at the residence of Mrs. E. A. Stephenson, 36 Cooledge avenue. This is the last regular meeting of the club for this year and the new officers for the coming year will be elected.

Picture Display Of Much Interest.

Those interested in art matters have recently been attracted to a display of pictures in a window on the Cain street side of the Henry Grady hotel by Marion Otis and Mary Elizabeth Hutchinson.

Those done by Miss Otis are oil paintings, done in the impressionistic manner, and are examples of the modern "reaching after color." For, after all, that is the most that paint can do. It can never quite grasp it. Sunlight, for instance, is keyed so high in reality, that no bludgeoning by a paint brush can hope to portray it; those whose eyes are tuned to the time-darkened, time-mellowed tints of the old masters, notwithstanding. Color is a comparatively new discovery in painting.

Miss Hutchinson's pencil miniatures are quite different in subject and execution. They are done in black and white, and with subtlety and a feeling for delicacy and subdued charm. The subjects are, for the most part, pretty young girls, classmates of the artist at Agnes Scott.

Incidentally, both these artists received their training and inspiration in Atlanta. With similar efforts and aspirations on all sides, we feel that Atlanta deserves an art school and an art museum.

There is no charge to view the display.

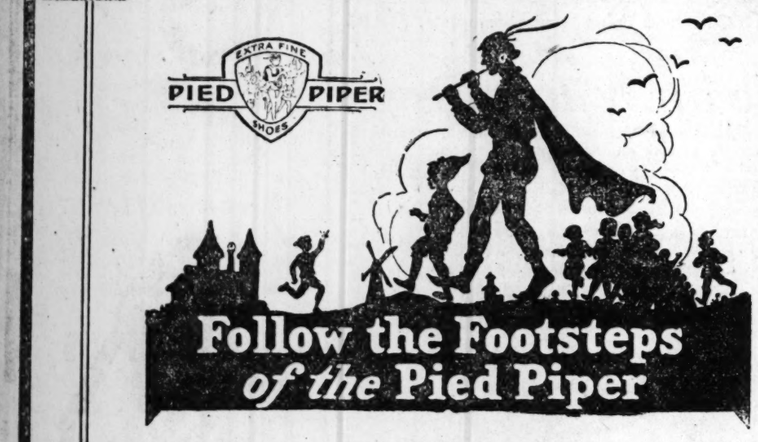
College Park Music Club Holds Meeting.

The College Park Junior Music Study Club held its regular semi-monthly meeting Monday afternoon, November 16, at 3:30 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Clarence Wall on West Rugby avenue, Miss Marie Reaves, president, presiding.

Plans for presenting a Christmas program for the Senior Music Study club were discussed.

Among the enjoyable features of the program were: Two vocal selections by Miss Kittie Vance; two piano solos rendered by Miss Le Merle Reaves; an interesting paper on the life of Haydn by Miss Faye Rhodes. Miss Byrdie Kate Smith played a violin solo. She was accompanied by Mrs. S. R. Young. Miss Syleda Cartledge gave some amusing facts about the man Haydn.

All young people interested in music are invited to join the club.



Follow the Footsteps of the Pied Piper

The Pied Piper is in town.

He is wearing his quaint old costume and has his famous old Pipe.

But instead of leading rats into the river, and children into the mountains, he is coming to our store on

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 25th
At 4 O'CLOCK SHARP

to bring joy and happiness to all boys and girls.

This Pied Piper is giving a real entertainment, so be sure to be here on time. DON'T MISS THE FUN.

F R E E

HATS - HORNS - STORY BOOKS

Come and see the Pied Piper.

Hear his wonderful story.

Ask him questions; he's very interesting.

And he has a FREE SOUVENIR for every boy and girl who comes on time.

Children's Department — Buck's — 27-29 WHITEHALL ST. — Children's Department

Save 20% to 40% Now

Choose Beautiful Home Gifts

FURNITURE OF CHARACTER

is destined to become the universal choice, because it performs a delightful service which perpetuates the beautiful sentiment expressed by the giver.

Your "Gift Budget" Does Double Duty During the Anniversary Sale

Convenient Terms May Be Arranged.

Colorful Odd Chairs

Selected not only for their decorative worth but for comfort as well. Modern creations and correct reproductions of the old period masterpieces, all greatly reduced.

$27.50 to $95.00

Lamps

THAT RADIATE BEAUTY AND GOOD CHEER

Unusual lamps, so different from the ordinary lamps, that perform double duty for service and decoration. A lamp for every purpose, and so reasonably priced now.

Thanksgiving Dining Suites

Reduced

30% to 40%

Beauty, Luxury and Good Taste

are dominant features of the late arrivals in Fine Living Room Furniture

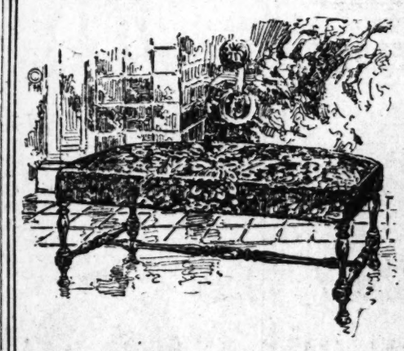
Those who would ask the question, "What is newest in fine living room furniture," will find the answer in new arrivals which are included in the Anniversary Sale offerings.

$595.00 Solid Mahogany, Mohair and Frieze Upholstered Kidney Shape Suite	$450.00
$495.00 Solid Mahogany, Mohair and Frieze Upholstered Kidney Suite	$380.00
$450.00 Grand Rapids, Mohair Spanish Suite with Figured Wool Tapestry Cushions	$337.00
$375.00 Mahogany Mohair and Damask Upholstered Suite	$295.00

HIGH-GRADE DOMESTIC RUGS,
Wiltons, Axminsters, Velvet and Tapestry Rugs, reduced
20% to 30%



Fireside Benches Upholstered in Mohair

Just the thing for comfort during the coming winter evenings. Only six left to sell. Originally priced up to $45.00.

Sale Price

$19.75

Spinet Desks That Make Delightful Gifts

Of all the desirable furniture gifts, a handsome spinet desk is one of the most acceptable gifts for Her.

A pleasing selection is made easy here now, with Anniversary Sale Prices from

$19.75 to $115.00

Fine Bedroom Suites

Reduced

20% to 40%

Duffee-Freeman

FURNITURE of CHARACTER

CORNER BROAD AND HUNTER STS.

Second Audience Rehearsal

The Conductor and His Audience

For Big Symphony Concerts

BY H. KNOX SPAIN.

Two great units—the audience and the orchestra assembled—Leide steps forward and waits for silence throughout the house—his signal, a swift glance over the orchestra and a quick vital up stroke of the baton—the first note of the twenty-second concert of the Atlanta Smyphony orchestra is sounded by the French horns.

This program gives rare opportunity for the "listener" to observe how Flotow, Hasselmans-Leide, Puccini, Wolf-Ferrari, Saint-Saens and Gomez employed the individuality of the instruments to describe their sensitiveness to geographical situations, romance, joy and sorrow. There is in the violin all emotion; viola, brooding melancholy and gloom; the cello, all emotion, masculine where the violin is feminine; donble bass, ponderous, portentious or also comical, harp, ecstatic, celestial; the flute, gently melancnoly or brilliant; piccolo, wild, frenzied gayety; oboe, grief and pathos, artless innocence, rustic gayety; English horn, broadly melancholy; bassoon, earnest and somber or grotesquely comical; contrabassoon, deep and impressive; clarinet, eloquent and tender or spectral; French horn, romantic or evil and repulsive; trumpet, martial and bold; trombone, solemn or menacing; tuba, brutal and powerful; tympani, explosive or anxiety and suspense; other instruments of percussion pulsing the rhythm.

Now to the text of the program, which is as follows:

1. Overture to Martha, Friedrich Flotow (1812-1883). The overture contains the leading motifs from the opera. The French horn takes first theme on the opening larghetto and the ensuing allegro is a sequence of bits from chorus ensembles. The same theme is repeated in different key and the finale is a reproduction of the closing scene. Third Act.

2. Harp solo, Harpe D'Eole, Hasselmans-Leide, Mrs. William Butt Griffith. The Aeolian Harp was written in the form of an impromptu for the harp, preceded by an orchestra prelude depicting the murmur in the forest. As the orchestration is not obtainable in his country, this special arrangement has been composed by Enrico Leide.

3. Selections, 'Madame Butterfly," Giacomo Puccini (1858-1924). This resume of the opera contains the following: 1, opening; 2, prelude; 3, sunset song; 4, Pinkerton's entrance and love scene; 5, Geisha's song and dance; 6, Un bel di vedremo (soprano aria); 7, duet of the flowers (Butterfly and Suzuki); 8, the death of Butterfly.

4. Two Intermezzos from "Jewels of the Madonna," Ermanno Wolf-Ferrari (1876-....). Intermezzo one is the introduction to act II. A beautiful Neapolitan ballad, carried by the flute and harp and developed by the full orchestra. Intermezzo two is the introduction to act III. A fast whirlwind of intricate harmonies, probably to depict the Cammorists in the Italian village. It is an admirable example of ultra-modern harmonies. Wolf-Ferrari's vivid melodrama of Neapolitan life is based on actual happenings in the squalid, superstitious life of the people of Naples, feverish with its reckless gayety and mingled with sadness and gloom.

5. The Swan, from Suite Le Carnaval des Animaux, Camille Saint-Saens (1835-1921). No work of the famous French composer has been more universally popular than this charming short tone picture. It was also a favorite of the composer, he having made transcriptions of it for all the instruments. Originally it was written for cello and harp. This work belongs to that class of program music in which the title merely suggests to the auditor the mood or poetic thought of the composer.

6. Overture to Il Guarany, Antonio Carlos Gomez (1839-1896). The overture tells the story of a Brazilian savage. It is characteristic and the melodies of the Amazon, which Gomes introduced to give it local color are piquant and effective. After an introductory brass choir, describing Guarany's approach, the orchestra swings into a lovely and passionate melody. Then follows the fight; the love duet and closes with a brief finale.

Mrs. William Butt Griffith, harpist, pianist, organist and teacher is the soloist. She was born in Chattanooga, Tenn. When only a few weeks old her parents moved to Nashville. When quite a small child she commenced her musical study. She is a graduate of the Frances Sullivan Piano school, a pupil of Hacheck, New York. Eight years ago she moved to Atlanta, commencing her harp study under Mrs. Mary Butt Griffith. Later she went to New York and became the pupil of Rogers. Afterwards going to Paris to become the pupil of the famous Fernand Maignien de Mersuay. This is Mrs. Griffith's fourth year as organist of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Atlanta, and her third year harpist with the Atlanta Symphony orchestra.

The next program, December 6, will consist of the overture to The Bartered Bride, Smetana; Concerto in D Minor, Rubinstein, Mr. Hugh Hodgson, pianist as the soloist; Unfinished Symphony, Schubert; Air on G String, Bach and Bacchanale from "Samson et Dalila," Saint-Saens.

SOCIAL ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. S. Clifton Orr and John Clifton Orr and Mr. and Mrs. Evan Lee McNaughton and little daughter, Marjorie have returned to their home on Muscogee road after a motor trip to Tampa, Fla., and other points of interest on the east coast. While in St. Petersburg they were delightfully entertained at a dinner party by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hartley.

***

The regular monthly luncheon and meeting of the better films committee will be held Tuesday, November 24 at 12:30 in Rich's tea room. Arrangements will be made for the Christmas party given every year for the children of Atlanta who otherwise might not be remembered.

***

Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Edwards, who have been making their home in Florida for some time, have come to Atlanta to reside and have purchased the home at 151 North Decatur road, where they are at home to their friends.

***

T. W. Key has returned from a recent tour of Ohio and other middle west states.

***

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Hurley have returned to the city after spending the past few months in Florida.

***

Mrs. H. H. Dunn and children left the past week to join Mr. Dunn in Ocala, Fla., where they will make their home for the present.

***

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McConnell were recent visitors in Newnan.

***

R. E. Hodgson left Saturday for Richmond, Va., to spend Thanksgiving holidays with relatives.

***

Mrs. W. A. Lindsey and Miss Estelle Lindsey left Saturday for Baltimore, Md., where they will visit Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Williams and family. They will visit New York before returning home. Miss Lindsey will be among the attractive southern belles attending the Army-Navy football game.

***

Miss Dorothy Morrison, of Sarasota, Fla., is spending the Thanksgiving holidays in Atlanta, as the guest of Miss Gladys McClelland at her home, 26 St. Charles Place.

Judge and Mrs. Wiley C. Howard, of Turnerville and Athens, are the guests of their daughter, Miss Nettie Howard, at the Bell House.

***

Miss Julia Butt, of Augusta, Ga., is the guest of Mrs. Martin Dunbar at her home on Piedmont avenue.

***

Captain Alexander Cunningham left Friday for Miami, Fla., where he will spend three weeks.

***

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Hinman and Mr. and Mrs. Cason Callaway, of LaGrange, will leave for New York next week.

***

James M. Couper will arrive from Miami, Fla., next week to spend several days in Atlanta. Mr. Couper has been making his home in Miami for several months.

***

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Rosser announce the birth of a son on November 19 at 28 Carlton street, who has been given the name of Marvin J. Rosser.

***

Mrs. Christian Clarke will leave Sunday for Norfolk, Va., to spend several days with her sister en route to New York to attend the Army-Yale game, November 28, as the guest of her son, Cadet Christian H. Clarke, Jr., who is a student at West Point. Mrs. Clarke will remain in New York with her sister until after Christmas and will then go to Richmond to spend several days before returning home in January.

***

Mrs. Katherine Willard Eddy, of New York, is at the Atlanta Biltmore.

***

Among the arrivals at the Biltmore Saturday were B. S. Cannon, George J. Tugwood and Arnold Fax, all of New York; T. W. Appleby, of Cincinnati, O.; C. C. Pangman, of St. Louis, and others.

***

Miss Lilla Keith is criticially ill at the Georgia Baptist hospital.

***

Dr. E. C. Cartledge, of 245 East Tenth street, was reported dangerously ill at Battle Hill sanatorium Saturday night. He was stricken several days ago and taken to the hospital, where he has grown steadily worse.

Christmas Cards

Should Be Ordered Now

We are ready to show you a complete and artistic line of delightful Christmas and New Year's Greeting Cards to be engraved for your personal use. Come in and select your cards at your leisure, before the rush days.

Our Prices Reasonable for Fine Engraving

We Do Engraving Of All Kinds

SOUTHERN BOOK CONCERN

71 Whitehall St.

Quick Mail Service

From

"The Shop of Beautiful Gifts"

SELECT HIS GIFTS

The gift for the men of your kin and your friendly circle seems difficult to select—but not with this list before you—

For Him

Watches	$1.75	to	$200.00
Watch Chains	3.00	to	45.00
Strap Watches	4.75	to	75.00
Cuff Links	2.00	to	75.00
Scarf Pins	1.00	to	100.00
Belt Buckles	2.50	to	25.00
Cigarette Cases	3.50	to	25.00
Bill Folds	3.50	to	18.50
Signet Rings	1.50	to	35.00
Emblem Buttons	.75	to	75.00

These and many other acceptable gifts may be found in our shop.

E. A. MORGAN

Established 1905

10-12 East Hunter Street

"There's economy in a few steps around the corner"

Recent Lovely Bride

Photograph by Whitehall Studio.

Mrs. Alfred Cornelius Current, of Gastonia, N. C., formerly Miss Vera Elizabeth McDuffie, of East Point, whose marriage was a brilliant event of a recent date.

Georgia Woman's Christian Temperance Union

President, Mrs. Mary Harris Armor, 806 Fifth avenue, Eastman; vice president, Mrs. Marvin Williams, 307 North Moreland avenue, Atlanta; recording secretary, Mrs. Lelia A. Dillard, Box 216, Emory university; corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. G. Cotton, Box 1146, Columbus; treasurer, Miss Josephine Hammond, Monroe; adjusory, Miss M. Theresa Griffin, 1590 Third ave., Columbus; editor Georgia W. C. T. U. Bulletin, Mrs. August Burghard, 481 Johnson avenue, Macon; director of music, Mrs. A. B. Cunyus, Cartersville; evangelist, Miss Carabel Wilkes, 121 Pierce avenue, Macon.

Georgians at National W. C. T. U. Convention

BY FRANCES M. BURGHARD.

The fifty-first national convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, in Detroit, Michigan, opened November 12 with a three hours' continuous prayer and praise service at the Woodward Avenue Baptist church, in charge of Mrs. Mary Harris Armor, of Georgia, national director of the evangelistic and Sabbath observance departments.

The devotionals centered about the text, "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me," which was divided into three topics: Why we should be strong, how we should be strong and when we should be strong. The discussion of each lasting an hour were led by state and national evangelists, with consecrated women from a number of states participating.

One thought variously emphasized was, "It is so good for strength to know that someone needs you to be strong."

This service attuned the convention to a high spiritual note which was maintained throughout.

Mrs. Armor also had charge of the noontide devotionals each day.

On the Sabbath many Detroit pulpits were filled by white ribboners. Mrs. Armor spoke at Temple Avenue Baptist church, one of the largest in the city. She also led one of the departmental conferences.

Mrs. McPherson Represents Georgia On Youths' Night.

The immense auditorium of Cass Theological High school was filled with enthusiasts Saturday evening for the Pictorial Presentation of Patriotic Enrollment for Allegiance to the Constitution circulated by the college and young people's branch.

The spectacular presentation began with a musical program by the wonderful Cass Tech Concert band, Clarence Byrn, conductor.

Mrs. Maude B. Perkins, of New York, national secretary of the College and Young People's branch, who was a speaker at the Georgia State W. C. T. U. convention in October, stated that the national president had set a goal of 20,000 signers for the patriotic rolls from colleges, universities and young people's church organizations, but the signatures had reached 210,000 and were still being received.

Mrs. N. C. McPherson, president of the Atlanta-Druid Hills W. C. T. U., wearing a lovely costume of white, presented the patriotic rolls signed by 10,000 young men and young women in Georgia colleges, high schools and young peoples' organizations. Every state was represented by varying numbers, New York having 30,000 signatures.

Mrs. Dillard Speaks on Peace.

Besides conducting a peace and arbitration conference and speaking on this subject, Mrs. Lella A. Dillard, of Georgia, national director of the department of peace and arbitration in the W. C. T. U., attended the congress of the American Council on Peace and Security of the World Alliance for International Friendship Through the Churches, which met in Detroit previous to the national W. C. T. U. convention.

This congress had such speakers as Rev. Shailer Mathews, D. D., dean of the Divinity school of the University of Chicago; Fred B. Smith, chairman, commission on councils of churches of the Federated Council of Churches of Christ in America; Rev. Nehemiah Boynton, D. D., pastor emeritus of the Congregational church, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, state lecturer and organizer in woman's suffrage movement, president of the International Woman's Suffrage alliance since 1904, member of women's committee of the council of national defense. Since the ratification of the 19th amendment, has devoted a large part of her time to the cause of international peace and good will. Hon. Hugh Edwards, M. P., one of the leading members of the British parliament; Bishop Francis J. McConnell, D. D., of the Methodist Episcopal church; Judge John H. Clarke; James G. McDonald, professor of history and political science at University of Indiana; Mrs. Lucia Mead, writer on political law at Harvard; Rt. Rev. J. S. Motoda, D. D., bishop of Tokio, Japan; Dr. Sidney L. Gulick, author on international law; David Hunter Miller, specializing in international law; Rev. John A. Ryan, D. D., professor moral theology and industrial ethics, Catholic university; Rt. Rev. Charles H. Brent, D. D., bishop of the diocese of western New York, and others.

Mrs. Dillard was the guest at a luncheon with which the Woman's Council for the Study of International Relations, entertained in honor of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, at the Detroit Women's Club. Covers were laid for 20 prominent peace workers.

The Georgia delegates attended the banquet with its choice musical program, toasts from prominent Detroit citizens, to which Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch responded for the National W. C. T. U., of which she is legal adviser, and other pleasing features, which was held in Statler hotel. Besides Mrs. Armor, Mrs. Dillard and Mrs. McPherson, the other Georgia delegates present on that auspicious occasion were: Miss Josephine Hammond, of Monroe; Mrs. O. L. Taylor, Mrs. P. C. Christian, of Atlanta, and Mrs. W. C. Davis, of Reidsville. They also enjoyed a number of sightseeing trips, as well as all of the convention features.

Resigned for World Work.

Miss Anna Adams Gordon, who came into the W. C. T. U. as secretary with the great Frances Willard, founder of the organization, who holds many important national and international offices in various organizations, resigned as National W. C. T. U. president after a tenure of 10 years marked by outstanding prohibition victories.

As vice president of the World W. C. T. U., she became its president upon the death of the Countess of Carlisle, of England, two years ago. She was elected president at the triennial convention of the World W. C. T. U. in Edinburgh, Scotland, last June. She will devote her great heart, mind and talents to world prohibition, world purity and world peace. There is no better-loved woman in the United States than Miss Gordon, nor one more respected and more worthy.

Mrs. Ella Alexander Boole, Ph. D., of Brooklyn, who has been vice president a long term of years, president of the New York W. C. T. N. and former treasurer of the World W. C. T. U., was elected president. Mrs. Boole was the Georgia state convention speaker last year at the convention in Albany. She is fitted for this high office in every respect.

Missionary Society To Hold Bazar.

The Woman's Missionary society of the Third Baptist church will have a bazar at Franklin and Cox Drug store, corner Whitehall and Alabama streets, Friday, November 27. A large variety of hand-made articles will be on sale. The public is invited.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH TO GIVE CANTATA

Soloists and the choir of St. Luke's Episcopal church, under direction of James Alderson, organist, will present to the people of Atlanta Maunder's "Song of Thanksgiving" at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night, November 29. This cantata depicts the thanksgiving spirit in music. It is the first musical offering of this character to be presented at St. Luke's this season. Mr. Alderson formerly was concert organist at Grove Park inn, at which place he gave over 900 recitals, and for three years was musical director and organist at the Vanderbilt Memorial church of All Souls and the Biltmore house at Biltmore, N. C.

W. C. T. U. ELECTS NEW PRESIDENT

Mrs. Ella A. Boole, temperance and suffrage worker of Brooklyn, N. Y., was unanimously elected president of the national W. C. T. U. at its 51st annual convention held in Detroit. Mrs. Boole was formerly vice president of the organization and succeeds Miss Anna A. Gordon, of Evanston, Ill., world president.

Membership Drive For Atlanta Drama League

Much interest is manifested in the campaign for membership to the Atlanta Drama league, which has been launched more than a week and drama lovers over the city are communicating with the members of the organization and giving in their membership. Mrs. Edgar Neely is president of the league.

The campaign is open for all who are interested in drama and Mrs. William Perry, secretary to the league, will be glad to receive members and may be reached over phone Hemlock 5191-J.

Mrs. Benton McMillan, wife of the former governor and senator of Tennessee, will read a very interesting play for the members on December 1, and on December 15 the league will present the Devereaux Players. In January, Bernard Szold, who is coach in the Little Theater Guild, in Birmingham, Ala., will read the popular play, "They Knew What They Wanted." This play has had very successful seasons in New York and is conceded to be one of rare interest and delight.

Mrs. Albert Thornton, Jr., is chairman of the membership committee for the Drama league and is using every effort to have every student of drama, every lover of the art and all interested, to have a part in the promotion of drama through this organization, by joining and being a part of the institution.

Following a delightful initial gathering of the membership committee at the home of Mrs. Edgar Neely, last week, the invitation campaign was launched and more than 35 women are engaged in interesting others to become members of the league. The dues are only $5 a season and entitles the member to all meetings and entertainments.

Social Secretary To Speak.

Mrs. May Cornell Stoiber, prominent social secretary, will speak Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Y. W. C. A. at 21 West Baker street, on the subject of "The Golden Rule in Industry." This meeting is open to the public and there will be no admission charge. It is being held under the auspices of the Business Women's League of the Y. W. C. A.

W. E. Christian Church Sale.

The ladies of West End Christian church will have a sale of home-made cakes, cooked by an expert and of the purest ingredients, on November 21, 23 and 24 at Gordon street, next door to Medlock's.

Give your orders for Thanksgiving.

Miss Castleberry Is Honored.

A lovely affair of Monday was a surprise miscellaneous shower given by Circle No. 1 of St. Paul's church in honor of Miss De Mae Castleberry, a bride-elect of December. Mrs. S. C. Styron and Mrs. W. Edgar Coleman planned a delightful program. Miss Lucile Moore rendered several piano selections. An interesting contest was enjoyed. Mrs. Fred Wischmeyer won first prize, a French novelty. The gifts were presented to Miss Castleberry by Mrs. S. C. Will.

Y. W. C. A. To Open Gymnasium At Beginning of New Year

Upon the return of Miss Lucy Marvin Adams from New York on December 23, the local Young Women's Christian association will open registration for their gymnasium, which will be conducted in a large semi-central hall, the location to be announced at a later date. Miss Elizabeth Gregg, business manager of the local body, in discussing the plan, stated that for weeks the Y. W. C. A. directors have been busy investigating semi-central locations in order that a large, well-ventilated hall might be secured that would be convenient for business girls, school girls, Atlanta matrons, young women and children. With the final decision made in favor of the present hall, health classes, stated Miss Gregg, will open with the new year.

It was further explained that in September the local body released Miss Adams for four months to the national board of the Y. W. C. A., of New York city, where she is at present doing a special piece of health work with Miss Jane Bellows, who is director of the health education department of the national body. While in New York Miss Adams is taking a course in Danish gymnastics, under a famous Danish teacher, who was recently brought to America by the national board and is teaching at the central branch of the New York Y. W. C. A.

Miss Adams will give the Danish course to all classes when she resumes her work here the first of the year as health director of the local body. In connection with the Danish course Miss Adams is taking lessons in scientific reducing, building-up system for the underweight, lessons in swimming, high diving, clog dancing and all other features that are included in New York's most modern Y. W. C. A. gymnasium. It will be of interest to former pupils of Miss Adams to know that her work in nutrition has been copyrighted by the national board of the Y. W. C. A. and will soon be on sale. A pronouncement made by the consulting physicians of the national body is that the book is one of the most complete and concise along nutrition lines that has ever been offered the public by the national board. It has been compiled by Miss Adams as a feature of her work for the national board and is to be followed when the local gymnasium classes open in January.

Church P.-T. A. Holds Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Westminster Parent-Teacher association was held Friday evening, November 13, in the Sunday school rooms of the church building.

A pageant, "The Voice of the Future," was presented by the young people of the church. It depicted the various influences in the life of the child and the predominating influence of the home.

Dr. Caldwell, pastor of the church, gave an interesting talk on the beneficial influence of home environment on the life of the child.

Willis M. Everett, superintendent of the Sunday school, also made a brief and interesting talk presenting the forward step of the association for this year.

M. RICH & BROS. COMPANY

Gifts for the Home

—Gifts that will make a home more beautiful, more comfortable, more inspiring. That will keep bright the grateful memory of the giver's thoughtfulness, for years to come. Many of these items are specially priced—to start Christmas buying NOW!

Ann Page

—knows all the secrets of home-making—that indefinable touch here or there—that little suggestion that seems such a trifle, yet is so all-important! It's all in "knowing how"—and Ann Page, in the House That Budget Built, surely knows! Problems on budgeting—on interior decoration—bring them to her! She's here not to sell you—but to serve you!

Rockers, $14.95

—Monday Special! Usually $18.75—Cane Wing Rockers. Full size. Nicely shaped cane back. Heavy turned posts. Very comfortable. Worthy of any home.

End Tables, $3.95

—The essence of individuality and simplicity—these End Tables of select gumwood finished in brown mahogany—gracefully turned legs and stretchers. —Console Tables—30-in. wide. $8.95.

"Windsors," $14.95

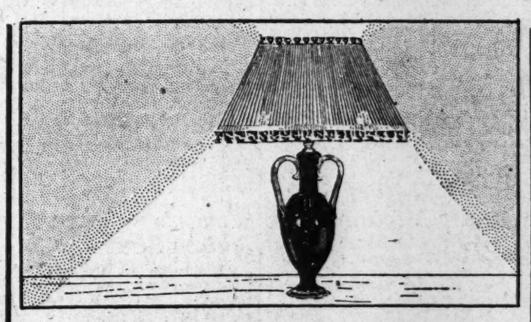
—Monday Special. Usually $22.75. Limited quantity Windsor Rockers, with old-fashioned flag seats and beautifully turned spindles. Suitable for practically any room in the home.

—RICH'S, FIFTH FLOOR

Hat Boxes, $4.95

—Monday Special! Black Fabrikoid Hat Boxes that ordinarily sell for $6.50. Dull finish with tan binding and handle. Strong lock—sateen lining.

—RICH'S, FOURTH FLOOR



Pottery Lamps

Cliftwood—Beautifully Glazed

—New and unusual. With everlasting beauty glazed in them. They are alluringly individual. Soft blue-black, in semi-luster finish. Brownish yellow. Mulberry. Deep blue blending into lovely old rose.

Silk-shaded Cliftwood Boudoir Lamps, complete, $9.45

Silk-shaded Cliftwood Table Lamps, complete, $12.95

—RICH'S, FIFTH FLOOR

Save on Wilton Rugs

—To hurry these rugs out and so make room for incoming Wiltons, we are placing on them reductions that will delight Home Lovers fortunate enough to secure them. Every one Rich-guaranteed.

—$ 87.50 Wilton Rugs, $69.75
—$ 75.00 Wilton Rugs, $59.75
—$107.50 Wilton Rugs, $92.50
—$112.50 Wilton Rugs, $85.00
—$132.50 Wilton Rugs, $98.75
—$138.75 Wilton Rugs, $122.50

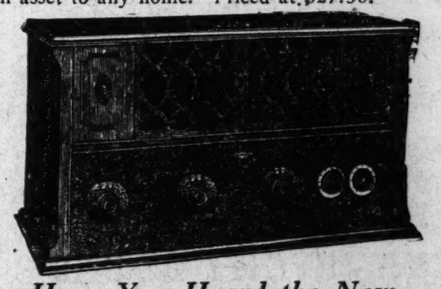
—RICH'S, FOURTH FLOOR

Library Tables, $27.50

—Library tables finished in Tudor Mahogany or Antique Walnut, with beautifully carved rims and bases—an asset to any home. Priced at $27.50.



Have You Heard the New "Splitdorf Radio"

—Come in! Listen to its clear, pure, mellow tone. Any artist is faithfully reproduced.

—You can purchase these Radios—on display in Rich's Furniture Dept.—on Special Club Plan. A representative is in the department to explain the many advantages of the "Splitdorf." Priced, $75 to $425.

—RICH'S, FIFTH FLOOR

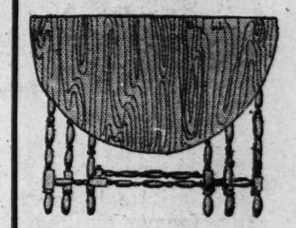
—See the livable, four-room apartment on Rich's Fifth Floor. Designed to show how much beauty and comfort can be put into a little home. It is furnished on budget principles. Fifth Floor.

"Tilt-Tops," $14.95

—Solid mahogany—with oval 20x30-in. tops. A special purchase! Hence the saving to YOU!

Rockers, $11.95

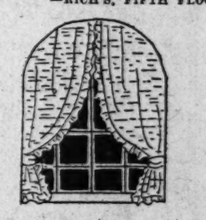
—Monday Special! Reg. $15 Fiber Rockers or Chairs. Finished in putty enamel, with double-spring seats, covered with blue or taupe damask.



Gateleg Tables, $19.75

—Genuine mahogany top, 34x48-in.—with drawer. Nicely turned gumwood legs. Tudor mahogany finish. Exceptional!

—RICH'S, FIFTH FLOOR



Ruffled Curtains, 98c

—Curtains of this quality voile sell usually at $1.35. 2 1-4 yds. Tie-backs to match. Save tomorrow!

Curtains, $1.49

—Ruffled curtains of crossbar Marquisette, with blue or rose dots. 2 1-4 yds. long, with tie-backs.

—RICH'S, FOURTH FLOOR

M. RICH & BROS. CO.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

VOL. LVIII., No. 162. ATLANTA, GA., SUNDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 22, 1925.

Store Opens 9 A. M., Closes 5:30 P. M.

Many Bargains Here Are NOT Advertised

Monday's Fine Values

need no magniloquence

They speak for themselves, as always, here!

Keely's

Keely's

Fine Napery Underpriced

To Emphasize This

Thanksgiving Sale

Of course your table must do your hospitality proud. Of course it will!—with such a buying opportunity as this.

Moravian Damask Dinner Cloths

Not in ten years have the prices been so low as Monday quotes them. These are Extra Heavy, and all pure linen, of course—with that lovely lustre which won them fame.

2x2 Yards	2x2½ Yards	2x3 Yards
$7.50	$9.38	$11.25

22-Inch Napkins To Match—A Dozen for $8.75

Famous Irish Damask Pure Linen Tablecloths

Our own importation from Ireland, in fine-textured Floral and Formal patterns

2x2 Yards	2x2½ Yards	2x3 Yards	2x3½ Yards
$5.95	$7.50	$8.95	$10.45

A Dozen 22-Inch Napkins To Match—$7.15

Snow-White Cloths of Satin Damask

Exceptional value in Extra Heavy quality, very durable, and beautifully white.

64x64	64x72	64x90	72x72	72x90
$1.65	$2.15	$2.25	$2.25	$2.95

Choice of Cloths suited either to Round or Oblong Tables

Hand-Embroidered Luncheon Cloths

Every one selected for beauty AND real money's worth for a truly modest price.

36-inch Square Madeira Cloth.....$4.95
36-inch Round Tea Cloth for.....$5.95
36-inch Square Luncheon Cloth.....$6.95
44-inch Square Luncheon Cloth.....$8.95

Rare Values in ALL-LINEN Napkins

Keely quality!—which says it all when you consider good table-linen
Irish Linen, 20-In., $3.49 Doz. Special Weave, 22-In., $6.50 Doz.
Very Heavy, 20-In., $4.95 Doz. Featured, 22-In., $6.95 Doz.

All-Linen Damask Hemstitched Sets

Charmingly textured, beauteous ivory-white finish, floral or drop-stitch design. Monday, a 54x54-inch Cloth and Six Napkins to match, at $3.95 a set

Bargains in Fine Irish Damask by the Yd.

500 YARDS ONLY
Snow-White Extra-Heavy Satin Damask $1 a yd.

70-Inch Silver Bleached All-Linen Damask, $1.49 yd.
70-Inch Keely Special Grass-Bleached, $2.49 yd.
70-Inch Extra Heavy Pure White, $1.95 yd.

Shop Early

Be the First Chooser Among These Good Gifts!

Sound sense, no less than sane sentiment, underscores the giving of such lasting—and wanted!—Christmas gifts as these.

BRIDGE SETS
LUNCHEON SETS DINNER SETS

of Italian Hand-Made ALL-Linen

$3.50 to $5.95 the set — Soft, fine ivory-white linen, enriched with exquisite Italian hand-embroidering and hem-stitching. Some have 4, some 6, some 12 napkins matching the cloth itself. Beautiful! — $6.50 to $8.95 the set

Dinner Cloths, 2 Yds. Square, with a dozen napkins to match
$35 — $37.50 — $49 the set

Delightful Italian Cut-Work

Quite the most favored napery of the time amongst hostesses not easily swayed by mere fads. These creations deserve all praise for delicate yet durable beauty.

A 36-inch Luncheon Cloth...$16.95
A Dozen 14-inch Napkins, Fine Cut-Work, Filet Edges, $12.95 (the dozen)
Pillow Cases, 45x36, Cut-Work With Filet Edge, $11.95 the Pair

FRENCH CLUNY

Every Piece Is Hand-Made

These are heirloom pieces, so to speak—and nothing more desirably adorning ever emphasized a diningroom's character.

6-inch, each..20c	14x22-in...$2.25
8-inch 35c	20-inch ...$1.00
10-inch 59c	24-inch ...$2.50
6x12-in. 59c	28-inch ...$3.95
10x15-in.. $1.00	36-inch ...$4.95
12x18-in...$1.25	45-inch ...$7.50

All-Over Antique Lace Superb Orientals

With what amazing patience, what hereditary skill, the ancient East has wrought this rich and fascinating napery. Shown FOR THE FIRST TIME IN ATLANTA.

6-inch 25c	16-inch ...$1.75
8-inch 50c	20x36-in...$6.95
10-inch 75c	20x45-in...$7.95
6x12-in.....59c	20x50-in...$8.95
10x15-in...$1.25	22-in.round $5.00
12x18-in...$1.75	34-in. Round $8.95

FIRST FLOOR—NEW SECTION

Paris-Styled COATS

priced on Monday in utter disregard of what other good stores have to be asking for comparable values!

Three Compelling Groups

$39.50 which is Ten Dollars under the proper price

$49.50 A saving of $15.00.

$59.50 and Twenty Dollars more would be but reasonable

Princess models! Boulevard flares! Rue Rivoli wrap-effects! Lucien Lelong straightline designs! And befurred and adorned as only ultra-fine Coats ever are.

SECOND FLOOR

Sleep With Utter Comfort In This Warm Nightwear!

Breathing not even a whisper against Atlanta's suave climate, still one must admit that there are nights when . . . well, when one's slumber-garb had better be somewhat warmthful. And here is just that kind!

Luxurious Pajamas for Womenfolk

Made of soft and fleecy outing flannel, smartly yet roomily cut. Two-piece styles, in Slip-Over and Jacket models. Some have round necks with dainty ribbon touches; some fasten with silken frogs. Priced notably low Monday at $1.50

SIZES 36 TO 42

Comfort-Assuring Nightgowns

Cut generously, especially about the armholes and shoulders, and made up in a very soft and nice-feeling Outing Flannel of good quality. Those striped in pretty blues and pinks are priced for Monday at $1 to $1.25

Sizes 16—17—18 and 19

The solid colors fast-color blue, flesh and white $1.50

Just the Sleep-Wear to Safeguard the Children!

Cosy-warm, of Windsor Flannel, thick yet light and soft, one-piece style, WITH FEET ATTACHED. Cute little nursery patterns of pretty pink and blue ground. These are full-cut, and will not shrink if rightly laundered. $1.25

SIZES 2 to 6

Two-piece Pajamas for the older children—sizes 8 to 16—also of fine soft Windsor Flannel, floral patterns, special Monday for $1.98

Heavy Mannish Sweaters to please the college girl

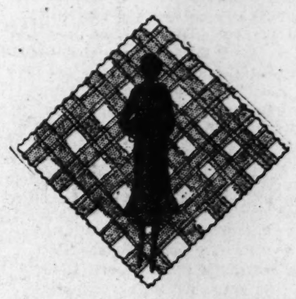
Extra-heavy and thick, knitted "North Woods style," roomy yet swagger-fitting, in Navy, Black, Gold, Maroon and Cream-White. Simply not to be matched in this town under ten dollars. Here Monday as special at $8.95

All sizes from 36 to 46

THESE, TOO, ARE ON OUR SECOND FLOOR

Specials in Dress Goods

For the Timely Monday Shopper



2 BIG TABLESFUL OF DEFINITE VALUES

Fine Dress Flannels in the newest Stripes and Checks—ideal for Children's Coats. Tweeds and Homespuns for Skirts and School Dresses. Every piece a bargain! Wide choice of colors and patterns. SPECIAL MONDAY at

$1.89 54-inch Goods

Worth Up To $2.95 a Yard

Handsome Coatings of Pure Wool

These suede-surfaced, fine, soft, purest wool fabrics are the pride of one of the foremost wool-weavers. Wonderful choice of colors in twelve of the newest shades. 54-inch goods, a yard, $5.95 Monday

Actual Value Today Over $10.50

Lustre Twill Is Superb!

Where rich elegance is sought in creating a Coat Suit, Coat or Dress, and the price must be modest, this fabric of purest wool and softest texture will delight. Monday this 54-inch goods is at the distinctly low price, per yard, $2.95

Ten Modish Colors To Suit Your Choice

"Sure there's luck in odd numbers!"

(Monday, anyhow, if it's cottons you're after buyin')

Out of counters-ful of bargains, the cotton buyer elects these four as most noteworthy. For this once, we will fill 'phone or mail orders on any of them.

FAIRFAX GINGHAMS
Seldom seen at any such price, this 25c value in smooth-wove Novelty Patterns of copenhagen, rose, jade, peach, red and black-and-white.
32 inches wide, Monday, yard,
19 cents

EVERETT CHEVIOTS
For service, for fast color, for real 25c value, this fabric, favorite of probationer nurses for uniforms, deserves wider use in every family.
Blue-and-White Stripe Effects
19 cents

NIGHTWEAR OUTING
Narrow and wider stripes, neat checks, EXTRA HEAVY, soft and warm, and a very special value indeed.
36-inch width, Monday, yard
19 cents

PUNJAB PERCALES
These soft-finish, fast-color Shirtings, for boys' waists, women's house-dresses, men's shirts, in wide variety of stripes and colors.
36-inch width, Monday, yard
29 cents

Dolls! And SUCH dolls!

When you were VERY young—say, sixish or less—you would simply have SQUEALED with glee at such a show as here appears today. Thinking back, be moved to cause squeals in those who are as once you were your own small self! And THEN open your pocketbook and fearlessly invest, with every excuse, beholding these—

Twin Babies In-A-Blanket

Small people may adjust legs and arms to their own ideas of what twins would fancy. And the said twins will then remark Mah-MAH. Own the pair for $6.50

Sleepy-Headed Bye-Lo Baby

She drowses so snuggishly in little cuddly arms. She is the best of children, and there are two sizes of her, respectively

$3.50 and $5

Miss Dainty with REAL hair

What a rapturous welcome will ensue when, on the Child's Day, this lovely poppet smiles up at your own beloved! She is breakproof. Two sizes:

$3.50 and $4.75

Baby Grumpy who weeps

His weepful ways are soon assuaged by picking him up. Where did that ever happen in real life? Baby Grumpy is a duck of a doll and costs you only $1

OO-la! Ces Parapluies Ravissant!!

Paris is outdone by these chic, alluring Umbrellas, just here in every color that matches one's gown or coat or preference. Fancy borders and plain, fine heavy silk, with the newest effects in handles and tips— $5.95 to $16.50

Gentlemen, a word with you! She, Herself, in person, will rejoice at one for Christmas.

The Prettiest, Most Novel Umbrella-Boxes!

Tubes to hold an umbrella neatly and carry it safely. Covered in cretonne effects, or with plum-blossom sprays, or with holly's semblance. Pay $7.50 or more for an Umbrella, and the Tube-Box is free. Otherwise, 35 cents.

FIRST FLOOR—FRONT LEFT

Keely's

WHITEHALL AT HUNTER

Farewell, Ye Lovely Winter Hats!

All new though they are, and never meant to sell for Monday's price, yet these Fine Felts, Velours and Velvets on imported models all must make way tomorrow regardless. $10

Moreover, These Fetching Effects in Velvet and in Velvet-and-Satin

Hats, every one of them, yesterday priced even here much above Monday's figure—and priced higher elsewhere. $2.50

SECOND FLOOR—CENTER

THE CONSTITUTION

CLARK HOWELL
Editor and General Manager.
Clark Howell, Jr., Business Manager.

THE SOUTH'S STANDARD NEWSPAPER
ESTABLISHED 1868

Entered at the Postoffice at Atlanta as second-class mail matter.

Telephone MAin 5000.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES:

	By Carrier or Mail
	1 Wk.	1 Mo.	3 Mos.	6 Mos.	1 Yr.
Daily and Sunday	...20c	90c	$2.50	$5.00	$9.50
Daily	.....16c	70c	2.00	4.00	7.50

Single Copies—Daily, 5c. Sunday, 10c.

	By Mail Only.
	1 Mo.	3 Mos.	6 Mos.	1 Yr.
Sunday	.....10c	45c	$1.25	$2.50	$5.00

ATLANTA, GA., NOV. 22, 1925.

J. R. HOLLIDAY, Constitution Building, sole advertising manager for all territory outside of Atlanta.

THE CONSTITUTION is on sale in New York city by 2 p. m. the day after issue. It can be had: Hotaling's News Stand, Broadway and Forty-third street (Times building corner); Schultz News Agency, at Bryant Park, and Grand Central Depot.

The Constitution is not responsible for advance payments to out-of-town local carriers, dealers or agents. Receipts given for subscription payments not in accordance with published rates are not authorized; also not responsible for subscription payments until received at office of publication.

Member of the Associated Press.
The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to use for publication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited to this paper, and also the local

WAY TO LIFE:—He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God? Micah 6:8.

PRAYER:—O Lord, we know our duty, but we ofttimes hate it, and again find it too hard for us. Do Thou then make Thy strength perfect in our weakness.

WAVE OF PROGRESS.

The wave of county bonding for the building of permanently paved highways continues to sweep over Georgia. Following the great victories in Muscogee, Habersham and Whitfield counties on Tuesday Richmond county voted $750,000 bonds, and Macon county $100,000 Thursday. In Richmond, with state and federal aids, all the trunk lines in the county will be hard surfaced. Macon county, with the state and federal aids, will permanently pave its link in the Dixie highway from the Peach to Sumter lines. Georgia has never witnessed such a spirit before, and the sentiment is overwhelming for only permanent year-around roads, thus abandoning forever the policy of building only temporary roads that are expensive to maintain, and require practical rebuilding after long seasons of rain.

The Dalton Citizen, congratulating the voters of Whitfield upon a great victory, correctly interprets this unifying sentiment when it says:

"Our people have come to the conclusion that it is a conspicuous waste of money to build other than paved roads. They will not stand the traffic of this modern day. In the entire county only seventy votes were cast against the issue; only nine in Dalton district. This vote tells a complete story of the determination on the part of the people to build roads for the future as well as for the present."

Other Georgia counties are to vote in the near future, and others yet are preparing to call elections. The asset value of permanent highways has been too forcibly demonstrated to admit of argument, and the "pay-as-you-go" Nathaneal Macons of Georgia are rapidly becoming assimilated with the spirit of a new and better day of progress.

As an evidence of the spirit of optimism that is impelling action—and action is what counts—the following letter from the chamber of commerce of Cairo, Ga., was published in the current issue of The Manufacturers' Record:

"Within the last week Cairo and Grady county has launched a movement to put down about one million dollars' worth of pavement. This will include all of state highway No. 38, east and west through the county, it being the road connecting Atlanta and Tallahassee.

"Southwest Georgia is coming into its own. Crops have been abundant, and weather conditions, while a little dry in the summer, have been favorable to gathering the crops, and this section of the state is more prosperous than at any other time in its history. The great Florida boom is attracting people to this section and real estate is changing hands rapidly."

There is not a section of Georgia that is today not feeling the stimulating economic effect of the great Florida movement. General farm lands, and peach and vegetable lands are changing hands rapidly and prices are steadily but sanely and soundly advancing. It is true in south Georgia, in the Habersham-Rabun apple belt, in northwest Georgia—everywhere. Several recreation areas have been purchased by Florida operating syndicates in recent weeks. "Cloudland," topping the mountains of the extreme northwest, is being thus developed. A similar development is promised for the Tallulah section, and still another for the Toccoa basin section.

The cities of Savannah and Brunswick and Augusta are on the fringe of real booms. Old corners that have stood inactive for years in Savannah are changing hands rapidly. Recently an outside investor put $25,000, approximately in Brunswick real estate, took down a substantial profit in a few days, and immediately reinvested and began substantial improvements. The magnificent ocean beaches on St. Simon island are being developed, and promise within a year to be attracting nationwide attention. And everybody knows the marvelous growth, along substantial lines, of Atlanta! "It's great to be a Georgian."

THE SCRIP FARCE.

The communication from H. S. Mapp on this page emphasizes again one of the sad features attached to the confederate pension scrip bill—the deception practiced—even if unwittingly—upon the veterans through a makeshift, ballyhoo measure that had no substance, but a full-measure of froth.

The fact is, proponents of the scrip bill were warned by many of the ablest lawyers in the two houses of the assembly that it was unconstitutional. They were told that it could serve no genuine relief to the very lamentable pension situation, and that if issued to the pensioners the scrip would have little or no financial standing, hence would have to be discounted at enormous sacrifice.

The disposition to play to a gallery, however, warped the better judgment of even some of those who supported the measure

It is fundamental that if the legislature can issue scrip in the meeting of appropriation obligations, the provision of the constitution inhibiting bonds except for specified purposes, without a ratification of the people, is completely overthrown. That applies to appropriations already made by statute, or anticipated. If scrip becomes legal tender for the payment of obligations incurred by a prior statute the only thing necessary to nullify the constitutional restriction would be to appropriate at one session and issue scrip at the subsequent session. And if legal in a small measure it must necessarily be legal in a great measure. That is to say, if a debenture is not a "bond," within the appraisement of the constitution, then the constitutional mandate becomes entirely worthless.

The issue is too sacred to trifle with. Our state constitution is either fundamental, or it is a useless instrument and might as well be eliminated as organic law.

The Confederate pensioners should be paid. They deserve to be treated fairly. And the state entered into a serious, sacred obligation with them in 1921. It has failed to keep it except in crumbs, here and there, as Christmas or Thanksgiving "favors." One of these "favors"—appreciable as far as it goes—will go out this Thanksgiving.

FORCE OF ADVERTISING.

The Literary Digest has just completed a nation-wide survey of business conditions. It finds prosperity sweeping the entire country, with people alert for opportunities, and more responsive to advertising than ever before. A telegram from that great periodical tells briefly the story of its findings:

"We have felt the business pulse of the American people and it is strong. By advertising in newspapers, magazines, street cars, and direct circular mailing we have gone into every postoffice and every hamlet to eighteen million addresses and have thus sounded the condition of the country, not in one section, but in every section. Our experience this fall is significant. For 35 years we have been circularizing and advertising to the American people and never have we found them so responsive as they are today. We confidently predict that those who advertise to the American people in 1926 will reap a great harvest because the people are prosperous, alert for new opportunities and more responsive to advertising than they have ever been before."

The surveys made by The Digest are so extensive and systematically organized that a correct registration of public opinion is always assured. That its findings in this instance are in keeping with every survey recently made—and every outstanding economist has made such a survey—is but further corroborative evidence that America today is in a wave of unprecedented prosperity and progress.

It is but natural that The Digest should have found the people responsive to advertising as never before.

Advertising is the key to progress, and also to prosperity, for there can be no prosperity where there is no progress. The business that does not advertise can not progress, and therefore cannot be prosperous. Therefore, the great wave of prosperity sweeping the nation, whatever may be underlying economic reasons, gets its impetus—its great motive force—from advertising.

The Digest very naturally found the wave of prosperity hinged upon the wave of responsiveness to advertising.

FOR FIRE CONTROL.

On this page B. M. Lufburrow, state forester under the 1925 act of the legislature, explains a 50-50 cooperation that has been agreed upon by the federal government through the secretary of agriculture "for fire prevention work of the state board."

When it is recalled that forests fires cost Georgia in actual valuation of destroyed timber more than a million dollars a year average, the importance of this federal participation in remedying a situation that has too long existed through indifference is apparent. All over the state patriotic citizens are offering their services as county wardens without costs. It illustrates the progress that Georgia is making in many lines, of which organized timber conservation is by no means of least importance.

By fire protection the rehabilitation of the state's denuded areas is made the easier, and will necessarily follow.

NYE FURNISHES ISSUE.

The appointment of Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, a non-partisan league and a radical of radicals, to the Ladd vacancy in the United States senate, promises to precipitate, on the very opening day of congress, a fight of nation-wide importance, and in a way measure the potency of the La Follette group in the senate. It will hinge on the issue of whether a United States senator is purely a state official, or an official of the federal government.

The republican insurgents will grasp the opportunity to open the fight on the president that they have been seeking. Indeed, it is said that Governor Sorlie, who is an ardent La Follette follower, was induced to make the appointment, in the face of his prior call for a special election, for the specific purpose of forcing an issue. The administration forces will challenge the legality of the appointment. The radical offices will attempt to force an acceptance of his credentials from the governor. Then the firing will begin.

According to Washington dispatches, the administration leaders, including Senators William Butler, of Massachusetts; Charles Curtis, of Kansas, and George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, having received legal opinions from some of the most prominent attorneys in the country, insist that the governor of North Dakota has no right to appoint and, therefore, "the senate cannot even consider the credentials of Gerald P. Nye."

The administration leaders have a definite precedent in the instance, some years ago, of the appointment of Frank P. Glass to fill an Alabama vacancy. The appointment was made on the basis of a state statute giving the governor the right to fill vacancies in "state offices." The senate finally declined to seat Mr. Glass on the basis that a United States senator was a "federal official."

On the other hand, the La Follette group will point to the decision of the United States supreme court in the case of Senator Ralph Burton, of Kansas, versus the United States. Senator Burton had been convicted of accepting money for using influence with the postoffice department. In the decision Justice Harlan had the following to say about the status of a United States senator:

"While the senate, as a branch of the legislative department, owes its existence to the constitution and participates in passing laws that concern the entire country, its members are chosen by state legislatures and cannot properly be said to hold their places under the government of the United States."

This will be questioned no doubt as an irrelevant discussion, by the jurist writing the opinion, of a matter not germaine to the case in issue, or the verdict of the court, and therefore not a direct court opinion upon the issue as to whether a senator is a state or federal official.

GREAT CANAL PLAN.

At a preliminary conference in Washington Wednesday attended by Governor Walker, Senator Harris, President Cargill, of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce, and General Ashburn, of the inland waterways corporation, the board of army engineers agreed to hold a supplemental hearing on the proposal to complete an intercoastal canal system from New Orleans to Columbus. This hearing will be dated for December, probably immediately following the convening of congress, and it is suggested that delegations from all of the interested states, particularly Georgia, Florida and Alabama, will appear and urge that an appropriation for the same be placed in the next river and harbor bill, which, it is believed, will cover inland waterway projects more extensively than before in a number of years.

A great deal of preliminary progress has been made on a proposed canal system from the gulf to the Atlantic, touching the Atlantic at Cumberland sound. This is known as the St. Mark's-St. Mary's canal project.

The point is, there is so much navigable waterway between the gulf and the Atlantic coast that the government can undertake no waterway development in America that will mean more to all the people, certainly of the Mississippi valley, and of all the eastern states. It will be of tremendous advantage to the government in the matter of coal transportation from the Warrior district, and the saving to shipping, by cutting off the long and sometimes hazardous hauls around the Florida keys, is incalculable. It is of enormous importance to a great volume of Panama canal shipping.

The inland route from New Orleans to Mobile is now being used. Also the canal from St. Andrews bay to the Apalachicola has been completed. Therefore, the completion of a canal between Mobile and St. Andrews bay will supply the missing link in an inland navigable water system from the gulf and the Mississippi river at New Orleans to the Apalachicola and Columbus.

The importance of some one of these inland canal systems is too obvious for question. They mean so much to all the country—for the Mississippi waterway goes up in the middle northwest—that the project is not a sectional one, although the south has never benefited by inland water developments as other sections of the country. The project is so big that every trade body in the eastern states, particularly in the south, ought to get solidly behind it.

TRAINING WOMEN.

One of the agencies which is contributing most definitely to the educational upbuilding of Georgia and the south is the Southern Woman's Educational Alliance, which organized a branch in Atlanta eighteen months ago.

Dr. W. Carson Ryan, Jr., associate editor of School and Society and of the Journal of the National Education Association recently characterized the alliance as "one of the most important educational movements under way in the country," and said that the three phases of its work—the college field, the field of the study of occupations, and the field of guidance of the rural girl—constitute certainly the most important vocational attack that could be made.

The services of the alliance are available to the young woman who wishes help in discovering the type of work for which she is best fitted, or who desires to know what education and special training are necessary to equip her for success in the occupation she wishes to enter, or who wishes to keep herself informed about possibilities of advancement in the field of work in which she is interested.

The information or advice given by the alliance counselors is always based on careful investigation in the various fields to which the inquirers belong.

This year the alliance is cooperating with the universities of North Carolina and Virginia in directing a study of the rural girl—the education she is getting, the vocational opportunities in her community, her special aptitudes and choices. In making these studies it is the hope of the alliance to extend them into all the southern states gradually and in each one to work in close cooperation with the public school system of the state, to the end that there may be established within as many rural schools as possible, the more modern aids to individual pupils in solving their educational and vocational problems.

A "Find Yourself" course for college undergraduates has been developed by the alliance and is to be given under its direction in six southern colleges this year. This course is intended to give the college girl facts about occupations and the training required for them, and also to help her place herself sanely in relation to society and to the conflicting claims upon her interest today.

In order to have a reliable basis for counseling in Atlanta a study has been made of the actual and possible occupations open to trained women in Atlanta. About 600 leaders in the business and professional life of Atlanta have cooperated in this study by giving information about their work. Lawyers, architects, physicians, social workers, secretaries, artists, musicians and workers in many other fields have given information as to the education needed to enter that occupation; the personal qualifications necessary to win success in the field; the salary to be expected; and the future outlook of the field. The results of this study, when published, will be a valuable contribution to the women and to the economic life of Atlanta.

Mrs. Samuel M. Inman is president of the Atlanta branch of the alliance, which maintains an office in the Chamber of Commerce building. The work is supported through individual memberships, and the cooperation of the people of Atlanta is needed. It deserves that cooperation.

It's good news to hear—that the cost of living is lower in Atlanta than elsewhere. But we doubt if we'll be able to save anything out of it to make the income tax look less formidable.

We acknowledge receipt of numerous poems to "The Wood Fire," and we hope to print some of them before the wood trust makes the wood fire impossible.

Still, if the Thanksgiving turkey roosts out of reach, we'll have all the better appetite for the Christmas bird—if it isn't too highminded to come down and be sociable.

This is the time when those who do their Christmas shopping early shop in the advertising columns of the morning newspapers.

It must be said that so far this year the forests have been faithfully preserved for the Christmas trees.

The tough Thanksgiving turkey may be a blessing, after all. We'll be able to pull through on him till Christmas.

DREAMING OF HOME

BY FRANK L. STANTON

I.

Dreaming of Home and Thanksgiving
Wherever the wanderers roam;
The dream o' the Night
And the Joy o' the Light—
Dreaming of Love and of Home.
Sheltered in harbor or on the far foam,
Dreaming of Home.

II.

Dreaming of Home and Thanksgivin'
And brighter the vision still seems
To hearts that are living
With sweetest Thanksgiving
For homes of the beautiful dreams.
For vine-shadowed cabin or star-circled dome,
That sweet dream of Home!

III.

Its lovelight forever far-shining
A guide to the wandering feet,
And One at the door—
Arms around you once more,
And the kiss of a mother is sweet.
The bird to the nest and the bee to the comb,
And love to love's Home.

TEXT AND PRETEXT

Church and Politics

BY M. ASHBY JONES, D. D.

Last week a board of one of the great religious denominations made a personal attack upon Governor Al Smith, of New York. The reason given was that Governor Smith is a well-known opponent of the cause of national prohibition, and it is also alleged that he is an active candidate for the nomination for president on the democratic ticket. It is also charged that the supporters of Governor Smith at the last national democratic convention in New York injected the religious issue into the contest. So far as this article is concerned, I am leaving out of consideration entirely the personality, and the record of Governor Smith as a governor, and as a party candidate. It seems to me to be a peculiarly opportune time to raise the question, to what extent a church organization should enter the field of party politics? Indeed it might be well for us to face the entire question of the relation of the church to the arena of politics.

Social Welfare.

Possibly we would all agree that the church has the right and the duty to advocate great reforms which are clearly and distinctly moral. No one would deny that the church was right in taking the lead in the fight against the intemperate use of intoxicating liquors. Differences of opinion arise when we face the question of the enactment of moral principles into law. The issue at once becomes political. I would not be dogmatic, but merely express my own personal opinion when I say, that there are great moral principles which so vitally affect the entire welfare of society that the church is justified in helping to translate those principles into legal statutes. One might cite as examples the liquor question, the divorce evil, and the many ways in which children and women should be protected in the industrial world. Of course there are many others. It should be distinctly understood, however, that the church in its support of such remedial social legislation, does so on the ground that it is in behalf of social welfare. A clean cut distinction should be made here. The motive of the church may be distinctly religious—for example, the advancement of the kingdom of God on earth—but this motive can never be urged upon the state, since the state has no right to make any religious enactment. The state can only legislate for the purpose, and with the motive, of bettering the social condition of the people.

The really delicate and difficult situation arises when we seek practically to translate a moral principle into political accomplishment. We have the party system of government. Men must be elected to our legislative and our executive offices. Practical politics will always suggest that candidates for office shall be committed to a certain legislative program before support is promised them in their campaign. Here is the inevitable temptation to the church to enter the partisan political arena. Here, too, is the inevitable temptation to the political canddiate to bid for church support, and in behalf of his political ambitions to assume a religious attitude favorable to his candidacy. The church can so easily, and unintentionally, become a temptation to political and religious hypocrisy.

Partisan Politics.

There is another danger here also. When the church becomes deeply interested and involved in some politico-moral issue, it is apt to test the worth of each political candidate by his standing on that particular issue. For example, he may be preeminently fitted to represent his constituency on every other issue, but opposed to the church's views on prohibition. If he is honest enough to refuse to conform to the church's views on this question, he may be defeated by a man who, though voting right on the prohibition issue, is utterly incompetent to represent the people on hundreds of other questions. I need only suggest that there are even greater dangers than this. There are many differences between the churches themselves. When once they enter the partisan political field, and talk in terms of parties and candidates, it is inevitable that religious passion shall become poisoned by partisan prejudice, and history reveals no human struggles which have been so hurtful to state and church.

Once again I would disclaim the dogmatic role, and very cautious—and I hope, modestly, express my personal conviction. Churches should not hesitate to proclaim, and even take the leadership in the advocacy of great moral movements. The welfare of the child and the mother, the protection of the home, the creation of a social environment in the interest of morals, a fair deal to employer and employee, and justice and a fair chance for all men, without discrimination of race or religion, should ever be close to the heart of the church. But when it comes to the translation of these great principles and sympathies into terms of practical legislation, the church should trust this work to their individual members, acting as citizens, whom she has sought to imbue with the Divine Spirit. It is to my mind exceedingly doubtful whether the church, as an organization, should ever advocate any specific bill before a legislative body, and most certainly should never take sides in a personal political contest.

Federal Aid Secured For Georgia Forestry

Editor Constitution: I appreciate very much the excellent article under "Just in Passing" column of The Constitution of November 19. This article certainly touches the vital point in the work of reforestation in Georgia and judging from responses we have received from articles of similar nature in The Constitution, this article will certainly bear fruit.

It may be of interest for you to know that, in this morning's mail, I received a cooperative agreement for fire protection and reforestation work in Georgia from the United States forest service in Washington. The agreement is signed by the secretary of agriculture and is effective as of October 15. This agreement approves the budget of the executive committee of the state board of forestry for fire prevention work in the state and assures the cooperation of the federal government reimbursing the state on a 50-50 basis for fire prevention work of the state board.

We are organizing a fire prevention campaign during the remainder of the fall fire season. At the present time warrants have been issued for thirty-six deputy forest wardens, covering a large number of counties within the state. These wardens sought appointment, knowing that they were to serve without compensation—and as a patriotic duty, with the realization that they are rendering a real service to the state.

By the opening of the spring fire season, we hope to have fire suppression organizations in a number of counties in the state, who will actually suppress forest fires. The work of organizing the associations for permanent protection of both private and corporative timber land owners will be under way January 1.

With influential papers like The Constitution behind this great work the state should make rapid progress in the rehabilitation of Georgia's denuded areas and the permanent protection of the young timber for future generations.

B. M. LUFBURROW,
State Forester.

Atlanta, Ga., November 20, 1925.

Discusses the Scrip Legislative Bunko Act

Editor Constitution: Will you give me a little space in your paper to say a few words on the scrip bill passed by the last legislature, and alleged to be for the benefit of the old veterans?

It seems now that it is going to turn out like the assistant attorney general said: "It is not worth the paper it is written on."

The old veterans were helped up by the passage of the bill, thinking they would be paid off very soon, but is seems that payment is no nearer now than before it passed. There ought to be some way to determine definitely whether it is constitutional or not.

It is said that it is unconstitutional because it has created a new debt exceeding the amount allowed by the constitution to be made. It seems to me not a new debt but an old debt accumulating by small amounts for three or four years, therefore it ought to be constitutional.

Georgia, "The Empire State of the South," compared to other states ought to be ashamed of herself for doing so little for her old veterans. I hope the department will be able to pay us $25 by Christmas like they did last year, so we can pay our taxes, if the scrip issued and given to the veterans is not constitutional.

H. S. MAPP.

White Plains, Ga., November 16, 1925.

Causes of Present Prosperity Wave Analyzed by Sullivan, Who Thinks "Panics" in Future Are Impossible

BY MARK SULLIVAN.

Wherever business men gather the talk turns to the present prosperity in America (and the exceptions to it, few in number, but important); how long it will last, and what will follow it.

To business men, to everybody, the aspects at once more interesting and more important are the latter two: How long will it last? What will come afterward?

Because the present prosperity contains elements that did not enter into any previous prosperity in America there is less certainty of opinion, less confidence of foresight about the future even among the ablest bankers and economists, than used to be the case.

As a first step toward understanding the present phenomenon let us list the more important causes of it. This list of causes may or may not throw light on the probable duration and the next phase, but if the causes can be detached and seen singly and with sufficient clearness the result should add to understanding.

Increase In Gold.

The first cause is increase in quantity of gold. That is not the largest present cause, but it is the earliest in time, and understanding of how it has worked underlies understanding of the whole phenomenon.

This particular cause goes back to the early nineties. At that time several things happened to increase the quantity of gold in the world and in the United States. Two mining engineers in South Africa discovered an improved process for extracting more gold from low-grade ores. Also new and rich mines were discovered in South Africa, in Australia, and later in the Klondike. As a result the quantity of gold being produced from year to year, and, of course, the total quantity in the world, increased rapidly and greatly. Because gold is the standard of money and the basis of most currencies it followed that the total amount of money and credit in the world increased. From this followed a second result or rather two aspects of the same result: The value of the dollar went down; the prices of commodities went up.

The six sentences in that paragraph above will constitute the most forbidding sentences in this article. If the reader is not too much appalled by them, and is willing to go on, he will find the rest easier.

Also what is stated in those six sentences is the most fundamental law in the whole theory of money. Failure to understand that law is at the bottom of nearly every fallacy about money.

If a simple illustration can help to make this law clear and carry understanding of it to any considerable number of people the amount of understanding of sound economics in the world to that extent will be increased. Let us therefore attempt the illustration:

Imagine that any city like Des Moines, or Portland, or Detroit were suddenly inclosed by a wall and completely cut off from communication with the rest of the world. Imagine that immediately thereafter the total quantity of money in that city was doubled—the total quantity of dollar bills in the banks doubled, the total quantity of silver in individual pockets doubled, the total quantity of every kind of money doubled.

It would immediately follow that every individual would have twice as much money as he had before. That is obvious. But the next result is less easy to follow, and failure to realize it is at the root of most financial heresies. This next result is that the price of every bit of goods in the city would double. (This is subject to some exceptions.) The ramifications would take some time to work out; but within a reasonably short period a piece of land worth $1,000 would become worth $2,000, shoes formerly priced at $2 would be priced at $4, wages that were formerly $3 would become $6.

This result is what followed the increase of gold in the world. The same result was helped by several other events which we will now consider. These other events were more important than the increase in gold. I have put the increase in gold supply first because it was earliest in time and because it best illustrates the foundamental law of money.

Federal Reserve System.

Previous to 1914 each bank in the United States stood on its own bottom. Each bank had to keep itself ready to return to its depositors all the money they had put in. Each bank had to keep in mind at all times the fear that on any day a considerable number of depositors might ask for their money. Consequently each bank had to keep a fairly large "reserve," as it is called, a fairly large amount of money in its tills ready to pay out.

With the Federal Reserve system that changed. To express it very roughly: Under the Federal Reserve system most of the banks in the country joined together for a kind of mutual protection of reserves. They pooled their reserves. After the Federal Reserve system individual banks were no longer dependent solely on their individual funds to meet the calls of their depositors. Under the Federal Reserve system if there is a sudden demand for money from a bank in Texas it can call on the aggregate of all the banks in the Federal Reserve system for help.

Consequently—and this is the important point—it ceased to be necessary for each bank to keep so large a quantity of money in its tills and vaults. Each bank, in other words, was enabled to loan out a much larger proportion of its money. Each dollar loaned was, so to speak, a "credit dollar." And as the addition of credit dollars to the country's total supply works the same effects as the addition of actual dollar bills, it followed that the federal reserve system added to the effect of increased gold supply. The total amount of money, actual money plus credit money, in the country was increased. Thereupon the monetary law described above worked: The value of each dollar decreased, the prices of goods, wages, commodities of every sort, increased.

So far we have described two things which worked to diminish the value of the dollars, to increase the prices of wages and goods. Let us now turn to a third that worked in the same direction even more strongly.

III.

The War Losses.

The war came. As each country entered the war it faced immense expenses. To meet those expenses each country began to print more money. It began to create more money in every way it knew. It created more credit money by issuing bonds. It crented more paper money by keeping its printing presses going.

Every country did it. And in accordance with the fundamental law stated above—that law is very fundamental indeed—the value of each piece of money decreased. The price of each piece of goods rose.

Germany printed so much money that the value of the mark, starting at 25 cents, went down and down and down until it reached zero. Austria and a few other smaller countries did the same. France printed so many francs that the value of one, starting at a little over 20 cents, went down and down until today it is about cents.

The United States did not go as far as any of the other countries. We created a vast deal more money, credit money and otherwise, through the issue of Liberty bonds and in other ways. When we reached the height of our creation of additional money, the value of the dollar had gone down from 100 cents to about 40 cents. Then we stopped. After we stopped the value of the dollar crawled slowly upward part of the way it had lost. Up to date the value of the dollar has crawled back to about 66 cents. It has been at that point for some time. Apparently it is the disposition of the administration at Washington to keep the permanent future value of the dollar at about this point. What was 100 cents before 1915 is to be for the future 66 cents. (Let us be careful, however, not to make too confident a prediction about the future. The disposition to stabilize the pre-war dollar at 66 cents may not be possible to accomplish. The value of the dollar may be affected upward or downward by any one or any group of several possible future causes.)

IV.

Value of the Dollar.

This change in the value of the American dollar down to 66 cents worked many effects, most of them spectacular and important. The ramifications took strange directions, ran through American organized society in queer curves and angles. The net of them all was advantageous to many and disadvantageous to some.

One very important result was to take away from the wealth of many of those who before the war composed the richer classes. Every person whose riches were in the form of dollars lost a third of each dollar, about 34 cents.

Here again we encounter something slightly difficult to follow clearly, but very necessary to understand.

Consider those who composed what we may call the retired rich, the wealthy persons who had retired and put their money into mortgages and bonds. Consider the case of a man who had $1,000,000 and who, for safety, had invested it in mortgages on farms or in any sort of property at, let us say, 5 per cent. Before the war his income was $50,000 a year. Since the war he continues to get his $50,000 a year. But each of his dollars is now worth only 66 cents. He has been reduced in his riches by about one-third. He is able to buy one-third less luxuries, able to command one-third less service.

Only those were reduced who had their wealth in mortgages, bonds, bank balances and the like. Those of the rich who had their wealth in goods profited by the decrease in the value of the dollar. A piece of goods which before the war was worth $1 now became worth $1.50.

The class that was most certainly and generally helped by the decrease in the value of the dollar was the wage earner. If his wages before the war were $4 a day, they now became $6 a day. Due to this, plus another cause I shall explain in a moment, the immigration restriction law, the ware earners, skilled and semi-skilled, of the United States have been elevated to a state that labor never had before, not in any country or at any time. The elevation of the poor and the comparatively poor is the outstanding result of these causes I have been describing. It is likewise the chief cause of the kind and degree of prosperity now prevailing in America.

To show how the class with relatively small incomes has been increased and how the class of rich has decreased consider this table. It is condensed and simplified from income tax reports. It shows the number of persons receiving each income mentioned in 1916 and then in 1923:

Income.	1916.	1923.
$ 4,000.....	124,375	1,158,200
6,000.....	99,056	558,200
10,000.....	68,942	228,200
20,000.....	39,226	80,200
50,000.....	11,953	16,500
100,000.....	3,462	3,620
150,000.....	1,586	1,430
200,000.....	1,444	840
300,000.....	926	380
500,000.....	524	150

That is to say, the number of Americans having incomes of $4,000 a year grew in seven years, between 1916 and 1923, from something more than a hundred thousand to something more than a million—see the exact figures above. The number was multiplied almost by ten.

It is that increase in the number of persons getting about $4,000 a year that is the chief basis of the present boom in the United States. It is they who are buying the automobiles, the radio sets, everything.

Rarely in all history has there been such an elevation of the average man as that.

Turn now to those who before the war were very rich.

The number of persons who before the war, in the year 1916, had incomes of $200,000 a year was 1,444. In 1923 the number of these persons had decreased to 840.

At this point let us pause for a moment of ironic reflection upon one of the commonest complaints made by radicals. Their complaint, vociferated throughout the length and breadth of the land during and before the war, was that the rich were trying to bring on the war because it would profit them. Their complete assumption was that through war the rich become richer and that therefore it is the wicked rich who work to bring on wars.

That is utterly and preposterously untrue. Wars do not further enrich the rich. On the contrary, wars reduce the wealth of the rich. The figures above show it. To this general statement, however, one important exception should be made. Some of the rich have their riches increased by war. If a man before the war had his riches in the shape of goods, in the shape of land, or buildings, or mines, he shared in the enrichment of the man whose wealth consisted merely of his services. To some extent war creates a class of new rich. But those who are destined to be enriched by war do not know this in advance, and therefore cannot have that motive for bringing on war. To those who are already rich before a war the economic effect of war is chiefly to reduce their wealth—sometimes to wipe them out.

V.

Immigration Law.

There was one great contributory cause to the enrichment of laboring men. That was the immigration law. Before the war an average of something like three-quarters of a million laborers used to come into the United States from Europe each year. Some years it went as high as one and three-quarter millions. In the year immediately preceding the war it was at one and one-quarter millions.

All these newly imported laborers were competitors of the labor already here. They came in, they were willing to work for lower wages, and thus they kept down the wages of the labor that was already in the country.

With the passage of the immigration restriction law the labor already in the country became to a degree a monopoly. That is one great cause of the present enrichment of the laboring man.

VI.

After the war Europe was very

Continued on Opposite Page.

Seething Millions of India Now England's Greatest Problem

BY J. C. C. NEWTON.

The British parliament meets today. In the topics for special discussions offered in the house of commons by Mr. Baldwin, the premier, the situation in India will probably not be included. And it may be inferred by some that Anglo-Indian affairs are again peaceful, but such an inference will be a mistake.

Instead of being satisfied, there is a seething even if not a violent spirit of dissatisfaction throughout the whole of India. The people are aroused as never before in all their history. A new sense of national unity, a spirit of national independence has been born in the soul of India, and we shall see more of its doings later. This is becoming widespread, insistent and vehement to such a degree that sooner or later England will have to yield to it.

And let it be remembered to the credit of the British that next to the direct teaching and preaching of missionaries it was by British agencies and methods, particularly by the founding of four or five government universities, that there has been awakened in the breasts of the upper classes in India this new sense of individual freedom and the new spirit of national independence. It is said that in the text books used in those universities, these very things are taught. That is to say, the present discontent on account of their present status as a subject people is the direct fruitage of the seed sown, of the enlightened policy and spirit characteristic of British rule.

British Rule a Blessing.

So that while there may be on the one hand not a few things to be criticized touching British rule in India, on the other hand, their rule taken in the large has been a very great blessing to the Indian peoples.

When the British in 1700 were established in Bombay, Madras and Calcutta, there was not nor had been for centuries the least bit of national unity in all India, and no independence worthy of name. On the contrary, socially, religiously and politically, the whole country was split up into fragments and factions. Many petty Rajas were trying to rule over petty states, meanwhile trying to overcome one another in their intrigues and petty wars.

Not only so, but for nearly a thousand years, the country as a whole had been under the yoke of first one and then another foreign nation—Arabians, Persians, Afghans and Mughals. The Portuguese, too, the Spaniards, Dutch and French, one after another attempted to get a footing on the mainland of India, but not one of them succeeded in restoring order and safety to the broken up peoples of that ancient and mysterious land.

Not until the British were firmly established did the Indian peoples ever enjoy the benefits of an enlightened political regime guaranteeing justice and safety to all alike. Consequently when we witnessed today the uprising of the people and their vehement demand for political freedom in the management of their own affairs, the British themselves have the least reason for self-reproach, for as above stated this new life of freedom and self assertion is the fruitage of seed sown by the British themselves.

The exceedingly bitter discontent and determined revolt against foreign rules have been unfortunately aggravated by the well-intentioned but ill opportune action of the British viceroy, Mr. Montague, and certain happenings that followed after the great world war. Soon after the great war began it was feared that the Germans would attempt to poison the minds of the Indians against the British, and that the Turks also would attempt to incite the 60,000,000 of their brother Moslems in India to revolt against British rule. Mr. Montague being a liberal, both as a statesman and in the humane sentiments of a good man, had been engaged even before the war in devising a new, more liberal government in order to secure the Indian people a practically autonomous control of their own internal affairs, and being the representative of the then liberal government in London, he went before the leaders in India and appealed to them to come to the defense of the British empire in this hour of danger.

In good faith he held up before their eyes the promise of a new and practically autonomous government for themselves and by themselves. The Indians, be it said to their honor and loyalty, responded a million strong, and during that long and bloody struggle were to be seen fighting side by side with their white brothers, shedding their blood in every battlefield from France in the west to Mesopotamia in the east. The British empire was saved. The survivors of that million of great Indian soldiers went back home with showers of praise falling upon their heads and with high hopes seeing Viceroy Montagu's promise of independent home rule quickly realized. But alas, owing to the disordered conditions of affairs in England, as elsewhere, and owing to the fact that the conservative leaders of the Anglo-Indian government in London, especially Lord Curzon, were not pleased with Mr. Montagu's proposed home rule government for India, a couple of years passed before any attempt whatever was made toward making good Mr. Montagu's home rule project.

First National Election.

The first step taken was to authorize national elections in several provinces—a new thing indeed. But on account of the long waiting of two years or more, the Indian people had gotten wrought up into a rage and filled with prejudice they refused to accept the system proposed by Mr. Montagu. They demanded very much more or nothing. The national election held only a very partial and unsatisfactory success. Patriotic leaders arose and going through the land stirred up the people to a higher pitch of rage against the new liberal government.

Meanwhile the famous movement known as "non-cooperation" led by Mahatma Gandhi was started. It is simply impossible for us Americans so far away from the scene to understand the marvelous power exercised by Gandhi among the Indian people. And yet, strange to say, just as those first national elections failed so did Mr. Gandhi's non-cooperation movement fail to achieve the immediate aim.

Nobody Satisfied.

The final results so far seem to be that nobody in India is at all satisfied. It is a nation of discontents but they all agree, or nearly all, in their opposition to the rule of the white foreigners, the British. There are three political parties; one party very, very small, favors the status quo; a second favors real national freedom and independence in the control of all of their affairs by themselves alone, but favors the setting up of the dominion status for India similar to that of Canada, Australia and South Africa; while a third very numerous and powerful party demands not only absolute national freedom and independence, but that India shall be also absolutely and permanently separated from the British empire. Any sort of relation with the British empire is repugnant.

Mr. Gandhi's aims are different from all the others in this—namely, whether the Indian people shall be under British rule in any degree whatever, or whether entirely independent, is not the paramount question with him. He is intensely opposed to the whole spirit and system of our western civilization. In fact, he despises it for the reason that it is entirely too materialistic. He believes that we westerners of Europe and America are running after material things too much and neglecting the higher things of the spirit.

He may be partly right. What then will the British do? What can they do? Something they will have to do, else there will surely be a long and bloody war between the 318,000,000 of Hindoos of Indian and the heterogeneous peoples of the vast British empire. We may well pray that such a catastrophe may never come, for if it should come it might involve the whole world, all nations of the five continents of this globe, and what the final outcome would be who can tell?

CAUSES OF PROSPERITY WAVE ARE ANALYZED

Continued From Editorial Page.

poor. They had eaten up, blown up or burned up everything they had. They had no goods. They could not make goods because they were torn to pieces. They had to get goods from America. To pay for them they could not send us goods, so they sent us gold. They sent us their very wedding rings. An immense quantity of gold came to America. We had, and now have, more than the rest of the world combined.

By the law stated above, when the quantity of gold in a country increases, the value of each dollar goes down, the prices of goods and wages goes up. So far, this process has been restrained in America, largely by the wise and deliberate action of bankers. But economists believe this law cannot be permanently prevented from operating. They believe that if this great quantity of gold remains in America it will give rise to more and more credit money, and prices will rise yet further.

Just at this moment it seems possible that some of our gold may go back to Europe. Europe needs and wants gold as the basis of the new currencies they are establishing.

Whether gold remains in America or goes back to Europe will determine to a large extent whether America is to have higher prices and more speculation.

VII.

After the war ended some American manufacturers found themselves with war-enlarged factories able to produce more goods than the peace-time market could absorb. They hated to reduce their output. They concluded to go on for another year at maximum production and dispose of the excess by selling on the installment plan. By that action something like seven billions were added to the credit dollars in the country. To that extent the same law about money worked.

Obviously the time must come when the factories must slow down. They cannot add another year and another one indefinitely. The device of instalment selling can only be used once.

VIII.

I have said that the federal reserve system has been one cause of an increased quantity of credit dollars, and therefore, higher prices and more speculation. The federal reserve system is a fine and useful institution, according to the almost universal judgment of the well informed in this field. That its central function, the amelioration of panics, is useful, hardly any one denies.

We all take it for granted that our federal reserve system is permanent, that it will be with us forever. Why will it? More than once in American history we have had institutions designed with the same purpose as the federal reserve system. Always they have come under attack, and always when the time came for congress to renew their charters renewal was denied. Within a very few years the federal reserve system comes to the end of its original charter. Already there are political and business forces that demand either refusal to renew the charter, or a reduction in the power of the system. A business man who has the faintest degree of prudence about the future must include in his calculations the possibility, at least, that the federal reserve system may some day either be terminated or have its functions greatly reduced.

IX.

Periods of prosperity like the present always have one accompaniment. Always it happens that a considerable number of people think this particular prosperity will not end, that there will never be another panic or another depression. They are always wrong. They will be wrong this time.

It is true that many conditions work to make a future panic or depression less probable than past ones. Of these the chief is the federal reserve system. The federal reserve system makes one particular kind of panic—a currency panic—impossible. But a period of depression must follow a period of excited prosperity as surely as the pendulum swings eastward after it swings westward. Sooner or later this period of prosperity will slow down, or fall down quickly, to one degree or another of relative depression.

One of the wealthiest men in the present writer's acquaintance owes most of his wealth to understanding that periods of prosperity are followed by periods of depression. For a large share of his wealth he is indebted to the reading of a certain book at a certain time.

Many years ago, ex-Senator (now Congressman) Burton, of Ohio, wrote a book called "The Theory of Commercial Crises and Depressions." One night in 1906 a New York banker read that book. He recognized that several of the signs of approaching depression listed in Senator Burton's book were then in existence in the New York financial community. The next morning the banker went downtown, turned all his securities into cash, and required his clients to do the same. In due course the panic of 1907 arrived and the banker had the opportunity to double his wealth by turning his cash back into securities and goods at panic prices.

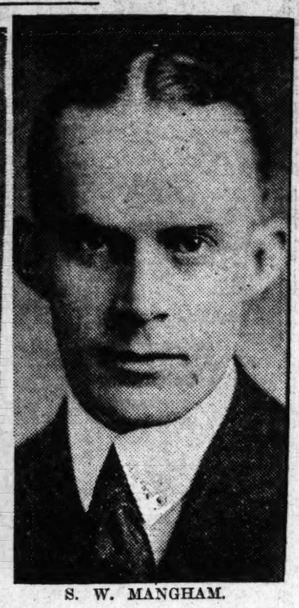
A panic like the 1907 one cannot come now. The federal reserve system makes that kind of panic impossible.

As to the other ways in which the present state of speculation in land and securities may end, it is difficult to speak with confidence because the causes of it mentioned above are all new. It may not end with suddenness at all. It may taper off into a period of merely relative depression.

It is equally impossible to say when the end will come. As respects duration, also, the present causes are so new as to make judgment about them difficult. Some of the best judges in the writer's acquaintance think the present condition will last at least a year. Some others are already putting their houses in order.

Dickey, Mangham Agencies Figure in Insurance Merger

JAMES L. DICKEY, JR.



S. W. MANGHAM.

Consolidation of the James L. Dickey, Jr., insurance agency and the S. W. Mangham insurance agency, of Atlanta, under the firm name of the Dickey-Mangham Insurance agency was announced Saturday. Through the merger, an annual premium income of approximately $250,000 is represented in the office.,

Directors of the firm will include Mr. Dickey, J. W. Goldsmith, Edward H. Inman, B. M. Grant, S. M. Mangham and J. P. Garlington. The two last named directors will be in active management of the agency, which will represent the American Central, Norwich Union Fire, Caledonian, London Assurance, National Union, Norwich Union Indemnity and the American Casualty companies, and the automobile department of the Union Assurance of Canada, formerly of the Mangham agency, and the Springfield Fire and Marine and the Agricultural and Massachusetts Fire and Marine, of the Dickey company.

An engineering service will be established by the firm, which will have offices in suite 529 Grant building. Carl Bergstrom, former manager of the Dickey agency, will engage in other lines of business.

The Dickey agency has been in existence for nearly 35 years. Mr. Mangham established his agency in 1920. Mr. Garlington, who has become associated with the concern, has had a number of years of experience in the field, having resigned as special agent of the southern department of the Fireman's Fund to become connected with the Dickey-Mangham agency.

Southeast Ranks Third In Developed Waterpower

Among the nine great divisions into which the United States is divided in report of the United States Geological Survey, the south Atlantic states stand third in the percentage of developed water power.

This is shown in tables recently published by the survey. This section of the country, has passed the New England division. In 1924 New England stood third and the south Atlantic fourth.

The leading section in developed waterpower, according to these reports, is the Pacific coast, which has 23.3 per cent of the total. The middle Atlantic states come second with 19.4 per cent, the south Atlantic third with 15.8 per cent, and New England fourth with 14.0 per cent.

Since 1921, the south Atlantic states have advanced from 13.6 per cent to 15.8 per cent in 1925. A remarkable feature is the fact that the leading territory, the Pacific states, has failed to keep up with the rate maintained by the rest of the country, dropping from 23.5 per cent in 1924 to 23.3 per cent this year. In 1921 the Pacific states had 22.6 per cent.

For the nine states which compose the south Atlantic division, Georgia stands third for 1925 in total capacity in horsepower for plants of 100 horsepower or more, with a total of 53 plants aggregating 394,794 horsepower. North Carolina is first with 534,600 horsepower and South Carolina second with 507,215 horsepower. Virginia stands fourth with 117,869 horsepower, while the other five states, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, West Virginia and Florida are all compgratively negligible.

Of the 53 plants with 100 horsepower or more in Georgia, 35 are public utility or municipal plants, with a total horsepower of 380,720, while the remaining 18 are listed as manufacturing and miscellaneous plants, with a capacity of 14,074 horsepower.

Georgia stands seventh among all the states in horsepower, the largest being New York, with 1,713,551 horsepower and the second California with 1,531,480. These are the only two states which exceed the million mark in developed horsepower.

State Shows Increase.

Georgia's increase in developed horsepower during the past four years is high. In 1921 the state only had 281,111.

On a basis of availability for 90 per cent of the time, Georgia possesses 1.65 per cent of the total potential waterpower resources in the United States. This amounts to 572,000 horsepower. On a basis of availability 50 per cent of the time, the state's potential horsepower is 958,000, or 1.74 per cent of the total for the United States.

The total production of electric power by public utility plants in the United States in 1924, was 59,013,590,000 kilowatt hours. Of this, 33.8 per cent was derived from waterpower, while 66.2 per cent was by fuel power.

Georgia's power production by public utility plants for 1924 totalled 748,756,000 kilowatt hours, of which 86 per cent was from waterpower and only 14 per cent by fuel power.

Georgia produced 5,102,000 kilowatt hours by the use of wood in 1924; and used 93,422 short tons of coal, 254,403 barrels of oil as other fuels.

While this state is not listed at all among the 10 leading states in production of electricity for the years 1920, 1921, 1922, 1923 and 1924, Georgia ranked 10th in electrical production by water power in 1920 and 1921, and ninth for 1922 and 1923. She is not listed among the first 10 for 1924.

Georgia ranked ninth in 1920 and 1921 for production of electricity from oil fuel, and 10th in 1922. The state is not listed among the first 10 for 1923 and 1924.

This state ranks 13th among all the states in potential waterpower resources, being exceeded by Maine, New York, West Virginia, Alabama, Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, Colorado, Arizona, Utah, Washington, Oregon and California. The state of Washington heads the list in potential waterpower with 7,871,000 horsepower. Oregon comes second with 6,715,000 and California is third with 6,674,000.

CHRISTMAS SHIPPING INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN

Early shopping and early shipping of Christmas packages go hand in hand, according to R. K. Smith, general agent of the American Railway Express company. Steps have been taken to expedite the movement of all Christmas gift shipments and the cooperation of the public is sought to relieve the strain of the rush usually encountered during the last few days before Christmas.

Most of the troubles which delay Christmas shipments are due to inadequate addresses, according to Mr. Smith, or errors in addresses.

If the contents of a package are fragile, a caution on the wrapping to that effect will inform those through whose hands it passes that it requires extra careful handling.

"We have found, by past experiences, that when the address is legibly written and complete in all details, the package is quickly handled directly to the person to whom it is addressed and seldom goes astray," said Mr. Smith.

"Such has been the growth of almost every city that it is essential to give the street and number of the addressee. Abbreviations in writing the name of a state sometimes results in misrouting.

"As a matter of precaution the sender should not fail to put his or her own name and address on the package and it is not a bad plan to put the same information on the inside. Thus, if the outside marks become defaced, the identity of the owner or that of the person to whom it is sent, is not lost."

As a means of encouraging better addressing, special labels have been issued to give Christmas express packages the right-of-way during the holidays.

A writer says jazz music would have died out several years ago if it hadn't been for the radio. And what about radio if it were not for jazz?—Kansas City Star.

News of the Theaters and Movies

THE STUDENT PRINCE ATLANTA THEATER SOON

Music lovers of this city and vicinity will be pleased to learn that the long awaited engagement of the much-heralded Schubert operetta, "The Student Prince in Heidelberg" will take place at the Atlanta theater for one week only beginning Monday November 30, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday. This is the same sensational play that has been delighting New Yorkers at the Jolson theater for the past two years, Chicagoans at the Great Northern for a year, while other companies are appearing in Boston, Philadelphia and Detroit for similar long-run periods. A beautiful story has been adapted by Dorothy Donnelly from "Old Heidelberg," in which Richard Mansfield starred some 20 years ago, surrounded by the most glorious melodies imaginable from the facile pen of that gifted young composer, Sigmund Romberg. Romberg is well remembered for his excellent music in "Maytime" and "Blossom Time," but has completely surpassed these two in his writing of the music for the "Student Prince." The stupendous production, transported in six cars; the sensational male student chorus of 40 trained voices, singing the 23 beautiful melodies that follow each other in kaleidoscopic array; the 20 female choristers, the 26 talented principals, all known to local theatergoers, the gorgeous costumes, all tend to make this a masterpiece of stagecraft. Among the principals appearing here are Lloyd Garrett, a sensational young tenor, who plays the role of Prince Karl, Ruth Williams, long a member of Roxie's Radio Gang, Sylvia de Frankie, Leo Stark, celebrated comedian, Edwin Orchard, Rex Carter and Ferdinand Zegel, all late of "Blossom Time," Jimmie Rosen, Evelyn Carter Carrington, Bess Bratsch and a myriad of others. "The Student Prince" has been playing to capacity audiences wherever it has been presented and it is suggested that seats be reserved at the earliest possible moment. Mail orders are now being received from both local and out-of-town patrons. The box office sale starts Thursday morning.

WEST END THEATER OPENS FIRST WEEK

Five Big Pictures Mark New Theater Opening.

The West End theater, the newest and decidedly one of the prettiest movie playhouses in the south, will open here Monday morning for its first week's run with a program of films which gives a complete change each day.

The new theater, of Spanish design thoughout and with all the colorful beauty of a villa along the Spanish main, is under the management of Alpha Fowler, prominent in local movie circles and an experienced playhouse director whose idea of carrying the motion picture house to the patrons has worked wonderfully well on the north side. The theater is on Lee street, near Gordon street.

Every feature of comfort and attractiveness has been added in the construction of the new West End theater and its programs will be in keeping with the high order which has characterized Mr. Fowler's long activity in this city. A rest room for ladies will be found most convenient, while new and comfortable seats have been installed and other features have had like attention.

Only movie films of the finest production will have place in the new theater, Mr. Fowler asserted Saturday. "We will not take second place to any other Atlanta theater," he said, "and we propose to give the movie-loving public of West End the best in motion pictures."

The program for the first week follows, including for each day a feature of the first water with a famous star in the leading role:

Monday, "Little Annie Rooney," with Mary Pickford.

Tuesday, "The Great Divide," with Alice Terry.

Wednesday, "Captain Blood," with J. Warren Kerrigan.

Thursday, "Charley's Aunt," with Sidney Chaplin.

Friday, "Excuse Me," with Norma Shearer.

Saturday, "The Mark of Zoro," with Douglas Fairbanks.

WOMEN'S CLUBS WILL PRESENT PASSION PLAY

To those who will witness the photoplay reproduction of the Passion Play enacted by the Passion Players at Freiburg, Baden, at the auditorium-armory during the week of November 30, the origin of the theater in sacred spectacles and religious observances will be made clear.

This unique attraction is not to be regarded as the average theatrical entertainment. One does not go to it in the mood of seeking light entertainment. It is intensely solemn and impressive, and one is made to feel the deep devotion and awe with which it has been undertaken and performed by the principals. It does conform to theatrical traditions, however, in that it is drama—the most moving of all dramas to that portion of our civilization which accepts the Christian faith.

The Freiburg Passion Play, like its better-known rival, the Oberammergau Passion Play, is not a commercial proposition. It originated as a religious festival and has been perpetuated through many centuries up to the present time as a sacred obligation. Its actors are not professional, but simple peasants and artisans of the village of Freiburg, Baden. They are untrained in stage technique, but they play their roles with a fervor and sincerity inspired by devout faith in Christ and His mission. The action follows closely the story of the ministry and crucifixion of Jesus as related in the New Testament. In the groupings and tableaux are seen the influences of the Renaissance artists. The last supper is posed in accordance with Leonardo da Vinci's paintings. And the visions of other old masters are similarly followed in various episodes, providing a series of matchlessly beautiful and dramatic pictures.

Adolph Fassnacht, plays the part of Christus with profound simplicity, tenderness and reverence. The compassion and humility of the Nazarene are touchingly portrayed in this truly inspired characterization, and yet the suggestion of divinity is at all times maintained. The ungrateful role of Judas is effectively played by George Fassnacht, a brother.

Arrangements are under way by the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs to have a musical setting appropriate to the theme with solo voices, and choir, and special organ music.

Popular prices will be maintained for the entire week, and reservation of seats is urged. Many civic bodies already will attend in a body, and the advance sale indicates that Atlanta is justly proud of the federation and its efforts to bring this beautiful motion picture to Atlanta, and is responding by its interest in procuring tickets to attend.

FAMOUS ORCHESTRA AT METROPOLITAN

Another record-breaking week in local moviedom is expected this week by Metropolitan theater officials, following announcement that the program will include Nelson Maples and his original Leviathan orchestra, the film "Why Women Love" and other extraordinary features.

Maples and his orchestra will furnish the vaudeville attraction and music lovers will remember particularly his successes the past few seasons in New York and other eastern centers.

The high point came when he and his orchestra members were selected to make the maiden trip of the Leviathan, giant steamer, under the management of Paul Whiteman, and sponsored by the United States shipping board. At the time this selection was considered tantamount to unofficial designation is the best orchestra in the nation—as Leviathan officers sought out Paul Whiteman to obtain the very best aggregation for them.

And the original members will appear on the Metropolitan program this week—each one having had the honor of making the Leviathan's first trip under United States management.

With this famous group of musicians comes the romantic and daring "Why Women Love"—as intriguing and spectacular a production as ever was shown on an Atlanta screen. With Blanche Sweet in the leading role it may be safely assured that movie lovers are in for one of the biggest week's in the history of the Metropolitan.

In addition, Enrico Leide and his orchestra will have one of its usual strong features, with Pathe review and Metropolitan News and Views supplementing.

Under the present plan of bringing to the Metropolitan a number of the foremost big-time vaudeville features obtainable to supplement regular programs, the appreciation of theatergoes has been more and more emphasized, according to theater officials. Each week sees attendance figures boosted, culminating last week in the greatest day-by-day house for the week in many years.

This week Maples and his orchestra and the movie attraction should prove even a greater drawing card.

Maples and his players have spent the past three seasons on Keith's big-time circuit and on the Orpheum circuit, playing as headliners wherever they were billed and leaving in their wake a series of successes which few musical aggregations ever achieved in this country.

Atlantans are not less appreciative of real genius and ability than other cities and it is certain that the orchestra will continue here to add to its long and enviable record.

The line-up indicates another big week at the Metropolitan.

POLLOCK'S ORCHESTRA HOWARD FEATURE ACT

This week—Thanksgiving week—will be appropriately celebrated at the Howard theater by the presentation of an especially attractive motion picture and musical program.

In addition to the feature picture, Gloria Swanson in "Stage Struck," Ralph Pollock and his famous San Francisco "sing-copating" orchestra will offer a program of the very latest jazz successes. Eleven highly talented musicians, including Mr. Pollock, compose the odchestra and it is said to be one of the snappiest playing organizations in the entire country.

Mr. Pollock has just completed a brilliantly successful engagement at Famous Players' beautiful Grenada theater in San Francisco and is coming to Atlanta for a special engagement with the best band that he ever has presented. He has never played in the south before, but he and his orchestra are tremendously popular on the coast. After appearing here, the orchestra will go to New York for an extended engagement.

The appearance of this band in Atlanta is a real event. All of the members are soloists and may be depended upen to produce some lively music. Mr. Pollock is a talented musician and, in addition to directing the orchestra, plays and sings. His programs are said to be the last word in jazzical harmony.

On the same bill will be Henderson & Weber, harmony singers, who will offer some attractive song numbers. They are said to be unusually capable songsters with a wide range of popular compositions and will add materially to the very excellent musical bill that will be presented all week at the Howard.

The Howard orchestra also will offer some splendid music, a pleasing overture having been arranged for the occasion. Jan Rubini, the conductor, will again be heard to advantage, and Melvin P. Ogden, the organist, whose offerings are always pleasing, will be heard to advantage.

Taken altogether, the Thanksgiving week program at the Howard promises an abundance of real entertainment.

Very Superior Salesman (displaying diamond tiara)—"This one, madam, is, I assure you, of the premier liquid."—Exchange.

MARION DAVIES' NEW FILM LOEW'S FEATURE

The latest success scored by Marion Davies, "Lights of Old Broadway," will come to Loew's Grand theater this week as the headline attraction. The work of Miss Davies is always of the highest standard and in her new vehicle she has achieved new triumphs.

One of the best pictures of the year, from any standpoint.

This is a terse description of "Lights of Old Broadway," Marion Davies' initial starring Cosmopolitan production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

As is usual with Miss Davies' pictures, she gives us a lesson in the history of America which makes us proud of being Americans. This time she has chosen the colorful and romantic seventies when New York was changing from a straggling overgrown town to a modern metropolis.

The story is a much-changed screen adaptation of Laurence Eyre's "Merry Wives of Gotham," but the change has been for the better. In this picture Marion gives to the picture-goers an interpretation of a dual role whose characterizations are widely different. By it she proves her versatility as an actress and binds her film fans much closer to her than in any of her former pictures.

In this picture we have a new Marion, with all of her former blonde loveliness, playing the part of an Irish colleen with a dancing act at Tony Pastor's old theater. She shows her Irish nerve and she is a credit to both American and Irish blood which must flow in her veins.

Conrad Nagel is excellent as the old-fashioned suitor, as are Frank Currier, George K. Arthur, Charles McHugh, Eleanor Lawson, Julia Swayne, Gordon Wilbur Higby and Mathew Betz in important and exacting roles.

The direction is the work of the gifted and artistically inclined Monta Bell, who outdoes himself with this one.

Carey Wilson wrote the scenario from Laurence Eyre's stage success "The Merry Wives of Gotham."

It is by far the best starring vehicle this artiste has ever been provided with, and will add greatly to her prestige as a motion picture star.

Practically every picture-goer who saw "Little Old New York" was charmed with both the picture and the work of Miss Davies, but it may well be said that "Little Old New York" cannot compare with "Lights of Old Broadway" in education or entertainment.

"FEET OF CLAY" HEADS CAMEO AMUSEMENTS

For Wednesday and Thanksgiving day the new Cameo offers, in its policy of bringing the big ones back, Colleen Moore and Conway Tearle in "Flirting With Love." Monday and Tuesday Cecil B. De Mille's outstanding picture, "Feet of Clay," will be shown, and for the end of the week Richard Dix appears in a virile role, "A Man Must Live."

"Feet of Clay" has a story of New York and California. The California episode consists of exotic beach carnival scenes at Catalina Island. The New York scenes flit between the Harlem flat of Vera Reynolds and Rod La Rocque and the luxurious home of Julia Faye, Amy's half-sister, and her husband as played by Robert Edeson. The cast is composed of Rod La Rocque, Vera Reynolds, Julia Faye, Theodore Kosloff, Victor Varconi, Ricardo Cortez and Robert Edeson.

Richard Dix's picture, "A Man Must Live," the Friday and Saturday

Monday-Tuesday
"FEET OF CLAY"
Wednesday and Thanksgiving Day
COLLEEN MOORE, CONWAY TEARLE
"Flirting With Love"
Friday-Saturday
RICHARD DIX
"A Man Must Live"
Cameo
Brings the big ones back.

B. F. KEITH VAUDEVILLE
STANDARD OF THE WORLD
NIGHTS 7:30 and 9:15 30c-40c-60c
MATINEES Daily at 2:30 25c-35c
FORSYTH THEATRE
Mon.-Tues.-Wed.
Lester
Ventriloquist
Walter Newman & Co.
in
A Comedy Knockout
"Battling Terry"
Dorothy Edwards and Fernando Guarneri
The versatile vocalists
Three Danubes
in
"PRISON PLEASURES"
Louise Billy
Hamlin & Mack
in
"TWO RECORDS"
Pathe News and Aesops Fables Pictures
Thurs.-Fri.-Sat.
Ned Norworth
Broadway's Midnight Son
With Patricia Caron in his inimitable revue with Peter Higgins, Lillian Price, Kenneth Nichols and others.
Fred Lewis
The Unusual Comedian
Sylvester & Vance
in
"HORSES"
Bezazian & White
"Phonograph Record Artists"
Irma, Balmus and Milo
in
"A Study in Art"
Pathe News and Aesops Fables Pictures
SPECIAL THANKSGIVING MATINEE

The Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs
(By special arrangement with the Passion Play Committee) have the distinguished honor to present
The World's Oldest PASSION PLAY
enacted for motion pictures for the first time by the Passion Players and filmed on the exact locations at Freiburg, Baden.
First played in the year 1264, and a regular institution since the year 1600.
Presented with an Augmented Musical Programme
AUDITORIUM ARMORY
Week Commencing Monday, November 30th,
PREMIERE PRESENTATION
Monday Evening at 8 O'Clock
Each Night Thereafter at 7 and 9 O'Clock
Matinees: Wednesday and Saturday at 2:30
Children 25c Adults 50c
Box Seats Reserved—$1.00 plus tax
No higher prices
Reserved Seats may be obtained at Cable Piano Co.
Mail orders filled—address Passion Play Committee, Room 603, Chamber of Commerce Building.

Diamond-Platinum Jewelry
—for Christmas Gifts
We have just received and placed on display a number of distinctive pieces of fine Diamond-Platinum jewelry especially appropriate for Christmas gifts. Rings, Bracelets, Bar Pins, Brooches and Watches.
Those who may wish to purchase their Diamonds out of income rather than capital may avail themselves of our partial payment plan—one-fifth cash and the balance in ten equal payments.
MAIER & BERKELE, Inc.
Established 38 Years

THIS WEEK CHARLES CHAPLIN
IN HIS GREATEST COMEDY
"THE GOLD RUSH"
COME EARLY BARGAIN PRICES
ALPHA
116 WHITEHALL STREET
ADULTS 15c Children 10c

Theatre Talk

CONDUCTED BY LORENZO JONES JR.

The Atlanta Theater Thanksgiving Week Features "My Girl"

The coming of "My Girl" to the Atlanta theater tomorrow (Monday) night, when it begins a week's engagement, with matinees Wednesday, Thursday (Thanksgiving) and Saturday, has created intense interest and indications are that a capacity audience will greet her on her opening performance here. This play ran for one solid year at the Vanderbilt theater in New York, and was conceded by metropolitan critics to be the smartest musical offering of the year. The book is by Harlan Thompson and the music by Harry Archer, and these gentlemen have again triumphed with another outstanding hit. Mr. Archer has supplied a musical score that contains several song hits, "You and I" bidding fair to outrival his world-famous "I Love You," closely followed by "Desert Isle," "Before the Dawn," "A Fellow Like Me," "Rainbow of Jazz," "You Women," and "A Solo On the Drums." "My Girl" will be presented here in the same elaborate manner that made it such an enormous success in New York. The Harry Archer orchestra, which scored with its marvelous syncopation, has been engaged by the management to render the score on tour and will give the same concert during the intermission that brought forth round after round of applause that fairly rocked the walls of the theater. This important feature will prove a rare treat to those who appreciate excellent music well played. Another important feature with "My Girl" is the chorus, the girls having been chosen for talent as well as beauty. Each member of the ensemble, in addition to being an exceptional dancer is called upon for specialty during the progress of the play. "My Girl" is the type of musical comedy that is tuneful and fast-moving, with just enough brightness to make one long for more. The music is of the dreamy variety that carries a contagious melody. "My Girl" is positively the event of the season in the musical comedy line and a rare treat is in store for lovers of good, clean fun. So much interest has been shown in the coming of this attraction that the management advises those desiring to secure choice seats to obtain them without delay. For remember Atlanta's own Vera Thomas takes one of the feature parts. Seats may be obtained at the Atlanta theater box office, open from 10 a. m., to 9 p. m. daily, and at the service department of M. Rich & Bros. Co. store.

Mistress—"Hilda, what do we need for dinner?" Hilda—"Please, ma'am, I've tripped over the rug and we need a new set of dishes."—The Progressive Grocer.

"Has a senator as much influence as he used to possess?" "No," answered Senator Sorghum. "I can remember when a member of congress could get into any baseball game free."—Washington Star.

Boarder—"What is there for breakfast? Hope not ham and eggs again." Maid—"No, sir; not ham and eggs this morning." "Thank the stars! What is it?" "Only ham."—The Progressive Grocer.

Left to right a bevy of beauties from the chorus of "My Girl," at the Atlanta theater this week; next, Bob Nelson, comedian, who heads [illegible]; next, Dorothy Edwards, to be seen at Keith's Forsyth this week; top, the original U. S. S. Leviathan orchestra, which is featured at the Metropolitan; below, a scene from the great Passion Play of Freiburg, Baden, soon to be seen in a film at the Auditorium; lower right, scene from "The Student Prince," coming to the Atlanta the week of November 30 with extra large company.

VENTRILOQUIST TOPS KEITH'S VAUDEVILLE

Lester, recognized as one of the greatest ventriloquists on the American stage, will present his act of marvelous vocal trickery to patrons of Keith's Forsyth theater as the headlining attraction on the program the first three days of this week.

A ventriloquist in reality is a vocal magician. He does with his voice what magicians of various sorts accomplish with paraphernalia and their hands. That is, he deceives. A sound that is created by the vocal chords seems to come from another source. Lester is one of these conjurers who has done so well as to be commonly called "great."

Walter Newman, the writer and producer for many comedies for motion pictures, will appear in person in his latest comedy entitled "Battling Terry" that is another big feature of the bill.

Dorothy Edwards and Ferd Guarneri, the versatile vocalists, are both well known in operatic and concert circles. Miss Edwards, the sister of Gus Edwards, sang in Europe before she appeared in opera in this country. Mr. Guarneri, while comparatively new in America, has a wide reputation in Italy.

The Three Danubes are comedy gymnasts. They are capable as comedians and acrobats. They have ideas as well as a sense of humor and muscular development. Sam Marley has arranged those ideas into a novelty skit called "Prison Pleasures."

Louise Hamlin and Billy Mack appear in a novelty singing and dancing act entitled "Two Records." As presented by this duo the skit is an offering of real merit, pleasing in every detail.

RAYMOND GRIFFITH AT THE PALACE MONDAY

A full program of excellent amusement awaits patrons of the Palace theater, Inman Park, this week. Monday brings Raymond Griffith in "The Night Club;" Mary Pickford in "Little Annie Rooney" comes Tuesday and Wednesday. "The Dixie Handicap," a famous racing picture, will be shown Thursday and Friday, and Holbrook Blinn in "The Bad Man" closes the week on Saturday.

"The Night Club" is one of the finest comedies of the season with Raymond Griffith in a role which is a riot of laughter. The title of the picture indicates the scene of the comedy and the prospective audiences are warned to stay away as laughing is injurious. Because that is all there is to it—a continuous laugh.

"Little Annie Rooney," Mary Pickford's latest and greatest, needs little comment. Showing again so closely behind its Atlanta premiere, the praise from film critics is still ringing. A story of New York's East Side, there is pathos combined with spontaneous laughter, gang fights and murder, thrills and comedy, all combined into a feature picture that will live long as a favorite.

"The Dixie Handicap," coming Thursday and Friday, brings Claire Windsor and Lloyd Hughes in a vivid drama of Kentucky with racing scenes which are among the greatest ever filmed. Lovers of horseflesh and beautiful women will see much in "The Dixie Handicap" to enjoy and appreciate.

Holbrook Blinn played "The Bad Man" on the stage. He is even better on the screen in this exceptional story of a merry border bandit, who is a second Robin Hood.

FIRST MIDNIGHT FROLIC SET FOR FRIDAY AT '81'

Heralding a season of theater attractions which promises to offer a series of the most entertaining and high-priced shows in Atlanta in many ways, comes the announcement Saturday by Charles P. Bailey, manager of the famous Eight-One theater, that resumption of the midnight frolics for whites will begin Friday night of this week. The complete program will not be announced until Tuesday because Manager Bailey is anxious that the offering be what it should be.

The orchestra pit will have its usual stars, while a feature will be a negro Jazz orchestra under Seals and Mitchell direction. A circus feature also is scheduled with the bucking mule in a star role. Other numbers will be completed and given out Tuesday, Mr. Bailey said.

During past years enormous crowds have packed the theater on Friday nights when midnight frolics have been staged for white patrons. This year the big negro playhouse has been completely renovated, a new front, more comfortable seats and other additions making it one of the most modern and commodious in the south. The nation's foremost negro artists have appeared at the Eighty-One and each fall and winter season sees a round of programs which compare favorably with those offered in the largest cities.

Manager Bailey is more than anxious, he says, that the 1925-26 season be the banner season in his year and for that reason has spared neither time nor money to obtain something worthwhile and in keeping with the high type of shows presented previously at the big negro theater on Decatur street.

Bessie Smith, famous "blues" singer, will be seen again this year at the Eighty-One, the management announces, and she is only one of a group of foremost negro players who will be seen before the footlights in Atlanta this year.

"We have spent $50,000 this summer in new additions and improvements to the theater," Mr. Bailey said, "and we have spent more than ever already in arranging a program for the coming season—and it is not yet complete. We are after the best and we don't mind the cost. Atlantans who have attended our midnight frolics before may be assured that the coming season will be the greatest we ever had—and that's saying a lot." Seats go on sale at Chess' Place and the theater Tuesday morning.

"The man says you deliberately ran him down." "I leave it to your Honor. How can a driver deliberate going at 60 miles an hour?"—Boston Transcript.

Some people never will wake up and find themselves rich, simply because they never will wake up.—St. Paul News.

ALPHA THEATER SHOWS CHAPLIN'S 'GOLD RUSH'

Again the world's foremost comedian, Charlie Chaplin, has launched his greatest comedy, "The Gold Rush," on the sea of popular fancy. Announcement is made by Manager Sol Samuels of the Alpha theater, that he will show it this week.

For 16 months Charlie Chaplin worked on this production. During that time he was practically a hermit—recluse to all, save his studio associates. Only the vaguest announcements of progress on "The Gold Rush" came from his studio.

The factory system of movies, and the consequent mediocrity as an art, have in Charlie Chaplin an example of the opposite production method in this dramatic comedy. It has been made with the artist's necessary leisure. It was never restricted by definite schedule of time-clock methods, but inspired by Chaplin with a passion for perfection as his only taskmaster.

GREAT LAUGH-MAKER BOB NELSON AT LOEW'S

The irrepressible Bob Nelson, than whom there are few "than whomer" when it comes to making people laugh, will come to Loew's Grand theater this week as the headline attraction on an unusually strong vaudeville bill. Nelson has visited Atlanta several times and has established himself here as one of the most popular fun-makers in vaudeville. As a singer of comedy songs he is in a class by himself. He gives each song a distinct personal touch which makes his work beyond imitation. The whole program for the week is far better than found in the usual run of bills.

A novelty act on the program is George N. Brown, world's champion walker, who will present a comedy oddity entitled "Pedestrianism!" He designed and perfected this act himself and through the use of special treadmills produces fun of a different nature from that usually offered. The champion walker holds unquestioned supremacy in his line, having represented the United States at the Olympic games in 1912.

Singing and dancing will be found in generous quantities in the act of Hart, Wagner and Lela in their sketch "Crawling Into Vaudeville." Two men and a woman, all clever in their lines, will appear in this sketch.

Denno Sisters and Tom Thibault will present their noted military dances on the new program. Several changes of costumes of a startling nature are among the novelties on their program.

Alexander Brothers and Evelyn, jugglers, will present their newest oddity, "All Balled Up," in which skillful feats of juggling are presented.

"Lights of Old Broadway," Marian Davies' newest picture, has been booked for showing next week. Laid in the quaint settings of the New York of early seventies, the story charms with its fragile, moving romance of a little lady of the theater and her forbidden wealthy suitor. Conrad Nagel plays opposite Miss Davies, with Frank Currier, Julia Swayne Gordon and others in support.

ATLANTA THEATRE
ALL WEEK
STARTING TOMORROW NIGHT AT 8:30
MATINEES WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY AND SATURDAY AT 2:30
NICOLAI-WELCH-DE MILT Inc.

Want Every Body in Town to meet

MY GIRL

SHE WILL HAVE WITH HER HARRY ARCHER'S ORCHESTRA and the bevy of Girl Friends that danced their way to fame
ONE YEAR at the VANDERBILT THEATRE, NEW YORK

FIFTEEN SENSATIONAL SONG HITS Including
"You and I" "Rainbow Jazz" "Desert Isle"
"Before the Dawn" and other smashing Melodies

PRICES: Nights, Thursday & Saturday Matinees, 50c to $2.50
POPULAR WEDNESDAY MATINEE, 50c to $2.00

COMING! ONE WEEK BEGINNING MONDAY, ONLY NOV. 30
Mail Orders Now GREATEST THEATRICAL EVENT IN YEARS!
THE BIGGEST and MOST COSTLY ATTRACTION EVER SENT ON TOUR IN THE HISTORY OF THE AMERICAN THEATER

The Messrs. Shubert present
The STUDENT PRINCE IN HEIDELBERG

100--PEOPLE--100
Glorious Chorus of 60 Trained Voices
AUGMENTED ORCHESTRA

Prices: Nights, 50c to $3.00 Wednesday and Saturday matinees, 50c to $2.50
BOX OFFICE SEAT SALE STARTS THURSDAY

THE NEW WEST END THEATRE
LEE ST., NEAR GORDON ST.
OPENS MONDAY
WITH
Mary Pickford in "Little Annie Rooney"
TUESDAY
Alice Terry in "The Great Divide"
WEDNESDAY
Warren Kerrigan in "Captain Blood"
THANKSGIVING DAY
Syd Chaplin in "Charley's Aunt"
FRIDAY
Norma Sheerer in "Excuse Me"
SATURDAY
Douglas Fairbanks in "The Mark of Zoro"
Admission: Adults AFTERNOON..... 20c NIGHTS..... 25c Children 10c

BIG MIDNIGHT FROLIC
White People Only
FRIDAY
At The NEW 81 THEATRE
DECATUR ST.

Entire Theatre remodeled and redecorated — more comfortable seats. Big Jazz Orchestra in the Pit. A Real Big Show on the Stage.

The Greatest Colored Show ever offered the white public of Atlanta is promised for Friday night.
DON'T MISS IT

ADMISSION
RESERVED
Orchestra $1.00
Balcony 75c

SEAT SALE STARTS TUESDAY AT CHESS' PLACE, FIVE POINTS, AND THEATRE, WAL. 1154.

PALACE
Inman Park
Monday
RAYMOND GRIFFITH
in
"THE NIGHT CLUB"
Tuesday and Wednesday
MARY PICKFORD
in
"LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY"
Thursday and Friday
"THE DIXIE HANDICAP"
The Greatest Racing Picture Ever Filmed
Saturday
HOLBROOK BLINN
in
"THE BAD MAN"

ALAMO—No. 2
BEGINNING MONDAY
THE STREET OF FORGOTTEN MEN
Percy Marmot—Mary Brian
THURSDAY-FRIDAY
THE LUCKY DEVIL
RICHARD DIX
As Fast As Its Name
SATURDAY
THE COAST PATROL
WITH KENNETH MACDONALD

ALL THIS WEEK
LOEW'S GRAND
CONTINUOUS 1 TO 11 P.M.
ON THE STAGE 3:30 6:40 9 PM
THE HUMAN DYNAMO!
BOB NELSON
LATE STAR OF "ARTISTS & MODELS"
"BROADWAY BREVITIES"
"PASSING SHOW"
"INNOCENT EYES" AND OTHER —BROADWAY HITS—AT THE PIANO-JOHNNY WRIGHT
THE WORLD'S CHAMPION WALKER
GEORGE N. BROWN & CO.
PRESENTING
HIS OWN ODDITY-- PEDESTRIANISM-
DENNO SISTERS & TOM THIBAULT
IN- THEIR MILITARY DANCES—
HART, WAGNER & LELA
CRAWLING INTO VAUDEVILLE
ALEXANDER BROS. & EVELYN
"ALL BALLED UP"
THANKSGIVING DAY
FOUR VAUDEVILLE SHOWS
2:00 4:00 6:40 9 P.M.

MARION DAVIES
ON THE SCREEN 2:00 4:30 7:45 10 P.M.
42nd STREET BROADWAY
Lights of Old Broadway
A Cosmopolitan Production
SHE was a captivating little dancer at Tony Pastor's, a Beau Brummel of Old New York's 400. It was inevitable that romance should ensnare them in its web.
A GLOWING— SPECTACULAR PHOTOPLAY OF THE STIRRING DAYS OF THE SEVENTIES.
with CONRAD NAGEL
A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer PICTURE
AFTERNOONS 15¢ 25¢ NIGHTS 15¢ 30¢ 50¢

Photoplay News

CONDUCTED by LORENZO JONES JR.

GLORIOUS GLORIA IN STAGE STRUCK, HOWARD

Never Before Has Gloria Been So Brilliant and Clever.

Gloria Swanson in "Stage Struck," the screen offering this week at the Howard theater, is said to eclipse all former efforts in the way of portrayal.

Allan Dwan, one of filmdom's greatest directors, has taken the theme of a stage-struck girl and made a wonderfully appealing story. Romance, comedy and pathos are cleverly intermixed. "Stage Struck" was written especially for Miss Swanson by Frank R. Adams, whose magazine stories are read by millions and it is the kind of story that readily lends itself to picturization.

Color photography is used in the early and closing scenes and the effect is gorgeous in the extreme. In some of the scenes Gloria displays some unusually handsome gowns.

In addition to the star, a brilliant cast of players appears in "Stage Struck." Lawrence Gray, who was with Gloria in "The Coast of Folly," is her leading man in this picture. Ford Sterling, always a great comedy favorite with Atlanta movie fans, has a role which affords him plenty of opportunity for fun-making. Others who appear to advantage are Gertrude Astor, Marguerite Evans, Carrie Scott, Emil Hoch and Margery Whittington.

The outdoor scenes were filmed at New Martinsville, W. Va., and when Gloria and her company went there the whole town turned out, hundreds of the residents taking part in the picture as extras. The river theater scenes will prove a distinct novelty for everyone who has never seen one of these floating theaters which move up and down some of the larger streams of the country.

Some of the interior sets are truly magnificent. In one in particular, the banquet hall of the king's palace, enormous gold pillars stand against a background of purple, the whole center of the line of pillars being held by a velvet curtain, bearing a crown in gold. In front of the pillars are three tables covered with crimson and gold, and the horde of court ladies and gentlemen who surround the star are dressed in crimson, gold and purple.

The floor of the set is black, highly polished, with a great colored medallion in the center. Miss Swanson wears a golden dress with a gorgeous tiera.

In this color sequence are also included scenes showing Gloria in the role of Carmen and her costume is marvelous. It consists of a full Spanish skirt, hand painted with flowers and with embroidery around the painted designs. She wears a golden shawl, with flowers and leaves appliqued on, and a high, red Spanish comb, from which is draped a mantilla of rare old lace.

Another costume which she wears in these scenes is the robe of an Oriental princess. It is made of rich red velvet, with a silver train embroidered in red, green and blue, and ending in black velvet. This train is eleven yards in length and when Miss Swanson stands at the top of a long flight of steps, the train covers the entire filght and spreads out over the stage at the bottom.

With this dress she wears an enormous head-dress of jewels, with jeweled streamers, decorated with small red pompons. Photographed in color, this sequence is unquestionably one of the supreme spectacles of the screen.

Left to right, top, glorious Gloria Swanson at the Howard theater in "Stage Struck;" next scene with Marion Davies at Loew's in "Lights of Old Broadway;" then beautiful Blanche Sweet in "Why Women Love" at the Metropolitan; top, right scene from "The Dixie Handicap" at the Palace. Lower left, Jack Holt and Billie Dove at the Rialto in "The Ancient Highway;" next scene from Chaplin's "Gold Rush" at the Alpha; next scene from "Feet of Clay" at the Cameo," with Ricardo Cortez. Right, Syd Chaplin in "Charlie's Aunt," at the New West End theater on Lee street, next to school. Below, right, scene from "Streets of Forgotten Men," at The Alamo No. 2.

THE ANCIENT HIGHWAY RIALTO FILM FEATURE

Another Curwood Novel With Jack Holt and Billie Dove

The Rialto theater's celebration of Thanksgiving this week will be featured by the showing of "The Ancient Highway," screen version of James Oliver Curwood's novel of the same name: "Beware," a Mermaid comedy; Pathe News and the presentation of a special Thanksgiving musical program from the baton of William Whitney Hubner.

"The Ancient Highway" has as the featured players Jack Holt, Billie Dove, and Montagu Love.

Jack Holt has been called upon to flirt with extreme danger on many occasions during his long career with Paramount but it is safe to say that he will always remember his many thrilling escapes during the filming of "The Ancient Highway."

Holt was first called upon to engage in a smashing fistic encounter with Montagu Love. The action called for Holt to have traveled all around the world to find Love and avenge his father's death, caused by Love's machinations.

Holt tracks Love to the office of the latter, Love in the intervening years having become a multi-millionaire profiteer in the lumber business. In Love's office Holt and Love battle to a finish, urged on by Director Irvin Willat, who insisted on a real fight. And it was a real fight.

Later, in one of the sequences of the story, Holt was called upon to race down a raging torrent in a frail canoe, just ahead of close to a million on-rushing logs.

Holt's efforts were directed in getting to a certain point ahead of the log jam and there set off a number of sticks of dynamite, real dynamite, too.

This accomplished, the theme takes another sensational turn, calling for Holt to go to the rescue of an assistant, who had slipped and was caught in the logs close by the dynamite charge.

The many thrilling sequences were accomplished without any serious injury despite the chances taken, but Holt claims he will always remember the deep full breath he took when the picture was finished.

Percy Marmont.

(At the Alamo No. 2.)

The Street of Forgotten Men that comes to the Alamo No. 2 for a three day run starting Monday is George Kibbe Turner's story that was published in the Liberty Magazine. It is the story of an underworld romance of the Bowery in the late 90s. Percy Marmont, Neil Hamilton and Mary Brian are the featured players in the cast and the pictures promise to be one of the best of its kind screened in the Alamo No. 2 for sometime. Mr. Turner has laid the scene of his story in the haunts of panhandlers who some times would beg as much as $100 a day. The unusual life and customs of these people are used as a background of an appealing story of love and self-sacrifice. Percy Marmont, in the role of the beggar king, and Mary Brian plays the little waif he adopts. On Thursday and Friday Richard Dix in his great auto racing picture, "The Lucky Devil," and Keneth MacDonald in "The Coast Patrol" on Saturday closes the week's program.

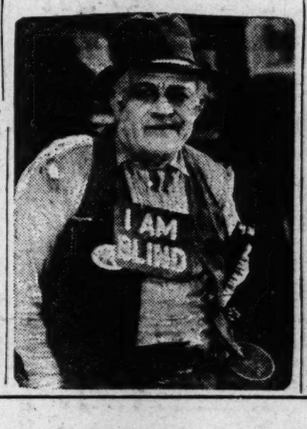
"The Merry Widow."

(Howard Next Week.)

"The Merry Widow" is coming to the Howard theater next week. In this picture the gloriously intoxicating love story of the widow and her Prince Charming is revealed at last in a screen production that will fairly take the beholder's breath away.

It was directed by Eric von Stroheim, who produced "Foolish Wives," "Blind Husbands" and other famous film stories. For sheer beauty and artistic surroundings, "The Merry Widow" surpasses anything yet brought to the screen. It is undoubtedly one of the truly great motion pictures of the year—a triumph for Director von Stroheim.

Mae Murray, as the widow, and John Gilbert, as Prince Danilo, are co-starred in the picture, with a brilliant supporting cast, including George Fawcett, Tully Marshall, Josephine Crowell, Dale Fuller, Hughie Mack and Roy D'Arcy.



BLANCHE SWEET STARS METROPOLITAN FILM

"Why Women Love" Is an Edwin Carewe Directed Picture.

The big Blanche Sweet picture at the Metropolitan this week will have to go some to split honors with the big Leviathan orchestra that is billed as the stage attraction. Somehow one expects epic drama when the boundless sea is the background for the story.

And when, as in the case of "Why Women Love," which opens tomorrow at the Metropolitan theater, the story is enacted by an exceptionally brilliant cast, and directed by Edwin Carewe, a master craftsman in stirring emotions, there is nothing left to be desired. In fact, this production can safely be ranked with the best pictures of the year.

Blanche Sweet makes her debut as an exclusive First National player in this picture, and she has put into her part the touches that have stamped her as one of the screen's foremost emotional artists. As Molla, who has spent her girlhood on board her father's vessel, she entributes a characterization that is unique and powerful.

Robert Frazer easily is the type, dark, dashing and devoted, to capture the fancy of Molla. Dorothy Sebastian, as the rebellious daughter of a lighthouse keeper whose life has been soured by an ill-fated romance, startles with the realism of her work.

Finely etched characterizations are given by Russell Simpson, Edward Earle, Alan Roscoe, Charles Murray, Bert Sprotte, Fred Warren and Herbert Prior.

"Why Women Love" was adapted from Willard Robertson's stage success, "The Sea Woman."

Here is a picture that you can't afford to miss if you enjoy the finer things of the screen.

For the overture, Enrico Liede and his orchestra will present Mignon by Thomas and for the main musical theme the latest ballad "Pal of My Cradle Days." The News and the single reel will be scored with the usual Metropolitan standard of up to the minute Broadway hits. The Mack Sennett comedy is a knockout.

"Grinning Guns" is the jazzy western title which adorns Universal's latest Jack Hoxie picture. The cast includes Ena Gregory, Bob Milasch, George French, Arthur Morrison, Dudley Hendricks and Alphonse Martell. It is being directed by Al Rogell and he has taken the company to Los Turas lake for exteriors.

She—"Now, my dearest, won't you buy me a new piano for a birthday present?" He—"But, my darling, wouldn't it be a pity to play your old pieces on a new piano?"—Good Hardware.

"I am secretary to Monsieur Slambang, the great pianist." "Sorry, but we have no room in the hotel. He can sleep on a billiard table." "What, an artist, a great musician?" "He can sleep on the grand piano if he likes."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

METROPOLITAN

BEST PICTURES MUSIC ACTS

THIS WEEK

WHY WOMEN LOVE

WITH

BLANCHE SWEET

CHARLES MURRAY ROBERT FRAZER
RUSSELL SIMPSON DOROTHY SEBASTIAN

SHE WHO WAITS FOR SAILS THAT NEVER TOUCH THE HORIZON CAN TELL ~ DOES TELL ~ WHY WOMEN LOVE

LEIDE AND ORCHESTRA — METROPOLITAN NEWS — PATHE REVIEW

THE GREATEST STAGE ATTRACTION EVER PRESENTED IN ATLANTA

NELSON MAPLES AND HIS ORIGINAL

U.S.S. LEVIATHAN ORCHESTRA

THIS IS THE BAND CHOSEN TO MAKE THE MAIDEN VOYAGE WITH THE U.S.S. LEVIATHAN UNDER THE MANAGEMENT OF

PAUL WHITEMAN

AND SPONSERED BY THE U.S. SHIPPING BOARD

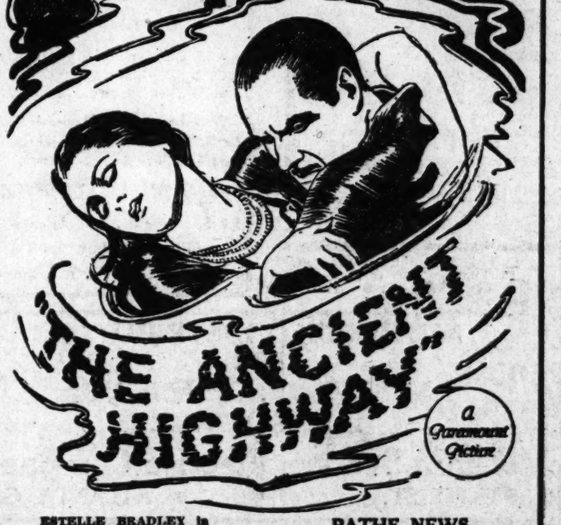
2:15 — 4:00 — 7:30 — 9:15

NEXT WEEK ~ CLOTHES MAKE THE PIRATE WITH LEON ERROL DOROTHY GISH

JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD'S

AN IRVIN WILLAT PRODUCTION WITH JACK HOLT BILLIE DOVE MONTAGU LOVE

PRESENTED BY ADOLPH ZUKOR JESSE L. LASKY



"THE ANCIENT HIGHWAY"

a Paramount Picture

ESTELLE BRADLEY in "BEWARE" A Mermaid Educational Comedy

Rialto Orchestra WHITNEY HUBNER, Conducting

PATHE NEWS The World Before Your Eyes

PRICES

Matinee: Adults .....25c Children 10c

Evening: Adults .....30c Children 10c

RIALTO

Starting Hours: 11-12:40-2:20-4-5:40-7:20-9:30

As satisfying as an old-fashioned Turkey Dinner with Cranberry Sauce

HOWARD

Dazzling Thanksgiving Week Entertainment

GLORIA SWANSON in "Stage Struck"

A Paramount Picture

Howard Orchestra JAN RUBINI Conducting

Howard News Weekly Current Events From Everywhere

HENDERSON and WEBER Harmony Singers

"Ko-Ko's Thanksgiving" A Fleischer Inkwell Novelty

Melvin P. Ogden at The Mighty Wurlitzer

ALSO

RALPH POLLOCK (HIMSELF) And His "Sing-Copating" San Francisco Band

Next Week—"The Merry Widow"

Yancey Brothers
550-556 Whitehall St.
Contractors' Equipment
Road Building
Machinery
Rex Pavers
and Mixers

The Metzger Mattress Co.
MANUFACTURERS OF MATTRESSES, PILLOWS,
SPRING BEDS, COTS, ETC.
Sanitary Felt Mattresses a Specialty
LONG DISTANCE PHONE MAIN 3093
142-144 Haynes St. Atlanta, Ga.

Why Go North?
INVENTORS
We Can Help You
Specialist in DIE MAKING
Metal Stamping
Special Equipment
Take advantage of our experience. Let us solve your metal and designing problems.
Steingruber Metal
Products Works
116-A West Mitchell St.
P. O. BOX 1376, ATLANTA
You save money dealing with us.

For Sanitation and Protection
OF YOUR FAMILY—
BUY
NAP-O-LIN

Finest grade of pure white Toilet Tissue made.
Each roll in a individual carton keeping the paper dust-proof and sanitary.
Costs no more than ordinary coarse paper.
Sold By Dealers Everywhere.

BOSCH
High Tension
Coil
OFFICIAL
Bosch Sales and Service
Station
EISEMAN RADIO
Magneto Service Station
520 Peachtree Atlanta

A. M. ROBINSON
COMPANY
Importers and Jobbers of
Dry Goods, Notions and Furnishings
Manufacturers
Shirts, Pants,
Overalls
Atlanta, Georgia

PUBLIC UTILITY
STOCKS AND BONDS
are favored investments because of their safe and adequate income.
Booklet "Public Utilities for Sound Investment" sent on request.
Securities Department
HENRY L. DOHERTY & CO.
218 Hurt Bldg. Atlanta
Specializing Cities Service Company Issues.

"It It's Brick We Have It"
F. Graham Williams
Brick Co., Inc.
Candler Building Atlanta Georgia

BUY It From ATLANTA

Trading Center of the Southeast

WEINSTOCK'S PLACE IS VERITABLE GARDEN

When a real lover of flowers visits the greenhouse of Weinstock Floral company at this season of the year, one is greeted with a sight truly inspiring. The place is simply full of growing chrysanthemums. If you have seen a small bunch, then you can imagine what thousands look like in all their varied colors. The pathways are lined with beautiful and frail-looking pot plants, which appear so dainty that you can hardly believe them alive.

As one passes around and among the various kinds one is overwhelmed with the brilliant mixtures of colors, all shades and kinds. The pastel shades struck the writer as most beautiful and appropriate. The Thanksgiving flowers are all ready for delivery and the Christmas pot plants are coming on in great shape and you need not worry about your flower gifts, just go out and visit Weinstock's wonderful array and leave your order now. Jack Weinstock will do the rest of the job for you.

Mr. Weinstock reports that the telegraph floral service is better now than ever and advises his many customers not to forget their friends a long distance away. He says that in a few hours he will have the best flowers delivered anywhere. He can supply your cousin in London if the need arises, through this wonderful cooperative system of delivery.

Of course you know that the downtown office of the Weinstock Floral company is located on the right hand side of the Peachtree entrance of the Arcade. Here you will find courteous clerks, alert to serve your needs, to help you decide just the right flower to send and any other information you may desire. You will find Jack himself around there most of the time, cheerfully seeing to the details of his tremendous business.

Wright Company Policies Getting Southern Business

Max Wright, as president of the Wright Company, Inc., is winning the esteem of southerners by his frank advertising and selling policy in championing the south as the home of factories which can turn out products of a quality equal to the very best.

The Wright company manufactures equipment for hotels, restaurants, cafes, colleges and other institutions. The Atlanta headquarters are at 425-427 Whitehall street, where Mr. Wright and his assistants give personal attention to orders and inquiries from throughout the country. Representatives of the organization state that they sometimes ecounter sales opposition in the way of "knocks" against the ability of southerners to produce quality products in southern factories.

This argument is emphatically denied by the Wright company, which guarantees its ranges, sinks, and other products to be of a quality unsurpassed by that of any other line, prices being equal. Frequently, this company claims, southern hotels and similar institutions can be supplied by the Wright company at prices lower than those allowed by manufacturers in other parts of the country. This fact is attributed by the Wright company to the location of the factory in Atlanta, a strategic railway point, and to the versatile and conscientious labor obtainable in Atlanta and vicinity.

Full information is furnished upon request by the Wright company. Inquiries should be addressed to Max Wright, president.

STEINGRUBER HELPING SOUTHERN INVENTORS

A distinct assistance to the development of southern inventive genius is the Steingruber Metal Products Works, which does developing, engraving and metal stamping at its Atlanta plant. Mr. Steingruber himself is in charge and gives each job his personal attention.

A man of long experience and extraordinary talent in working with metals, Mr. Steingruber has a great store of practical knowledge which he not only imparts in advice to his clients, but which he also applies diligently in working out plans and inventions submitted to him for development. He has a large shop and an unusually complete line of equipment for his work.

One of the latest products in which Mr. Steingruber has become interested is the Pathfinder illuminated house number. This device consists of a metal box, artistically designed for enclosing a light on the front porch. The light, shining through the metal box, illuminates clearly the imprinted number of the street address. In Atlanta and other towns, where street numbers are sometimes very difficult to see, the Pathfinder Illuminated house number proves of distinct advantage in speeding up the delivery of telegrams, special delivery letters, packages and parcels. Only those who have experienced difficulty in finding a certain number in a strange neighborhood at night will fully appreciate the convenience of the Pathfinder illuminated house number.

This number will be shown to any who call at the Steingruber Metal Products Works, or inquiries can be addressed to Mr. Steingruber, Box 1376, Atlanta.

SHIELD
BRAND SHOES
FIT BEST
WEAR LONGEST
M. C. KISER CO.
Makers Atlanta

Made in Atlanta
BLUE RIBBON
Beds, Mattresses and Springs
Southern Spring Bed Co.

VITROLITE WALLS, TABLES, TOILET PARTITIONS, COUNTERS
Vitrolite Products Co.
10-12 W. Baker St.
Atlanta, Ga.
VITROLITE TILE, MARBLE, BATH ACCESSORIES AND CABINETS

Wholesale Manufacturers
AUTO { TIRE COVERS, SEAT COVERS, TOP RE-COVERS, CARPETS
E. M. Thomas Auto Top Mfg. Co.
359-61 Spring St. Atlanta

TRUCK BODIES
All kinds, built to order
Repairing, Painting and Lettering
Springs for all trucks and cars.
YANCEY BROS.
90 N. Jackson St. - WAlnut 5074

Reeder Harness Co.
MANUFACTURERS OF Quality Harness
and Saddles
ENGLISH SADDLES AND BRIDLES REPAIRING A SPECIALTY
119-121 Decatur St. Atlanta, Ga.

CHARRED OAK KEGS AND BARRELS
In sizes 1, 2, 3, 5, 10, 15, 20, 25, 30 and 50 gallons.
Immediate Shipment.
Frank Reveen & Son
337 Whitehall St.
Atlanta
Write for Prices.

Weinstock's
ATLANTA'S FAVORITE
FLOWER SHOP
Flowers for All Occasions
ATLANTA, GA.

Steel Engraved
Christmas Cards
L. D. Specht Engraving Co.
34 PEACHTREE ARCADE. IVY 1356
ATLANTA, GA.

"WILLITE" Process
Asphalt Pavements
Insure utmost in durability—economy.
Lowers ultimate cost to tax payer.
Larger returns to the motoring public.
Increases the life of automobiles.
Traffic tests—and time—prove superiority.
Eliminates guess work and disappointments.
SOLVES THE HEAVIEST TRAFFIC PROBLEMS
DOES NOT LIMIT TRUCK LOADS
Willite Southeast Co.
405 Hass-Howell Bldg. Atlanta, Ga.

DIXIE SEAL COMPANY SUPPLIES TERRITORY

Offices and factories throughout the south frequently find need for special sets of rubber stamps for imprinting signatures or other script on documents. Such stamps are made with extraordinary skill by the Dixie Seal and Stamp company, 33 Poplar street, Atlanta, Ga.

This company, moreover, manufactures stencils and furnishes complete outfits of brushes and inks. These stenciling outfits are found useful by banks and stores in need of painted signs for posting lands, selling and renting houses and lots, and otherwise giving notices to the public.

Large factories have many uses for stencils in marking bags, boxes, crates and cartons. To meet this demand in the growing field of southern industry, the Dixie Seal and Stamp company specializes.

The company is advertising to bankers, to the fertilizer field and to others for any orders which require expert attention in the line of stamping and stenciling.

Inquiries are invited by the Dixie Seal and Stamp company, 33 Poplar street, Atlanta.

HEROIC GUM REMEDY PROVES BIG SUCCESS

Heroic Gum Remedy, a bottled mouth wash, recommended for the quick relief of Pyorrhea and all mouth ailments, is regarded as one of the outstanding successes in patent medicines. This remedy is sold by the Heroic Gum Remedy company, Atlanta.

One of the reasons for the success of Heroic Gum Remedy is the faith which President Davies, head of the Heroic Gum Remedy company, expresses in his product. He states that he considers Heroic Gum Remedy a veritable God-send to persons afflicted with pyorrhea and other mouth ailments. Mr. Davies has traveled throughout the southeast in introducing his product and he reports a gratifying number of repeat orders from druggists and individual customers.

His many Atlanta friends are glad to see him succeed in this work and they wish him continued success in the future.

HempsteadEmployed By Big American Business in Cuba

American corporations doing business in Havana, Cuba, have employed one of the south's best known business experts—Frank Hempstead, of Atlanta—as business councillor and income tax expert. Mr. Hempstead, according to announcement made here Saturday in business circles, will make periodical trips to Cuba, where he is installing a staff of workers connected with his offices, which he maintains in Atlanta, Miami, Fla., and Washington, D. C.

This is not the first time the services of Mr. Hempstead have been requisitioned for foreign service. He has made several trips to Europe in the interest of firms and corporations in this country which have foreign connections. He has made several important investigations, both in France and Germany, for Atlanta interests.

Mr. Hempstead, who is a recognized authority on business conditions, particularly in the south, where he supervises the audits of many large corporations, said on the eve of his departure on a business trip, that business and industrial signs point to greater activity and increased prosperity throughout the south this winter.

"Attractive climatic conditions and a desire to be among their own kind are bringing the people of the north back into the south in ever increasing numbers," said Mr. Hempstead today. Georgia and every other southern state will get a full share of this return movement It may readily be admitted that Florida will prove a big help to other states of the south. People who are going and coming from Florida have been attracted by the climate, the people and the potentialities of every section they have passed through."

The Hempstead organization in Atlanta, from which it dispatches expert workers to various sections of the country—and will now, invade Cuba—show that many mills, factories and corporations in Dixie have actually doubled and in many cases trebled their business within the past year.

BUILDING PROGRAM FOR 1925 LARGEST IN HISTORY OF U. S.

Chicago, November 21.—(AP)—The year 1925 will record a $5,000,000,000 building program, the largest in the history of the United States, says Herbert Nelson, executive secretary of the National Association of Real Estate boards.

His statement is based on a real estate index prepared by the national association, covering 41 cities, a more favorable money market and a marked desire on the part of the American people to obtain better living conditions he assigned as the cause. A striking feature of the index is a marked increase in the sales and population of farm lands throughout the nation.

"The average American city occupies more than six times the ground area of the average European city and the job of keepin gand developing this vast area is one of the underlying causes for the recent real estate activity in American cities," he says.

"The increase in sales of farm land has come as a result of a general scaling down of the high prices which prevailed in farm lands during the great war and because our bankers have developed a more liberal attitude toward this class of real estate."

OYSTER SEASON IN FULL SWING AT FULTON MARKET

This is oyster weather at Fulton market.

This well-established southern institution for supplying fish and oysters is styled and boasts the best-equipped market in the south to handle your order.

The Fulton Market company operates three fish markets in Atlanta—one at 27 East Alabama street, another on Peachtree street, near Baker, and another in the Atlanta Municipal market. Fresh fish are furnished daily to the Fulton market's retail customers in Atlanta, and wholesale orders are solicited from other fish dealers in the south.

Modernized refrigerating equipment and ample shipping facilities enable the Fulton Market company to supply Georgia towns and the southeastern states with satisfactory speed. Inquiries are given careful attention by the Messrs. Anderson, well-known proprietors of this market company.

HEATING SYSTEMS SUPPLIED ATLANTA BY TECH GRADUATE

Warren, Webster and company's Atlanta office, in the Atlanta Trust company building, is doing a good business in supplying heating systems and ventilating equipment to hotels, clubs, colleges and other large institutions in the southeast.

In charge of the Atlanta office of this famous company is E. W. Klein, graduate of the Georgia School of Technology. In his college course Mr. Klein made a thorough study of the technical aspects and theoretical phases of heating and ventilating systems. Upon graduation some 20 years ago he undertook serious, practical work in heating and ventilating, coming into contact wtih some of the greatest and most difficult engineering problems in his field. It was largely through his success in this work that he became connected with Warren, Webster and company, where he has surpassed his former record in excellence and thoroughness.

Mr. Klein, with his corps of assisting specialists, is now engaged in completing several jobs which will bring to his credit new congratulations from his friends and other experts in his field where he is widely known.

TRYING TO REVIVE OLD-TIME DANCES

An interesting feature of better dance week, which will be observed here the first week in December, will be an exhibition of old dances being revived, according to the better dance week committee of the woman's division of the chamber of commerce. They are sponsoring the observance. The old-fashioned ballroom dances that were in vogue 30 years ago, such as the badger gavotte, the schottische, etc., are being universally revived, according to Mrs. Lillian Dove, who is chairman of the committee. Henry Ford started the movement some months ago, said Mrs. Dove, when he employed Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Lovett, of Boston, to come to Detroit and teach the old dances to his executives and their wives.

The object of the better dance week movement, according to Mrs. Dove, is to stimulate an interest in better dancing so that the present vulgar forms of ballroom dancing may lose their vogue. The exhibitions that will be held in Atlanta during better dance week will be open to the public. Other members of the better dance week committee are Mrs. Ira Farmer, Mrs. Nellie Nix Edwards and Mrs. Theodora Morgan-Stephens.

SPECIAL MISSION SERVICE PLANNED FOR SUNDAY NIGHT

A special mission service will be held Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock at St. John's Episcopal church. The Rev. Cyril E. Bentley, executive secretary of the Atlanta diocese will be the speaker.

DR. MARX TO DISCUSS STORIES OF CREATION

Conflicting stories of creation as found in the opening chapters of the book of Genesis, will form the theme of Rabbi David Marx's third lecture on Sunday morning in the open forum series which he is giving at the Jewish temple, Pryor and Richardson streets at 11:15 o'clock.

"Genesis and Evolution" is a conlution and Religion," were the first two lectures of the same series.

Railways Increase Efficiency Rather Than Their Earnings

That the railways of the country have increased their efficiency rather than their earnings was pointed out here by railway executives.

They have added more cars and engines, they have laid more and heavier rails, they have improved their terminals, they have worked all their facilities harder than ever, it was asserted. They have made their engines haul more cars and made their cars run longer journeys, carrying more tons.

What is the reward of such performance? According to a statement made public here, the railways are earning less on their investments than before the war. They are earning less than congress enacted that rates should be made to enable them to earn. Under the latest statute, it was pointed out, the interstate commerce commission allowed the railways 5 3-4 per cent on their investment. The last year before the war the railways earned 4.94 per cent on it. Since 1921 they have averaged 3.94 per cent.

"Ultimately the railways will lack for capital if they are denied permanently something like their statutory reward," says a statement given out here. "The public which fancies that it can afford to starve the railways in reliance upon motor service is due for a rude awakening. What can motors do with coal and mineral freight? What share of agricultural exports can motors carry? Yet the motors are, in effect, subsidized, while the railways are taxed. At the moment it hangs in the balance whether the railways can get a moderate increase of even the most restrictive rates."

ATLANTA TRUST
Complete Banking Institution
COMPANY
EUGENE R. BLACK, President
CAPITAL $1,500,000
BROAD and MARIETTA STREETS, ATLANTA
MEMBER FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

J. SAUL & COMPANY
WHOLESALE
Clothing and Ladies' Ready-to-Wear, Dry Goods and Notions
HAS MOVED TO
NO. 88 SOUTH PRYOR ST,
Our 1925 Fall Line is Now Ready.

WEYMAN & CONNORS
MORTGAGES
INSURANCE—RENTS
6th Floor Grant Building
Phone WAL 2162—Founded 1890

The WRIGHT COMPANY Inc
MANUFACTURERS - JOBBERS
Wright
GOODS - PRICES - SERVICE
HOTEL - RESTAURANT
CAFETERIA - COLLEGE AND INSTITUTION EQUIPMENT
425-427 WHITEHALL ST.
ATLANTA - - - GA.

Frank Hempstead & Co.
Public Accountants
Counsellors in Taxation
1005-6 Candler Bldg.
Atlanta, Ga.

Southern Electric
Supply Co.
A. F. Hammond, President
81 Marietta Street
Atlanta, Ga.

J. A. KELLEY
WHOLESALE
Poultry and Eggs
171-173 EAST HUNTER ST.
Atlanta, Ga.

DAIRY AND FARM
SUPPLY CO. Inc.
DAIRY SUPPLIES
ATLANTA

BUY DIRECT
Anti-freeze hydrants $6.50
Gas room heaters ..... $5.50-$7.50
Gas water heaters, net ..... $9.50-$11.85
Oil water heaters, net $21.35
30-gallon boilers, net $9.00
We stock a full line of plumbing supplies for residence work including chemical closets and supplies for chemical closets.
PICKERT PLUMBING SUPPLY CO.
Wholesale and Retail
117 Central Avenue WAlnut 8169
Largest Retailers of Plumbing Supplies in the South
We Pay the Freight in Georgia.

ATLANTA--MILLINERY HEADQUARTERS FOR THE SOUTH

FALL and WINTER STYLES
Send your orders direct. They will be filled and shipped day received.
HUNTER ADAMS CO. M. KUTZ CO.
J. REGENSTEIN CO. ERNEST L. RHODES CO.
ATLANTA WHOLESALE MILLINERY ASSOCIATION

SAM E. FINLEY
ASPHALT
"Finley Method"
ROADWAYS
710 W. NORTH AVE.
ATLANTA, GEORGIA

Gate City Cotton Mills
High-Grade
Knitting Yarns
Mill Site
East Point, Ga.

FROM COTTON BOLL TO YOU
Lullwater
"THE SHIRT TO WEAR"
THE Lullwater MANUFACTURING CO. ATLANTA, GA.
Pants
Shirts
Dresses
Play Suits

Phones:
Day—HEmlock 7131. Night—WEst 1311-W
H. B. RALLS, Jr.
Live Stock Commission Merchant
CATTLE, HOGS and SHEEP
Atlanta Union Stock Yards Atlanta, Ga.

33 POPLAR
RUBBER STAMPS
DIXIE SEAL & STAMP CO.

HEROIC GUM REMEDY
Quickly Relieves
PYORRHEA
and all mouth ailments
At all druggists or sent postpaid for $2.
HEROIC GUM REMEDY CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Auto Wheels and Rims
FACTORY DISTRIBUTORS
Firestone, Kelsey, Jaxon and Hayes Wheels, Rims and Parts
Dealers and Jobbers Write for our Service Proposition.
Capital City Tire & Sup. Co.
282 Peachtree St. Atlanta

BUY ROOFING
THAT IS MADE IN ATLANTA
We manufacture composition roofings for every purpose—Hexagon Shingles, Slab Shingles (4-in-1 and 3-in-1), Individual Shingles, Slate and Smooth-Surfaced Roll Roofing, Roof Cement and Paints.
Full information upon request.
Phone, write or wire
LOGAN LONG COMPANY
125 SYLVAN ROAD PHONE WE. 3434
ATLANTA, GEORGIA
Branches: Chicago, Cincinnati, Franklin, O.

SEWELL
Manufacturing Co.
Manufacturers of ::CLOTHING::
127-131 SO. FORSYTH ST.
Atlanta, Ga.

DOWMAN-DOZIER
MFG. COMPANY
Manufacturers, Contractors, Jobbers and Distributors
Genuine Open Hearth Iron
Sheet Metals and Sheet Metal Products, Tinplate, Galvanized and Black Sheet Steel
OFFICE AND PLANT, 740 MURPHY AVE.
Atlanta, Ga.

THE NEW YORK STOCK HOUSE OF
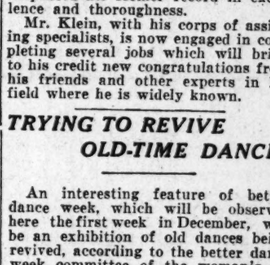
ATLANTA
offers for immediate delivery smart new fabrics in richly furred Coats in flare and straight models. Regulars, Stouts, Juniors and Children's sizes.
Prices ranging in Ladies' $3.75 to $29.76; Children's and uniors' $2.25 to $16.75.
JACOB SEGALOWITZ
90 S. Pryor St. Atlanta Ga.
Phone WAlnut 9093
New York Prices Del. from Atlanta

ARE YOU PLANNING
TO BUILD?
Write for our free catalogue on how to buy a heating system that fits your home or building.
Warren Webster & Co.
Atlanta Trust Co. Building
ATLANTA, GA.



HENRY GRADY
HOTEL
Newest and finest of Atlanta's hotels. 550 rooms. 550 baths.
Rates: $2.50, $3.00, $3.50, $4.00, $5.00.
Jas. F. De Jarnette, V. P. & Mgr.
Thos. J. Kelley, Asso. Mgr.

SCALES TRUCKS
SAFES
Refrigerators
The Howe Scale Co.
Atlanta

Standard Tent & Awning Company
"Standard Awnings Tailored to Fit"
292 Edgewood Ave., Atlanta, Ga. WA. 2856

Star Provision Co.
Sausage Manufacturers
Fresh Meats and Provisions
Manufacturers of Peerless Wieners
600 Marietta Street
Phones IVy 6127-6128

RITTENBAUM BROS.
Manufacturers of
Sanitary Wiping Cloths
472-78 Decatur St.
IVy 6300 Atlanta, Ga.

Pay Envelopes
Our Four-in-One (patented) Pay Envelope fits into any pay-roll system and saves time, money and pay-day complaints from employees. It is (1) a pay envelope; (2) a time and wage statement; (3) a deduction statement; (4) an employee receipt.
Write for Samples Today!
ATLANTA ENVELOPE COMPANY
25 Stewart Ave.
Atlanta

Fidelity Fruit & Produce Co.
Wholesale Merchants
2 and 3 Produce Place
Atlanta, Ga.
BELL PHONE: MAin 0604

Flint Motor Company of Atlanta
USED CAR DEPT.
Buicks, Studebakers, Flints, Dodges and other makes
Prices $100 to $1500
288 Peachtree St. Atlanta, Ga.
W. C. Rodgers, Mgr.

Southern Engraving Co.
Commercial
Engraving
HENRY W. GRADY, Mgr.
38½ West Alabama St.
ATLANTA, GA.

R. S. Armstrong & Bro. Co.
676 Marietta St.
Atlanta, Ga.
Machine Tools
Representing:
Acme Machine Tool Co.,
Cincinnati Bickford Tool Co.,
Cincinnati Milling Machine Co.,
Cincinnati Planer Co.,
Lodge & Shipley Machine Tool Co., and associated lines.
Your inquiries solicited.
"You can et it at Armstrong's"

AUTHORIZED DISTRIBUTOR
FOR RADIO CORP. OF AMERICA
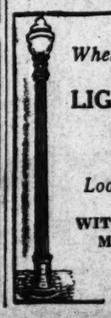
12-HOUR SERVICE
Gilham-Schoen Electric Company
35 CONE ST. ATLANTA, GA.

SAVE BUILDING COST
Murphy Door Beds
Murphy Steel Kitchens
Murphy Cabinet Ironing Boards
Murphy Steel Medicine Cabinets
MURPHY DOOR BED CO.
204 PEACHTREE ARCADE BLDG. ATLANTA, GA.

P. L. GOMEZ & COMPANY
PLASTERING CONTRACTORS
WAlnut 5494 509 and 510 Bona Allen Bldg. Atlanta, Ga.



When you buy
LIGHTING STANDARDS
Look for the name—
WITHERS FOUNDRY & MACHINE WORKS
ATLANTA, GA.

WHOLESALE
FISH AND OYSTERS
The best-equipped market in the south to handle your orders.
FULTON MARKET
25-27 E. Alabama
Atlanta

Harry L. Schlesinger
MANUFACTURER OF
Candy and Crackers
70-72-74-76 Madison Ave.
19 TO 33 NELSON ST.
Atlanta, Ga.

GRAVURE PICTORIAL SECTION

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

SUNDAY NOVEMBER 22nd, 1925

SOUTH'S GREATEST FOOTBALL CROWD AT THE TECH-GEORGIA CLASSIC FOR ATLANTA CONSTITUTION CUP. AS SEEN FROM THE AIR

STRIKING AERIAL PHOTOGRAPH OF CROWD OF 35,000 THAT SAW FIRST TECH-GEORGIA GAME SINCE 1916

This remarkable photograph made by Francis E. Price, Constitution flying photographer, from a plane piloted by Beier Blevins, shows the greatest crowd that the south has ever assembled for a sporting event. This crowd, also the most colorful that was ever assembled in the south, jammed every available inch of space, even the aisles, of the Grant field stadium at Georgia Tech here, November 14, as the Tech and Georgia football teams met for the first time in nine years. The game came after resumption of athletic relations between the two institutions last year and was one of the finest, cleanest and hardest fought gridiron battles in Dixie football history. As a result of Tech's 3-to-0 victory, Tech will receive, at its annual football dinner in December, The Atlanta Constitution's $500 silver trophy, to hold for one year. The cup goes permanently to the school winning two of the three games scheduled.

THE FAMOUS VANDERBILT GIRLS who will come to Atlanta soon with the stage production, "My Girl," to be seen at the Atlanta theater. (White, New York)

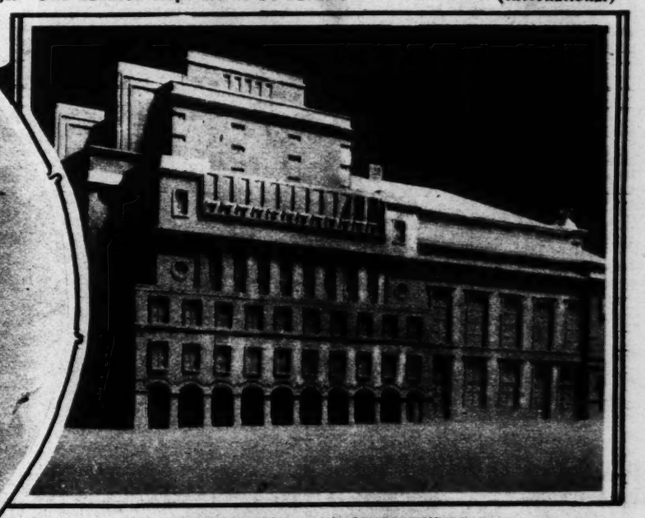
THEIR SERVICE IN MARINE CORPS TOTALS 150 YEARS
Five veteran marines, whose service is that lengthy when put end to end, were photographed in Philadelphia recently. They are, left to right: Staff Sergeant Elmer Jones, Q. M. Sergeant John Johnson, First Sergeant Richard L. Evans, Gunnery Sergeant Charles Snyder and Q. M. Sergeant Russell S. Garland. (International)

FORMER ATLANTAN NOW STARS IN "MY GIRL"
Miss Vera Thomas, former Atlanta girl, who is now winning the highest praise from critics the country over for her work in the musical comedy, "My Girl." The show will play at the Atlanta theater this week.

THE WASTE OF WAR
Some of the 31 wooden ships, formerly property of the United States shipping board, which were burned to the water's edge recently at Quantico, Va., for salvage. One hundred ships are to be burned. (International)

SETS NEW RECORD
Eddie Mitchell is shown here being welcomed at the city hall in Springfield, Mass., by Albert Vinnings, president of the Springfield Automobile cub, just after he had traveled 14,740 miles and touched 34 states in 143 days. It is a record endurance test. (Kadel & Herbert)

THE WORLD'S MOST UNIQUE BIRD EXHIBIT is this in the American Museum of Natural History in New York. The collection, strung by invisible wires from the ceiling, includes eagles, condors, wild ducks, wild geese and albatross. (International)



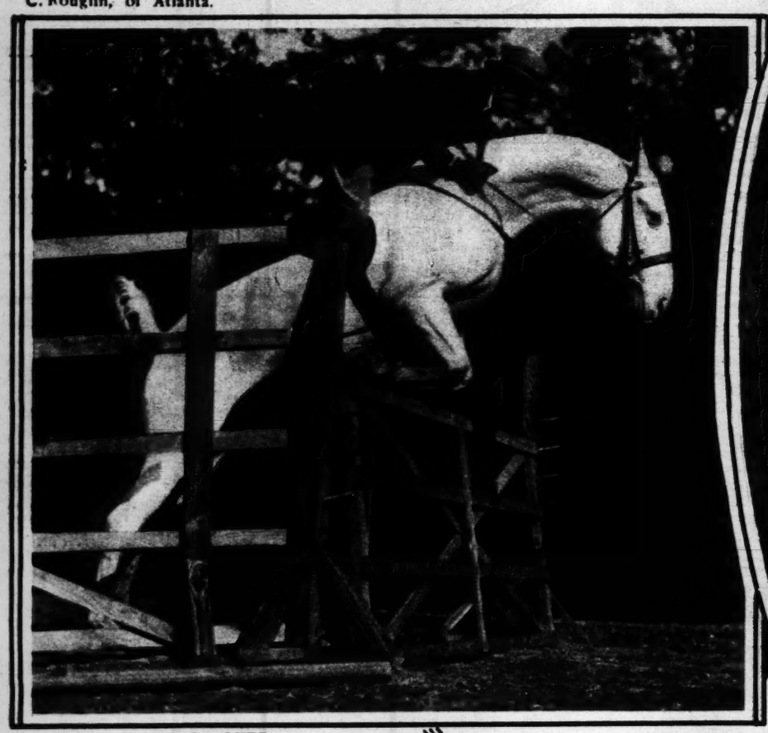
HAMBURG'S NEW MUNICIPAL THEATER
soon to be built is unique in design and will be Europe's finest playhouse. This is the architect's working model. (International)

AS THE GERTRUDE HOFFMAN GIRLS DRESS FOR THE CHARLESTON.
The Gertrude Hoffman girls, dressed in the costume that shocked Paris when worn in their Charleston performance at the Moulin Rouge, Paris, snapped at the steamship ticket office as they sailed for the United States.

WHERE AMERICAN WON QUARTER OF A MILLION
Near the finish of the Cambridgeshire purse race at London, won by Masked Marvel, owned by W. K. Macomber, American, whose bets are said to have netted him a quarter of a million dollars. (International)

ATLANTA DOES ITS SHARE IN BEN HUR
One of the assistant directors in the filming of the great spectacle, Ben Hur, is pictured here in the center. He is Jack Chertok, formerly of Atlanta, with Ramon Navarro as Ben Hur, left, and Francis X. Bushman as Messala, on the right. Chertok is a nephew of Dr. Louis C. Rouglin, of Atlanta.

ALABAMA'S SPONSORS IN THE KENTUCKY GAME
were two notable film stars. They are pictured here with Milton Sills, another star of the silversheet, left, and Champ Pickens, alumni head of the university, between the sponsors, who are Doris Kenyon, left, and May Allison, right. The three are in Birmingham to make a picture. (Tracy Mathewson.)

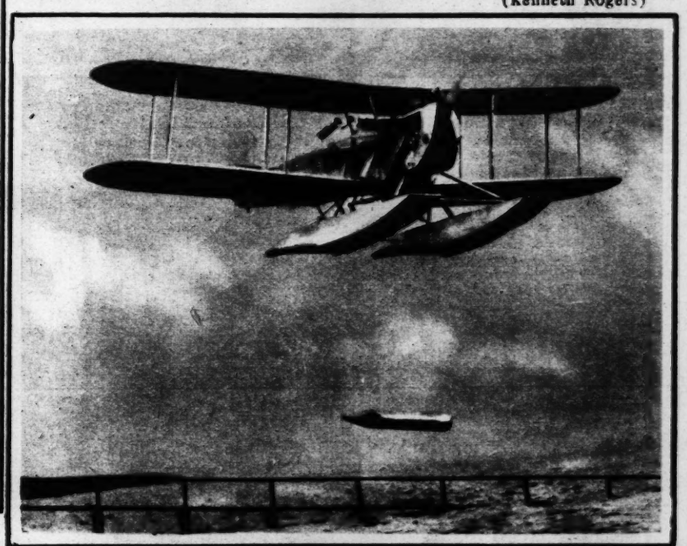


JUST OVER!
Fred Jeter and his new jumping horse in a remarkable action picture of the horse taking a hurdle. Note the perfect curve of the horse's neck and the bare clearance that it has on the bar with its forelegs.
(Francis E. Price)

WILL COMING TO ATLANTA
Will Rogers, world-famous funny man, who is coming to Atlanta soon for an appearance at Wesley Memorial hall.

ARRESTED FOR TREASON TO ITALY
General Luigi Capello, arrested in Rome in connection with a recently unearthed plot to assassinate Premier Mussolini and overthrow the present Italian government.
(International)

ALICE PLAYS WITH FIRE
in this picture from "Alice Sit-by-the-Fire," the play to be given by the North Avenue Presbyterian school at the Tech Y. M. C. A. In the picture Miss Mary Wallace is seen as "Steve," Miss Louise Huddleston as "Alice" and Miss Netta Russell and Miss Verdery Rosenbusch as the eavesdroppers.
(Kenneth Rogers)



THE DESTROYER OF THE AIR
This is Great Britain's first torpedo-armed seaplane, a Blackburne-Napier machine, which has been successfully tested. It is pictured as the torpedo it has discharged is about to enter the water. (International)

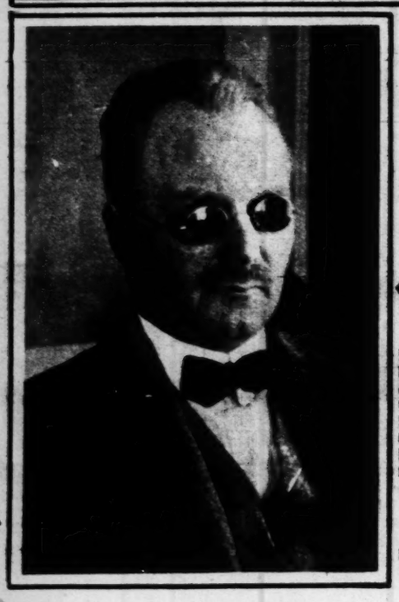
AN INTERESTING CHILD is this young offspring pictured here with his father, Rin-Tin-Tin, famous movie dog, and his mother, Nannette, equally famous when her pedigree is examined. Another wonder dog is expected to be developed from this youngster. (Kadel & Herbert)

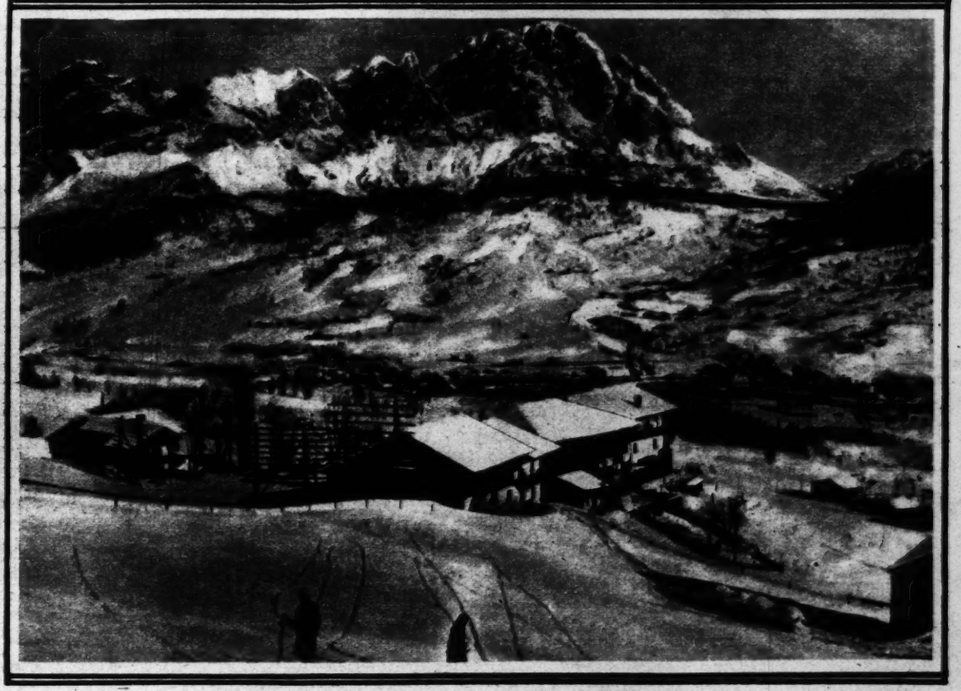


VISITING IN FORSYTH
Mrs. R. M. Dominick and her little son, John Ray, of Birmingham, who are visiting Mrs. Dominick's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hardin, in Forsyth, Ga.
(Rowland Studio)

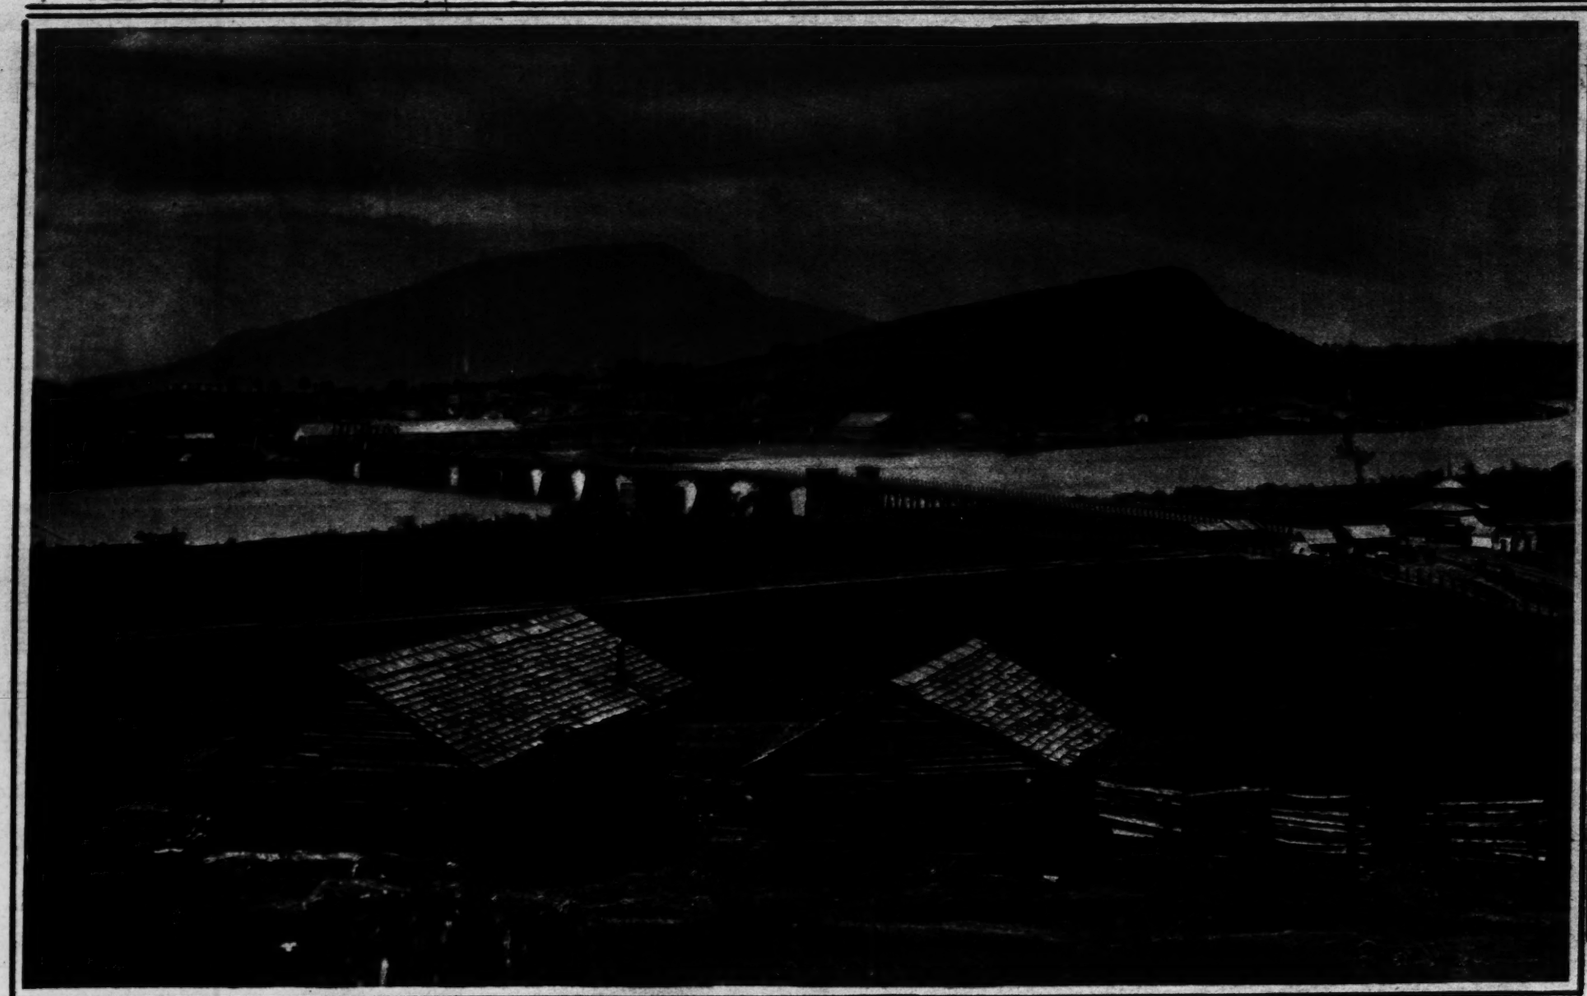
SWEDEN'S BLIND EDISON
Dr. Gustaf Dalen, of Sweden, who, although blind, has invented the cross-road blinker lights for motorists and many sea warning devices. In 1912 he won the Nobel prize in physics.
(Kadel & Herbert)

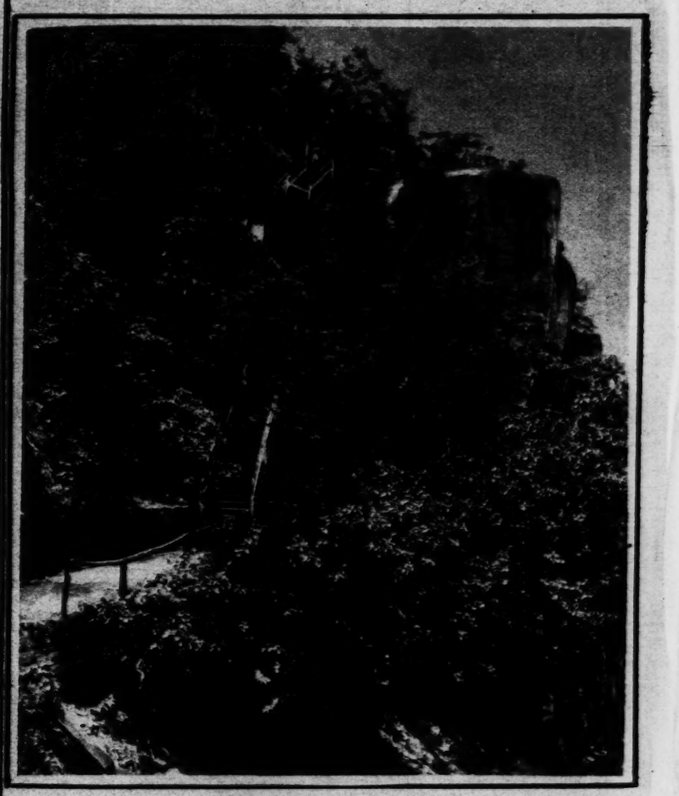
A MASCOT FROM THE GOBI DESERT
Mr. and Mrs. Roy Chapman Andrews, just back from research in the great Gobi desert, in Mongolia, with their mascot condor, which they brought back with them. They found 40 dinosaur eggs in their search. Mr. Chapman will lecture in Atlanta soon. (Kadel & Herbert)

'MID THE BEAUTY OF ALPINE HILLS the rich of Europe are beginning their winter sports. This shows one of their resorts, Hamlet, in the Italian Alps.
(Kadel & Herbert)



CHATTANOOGA CELEBRATES THE 62d ANNIVERSARY OF "THE BATTLE ABOVE THE CLOUDS" ON LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN
AN INTERESTING STORY OF THIS GREAT BATTLE WILL BE FOUND IN THE NEWS SECTION OF TODAY'S CONSTITUTION





WHERE UNION SOLDIERS FIRST REACHED SUMMIT OF LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN
Roper's rock, where Sergeant Roper, of the Union army, scaled the palisade to be the first Union soldier to reach the summit of the famous civil war battleground at Chattanooga. The landscape has now so changed that it can never be reproduced, hence this picture is highly prized. After attaining the summit, Roper fell backwards and his body was found by comrades, crushed, in the valley.

CHATTANOOGA OF CIVIL WAR TIMES
presents an entirely different picture from a panorama of the Tennessee city as it appears today. This picture of the village was made by G. N. Barnard, official photographer with the Union army of General Sherman and was made about the time of the Battle of Lookout Mountain. The city is pictured here from the north.

GENERAL GRANT OUTSIDE CHATTANOOGA
This is a hitherto unpublished photograph of General Grant, former president of the United States, found in connection with working up the pictorial story of Chattanooga during the civil war. General Grant and members of his staff are pictured inspecting the scene of the "Battle Above the Clouds." Grant is the figure at the left.

THE VISTA THAT OPENED TO SHERMAN AFTER THE BATTLE OF LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN
This remarkably fine picture shows Chattanooga valley from Lookout mountain as it appeared just after the Battle of Lookout Mountain. The picture was made just after the historic engagement by G. N. Barnard, official photographer with the army of General Sherman.

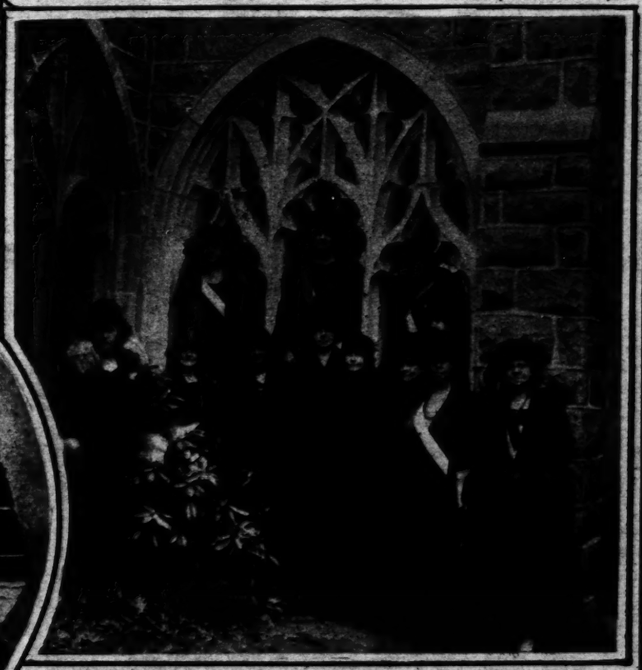
FOR BIRMINGHAM'S NEW SKYSCRAPER is this 23-foot-high statue, "Divinity of Light," being done by Edward Field Sanford, Jr., New York. The statue will be of gilded bronze. (International)

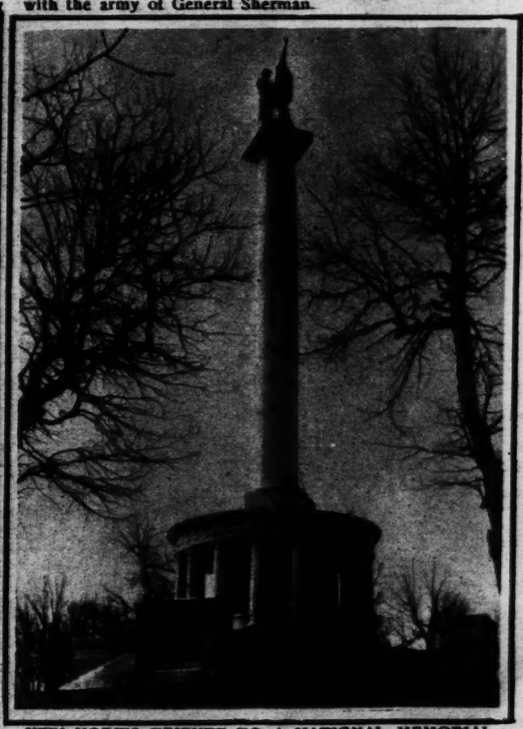
SHE FOUND MOSES IN THE BULLRUSHES
The image of the Pharoah's daughter who, according to legend, found Moses, the famous Biblical law-giver, in the bullrushes. In the temple, where the image was found, were tablets on which Moses had inscribed thanks to his fair rescuer. (International)

COMES BACK WITH A DIVORCE SUIT
Mrs. Rudolph Valentino, Natacha Rambova, or Winifred Hudnut, or whatever name you want to use, as she returned to the United States recently from her marital vacation and sprung a divorce suit on the sheik of the films. (International)



THE GEORGIA BEY AT VALLEY FORGE CHURCH, MEMORIAL TO GEORGE WASHINGTON
This bey has been built under chairmanship of Charles Adamson, of Cedartown, Ga., assisted by the Georgia Daughters of the American Revolution under Mrs. Julius Talmadge, state regent. The picture, made when the Pennsylvania D. A. R. dedicated the memorial, shows:

Mrs. John Brown Herron, Pittsburgh; Mrs. Howard H. McCall, Atlanta, former vice president general; Mrs. Richard Jackson Barker, Rhode Island; Mrs. Gerald Livingston Schuyler, Colorado; Mrs. Parnham, Vermont; Mrs. John Brown, Pennsylvania; Mrs. F. C. Durant, Philadelphia; Mrs. E. V. Herron, Norristown, Pa.; Mrs. C. Howard Harry, Norristown, formerly of Macon, Ga., and Mrs. Frank Kemp, Norristown, formerly of Savannah, Ga.



NEW YORK'S TRIBUTE TO A NATIONAL MEMORIAL is this shaft erected by the state of New York on the top of Lookout mountain, in 1905. On the pedestal a soldier of the north clasps hands with a soldier of the south, with the flag between them. It was erected under supervision of the Gettysburg-Chattanooga Monuments commission.

FOR EVENING INDOORS AND OUTDOORS
are these models shown by Miss Venita Viley, left, and Miss Adeline Winston, in the recent Washington Seminary fashion show in Atlanta. The gown is of rainbow colored crepe, rhinestone trimmed, while the coat is of American beauty, trimmed in white fox.

(Clothes for the show by Frohsin's, photographs by Kenneth Rogers) is this coat worn by Miss Ruth Moore in the Washington Seminary fashion show. The coat is of bluejay colored needle point, elaborately trimmed in fox.

LUXURIOUS

FROM SCOTLAND
we get the motif of this coat for sport wear shown by Miss Katherine Howell in the Washington Seminary fashion show. The white fox collar is a striking bit of trimming.

A STUNNING COAT
is this model of natural squirrel with navy crepe dress, appliqued in silver, worn with a hat of orchid satin by Miss Betty Davison in the Washington Seminary fashion show recently.

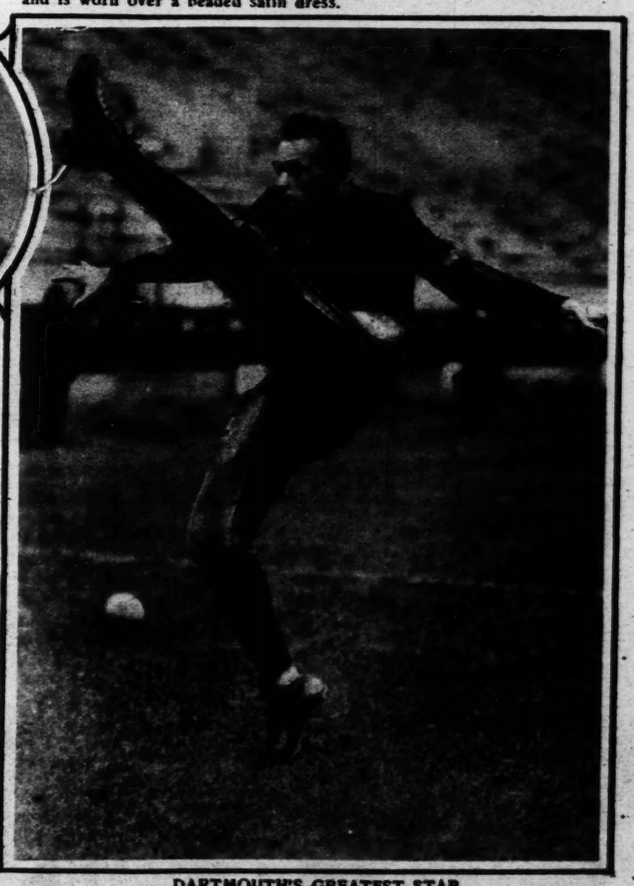
SHE IS CAUSING A STIR IN ITALY
Mlle. Magda Welwock, Hungarian beauty, by her appointment as beauty instructress to the children of the royal Italian house, is causing much unfavorable comment in Italy, due to her German extraction. (Kadel & Herbert)

THE POETESS PRODIGY
Nathalia Crane, little New York poetess, whose books have caused a stir and led to an investigation of their authenticity. Rather than throw light on the subject the inquiry has failed to lighten the mystery.
(International)

A RICH EVENING WRAP
is this model shown by Miss Julia Ruth Tornbow in the Washington Seminary fashion show. The wrap is of crepe romain, ostrich trimmed, and is worn over a beaded satin dress.

THE MOVIE PASSION PLAY COMING TO ATLANTA
A stirring scene from the Passion Play film, made by the original Oberammergau Passion Players on the exact locations at Freiburg, Baden, to be presented by the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs at the City Auditorium. The scene is where Christ is brought before Pilate.

CHARMING IN RED AND GOLD
is Miss Virginia White, as she appears here in a model shown in the Washington Seminary fashion show. The frock is of red crepe rene appliqued and trimmed in gold cloth.



SPEAKING OF CHRISTMAS
here is an argument in the toy shop between Tom and Felix that shows the trend of toy animals for the youngsters this year. (Kadel & Herbert)

"RICHEST BRIDE" AND HER HUSBAND RETURN
Mr. and Mrs. David M. Milton, the latter formerly Abby Rockefeller, daughter of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., as they returned from Europe, where they spent their honeymoon.
(International)

A NOVEL COTTAGE
is this at Sandusky, Ohio, which is made from a huge wine cask. There are two bunks in the cottage and two on the porch. In the cask are running water, electric lights and other urban conveniences.
(International)

DARTMOUTH'S GREATEST STAR
in years is pictured here. He is Swede Oberlander, leading candidate for all-American honors, who figured prominently in the rout of Cornell to break the tie for eastern gridiron honors. (International)

Miss ReLee Mallory, Sylvania, most lovable.

Miss Blythe McKay, Macon, most stately.

Miss Catherine Catchings, Atlanta, daintiest.

Miss Eleanor Brownfield, Opelika, Ala., one of the prettiest.

Miss Marion Fulghum, Macon, cutest.

SUPERLATIVES OF WESLEYAN COLLEGE

were chosen recently at the Macon women's college. Their pictures, as reproduced here, will appear soon in the feature section of the Veterropt, the Wesleyan college annual. Photo of Miss Kaplan by Metro studio; all others by Warlick studio, Macon.

Miss Frances Holland, Columbus, most athletic.

Miss Dorothy Thomas, Macon, most popular.

Miss Florence Thomas, Eufaula, Ala., one of the prettiest.

Miss Frieda Kaplan, Macon, most capable.

Miss Pauline Ellis, Jacksonville best all-around girl.

Miss Louise Johnson, Lake Wales, Fla., wittiest.

Miss Isabella Harris, Cordele, wisest.

TELLING THE GOOD NEWS TO HER PALS

Miss Mary Lewis, latest operatic find, who has won her way from the Follies to grand opera, reads telegrams of congratulation to her dolls. She will make her operatic debut in "LaBoheme." (Kadel & Herbert)

VALENTINO COMES TO TOWN

This picture of the sheik shows him just after he arrived in New York recently. You may have noted that he didn't meet his "vacationing" wife when she returned from Europe. Note the slave bracelet. (International)

ULTRA CHIC IN PARIS

is this fad of wearing a heart on one's stocking, for it means the wearer, in this case Dorothy Brown, of New York, who brought the fad over, is free from man's enchantment. (International)

A REAL PRINCESS AMERICA

Miss Alice Garry, who won a recent Seattle (Wash.) contest for Princess America, in which only Indian girls were entered. She is 17 years old. (International)

YANKEE EARL EN ROUTE TO ENGLAND

Oliver Henry Wallop, for years a Wyoming rancher, and his wife, now on their way to England, where Wallop will claim his earldom of Portsmouth and the estate. He is undecided between Wyoming skies and parliament's roof, for to take his seat in parliament he must renounce American citizenship. (International)

SINGS TO HER DOLL IN THREE TONGUES

That's what five-year-old Yitha Ching, daughter of a Chinese father and a Danish mother, does at her Washington home. She speaks Chinese, Danish and English. Her father was once attached to the Chinese embassy in Denmark. (International)

BERNHARDT'S SUCCESSOR COMING TO U. S.

Madame Simone, who is filling the niche once held by Sarah Bernhardt, is coming soon to the United States for a tour. (Kadel & Herbert)

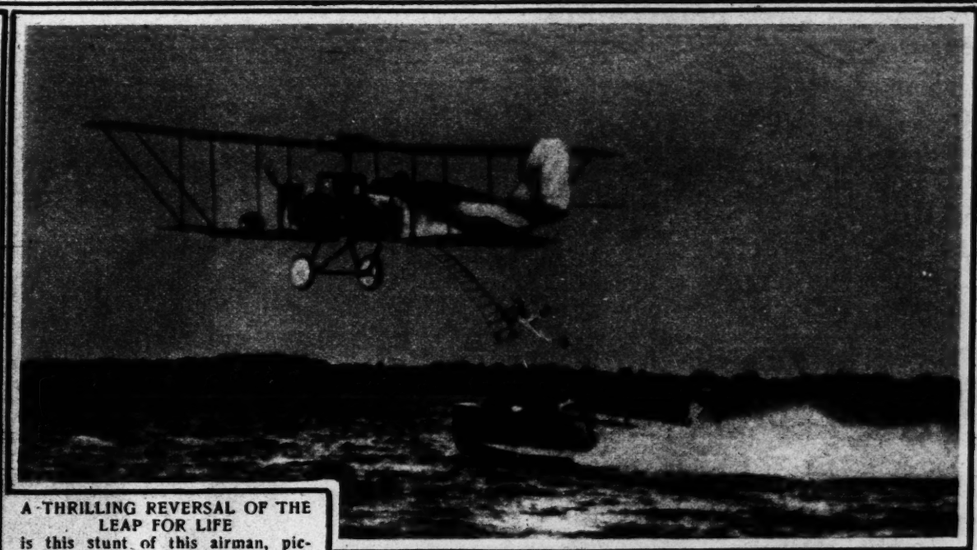
THE MOST PHOTOGRAPHED MAN IN THE WORLD is pictured here in his younger days. Three guesses. Right the first time. It's the Prince of Wales at the age of five. (Kadel & Herbert)

THE WORK OF AMERICAN ARTISTS

are these fabric designs, shown recently in New York, and viewed here by three of the creators, who are, left to right: Katherine Sturges, C. B. Falls and Clayton Knight. (Kadel & Herbert)

GERMANY'S NOTED "NUDE" PHYSICAL CULTURISTS
Four members of the Meusendick school for physical culture, Berlin, enjoying a brisk workout, attired in little more than their birthday raiment. The idea taught in the school is that clothing hinders full expression and exercise in the open. (International)



A THRILLING REVERSAL OF THE LEAP FOR LIFE
is this stunt of this airman, pictured in the act of taking off a motorboat to the rope ladder of a plane as the plane passes over the motorboat at full speed. The stunt was shown on the Mississippi river recently. (International)

PLOT TO KILL HIM FAILS
King Ferdinand, of Roumania, subject of a recent attempt at assassination by a group of communists. Lying in wait at a country inn, the communists attacked the party of the king, returning from hunting, but soldiers with the sovereign captured the communists. Two were killed in the skirmish. (International)

Come on girls!
Let's ask mother for a MADE-IN-AMERICA doll - - - -
Uncle Sam, the world's largest doll maker, knows best how to make dolls for American kiddies,
—Dolls That Last

Free Trial Bottle

Gray Haired People

—Learn my story!

It can't be told in this small advertisement, so I ask you to send for free trial bottle and test on a single lock of hair.

It proves what I did for all gray haired people when I perfected my restorer—to renew the color in my own gray hair.

The single lock test proves how easy is application, how perfect results. That my restorer is a clear, clean, colorless liquid.

Mail coupon for absolutely Free Trial Outfit and learn my wonderful story and what it means to you. If possible, enclose a lock of your hair in letter.

Please print your name and address
MARY T. GOLDMAN
678-P Goldman Bldg., St. Paul, Minn.
MAIL now
Please send your patented Free Trial Outfit. X shows color of hair. Black.....dark brown.....medium brown.....auburn (dark red).....light brown.....light auburn (light red).....blonde.....
Name.....
Street.....City.....

THE TANGO KING LOOKS TO ATLANTA FOR A DANCING PARTNER
Jose Bohr, Argentine tango king, pictured here with Miss Marion Dabney, of the "Dearest Emmy" company in New York, whose home was in Atlanta until she went to New York and the stage a few years ago. Miss Dabney is one of the most promising applicants for the job of dancing partner to Jose, who has come to this country mainly to find a partner. (International)

J. J. GROVER'S
Soft Shoes for Tender Feet
$6

"Easy Aliner"

It's soft inside the way your foot feels soft and rubber heel fits comfortably without slip and gives that easy to walk.

Often a Bridesmaid but never a Bride

HER case was really a pathetic one. Most of the girls in her set were married or about to be.

That morning she had received still another wedding announcement.

And as her birthdays crept gradually toward that tragic thirty mark, marriage seemed farther from her life than ever.

She was often a bridesmaid, but never a bride.

* * *

You, yourself, rarely know when you have halitosis (unpleasant breath). That's the insidious thing about it. And even your closest friends won't tell you.

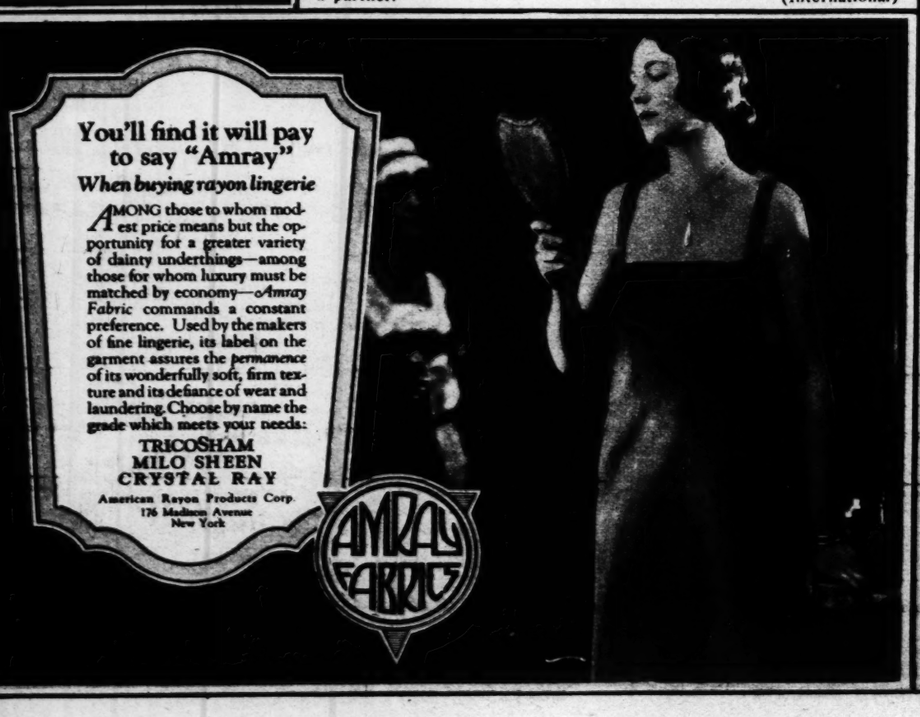
Sometimes, of course, halitosis comes from some deep-seated organic disorder that requires professional advice. But usually—and fortunately—halitosis is only a local condition that yields to the regular use of Listerine as a mouth wash and gargle. It is an interesting thing that this well-known antiseptic that has been in use for years for surgical dressings, possesses these unusual properties as a breath deodorant. It puts you on the safe and polite side.

Listerine halts food fermentation in the mouth and leaves the breath sweet, fresh and clean. Not by substituting some other odor but by really removing the old one. The Listerine odor itself quickly disappears.

This safe and long-trusted antiseptic has dozens of different uses; note the little circular that comes with every bottle. Your druggist sells Listerine in the original brown package only—never in bulk. There are four sizes: 14 ounce, 7 ounce, 3 ounce and 1¼ ounce. Buy the large size for economy.—Lambert Pharmacal Company, Saint Louis, U. S. A.

Try HALITOSIS — then LISTERINE

A CHALLENGE
We'll make a little wager with you that if you try one tube of Listerine Tooth Paste, you'll come back for more.
LARGE TUBE—25 CENTS



You'll find it will pay to say "Amray"
When buying rayon lingerie

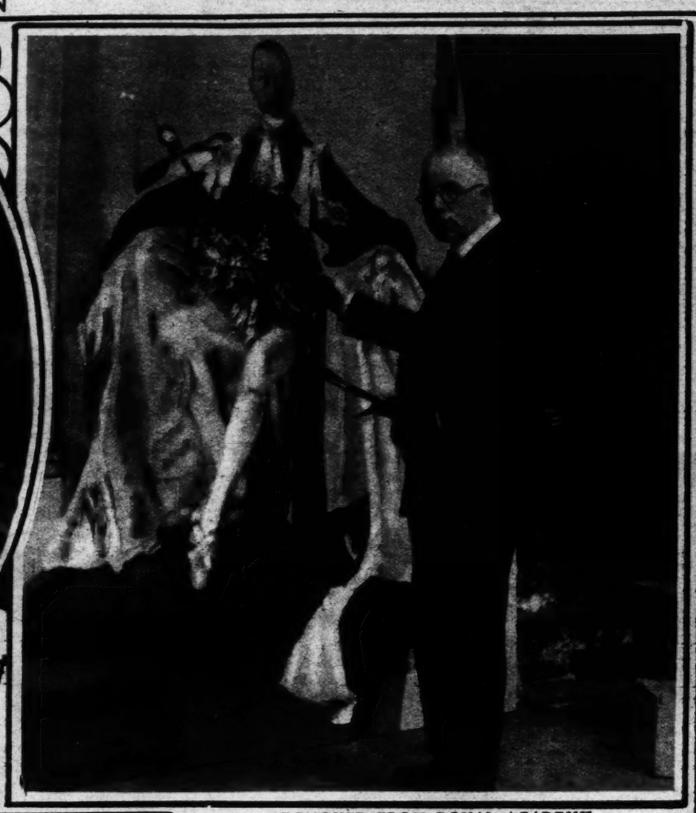
AMONG those to whom modest price means but the opportunity for a greater variety of dainty underthings—among those for whom luxury must be matched by economy—Amray Fabric commands a constant preference. Used by the makers of fine lingerie, its label on the garment assures the permanence of its wonderfully soft, firm texture and its defiance of wear and laundering. Choose by name the grade which meets your needs:

TRICOSHAM
MILO SHEEN
CRYSTAL RAY

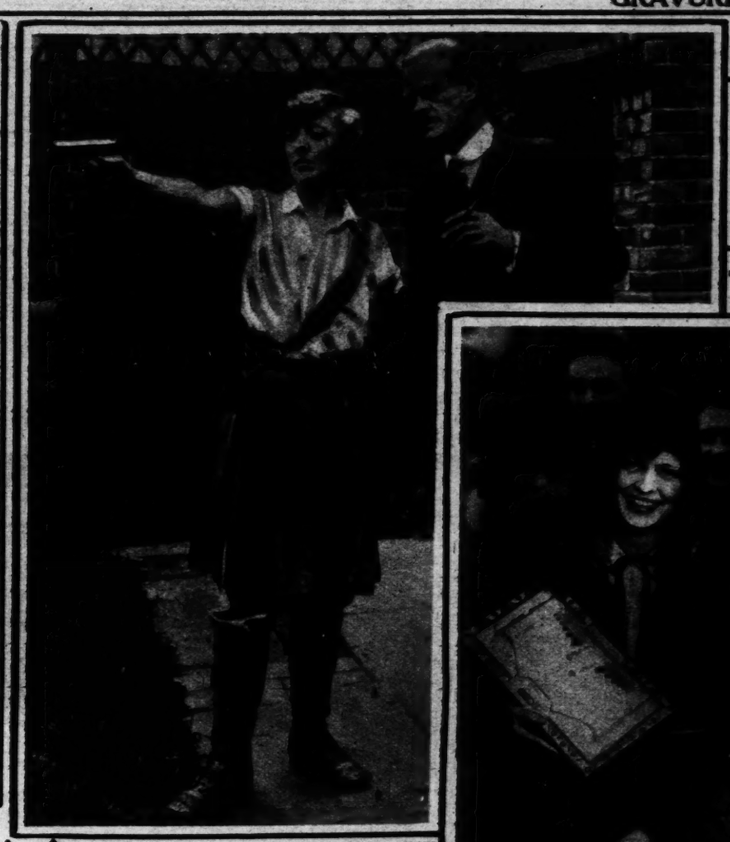
American Rayon Products Corp.
176 Madison Avenue
New York

AMRAY FABRICS

CHAUNCEY OLCOTT RECOVERING
The famous actor with his wife during his convalescence at his New York home from a recent serious illness. (International)



REMOVED FROM ROYAL ACADEMY
was this portrait of the king of England, by order of the king himself. It is said that he objected to it because of the skinny shanks painted by the artist. Photo shows the portrait and the painter, Charles Sims. The removal has caused a great stir in London art circles. (International)



THE FIRST WOMAN DIAMOND HUNTER
is Mrs. M. Blake, shown with her husband, Major Blake, at London. She led an expedition up the Mazaruni river in Africa and now is writing a book on the hunt. (International)

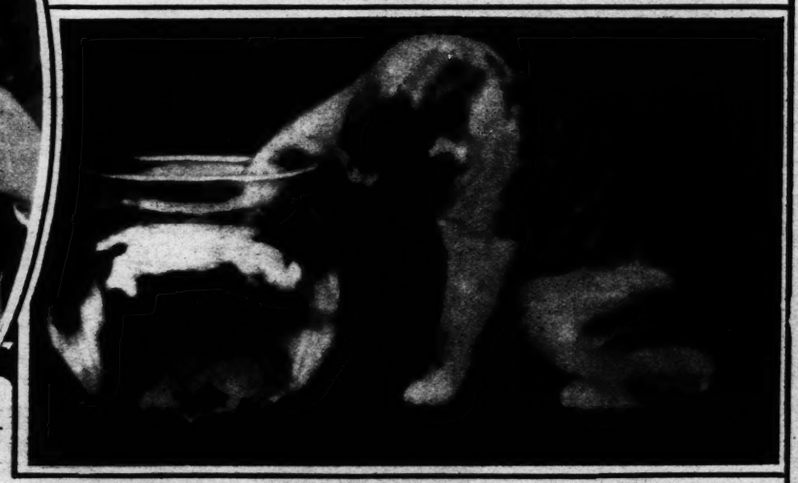
MISS NANCY LINTHICUM
Tech sponsor for R. O. T. C., Company E., at the Tech-Georgia game November 14th and J. S. Heyward. For real enjoyment they both know that football when coupled with Norris Exquisite Candies is hard to beat.

FIGURED IN BALKAN DISPUTE
Bulgarian staff officers concerned in the recent Balkan trouble, settled by the League of Nations. In the center is General Bankvoski, commander. (International)

THE PATCHWORK POSTER
is the latest thing in New York window displays. It is an ingenious adaptation of the patchwork art that gives the mannequins a remarkably lifelike appearance. (Kadel & Herbert)

IN THE COSTUME OF HIS NATIVE LAND
Luis Angel Firpo, "Wild Bull of the Pampas," who is keeping in training in spite of being clubbed almost out of existence in fights with both the champion, Jack Dempsey, and the contender for the title, Harry Wills. (International)

A DIAMOND WORTH $1,000,000
What a gift it would make for your best girl! It is the famous Sultana diamond which, for 300 years, has been the principal adornment of the crown of the sultans of Morocco. It is owned now by Joseph C. Stehlin, of New York. It weighs 133 karats.



ANOTHER FISH STORY IN THE MAKING
Don't be surprised if you hear strange noises on the back fence tonight, as Felix will no doubt be there and, after the custom of certain folks we know, tell his admiring friends how he pulled in one that weighed fully twice as much as himself. (Kadel & Herbert)

THE Beating Heart Clocks
These dainty Clocks are imported from France and come in white or colored pearl. Each one is in a rigid leather case. An ideal gift for Christmas. Each $15.00

Sterling Silver Vanity Cases
A most attractive Sterling Silver Case, hand engraved with cloisonne enameled designs. Fitted with rouge, powder, coin, lipstick and mirror. Silk cord and tassel. $15.00

Oriental Pearl Necklaces
They are wonderfully like the real, every pearl is perfect in shape and color. They come in one, two and three strands — in various styles. The single strand like cut below, one of the most popular. The price is $4.95. Others up to $15.00.

J.P.Allen & Co. ATLANTA

J. P. ALLEN & CO.
The Adrienne
$15.00
Hand-made by J&T Cousins
Black patent, Black satin, Black kid, Brown satin
One-strap, high arch, Spanish heel
A very smart slipper for every woman who is keen for distinctive beauty in her footwear.
Prompt Mail Service
SLIPPER SHOP
J.P.Allen & Co.

Let us be thankful for the loyal hand
That love held out in welcome to our own,
When love and only love could understand,
The need of touches we had never known.

Let us be thankful for the longing eyes
That gave their secret to us as they wept,
Yet in return found, with a sweet surprise,
Love's touch upon their lids, and, smiling, slept.

—J. WHITCOMB RILEY.

Awtry & Lowndes Co.
Walnut 7008
17 West Cain Street

Solve This Puzzle—Fine Prize Free
10 Beautiful Shetland Ponies Given
HERE are 10 ponies. By drawing 3 big X's you can put each pony in a yard by himself. When you do this, send your answer right away and I will immediately send you FREE a wonderful pony story and pictures of ten prize ponies. I will also send you immediately 400 points towards the Beautiful Shetland Pony, bridle and saddle and tell you how to get 100 more points which will win him. I also offer $100.00 cash for prompt action.
10 Shetland Ponies Given In addition to the pony, bridle and saddle every boy and girl can positively get at least $1.00 in cash. 10 ponies will be awarded April 10th and will be sent promptly. If there is a tie for any prize, a pony will be sent to each one tying. Send no money, just your answer right away.
E. E. DAVIS, Pony Man., Desk 126 624 First St., Des Moines, Iowa

Easy to Dye
Heavy Material with SUNSET
Navy Blue, Dark Brown or Black
These wonderful colors dye deep, rich shades. SUNSET is fast for all fabrics, and in all colors. Quick, clean, easy to use
North American Dye Corporation
Mount Vernon, N. Y.

25c Sample Free Use Coupon
Be Slender Again
As you once were. It is easy now
Note how slenderness prevails today. All ideas of style and beauty, health and fitness now demand it. In every circle you can see that excess fat is not one-tenth so common as it was.
The reason lies largely in a modern discovery, in Marmola Prescription Tablets. Millions have employed them. For 18 years they have been reporting their results to others. As a result, people are now using over 100,000 boxes of Marmola every month.
Marmola combats the cause of the trouble, which usually lies in a certain gland. It reduces one to the weight desired, then that normal weight continues.
One simply takes four tablets daily. No abnormal exercise or diet is required. When reduction is sufficient, stop.
Reduction is not too rapid. It rarely exceeds one pound per day. So the body adjusts itself to the new conditions. Wrinkles are avoided.
The results are reliable. So reliable that after 18 years of proving every druggist signs a guarantee.
Countless people all about you know what Marmola does. They have gained by Marmola, not only slim figures, but additional health and vitality. Every user will urge you to employ this modern method.
Investigate Marmola. You owe that to yourself. Excess fat is an offense. It has no excuse today. The coupon will bring you samples free. Also a book which states every ingredient, tells how Marmola acts, and why. And it brings you our guarantee. Clip the coupon—do it now—in fairness to yourself.
Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. Send this coupon for our latest book, a 25c sample free, and our guarantee. Clip it now.
The Pleasant Way to Reduce MARMOLA
2-235 General Motors Bldg.
DETROIT, MICH.
25c Sample Free
Mail Coupon Send No Money

Printed by Standard Gravure Corp., Louisville, Ky.

The SUNDAY CONSTITUTION MAGAZINE

ATLANTA, GA., SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1925

PEANUT

Blue Ribbon Fiction

By Adela Rogers St. Johns

The Story of a Conflict Between Two Women Over the Husband of One of Them

In the heart of Marguerite O'Brien the great wave of wrath had broken and lay shallow and spent about her soul.

IT WAS Bobby Ross who christened her Peanut.

As a matter of fact, her name was Jeanne Marie Josephine Poulain. In her part of France they were rather apt to name girl babies after the maid who delivered Orleans. Her mother had always called her Jeanne Marie. But there weren't two people in Hollywood, except the studio cashiers, perhaps, who knew she had one real name, much less three.

Bobby Ross, who was Murray O'Brien's assistant director, had seen her the instant she edged on the set that first day, timid but brave. She was rather like a small and impertinent bird, with her tiny, palpitating figure, her shining black head tipped just a little to one side, and her bright, curious eyes.

And when they needed a girl at the front row table in the Apache dive Bobby turned to call her because, though he did not know her name was Jeanne Marie Josephine Poulain, he thought she was more the French type than any of the bunch the casting director had sent over. Bobby had met girls who looked rather like her while his regiment was stationed at Armentieres.

"Hey," he said, beckoning to her across the mob of extras, "Hey, come here."

Jeanne Marie trembled, but she did not move. Beyond doubt the young man in the white sweater was calling to some one else. It could not be that he wanted her. She was very frightened. They spoke English so fast, these people.

"Hey," yelled Bobby Ross again, "you—you peanut, you, come here."

Jeanne Marie knew the meaning of the word peanut, and she understood at last that he really wanted her, so she edged forward, slipping under the arms of the others, for she was indeed very little.

Bobby continued to call her Peanut and, of course, the name stuck. The gang around a studio loves a good nickname. And Peanut was a great hit with the easy going, gay, constantly shifting crowd that makes up the rank and file of the picture industry. They learned she could sing gay little French songs and do dashing little dances, and time hangs heavily on a set between scenes. Every one had troubles enough of his own. Gaiety was the thing that went over big.

But it was the name of Peanut more than anything else that now infuriated Mrs. Murray O'Brien.

With a hand that shook, a lovely, slender, tapering hand whiter than the great pearl on her finger, she laid down the letter and turned to Elise Lord, curled up among the scented baby pillows on the window seat.

"Peanut!" she said, bitterly, her clear, delicate voice knife-edged. "It isn't enough, Elise, that there should be some other woman, but it must be an extra girl called Peanut. O, it's too humiliating. It's insufferable. One of those cheap, promiscuous little shopworn creatures who hang around the studios like camp followers around an army."

Elise Lord stuffed a new cigarette into her long, jeweled holder and puffed gently. Her face looked older, more worn and lined, than it did on the screen, but it had an added character, a depth, that the public never saw.

"I suppose," she said, at last, "you would rather it had been me or some other star, but I can't for the life of me see that it makes a great deal of difference. I should think you'd be rather glad it is a girl like that. There's less chance of it being—dangerous."

"Dangerous?" Mrs. O'Brien's lips curved disdainfully. "Don't be ridiculous. I am Mrs. Murray O'Brien, you know. I don't expect any woman to be dangerous. And I happen to be quite sure that Murray loves me. But it's not very pleasant to think your husband prefers such a creature to you, even if it's only for the moment. Not very flattering."

The other woman's eyes narrowed as she watched the slim, tall, graceful figure. The house, the room, the very clothes she wore had been built as a setting for Marguerite, and they all brought out the loveliest in her beauty. The ash blonde hair, with its tones of silver rather than gold; the arched, prominent nose; the wide, hazel eyes under the thin, arched eyebrows—there was distinctly something of an old French print about Marguerite. She might have posed successfully for that eighteenth century marquise who ran up the steps of the guillotine daintily smelling a rose to shut out the smell of the rabble.

Elise had known her a great many years. They didn't see a great deal of each other any more, because Marguerite had gone in almost exclusively for the social thing. Her name was more often in the society column than on the dramatic page. But Elise admired her tremendously. Only she wondered as she watched her now if there wasn't something a little secretive, a little too controlled, about the fine eyes and the cool, curved lips.

"It is rather amazing," said Elise Lord, suddenly, "that a man should leave you, Marguerite, for a girl like that."

Mrs. O'Brien sat down in one of the big, soft chairs. Her hands were still shaking, but the color of her cheeks had neither paled nor deepened.

"Sometimes," she said, bitterly, "I wonder if it's worth while to be good. I've tried to be a good woman, Elise. You know that. I've tried to be a good wife. I've been decent and respectable and law abiding. And now—a thing like this happens. I can't stand that kind of people. I don't mean to be uncharitable. But I'm overcome with a kind of nausea when I think of people like that. I can't stand these Hollywood girls. They're common, low, if nothing worse. Loose mannered and loose moraled. I tell you, I will not allow myself to associate with them. Some one must make a stand."

"It's hard to tell," said Elise Lord, slowly. "I—I don't set myself up much. I'm afraid some time I might make a mistake. Things are funny. I'm sorry for a lot of them—poor darn kids."

"Sorry for them?" Marguerite's voice shook. "Why should you feel sorry for them, pray? They choose to be common. They choose to get into scandals. They don't care what happens if they advance themselves. They are bad—bad—bad."

"Sometimes," Elise lighted another cigarette, "sometimes I wonder what is good and what is bad. Don't you ever?"

MARGUERITE'S lovely lips set. "No, I don't, and neither do you, Elise, when your'e honest. That's all a lot of talk-talk. If people stuck to the good, old-fashioned lines for good and bad they'd be better off. If people didn't compromise with badness all the time there wouldn't be so much of it. O, I know. They're much more amusing, bad people. I know they amuse Murray. But I won't put up with it. It's too disgusting."

"I dare say you're right," said the great screen star, "only that hellfire and brimstone idea that they operated under in the last century didn't seem to work very well. Sometimes I get a glimmering that there are sins of the flesh and sins of the spirit. If we could only get at a principle—a sort of thing that would make it worth while to be good. I know an awful lot of good people who have rotten dispositions and a lot of bad people who would give you their shirt. Funny."

"Don't," said Marguerite, and she buried her face in her hands, fighting back the tears. "I can't stand it—now."

"I'm sorry," said Elise, simply.

But she did not go over and put her arms around the bowed shoulders. Somehow you didn't do that sort of thing with Marguerite.

So she slid down flat on her back among the pink and lavender and pale blue embroidered cushions and wondered.

There was a mystery here. Marguerite O'Brien was a good woman. All Hollywood agreed upon that. There was no woman in Hollywood about whose virtues every one was so unanimous. More than that, she was a beautiful woman, a desirable woman, an intelligent woman.

PEANUT

A BLUE RIBBON SHORT STORY

Continued From First Page

It didn't seem possible her husband had actually fallen in love with an extra girl whom all the world called Peanut. Elise knew Peanut. She remembered the first time she had ever seen her, months ago.

This was how it happned.

The day had been long and very hot. Under the kleigs the very air dripped breathless. Elise Lord, her heart thudding against her ribs with heat and fatigue, went for the sixth time in an hour to repair the damage perspiration had done to her makeup. Her eyes were beginning to redden with the strain.

"Miss Lord," said Hattie, as she held the mirror in one hand and the big powder box in the other, "you look almighty done up. You reckon Mr. O'Brien going to keep on working much longer? I got a date."

"So have I," said Elise, wearily, "and you know he's just as apt to work all night, darn him. He's going good and he may never stop. You can't tell. You better get me some more soda water. O, Lord, how my feet hurt! If that fool baby'd only behave."

She went wearily back to the set and sat down on the low rocking chair by the tenement window. The plump, perspiring mother brought the baby and put it in her arms again. Elise's arms were beginning to ache.

They went at the scene again. Elise, a woman named Rose, who played the next door neighbor, and the baby. Over and over and over. The baby was good now. The camera ground. And still it didn't go right.

Then Murray O'Brien exploded. Working at fever pitch, his lips white and set, his eyes blazing, he had kept that none too certain temper of his in leash longer than any one had expected. They knew him. Now it broke out.

"Saint Michael and all his hosts," said Murray O'Brien, and he began on a low, cold, vicious note and worked upward. "What are you two, any way—women or sticks? Did you ever before in your whole lives see a baby? Do you know anything about babies? Do you know how they get into this world, or do you still think the stork brings them? I know you have none of your own, that's plain to see. But haven't you got some instinct within your breasts that you nursed from your mother's that tells you how to take hold of one? 'Tis a child you've got in your arms, Elise. A child. Your own child—flesh of your flesh, bone of your bone. And 'tis dying. You're holding it. Holding it back from the devil, even from God, from anything in heaven or hell that wants to take it away from you. It's the supreme, crowning emotion, the final love of womankind. Can't you comprehend it? Didn't you ever love a man? Remember, 'tis not a piece of dynamite that you're anxious to throw away, or a porcupine, or anything like that."

His thin, finely cut face grew even darker, and Elise wilted beneath the lash of his voice.

"As for you," he turned to the other woman, "where you come from and who you are I don't know. But I swear by all the saints, if you don't look at that baby like it was a baby instead of a Pomeranian, I'll throw you off this set with my own hands." His white teeth flashed over the words.

But it was hopeless. The baby had begun to whimper. A small, sticky person she was, with one lone curl on the top of a bald round head. Elise bit her lips to keep back a rising flood of hysteria. And the other woman had apparently had a stroke of paralysis. Murray O'Brien sometimes affected people like that.

He made a motion, and the camera stopped. He pointed his finger at the other woman, and she stumbled off the set. He looked around for the mother of the baby.

Instead he saw Peanut.

She had been working on another set, and wore tinsel and rhinestones that left her slim little shoulders bare, and a skirt of stiff gauze ending well above her black silk legs. The body of a Parisian cocotte. But the face—Murray O'Brien was held motionless, breathless, by the tremendous feeling of it. The face of a madonna—a madonna of the streets, but a madonna nevertheless.

Her black eyes brooded over the small sticky baby, and her whole sparkling, vivid impudence had melted into a pool of light.

"Peanut," said the great director, softly, as though he feared to break some magic spell, "you let me see how you'd play the woman next door."

Peanut never even glanced at him.

The baby, whimpering and squirming against Elise's unaccustomed shoulder, burst into anguished protest. Peanut took her quietly. One deft hand smoothed the twisted little clothes. She settled her firmly on her hip, making at the same time a funny, crooning noise in her throat. The baby blinked its eyes widely, stopped halfway in a howl of rage, and gurgled.

"Now, there is a woman who understands that a baby is a baby," said Murray O'Brien to the world at large. "As soon as you can change your clothes, Peanut, we'll go on."

Peanut's black eyes narrowed. With the baby still swaying comfortably on her hip, she walked up to the leading director of the United lot and looked him straight in the face.

"Go on? Go on? You talk very loud, you Mr. O'Brien, about babies. Certainly you will not go on tonight. I never did hear of such a thing. It is too late. And this baby is all tired out, yes she is. You should be ashamed of yourself, to start to make scenes with a baby at five o'clock in the afternoon. Five o'clock in the morning, maybe that will be all right, but not five o'clock in the afternoon. I should say not. You have got no sense. And the mother of this baby, she has got no sense either."

She turned, her black eyes snapping, her round little mouth a button of rage.

"Here, you," she said, "do you think you want them to use your baby like it is made from sawdust, eh? I don't think you ought to be allowed to have this nice baby, you are such a fool. Take her home now and put her to bed, and then tomorrow morning I will come and see about this. It is all right that we should make these movies, but babies are important. Ma foi, yes."

The cast waited to see her struck by lightning. Murray O'Brien, for all his gay wit and his love of fun and his irresponsibility, was not a man to trifle with on the set.

But he was looking at Peanut, and his eyes were oddly soft—amost as though they had tears in them. When she faced him, they stayed a long minute, looking deeply into each other's eyes.

"All right," said the man, with a smile on his dark, thin face, "everybody made up and on the set at nine tomorrow. Is that all right, Peanut?"

"I think that will be fine," said Peanut, judicially, and she walked off the set with much dignity, her stiff little skirts standing out straight behind her and showing several inches of much-be-filled tights.

Elise had seen all that. But she knew nothing else about Peanut. There was no reason why she should. Probably no one really knew anything about her except Bobby Ross, who liked her rather more than well. He had asked her once how she happened to know so much about babies and why she had come to Hollywood.

Peanut looked at him a minute, her head tipped on one side. "There are too many women in France," she said. Her English was improving with the unbelievable rapidity which French women show in mastering languages, but the fascinating, slurring, odd accent was still there. "I got a chance to come over and say, yes. Surely. It is very hard now to earn money in France. And I must help feed my little brothers and sisters. We have a family. Ma foi, I tell you so. Here you do not know such families—five littler now as me. Such cute little ones. And the father—gone in the war. Why should I not come to Hollywood? And I make much money here."

"You mean you send home money to your folks out of seven-fifty a day?"

"But why not, Bobby? I need so little. And now you take me out and buy me a big dinner, eh? One big dinner, he lasts quite a long time. I should say so. Then I do not have to spend my money. And I tell you something. Tomorrow night, you buy me some things what I tell you and come up to my—apartment. I have a stove there. It is not much of a stove, that is true. These gas stoves—they are so uncertain. First it go—phut, like that," Peanut made a gesture like a small sky-rocket, "then it go—zoom, like that. One cannot cook too well on that kind of a stove. But I do my best, eh?" She sparkled at him merrily.

She did not add that she made all her own clothes, and even her hats. Bobby would not have believed her anyway. He didn't know any girls who made their own clothes or who, by the mere changing of a rose from the front to the back, could produce two separate and distinct hats of the latest modes. But he liked the dash of her and the sparkle and the mischief.

After a while, of course, he made love to her after the direct fashion of his kind. She was a glorious coquette. Bobby Ross, in his position as assistant director, knew something about women, and very little of it was good. And he was amazed at the end of an evening with Peanut to find that he had enjoyed himself immensely but that he had not progressed one bit. He had been dazzled and amused and he had not so much as kissed Peanut's saucy, provoking little mouth. She knew the value of laughter, did Peanut.

But once, when he had taken her down to the beach in his snappy sport roadster and had danced with her through an entire evening of throbbing jazz and softened lights and then, on the way home, had been at last, really insistent, he had seen a new Peanut. O, an entirely new Peanut.

First, she had slapped him, a quick, hard, stinging little slap.

"So," she said, in a royal rage, like a small, fluffy black kitten spitting at a mastiff—Bobby Ross was six feet two and had carried the best pair of shoulders in his regiment—"so that is it, eh? You think you will kiss me and—what you call it—maul me, because we are friends and you buy me the dinner and take me to dance? That is the way it is with you, eh? Well Mister Bobby Ross, I do not love you. And—you are not a gentleman, because you cannot be friends with a girl like me who is quite alone and need you for a friend, but you must act like some animal. Very well, then. But I can take care of myself, you believe that. And I will scratch your eyes out if you try to—to be fresh with me once more, see?"

BOBBY saw to his amazement. Being young and not bad to look upon and the right hand adviser of a man who made and unmade stars, he had rather looked upon all women as his by divine right. It was a long time since the snappy sport roadster had heard such a word as "No." But Peanut said it, in three languages and with variations.

And, oddly enough, in the days to come, it was the girl who had slapped him whom Bobby Ross was to remember and eventually to serve.

Perhaps none of it would have happened if Murray O'Brien hadn't seen her on that particular night, weeks later. She had stirred his imagination that day on the set, with the baby in her arms, and then he had forgotten her. He was not much interested in women. Work was to him the beginning and end of all things.

But Murray O'Brien had that strange yearning over lost dogs and homeless cats and down and out men and women to which his race had been slave for generations. And he was himself, that night, in one of those fits of black depression and purple melancholy that beset him.

She was standing outside a little candy store, with her small, impudent nose pressed against the glass. He noticed her because of the droop of her shoulders and the sag of her body, as though the merest breath of wind would crumple her. Though he did not recognize her, he stopped because he knew what that droop meant.

The homeward bound traffic in Hollywood boulevard clattered and honked and buzzed behind them. In the faces of all people was that tired eagerness to get home. A mellow darkness was beginning to blot out the lingering twilight. The big boulevard lights winked on. The thud of hurrying feet on the sidewalk seemed to say "Home-home-home."

She looked up and met his eyes, and tried very hard to smile, but it was only a trembling, timid ghost of her merry smile.

"Hello," she said, "I—it is nice to see the lights in there, eh? This time, at home, my mother lights the candles on the table and shouts big and we all gather around and laugh and eat—such good soup she makes, my mother. There is a fire, too."

The homesickness welled up and caught her by the throat. Her chin quivered.

"Everyone is so good here," she said apologetically, "but sometimes if is very—lonesome."

And she leaned her head against the plate glass window and began to cry, so that she could no longer see the pink sugar kewpie and the ornately frosted white cake.

Murray O'Brien moved close to her side. Odd, how memory awakens. For Murray could remember a big room, on the west coast of Ireland, with a peat fire burning, and candles, and the cold drizzling rain against the window pane and children's voices. Children's voices. In the innermost secret place of his being that was the chord that vibrated when the word home touched him.

"Why, you poor little kid," said the great director, who had only just turned thirty himself. "I never realized. Look here—you don't look very well. Are you just homesick?"

Peanut gave the tiniest shrug. "I—I am not quite—up to my pep," she said. "Just a little something. Maybe—it is the food here. I think it is the food. There is the slump—I do not work too much lately—and your American food is different from ours. At home, one can live well on soup, but here—" Again she shrugged.

"Good God," said Murray O'Brien, "have you been trying to live on soup?"

"But sometimes one is lucky to have soup, monsieur," said Jeanne Marie Josephine Poulain, with a reproachful glance at her reflection in the window. "Sometimes, in the war, we have only potatoes and cabbages. I am not fond of potatoes and cabbages, me."

The sparkle was beginning to come back. A little human conversation meant a great deal to Peanut. She loved her kind. And the rank and file of the studios is as constantly shifting as the sands of the sea. Gypsy friendships, only, a touching of hands in passing, a bright greeting today and a farewell tomorrow. Peanut had found that out. Already, as she talked, two brave little flags of color were flying in her cheeks.

"But I will work again soon. That

(Continued On Page 12.)

Staring As An Art

—BY—
PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

NEW YORK, November 21, 1925.—To me it was always a profoundly pathetic scene in Paris and Brussels to see crowds of haggard and unkempt, often destitute and hungry people hanging about the doors of theaters, the opera and fashionable night resorts. The thing wasn't confined to these two cities either. I noticed it also in Vienna, Rome and Berlin. These folks came to feast their eyes on gloriously beautiful women in gowns a tenth part of the value of which would have supplied them all with a lavish supper. When the plate glass windows were finally thrown open and gleaming shoulders, ermine capes, dazzling diamonds were flashing under the immense chandeliers that are suspended in the marble corridors, you could hear the crowds buzz and zoom with suppressed excitement and then suddenly become strangely silent with a sort of doglike attitude as some divine creature, wafting an ethereal perfume, tripped lightly at the arm of a decorated escort to a waiting limousine.

Of course no offense is meant to the people of Paris and Brussels. I know that they have moments of superb grandeur, that they are capable of magnificent gestures, but the sense of terrible contrast at those opera doors was always something disturbing, something sinister.

It seemed to me that in such atmosphere, foundations are laid for violence and hatred, bloodshed and revolutions. The people of France love a display, they revel in a glittering procession. They demand it in church and home and they are fond of paying homage to a beautiful woman, no matter to what social status she belongs.

But at those stage doors there were always murmurings. Always strong police guards. Often a vile word would come hurtling over the heads of the crowd at some formally dressed politician, a sharp gibe, a thrust of the kind that carried a particular sharp Parisian or Brusseloix sting.

Here in New York there is nothing of the kind. Still if you are to believe certain newspapers there must be heaps of proletarians, dense masses of oppressed workers, tens of thousands of downtrodden and crushed human beings in this city, but you don't see them at the opera door.

At the grand opening of the season, during the performance of Gioconda, I bethought myself of those scenes at the exits in European cities and dreaded the moment when I must look at haggard careworn and reproachful faces.

BUT at the exit I found myself the only one along with a small army of waiting chauffeurs, footmen, cops and private detectives to watch the glittering parade.

Everybody seemed to be going about his own business. Nobody stared and nobody gasped. Which in a sense I thought rather regrettable. Because there was many a vision worth gazing upon and that in rapt contemplation.

But then staring has not reached that stage of development it has in Europe. In a way this is fortunate. For if we can't manage to do it like the French, who do it with dash and with grace and who have made a fine art of it just as they have of lovemaking, we had better leave it undone and untried.

In Paris it's quite an accomplishment if you know how to lift your monocle or lorgnette just at the exact angle when a striking personality enters cafe, restaurant or cabaret de luxe. It is a compliment to be stared at. For the French demoiselle takes it as a tribute of admiration if you exclaim a long "aaah" at her decollette or when you sigh in a most disconsolate way at the violet tint of her slightly shaded eyes.

Other cities and other peoples, ever anxious and eager to imitate the French, even though they loudly proclaim at the same time their detestation for the French and their loathing for the low moral calibre of the Gallics, have not been able to imitate this fine art of staring and observing without giving offense.

I have seen Prussian officers look at a woman with lifted square monocles, probably thinking that they cut a gallant and striking posture, but that to me appeared so insolent and brutal that I would have blushed if the woman had not done so.

I think Eric Von Stroheim, master of Prussian character impersonation, shows this method in some of his films. With such brutality and glowering insolence mixed with it, staring becomes uncouth, and grossly distasteful.

New York does not stare yet. It merely looks up so far. It is still a little too busy with the rush of business. There are, after all, very few families that have known leisure and the pursuit of pleasure for more than one generation. A hundred years from now perhaps they'll begin to practice staring. I hope our descendants will do it with grace and finesse.

Above I referred to the absence of proletarians at the exits. Bercevici, who looks over my shoulder as I write this, says that they were there all right, but that they were inside, and that you can't tell them apart from the grandees and their donnas.

If he's right, it's a happy situation!

(Copyright, 1925, for The Constitution.)

Glimpses of Hollywood

—BY—
ROSALIND SHAFFER

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—Hollywood was treated to the biggest pictorial thrill of years last Thursday night at Grauman's Egyptian theater. "The Big Parade," King Vidor's screen version of Laurence Stallings' war story, proved an enormous hit at its world premiere.

John Gilbert's portrayal of the American doughboy as he really was with his slang and naughty songs and devotion to comrade and humorous cavilling at whatever turned up struck home with a reality that brought tears to many masculine eyes within this spectator's vision. It seems to be a man's sort of picture.

There is a very interesting story back of the evolution of this picture, "The Big Parade," from an ordinary canned "program picture" into a vehicle which Hollywood fondly expects will take the country by storm.

The picture was begun last spring on a corner of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot as just one of something like twenty routine pictures due to be ground out on schedule in a stipulated number of days' shooting.

But either King Vidor's direction or Jack Gilbert's portrayal of the doughboy who didn't want to enlist or Renee Adoree's work as the French farm girl, or some combination of circumstances struck the attention of some studio executive so heartily that the picture was re-shaped here and there, added to, scenes re-taken, and great effort expended until it emerges from the studio lot as this corporation's bid for great popular favor.

Those inside the screen industry are laying wagers that the picture will win back some of the millions already expended in the making of the yet unfinished "Ben Hur."

* * * *

ALL Hollywood's elite, intelligentsia, chivalry and beauty attended the premiere, fittingly arrayed and the show did not close until after 1 a. m.

The prologue of the picture included a stage review of the greater allied nations and America. Costumes for this pageant were designed by Monsieur Romain de Tirtoff Erte. Great Britain was clothed with a gorgeous costume colored to resemble many waters, ending in a train on which were her domains, studying the oceans of the world. The gown was executed in green and gray, batiked to represent waves. A feudal castle formed an imposing headdress.

Italy was clothed in the national colors with a headdress representing a silver lyre. Her upraised arms instead of hands supported the silver statues of Venus and Apollo.

Belgium was shown with an enormous silver sword piercing her head from the top and issuing from the body at the waist from which blood red color flowed to form the rest of the costume. An overdrape of gold and black symbolized the blond Fleming and dark Walloon and with the red still further symbolized the Belgian colors.

France was shown with her body emerging from a bank of dark clouds into a flaming red glory. An aura surrounded her head with enormous white eagle wings meeting over the red liberty cap.

America was clad in a stream of flowing gold wearing the illuminated headdress of Liberty. An uplifted hand bore a light. She was accompanied by the thirteen original states, clothed in silver, their headdresses each bearing a light. Spectacular trains marked each costume.

This will undoubtedly be the last spectacle offered to Hollywood by Monsieur Erte, for that famous and exotic artist has decided to return to Paris, there to enjoy his art and life at his home outside Paris at Sevres.

His departure was precipitated during the past week by a quarrel with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio heads, and Erte leaves Hollywood with a salvo of criticism at the shapes, dispositions and carriage of many of the screen center's most famous beauties. Before departing Erte stated that he finds American women as a whole rather startling and admitted he found himself sometimes at a loss to create beauty for Hollywood charmers in the way he had been able to do for continental types.

* * * *

BILL HART was in a reminiscent mood on Wednesday afternoon and in going over a drawer full of old photos and clippings unearthed some interesting things. One was a picture of Bill as Messala, the villain in the original production of "Ben Hur" at the Broadway theater in New York in November, 1899. In the same drawer was a picture of Bill as Dan Starke, the westerner, in the original production of "The Barrier" at the Amsterdam theater in New York in February, 1910.

These two pictures are timely in that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayers is at present producing both of these plays with famous men in the roles ornamented by Bill in the past. No less than the stalwart Francis X. Bushman is now playing Messala, the Roman centurion, in "Ben Hur." Lionel Barrymore is playing Dan Starke, the hard-boiled westerner in "The Barrier." Hart's original Barrier cast included another famous movie name, that of Theodore Roberts, the Moses of "The Ten Commandments," as John Gale, the role now being taken by Henry B. Walthall.

A newspaper clipping of the time includes a criticism of Bill's portrayal of "westerns" by none other than the famous western peace officer and eastern sporting authority, Bat Masterson, in which Bat says Bill acted like a westerner instead of like an actor's idea of one. Bat never lived to see Bill become the original "two-gun man" of pictures.

* * * *

AMONG the famous guns that Bill Hart owns, the latest, now eight days in his possession, is the gun once belonging to "Billy the Kid," notorious bad man, with a record of between 25 and 35 killings when justice caught up with him at the age of 22.

Billy de Kid, as he was known, hailed from Second avenue, New York city, in the eighties and went to New Mexico to begin his shootings at the age of sixteen. He became embroiled in the famous Lincoln county cattle wars and was noted for his utter brutality and thirst for murder. He was shot while asleep by peace officers.

The gun recently come into Hart's possession is the one carried by Billy de Kid all through his bloody career and is a .45 caliber single action Colt with a 5 1-2 inch barrel. Two admirers brought it to Bill Hart from New Mexico as a present. The name, "Billy" is engraved on the handle.

Other famous items in the Hart collection are Kit Carson's gun and axehead with the lettering "K. C. N. M. 1861," (Kit Carson, New Mexico, 1861), presented to Bill by the state of Nebraska; the many-notched gun of George W. Pike, a famous gunman of Wyoming, presented by the citizens of Cheyenne; that of the last bad man shot in Dodge City, Neb., and the gun of Al Jennings, reformed bandit and lecturer.

One picture of great interest in Bill's collection is that of the original "Calamity Jane," a woman scout who bunked with men, wore men's clothes, cussed, drank and rode like a man. She was scout for General Crook in the seventies, when Crook was putting down the Apaches. Her facial expression while having her picture "took" explains her fame.

Several of these famous guns were used by Bill in his "Tumbleweeds," which is shortly to be released.

* * * *

MR. AND MRS. FRANK BORZAGE entertained last Sunday with a barbecue in honor of Michael Arlen. The mountainous outdoor scenery of Griffith Park, just overhanging Hollywood, was background for the barbecue which followed a horseback ride through the mountains. Guests included Rudolph Valentino, Bebe Daniels and her mother; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. William Howard, Kathleen Clifford, Leo Illitch, Ray Owens, Roscoe Arbuckle, Marie Mosquini and Rose Doner. Following the barbecue the party was continued at the Borzage home concluding with a dinner party in the evening.

* * * *

ATMOSPHERE sometimes comes high in pictures as witness forty-six trunks and one hundred and eighty-five boxes full brought from Alaska by the "Rocking Moon" company this week. Much of the property was obtained from the Sitka museum, under bond, to be returned. It would be impossible to buy or imitate the things.

Ceremonial masks and heads, one mask of beaten gold with Abalone eyes and teeth and real human hair—totem poles, native jewelry and clothing as well an ancient Russian religious objects are the bulk of the collection.

What the Alimony Grabbers

By Prof. E. R. Groves,

Of Boston University

Professor Groves Explains What Women Will Lose and Gain If a Stop Is Put to the Widespread Practice of Making Divorce a Highly Profitable Business

IN getting equal rights with men American women are losing their special privileges. Many a working woman who returns from her labor at night finds herself standing up in the street car while the men sit, wonders whether her present equal rights are worth as much to her as the courtesies she once received.

Even a woman can not eat her cake and still have it. As she approaches closer to the status of equal opportunity the American woman is discovering that her new position carries with it unexpected liabilities.

Nothing that has happened in recent years has shown that the new order of things means losses as well as gains for the woman so clearly as the recent decision of Judge Strong of the Appellate division of the New York supreme court with reference to alimony.

A woman's right to financial support from her husband when she has successfully divorced him has been taken for granted so long that we have assumed its justice as a matter of course.

Alimony in the first place was an attempt to give protection to the woman who left her husband and under the handicap of her sex tried to make her own way in the world. In those days when matrimony was the only vocation for women it seemed fair that the woman driven from her husband's protection by his misdeeds should receive from him maintenance in proportion to his income as a substitute for the support which he promised her at marriage and which she was now losing through no fault of her own.

Since those days women have gone into competition with man in every kind of industry and matrimony is no longer entered upon by them as a means of support. We have countless women in this country who can earn more than their husbands. It is even true at times that a wife can find employment when her husband can not.

Judge Strong's decision recognizing the new situation, according to the press reports, was expressed in no uncertain terms. "Everything considered," he said, "I believe alimony should be discontinued because it keeps certain women lazy, gratifies their revenge, makes men miserable and serves no good ends."

Now we have Judge H. Taulane, of Philadelphia, following the lead of his New York colleague and making a decision that brings consternation to the professional divorce lawyer. In the case before Judge Taulane the husband was accused of contempt of court for not complying with an order made last November that he pay to his wife $35 counsel fees in her divorce suit against him and also $6 a week alimony pending the outcome of the case.

Everything considered, I believe alimony should be discontinued because it keeps certain women lazy, gratifies their revenge, makes men miserable and serves no good ends.—Justice Strong, of the New York Supreme court, in deciding in favor of a man whose wife had been receiving alimony for five years while failing to press her suit for divorce, begun five years ago

Mrs. Thomas H. Symington, the New York society woman who asked the courts to award her what is believed to be the largest alimony ever demanded — $200,000 a year

Judge Taulane in discharging the husband stated that he believed "that when a woman has been separated from her husband for ten years, as this woman has, and then concludes to sue for divorce, she is not entitled to alimony while her action is pending, regardless of what her allegations may be. It would seem as though she wanted to create a fund to pay the expenses of her suit."

Alimony has so long been the practice of our courts that these two decisions which attempt to do justice to the new relationship of men and women are almost revolutionary. The idea that a woman has a just claim upon her former husband for continued support in the case of a divorce came slowly. Is it to go quickly as a result of the modern changes in the status of men and women?

By the savages women were regarded as merely the property of their husbands and their future maintenance got little consideration from their former masters when they were driven forth.

When a husband among the Ibos of Nigeria decides to divorce his wife he simply orders her to leave the house or pushes her out, throws her a cooking pot and a few of her personal belongings. Leaving her children, who have always been the property of their father, she departs with her basket containing her cooking pot and her few household articles to live as best she can. She is thrown aside like a worn out coat.

If, however, she should find any other man willing to marry her, her original husband immediately demands full dowry money for her from the new candidate for matrimony. Alimony originated to protect women from the cruelty of being divorced at the whim of the husband and being left helpless without means either of protection or support.

The ancient Arabs in their provisions for divorce recognized the need of alimony for the woman and decreed that maintenance should be given "by the wealthy according to his power, and the straitened in circumstances according to his power."

If a Babylonian "put away" his childless wife he had to make good to her the dowry she had brought him and give her a sum of money equal to her marriage settlement; if there were children the divorced wife received also the income of the husband's field, garden and goods to enable her to bring up the children until they were full grown, when the father would give them property, part of which they must give to their mother, who might remarry.

In the early history of the American colonies it was so difficult for either man or wife to be self-supporting without the help of the other that couples who separated were sometimes publicly commanded to take up again their life together, lest either of them become a burden on the community. Often the man was ordered to live with his wife or else give her a definite sum of money, or a certain number of pounds of tobacco or bushels of corn and wheat per year for her maintenance.

In 1699, one southern husband was required to give his wife furniture and clothing and something toward her yearly support, because of her complaint that he was so "cross and cruel" that she must have a home of her own where she would be "secure from danger." Colonies not permitting divorce frequently granted alimony, lest the deserted wife become a public charge.

The allowance of insufficient alimony or failure to enforce the decreed provision was criticized by New Englanders in the middle of the last century as provocative of a marriage system more unlicensed than that of Oriental countries. It was pointed out that whereas in those countries no man may have more wives than he can support, "we relieve our polygamists of the necessity of supporting more than one wife at a time."

It was asserted that men who did not want a second wife sometimes got a divorce simply in order to cut down their expenses, the payment of a slender alimony being far cheaper than the continued support of wife and children.

Are Losing

So long as women were social dependents with no means of support except wifehood, alimony was not only just but a public necessity. No woman, however cruelly treated, would attempt to get a divorce if this left her socially stranded, a candidate for the almshouse. Without the possibility of alimony the right of divorce was a mere farce.

Now that women compete with men in almost every field, why should a wife who has no children and is perfectly capable of earning her own living when she gets a divorce ask the court to order her husband to support her for the rest of her life?

In such cases must we not consider alimony a punishment to be inflicted upon men whose marriage ventures prove unsuccessful—a sort of matrimonial fine?

If alimony is to be a means of penalizing the man whose wedded life goes on the rocks we must expect women who have an eye out for an easy life to seek divorce from a well-to-do husband as a sure and profitable investment. A divorce followed by an edict of the court that the man pay a substantial sum monthly to his former wife's bank account means a safer income than a considerable amount of stocks and bonds.

On the right, Mrs. "Fifi" Stillman, who was awarded $90,000 a year alimony when her husband brought his unsuccessful suit for divorce

Such women, marrying for a profitable divorce, would be willing to endure a few months of matrimonial discord if they had fair hopes of receiving at the end of their marriage prologue a fat alimony as an income for life.

Even when the alimony is sought without mercenary motive, the very fact that the court orders the husband to give a stated sum to his wife when they have separated for some trivial reason makes later reconciliation difficult. It encourages the wife who left in a fit of anger, encouraged perhaps by the shyster brand of lawyer who fattens on the profits of divorce cases, to lock the door in the face of her husband when he is willing to go more than halfway to forget the past and get a second start on the road toward marriage happiness.

As Judge Strong suggests, the revengeful type of woman seeks alimony not because she needs it but because it satisfies her desire for vengeance. She knows better than anybody else how difficult it will be for her husband to make the payments demanded by the court.

If later on her anger cools and she seeks to win back the husband whom she finds after all she still loves, she discovers that the alimony has erected a barrier no affection can climb. She has turned a legal provision for the protection of once defenseless women into a means of getting even, and thus the court instead of administering justice is made the tool of a woman's spite.

If the prospects of alimony were ruled out the professional divorce lawyer would often be less keen in urging a divorce, knowing that even were the decree granted it would not be followed by a series of payments to the wife, a substantial part of which he could expect to fall eventually into his own hands in the form of fees charged for his services.

Anything that decreases the profit of divorce, either for the woman whose only concern is to salt down a goodly pile of the wherewithal for her parasitic life, or for the lawyer who skillfully steers her through the legal obstacles in the way of her purpose, will tend to discourage the adventuress in matrimony and the lawyer who is in the business of handling this form of legal shoddy.

Will the refusal of the court to give alimony to divorced women who have no children and are capable of earning their own living tend to discourage marriage?

Surely not, for the only women likely to be influenced by the new attitude of the court will be those willing to gamble in matrimony with the expectation that their marriage failure can be so highly capitalized as to make it possible for them to spend the rest of their lives in comfort without having to work or to shoulder any responsibilities incident to marriage.

For those who do not seek marriage on a purely commercial basis it will react as a safeguard and lessen the stigma of unavoidable divorce.

Peggy Allenby, the well known actress, who asked for no alimony when she recently divorced her husband and declared her belief that "any woman who takes money from a man she has ceased to love is beneath contempt"

THIRA: BATTLEGROUND OF FIRE AND WATER

Prepared by the National Geographic Society.

THERE is at least one place in the world where a large and clangorous boiler factory would not be unwelcome. On the Greek island called, in recent news dispatches, Santorini, but now officially designated Thira, a visiting observer reports the natives have become so accustomed to being rocked to sleep by the heavy rumblings and rifle-crackings of a newly-active volcano they fear they will suffer from insomnia when it quiets down again. The volcano started its eruption August 1 and will continue, it has been predicted, until next August.

"Thira has been for thousands of years a theater of volcanic activity," says a bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic Society. "The waters of its great bay have boiled and flamed for days, and islands of red-hot matter have risen and disappeared as if controlled by stage machinery.

"At one time Thira was the top of a huge active volcano. It probably owes its present peculiar crescent shape to a tremendous eruption some 35 centuries ago when great gaps were blown in its sides. Another theory is that the mountain mass on which the volcano rested has sunk, leaving only the highest portions of the crater's rim above the surface of the water.

"Volcanic activity in this part of the Aegean is practically a continuous performance, although nothing short of a catastrophe seems to be recorded as an 'eruption.' B. C. 197 is given by some authorities as the date of the first great recorded eruption. There have since been several major outbreaks, causing the appearance and disappearance of certain small islands (not the present one, however) in the center of the crater.

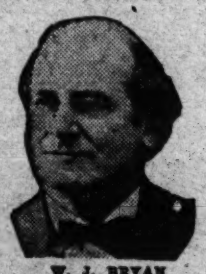
"The number '7' figures largely in the dates chosen by the volcano to be active. Records show eruptions during B. C. 197 and A. D. 726, 1570, 1573, 1707, 1711, 1867 and 1870. During the latter eruption an island arose in the center of the basin to a height of 420 feet. It was named George Crater, for King George Greece.

In His Image

—BY—
WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN

VI. The Value of the Soul

(Continued from Last Sunday)



W. J. BRYAN

BUT I need not dwell upon this, because in this country more than anywhere else in the world we appreciate the dignity of labor and understand that it is honorable to serve. And yet there is room for improvement, for all over our land there are, scattered here and there, young men and young women—and even parents—who still think that it is more respectable for a young man to spend in idleness the money some one else has earned than to be himself a producer of wealth. As long as this sentiment is to be found anywhere there is educational work to be done, for public opinion will never be what it ought to be until it puts the badge of disgrace upon the idler, no matter how rich he may be, rather than upon the man who with brain or muscle contributes to the nation's wealth, the nation's strength and the nation's progress.

But, as I said, the inheritance is an apparent, not an actual, exception, and we will return to the original proposition—that one's earnings must be measured by the service rendered. This is so vital a proposition that I beg leave to dwell upon it a moment longer, to ask whether it is possible to fix in dollars and cents a maximum limit to the amount one can earn in a lifetime.

Let us begin with one hundred thousand dollars. If we estimate a working life at thirty-three and one-third years—and I think this is a fair estimate—a man must earn three thousand dollars per year on an average for thirty-three and one-third years to earn one hundred thousand dollars in a lifetime. I take it for granted that no one will deny that it is possible for one to earn this sum by rendering a service equal to it in value, but what shall we say of a million dollars? Can a man earn that much? To do so he must earn thirty thousand dollars a year for thirty-three and one-third years. Is it possible for one to render so large a service? I believe it is. Well, what shall we say of ten millions? To earn that much one must earn on an average three hundred thousand dollars a year for thirty-three and one-third years. Is it possible for one to render a service so large as to earn so vast a sum? At the risk of shocking some of my radical friends I am going to affirm that it is possible.

May Serve Society.

BUT can one earn a hundred million? Yes, I believe that it is even possible to serve society to such an extent as to earn a hundred million in the span of a human life, or an average of three million a year for thirty-three and one-third years. We have one man in this country who is said to be worth five hundred million. To earn five hundred million one must earn on an average of fifteen million a year for thirty-three and one-third years. Is this within the range of human possibility? I believe that it is. Now, I have gone as high as any one has yet gone in collecting, but if there is any young man here with an ambition to render a larger service to the world, I will raise it another notch, if necessary, to encourage him. So almost limitless are the possibilities of service in this age that I am not willing to fix a minimum to the sum a man can honestly and legitimately earn.

Not only do I believe that one can earn five hundred million, but I believe that men have earned it.

In this and other countries many in public life might be mentioned, for even in politics men have great opportunities, which, if rightly improved, enable them to render incalculable service to their fellowmen.

But let us go outside of politics. What shall we say of the man who gave to the world a knowledge of the use of steam and revolutionized the transportation of the globe? How much did he earn? And the man who brought down lightning from the clouds and imprisoned it in a slender wire so that it lights our homes, draws our traffic across the land and carries our messages under the sea; what did he earn? And what of the man who showed us how to hurl our messages thousands of miles through space without the aid of wires? And how much did the man earn who taught us how to wrap the human voice around a little cylinder so that it can be laid away and echo throughout the ages?

Example of Inventions.

Take a very recent invention, the gasoline engine. It has already given us the automobile and the flying machine, and heaven only knows what yet may come with that gasoline engine. My first ride in an automobile was taken in the campaign of 1896; since then something like seventeen million automobiles have been brought into use.

Have you thought of the value of the ice machine? In Apalachicola, Fla., they have erected a little monument to a former citizen, Dr. John Gorry. A statue of him will be found in the capitol at Tallahassee, and the state of Florida has put another in the Hall of Fame at Washington. Out of his brain came the idea that made it possible for the world to have ice today without regard to the temperature outside. What did Gorry earn when he gave the world the ice machine?

When I first visited the patent office at Washington I saw a model of the first sewing machine. On it was a card on which was written:

"Mine are sinews superhuman,
Ribs of brass and nerves of steel;
I'm the iron needle woman,
Born to toil but not to feel."

What did the man earn who gave the world a sewing machine?

These are only a few of the great inventions. Let us take up another group. To show how wide is the field of measureless endeavor, I call attention to the work of scientists. Who will measure the value of anesthetics in the treatment of disease and injury? What of vaccination and the labors of Pasteur? Who will estimate the value of the service rendered by the man who gave us a remedy for typhoid? In 1898 hundreds died of typhoid fever in the little army that was raised for the war with Spain—twenty-seven of my regiment died of that disease. Now we have a remedy so complete that of the nearly a million men who reached the battle-line in France not one died of typhoid, and only one hundred and twenty-five of the four millions called to the colors.

Cannot Estimate Service.

Have you tried to estimate the service rendered by Reed, who, in finding a remedy for yellow fever, made the tropics habitable and made it possible for the United States to add the Panama Canal to our great achievements?

But the field is larger still. Raikes established a Sunday school and now we have Sunday schools all over the world; Williams organized a Young

(Continued On Page 17.)

Things New and Old About the Bible

BY REV. W. P. KING
Pastor First Methodist Church, Gainesville, Ga.

The Theistic Theory of the Universe.

W. P. KING

THE arguments used in this discussion for the existence of God are the Ontological, the Cosmological, the Teleological, the Anthropological, and Moral Argument from history, the Argument of Consensun Gentium or Universal instinct of humanity, the Argument from the Person of Jesus Christ, and the argument from Spiritual Experience. This eight-fold Argument for Theism is our reason for the faith that is in us.

Theism is the doctrine that the universe owes its existence and continuousness in existence to the reason and will of a self-existent Being who is infinitely powerful, wise and good. It is only through the divine revelation which is claimed by Theism that we can come to a satisfying conception of the character of God.

It must be admitted, however, that our faith in the God of intelligence and love whom Christ reveals would be unstable if there were nothing in the world to verify it.

Even J. S. Mill admits, "It must be allowed that in the present state of our knowledge the adaptations in nature afford a large probability in favor of Creation by intelligence."

Dr. W. N. Rice writes: "Though making no approach to demonstration, the argument from design, as it may be reconstructed in adaptation to any evolutionary conception of nature does establish a real probability for the existence of a personal God. Its stress must be laid not on particular details of adaptation, but on the general aspect of law and formable order pervading all nature, the intellectuality inwrought into the unconscious material world. The book which we can read and understand we may reasonably infer was written by an intelligence kindred with our own. But the acceptance of any conclusion sustained only by probable reasoning depends largely on subjective conditions. No man is likely to believe in merely probable evidence a proposition which too strongly antagonizes his own feelings and prejudices. To the fine and reverent mind the idea of Superior Goodness as the all-pervading all-animating soul of the universe appears intrinsically probable. But the soul that is too proud to do anything, or too sensual to be in love with purity, sees no God in nature."

But if man is entirely dependent for his idea of religion on an outer revelation, then he must have what Schelling calls "An original atheism of consciousness."

The theistic faith is broadbased on manifold rational grounds, not only on the evidence which nature affords, but on the nature of man, and on the divine revelation which culminates in Jesus Christ.

Since God is not demonstrated as a mathematical proposition, there always remains the possibility of doubt, however strong the probabilities are for the being and activity of God.

Furthermore the religious faith and sense of God did not spring out of a process of reasoning for the existence of God, but the process of reasoning was used as a confirmation of the age-long and universal aspiration after God. Man reaches this more or less certain confirmation of his faith in the personality and intelligence of God through a variety of considerations:

1. Man's theistic faith results from his power to rationally interpret the universe.

HE proceeds with confidence in powers of perception and reason and finds that the world responds to this trust. The power of man's mind to interpret the universe implies a mind in the universe which is interpretable. He finds definite and intelligible laws in chemistry, and mathematics and in the movement of the planets and the stars.

He discovers that the laws of geometry are already in his own mind. It was this which led Aristotle to say, "God geometrizes."

Dr. W. N. Clark writes: "If there was no Mind in the universe before man, two wonderful things happened. Man, a part and product of the system, grew up greater than that which had produced him, with a power of understanding that had never existed anywhere before; and man when he had thus come, was able to read in the world vast and continuous meanings rational to him, which had never been put into the world by any mind or power whatever, and had never even been thought of until he discovered them. Man, in fact, was in that case the first being that ever thought."

2. Closely related to this is faith in the Supreme Intelligence back of all phenomena through the idea of cause. It is an axiom of science that every effect must have a sufficient cause. The existence of ourselves, the existence of the universe must have for explaining them a sufficient cause.

If the universe began to exist at some point in time, there must have been a cause sufficient to have produced it. If the universe is itself eternal, then the cause would not be antecedent in time, but there would be the underlying cause which moulds it in ever-changing forms, and in its progressive unfolding. Since as has been observed there is the manifestation of mind in the world of nature; we are not attributing a sufficient cause unless we assume the causation of the mind.

3. There is then manifest in the world the presence of purpose. The old argument from design has been modified by modern science so that we can not hold narrowly to this argument from particular adaptation. But design defects in the old form of reasoning the presence of purpose goes back of all particular forms and adaptations, and shows the purpose and power of adaptation which belongs to the very structure of the ultimate atoms.

The larger, grander conception of purpose is seen in the progress of nature towards man, the crown of creation, intelligent, moral, spiritual, with an apparently endless capacity for intellectual and spiritual progress.

4. The religious nature of man gives evidence of a personal God.

"Man is incurably religious."

Theism affirms that man's moral consciousness is reliable. We can not believe that God speaks the truth to us through our senses and through our reason, and that the verdict of our higher nature is false. This leads us to the trilemma that God is good or God is bad, or there is no God. Between the last two we would prefer no God at all.

Our reasoning had led us to a belief in God as the most reasonable solution of our world, so that we can not

(Continued on Page 19.)

Broadway Banter : : : :

—BY—
FORNEY WYLY

IT was inevitable that sooner or later there'd be a musical comedy called "The Florida Girl." It was just a question of who would do it first. And it is not surprising that Mr. Earl Carroll, of "Earl Carroll's Vanities" should beat the others to it, for this Mr. Carroll may always be depended upon to give the public what it wants—and will pay for.

As far as I could detect, there was no especial reason why this particular show was called "The Florida Girl." True there were any number of orange trees scattered about the lobby of the theatre. Then, too, all of the scenes were laid in Florida, but as far as the plot was concerned, Dakota (either North or South) would have done just as well. As incredible as it may seem, never once was "Florida real estate" mentioned. Even at that, however, this musical comedy is entirely up-to-date, for besides having "Florida" in its title, everybody in it at one time or another does the "Charleston." I can't for the life of me understand how "radios" and "cross-word puzzles" managed to keep out of this show.

"The Florida Girl" is a very enjoyable musical absurdity. It has two very good pieces of music, "Oh, You" and "Lady of My Heart." Many a foot is going to be stepped on to the strains of "Oh You." Lester Allen, as the featured comedian, is extremely funny. Vivienne Segal, recently prima donna of "Ziegfeld Follies" portrays most entrancingly what might be termed "the heroine." "The Florida Girl" has quite a plot, but I never got head nor tail of what it was all about. It isn't at all necessary at a musical show, anyway.

You may no longer have any Lyric theatre to go to on Monday nights, but that's not the state of affairs here. For during the midst of the Monday night performance I saw of "The Florida Girl" at the New York Lyric, it suddenly dawned on me it was only one week previous I had seen at the self-same playhouse, the now-departed but not particularly missed "Holka Polka."

Nora Stirling, Atlanta girl (sister of Alexa Stirling) and Wilfred Seagrave as they appear in "The School for Scandal" at The Little Theater

* * * *

AT the Ritz, Julia Dodd Adair and Nellie Dodd Orme have recently been enrolled. When I saw the peppy Nellie, she was looking almost as fetching in her new mink coat as she used to in her snappy henna dolman, kolinski scarf and jaunty black sailor. Mrs. Orme chances to be the one person of my acquaintance who is invariably guilty of "good manners." When a hostess invites the former Miss Dodd to any of her soirees, she knows here at least is one guest who on departing will not forget to say, "Really, Mrs. Bozo, I've n-e-v-e-r had a better time. Such a l-o-v-e-l-y party. Remember me to Mr. Bozo."

In the Plaza I encountered Jennie Robinson, Mary Ellen Mellon and Mrs. Robinson. While talking to Jennie, her date, William Farnell, prominent bachelor of New York society, arrived on the scene.

William E. Campbell, Jr., I ran into on Broadway recently. The sight of Mr. Campbell, Jr., made me wonder what his mother, Mrs. William E. "Lulu" Campbell, Sr., was doing with herself on Tuesday afternoons since her first-row seats at the Lyric were literally torn down from under her.

I am almost positive I espied Dr. Latta on Fifth avenue the other day. Who of those who attended will ever forget the brilliant ball he gave for the debutantes a few years ago at his residence, the Georgian Terrace? It was, I think, the year during which the former Wilmotine Perdue steered the Debutante Club wherever it wanted to go.

* * * *

"THE SCHOOL FOR SCANDAL" is being given a thoroughly charming revival at the equally charming Little theater. This particular theater will always be a favorite of mine, for as I told you last spring, it is here that "free" tea and sandwiches are served to starving patrons during the intermissions. I have yet to see the attraction which does not look better to me on a full-er yes.

Now Mrs. Samuel Insull, the star of "The School for Scandal," chances to be one of Chicago's undisputed social leaders. It might be said Mrs. Insull is Chicago's Julia Hoyt, if it weren't for the fact that Mrs. Insull can act. What should be more appropriate, therefore, than that Maria in this well-known play should be enacted by the equally talented and socially prominent Nora Stirling of your city? In fact, I had the feeling that if only Esmonde Brady had been

(Continued On Page 19.)

Among Us Georgians : : :

—BY—
W. C. WOODALL

FRANK L. STANTON, beloved southern poet, got his journalistic start at Smithville, Ga. As editor of The Smithville News, his bright paragraphs, often scintillating with quaint humor, and in their essence always true to the soil, attracted wide attention. Every Monday morning The Atlanta Constitution reproduced a large collection of Mr. Stanton's paragraphs and human-interest sketches, and his witty sayings were quoted quite regularly by "Judge" and "Puck," which was recognition, indeed, for a modest Georgia editor. Being quite human—and Mr. Stanton has never lost that lovable and thoroughly engaging human quality of his—he enjoyed it.

About that time Mr. Stanton, then among the most widely quoted of the Georgia writers, went up to Macon on a visit, stopping at the old Brown House. He tells quite humorously of his experience there, or lack of experience, just as you would term it. There was no use keeping the public in the dark as to the particular Stanton that was then depositing his luggage at the Brown House, he reflected, and so in an accommodating spirit and in order to give full information he registered thusly and fully: "F. L. Stanton, editor-in-chief, The Smithville News." The clerk assigned him to a room without a word of comment, rather to his surprise.

The young editor didn't know exactly what form his official welcome to Macon would take, whether the members of the Chamber of Commerce would call in a body, or the citizens would drop by informally and deliver in spirit, if not in reality, the keys to the city. An hour or so passed, and nothing whatever happened.

Strolling up to the clerk, Mr. Stanton asked, in quite a casual way:

"Any one—er—made any inquiries for me?"

"I don't recall any one," said the clerk, politely. "Were you expecting any one, Mr. Stanton?"

"Why, not especially," replied the noted editor of The Smithville News, a bit embarrassed.

"It was a most astounding thing," said Mr. Stanton, speaking with that gentle humor of his, mellowed and enriched by time, "but do you know not a single person called for me or commented on the fact that the editor-in-chief of The Smithville News was in town. I pondered over it all the way back to Smithville and reflected, How short and fleeting is fame!"

There was to come a time, of course, when Frank L. Stanton's visit to Macon or to any other southern city would be a news item, and when the reporters would seek him out for an interview—but not yet.

Mr. Stanton is not a prophet or even a poet without honor in his own country, for his fame at Smithville, his old home, is imperishable; the fact that he lived there is one of two distinctions which set Smithville apart from other Georgia towns and give it a station as unique as it is glorious. Two things make Smithville famous: It is the old home of Frank L. Stanton and it has a hotel that serves chicken in some form (usually fried) 365 days in the year!

BEFORE long the natural, almost inevitable, thing happened: Mr. Stanton and his talent were drawn to Atlanta. His connection with The Atlanta Constitution marked the beginning of the "Just From Georgia" column, one of the most famous and widely quoted columns in America. As his talent found free and full expression in this friendly and congenial atmosphere, and his audience constantly enlarged and was more and more appreciative until he and his column became a national institution, there came the natural development of his powers of poesy and of that quaint, gentle stingless humor that give his writings the universal appeal. Almost overnight, as it were, he became one of the best-known of the American contemporary poets, and before long he was to gain world-wide recognition.

But this is not a sketch of Mr. Stanton or even an appreciation of his wonderful poetic gifts and his ability to catch and translate into words the beautiful, the wonderful and the mystic in life; whole books have been written on that subject. We are touching, just lightly, on some experiences of Mr. Stanton's that jostled his own funny-bone even at an age when he was apt to regard everything, including himself, more seriously than he does now.

About that time Mr. Stanton made a trip to Chicago. He was then widely quoted and various Chicago newspapers were republishing his poems regularly. In a literary way his name had become a household word.

He registered at a Chicago hotel and watched the expression on the clerk's face closely when the young man read: "Frank L. Stanton, Atlanta, Ga." Rather to his surprise he did not change countenance in the slightest. Instead of exclaiming, "Why, it is an honor, indeed, to have you with us, Mr. Stanton, he asked briskly:

"Will you have a room with a bath, sir?"

"The question sounded awfully pointed—almost personal—to me at the moment," confessed Mr. Stanton, with one of his gentle smiles. "Instead of being given a special welcome to Chicago I was asked, rather significantly, it struck me at the time, if I did not want—and need—a bath. I followed the gentleman's suggestion and took a room with all the trimmings."

* * * *

THE World's Exposition was in progress when Mr. Stanton visited Chicago. In truth he was more interested in meeting and talking with Eugene Field than seeing the big show.

To the hotel clerk, who was still utterly unmoved in the living, breathing presence of one of the south's most talked about poets, he said:

"I am going to have today an experience I have long looked forward to—I am going to meet Eugene Field."

"Field, Field?" said the clerk, politely enough, but a bit puzzled. "I don't believe I call him to mind."

Mr. Stanton did not have the heart to enlighten him, but left for the Chicago News building. The famous poet had then been on the staff of that Chicago paper for years; his column,

(Continued On Page 19.)

Describing An Ideal Man

—BY—
DORIS BLAKE

Film Stars Reveal the Qualities That Make or Break Prince Charming

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—The film hero isn't always the hero they'd ask for in private life, one learns in confidential chats with the fair heroines.

Eleanor Boardman says she does not like handsome men. They're usually conceited and therefore uninteresting. Against the actor one senses from these confidences a prejudice, except for those of marked ability as actors and who, in addition, succeed in making themselves men first, actors afterward.

"There's something unnatural about these able-bodied members of the male sex with their faces made up and stage costumes on working daytime hours," is the gist of several first hand confessions of feminine co-workers. "Kinda hard on the male screen darlings," they admit, "since you can't have a love story without them in it. But acting, makeup, and costumes seem more the woman's by natural right."

You'd think here in this land of romance, too, with so many males on casting directors' lists, the problem of men for dancing parties and the gayer hours would be eliminated. It seemingly is not.

"Where have we a chance to meet nice young men?" I have heard not once but a number of times in my brief stay here. "The nice men are happily married," they add.

"Girls in the business world have better opportunities of meeting the worthwhile young men," one of the girls said to me. "Their hours are easier for romance than ours. We're here one day, in another part of the globe another. We make better salaries, unfortunately for romance, than the worthwhile young men of our age and that counts us out with them right from the start. They think we are incapable of sacrifices that a young man's salary would naturally demand.

"It's hard to make them believe love might make sacrifices as easy for us as for any other girl. They think we have become used to luxuries that they can not afford to provide for us. And that's why you find some mighty lonely poor little rich girls right here in this so-called romantic colony."

The speaker is young, pretty, and a success of a few years' standing. Sitting in her luxurious home one could readily imagine the utter chagrin of a youthful suitor who would hope to be able to tell her father he would try to give her the things to which she was accustomed. So it isn't all honeysuckle and orange blossoms for the high-salaried girls. Rather a tragic little twist to the Cinderella stories, with not enough Prince Charmings to go around, think you not?

But that does not prevent the fair ones from dreaming dreams of what their P. C.'s might be like.

Sally O'Neill says nothing short of a real fighting Irishman is going to make her happy. He won't have to bring her candy when he comes to call. Neither does she want a black eye. Flowers will serve as a prettier token of esteem. Her Irishman won't have to buy her diamonds. Pearls are what she prefers, and young boys to dance with until the stalwart Emerald-Isler puts the run on them.

Norma Shearer also would like her man to tell it with roses. Pink roses! She rather favors the man well come of age, as young men have a smart line of talk that is hard to live up to. Besides, the older man's interests are broader and his talk therefore more interesting. She doesn't like a man who is so clever he wants to hog the atmosphere for the entire evening. But they're all so attractive, though, Miss Norma believes in chaperons to protect her and save her for the One Bright Star of her destiny.

BEBE DANIELS.

Aileen Pringle emphatically does not like the virile, outdoor, muscular, athletic male who lets no shining opportunity pass to boast of his physical prowess. She likes them not effeminate, but gentle, charming, brilliant—longer on brain exercise than muscle, so to speak. If she herself were athletic, she admits she might feel differently toward these great outdoor examples. But as these big muscled ones are always so full of themselves and what they can do with a golf stick or boxing gloves, she is willing to resign their companionship in favor of some one who doesn't leave you to look out for yourself.

Bebe Daniels will take hers well mannered. She dislikes thoroughly men who talk loudly in public places and create scenes to attract attention. He doesn't have to know all the rules

(Continued On Page 20.)

Sunday Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

Three Old Cat Tales.

WELL, I got off lucky, after the last reference to the superstition about cats "sucking the breath" of children. Only one scathing rebuke, as nearly as I can make it out, and three perfectly calm, ladylike tales, and all by the principals, not hearsay stories.

Here they are, though my own reaction to these testimonies is that I think more of our old cat now than I did before, for it seems to me that cats are blamed for many things of which they are quite innocent.

R. P. B. squares off and says:

I want you and "B. J. N." to meet a man who has seen a cat take the breath away from a child.

(How-de-ya-do, Sir. B. J. N., shake hands with Mr. ————er, oh, yes, Mr. Myopia.)

Here are the facts I vouch for. My little niece aged two years was taking her noon nap in a room I wished to enter. Very carefully I opened the door and stepped in.

(My, old chap, excuse me for interrupting, but what a shame that room could not have been hermetically sealed or at least locked securely on the inside.)

I saw the child flat on its back—

(On the cat's back? Oh, just so.)

—flat on its back breathing with great difficulty and on its breast was a kitten about ten months old with its muzzle inserted in the child's mouth clear up to its eyes (the cat's eyes, probably.) I drove the cat off and the child recovered its breathing to a great degree, but there was still a flutter in its breath which in an older person would call snoring.

(Watson, hand me my pipe and cannister and throw another log on the fire, like a good fellow. Yes, yes, go on, Myopia.)

I stood very quietly—

(Unfortunately this was at noon. By rights it should have happened around midnight.)

And saw the cat jump again on the bed and stealthily—

(A note of that, my dear Watson. This cat certainly presents some bizarre traits. Stealthiness in an elephant or a leaping lena might be overlooked, but in a cat it cannot fail to arouse interest.)

Stealthily crawl up on the child and again insert its mouth in the child's mouth. I then put the cat out of the room as I was sure of the facts. From what I saw I feel sure that the child was rapidly reaching coma and might not have the instinct or strength to push the cat off before death. It would have been strangled to death very shortly (the child, if not the cat.)

(Watson, look up the trains to Sussex. We'll run down and look Mr. Myopia's catastrophe over.)

Mrs. R. L. now takes the stand and testifies:

For the benefit of B. J. N. I wish to say that I was eye-witness and victim at about seven years of age. When I awoke, the cat's front feet were on my chest, and its mouth directly over mine. It was making a purring sound and lifting its feet one at a time, breathing in time with me. I was not unconscious but I was very stupid and unable to speak plainly. It was several hours before I was normal again. Had I not awakened, I don't know what the result would have been.

It is not difficult to imagine what the result would have been had Mrs. R. L. not awakened. Just one less nightmare story.

The reader will notice the free play R. P. B. allows his imagination in his prognosis of what would have been the fate of the child had he not rescued the child in the nick of time. Here we have a good insight into the Construction of Cat Tales. That is the way a great many absurd superstitions are built up, such as the one about the third down in drowning accidents or the one about pneumonia "threatening" after a wetting.

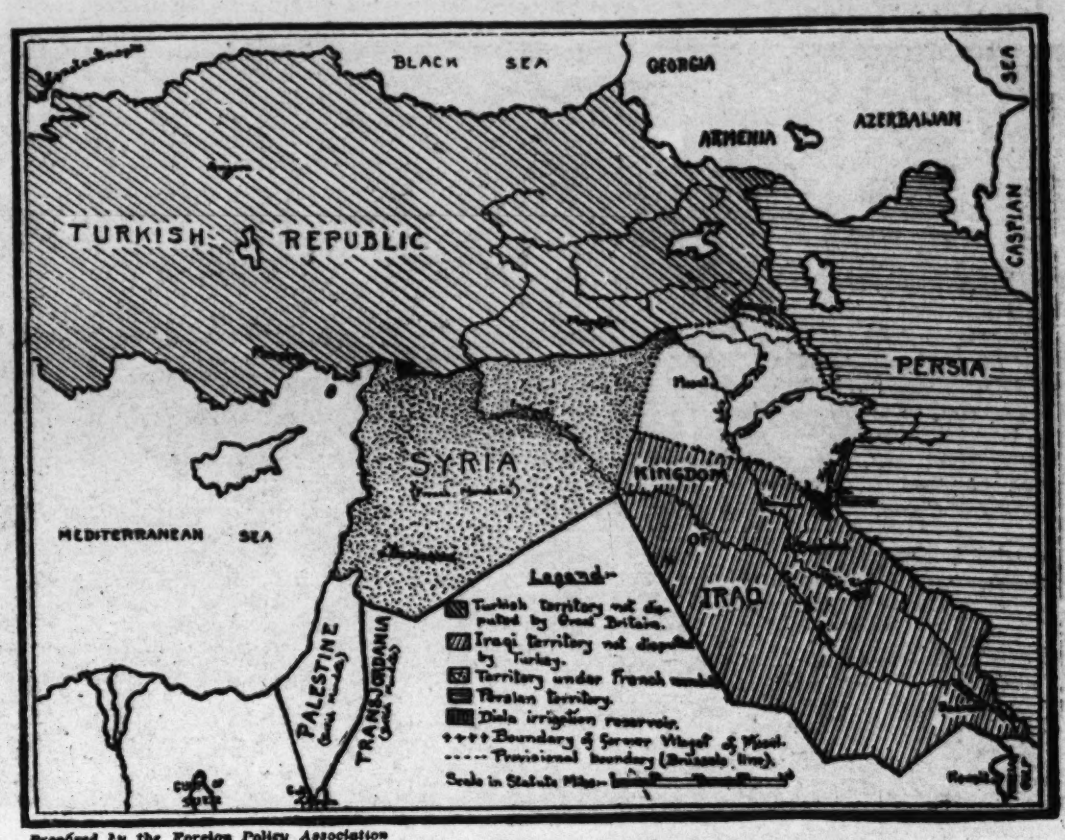
Another Near East Trouble-Point

Turco-Iraq Boundary Dispute Now Perplexing the Diplomats of Great Britain and Turkey

THE final disposition of the Vilayet of Mosul, whose 35,000 square miles of territory are claimed by both Turkey and Great Britain, is one of the perplexing questions remaining to be settled in the Near East.

The tension existing between Great Britain and Turkey pending the decision of the league of nations in the matter of the Iraq boundary is a token of the importance attached by both governments to the outcome of the dispute. To British policy it is essential that the mandated territory of Iraq should have the economic and stragetic advantages entailed by the possession of Mosul. Mosul is the granary of Mesopotamia. Its reputed wealth in oil reserves has caused British oil promoters to regard the Vilayet as a prize of special worth. Furthermore its northern mountain ranges provide what Great Britain believes to be an indispensable bulwark for the last section of the Palestine-Transjordanio-Iraq route to India, which it wishes to make invulnerable. With Mosul in Turkish hands the security of the route would be threatened.

In disputing British claims to the Vilayet of Mosul the Turkish government is attempting to fulfill a solemn pledge entered into in 1920 when the national pact was adopted by the first Ottoman nationalist parliament. Other promises made at that time have already been fulfilled. The capitulations have been abolished; Cilicia has been recovered. But Mosul still remains in the actual possession of Great Britain. The former cession of the Vilayet, believed by Turks to be an integral part of their country would involve a grave loss of prestige to the Turkish nationalist party whose popularity has thus far depended in large measure on its phenomenal successes in international negotiations. It is the determination to retain that prestige and to fulfill the promises of 1920 which has actuated the Turkish government in the dispatching of troops to the neighborhood of the provisional Iraq boundary, and in the unexpected action taken by its representative at recent negotiations in Geneva.



Prepared by the Foreign Policy Association

SKETCH MAP ILLUSTRATING IRAQ BOUNDARY DISPUTE

The Dispute At Lausanne.

The controversy first assumed grave proportions at the Lausanne conference, (November, 1922-July, 1923, when representatives of the allies and of Turkey met to formulate permanent peace terms. The feeble Constantinople government had been forced by the treaty of Sevres (1920) to renounce the Vilayet of Mosul; but that treaty had from its inception been held invalid by the nationalists, and at Lausanne their representative vigorously supported the nationalist demand that the Vilayet of Mosul be reunited with Anatolia.

The Turkish and British governments reciprocally undertook that pending the decision to be reached on the subject of the frontier no military or other movement would take place which might modify in any way the present state of the territories involved in the controversy.

At the Constantinople conference, (May 19-June 9, 1924) direct negotiation failed and after July 5 the dispute went before the league. In

(Continued On Page 20.)

A True Story of the Georgia Mountains

By CARL J. WELLBORN
(For The Constitution)

JUST north of where Georgia's great Scenic Highway, so generously promoted by The Atlanta Constitution, crosses the Blue Ridge mountains at Needle Gap, there occurred a few years ago a tragedy so intermingled with romance as indelibly stamped it upon the memory of many people yet living in that section, and was the real beginning of a sentiment in favor of law enforcement that has grown stronger with the passing years.

I refer to the murder of John H. Lance, and the incidents connected therewith, the truth of which may be easily verified by communicating with any of the older citizens in that section of the mountains.

This story verifies the old adage, "Truth is stranger than fiction."

John H. Lance was a typical Georgia mountaineer, born and reared in the section where he met his tragic death. He was a "local preacher," earnest and honest. Of stalwart frame, with long hair and flowing beard, he would attract attention in any throng. He wore a "home-made" brown jeans suit, the cloth for which was woven by his good wife upon the old family loom that stood in a little outbuilding near his cabin home. The coat was a "Prince Albert," with two rows of brass buttons, clipped from an old army coat, running down the front. The wool from which this suit was made was sheered from his flock of sheep which ran wild in the surrounding hills.

In a cove near the point where the new highway crosses "Wolf Creek" on the north side of the mountain, Lance had erected his little cabin home. Here, surrounded by the mountains he loved so well, he lived the quiet and happy life of the real mountaineer, until a serpent entered his Garden of Eden, in the form of a "moonshine distillery." In the mouth of a mountain gulch a short distance above Lance's home, two men, known as Tom Swaim and Fred Canup, began making whisky with a "wildcat still," and so open and flagrant became their defiance of the law, that Lance decided it must cease. Consequently, he boldly called on them at their place of business and informed them that unless they removed their plant at once, he should report the matter to the federal authorities in Atlanta. The men became very indignant, and defied Lance to interfere with them at his peril.

ON a beautiful Sunday morning following this visit and interview with the two "moonshiners," the Rev. Lance left his cabin to attend a little Sunday school he had organized some miles away across the hills. It was the month of May—the mountain air was redolent with the perfume of the laurel and the ivy which were in full bloom, while the "dogwood" bushes gleamed like huge balls of snow against the green of the mountain sides.

After attending his Sunday school he started his return journey to his cabin home.

At this time there was no road across Neels Gap, only a mountain trail running along the bluff above Wolf Gap. While walking along this trail, at a point where the road now crosses this creek, Lance was struck in the head by some one, his body being knocked from the bluff into the waters of the noisy little stream flowing below. His assailants jumped upon his defenseless body, and cut his throat, entirely severing his head from the trunk. Here, after completing their dastardly work they had left the body partly submerged in the water, where it was found later in the afternoon by his devoted wife.

The country was aroused and a messenger sent to Blairsville, the county seat, for the sheriff and coroner. At an inquest which followed a very strong case of circumstantial evidence was developed against young Frank Swaim, a son of one of the men interested in the "moonshine distillery." Without going into particulars, suffice it to say that Frank Swaim was arrested charged with the crime, and after a trial was convicted and given a life sentence in the penitentiary. At this time Frank was a mere boy, only 19 years of age. He had married a year before his conviction and was the father of a baby girl. He was passionately devoted to his wife and child. After his sentence he was carried from the little county jail at Blairsville, to the coal mines in Dade county to spend the remainder of his life at hard labor.

AFTER a few heart-broken years, the girl wife emigrated to the newly opened territory of Oklahoma. This was the last Frank heard from her for many long, weary years.

It is truthfully said that "Murder will out." In a lonely cabin in the great Smokey mountains of East Tennessee, a man lay dying. Upon being informed of his desperate plight, he begged that an officer might be sent for and before he died he made and signed a confession in which he stated that he and not Frank Swaim, was the murderer of John H. Lance, and that he killed him to prevent his betrayal of the moonshine still in which he was interested. This man was Fred Canup.

The writer, being furnished with the facts, presented them to Governor Allen D. Candler, who immediately granted Frank a pardon, and armed with the order for his release I at once went to the coal mines to carry him the glad tidings. Possessed of a small sum of money, that he had earned by extra labor during his long confinement, he left at once for the great west in search of the wife and child he had parted with at the prison doors nineteen years before. He finally found them in Oklahoma, but how different the reality from the picture his imagination had so often painted during the long nights in his lonely prison cell. He found the girl wife now a middleaged matron, who after a few years' struggle with poverty, had married a prosperous ranchman. His baby girl had also married and was herself the mother of baby girl. This was the pathetic homecoming that greeted him, but not for long. The ranchman to whom she was married, realizing that her heart yearned for the boy husband of the Georgia mountains, secured a divorce in order that she might return to him.

They are today respected citizens of the great state of their adoption, the grim tragedy in which they played such an important part being only a memory—a horrid nightmare that lasted for nineteen years.

Is Man the Most Stupi

Curious old print showing a drunken row at a fashionable London night club of 100 years ago and illustrating what Professor Richet thinks one of man's worst stupidities—his fondness for alcohol

A Famous French P Reasons for Beli Show Less In The Lowe Reall

CHARLES RICHET, the great French physiologist who won the Nobel Prize for physiology in 1913, has drawn up a terrific indictment of mankind.

Man, he contends, is infinitely more stupid than the lower animals, because man is the only one among the living species that willfully creates his own misery, that wages senseless wars, practices torture upon himself and others, believes in absurd superstitions, poisons himself with alcohol and other stimulants and narcotics, bows down before insolent and imbecile kings and resists all knowledge and ideas that make for progress and betterment.

The descent of man, according to Professor Richet, is a real descent and not an evolution to a higher state of being. The present state of civilization he calls a ghastly failure. We are not superior to the apes and monkeys and other so-called lower animals, but really inferior to them in common sense.

Professor Richet has set forth his indictment of mankind in a book which he calls "Idiot Man or the Follies of Mankind." Instead of designating man as Homo Sapiens (Wise Man), Professor Richet says that man should be called Homo Stultus (Stupid Man).

"Far be it from me," Professor Richet says, "to underestimate human reason. Here and there, in spite of his enormous mistakes, the human being furnishes us with some proofs of intelligence. He has fire; he has language which permits of abstract ideas; he has clothes, buildings, towns, libraries, museums and schools. And a few great minds have emerged from the brutish herd. Therefore man is not destitute of reason.

"But this very reason, instead of being an argument against his stupidity, is a terrific proof of it. To have reason and be unreasonable is much more serious than to lack the faculty of reasoning.

"To persecute Galileo because he said the earth revolved shows some intelligence, but a vitiated intelligence, far more vitiated than that of a shark. The hungry shark rushes ferociously upon the first thing he sees, but he would never be stupid enough to consider Galileo a criminal.

"To take grapes, press them, extract the flowing juice, ferment it, place it in a still on a fire, collect and distil the steam, pour it into multi-colored glass bottles and distribute it cleverly among countless thousands of people is an undeniable proof of intelligence. Neither rabbits, cats, nor even monkeys, could do as much as this. Yet all this intelligence ends in futility. This flood of alcohol simply preverts the remnant of reason in thousands of people, vitiates their blood and dislocates their nervous system. It would be far better, like rabbits, cats and monkeys, to be ignorant of the distiller's art.

"Let us start with the question of kings. It does very little credit to human intelligence. In the good old days a king, in his boundless power, had the right of life and death over millions of subjects, who were his chattels from his cradle. And, as he was surrounded by a troop of sturdy, unscrupulous, armed retainers, he could even compel millions of people to toil for years on his palace or his tomb.

"JULIUS CAESAR and Napoleon were exceptional beings, 'Sports'; but most of the monarchs who took them for models were devoid of talent, intelligence and virtue, admittedly inferior to the most mediocre, of their subjects; ugly like Louis XI, vicious like Louis XV, libertines like Henry VIII ,madmen like Caligula, cowards like Nero, cruel like Peter the Great, unbalanced like Charles XII. Their authority was no more dependent on their merits than the flowering of the apple blossom depends upon the migration of herrings.

"This absolute subjection to one master would be extravagant enough if he were a great man; a Pascal; a Rembrandt, a Leonardo da Vinci; a Galileo; a Columbus; a Leibnitz, a Kant; a Hugo. But in reality not one of these noble spirits has ever had any share of power. They have been men of genius —merely that—and as such they have remained isolated among the blind and ignorant mob. The boundless stupidity of human communities has denied them any authority, while idolizing the half-witted.

"Among this slavish, blind, ignorant mob, which was the humanity of the past and few grea time to ahead of new trut tered lig shadows

"Thes genius a rewarde what his

"Jesu

Bare knees and fur garters in winter—a ridiculous modern fashion fad which many think an excellent example of man's stupidity

The the lo specie pointe so fo ape t in dr havio girls to w forgi poor mise

pid of All Creatures? ::

h Philosopher Gives His Surprising Believing That Human Beings s Intelligence Than Any of Lower Animals and Are Really "Super-Fools"

The females of the lower animal species are, it is pointed out, not so foolish as to ape the male sex in dress and behavior as the two typically modern girls shown in this photograph are doing past and is the humanity of today, a few great minds have appeared from time to time, serene and adventurous, ahead of their generation, discovering new truths, loving justice; pale scattered lights which dimly illuminate 'the shadows of our night.'

"These benefactors, great in their genius and daring have no doubt been rewarded by their fellows? Let us see what history says.

"Jesus Christ, that tender mystic soul to whom hatred was unknown, taught forgiveness of trespasses, pity for the poor and suffering and the equality of miserable men before the Heavenly Father. New doctrines these, which ought to have changed the face of the world. Well! Jesus Christ was condemned to a painful and ignominous death."

Professor Richet goes on to cite that Christopher Columbus escaped torture by a miracle and died in poverty and exile; Galileo, who invented the thermometer and the telescope, was forced to bow to stupidity and drag out his last days, blind, in a prison cell; Gutenberg, the inventor of printing; Palissy, the founder of paleontology and ceramics; Jenner the discoverer of vaccine; Harvey, the first to realize the value of experimental physiology; all had their lives poisoned by proscriptions, persecutions, law suits, ridicule and poverty.

The mob, Professor Richet contends, always reviles and persecutes the noble minded men of science and thought who strive to liberate men from evil and misery and who call attention to injustice; but the mob always not only submits to the tsars and emperors who make slaves of them but actually reverences and admires the cruel tyrants.

Professor Richet is especially condemnatory of man's discovery and use of alcohol.

"Man," he says, "found that, by letting certain foods putrefy, he can obtain new products of speciously nourishing appearance. It is revolting enough that he should let pheasants, snipe and venison decay before he eats them; but the harm is not serious, firstly, because these nauseating dishes are reserved for the jaded palates of the chosen few; and, secondly, because the mucous membranes of the stomach is tough enough to withstand, more or less, the assault of these putrid meats.

"BUT as to decayed vegetables it is a very different story. For as they decay, the sugary vegetables produce a terrible poison, which is alcohol. And so, instead of the lawful normal food which the great law of nature ordains and recommends, man revels in putrid vegetables. I say putrid, because alcoholic fermentation is only decay, exactly like any other putrefaction.

"If we were only content to drink these putrefied liquors until we made ourselves sick—but no! we go much further. We have succeeded in extracting their pernicious essence. Man is not content to drink this putrid mess; he distils it; he extracts its innermost essence till he finally draws from the rotten grape a sure and active poison—alcohol—marvelous mighty alcohol."

A Japanese witch that assumes a snake-like form and blows a deadly poisonous breath at her victims—one of many foolish superstitions in which millions of the human race still believe

The vanity of civilized women, according to Professor Richet, is as senseless as that of the African savages who undergo the most painful tortures to extend their lips.

Professor Richet reserves his greatest wrath for war. "That since the days of Homer, in spite of Plato, Aristotle, Cicero, Saint Augustine, St. Jerome, Leonardo da Vinci, in spite of Pascal, Voltaire, Montesquieu, Leibnitz and Kant, humanity should have found no better way of settling its quarrels than by the mutual slaughter of 30,000,000 of its best and bravest is the crushing, irrefutable demonstration of intellectual impotence.

"PITIFUL humanity has fallen so low that men kill each other without hating each other (the phrase is Boussuet's) and they no longer fill me with pity, but with black shame. Yes, in my inmost being, I am humiliated because I belong to this vile animal species, the most foolish of all created things.

Among the many follies of mankind, Professor Richet would place vanity among the first, "the stupid vanity of a desire to seem richer and smarter than our neighbors." He denounces the rapidly changing fashions with the enormous sums spent on ornaments including such things as plumes of ostriches, peacocks, bird of paradise and egrets. Yet, "the diamond is a yet mightier lord. But his dignity is not intrinsic, for chemically he is really simply carbon—that is, coal. Crystallized coal, perhaps, but still only coal.

"Note, as an aggravation of man's idiocy, that crystallized coal can be so perfectly imitated that the cleverest experts are deceived. Consequently when a man is mad enough to give 500,000 francs worth of diamonds to a woman, it is not to make her lovelier, since 300 francs worth of paste would be just as dazzling, but because he panders to the lowest instincts of vanity with these expensive stones."

The savages of South Africa hold extended lips to be a mark of beauty, hence they insert instruments in their mouths from their earliest years to extend their lips abnormally, so that by the time they are grown they have mouths that are more like the mouths of the great fishes or like the pelican than like men.

The women of more civilized communities, according to Professor Richet, are no less silly than the savages. The Chinese women bind their feet in babyhood. The ears of seven-year-old girls in most European and American communities are pierced for the insertion of earrings and other tortures are self-inflicted by men and women to satisfy a silly vanity.

Man, according to Professor Richet, is the only animal that kills merely to satisfy a lust for killing. The wild animal of the jungle kills when he needs food; but civilized men will go out in the name of sport and kill hundreds of peaceful and happy animals.

Through a long catalogue Professor Richet enumerates what he considers damaging evidence of a man's incurable stupidity, and with a pessimistic summing up says that man should be called "Man, the Super-Fool."

(Copyright, 1925, for The Constitution.)

PEANUT

A BLUE RIBBON SHORT STORY

Continued From Page 2

Bobby Ross—he helped me so much. You have sent him away for long?"

"Quite a while, Peanut. He went to New York with the picture and then he was going to visit his mother down South somewhere, and on the way back he has to find me three or four locations. I say, have you had your dinner?"

Peanut giggled. "But yes—a wonderful dinner. I have—canape cavair, roast young duckling stuffed with chestnuts, champagne and strawberry parfait with two dozen little cakes all covered with pink—sugar. But—only in my mind."

Murray O'Brien tucked her hand under his arm. "Come along with me," he said. "We'll have a real feast."

At exactly the same moment, in a lofty drawing room, Marguerite O'Brien was saying to her hostess: "My dear, I'm so sorry about Murray. But you know I can never count on him. He simply didn't appear, so I know he's working."

The hostess patted her hand just a little absent-mindedly. She was a rather absent-minded old dowager anyway, and giving a dinner party for forty people absorbed all her faculties, even with her staff of expert servants. She wasn't really thinking about Murray O'Brien at all. She was wondering whether she had served sweetbread entree the last time she had this same crowd, but she said charmingly, "That's perfectly all right, dear. One can't expect reliability from a genius."

Elise Lord, pondering in the window seat among the scented baby pillows, might have understood much if she could have known these things, but she did not. When Marguerite turned to her suddenly and asked, "You know this girl? What is she like?" Elise could only answer, "Cute, very little, very French. No class, but probably capable of one of those doormat devotions we so rarely see nowadays."

"You never suspected—anything?"

"No," said Elise, honestly, "I don't think anyone did."

"You don't imagine it could be serious? Dangerous, as you put it?"

"Certainly not."

Marguerite smiled bitterly. "No? And yet my husband wishes me to get a divorce. I wasn't going to tell you that, but—I must tell some one."

Elise sat upright, scattering the baby pillows like flower petals all about her. "A divorce?" she repeated blankly. "Murray wants you to get a divorce?"

"So that he may be free to marry—Peanut. O, it's too ridiculous."

"I don't believe it," said Elise Lord flatly.

Marguerite O'Brien made a gesture toward the letter lying open on the Louis XIV desk. "He has written to ask me. He didn't dare say it to my face. O, I've sensed there was something wrong. But I didn't dream. And then to write me—like that. Men are such cowards. Why didn't he play fair? If he found he loved someone else, why didn't he tell me?"

"Because I don't imagine he thought it was serious. A good many men cheat, my dear, who never expect their wives to know anything about it. There's something—I don't quite understand this, Margot. Will you—get a divorce?"

Marguerite O'Brien sat very still, growing whiter and whiter. At last she said, very slowly and distinctly. "Never. Never, not for any reason in the world." A long gasping breath shook her, and she said again, violently, "never!"

The afternoon was warm and lazy. Great clouds of golden butterflies floated about like autumn leaves blown by a merry wind. A little figure in a cherry red dress and an impudent black velvet tam-o-shanter came hesitatingly up the walk, between the neatly trimmed box hedges and the exquisitely flowering rose trees. The little French heels made a click-click on the cement—like the click of a telegraph instrument.

While she waited for some one to answer her ring, she buttoned and unbottoned the neat bright gloves. Peanut loved bright colors and she had the courage of her convictions. But black gloves for important occasions were part of her education and code.

In the morning room, bright with chintz and banked boxes of cyclamen, looking down over the sloping lawns to sunken gardens below, she sat quietly, trying to control the quivering of her mouth. Her black eyes, that looked enormous in her white face, passed over the bowls of goldfish, the canaries twittering in their painted cages, all the bright furnishings of the room, without seeing them all.

But her ears heard instantly the light footsteps, and she rose as Mrs. O'Brien came into the room. After one look at the tall beauty in white organdy and a cool white garden hat, Peanut felt immeasurably insignificant and hopeless. This great lady and she was only—a peanut.

Mrs. O'Brien smiled graciously. She had never heard of Mademoiselle Jeanne Marie Josephine Poulain, but she had started a charitable mission, and Mrs. O'Brien was particularly fond of French charities.

"You wanted to see me?" she said. "Do sit down. It is warm, for this time of year. I'm sorry you had to walk from the car. What can I do for you?"

The girl did not sit down. Instead she looked straight into the shining gray eyes and said, quietly, "Madam, I am Peanut!"

Mrs. O'Brien's gloved fingers closed on the handle of the parasol she carried. The slender stem snapped.

"Yes?" she said, coldly. "Then I am sure you can have no business with me. Forgive me saying so, but it is unpardonable for you to come here. I suppose you do not know any better. You will excuse me? I will send the butler to show you out."

Peanut made one pleading gesture with her hands. "Please—do not go, madam," she said, "I—I beg, for all our sakes, that you will hear me for a moment. You have perhaps the right to hate me. But—there is something I must tell you."

Marguerite O'Brien looked over her head, quite as though she were not there. It was not hard to look over Peanut's head. "I am sure you have nothing to say that can interest me," she said. "You must understand, my girl, that so far as I am concerned, you do not exist. I have given my final answer to my husband. If you care to make yourself a—a convenience for him, that is not my affair."

"Madam," said Peanut, in a very small voice, "I am going to have a baby."

That broke the ice of Marguerite O'Brien's face at last. The blood rushed to it in a painful, dreadful wave. "What?" she cried, as though she did not know what she was saying.

Never, since she was a child, had Marguerite been the slave of an emotion that drove her as a wild sea drives a little boat. But she was now. "You vile creature," she cried, beating upon the table with the wreck of the parasol she still held in her hands. "How dare you come here and tell me a thing like that? You had better go drown yourself in the ocean for shame. Shame! Shame! Shame! You should be groveling in your shame, instead of standing there in an impudent red dress, gloating over it. O, you sicken me. I didn't know there were creatures like you in the world. What have I ever done to you? Why should you come in and destroy my home, my very life? Why did you come here? To blackmail me? Well, you can't. Tell what you want to. No one will believe you. Anyone might be the father of your child—anyone."

There were little half moons of blood in the palms of Peanut's hands, but she spoke steadily. "You are wrong, madam. Be careful what you say. I love your husband. He was so kind to me. So kind. And, sometimes, if a girl wants kindness, she will do what is wrong if the one who is kind asks her. He does not love me so much—but he loves this little one of ours that is to come. I come to beg that you will let him—marry me. Not for us—but for the one who is coming. You have no child of his. I hear you are good. So good. I come to beg that now you know how it is with me you will change. You do not love him. What will it matter to you? And—it matters very much to me—now."

"What makes you say I don't love him?" said Murray O'Brien's wife.

"But you do not have a child for him."

"That doesn't mean I don't love him, you little fool."

"You—love him and you know he longs for children and you will not

(Continued on Page 14.)

POEMS OF THE CONFEDERACY

J. R. RANDALL.

James Ryder Randall was born in Baltimore on January 1, 1839. He was a direct descendant of Rene Leblanc, immortalized in Evangeline. He was educated privately and at Georgetown college. Upon leaving college he went to New Orleans and took the chair of English in Poydros college. Here while reading the news of the clash between citizens of Baltimore and Massachusetts troops on their way to invade Virginia, a sister state, Randall was inspired to write his famous battle hymn. Though only 22, his spirited verses became the war-song of the Confederacy. He immediately enlisted in the Confederate army. After the war he was secretary to Senator Joe Brown, of Georgia, and was connected with the Augusta Chronicle as Washington correspondent and editorial writer. During the boom days of Anniston, Ala., he edited the Anniston Hot Blast, but this venture was not a success. He died in Augusta January 14, 1908.

MARYLAND! MY MARYLAND!

The despot's heel is on thy shore,
Maryland!
His torch is at thy temple door,
Maryland!
Avenge the patriotic gore
That flecked the streets of Baltimore
And be the battle queen of yore,
Maryland! My Maryland!

Hark to the wandering son's appeal,
Maryland!
My mother state, to thee I kneel,
Maryland!
For life and death, for woe and weal
Thy peerless chivalry reveal
And gird thy beauteous limbs with steel,
Maryland! My Maryland!

Thou wilt not cower in the dust,
Maryland!
Thy gleaming sword shall never rust,
Maryland!
Remember Carroll's sacred trust,
Remember Howard's warlike thrust
And all thy slumberers with the just,
Maryland! My Maryland!

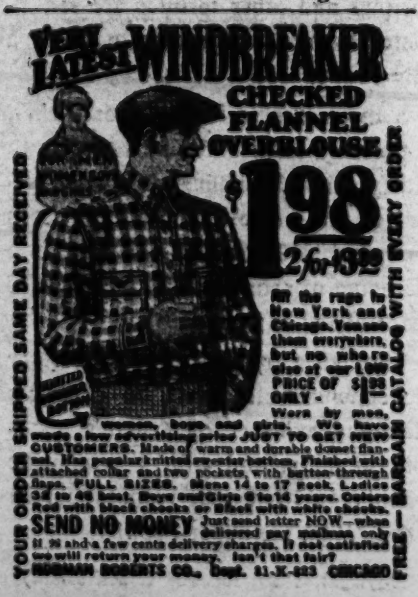
Come! 'tis the red dawn of the day,
Maryland!
Come with thy panoplied array,
Maryland!
With Ringgold's spirit for the fray,
With Watson's blood at Monterey,
With fearless Lowe and dashing May,
Maryland! My Maryland!

Dear Mother! burst the tyrant's chain,
Maryland!
Virginia should not call in vain,
Maryland!
She meets her sisters on the plain—
"Sic Semper!" 'tis the proud refrain
That baffles minions back again,
Maryland! My Maryland!

I see the blush upon thy cheek,
Maryland!
But thou wast ever bravely meek,
Maryland!
But lo! there surges forth a shriek
From hill to hill, from creek to creek—
Potomac calls to Chesapeake,
Maryland! My Maryland!

Thou wilt not greet the Vandal toll,
Maryland!
Thou wilt not crook to his control,
Maryland!
Better the fire upon thee roll,
Better the blade, the shot, the bowl
Than crucifixion of the soul,
Maryland! My Maryland!

I hear the distant thunder hum,
Maryland!
The Old Line's bugle, fife and drum,
Maryland!
She is not dead, nor deaf, nor dumb—
Huzza! she spurns the northern scum!
She breathes! she burns, she'll come, she'll come!
Maryland! My Maryland!



SWORDS EAST

BY ACHMED ABDULLAH

(Continued from Last Sunday.)

ABRISTLING background, gorged with hate. Here and there a single fact standing out, sudden, sharp, tragic as well as ludicrous.

Across the street another crowd huzzaed an elderly army officer who, naked sword held aloft, was swearing fealty to the Sultan.

Young Turk and Old Turk. Moslem and Christian and Jew. Osmanli and Greek. Armenian and Syrian and Arab and Kurd and Turkoman. Each group pulling and jerking and pushing its own particular political or racial or religious Jagganath, urging it on with the knotted whip of lust and crazy ambition. Groups within groups drunk with the jingoistic megalomania of nationalism. Top-heavy they were with worship of self and twisted ideals, hoarse with the shouting of inane, stereotyped shibboleths, rotten with false standards.

A cult of brutality. A cult of hate labeled love of country or political differences. And Ellen thought it less terrible than pitiable.

Never in all her life since at school, automatically, she had saluted the flag, had she loved her own land as during that drive. Faults? Of course, America had faults. There was no nation this side of millenium free from them. A nation needs faults, like the shadows in a flame, to emphasize its brightness. But the faults of America were those of youth, added to those of an inherited, badly digested Mayflower Puritanism, faults at times sharpened and brought into clashing contrast by the continuous immigration and assimilation of tens of thousands of foreigners. Historical, geographical faults they were rather than national or civilizational.

But this? This Turkey of the Young Turks? Why, there was that respectable married woman, that pimply schoolboy, that spectacled professor, a dozen others, and all mouthing obscenities, polluting the very liberty in which they professed to believe. America, too, had faults. But—she smiled as she coined the phrase—they were such decent faults, while these—she shivered a little.

Once she had argued with O'Malley on the subject. She had told him that as an American she was in sympathy with the Young Turk ambitions. Now she agreed with him when he said:

"I am a conservative, almost a reactionary. Liberty is only for those who know how to use it, who deserve it. I would rather be ruled by the sultan, the autocrat, the single lion, than by a million squealing rats."

"Is revolution coming?"

"It is nearly here. I do wish you would leave Constantinople."

"After the fancy dress ball, Pat!" she smiled. "I want to find out how good or bad a dancer you are."

The carriage turned north.

Here the crowds became thinner, and in the drab, reeking tenements that clustered about the military school the enthusiasm, revolutionary or loyalist, decreased proportionately with the misery of the people who lived here.

Finally they reached their destination, and asked Haydar Nazir to wait, while not far away, in a narrow alley around the corner, Shafizullah waited, too, telling his inquisitive Levantine driver not to ask questions, but to stuff his greedy mouth with the expectation of the extravagant tip which he meant to give him by and by.

Inside Sabri Bey received his callers.

"I brought Miss McIntyre along," said O'Malley. "Do you mind?"

The other bowed to Ellen.

"My whole department is honored by your visit, mademoiselle. You have been a good friend to all Turkey."

"I?"

"Indeed. Did you not save the pasha's life?"

"O, Pat—you told him . . . ?"

"It was necessary."

Sabri Bey turned to an orderly and sent him for M. Ducastel, the celebrated detective once head of the French secret police who had been driven out of office through the backwash of the Dreyfus affair and had found congenial employment in Constantinople where he had established his famous, supra-efficient system—that system of political espionage and counter espionage which was perhaps the one and only competent department in the lumbering, corrupt Turkish government machine of those days.

Ducastel came a moment later.

He was an old man with a shrewd, rather waspish face, whose sharpness was still more accentuated by the bushy eyebrows, the goatee, and the supercilious up-sweep of an immense, snowy white mustache. He was dressed in the costume in which the Paris cartoonists had formerly loved to picture him; the flat Basque cap with the silken tassel rouguishly over the left ear, a suit of velveteens of an indescribable yellowish brown that matched the tobacco stains, with short, tight jacket and voluminous Zouave trousers a costume which made him appear more like an elderly slapstick comedian than like a celebrated detective, and which was strangely in contrast with his shrewdness, his marvelous insight, and his superb pluck.

Sabri Bey remained behind while Ducastel led the way to an immense room covering over two acres in the basement of the headquarters building. It was entered by intricate doors like those of a safe. Inside it was steel lined, steel ceilinged and steel floored. The whole place resembled an enormous safety deposit vault.

This vault was the very heart of Turkey, from a political more than a strictly criminal point of view. There lived hardly a prominent man in Constantinople, native born or foreign, diplomat or banker, lawyer or merchant, officer or politician or whatnot, nor a single man who if only in the most menial capacity and for the shortest space of time had been employed by any of the many government departments, who did not have his card or a whole nest of cards in one of the filing cabinets.

It was like an immense spider's web stretching everywhere. If you were at all prominent—and to be prominent in Turkey meant to be potentially dangerous—you were watched; and you never knew who watched you, whether it was your Greek bootblack, the Lecantine waiter who observed your breakfast, the Jewish laundress who ruined your best shirt, or the Albanian driver who took you to theater or cabaret or station. It was complete and monstrous. By comparison the Polizei Presidium of Imperial Germany was a study in efficiency and Scotland Yard a child's house of cards. It was, in those days, the safety valve of the rumbling, asthmatic Turkish machine of state. Often in the past it had saved the Ottoman empire from treason and revolution and catastrophe.

If, for instance, an ambitious general or pasha or distant relative of the sultan thought of overthrowing the government, making himself dictator or usurping the throne—perhaps backed by British or Russian gold—there was hardly the need of force to suppress him. Just a little number given to one of these elderly, scholarly librarians in the basement of police headquarters; a card, red, green, or white, taken from one of the many steel filing cabinets; the reckless dreamer's record looked up—and a day or two later an amusing or tragic or salacious but always perfectly true bit of gossip would make the round of the clubs, the consulates and embassies, the foreign newspaper offices and the native press. Constantinople and, thanks to cables and letters, the world at large would retail and spread the gossip—and scandal or ridicule would wipe out the adventurer's high ambition.

"Stronger, this card system, than cannon and ammunition," commented M. Ducastel. "The man who wants to conquer Turkey by revolution and intercine strife should begin with these cabinets."

"And yet," argued O'Malley, "we are on the very eve of revolution. Go outside, Ducastel, and listen to the voice of the mob! The Young Turks—and Russia . . . "

"I know," interrupted the Frenchman, "but it is not my fault, nor the fault of my system. What's the good of a safety valve unless you use it? The sultan himself is to blame. He is getting old and weary and discouraged. He is reverting to type; the true Oriental fatalist, lethargic, dilatory, supine. Why—nom de Dieu!—I talked to him, I myself, only yesterday. I gave him figures and facts—not suspicions, mind you. But he shrugged his shoulders and said he would attend to it some other day. 'Some other day!'—words which here in the Orient, have ruined empires and killed off whole dynasties!"

"Yes," said O'Malley; and after a pause he asked: "You have traced this negro Hassan?"

"I have." M. Ducastel turned to one of the clerks, a short, black bearded Armenian: "Krelekyan!"

"Monsieur?"

"Will you be good enough—" the Frenchman consulted a small note book—"to give me bordereau No. 12389 b, marked supplementary, name of Marquis Robert-Patrice de O'Malley Pasha?"

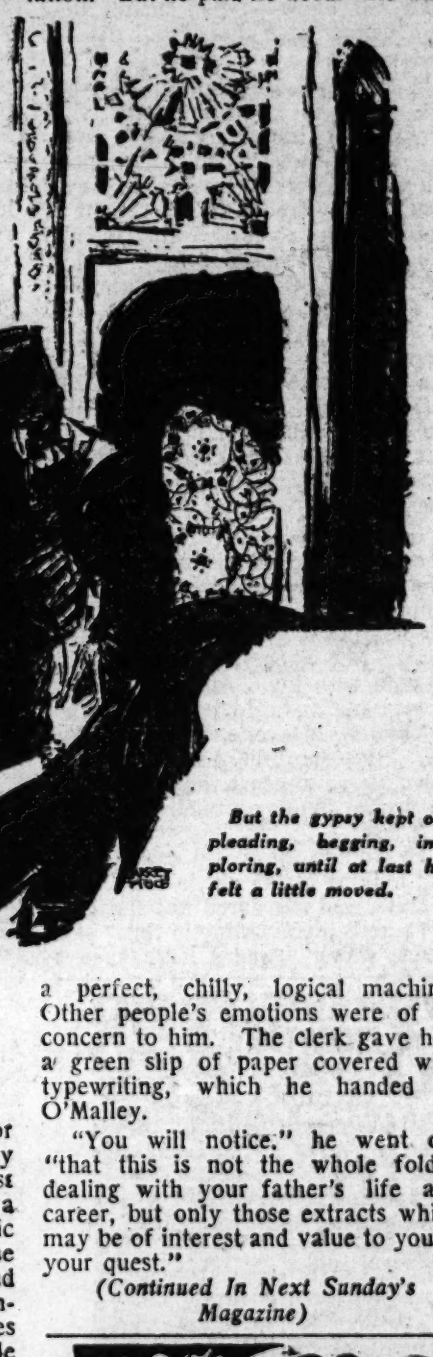
"O, ..." the Irishman was startled. "You mean—my father . . . ?"

"Indeed!"

M. Ducastel noticed the other's agitation. But he paid no heed. He was a perfect, chilly, logical machine. Other people's emotions were of no concern to him. The clerk gave him a green slip of paper covered with typewriting, which he handed to O'Malley.

"You will notice," he went on, "that this is not the whole folder dealing with your father's life and career, but only those extracts which may be of interest and value to you in your quest."

(Continued In Next Sunday's Magazine)



But the gypsy kept on pleading, begging, imploring, until at last he felt a little moved.

NEWEST thing for Fall and Winter wear. Smartly fashioned for it is a careful reproduction of a high priced priced Parisian model. You will be delighted with this rare bargain.

Skirt has exquisite wide high-priced lace trimming on shirred flare front overskirt. Has new French tie, long sleeves. Belt of self material ties in back in sash effect. Comes in sizes 16 to 46. Colors, gray, navy blue, black or pansy. Our price $4.98. Extra sizes, 48 to 54, $1.00 extra.

We guarantee this dress to please you. If it does not simply return it and we will refund your money.

Send no money, pay our low purchase price to your postmaster on delivery.

Order now while all colors and sizes are in stock.

PEANUT

A BLUE RIBBON SHORT STORY

Continued From Page 12

have them?" Peanut's eyes were wide with a great puzzled bewilderment. "But that is not possible. I do not understand."

Neither woman spoke. A canary twittered and Marguerite O'Brien shivered.

And then, slowly, slowly, Peanut's head went up and her brow cleared, and she stood with a new and wonderful dignity that dwarfed the other woman's grandeur as the sunshine dwarfs candle light.

"You are afraid," she said, feeling for each word. "You have no desire for a child of his, carried under your heart, laid at last in his arms. You think of your fine body and your beauty and your amusement. I see. I did not know—I had heard there were women like that, but I did not believe.

"I hear you are good and I come here ready to kneel and ask your mercy. But you are not a good woman. You are a bad, bad, bad woman. You are the worst woman I have ever known in my whole life. I should be ashamed before you? I am ashamed before God, because I have sinned. But I am proud before you, because I am a better woman as you are. Who has the best claim to that man, eh? The wife who will not bear his children or the woman who is to be the mother of his child? You will not free him? All right. That is all right. But some day God will understand and forgive me before he forgive you, I tell you that.

"Because this is all your fault, you bad woman. If you are not so selfish and afraid he would never have come to me when I am lonely and filled with heartache. We do not mean wrong. But when he found out—he was mad with joy. And yet he does not love me as he loved you.

"Answer me one question, you wife. Has he told you, have you known in your heart, how much he want babies running around this great, fine house?"

The woman the world called good stood looking at the girl in the cherry red dress, and she dared not speak.

"There is much wrong in this," said Peanut, slowly, "and I have been a bad girl—a very bad girl—and I shall be punished. But you will go to hell! You—who wear his jewels"—her fingers scorned the pearls about Marguerite's throat—"who live in his fine house—you are the prostitute more than me."

She pointed one slender finger, accusing.

In the heart of Marguerite O'Brien the great wave of wrath had broken and lay shallow and spent about her soul. For the first time in her life she found herself face to face, not with Peanut, but with the woman who was herself. It seemed amazing that she had lived all these years with this strange woman and never known her. She had never judged herself, never scratched the shallow veneer of her virtue. And now, inexorably, she was judged.

What had Elise said about the sins of the flesh and the sins of the spirit? Something. Perhaps that was it. This girl had sinned the sins of the flesh, but somewhere within her burned a bright and clear flame that would consume all that dross at length.

But for herself—she, Marguerite O'Brien—had sinned against the spirit. She told them over like a chaplet of death's heads. Vanity! Fear! selfishness! How petty she was—as sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal!

She had denied the heart of the man who loved her. She had robbed him. She—who thought she was giving so much. What had she given but her body? She had robbed him of his fatherhood. She had robbed him of the chance to live again in his son.

The fearless courage of motherhood had been bred and sapped out of her. The desire for children had been smothered within her.

What had she ever done in the world but take, take? And now she had driven Murray—her boy sweetheart, her husband, with his lean, dark face and his soul-hungry eyes—to find in another woman the great thing she had refused him. If they had broken a commandment, hadn't she broken one, too? What graven images she had worshiped all these years! How unloving she had been to her neighbors! And these were the first of all the commandments! So many people seemed to forget that.

She loved Murray. She loved him. And in the light of the furnace that burned about her she knew he loved her. She wanted him! She couldn't lose him!

Marguerite O'Brien had never bowed her head to any woman. But she bowed it then, because she went to beg forgiveness of the girl who stood accusing her, and Peanut was such a very little girl that Marguerite had to stoop to look into her eyes.

Bobby Ross, having found locations in the desert for the next Murray O'Brien super-production, came back to Hollywood. The sun and air of the sand places had tanned his young skin a rich, deep brown, many shades darker than his sun bleached hair. He was glad to be back in Hollywood. It belonged to him and he belonged to it. He was of the new generation, growing up with Hollywood.

He sniffed the very air of it with delight, his nose in the air, his eyes beaming. He knew everybody. As he made his way down the boulevard on the morning of his return, his heavy white sweater pulled down over his corded riding breeches, his head bare in the sunshine, he hailed every other person he met. From a purple plush upholstered limousine a dark-eyed star in sable waved him a welcome, and the girl in the orange juice stand on the corner yelled an impudent invitation across her white counter. The head of a great producing company walking to work for his figure, saluted him cordially, and at the corner a dozen taxi drivers, lounging by their cabs, engulfed him roughly.

Bobby Ross was Hollywood's little brother.

Coming out of a fashionable shoe shop, he met Elise Lord.

"Hello!" he said, heartily. "Hello, hello, hello! Greetings and salutations. You get more beautiful every day, Elise. If you'd been tracking cactus and sand as long as I have you'd appreciate all this. And. by the way, old girl, you're in for it. We are all going down and hobnob with Gila monsters and poison lizards ten feet long and rattlesnakes with more buttons on than the doorman at the Biltmore. The boss says, 'Go find me some real desert locations. None of this Oxnard stuff. I want the real thing where you can see the sweat on the screen.' Well, you know little Augustus P. Ross. I found 'em. They are lulus."

Elsie shuddered. "Well, it can't be helped," she said, philosophically. "I don't mind the heat, but I hate bugs. However, I've been pretty lucky—last three pictures in the studio. Well, a lot of things have happened, Bobby, my boy, while you've been away. Have you seen the boss since you got back?"

Elise knew how Bobby felt about the boss—how he looked upon him as an idolized older brother. Yet how well Bobby knew his weaknesses!

Bobby shook his head. "On my way now. He's waiting for me over at the lot."

"I'll drive you over," said Elise, nodding at the uniformed Japanese chauffeur.

Elise had known Bobby Ross a long time. Once, in the early days, she had known him very well indeed. They had always been friends. In her mind now she was debating rapidly. Bobby was a funny kid, under all his foolishness.

"Well, great news," she said, lighting a cigarette from the electric torch. "There's going to be an heir in the O'Brien family. Yep, Marguerite is expecting a visit from the stork."

Then, carelessly, she remarked: "Have you seen Peanut? I had an idea you were really more gone on Peanut than you let anybody know, Bobby."

Her eyes rested on his face. And when she saw his forehead darken and his eyes light she went on slowly with the tale she had decided to tell.

When the car stopped at the studio a young man with a set face and white lips shot from it and dashed through sacred office without even seeing the the sacred gate and into the boss' crowd that greeted him.

When he came out, half an hour later, Bobby Ross was scarlet instead of white and he had no job.

Peanut was trying to write a letter. It was not easy. Mother would understand. But there had been more than her share of suffering already. Her first born son lying dead on a battlefield, buried in an unknown grave. And now this—for her girl.

"But she loves me," said Peanut, fiercely, to herself. "She loves me. I would understand, if it was my little baby. But God—please don't let it be a girl!"

For a sinner, Peanut had rather a familiar way of talking to God, like that.

She had written, "Ma petite Mere," a good many times, and could get no farther, when the door opened.

Peanut was still an instant, the white, drawn look of her face blossoming into a wonderful sparkle.

Then she rushed to him. "Bobby, my friend, my friend!" she cried, and she stood on tiptoe to kiss him on both cheeks, shook his hands, both of them, and gazed up into his face, laughing.

"Bobby, how splendid you look!" she cried, throwing up her hands and letting them flutter down like white butterflies on his shounders. "You are so nice and brown and healthy. And you smell of the sun. I am glad you have come back. You have had a good time?"

Bobby sat down on the edge of the bed. There was only one chair. His embarrassment was evident by the way he knocked his unlighted cigarette against the back of his hand, over and over again. Peanut retreated once more to the table.

"I'm all right," he said, "but I had an awful time finding you. You don't look so good Peanut."

The drawn look had come back. There was no mischief in Peanut now, and not much sparkle.

"Well, maybe not quite so good," she said, putting her head on one side with the old familiar gesture, "no quite. But soon—I shall be all right again. I go up—I go down. That is life. I am glad you come back."

Silence fell. Slowly Peanut's eyes dropped. This was part of the punishment, no doubt.

"Peanut," said Bobby Ross, "I think you're the finest girl I ever knew."

It was the last thing she had expected, that, and she put her hands up over her heart. "Don't you kid me, Bobby Ross," she said, smiling at him. "I know how you do, always kidding me."

"I'm not kidding you," said the tall young man, trying to sit easily on the low bed. "I mean it. O, I don't say you're perfect. Everybody makes mistakes. I've even made 'em myself. The worst one I made was not marrying you before I went away.

Peanut gasped.

"Do you think if we sneaked away now and got married we could make folks think we were hitched before I went away?" asked Bobby Ross, very busy with a new cigarette, tapping it on the back of his hand and making a great fuss over lighting it, and then puffing enormous clouds of smoke.

"Bobby Ross," Peanut sat looking at him, one hand creeping out gently as though she wanted to touch his shoes with the tips of her fingers, "you—would do that?"

"Do what?" said Bobby Ross crossly. "You know I've always had an awful crush on you, Peanut. And, God knows, you poor little frog, you sure need somebody to look after you. Go get your duds and we'll hike down to Santa Anna or somewhere."

But before she went to get her black velvet tam and her little black coat, Peanut leaned down and kissed the sheet of paper lying on the table.

That letter to "Ma petite mere" was not going to be so hard to write, after all.

(Copyright, 1925, for The Constitution.)

FREE Book on Deafness

Write today for 168 page FREE book giving full particulars and testimonials from hundreds of grateful users whose hearing has been restored by use of our "little wireless phones for the ears"

Wilson Common-Sense Ear Drums

require no medicine but effectively replace what is lacking or defective in the natural ear drums. They are simple devices, which the wearer easily fits into the ears where they are invisible. Soft, safe and comfortable.

WILSON EAR DRUM CO., Incorporated
232 Todd Building Louisville, Ky.

GENUINE CONEY FUR TRIMMED

Rayon Dresses

NEW STYLE HIT

Greatest Sensation In Years!

DURING THIS SALE ONLY $3.98

Up-to-the-minute in style, a sensational creation of our designers, embodying every new feature shown this season. Dainty V-shaped collar, newest tie, finished at ends with Fur pompoms, puffed sleeves in contrasting colored material, and loose-hanging panels trimmed at bottom with fur and shirred at pockets. Made of excellent quality lustrous Rayon in favorite colors. We are proud of the distinction of offering this garment—a real advance season's showing. Colors: Peany, Navy, Black, French Blue and Cuckoo Tan. Sizes: Women's, 32 to 46 bust; Misses,' 14 to 22 years.

Don't Send One Penny

To secure this wonderful bargain while our stock lasts you needn't even send a penny. Just write us today, giving your name, address, size and color wanted and dress will be sent you exactly as represented, under our guarantee of satisfaction or money back. Pay postman $3.98 plus a few pennies postage on arrival. Take advantage of this opportunity—AT ONCE.

WORLD MAIL ORDER CO.,
DEPT. R-5678, CHICAGO.

Work for "Uncle Sam"

U. S. Railway Mail Clerks

Boys—Men—18 to 35

Many U. S. Government Jobs open to women. Steady work. Experience unnecessary. Common education sufficient. Write today sure for free list of positions and full particulars.

FRANKLIN INSTITUTE
Dept. L-291, Rochester, N. Y.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION'S

Young Folks Section

SPORTS—GAMES—PUZZLES—RIDDLES

THE SACRED RUBY OF THE IKKANS

By Jack Gihon

A New Serial of Treasure Trove on a Tropic Isle

INSTALLMENT I.

Kirkbride's Island

For three days the little schooner-yacht Nancy had been plunging stubbornly, like a spirited horse at tether, against the angry torrents of water. Three days it had been since the hurricane, a huge black spiral reaching to the heavens, had swirled upon them from the south, transforming the calm blue of the Caribbean into a rebellious gray mass of waves that seemed intent on effacing every living thing.

And still the storm gave no sign of relenting. Jimmie Bryson peering out the porthole of the forward cabin, could see nothing but mountains of waves, towering at fearful heights before the vessel, and crashing thunderously across her decks. They had thrown oil bags overboard, and the film of oil had spread for fifty yards around the Nancy; it was this that kept the whitecaps from breaking, and crunching the stout cypress hull of the ship to pieces.

The ship had progressed less than a knot in the three days. The wheel was lashed hard to starboard, and the only sail she carried was a small strip of main topsail that held her from swinging around into the teeth of the gale. Thus, for three days, the Nancy remained on those troubled waters, lurching and rolling, and quivering under the sharp impact of each fresh blow, while the crew battled valiantly to keep her afloat. On one occasion a man had been washed overboard; a second wave, miraculously enough, had swept him back on deck. But closing their eyes to such dangers, the crew worked on, and still the Nancy held her own.

There was little that the three occupants of the forward cabin could do. Jimmie and his pal, Bog Ransom, had rather enjoyed the experiences of this terrific storm at sea. Courageous fellows both, just turned fourteen, they had only admiration for the manner in which their staunch little vessel was bucking every wave; they gave little thought to the possibility that each fresh wave might crumple up the Nancy as a piece of frail paper. But Jimmie's father, James Bryson, a wealthy civil engineer, who had brought the two boys on this sea trip, little expecting the dangers they were to face, was obviously worried. It was not for himself—James Bryson, who had charted many unexplored regions of Central America, had faced worse dangers than this without a thought of peril, but he feared for the safety of the two boys. He paced the floor nervously, having trouble in keeping his footing sometimes, the boat was rolling so.

It was almost eight bells, by the sun, when the first mate, Mr. Ogilevy, came into the forward cabin, his face drenched and seawater trickling down the brim of his sou'wester.

"A bit of a blow," he said cheerfully, but she's calming down now. We just lost a piece of starboard rail. I wouldn't be surprised if that's the last bit o' damage the storm 'll do. We might get under sail this afternoon."

"Where do we lie now?" Mr. Bryson asked.

"Off the steamer course, and with a sort of uncharted sea below us," said the first officer. "But there's a little island off to port, and it seems to be best to put in there for repairs, if the seas ease up a trifle. There's a natural harbor there, and we'll be as snug as you please."

"And how far is Colon?" asked Mr. Bryson.

"Four days, sir, with the best of sailing. Maybe five. But we're crippled some, and it might take a week laying up for repairs."

The Nancy had set out from New Orleans for Colon, where Mr. Bryson was to attend to some work for the Panama government. It had been a week since the schooner had cleared the jetties at the mouth of the Mississippi river, and four days since the long, low-lying island of Cuba had been left behind. From then on there was a clear stretch of sea, that with good weather should have been made in six days. But the storm had carried them far east of their course, until they were now near to Kirkbride's Island, where ships rarely touched.

"'Tis a strange little haven, this Kirkbride Island," the first mate said. "They say it was once the stronghold of a pirate band. There are some say there's treasure buried there even now—but that's said about almost all these islands. This Kirkbride, the man they named the island for, was chief of the pirates. Master of a square-rigger, he was, tramping along the coast of South America, until he turned pirate."

The first mate laughed, as though in reminiscence of some unusual tale, and taking off his waterproof, made himself comfortable. "A bit of tea, nice and hot, would go good now," he said, and straightway rang for some. "I feel fagged, if I do say it myself."

As the officer spoke of pirates, the two boys had clustered close to him.

"Is Kirkbride still living?" Bob Ransom interrupted.

"No," said Ogilevy. "He died back there on the island. There's a bunch of Indians that live there now, and they stuck his body up in a little nest, the ways it's their custom, and the bones are there yet, so they tell me."

"Have you ever been on the island?" It was Jimmie speaking now.

"I never have. As I said, ships don't touch there, except in case of storm. The Indians are self-supporting, and raise everything that they need. They put to sea, too, in little canoes that they dig out of logs, and they think nothing of a five-day sail over to the mainland."

"And we're going to land on this island?" Jimmie asked.

"We are," said the first officer, and then added, "God willing."

The mate had finished his tea, and even in the half hour he had spent in the cabin, the sea had calmed down noticeably. "I think," said Ogilevy, "that we'll be hoisting a little sail before an hour has gone. If that's the case, we'll anchor at Kirkbride's Island before sundown."

The first mate's belief that the storm had spent itself proved to be correct. Two bells of the afternoon watch had scarcely rung when Captain McKenzie, the master of the Nancy, decided to hoist the mainsail. There was still a heavy wind blowing, and the breeze bellied out the canvas at once, while the vessel creaked loudly as she got under way. It was done with such good results that soon after, it was deemed safe enough for the two boys to be allowed on deck—for the first time since the gale had come up.

The Nancy was gallantly cutting her way through the water now, with the wind almost directly behind her. Standing on the forward desk, Jimmie and Bob saw, far in the distance, a solid black lump rising olt of the sea.

"It must be Kirkbride's Island," said Bob, excitedly. "I'm sure glad we had this storm—aren't you?"

"Glad! That's no name for it. Though," said Jimmie, looking ruefully at loose-swinging davits, where a boat had been torn off, and the crumpled side of the vessel, where the rail had been swept away, "it sure was hard on the Nancy."

"It looks like the Rock of Gibraltar," said Bob, gazing intently at the island. And, indeed, from out at sea, its contour was not unlike Gibraltar. Apparently, it rose high in rocky cliffs, but the first mate had told them that there was a harbor there, and a native village at the foot of the slope. The natives were practically civilized, Mr. Ogilevy had told them, because of their frequent excursions to Colon and other ports; nevertheless, they were a simple people, living plainly, and interested most in the crops they raised.

Slowly the Nancy swung toward the island, digging its way through the seas that were still high, until they reached a pleasant cove. The natives had spotted the vessel when it was still far out at sea, and it was such an unusual event for a boat to visit those parts that more than a hundred of them came running down to the shore.

"It's a committee of welcome," said Jimmie Bryson—"or maybe it's cannibals."

"Little danger of that," said Mr. Ogilevy, who was standing near—they're a peace-loving people."

"Can we go ashore?" It was Bob speaking.

"For an hour," ruled Mr. Bryson. "You'll have plenty of time on this island. We'll be here at least a week."

"Maybe we'll find some pirate gold," said Jimmie, and the two boys shouted delightfully at the thought.

The Nancy finally dropped anchor, much to the impatience of the boys, and a small boat was put over. Jimmie and Bob appeared with picks and shovels strapped to their backs.

"What's all the digging paraphernalia for?" inquired the first officer.

"Gold," said Jimmie. "We're going to dig for pirate gold." Members of the crew laughed at that, but the two boys were intently serious. The skiff put off, and in a few minutes its keel scraped on the sandy shore.

Adventure was in the air as the little party set foot on this lonely island. The natives, short, squat individuals, brown of skin and broad of face, crowded around them as they landed, and looked with wonder on their visitors. Then suddenly, without warning, there sounded the blaring note of a trumpet, and solemnly, a fully equipped brass band, composed of natives, came marching down toward the shore, playing a weird tropical air.

For a moment the two boys looked in wonder; then a full comprehension of the incident struck them.

"Its the pirate's band," Jimmie whispered to his pal. "Kirkbride's music-makers. Bob, we're on the trail of pirate gold!"

Meanwhile, the native band played its simple welcome to the visitors.

(To be continued next week.)

PORCUPINE ASKS LITTLE OF WORLD

For all that the porcupine is such a bristly little fellow, he asks less of the world than almost any other animal. He is never aggressive, asking simply that he be let alone. When attacked, he rolls himself into a ball out, and his tender nose hidden between his paws. Each quill has a sharp barb on the end of it, so that it remains in whatever it touches.

But the porcupine cannot protect himself from the cunning of the fox, who digs a little tunnel directly beneath him and then up. When he reaches the porcupine's unprotected stomach, he gives a snap and bites straight through the little fellow's tender heart.

Contrary to general opinion, the porcupine cannot throw his quills.

THE PROPER RETORT

"One of them smart city fellers tried to sell me the Woolworth building."

"What did you say?"

"I sez, all right, young feller; wrap it up!"

MODERN NURSERY RHYME

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?"

"I'm going a-milkin', sir," she said.

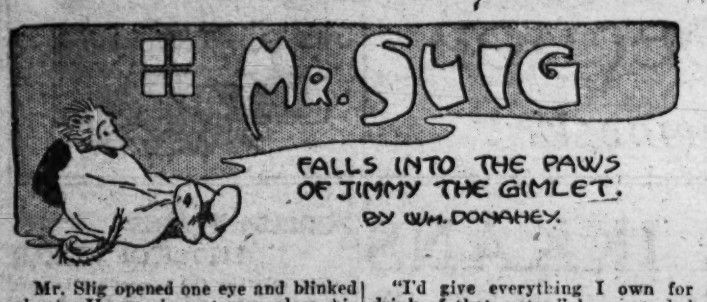
"In that dress, my pretty maid?"

"No, you dumbbell, in this bucket."

STORIES JOKES

A Page for Boys and Girls

THINGS TO MAKE



Mr. Slig opened one eye and blinked about. He was in a strange place, his nose was dry, and he felt as though his head were filled with molasses taffy. He lay on his back in the corner of a dark room. He tried to rub his eyes in order to see better, but he discovered he could not move his paws.

"I must have lost them," he said to himself, and he began to wonder how and where he had misplaced them, but presently he found that they were tied behind his back.

"Now, that's funny," he muttered.

"I must be asleep," thought Mr. Slig.

"Something must have happened to me."

He tried to think, but the more he thought the harder a bump on the top of his head hurt—it felt as though a bee had stung him, but Mr. Slig could not remember of having anything to do with a bee.

He rolled over and noticed that he was wearing a white gown. Presently h recognized that it was Mrs. Slig's nightgown.

"I must be asleep," thought Mr. Slig. He tried to pinch himself in order to make sure he was not asleep, but he couldn't pinch hard enough, with his tied paws, to be certain he was awake.

"I'll try to recite a verse," mumbled Mr. Slig. "If I can do that I'll know I'm awake."

He thought for a long time, and finally he remembered a nursery rhyme he had learned when he was a little opossum:

Beagle bygle bogal bale.
The cat has got to chase his tail.

"Well, I'm awake," said Hr. Slig. "Now I'll try to remember just what has happened to me. Let me see—O, yes, now I remember. My smokehouse had been broken into and my meat was gone. I got my gun and disguised myself in Mrs. Slig's nightgown. I followed the thieves' footprints in the snow to the poolroom, down by the river, where Jimmy the Gimlet and his gang of rowdies hold out. I slipped up and looked through the window. O, Goodness! I saw that mink with the wooden leg, a couple of weasels and that fat polecat who cooks for Jimmy the Gimlet. I—I—I w—w—was lookin' in the window when someone grabbed me from behind and hit me on the head. I've been captured! I've been captured!"

Jimmy the Gimlet.

Mr. Slig was terribly frightened at being in the hands of Jimmy the Gimlet and his crowd of robbers. He trembled so violently he nearly shook off his shoes. His nose grew so dry he felt as though it might crack.

"I—I—I w—w—wonder w—w—what they will do with me?" moaned poor Mr. Slig. "I—I—I wish I was home!"

He looked around the room. It was a small room with one tiny window, which was so dirty it let in little light. There was a door at one side, and on the wall hung a bootjack and the picture of a weasel in a powdered wig.

Mr. Slig tried to get up, but he found that his feet were tied to an iron ring that was fastened to the floor.

"This will be the last of me!" groaned Mr. Slig, and he promptly fainted.

Presently Mr. Slig regained his senses. He was terribly thirsty. He could hear the river gurgle, for the room in which he lay was built out over the stream. It almost drove Mr. Slig mad with thirst.

"I'd give everything I own for a drink of that water," he moaned, but there was nothing for him to do but lie there and lick his dry lips.

Soon Mr. Slig heard a peculiar tapping. Tap, tap, tap. It came, nearer and nearer, and presently it stopped by the door. Mr. Slig heard some one rattling a key in the lock. Mr. Slig nearly fainted again with fright. He felt hot and cold at the same time.

"I'll pretend I'm asleep," he muttered to himself.

The door opened slowly and Mr. Slig saw, between his half closed lids, a pair of green eyes staring at him. Presently the green eyes moved towards him, and Mr. Slig saw they belonged to a huge mink with a wooden leg. The mink stumped across the room and stood beside him.

"That's Hank Giggin," thought Mr. Slig.

There was egg on the mink's necktie, his vest was greasy, and he smoked a cigarette. He kicked Mr. Slig with his wooden leg, but the opossum never stirred.

"Hey, Jimmy!" the mink called out, "think we've done for this old bird."

Instantly Mr. Slig heard footsteps coming towards the door and presently a slim, wicked looking weasel stepped into the room. He looked sharply at Mr. Slig, who was as white as a bathtub.

"Looks as though he was done for," said Jimmy, glancing at the mink.

"You'd better tie a stone to his neck and drop him in the river."

"I—I—I'm not done for—indeed I'm not," shouted Mr. Slig opening his eyes. "I'm nearly done for, but not quite done for."

"If he wasn't too big for the oven, he'd make a nice opossum roast," laughed a voice, and looking towards the door Mr. Slig saw the greasy polecat who cooked for Jimmy the Gimlet. His eyes were red and he had a most unpleasant odor. Mr. Slig's nose twitched, and he grew gray around the mouth.

"Why were you sneakin' around here?" asked Jimmy the Gimlet, glaring fiercely at Mr. Slig. "Peekin' in my windows and carrying a gun. Answer me that?"

"S—s—some one stole my meat and I—I—I f—f—followed the tracks to your house," answered Mr. Slig weakly. He was shaking like an artificial flower.

"Do you think we've got your meal?" asked Jimmy.

"I—I—I don't know," answered Mr. Slig meekly.

"Does any one know you followed the tracks here?" asked Jimmy with a cunning look in his small eyes.

"N—n—no," answered Mr. Slig. "I never said a word to any one."

"That was thoughtful of you, Mr. Slig," smiled Jimmy. The fat polecat laughed and Mr. Slig saw he had fallen into a trap. Now that the thieves had learned that no one knew where he had gone, it would be an easy task to put him out of the way.

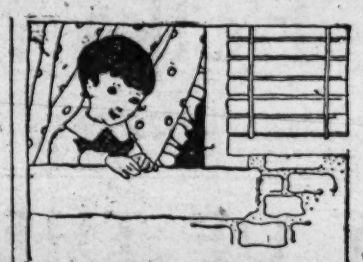
"Hadn't I better roll this Slig into the river?" asked Giggin.

"Why be in a hurry, Hank?" asked Jimmy. "There's lots of time to do that."

"Some one might follow his tracks here, lookin' for him," suggested Giggin, curling up his lip in a nasty smile.

"I'll take care of that," answered Jimmy, "and, what's more, I don't want anything to happen to this Slig person—I don't want him rolled into the river—I've got other plans for him."

They all left the room, closed the door, and Mr. Slig heard the key turn in the lock.



OUR CAT

By Beatrice Washburn

Our cat has somebody else's tail,
It's black, while the rest of him is white.
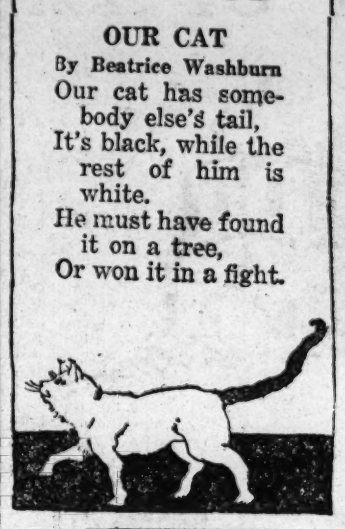
He must have found
it on a tree,
Or won it in a fight.



MY DOG DOES—

"My dog's name is Caesar. He can sit up and say 'please' and ride our pony while she is trotting."

Riding a pony is a new trick, so here is a picture of Caesar on the pony. This clever dog belongs to Norman Milbourne, of Strachan, Alberta, Canada, and he is very proud to have such a nice pet. Norman says Caesar can do other tricks, too, and is very good friends with two cats, also belonging to Norman. With a pony and two cats and this handsome dog, we think Norman is well provided with playfellows.

WHAT'S THE MATTER?

Answer will be found elsewhere on this page.

THE TOOLS OF THE ANCIENT STONE AGE

By Ramon Coffman

Mr. Coffman, America's most popular historical writer, begins a fascinating new series here.

For many thousands of years, probably for more than one hundred thousand, people in Europe and Asia lived in what we call the Stone Age. Because they did not know how to write, they could not set down the history of their actions. It has been a hard task to discover things about their daily life, but the careful labor of scientists has done much to bring facts to light.

We know, for instance, what tools were used during the Stone Age. We know about the weapons, and the wild beasts which were slain. We know the kind of dwellings which many Stone Age families were in the custom of using.

How, you may ask, do we know all these things if people could not write down what happened?

That is a good question, but I cannot answer it all at once. Caves are the main places where the knowledge has been obtained. In the beginning these caves were formed by ground water, or by the beating of waves against te face of cliffs.

The art of writing dates back more than 7,000 years, but thousands of years passed before anyone made a serious effort to learn about the Stone Age. Many facts were written about the Age of Metal and Writing, but little thought was given to life before that age began.

During the past few centuries, however, men have gone into many caves and have dug into cave "floors." Sometimes even on the surface they have found stone tools and weapons deeper down they have found hundreds and hundreds of Stone Age relics.

The Stone Age has received its name from the fact that the chief tools then used were made of stone. Pieces of stone, mainly flint, were chipped so that they would be sharp at the edges. From the shapes of some of the chipped stones, we feel certain that they were used as knives. Others seem to have been used as axes. There were at first no axes with handles. Small trees were chopped down with sharp, heavy pieces of chipped stone, held in the hand. Large trees were probably not chopped down at all. It is an interesting fact that some of these hand-axes have been tested in modern times, and dozens of small trees have been chopped down without the help of a metal ax.

Besides hand-axes and knives, Stone Age men made spearheads and arrowheads from stone. It must have been a happy time when stone-pointed spears began to come into use. Before that, it seems that men could use nothing but clubs and stones and sharp sticks to fight fierce beasts. That there were many fierce beasts at the time, we know from skeletons which have been discovered. Europe was once the home of the saber-toothed tiger. This tiger has been given its name because of the large cruel teeth—"as sharp as a saber"—which it possessed.

There were also cave bears and cave lions in Europe. These must have been a terror to everyone who passed about alone. With the coming of the stone-pointed spear, the tables were turned. Men began to hunt bears and lions, and to drive them out of the caves. With the animals out, men moved in.

(Next week, we shall speak of the discovery of fire in the Stone Age.)

ANSWER TO WHAT'S THE MATTER

See how the wire fence is sagging under this boy's weight? Two or three times more across and it will be broken down.

INDEED!

"What is more desired in an accident than presence of mind?"

"Dunno."

"Absence of body."

"HE'S STUCK UP!"

"He's stuck up," whispered one country cousin to two others, as they stood a little apart from Robert McPherson, Jr. Robert stood, hands thrust in pockets, with this back to them, looking in the other direction. He was always very jauntily dressed, and he owned a pony, but the country cousins wore homemade clothes and had come in a battered old flivver. They were awkward, too, and shy, and Jim Todd, who lived a little way down the Park, had stared curiously at them when he passed, as if to say: "Look at the hicks McPherson has with him! Where'd he get 'em?"

"It would be a good idea to get them into the side yard, where nobody can see them," thought Robert, so he said: "Let's play in the side yard. Do you fellows want to play tennis?"

The eldest looked at his brothers, and then back to Robert. He was embarrassed. "Don't play," he said. Robert was more ashamed of them than ever.

Suddenly there was a clang-clanging down the street. It grew louder and louder, mingled with the screaming of an automobile siren. A flash of red, a man in a helmet—the fire department! Robert McPherson, Jr., and his cousins forgot all about social differences. They were boys, and this was the fire department shooting away down the street. After it they went, racing like mad, along with a score of other boys. Robert was in the lead, but was astonished to see the oldest country cousin draw alongside and then pass him. Robert exerted himself, but he could not catch up. Then horrors! the second cousin was passing him. He seemed to be running easily, quickly, yet in a second he had sprinted away from the puffing Robert. Robert was intensely humiliated by the time the last surprise came. The little one, Al, just like the others, caught up and in a second was ahead. Then for an instant Al turned, flashed a mischievous grin at Robert and then sped on, bounding around obstacles like a little kangaroo.

When Robert reached the fire, his cousins were there and turning back. "False alarm!" they shouted. Their shyness had vanished. Robert felt sheepish—he was afraid they would want to race with him again, but the oldest one came up and smiled like a good scout, and all at once Robert liked them all.

He grinned too. "Say, fellows, let's go and get Jim Todd and a gang and go out and have some fun!"

OUR OWN CARTOON

FINE!

Doc: "How are you feeling now?"

Patient: "Pretty well, except that my breathing bothers me."

Doc: "Well, I'll see if I can't stop that tomorrow."

IN THAT CASE—

Gold-digger (to aviator): "Would you take me for a little fly?"

Aviator: "Why, not at all, you look much more like a little girl."

MR. MONK'S NEW ADVENTURES IN JUNGLE POOL

When Jungleland became more or less civilized, Mr. Monk was put in charge of a Labour Exchange, and had a very busy time finding work for the inhabitants. A starving stag was the first out-of-work to come to Mr. Monk's Exchange. He had never been used to work at all—in fact, he'd been such a pig pot he was known to everybody as "The Monarch of the Glen." Could Mr. Monk find him a suitable job?

Mr. Monk finally decided to send the stag down to a restaurant where, for a weekly bag of fodder, he acted as a hat and umbrella stand. Part of his duty consisted in calling out if a dishonest customer took away an umbrella which did not belong to him. This made the stag very unpopular and he was soon out of work again.

:: THE LETTER WRITERS' CLUB ::

Is Your Letter on This Page? Write a Letter Real Soon and Join the "Letter Writers' Club"

CARLTON, GA.

Dear Unknown Friends: Here's another unknown pal who is knocking at your door for admittance. I am very interested in your letters and read them every Sunday. So I hope you will let me join. I will now describe myself. I am between 15 and 18 years old. I am 5 feet tall and weigh 109 pounds. I have blue eyes and dark complexion. I have somewhat dark brown bobbed hair.

I sure do enjoy going to school, and am in the tenth grade. There are seven girls and one boy in our class, so you know we have a good time. My greatest desire is to go to college next year and take a normal course and music. I am very fond of music. I am pianist for the B. Y. P. U. and assistant for Sunday school. I also play for chapel every morning at school. Won't some of you boys and girls between the ages of 16 and 18 write to me, or perhaps older. I will surely answer every letter I receive. Please send photo if possible.

Love.

Box 34. THELMA MAY.

SHARON, GA.

Dear Boys and Girls: As it has been a good while since I wrote before I guess you all have almost forgotten me. I have been reading the letters for a long time and I certainly do enjoy them. As I haven't a picture I will describe myself. I am 14 years old, 5 feet, 3 inches tall and have dark brown hair and dark complexion. I have gray eyes and weigh 88 pounds. I am in the eighth grade. I will name some of my friends. They are Ruby Anderson, Lois Finch, Belle Anderson, Ruby Finch, Pearl Anderson and a lots more. As my letter is getting long I will close, hoping to hear from some of you boys and girls. Please write to me and I will try to answer.

Your friend,
MARIE MOORE.

Route 1.

SHARON, GA.

Dear Boys and Girls: Will you take another member into your club? I hope Mr. Waste Basket will let me in and not eat me up.

I am a girl with brown hair and brown eyes, fair complexion. My age is between 14 and 18.

I'm afraid I am staying too long so I will go. Maybe I will visit you again if Mr. W. B. doesn't get me this time.

Your unknown friend.
NELLIE MOORE.

CHATTACHOOCHEE, GA.

Dear Boys and Girls: I would like to join your letter writers' club. I have read your letters and like them fine.

Here is my description. Age, between 19 and 21. Height, 5 feet 5 inches, weight 130 pounds. Hair is black, eyes blue, and medium complexion. I'll try to answer every letter. My mail should be addressed like this:

Walter Wilkins,
Chattachoochee, Ga.,
Care Buick Co.

I'll close, as your new member.
WALTER WILKINS.

ATLANTA, GA.

Dear Ones: Will you let a lonesome boy enter your "Letter Club?" I hope you will. I read your letters every Sunday and I sure do enjoy reading them. I have seen a great many peoples' names I knew in the paper. I will now describe myself. I am 5 feet 2 inches tall and have brown hair, fair complexion. I sure do enjoy reading all those nice letters that are printed every Sunday. I work in a soda fountain and I sure do have a good time. I will now close, hoping to see this in print. All of you girls and boys write to me.

Because I sure do like to read sweet letters from girls especially. I will now close, hoping to receive a long letter fromones of my age.

HUGH B. STOGNER.
615 Whitehall St.

CUMMINGS, GA.

Dear Boys and Girls: Will you please let me join your happy club? My father takes The Constitution and I read your letters every Sunday. I think they are just fine. I also read the daily and Sunday comic sections. I think Winnie Winkle and Little Annie are the most interesting today. Winnie has two wedding rings. I am wondering how she will get out of this qlight.

As others describe themselves, I too, will tell you how I look. I have brown hair, brown eyes and a fair complexion. I can cook and do most any kind of housework. I am the oldest girl in a family of eight, including papa and mama. I go to New Harmony school. Mr. Sosebee is my teacher. I am in the fifth grade. I have many playmates. We play bass, all kinds of ball, and other games. Now Mr. W. B., please don't get my letter. Several of my school mates are writing and I never with them to beat me in anything.

Yours very truly.
PEARL HOWARD.

Route 2.

DALLAS, GA.

Dear Friends: Do you care if I join your merry club? I hope not. I have been thinking I would write for a long time but just haven't.

I go to the Dallas high school and have gobs of fun. One of our teachers is very good so we have a good time when he's in our room. I am in the eighth grade.

I am very lonesome today as it is raining. It has been cold for several weeks.

Louise Bullock, one of my best friends, lives next door. We have lots of fun during vacation. Both of us go to Atlanta for a week or two in the summer, and it"s a jolly good time we have.

I like to read The Constitution very much, especially the comic section. Do you all think Winnie Winkle will marry Doctor Sherwood? I want her to marry Lawyer Degen. And do you think Widow Zander will ever be happy and rich again? I hope so.

As this is my first letter I'll ring off.

Some of you boys and girls write to me and I'll surely answer.

With love,
ALMA BUTLER.

P. S. I haven't a picture I would care to send.

DOUGLASVILLE, GA.

Dear Boys and Girls: May I join your club? I have been reading the letters most every Sunday and like them very much. As it is the custom of describing yourself will try and give you a short description of myself. I have dark hair and blue eyes and fair complexion and weigh 110 pounds. I am 5 feet 4 inches tall, and 15 years old.

As this is my first letter will not write much and see if it gets by Mr. W. B.. Hhoping to see this in print.

All of you boys and girls write me and will try and answer your letters.

Your friend,
BERNICE MEEK.

HIRAM, GA.

Dear Boys and Girls: I want to join the letter writers' club. I am 4 feet and 9 inches tall, weigh 87 pounds, have fair skin and red hair. I go to school at Hiram and am in the seventh grade.

Colrim. We have two hundred pupils in school and seven teachers.

My desk mate is Weyman Walton. We play football at school. I have two sisters and one brother. We all want the funny paper first on Sunday morning. I like Skeezix best. Hope this escapes the waste basket.

MARVIN WILLIAMS.

COTTON, GA.

Dear Boys and Girls: Will you please let a south Georgia girl join your merry club? I think the letter writers' club is the very thing to help the boys and girls get acquainted with each other.

Guess you are wondering how I look, so I will describe myself. I am 5 feet tall and weigh 100 pounds. I have black hair and it is bobbed. I have brown eyes and have dark complexion. My age is 14.

This is my second year in high school. Algebra and Latin are my favorite studies. Mr. S. B. Adams, Miss Alice Cordell, and Miss Myrtis Adams are my teachers. I like them all just fine.

Some of you boys and girls write to me and I will try to answer all the letters I receive. If I see this letter in print I will write again.

An unknown friend.
MILDRED BLACKSHEAR.

LITTLE RIVER, S. C.

Dear Boys and Girls: May I join your letter writers' club? I am a girl 11 years old and am in the sixth grade at school. I have been reading your letters a long time so I thought I would write you. I have light hair, gray eyes and light complexion. I have two teachers this year. Their names are Miss Moore and Miss Southerland. I would like to correspond with any boys or girls who will write me.

I hope Mr. W. B. is away when my letter arrives.

Your friend,
SARAH IVEY.

SHARON, GA.

Dear Boys and Girls: It has been a long time since I have written so I thought I would write again. I am going to tell you my height—5 feet, 2 inches.

As I have no picture to send I will describe myself. I have black hair, brown eyes and fair complexion. I have a few freckles. I weigh 100 pounds.

I have written a letter to a girl but it dod not go. It went to the dead letter office.

Her name is Leila Jenkins.

I am 13 but will be 14 December birthday?

My teacher's name is Miss Clarice Pittman.

I have been reading the letters for a long time and enjoy them very much. I hope Mr. W. B. is asleep. I hope to see my letter in print Sunday. Some of you girls write to me. I will answer all.

Your friend.
BELLE ANDERSON.

Route 1.

LEM TURNER PARK

Dear Friends: I was disappointed in not seeing my last letter printed. But I am a pig letters. I write letters and I want to see mine printed. Well, do any of you know the "Charleston?" I wish I did. I hope I learn soon. I know a few steps but not all. If any of you know take some pictures doing a few steps and send them to me. Please every one around the age of 12 and older write. I would like to corroespond with you. I a mcorresponding with a girl. Her name is Frances Thomas. I love to hear from her. Please don't think me funny but anyone from 12 on up and can write very neat write to me. I just want the girls. Say, I'm not old fashioned but I know what it is to get letters from unknown boys—some are nice and some are crazy.

Whoever writes send m e your picture. I have a photograph book. When once I get started on one I want all the pictures I can lay hands on. How many have had a sty od your eye? I was laid up with one two weeks ago. Gee, I don't want another. I had a nice time staying home from school, and going out, but it was no so good when I could not go to a show. But any way Saturday night I went. Now today is Armistice day, and I get another vacation day. Ain't I lucky?

When you write please tell me what you wish to be when you grow up. I hope to be an actress. My cousin was crazy about the screen once, but she keeps saying it is not a good job. I don' teare. I guess I am made to like the screen and stage. Two of my favorites are Gloria Swanson and Pola Negri. If you wish to know the rest write to me. Don't forget to write soon. If this is printed some one send it to me, please.

Your unknown friend.
GLADYS F. KLEIN.
Route 3, Box 619.

SHARON, GA.

Dear Writers' Club: I am going to write the letter writers' club if you will allow a country girl in at the door. As I haven't a picture of myself I will describe myself. I am 15 years of age. I have brown eyes, brown hair and dark complexion, and am in the eighth grade in school.

I will be 16 January 14. How many of you have my birthday.

I will close, hoping to hear from some of you boys and girls and I will be glad to answer all the letters I receive fro many of you.

Your unknown friend.
RUBY ANDERSON.

Route 1.

In His Image

BY WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN

Continued From Page 6.

Men's Christian association and now there are nine thousand associations and more than a million and a half members march under the banners of that organization, half of them in the United States. Forty years ago a young preacher in Portland, Maine, gathered a few young people about him and formed a Christian Endeavor society; now it numbers more than four million members. That young preacher, Dr. Francis E. Clark, is now one of the great religious leaders of the world and is commander-in-chief of this militant organization which is larger than the army that did our part in the World war. What has he earned?

Near Rochester, New York, there is a little town that has the proud distinction of being the birthplace of Frances Willard. There was nothing to distinguish her from other little girls when she was in school, but when she reached womanhood she gave her heart to a great cause; she became president of the Woman's Christian Temperance union, probably the greatest of the organizations among women ever formed. Under her leadership that organization brought into the schools of the land instruction as to the effect of alcohol upon the system and that did more than any other one thing, I think, to bring national prohibition. The state of Illinois has placed the statue of this great woman in the Hall of Fame in the national capital; she is the first woman to be thus honored. What has she earned?

Can Supply Needs.

And so I might continue, for the name of the world's great benefactors is legion. And besides those whose services were of incalculable value a multitude have earned lesser sums ranging down to a modest fortune. Every one can earn enough to supply all needs. Every time I speak to the students of a college, high school, or primary grade I cannot help thinking that within the room there may be a boy or girl who will catch a vision of great achievement and, consecrating a life of service, do a work so valuable that all the arithmetics will not compute its worth.

Those who render the largest service do not care to collect the full amount earned. What could they do with the sum that they actually earn? Or, what is more important, what would so great a sum do with them?

In that wonderful parable of the Sower, Christ speaks of the seeds that fell and of the thorns that sprang up and choked them, and He Himself explained what he meant by this illustration, namely: That the cares of this world and the deceitfulness of riches choke the truth. If the great benefactors of the race had been burdened with the care of big fortunes, they could not have devoted themselves to the nobler things that gave them a place in the affection of their people and in history.

It seems, therefore, that while one can not rightfully collect more than he honestly earns, he may earn more than it would be wise for him to collect. And that brings us to the next question: How much should one desire to collect from society? I answer, that no matter how large a service one may render or how much he may earn, he should not desire to collect more than he can wisely spend.

Consider Spending.

And how much can one wisely spend? Not as much as you might think—not nearly as much as some have tried to spend. No matter how honestly money may be acquired, one is not free to spend it at will. We are hedged about by certain restrictions that we can neither remove nor ignore. God has written certain laws in our nature—laws that no le slature can repeal—laws that no court can declare unconstitutional, and these laws limit us in our expenditures.

The Value of the Soul.

Let us consider some of the things for which we can properly spend money. We need food—we all need food, and we need about the same amount; not exactly, but the difference in quantity is not great. The range in expenditure is greater than the range in quantity, because expenditure covers kind and quality as well as quantity. But there is a limit even to expenditure. If a man eats too much he suffers for it. If he squanders his money on high-priced foods, he wears his stomach out. There is an old saying which we have all heard, viz., "The poor man is looking for food for his stomach, while the rich man is going from one watering place to another looking for a stomach for his food." This is only a witty way of expressing a sober truth, namely, that one is limited in the amount of money he can wisely spend for food.

We need clothing—we all need clothing, and we need about the same amount. The difference in quantity is not great. The range in expenditure for clothing is greater than the range in quantity, because expenditure covers style and variety as well as quantity, but there is a limit to the amount of money one can wisely spend for clothing. If a man has so much clothing that it takes all of his time to change his clothes, he has more than he needs and more than he can wisely buy.

Have Certain Necessities.

We need homes—we all need shelter and we need about the same amount. In fact, God was very democratic in the distribution of our needs, for He so created us that our needs are about the same. The range of expenditure for homes is probably wider than in the case of either food or clothing. We are interested in the home. I never pass a little house where two young people are starting out in life without a feeling of sympathetic interest in that home! I never pass a house where a room is being added without feeling interested, for I know the occupants have planned it, and looked forward to it and waited for it; I like to see a little house moved back and a larger house built, for I know it is the fulfillment of a dream. I have had some of these dreams myself, and I know how they lead us on and inspire us to larger effort and greater endeavor, and yet there is a limit to the amount one can wisely spend even for so good a thing as a home.

If a man gets too big a house it becomes a burden to him, and many have had this experience. Not infrequently a young couple start out poor and struggle along in a little house. After a while the time arrives and they build a big house, larger, possibly, than they intended to, and it nearly always costs more than they thought it would, and then they struggle along the rest of their lives looking back to the time when they lived in a little house.

We speak of people being independently rich. That is a mistake; they are dependently rich. The richer a man is the more dependent he is—the more people he depends upon to help him collect his income, and the more people he depends upon to help him spend his income. Sometimes a couple will start out doing their own work—the wife doing the work inside the house and the man outside. But they prosper, and after a while they are able to afford help; they get a girl to help the wife inside and a man to help the husband outside; then they prosper more—and they get two girls to help inside and two men to help outside, then three girls inside and three men outside. Finally they have so many girls helping inside and so many men helping outside that they cannot leave the house—they have to stay at home and look after the establishment.

Condition Not New.

This is not a new condition. One of the Latin poets complained of "the cares that hover about the fretted ceilings of the rich!" It was this condition that inspired Charles Wagner to write his little book entitled "The Simple Life," in which he entered an eloquent protest against the materialism which makes man the slaves of his possessions; he presented an earnest plea for the raising of the spiritual above the purely physical. I repeat, that there is a limit to the amount a man can wisely spend upon a home.

I need not remind you that the rich are tempted to spend money on the vices that destroy—money honestly earned may thus become a curse rather than a blessing.

But a man can give his money away. Yes, and no one who has ever tried it will deny that more pleasure is to be derived from the giving of money to a cause in which one's heart is interested than can be obtained from the expenditure of the same amount in selfish indulgence. But if one is going to give largely he must spend a great deal of time in investigating and in comparing the merits of the different enterprises. I am persuaded that there is a better life than the life led by those who spend nearly all the time accumulating beyond their needs and then employ the last few days in giving it away. What the world needs is not a few men of great wealth, doling out their money in anticipation of death—what the world needs is that these men link themselves in sympathetic interest with struggling humanity and help to solve problems of today, instead of creating problems for the next generation to solve.

Leaving Money Dangerous.

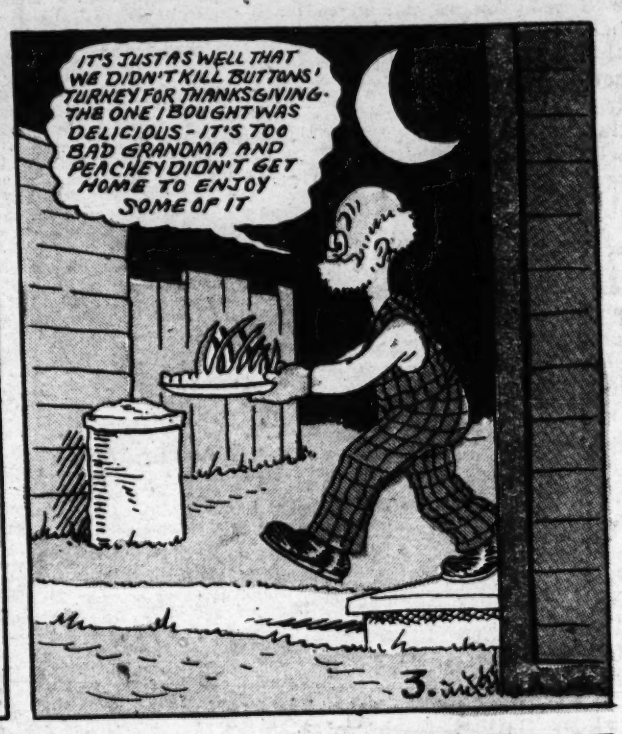
But you say, a man can leave his money to his children? He can, if he dares. A large fortune, in anticipation, has ruined more sons than it has ever helped. If a young man has so much money coming to him that he knows he will never have to work, the chances are that it will sap his energy, even if it does not undermine his character, and leave him a curse rather than a blessing to those who brought him into the world.

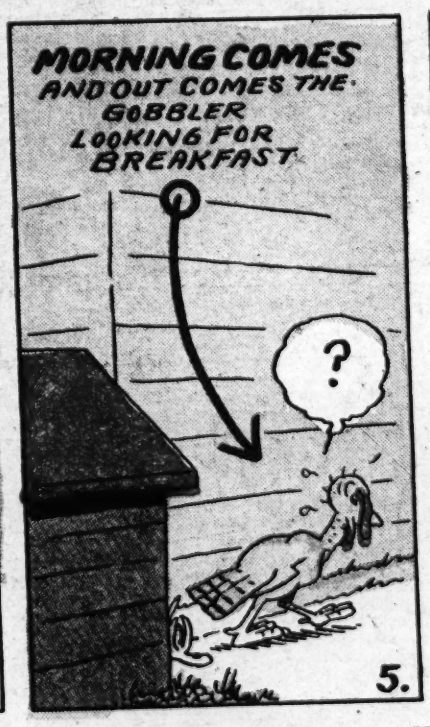
And it is scarcely safer to leave the money to a daughter. For, if a young woman has a prospective inheritance so large that, when a young man calls upon her, she can not tell whether he is calling upon her or her father, it is embarrassing—especially so if she finds after marriage that he married the wrong member of the family. And, I may add, that the daughters of the very rich are usually hedged about by a social environment which prevents their making the acquaintance of the best young men. The men who, twenty-five years from now, will be leaders in business, in society, in government, and in the church, are not the pampered sons of the rich, but the young men who, with good health and good habits, with high ideals and strong ambition, are, under the spur of necessity, laying the foundation for future achievements, and these young men do not have a chance to become acquainted with the daughters of the very rich. Even if they did know them they might hesitate to enter upon the scale of expenditure to which these daughters are accustomed.

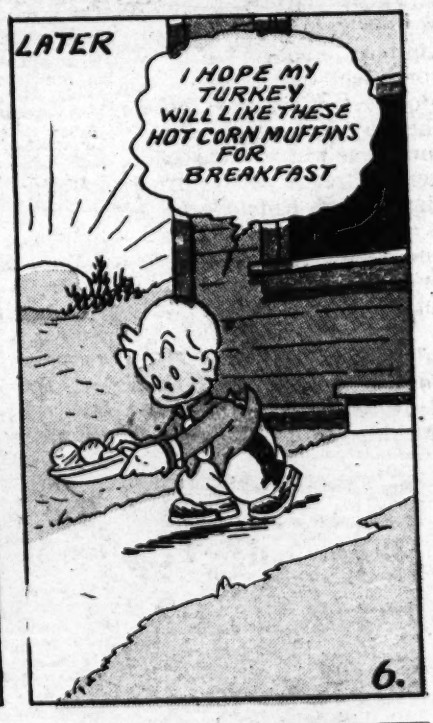
I have dealt at length with these fixed limitations, although we all know of them or ought to. The ministers tell us about these things Sunday after Sunday, or should, and yet we find men chasing the almighty dollar until they fall exhausted into the grave. Dr. Talmadge dealt with this subject; he said that a man who wore himself out getting money that he did not need, would finally drop dead, and that his pastor would tell a group of sorrowing friends that, by a mysterious dispensation of Providence, the good man had been cut off in his prime. Dr. Talmadge said that Providence had nothing to do with it, and that the minister ought to tell the truth about it, and say that the man had been kicked to death by the golden calf.

(Copyright, 1925, for The Constitution.)

BUTTONS and FATTY







Broadway Banter

Continued From Page 7

included in the cast, the four hundred would have then been intact.

"The School for Scandal" is too well-known to all of you to warrant any of my labored remarks about it. Suffice to say, the way it is now being portrayed at the Little theatre would evoke nothing but praise from Mr. Sheridan. Mrs. Insull makes a tantalizingly attractive Lady Teazle. Wilfrid Seagram particularly pleased me with his Charles Surface, while the titian-haired Miss Stirling's Maria is discerning and attractive. In the first act, Nora dances the minuet quite as well as in Atlanta she used to do the tickle-toe at all the Phi Pi contortions at Druid Hills Golf club. Or even better than she used to do the maxixe at "The Rare Birds Club," a dancing club which Nora and the Goldsmith-Schoen-Meador-Ellis contingent organized during their school-girl days at Washington Seminary.

* * * *

THE other day while I was talking to Richard Barthelmess at Inspiration studios, an excited youth of perhaps eighteen dashed up to the celebrity (Mr. Barthelmess being the celebrity) and said:

"Hello, Mr. Barthelmess, don't you remember me?"

"Why-er—" said the always pleasant Mr. Barthelmess, "for the moment I'm afraid I don't."

Utter amazement was written all over the boy's face.

"Why, I'm the clerk in the hotel at Pittfield, Mass., where you stayed three years ago! Surely you remember me now."

Now it might be assumed the famous Mr. Barthelmess has met a person or two in his life, and it is not entirely unbelievable he might have forgotten the Pittfield hotel clerk. However, it soon became known that the boy had saved up just enough money to get to New York, and was here all ready to accept any job Mr. Barthelmess had to offer him! Dick is going to do what he can for the kid, and if he doesn't find him something to do, it'll be the first person he ever turned down.

When Mr. Barthelmess had been called to the set, one of those occasional thoughts I have hit me. "How," I asked the Pittfieldian, "did you manage to get into the studio?"

"Oh, don't you know?" he asked brightly. "I stayed right behind you. When you had yourself announced, and Mr. Barthelmess sent word for you to come on up, I just stayed close behind you and came on in. You see, they thought at the gate I was with you!"

This sounds like one of those stories about which people like to say: "I'll bet that never any more happened." But just for this once, I ask you to believe me, for it not only happened, but it happened just the way I have told it. (Nothing but downright unkindness could now prompt anybody to say, "Well, what of it?")

* * * *

"THE MAN WITH A LOAD OF MISCHIEF" is a load which the farmer drove away after only two weeks on Broadway. There were moments in this play which I enjoyed rather much. In it there appeared Ruth Chatterton and her talented young husband, Ralph Forbes. This play seemed to flounder about and get no particular place. However, there are much worse plays which are still managing to run.

It is regretable a play as good as "Lucky Sam McCarver" was forced to close. This play was so good, it was well over the heads of most theatre-goers and therefore largely unattended. It is the work of the same man who wrote "They Knew What They Wanted." "Lucky Sam" was another of those plays which set out to prove the futility of a marriage between a lady of fashion and a gentleman of the lower classes.

* * * *

"THE GLASS SLIPPER," which the Guild theatre has been wearing for the past few weeks, is, I feel obligated to tell you, somewhat of a naughty affair. It is faultlessly and admirably done; it is appealing and at moments beautiful: its acting is wellnigh perfect; but the fact remains it is shockingly naughty in spots. (Don't trip yourself up rushing to "The Glass Slipper."

The story revolves around a pitiful little boarding-house slavey who has spent a life of being kicked around and generally mistreated. The star boarder, an elderly man who treats her no better than the rest, has become her idol, and she pictures him as her hero, a young aviator. After she learns he is to wed the disreputable landlady, she runs away and voluntarily enters one of those places which are the inspiration for such movies as "Traffic in Souls," "A Young Girl's Mistake," etc. Of course she's rescued in time, and as the play ends we see her at last in the arms of her "hero" with marriage (not adoption) soon to follow.

June Walker succeeds in making this little drudge a most realistic and pathetic figure, and gives one of the finest bits of acting the new season has so far seen. Lee Baker's performance as the elderly man is quite satisfactory. Helen Westley makes the boarding house keeper as disagreeable as possible, which means she gives a very good performance.

* * * *

YOU'VE no idea the rumpus the two "Hamlets" now running in New York are causing. People in favor of the costume one with Walter Hampden and Ethel Barrymore are incensed at the modern clothes version with Basil Sidney and Helen Chandler.

I suppose I should remain discreetly silent on the subject. For from my point of view, they could do it in pink sequins and knickers and I'd still see nothing to become hysterical about. Ophelia is the character I most admire in "Hamlet" for she, at least, seems to know she's crazy.

* * * *

OPERA seems to be getting on very nicely at the Metropolitan. Double chins have been carefully tucked beneath diamond dog-collars, and faces have been lifted beyond undreamed-of heights. What hair milady's barber allows her to retain these days is, of course, waved as permanently as is possible.

Opera seems to be a great place for people who are backward at making conversation. For while the singing is on, people who've never had anything to say before in their lives, seem able to think of countless topics to jabber about. I have observed the well-bred opera-goers never allows the conversation to lag during the opera. Only during the intermissions, when of course, there's much to see, is any sort of silence tolerated.

Among Us Georgians

Continued From Page 7

"Sharps and Flats," being quoted from one end of the country to another.

Entering the building, the Georgia poet said:

"I wish to go to Mr. Field's office."

"I don't know him," said the elevator boy.

"Eugene Field," said Mr. Stanton, marveling at his dullness.

"Never heard of him," insisted the boy. "If he's in this building I don't know him!"

It was a most astounding thing! Mr. Stanton explored around through the building a bit, calling at several offices, but everybody was busy—several persons to whom he spoke were rather brusque—and nobody seemed to have ever heard of the most famous member of their staff!

"I don't think I ever did strike the editorial department," said Mr. Stanton, laughingly. "Of course if I had ever reached that floor my journey would have been at an end. But I got so discouraged—and so disgusted that poetic talent was not appreciated more by those busy gentlemen in the advertising and subscription departments—that I finally quit and left the building without ever finding Eugene Field!"

* * * *

THIS story of Joel Chandler Harris probably has been published before, but it may be new to some readers—and it certainly is interesting to all who knew Uncle Remus.

He was in the habit of calling for his mail at the Atlanta postoffice at a certain hour Sunday. It seemed that at that time the delivery window was open for a period on Sundays for the convenience of the public.

The regular clerk at that window knew Mr. Harris well. All that he did was to place his smiling face before the window and the clerk handed out his mail.

One Sunday a new clerk was on guard there—a brisk, business-like, bossy person, with "efficiency expert" written all over him.

Joel Chandler Harris marched up to the window, looked in smilingly and waited his mail.

"Name?" snapped the clerk.

name—name—NAME? What is your name—give it to me quick!"

And to make matters worse he began to snap his fingers.

Confused and flabbergasted—in fact demoralized by this wholly unexpected and rather savage mental test—Georgia's great man of letters said, mildly, as he groped around wildly in his mind for the information desired:

"I declare, I don't believe I can give it!"

"Stand aside then," cried the clerk, frantically. "Stand aside! Let somebody come up who does know his name!"

Mr. Harris told the story on himself with great relish.

Things New and Old About the Bible

(Continued From Page 6.)

deny him. Then if God is not good, He has deceived us, and tricked us in putting within our spirits high aspirations which are only delusive, and we are the victims of a fraud. I am sure, however, that widely different types of mind will agree that if there is a God he is good.

And if God is good, we may rely on the trueness of our religious nature, and that man's higher energies and hopes are not grasping at a shadow.

5. Faith in a personal God who is good is evidenced by our spiritual experience.

A confidence in spiritual experience is the assurance that the soul is in touch with everlasting reality. We can not believe that the lower senses speak the truth as to objective reality, that the mind of the sensualist is in harmony with corresponding reality while the highest life with its love, joy, peace, goodness, faith and all the fruits of the spirit, is dealing only with visionary qualities without any corresponding world of spiritual realities.

"Speak thou with Him for He hears
And spirit with spirit can meet,
Closer is He than breathing,
And nearer than hands or feet."

Mothers Look!
All 3 Dresses $2.98 FOR ALL

Just to introduce our bargains we offer three wonderful dresses for about the price of one. The serge dress is neatly silk embroidered and finished with flannel Peter Pan collar and silk ribbon tie. Center dress is good washable linene with checked gingham collar and sailor tie, inverted pleat creates flare skirt. Checked gingham dress has two pockets and Peter Pan collar of crisp organdy and is finished with tie and sash. This is a wonderful chance to get three dandy dresses for play, school and dress wear. DON'T MISS THIS BARGAIN. Sizes 6 to 14 years.
SEND NO MONEY—Pay postman on arrival $2.98 plus a few pennies postage. Your Money back if not satisfied.
Central Mail Order Co. 673 W. Madisen St. Dept. 802. Chicago

BEAUTIFUL SILVER SET GIVEN

26 PIECES Handsome daisy pattern Sterling-like design. Guaranteed 6 years. Yours for selling only 12 boxes Mentho-Nova Salve (Wonder Menthol Ointment) at 25 cents a box. Return $3.00 and complete set is yours. Order now. Send no money. We trust you.
U. S. SUPPLY COMPANY, Dept. 1352 GREENVILLE, PA.

Sale of Dresses
2 for $2.98 for both
No Extra Charge For Stouts Sizes 32 to 53 Bust
Wool-Finish Serge
SIZES: 32 to 53 Bust
NEWEST FALL STYLES
MONEY BACK GUARANTEE
EIGHT HOUR SERVICE—YOUR ORDER SHIPPED SAME DAY RECEIVED
FREE—BARGAIN CATALOG WITH EVERY ORDER

Just to make satisfied customers, you can buy both of these wonderful dresses for the price of one. Positively the biggest bargain we ever offered. Both dresses are made of strong wearing navy blue, wool-finished serge. One is neat pencil stripe in the new coat effect with side sash and button trim. Popular Peter Pan collar and tie strings. The other is embroidered with silk and has turn back collar, tie strings and sash belt. Most styles suitable for all figures and for year around wear.
SEND NO MONEY—just send letter now! When dresses are delivered pay postman only $2.98 and a few cents delivery charges. If not satisfied we'll return your money. Isn't that fair?
NORMAN ROBERTS CO. 75-K-833 CHICAGO

ASTHMA
CURED BEFORE YOU PAY
Just your name and address will bring you—all charges prepaid—a full sized bottle of Lane's Famous Remedy. No matter how long you have suffered or where you live—try my remedy without cost to you. It has cured thousands and does not cost you a cent until you are completely cured—then send me only $1.25. Write me today.
D. J. LANE, 216 Lane Bldg., St. Marys, Kansas

Another Near East Trouble-Point

Continued From Page 9

September the council of the league appointed a boundary commission to investigate the report. The commission was composed of three members, a Hungarian, a Belgian and a Swede, representing respectively a country associated with Turkey during the war, a country associated with Great Britain and a country which had remained neutral. At its Brussels meeting (October 29, 1924) the council of the league found it necessary also to define arbitrarily a provisional boundary which the disputants promised to respect pending the council's final decision. This provisional boundary is the one commonly known as the "Brussels line."

Report of the Boundary Commission.

THE boundary commission, after an extensive survey on the spot (January 16-March 18, 1925), reported to the league council on July 16th that:

(1) It would recommend that the whole territory south of the "Brussels line" be united with Iraq on the double condition that it remain under the effective mandate of the league for approximately 25 years and that a specified degree of autonomy be given the Kurds.

(2) The non-fulfillment of these conditions would make it preferable to award the territory to Turkey, whose internal conditions and external political situation were incomparably more than those of Iraq.

(3) A possible solution was the partitioning of the Vilayet so as to give Turkey two-thirds of the disputed territory, the boundary following approximately the course of the Lesser Zeb.

The divergent character of the three recommendations reflects the intricacies of the problem awaiting solution. Legal considerations conflicted with economic necessity, religious and historical frontiers did not correspond with natural frontiers, and no reasonable racial frontier could be suggested. The findings on which these recommendations were based appear in the body of the commission's painstaking and detailed report.

On September 3 and 4, 1925, the council of the league met to consider the report and to hear the comments of the British and Turkish representatives. For the purpose of arriving at a settlement of the boundary dispute the Turkish delegate had been given a temporary seat in the council on terms of equality with permanent members of the council.

During September there became apparent a radical divergence of views as to (a) the jurisdiction of the council and (b) the procedure appropriate to its deliberations. For this reason the council decided on September 19, 1925, to ask the permanent court of international justice for a ruling:

(1) as to the character its decision should take (whether an arbitral award, recommendation or simple mediation);

(2) as to the method of arriving at its decision (whether by unanimity or by a majority vote and whether with or without the participation of the disputants).

Intransigeance of Both Parties.

What action Turkey would take in case of an adverse boundary decision was foreshadowed by Tewfik Bey on September 4, 1925. On that day he stated that Turkey had promised to accept the council's decision only on condition that it came within the treaties already existing between Turkey and Great Britain and took account of the desires of the people in the disputed territory. The first recommendation of the commission fulfilled neither of these conditions. No plebiscite had been held; existing treaties contained no recognition of the mandatory principle. A decision based on the commission's first recommendation, then, could not be binding upon Turkey. This unexpected interpretation of Turkey's former promise to regard the council's decision as binding was evidently the result of a fear that an adverse decision was foreordained.

But the Turks were not alone in their intransigeant attitude. The British delegate expressly reiterated his warning to the effect that Great Britain could no longer be held responsible for the welfare of Iraq of it were to be shorn of the Vilayet of Mosul. Tension was heightened by the rumors of war featured in the British and Turkish press, and by the mutual accusations of bad faith and violence indulged in by the British and Turkish delegations at Geneva. Turkey lodged a series of formal protests against:

(1) Alleged violations of the provisional boundary by British aeroplanes and Iraq raiding parties.

(2) British naval maneuvers in Turkish territorial waters, timed so as to coincide with the Geneva discussions on the subject of the Iraq frontier.

(3) British reprisals against Iraqis who had given evidence in favor of Turkey at the boundary commission hearings.

Great Britain in turn charged the Turkish authorities with having permitted or instigated:

(1) Violations of the provisional boundary by Turkish troops who were occupying villages south of the "Brussels line."

(2) Systematic forcible deportation of Christian populations both north and south of the provisional boundary.

These successive charges and the explanations elicited by them served gradually to intensify the existing strain until on September 24 the council of the league decided to dispatch representatives to investigate on the spot the charges made by the Turkish and British governments and to report immediately any similar occurrences in the future. The atmosphere had not cleared when Lieutenant Colonel Amery and Tewfik Bey left Geneva, the former to face the criticism of a hostile press which decries oversea expenditure, the latter to be welcomed by a press which appears to be almost unanimous in its support of the Turkish nationalist principle.

Describing an Ideal Man

Continued From Page 8.

What's Wrong Here, but he can not be crude and have Bebe's company. Also, she has a pet aversion to cynical men and book borrowers who forget to keep that faithful promise to return them within a reasonable time.

Colleen Moore likes them like her Jawhn. As there is only one of him, however, and she has him, there aren't any more wishes to make about men. He's friend, husband, and friend-husband all in one, and that, says Colleen, is what she wanted a man to be.

Vera Reynolds, a Venus pocket edition herself, insists upon six feet of protective manhood before her heart leaves its present moorings. Besides his six feet, she insists he must be much, much wiser than she ever expects to be, as she couldn't love him short or tall unless he has great intelligence.

Priscilla Dean insists upon white teeth and clean fingernails. She can not imagine a man having other virtues if he is careless about his mouth and nails.

Hedda Hopper says it is hard for a big girl to get sympathy. She may be in the depths of despair, but generally speaking she has to do her own climbing out of it. So a sympathetic male is not without appeal to Miss Hopper. But that isn't so important as that a fine mind accompany the suitor with whom she is willing to spend her evenings. When she goes out she wants to learn something. A mistake men make, in Miss Hopper's opinion, is in playing down to women from their lofty points of intelligence. It is rather insulting to your intelligence to be treated as though you had the mentality of a two-year-old. You are attracted to a man, in the first place, by his intelligence and he ought to keep up that role to hold the woman.

Louise Fazenda says of the movie girls' opportunities of meeting men: "Where do we meet them? If they come visiting the studios they look at you as they look on the caged inhabitants of the zoo. They expect you to do some tricks, eat peanuts, or turn a somersault, or do something you may not be in the mood to do at all. Not so long ago the Shriners came around. There were a couple of handsome ones of them a gal wouldn't mind meeting—but how to do it?

"Light and laughter are the enemies of love," Louise sighs, "and that is why comedians are out of luck, you see."

However, she has her tastes just the same. She likes 'em with that well tubbed look for which the Englishmen are supposed to be notorious. No perfumes, however, to assail one's tender nostrils.

Men have itchy feet, philosophizes Louise. They just have to wander. The tired business man when he wants a pillow is satisfied with the plain woman. When he gets into his dancing slippers he wants the pretty one.

Bessie Love judges a man by his feet and hands. They're what she notices first and make the impressions for or agin him. His shoes must be trim and smart looking. "You can tell a lot about a man from his nails," says Bessie. "I don't understand character reading, but there are obvious character features about tidy hands and slovenly ones. The highly polished male nail denotes vanity, and unkempt hands a total lack of it."

The he-men of the wide open spaces don't register so effectively with Corinne Griffith. For her part they can be somebody else's darlings. She likes hers well groomed. And May McAvoy judges a man by his walk. If he slouches along he creates an unfavorable impression. If he walks briskly he suggests business. If his steps are light he must be gay and carefree. And there's the ambling gait of the purposeless man, and the jerky movement of the nervous, irritable man.

Kansas City Doctor Invents New Truss

New Discovery Heals Rupture Without An Operation

A new discovery which, experts agree, has no equal for curative effects in all rupture cases, is the latest accomplishment of the well-known Hernia Specialist, Dr. Andrew Kaiser, 8328 Koch Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. The extraordinary success of this new method proves that it holds and heals a rupture. It weighs only a few ounces. Has no hard gouging pads, no elastic belt, no leg straps, no cruel steel bands, and is as comfortable as a light garment. It has enabled hundreds of persons to throw away trusses and declare their rupture absolutely healed. Many of these had serious double ruptures, from which they had suffered for years. It is Dr. Kaiser's ambition to have every ruptured person enjoy the quick relief, comfort and healing power of his discovery, and he will send it on free trial to any reader of The Constitution who writes him. He wants one person in each neighborhood to whom he can refer. If you wish to be rid of rupture for good without an operation, take advantage of the doctor's free offer. Write him today. The coupon below is convenient.

FREE TRIAL OFFER COUPON

Dr. Andrew Kaiser, 8328 Koch Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

Without any obligation whatever on my part, please send me your Free Trial Offer. Here is my name and address.

.....

.....

Trade in Your Old Glasses On a New Pair

I guarantee perfect satisfaction or will make no charge whatever. I have convinced over 200,000 men and women that my large "True Vision" glasses, with handsome shell rims, are the finest and most durable spectacles to be had. I want to send you a pair at my own risk, without one penny in advance. These splendid glasses will enable you to read the smallest print, thread the finest needle, see far or near. All I ask is that you send me your name, address and age. Send No Money.

I know that these finely ground glasses will give you such "True Vision" and splendid satisfaction that I insist on sending them on FREE TRIAL, so you can see what a remarkable bargain I offer. When they arrive, put them on and see with what ease and comfort they will enable you to read, work and sew, see clearly at a distance or close up, by daylight or lamplight.

If after wearing them 10 days and nights you are delighted with them and think them equal to spectacles selling elsewhere at $15.00, send only $3.98, otherwise return them and there will be no charge. Try them NOW—They are SENT FREE. They will come packed in a beautiful gold-lettered spectacle case. Try them for 10 full days at my risk and expense. Send the coupon now. Send no money! I will accept any old pair you may have, as $1.00 part payment on these wonderful spectacles.

MAIL COUPON TODAY

B. D. R. SPECTACLE CO. Dept. KY-587
1462-64-66 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

Send me a pair of your spectacles on 10-day FREE TRIAL. If I like them I will pay $3.98, or $2.98 and an old pair of spectacles. If not, I will return them and there will be no charge.

Name .....Age .....

Post Office .....

Street and No. .....

Box No. .....R. F. D. .....State .....

A Baby in Your Home

Thousands of copies of a new book by Dr. H. Will Elders are being distributed to women without cost. Every woman who wants children should read this book and learn all about STERILTONE and its wonderful effect in constitutional weakness. Many things are unfolded that the average woman has never been told before. For Free Book send NO Money. No obligations, simply name and address to Dr. H. Will Elders, 1203 Ballinger Bldg., St. Joseph, Mo.—(adv.)

RED MAGIC SECTION

Edited by The World Famous HOUDINI

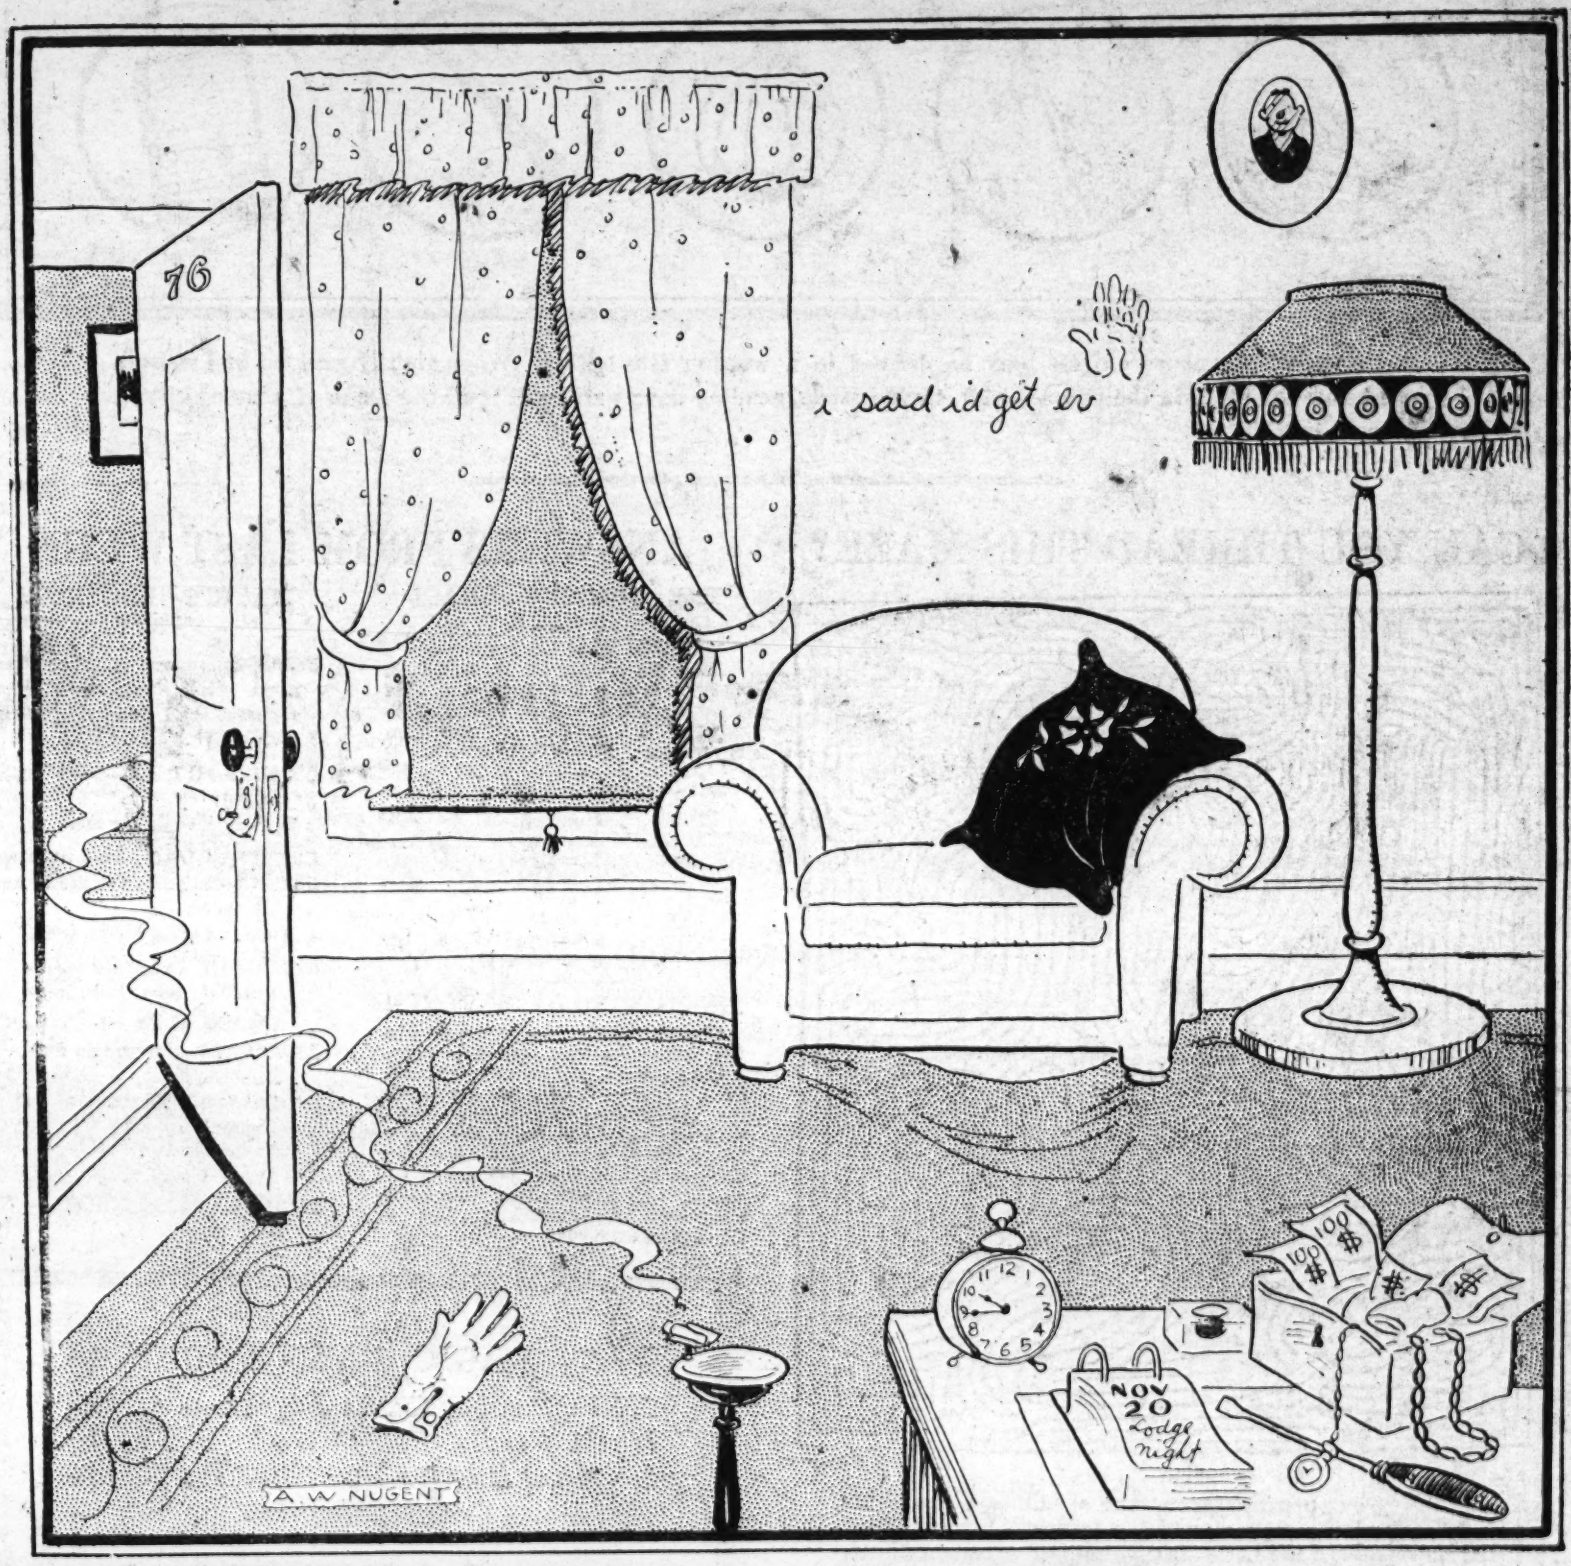
ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

Trade Mark Reg. U. S. Pat Off.

EDUCATION as well as ENTERTAINMENT

ATLANTA, GA., NOVEMBER 22, 1925.

A "SHERLOCK HOLMES" PROBLEM



Our great detective was sitting in his office one day when a young man entered.

"Here is a photograph of my apartment which I took by flashlight yesterday evening," he said, handing the detective the picture we reproduce above. "I was coming home early, and I heard a noise"——

The detective interrupted. "I know what you heard," he said. "You heard a window being opened."

"How did you know that?" asked the young man in astonishment.

"This photograph told me," said the detective. "You were wise to take it and show it to me. I can describe, in general, the man who broke into your apartment; tell you fairly accurately what he was and why he came there, and explain how I knew you had heard a window open before you told me. I think that with what I know and what you can tell me we will have no trouble in locating the burglar."

"How did you know it was a man?"

"The photograph again," replied the detective.

The detective proved to be right, for as soon as he described the intruder the young man identified him, and in less than twenty-four hours he was behind the bars.

Now study the picture carefully and see if you can give a general description of the burglar and explain about that sound of the opening window.

Save Your Magic---Answers Next Week

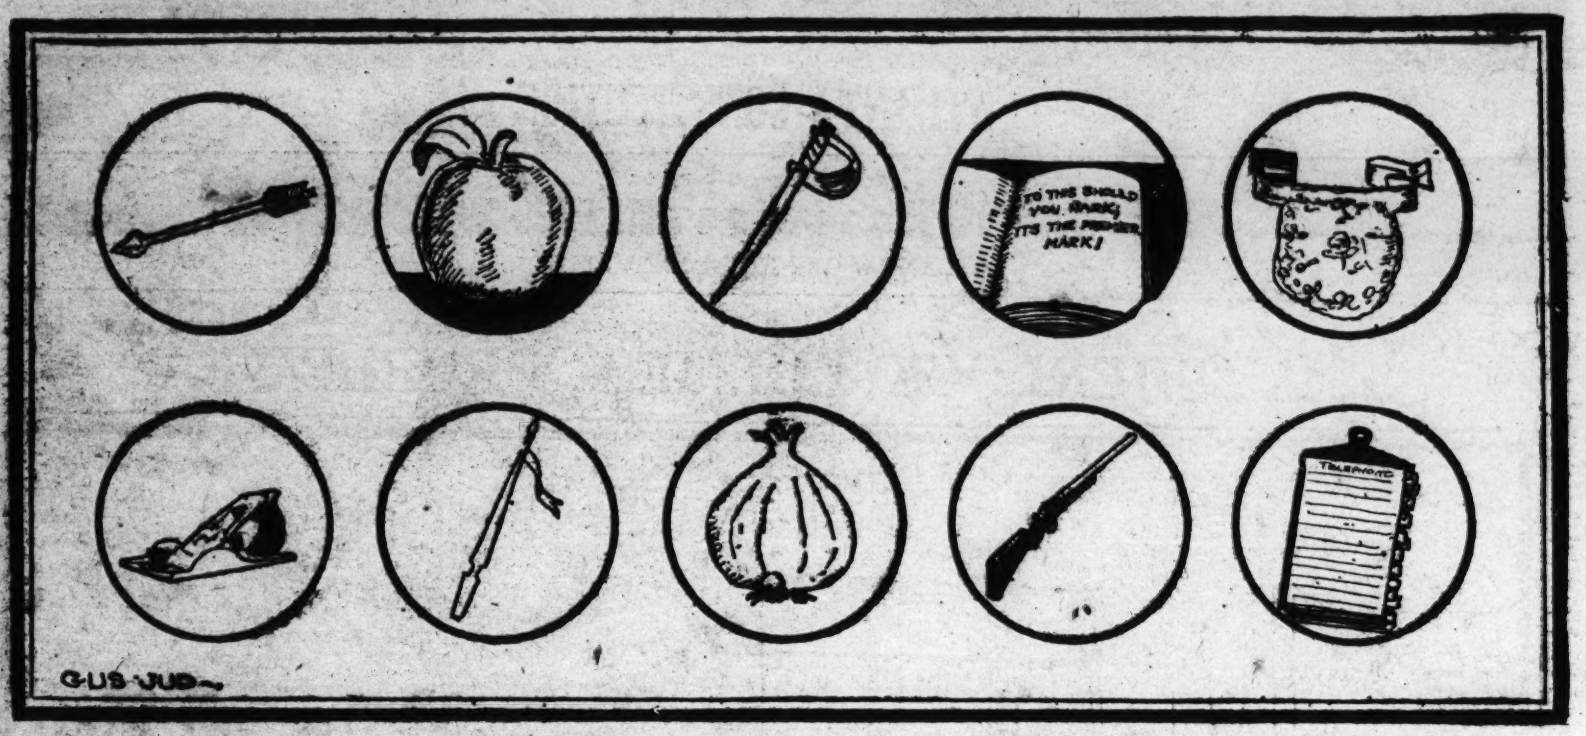
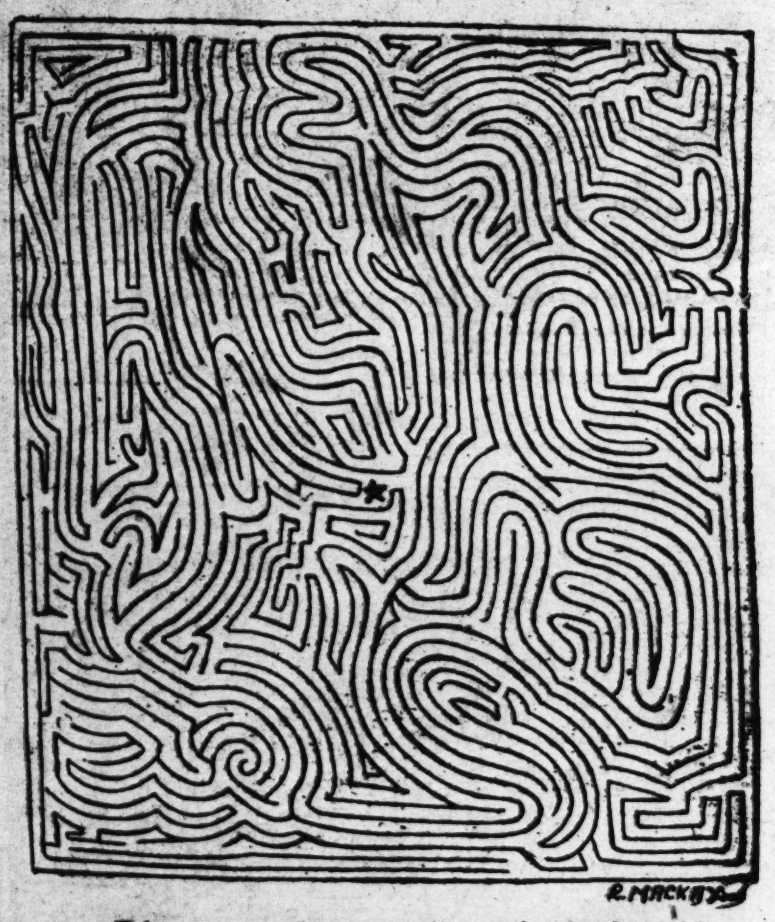
WHAT CITY IS BURIED HERE?



Each of the above objects may be defined in a word of five letters. When rightly guessed and written one below the other in the proper order, their initials, reading downward, will spell the name of a noted city, a seaport in Chili.

CAN YOU THREAD THIS MAZE?



Take your pencil, start at the opening on the right-hand side of the picture, and try to reach the centre of the maze, where the little star is, without crossing a line. You will find plenty of traps for the unwary. It may look simple at first glance—but just try it!

ANSWERS FROM LAST WEEK

THE JUMPING GRASSHOPPER

Make the following moves: Move 12, 1, 3, 2, 12, 11, 1, 3, 2, 5, 7, 9, 10, 8, 6, 4, 5, 7, 3, 10, 8, 6, 4, 5, 7, 9, 10, 8, 6, 4, 5, 7, 9, 10, 8, 6, 4, 2, 2, 12, 11, 3, 1, 2. You will then have reversed the pieces in 44 moves.

BURIED CITY

C apitol
A viator
L obster
C hemist
U nicorn
T heatre
T orpedo
A nagram

SING A SONG OF SIXPENCE

Give the picture a quarter-turn to the left; you will see the jolly, smiling queen outlined by the tree limb, the trees behind the wall, and the clothesline. Another quarter-turn in the same direction will show the maid of honor just below the farthest blackbird on your left. Still another quarter-turn will reveal the king, with beard and crown, just to the right of the pie.

MAGIC'S BIRTHDAY PARTY

REBUS—Bess tree guard sandman negro wing four tunes (Best regards and many growing fortunes.)

CRYPTOGRAM—That magic melody
Is good enough for me.

CRYPTIC WORD—Good evening.

ENIGMA—Friends, I'm glad to see you here,
Wish you all a happy year.

SPELL-OUT SQUARE—Here is Houdini, Sam Loyd, and all the rest of the lot.

ANAGRAMS—Our puzzle fans.
Sam Loyd.
Enigmatic Edgar.
Houdini.
Anagram Ann
Happy birthday.

NUMBER CRYPTOGRAM — My birthday.

MAGIC GIVES YOU

Tricks, Puzzles, Games and Stunts for the Whole Family Every Week From the Library of HARRY HOUDINI, the World's Greatest Magician

MRS. WIGGS'S CABBAGE PATCH and A SPEEDOMETER PUZZLE

Two Problems by SAM LOYD

Mrs. Wiggs always lays out her cabbage patch in the form of a perfect square, and with the rows in perfect order and equal distance apart.

This season she increased the size of her patch, and has issued the interesting report that she will have 211 more cabbages to market than she had last year.

With these rather meagre data, who can figure out how many cabbages of the famous Wiggs brand will come to a head this season?

Monsieur de Foie Gras, the noted chauffeur, mentions that while motoring from Passy to Partout, a distance of 135 miles, in two hours, and from Partout to Nulpart, a distance of 104 miles, in two more hours, the power steadily diminished during the entire four hour journey, so that the hourly runs decreased a like number of miles each hour.

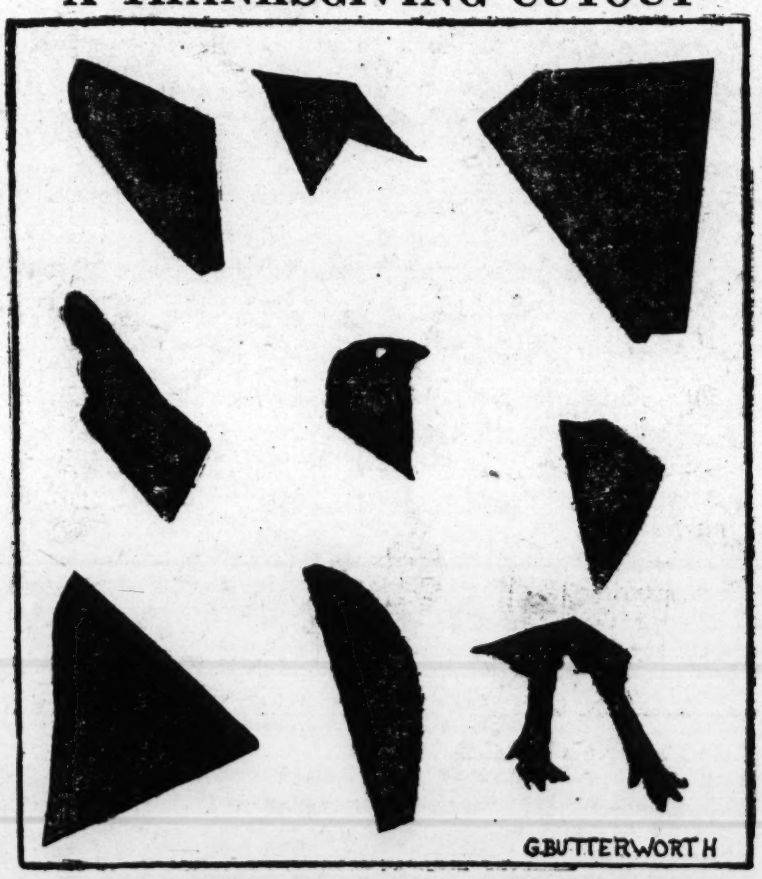
Now, from these interesting facts who can figure out the distance that the speedometre recorded at the end of each hour?

A PAGE FOR LITTLE PUZZLERS

A FROG HE WOULD A-WOOING GO

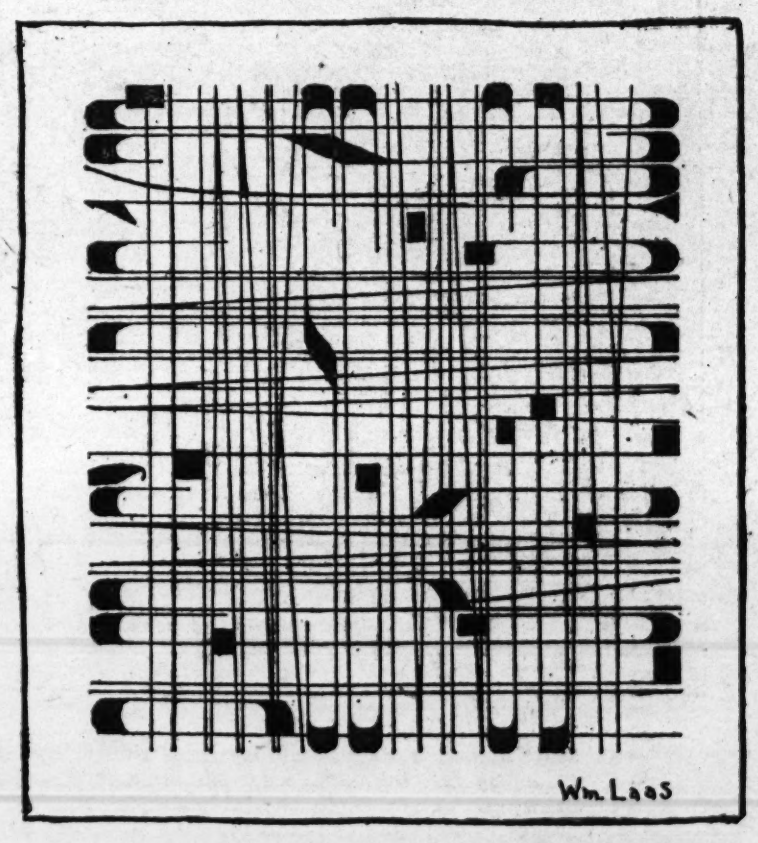
Here is the frog who would a-wooing go, with a rowley, powley, gammon and spinach, heigh-ho, says Rowley. He is hopping merrily across the brook, taking care not to get his fine new clothes wet, for he expects to meet his froggie sweetie before very long. Mrs. Goose, paddling along quietly, seems rather amused at our frog, and he is rather ridiculous, isn't he? In fact, he has made three other animals laugh—a mouse, a cat and a dog. All three are hidden somewhere in the picture. Can you find them?

A THANKSGIVING CUTOUT



Cut out these nine pieces carefully. It would be a good idea to paste the whole picture on thin cardboard before you cut the pieces out, so that you will have the puzzle in permanent form. When you have the pieces neatly cut out, if you put them together correctly you will make a picture of a bird that is of great importance this time of year.

CAN YOU READ THIS?



This looks as though it were a meaningless jumble of lines and spots; but if you hold the page flat at about the level of your eyes you will clearly see the name of a national holiday. Now if you give the page a quarter-turn to your right, you will see the name and date of an event in American history which we all ought to remember, particularly on the holiday mentioned.

WHAT IS WRONG WITH THIS PICTURE?

This peaceful home scene depicted by our artist should make all bachelors feel remorse for their single state and rush off at once to rectify the error of their ways. That's the way we feel about it, and the artist evidently felt the same way, for sentiment, or something, caused his pencil to make twenty mistakes in the drawing. For example, the table lamp is burning brightly with the cord entirely disconnected from the light socket. See if you can find the other nineteen errors.

SAVE YOUR MAGIC SECTION

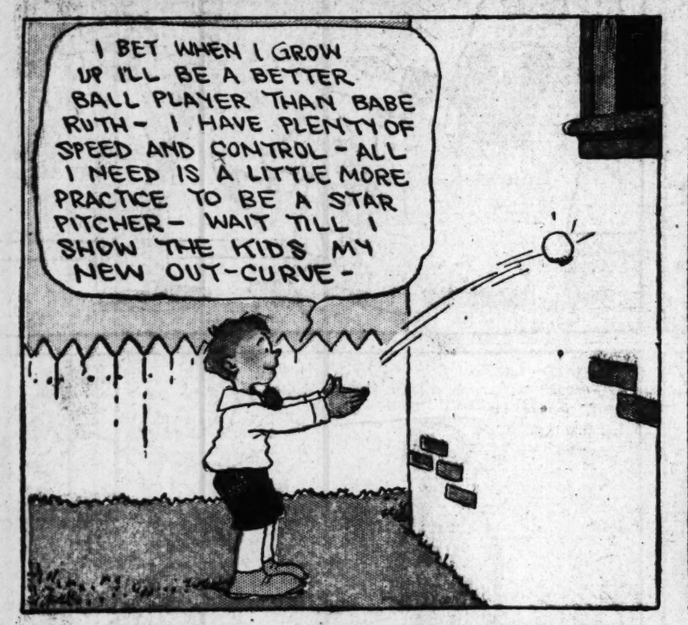
8 PAGES OF WORLD'S GREATEST COMICS

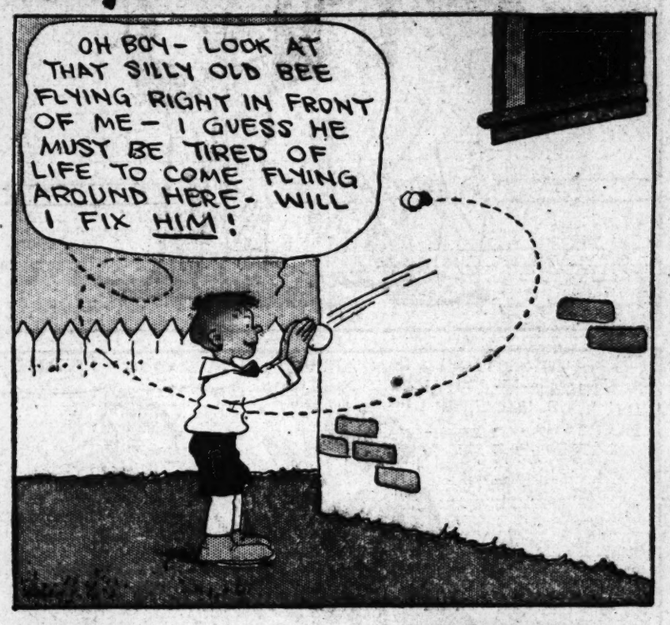
1st COMIC SECTION

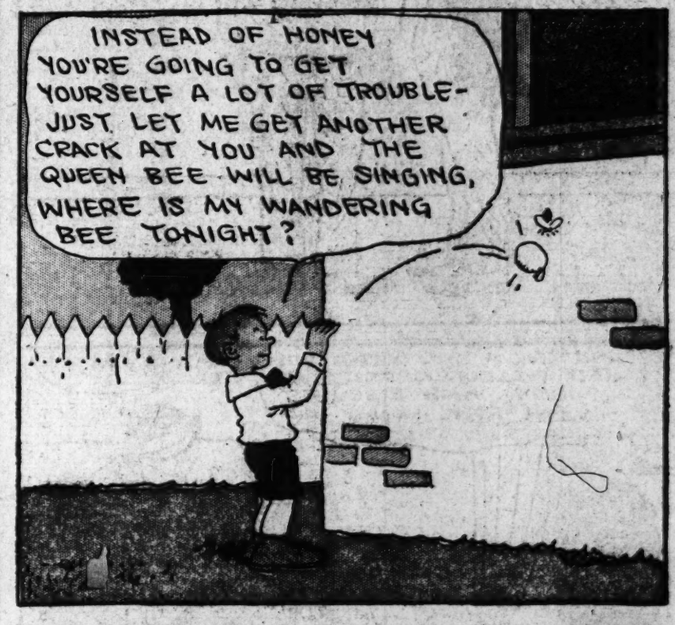
THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

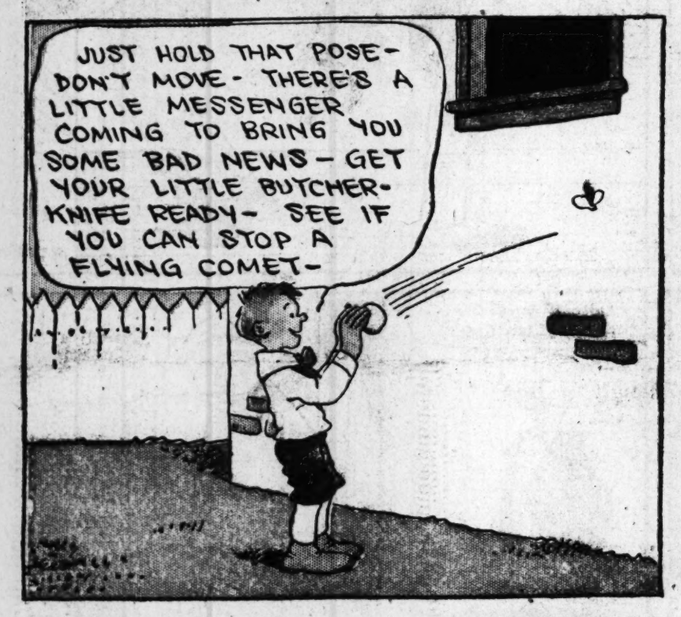
1st COMIC SECTION

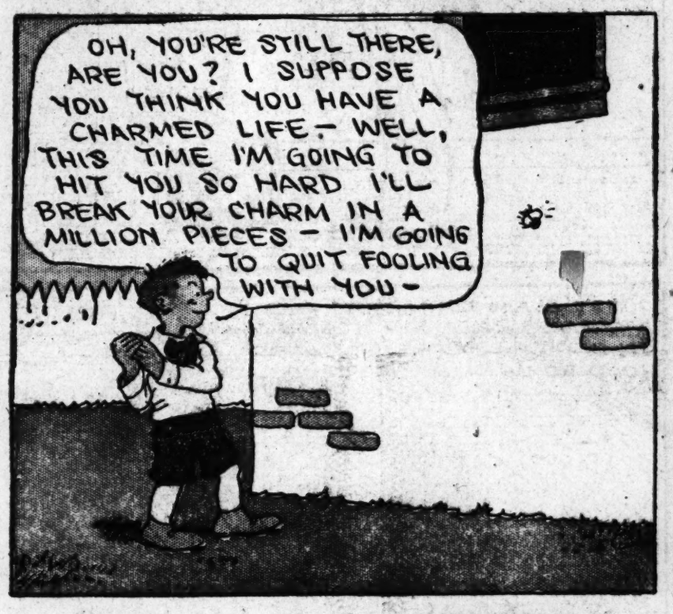
ATLANTA, GA., SUNDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 22, 1925.

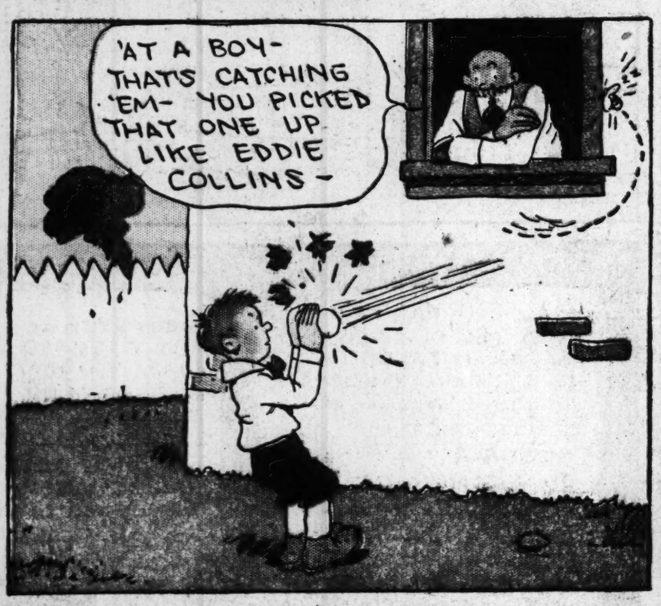


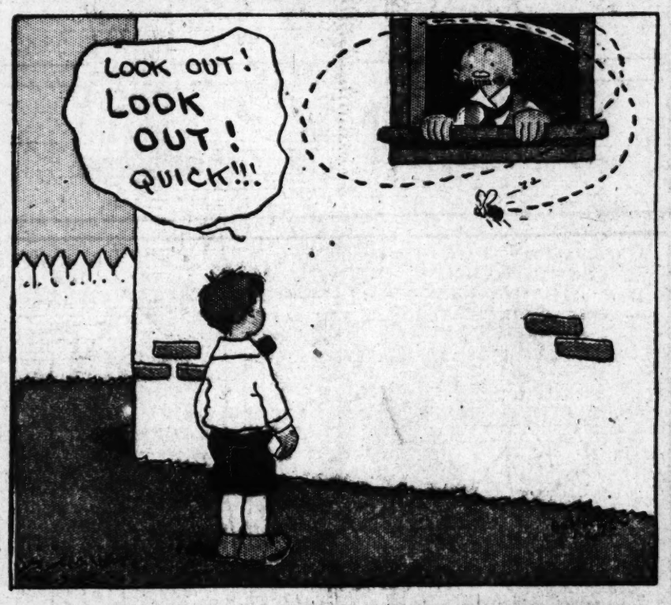


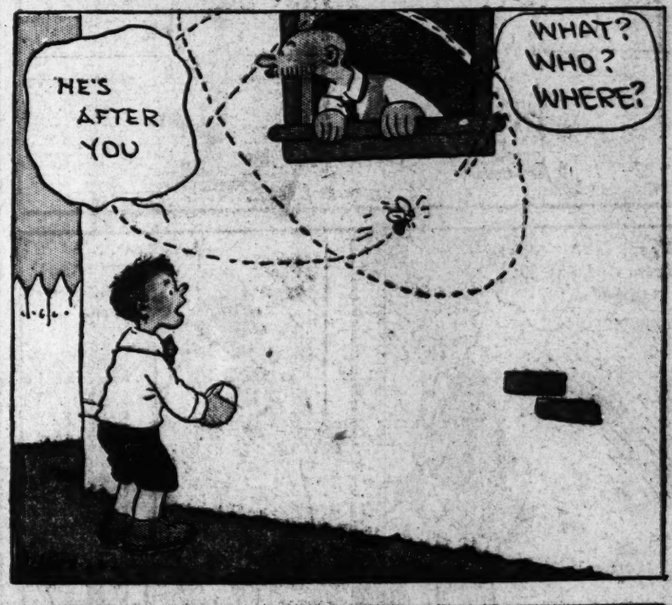


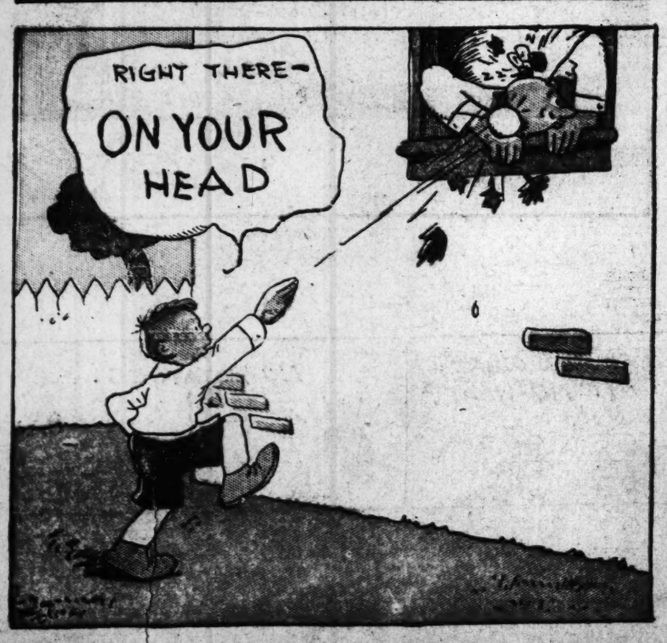






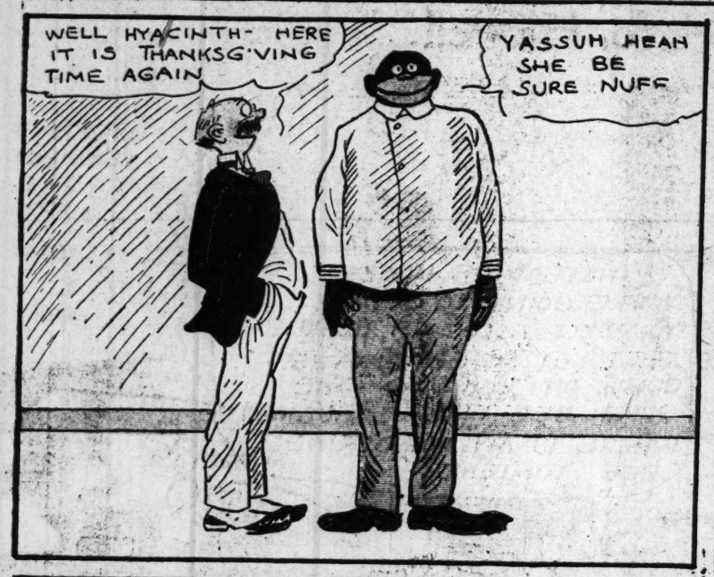


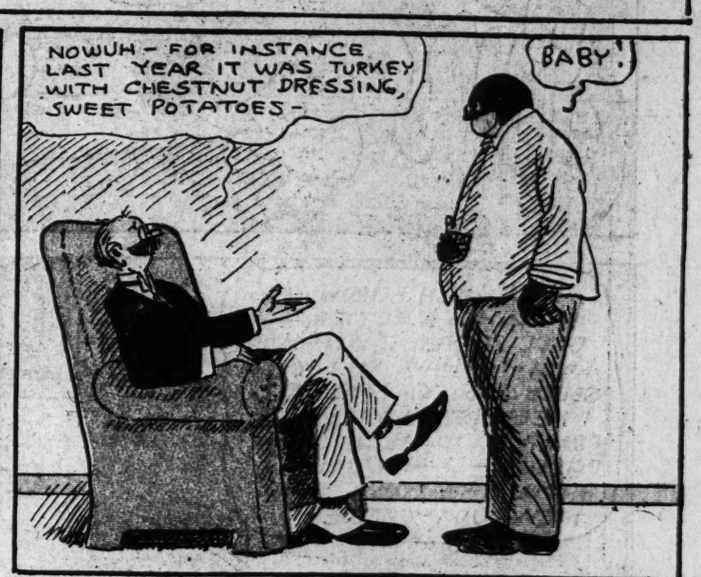


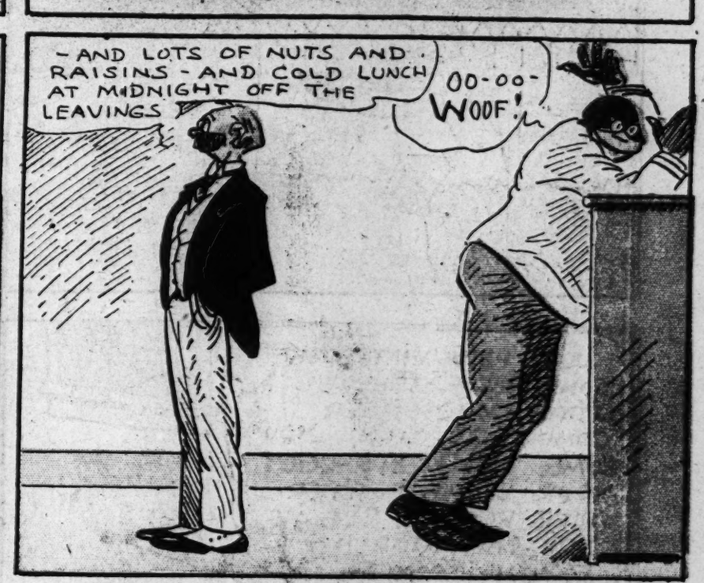


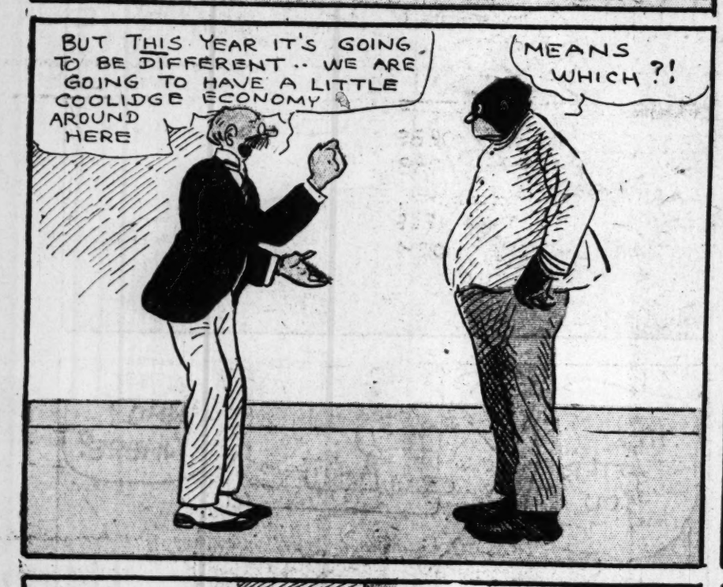
Mr. and Mrs.-

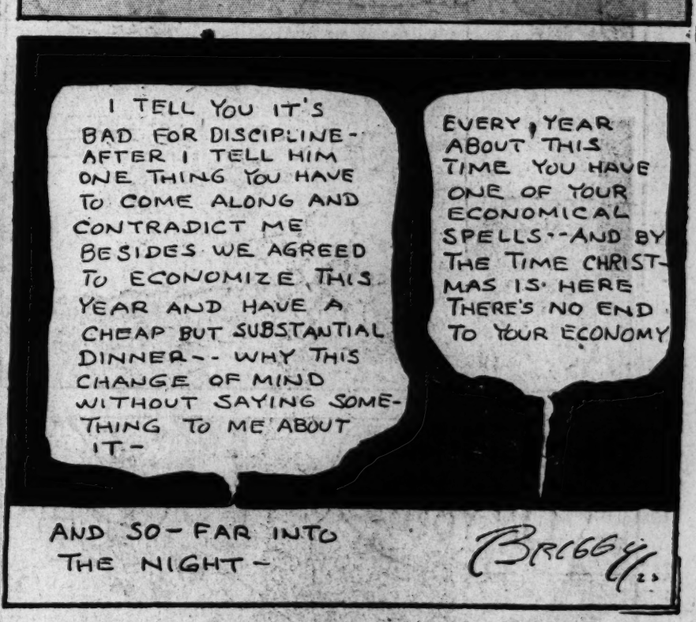
By Briggs

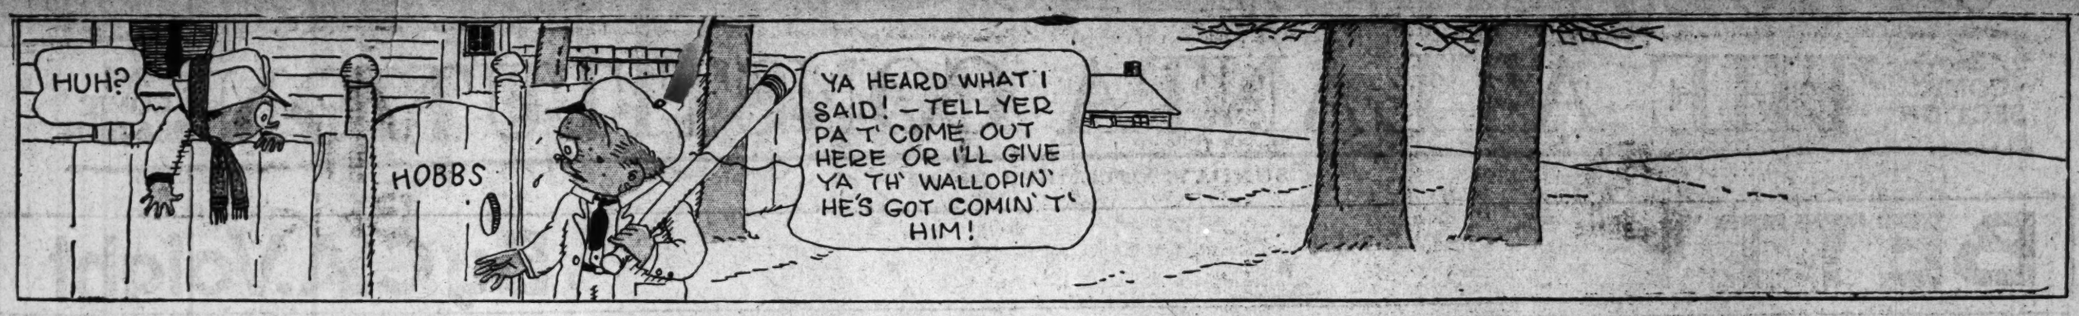




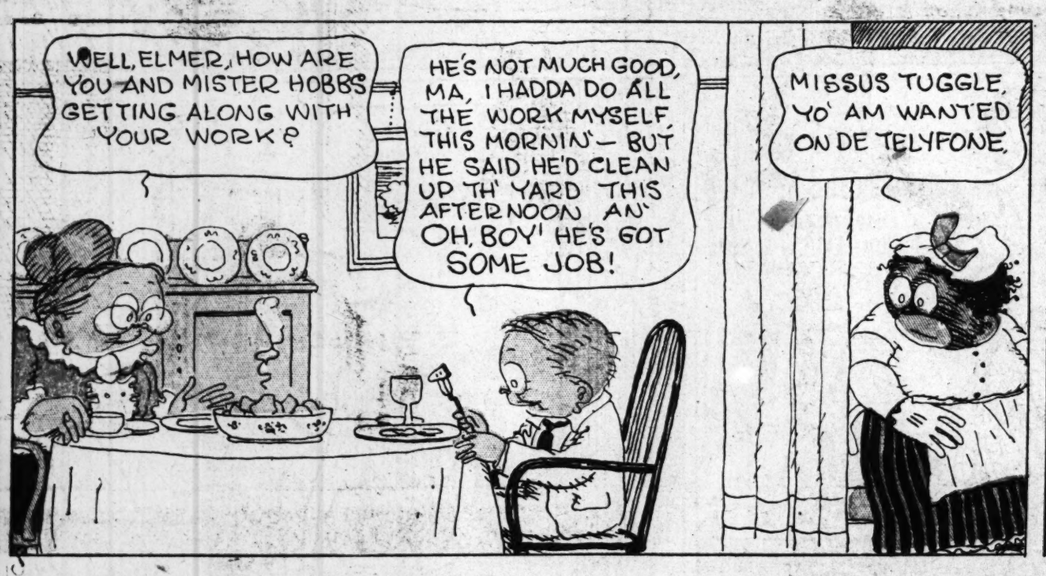


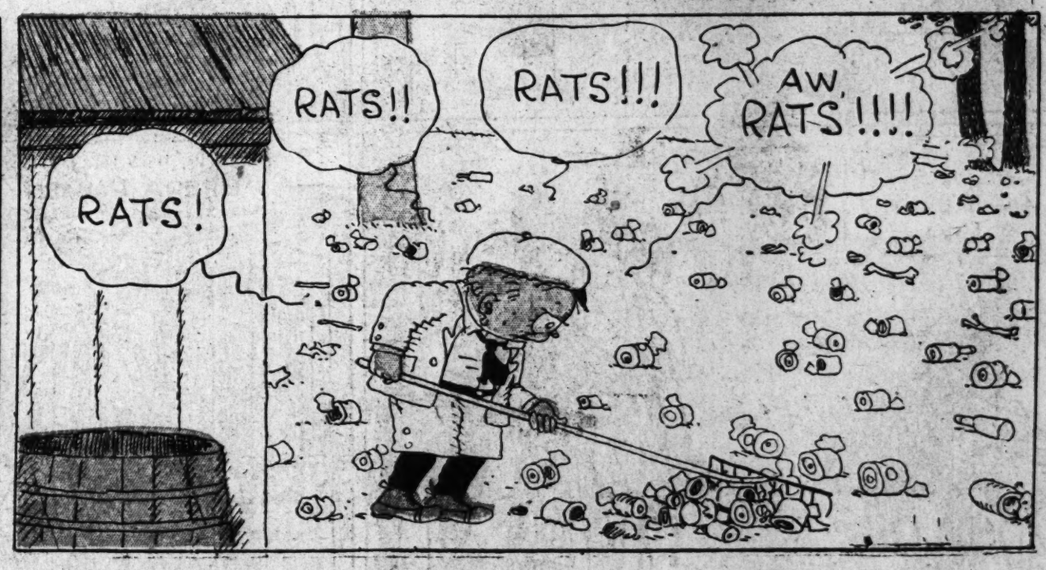


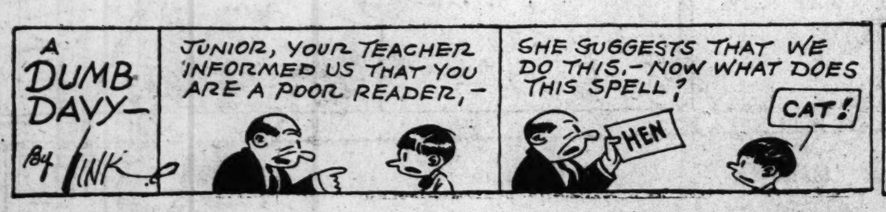




Elmer---He Was Merely Making More Work for Himself.







8 PAGES OF WORLD'S GREATEST COMICS

2nd COMIC SECTION

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

2nd COMIC SECTION

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1925

BETTY

By C.A.Voight

2nd COMIC SECTION

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

2nd COMIC SECTION

ATLANTA, GA., SUNDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 22, 1925.

MY WORD! WE GAWN'T EAT YET, SIR. IT IS FORTY-FIVE MINUTES UNTIL THE DINNAH HOUR.

DEAF & DUMB GAB

THE EARL SPELLS THAT HIS STUMMICK MUST BE FAST THEN, LORD PLUSHBOTTOM.

MULLINS—THE EARL OF CANTERBURY WHO IS TOURING THIS COUNTRY, IS GOING TO STOP OFF BETWEEN TRAINS AND TAKE DINNER WITH ME AND I WANT YOU TO MEET HIM AT THE TRAIN— I HAVEN'T SEEN THE EARL SINCE WE WERE TEN YEARS OLD BUT YOU WILL RECOGNIZE HIM BECAUSE HIS LETTER SAYS HE WEARS A BEARD NOW.

PURTY SOFT FER YOU, MOON, HOBNOBBIN WITH ROYALTY AN' ME WITHOUT EVEN TH' PRICE OF A BEAN SANDWICH.

WHADDAYA MEAN SOFT, PIGEARS? I'LL GET CANNED IF I DON'T SHOW UP WITH A EARL WITH WHISKERS. AND WHEN THEY PILE OUTTA THIS RATTLER IT LOOKS LIKE A FAMILY REUNION OF TH' SMITH BROTHERS.

LORD PLUSHBOTTOM— HERE'S YOUR PAL TH' EARL. HE SAYS TO TELL YOU HE'S DEEF AND DUMB NOW AND THAT I'D BETTER EAT WITH YOU CAUSE I CAN TALK TO HIM ON MY FINGERS.

TELL THE EARL I'M CHARMED TO SEE HIM AGAIN AND DRIVE US TO THE RITZ, MULLINS.

AFTER YOU SERVE MY TURKEY, MUSHMOUTH— BRING ME A STEIN OF SARSAPARILLA.

AN' DE SAME FOH YO' MISTAH PIGEARS?

BOY! HOW DARE YOU ADDRESS THE EARL OF CANTERBURY AS PIG-EARS?

'SCUSE ME, BOSS— BUT 'ROUND DE POOL PARLAH AH NEVAH HEARD DE GENNEMUN CALL DE OIL NUFFIN BUT "PIG-EARS" POICFIELD.

BAH! I SEE THROUGH IT ALL NOW— YOU BUMS! I'M GOING TO HAVE YOU THROWN IN THE STREET!!

DE OIL OF CRANBERRIES! HOHOHOHOHO HO HO HO HO HO HOOEE!

POP!

PARK.

YOU BIG SAPHEADED SIMP!

IF AH HADN'T GIVE MISTAH MOON DE SLIP, TUHKEY; ME AN' YOU COULDN'T ENJOY DIS NICE QUIET THANKS-GIVIN DINNAH.

SAY, OFFICER— WE'RE LOOKIN' FOR A COLORED BOY WHICH RUN OFF WITH OUR THANKSGIVIN' DINNER.

HE'S ABOUT SIX FOOT HIGH. AN' FAT AN' HAS A GOOFEY LOOKIN' FACE AN—

YES, YES— I'VE GOT THAT DOWN— AND ARE THERE ANY MARKS ON HIS BODY TO IDENTIFY HIM WITH IN CASE I FIND HIM?

NO— BUT TAKE IT FROM ME THERE'S GONNA BE AS SOON AS I LAY MY HANDS ON HIM.

ULP!

HAVE SOME MORE OF THE WHITE MEAT EARL.

I DIDN'T GET YOUR LAST NAME, MR- MR-ER

CRANBERRIES, CHIEF. THE OIL OF CRANBERRIES!

FEWER'S SAKE!

GASOLINE ALLEY

-King

WE'LL GO OUT AND SEE OLD GEORGE AND GET OUR THANKSGIVING TURKEY TODAY, SKEEZIX.

THERE, I'LL BET THAT'S THE ONE HE'S SAVING FOR US. HE'S A DANDY!

WE CAME AFTER OUR TURKEY, MRS. GRIMES. I SAW HIM DOWN THE ROAD.

I'M AFRAID YOU'LL HAVE TO CATCH HIM, MR. WALT. GEORGE IS OVER ON THE NORTH FORTY.

YOU CAN'T DO IT, MY BEAUTY! YOU'RE AS FAT AS I AM!

GET OUTA MY WAY, UNCA WALT. SKEEX KETCH HIM.

ATTABOY, UNCA WALT

OOF!

GEORGE, I HOPE THAT GOBBLER ISN'T AS HARD TO EAT AS HE IS HARD TO CATCH.

YOU'RE NO GOOD, WALT. YOU STAY TO SUPPER AND I'LL SHOW YOU HOW

GOLLY, SKEEZIX AND I WORKED UP AN APPETITE, ANYWAY.

THEY ROOST ON THE LOWER BRANCHES AROUND THE YARD. WE'LL GET THEM ALL RIGHT.

SURE!

NOTHING THERE.

THAT'S FUNNY. THEY ALWAYS PARK THERE!

THAT DOES BEAT ALL! THERE'S NOT A ONE OF 'EM TO BE SEEN!

GEORGE, I THINK YOU WERE SPOOFING ME.

YOU'LL HAVE TO STAY ALL NIGHT, WALT. WE'LL GET THEM IN THE MORNING.

HAVE YOU GOT ROOM FOR US?

GOO' NIGHT UNCA WALT.

WAIT! A GREAT LIGHT DAWNS UPON ME

WINNIE WINKLE
THE BREADWINNER.

'YER HONOR, THIS TOIKEY AIN'T NO PATRIOT! HE DONT WANNA BE IN A TANKSGIVIN' DINNER!!

I SENTENCE THAT TURKEY TO DIE!!

JUDGE

ARE YOU COMING ALONG TO HELP ME DO SOME SHOPPING FOR THANKSGIVING DINNER, PERRY?

I SHOULD SAY I AM!!

HERE'S A LITTLE SOUVENIR FOR YA SONNY! A NICE LIL' BLANK BOOK!

OOOOH THANKS MISTER!

YOU'LL SEND THE TURKEY AS SOON AS POSSIBLE, WON'T YOU??

DID YOU THANK THE BUTCHER FOR THE LOVELY BOOK HE GAVE YOU?

SURE! I CAN KEEP OUR FOOT-BALL SCORES IN THIS BOOK!

ALL RIGHT, MISS WINKLE, I'LL SEND YOUR ORDER RIGHT AROUND! HERE'S A BANANA KID!

YEAH! THANKS, MR. FABBRINI

THERE! AREN'T YOU GLAD YOU CAME ALONG, PERRY?

UM - BLUB - BLUB - BLUB BUB -

U.S. MAIL

PLEASE SEND UP TWO PIES, ONE PUMPKIN AND ONE MINCE!

BLUB - BLUB - UH -

SURE, MISS VINKLE! HERE'S A CAKE FOR YOU, LITTLE BOY!

SEE? EVERYBODY'S GIVING YOU SOMETHING BECAUSE YOU'RE A GOOD BOY!!

UH-HUH!

I'LL TAKE CARE OF YOUR ORDER, MISS WINKLE! TAKE A HANDFUL OF NUTS, YOUNG FELLER!

WELL-ER- I - UH- -ER-UM-

MIXED NUTS 85¢ LB

GO AHEAD, SON! TAKE A HANDFUL! DON'T YOU LIKE NUTS?

SURE, BUT IF IT'S JES' TH' SAME TO YOU, I'D RATHER YOU GIVE 'EM TO ME!

MIXED NUTS 85¢ LB

AW RIGHT, I'LL GIVE 'EM TO YOU!! HERE Y'ARE!!

THANKS!

MIXED NUTS 85¢ LB

COULDN'T YOU TAKE A HANDFUL OF NUTS YOURSELF? WHY DID YOU HAVE TO HAVE THE MAN GIVE THEM TO YOU??

SA-AAY! I AIN'T SO DUMB!!

GROCE

?

HIS HAND IS BIGGER'N MINE!!

BRANNER

YOU TELL HIM, MOM — By Hull

IT'S A CRIME TO KNOW SO LITTLE ABOUT MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,-

HERE, READ THIS HISTORY OF MUSIC AND LEARN SOMETHING.-

OH GEE! HERE'S A FUNNY ONE.

HEY MA! WHAT IS AN OBOE?

KEEP YOUR MIND ON THE BOOK,

AN 'OBO IS AN ENGLISH TRAMP-

8 PAGES OF WORLD'S GREATEST COMICS

2nd COMIC SECTION

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION

2nd COMIC SECTION

ATLANTA, GA., SUNDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 22, 1925

SOMEBODY'S STENOG

by A·E·Hayward

IT WAS A SURPRISE! WE LAST HEARD OF THE BOSS' SON IN MIAMI, FLORIDA SUDDENLY HE TURNS UP PRESIDENT OF THE PARISIAN NUT WORKS IN PARIS. A CHIP OFF THE OLD BLOCK! THIS WILL BE THE FOREIGN BRANCH OF THE LOCAL BUSINESS. FATHER AND SON HAVE GONE TO PARIS FOR A LONG BUSINESS TRIP AND SO-

CAM AND HER PORTABLE

ARE OFF TO THE LAND OF DREAMS.